ABOUT ROOT & REBOUND

Root & Rebound is a nonprofit reentry legal advocacy organization based in Oakland, California. Our mission is to increase access to justice and create pathways to success for people in reentry from prison and jail, helping them fulfill their greatest potential as engaged members of families and communities. Root & Rebound works to accomplish its mission through three key programs: direct legal services with social services support, legal and community education & high-impact policy advocacy.
DISCLAIMER

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE:

When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it.

The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library.

The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation. If you would like to contact an attorney, see the “NEED HELP” question below.

SEND US FEEDBACK!

At the beginning and the end of this guide, on PG. 8 and PG. 1206, there is a survey that we ask you to send back to provide feedback to Root & Rebound about this legal guide. This will help us improve future versions of the guide as well as legal trainings that we provide on this material in the community.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

There are many people whose work was instrumental in making this guide come to life.

NEED HELP?

Coming home from prison and jail, you will face many confusing and complicated issues, both legal and non-legal. Throughout the guide, we have tried to make it clear when and for what issues you should consult with a lawyer. See PG. 1190 at the back of this guide for a list of legal aid organizations across California that may be able to assist you directly. You can also contact a local bar association or legal aid organization that provides free services for help with your issue.

Root & Rebound is available for follow-up support and technical assistance with the guide. Our online hub (www.rootandrebound.org/roadmap) has a list of Frequently Asked Questions, a place for you to download the entire guide and chapters, and a place for you to write into our legal team. You can also request to set up a training, so we can walk you through the information in the guide.

If you have a legal question, we will do our best to help you with a referral, provide you with additional information, or take on your case ourselves, where we have the resources and ability to assist you.

In addition to visiting the online hub (www.rootandrebound.org/roadmap), you can call us at 510-279-4662, or also write to us at:

RESILIENCY MESSAGE

Someone once said that how you climb a mountain is more important than reaching the top. I was in the San Mateo County Jail waiting to be sentenced to Federal Prison, when I first heard this quote. I remember saying time and time again how I was going to be different the next time. So many promises were made during those lonely moments that I never thought of how I was going to keep those promises if I wasn't doing anything different. Life, I thought, doesn't have to be the same for me. Blind faith, they told me, is what you need in order to trust those who are trying to teach you a different way to live.

Unfortunately, in jails and in prisons, if you want rehabilitation, you have to seek it out. The same is true when you get out. The difference when you are out is that you have the power to choose when, how, and where, and although at times you might get discouraged because it seems overwhelming, don't give up. Remember, nobody said the climb was going to be easy.

Now that we are free to choose, let's take advantage of the opportunities that are in front of us. Today, we no longer have to abide by any prison codes or rules, and if you keep doing the right thing, then the climb won't seem so lonely and treacherous, and the rewards will be enormous, as they have been for me.

Keep in mind that the climb to anything, whether it's a mountain, a hill or a ladder, has to be taken carefully, cautiously and with an open mind. Each step we take has to be carefully guided and directed towards the direction that will cost us the least pain and regret. Even our old friends or acquaintances, although well intended, can bring us more harm than good, so carefully choose who you include in your circle. Cautiously approach any given situation, and when in doubt... don't. Luckily, we don't exist alone in the world, and regardless of who you are, you need someone. Collectively, rather than individually, we can accomplish more. So, have an open mind and pay attention to the message more than the messenger.

Jails and Prisons don't have to be what defines us, or what breaks us; we choose who, what and where. Somehow, reaching the top is no longer that important, because the journey getting there is what will be embraced.

Peace,

Carmen
MINDFULNESS IN DAILY LIFE
5 PRACTICES TO DEVELOP CALM & CLARITY

As we all know, the process of reentry is incredibly stressful. Taking time to breathe deeply, to be aware of and to care for your body and your emotions, can be a big help. Mindfulness can help you to stay focused, calm, and balanced. ‘Mindfulness’ is just a fancy word for being aware of our thoughts, feelings, and physical sensations. Studies have shown that mindfulness can help reduce stress and improve our health. The practices and resources below may help you stay balanced and optimistic during what can be a challenging process of reentry. We hope these tools are helpful to you on your journey through reentry and throughout your life.

1. MINDFUL WALKING
As you walk from your car or train to an office, on your way to a meeting or job interview, try to be aware of your breath and body. Notice the rise and fall of your chest with your inhale and exhale, the feeling of your feet touching the ground, the sensation of the sun or air on your skin. Try to leave early enough for your appointments so that your walk can be slow and unhurried. This simple practice can introduce greater calm into your day, and provide a few moments of relaxation before a potentially stressful situation.

2. SITTING MEDITATION
Simply sitting quietly, with eyes open or closed, following one’s breath, can be a powerful way to calm the mind and relax the body. Many people find this practice challenging at first, but that it becomes easier over time and provides tremendous benefits for body and mind. Start with just 5 minutes per day using one of the guided recordings listed below, or visit an introductory class at a local meditation center.

3. YOGA
Yoga is another powerful mindfulness practice that can help with reducing stress and improving physical and mental health. Local yoga studios often offer donation-based or community classes.

4. MINDFUL EATING
Mindful eating invites us to fully experience and enjoy our food. Whether eating alone or with others, taking time to see, smell, taste, and appreciate our food, and taking a break from TV, phones and work—can make meals a peaceful time to refocus and enjoy life.

5. 4-7-8 BREATHING
Dr. Andrew Weil’s technique of deep breathing is a great way to calm the nervous system throughout the day. See www.drweil.com for details. The basic instruction is to inhale for four counts (“1, 2, 3, 4…”), hold for seven counts, and then slowly exhale for eight counts. Try doing five rounds of this breathing before bed and see how you feel.

THE BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY:

Getting ID & Other Key Documents, Voting & Civic Participation

The BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER explains how to access the building blocks of reentry including: how to get identification (ID) & other key documents, voting rights, and Selective Service registration. ID is proof of who you are—your identity. Government agencies, workplaces, service providers, schools, and other institutions issue ID cards for people who are members. You will want ID and other key documents so that you can participate in all the services that your community has to offer, so you can legally drive, and to prove who you are. Voting is another building block of reentry—learn about your voting rights in this Chapter. Finally, Selective Service registration for the military is required of most men in the U.S.—learn why Selective Service registration is important to reentry in this Chapter.

I. INTRODUCTION

WHAT IS IDENTIFICATION (ID) AND WHY IS IT IMPORTANT?

Identification ("ID") is proof of who you are—your identity. Government agencies, workplaces, service providers, schools, and other institutions issue ID cards for people who are members. Many forms of ID include a photo and important information about you, such as your address or physical characteristics. Having an ID is important because, when you sign up for various programs, licenses, and services, you’ll have to show an ID to prove that you are who you say you are, and to show that you qualify for whatever you’re signing up for.

WHY DO I NEED IDENTIFICATION (ID)?

You need specific forms of ID to apply for many important resources and services, including housing, employment, education, medical care, public benefits, transportation, driving privileges, voting, banking, and licenses that allow you to work in certain types of jobs.

I HAVE A PRISON OR JAIL ID. ISN’T THAT ENOUGH TO IDENTIFY MYSELF?

You may already have a prison or jail ID card, but these generally are not enough to help you prove who you are in all the areas you will need an official ID. At the start of your reentry, though, a prison or jail ID card may help you get other forms of ID.

WHAT ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT FORMS OF ID FOR ME TO HAVE?

As you rebuild your life in the community, there are 3 KEY DOCUMENTS for you to have: (1) your birth certificate; (2) your Social Security Card (or Number); and (3) a State ID or Driver License (don’t need both, just one).

The most important forms of ID for you to have first are your birth certificate and Social Security Number (SSN). Once you have these, you will be able to get a State ID card or a Driver License, the most commonly used forms of ID for everyday purposes. Once in a while, you will need to show a copy of your Social Security Card for certain services, but most of the time if you just know your Social Security Number (SSN), that’s enough.

I DON’T HAVE ANY ID RIGHT NOW. WHERE WOULD BE THE BEST PLACE TO START & WHEN IS THE BEST TIME?

Where would be the best place to start?

If you don’t have any of the 3 KEY ID DOCUMENTS—your Birth Certificate, a Social Security Card (or Number), a State ID or Driver License—you will have trouble proving your identity.
If you do not have ANY of the 3 documents, it’s likely best to get your birth certificate first, then your Social Security Card, and lastly your CA State ID or Driver License. To learn details about each of these key documents:

- See PG. 22 for Birth Certificate
- See PG. 32 for Social Security Card/ SSN
- See PG. 39 for Driver License and State ID

When could I start, and can I start if I am currently incarcerated?

It’s never too early to start trying to get a form of official ID. It helps to begin while you are still incarcerated as part of your preparation for release. If you are in a California state prison, a new state law requires CDCR and the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) to ensure that all eligible individuals have a California State ID upon release. This new law expands the “Cal ID Program,” which is already available at California prison facilities called “reentry hubs,” to ALL California state prisons, requiring that the prison give you a California State ID FOR FREE at the time of release, if you are eligible. See PG. 41 for more information on this new program and what makes you eligible.

If you’re already out, you have probably realized very quickly how important ID documents are in everyday life and it’s best to begin the process right away.

I HAVE USED DIFFERENT NAMES (“ALIASES”). WHAT NAME IS BEST TO USE ON MY ID DOCUMENTS?

Your ID documents must be in your “legal” name. This will be the name that appears on your birth certificate, unless you have legally changed it. Changes in your legal name are done through marriage or by court order.

IMPORTANT: Using a false name or presenting false documents to obtain identification is a FEDERAL offense. Don’t do it.

I AM AN UNDOCUMENTED PERSON. CAN I GET AN OFFICIAL FORM OF ID IF I AM UNDOCUMENTED?

No, but you may be able to get a special type of Driver License (AB 60 License) approved for people in your situation. It will not serve as official identification (meaning it does not establish eligibility for employment, voter registration, or public benefits), but it will allow you to drive a car legally in the state of California. It’s against state law to discriminate against anyone driving with an AB 60 License in California, but federal agents and law enforcement agencies outside of California are NOT required to honor your AB 60 Driver License. Depending on local laws and policies, you could face criminal or

GENERAL TIPS

• Start as early as you can. You can start gathering some documents while you’re incarcerated.

• Start by getting your birth certificate (or naturalization certificate if you were born outside the U.S. and later became a citizen). A certified copy of your birth certificate or naturalization certificate is necessary to get all other forms of ID. See PG. 22 (birth certificate) or PG. 31 (naturalization certificate).

• Stick to using your legal name as it appears on your birth certificate. Even if you have used other names in the past, stick with your legal name. It is your only legal identity.

• Keep photocopies of all your important forms as you go.

• Before you pay a fee for anything, find out if you can get a “reduced fee” or a “fee waiver” based on your income. Many forms of ID require that you pay a fee before they are issued. Some fees must be paid by everyone, while other fees can be reduced or excused (“waived”) for people with limited income. We have included some information about reduced fees on PG. 44, but you should always check for yourself.6

II. BIRTH CERTIFICATE

IMPORTANT: Your birth certificate is the most critical identification document you will need AND the easiest one to get while you are still incarcerated. YOU SHOULD START THE PROCESS AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• How to get a copy of your birth certificate in the following situations: You were born in California; You were born in another state; You were born in another country; You’re not sure where you were born; You’re not a U.S. citizen; You’re a naturalized U.S. citizen
• How to request your birth certificate
• How to get a document notarized, whether you are currently or formerly incarcerated
• Your options if there is no record of your birth

WHY WOULD I NEED MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?

Your birth certificate is important because it proves your legal name, age, birthdate, and birthplace. If you were born in the United States, it also proves your U.S. citizenship. Having a copy of your birth certificate is necessary to get other key forms of ID.

WHAT IS THE GENERAL PROCESS FOR GETTING A COPY OF MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?

It depends on what STATE you were born in. Each U.S. state maintains its own birth records. The federal government does not keep records or issue copies of birth certificates. Thus, the requirements and procedures for getting official copies of birth certificates vary from state to state.

If you were born in the U.S., here is the general process:
1. Find out which government agency in the state where you were born manages birth records;
2. Get a request form from that government agency, fill it out, and send it in, OR write a request letter to the agency;
3. Have the form or letter notarized (if requesting by mail) (learn how to notarize a document on the next page);
4. Present a photo ID or swear an oath (if requesting in person);
5. Pay the fee.
See PG. 24 for more information on each step.

WHAT IF I WAS BORN IN ANOTHER COUNTRY?

Whether or not you are a U.S. Citizen, if you were born outside the United States, you must check with the country in which you were born for the procedures to get your birth certificate (see PG. 30 for more information).

If you were born out of the United States, but you are a U.S. citizen because one or both of your parents was a U.S. citizen, see PG. 30 on how to obtain your birth certificate.

11 See the complete state rules for notarization procedures in Cal. Health & Safety Code § 1185 et seq.
What does it mean to get a document “notarized”?

WHAT IS NOTARIZATION?

Notarization is when a government-approved person (called a “notary public” or just a “notary”) validates an important document. The notary must witness signatures to that document.

WHAT DO I BRING?

1. The document you need notarized. IMPORTANT: Don’t sign it before you go—the notary needs to witness your signature.
2. Proof of who you are (usually Photo ID). IMPORTANT: The notary can verify who you are by one of 3 ways:
   a. Photo ID issued within the last 5 years. This can be: a state ID or a Driver License from any U.S. state, a passport from any country, a U.S. Military ID, a Canadian or Mexican driver’s license, or a California government employee ID card. IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY INCARCERATED: You can use your Prison ID card while you are still incarcerated, but not after you get out. This is why it is so important to get your birth certificate before you are released, if possible.
   b. One witness whom the notary knows and who knows you. This witness will need to show one of the forms of acceptable IDs listed above, and verify under oath who you are. —OR—
   c. Two witnesses who know you (but the notary does not need to know them). Both of these witnesses will also be required to show one of the forms of acceptable IDs listed above, and verify under oath who you are.

WHERE DO I FIND A NOTARY?

Try your bank, credit union, public library, City Hall, local courthouse, Post Office, FedEx or UPS store, or a senior centers or local school. Always call the location and check its website to make sure a notary exists, what times it is available, and the cost. IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY INCARCERATED: State prisons must provide notary services. Contact your corrections counselor to make an appointment, as it may only be available on certain days and times.

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST?

A small fee or free. The most a notary can charge in CA is $10.00 per signature. However, mobile notary services that come to you are allowed to charge more.

IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY INCARCERATED: There is an administrative fee, which varies by facility, and is taken out of your inmate trust account. If you would rather use a mobile notary, you’ll need to find one in your area that does jail/prison visits. You may need to ask a family member or friend to help arrange the visit.

2 CAL. Gov't Code § 8211.
WHAT IS A “CERTIFIED” COPY OF MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?
WHAT IS AN “AUTHORIZED” COPY? WHAT IS AN “INFORMATIONAL” COPY? WHICH WOULD BE BEST TO GET?

It is best to get an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate.

CERTIFIED COPY—A “certified” copy of your birth certificate is any official copy of your birth certificate issued by the Office of the County Recorder in the county where you were born, or from your state’s Office of Vital Records. These offices issue two types of certified copies—“authorized” and “informational” certified copies.

• Authorized Certified Copy—An “authorized” certified birth certificate bears the stamp or seal of the office that issued it. It is called authorized because only certain individuals, such as you and your immediate family members, are allowed to get it. Access to authorized birth certificates is restricted because they are considered a valid form of government-issued ID, and can be used to get other forms of ID. This is the type of copy you need to get to prove your identification.

VS.

• Informational Certified Copy—An “informational” certified birth certificate contains the same information as an authorized copy, but it is not considered an official record of your identity. It does not bear the stamp or seal of the office that issued it, and it must contain the disclaimer statement: “INFORMATIONAL, NOT A VALID DOCUMENT TO ESTABLISH IDENTITY.” Anyone can order an informational copy of your birth certificate. This is not the type of copy you want to get to prove your identification.

WHY DO I NEED AN “AUTHORIZED CERTIFIED COPY” INSTEAD OF JUST AN “INFORMATIONAL CERTIFIED COPY”?

Only an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate can be used as proof of your identity. An informational copy is not accepted as a government-issued ID and, therefore, cannot be used to obtain other forms of official ID.

I WAS BORN IN CALIFORNIA. HOW DO I GET AN AUTHORIZED COPY OF MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?

You must go through one of two sources to get your California birth certificate: (1) the California Department of Public Health (CDPH), or (2) the County Recorder’s Office of the county where you were born. Generally, it is easier to go through the County Recorder’s Office, but there are pros and cons to using either source. See the chart on PG. 25 to understand the pros & cons.

CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH (CDPH):

I WANT TO GET MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE FROM THE CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH (CDPH). WHAT IS THE PROCESS?

The CDPH only accepts requests by mail. The process is as follows:

STEP 1: Obtain and fill out an “Application for Certified Copy of Birth Record” (Form VS 111).

You can request this form by mail from the CDPH by writing to: California Department of Public Health, Vital Records—MS 5103, P.O. Box 997410, Sacramento, CA 95899-7410.

This form is also available to download from the CDPH website at: http://www.cdph.ca.gov. A sample application is provided in Appendix A, PG. 85, but check the website for the most up-to-date form. To fill out the form, you will generally need to know your birth name, your birth date, the city where you were born, and your parents’ names, including your mother’s maiden name. If you do not know all of this information, fill in as much as you can.

STEP 2: Sign your application & get your Sworn Statement notarized.

The Sworn Statement is on page 3 of the application form (Form VS 111), and is required to verify the information on your application. By signing the Sworn...
Statement, you are declaring “under penalty of perjury” that you are entitled by law to receive an authorized copy of the birth certificate.

You must then get the statement notarized. See the box on PG. 23 for an explanation of how to get a document notarized.

STEP 3: Prepare the fee payment.

This must be a check or money order made payable to “CDPH Vital Records.” Do not send cash. At the time of writing this manual, the CDPH fee is $25, but it could change. The current fee amount will be on the CDPH application form.

STEP 4: Mail your request.

Your final packet should include: (1) your application form, including the notarized Sworn Statement, and (2) your fee payment (check or money order). At the time of writing this manual, you should address the packet to:

California Department of Public Health
Vital Records—MS 5103
P.O. Box 997410
Sacramento, CA 95899-7410

I WAS BORN IN CALIFORNIA AND KNOW MY COUNTY OF BIRTH. HOW DO I GET MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE DIRECTLY FROM THE COUNTY I WAS BORN IN?

If you know what county you were born in, we recommend going directly through your County Recorder’s Office. Because the CDPH handles requests for the entire state, it often takes longer than if you go directly to the County Recorder’s Office, where it will be a much faster process (sometimes even the same day). The County Recorder’s Office is also more convenient because you can make your request in person as well as by mail.

HOW DO I LOCATE THE COUNTY RECORDER’S OFFICE?

Whether you plan to make your request in person or by mail, you will first need to locate the Recorder’s Office in the county in which you were born. The CDPH provides a statewide directory of County Recorder’s Offices (address, phone number, website). To get the address and phone number for the County Recorder’s Office, call CDPH Customer Service at (916) 445-2684 or visit the website at: http://www.cdph.ca.gov/ and search for “birth certificates.”

You can also use Directory Assistance to locate the address by dialing 411 from any phone, but this service charges a fee (as much as $1.99 per 411 call).

24 As of last revision, the direct link to the CDPH listing of county recorder’s offices is http://www.cdph.ca.gov/certlic/birthdeathmar/Pages/CountyRecorderOffice.aspx.
IF I USE THE COUNTY RECORDER’S OFFICE, IS IT BEST TO REQUEST MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE BY MAIL OR IN PERSON?

Once you have located the Recorder’s Office in the county where you were born, you will need to decide if you want to request your birth certificate in person or by mail. In most counties, if you request the document in person at the Recorder’s Office, this is the best option because the clerk can tell you almost immediately whether or not there is a record of your birth on file, and you can ask the clerk questions if there is trouble locating the correct record. Also, you might even be able to get the certified copy that same day. However, this may not be the right option for you if you are unable to travel to your birth county because of parole or other travel restrictions.

REQUESTS TO RECORDER’S OFFICE BY MAIL:

After you have located the Recorder’s Office in the county where you were born, you will need to get a copy of that county’s specific application form. You can request the form by phone or by mail, or you can download it from the County Recorder Office’s website. Once you have the form, the process for requesting your birth certificate by mail is the same as the process for requesting it by mail from the CDPH (see those instructions on PG. 25). Remember to:

- Complete the form to the best of your ability;
- Sign and have your Sworn Statement notarized (notarization explained in the box on PG. 23);
- Prepare the fee payment (varies by county);
- Mail your request packet (including your application form, Sworn Statement, and fee payment) to the County Recorder’s Office.

REQUESTS TO RECORDER’S OFFICE IN PERSON:

If you plan on making your request in person, you can either get an application ahead of time by mail, online, or you can pick one up in person. The process for getting a birth certificate in person is slightly different than by mail. However, the information you will need to show is the same.

STEP 1: Go to the County Recorder’s Office and identify yourself.

The biggest difference between requesting your birth certificate by mail and requesting it in person is that the office may ask you for a photo ID if you make your request in person. Don’t worry if you do not have a valid form of ID—there is usually a way around this! Every office will have different policies and requirements, so make sure you call ahead and ask so that you can be prepared for how they will allow you to identify yourself. Below are some alternatives to presenting a photo ID:

- In some counties, such as Alameda County, you simply have to sign the application under penalty of perjury in front of the clerk-recorder. You do not need to have the form notarized and you do not need to show a photo ID;\(^\text{26}\)
- Show your CDCR Prisoner ID Card;
- Bring witnesses with valid photo ID who can identify you;
- Bring a notarized declaration of your identity;
- Ask a person with his/her own valid photo ID to get a copy of your birth certificate for you—so long as that person is authorized. This includes your spouse or domestic partner, parents or legal guardians, children, grandparents, grandchildren, or siblings;
- Ask your attorney to request your birth certificate for you;

\(^{26}\) Telephone call with Elsie, clerk-recorder, Alameda County Clerk-Recorder’s Office (July 11, 2014).
• Ask your probation/parole officer to provide a certification of your name, age, birth date, address, and parents' legal names. Present that statement at the County Recorder’s Office and explain your situation.

STEP 2: Fill out and submit the application.
You will need to know your birth name, birth date, the city you were born in, and your parents’ names, including your mother’s maiden name.

STEP 3: Pay the fee.
You can usually pay with cash, credit card, debit card, check, or money order.

(2) IF YOU WERE BORN IN THE U.S. OUTSIDE OF CALIFORNIA:

I WAS BORN IN A STATE OTHER THAN CALIFORNIA. HOW DO I GET AN AUTHORIZED COPY OF MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?

Again, the federal government does not keep a centralized database of birth records. These records are maintained by the individual states. Each state has its own procedures for requesting an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate for identification purposes, and the fees vary. You will need to find out the procedures for your birth state:

STEP 1: Find the Vital Statistics Office in Your Birth State.
Each state has an Office of Vital Statistics that is in charge of birth records for that state. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has a list of the address and phone number for each Vital Records Office in every state, as well as basic information about the state’s procedures. You can find this information on the CDC website at: http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/w2w.htm. You can also contact the CDC directly by phone at 1-800-CDC-INFO (1-800-232-4636), or write to the CDC at:

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention
1600 Clifton Road
Atlanta, GA 30329-4027

We have included a listing of Vital Statistics Office phone numbers and addresses for each state in Appendix B, PG. 89. However, because these numbers are subject to change, you should check with the CDC for the most up-to-date information.

STEP 2: Call or write the Vital Statistics Office in the state where you were born and ask what they need from you to send you an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate.
(3) IF YOU WERE BORN IN THE U.S., BUT NO RECORD OF YOUR BIRTH WAS FOUND:

WHAT IF I WAS BORN IN THE U.S., BUT THERE IS NO RECORD OF MY BIRTH?

If you request a copy of your birth certificate from the state or county where you were born, but you receive a notice that there is no record available, you will have to locate a secondary record of your birth to serve the same identifying purpose as a birth certificate does. Secondary records are not considered as reliable as authorized certified birth certificates, but they can still help you prove your identity to obtain other forms of ID. Secondary records include:

- Hospital records;
- Census record;
- Religious records confirming your birth date (such as a baptism certificate or family bible record);
- Statement from the midwife who delivered you;
- Early school records; and
- Records of immunization.

IF YOU WERE ADOPTED/ DON’T KNOW WHERE BORN:

I AM ADOPTED AND I DON’T KNOW WHERE I WAS BORN. WHAT CAN I DO?

If you are adopted, you must request an application for a certified copy of your birth certificate in the state where you were adopted, using your adoptive name. If you were born outside the United States and adopted in California, there is a place to indicate it on the birth certificate form (and this might be the case in other states).

29 When you were adopted in the United States, your birth certificate was changed to reflect your adoptive information—whether you were born in the U.S. or not—and your original birth information was sealed. Therefore, the existing birth record will have your adoptive information.
IF YOU WERE BORN OUTSIDE OF THE U.S.—DIFFERENT SITUATIONS:

(1) IF YOU ARE A U.S. CITIZEN BORN TO U.S. CITIZEN PARENT(S) IN ANOTHER COUNTRY:

If you are a U.S. citizen who was born abroad to U.S. citizen parent(s), your parents should have reported your birth to the nearest U.S. Consulate or Embassy as soon as possible after you were born.²² Under federal law, they should have applied in your name for a “Consular Report of Birth Abroad of a Citizen of the United States of America” (also called “CRBA,” or Form FS-240).

If your parents did register your birth with a U.S. Consulate or Embassy, the U.S. Department of State should have given them a CRBA in your name. Like a U.S. birth certificate, your CRBA is proof of your U.S. citizenship, and you can use it as official ID to get other key forms of ID, including a U.S. passport.

The only people who can legally request a copy of your CRBA are: (1) you, (2) an authorized government agent, and (3) a person with written authorization. To request a copy of your CRBA, follow the steps listed below:

STEP 1: Prepare a written (or typed) request. Include all of the following:
1. Your full name at birth, and any adoptive names you had.
2. Your birth date and birthplace.
3. Your parents’ full names.
4. The serial number of your Consular Report of Birth Abroad (also called Form FS-240), if you know it.
5. Any available passport information.
6. Your mailing address and phone number.
7. Your signature. (Leave space for this, but don’t actually sign until Step 3, when you’re with a Notary Public.)

STEP 2: Get your request notarized by a Notary Public.
See the box on PG. 23 to learn how to get a document notarized.

STEP 3: Prepare a check or money order for $50 (no cash). Make it payable to “Department of State.”

STEP 4: Mail your request and fee. Address the envelope to:
Department of State, Passport Vital Records Sections, 1150 Passport Services Pl, 6th Floor, Dulles, VA 20189-1150.²⁵

²⁴ Note: Until January 3, 2011, the document issued for this purpose was “Certificate of Report of Birth Abroad,” or “Form DS-1350,” also called “CRBA.” The Department of State no longer issues Form DS-1350 for new births. However, if this was the document issued when your parents registered your birth, it is still valid for the same purposes as a Form FS-240, and you can still request a copy by taking the same steps you would to request a Form FS-240. See Foreign Birth and Death Certificates, CDC, http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/w2w/foreign.htm; Birth of U.S. Citizens Abroad, U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE, BUREAU OF CONSULAR AFFAIRS, http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/abroad/events-and-records/birth.html.
²⁵ See Foreign Birth and Death Certificates, CDC, http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/w2w/foreign.htm; Replace or Amend a Consular Report of Birth Abroad (CRBA), U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE, BUREAU OF CONSULAR AFFAIRS,
(2) IF YOU WERE BORN IN ANOTHER COUNTRY AND YOU ARE NOT A U.S. CITIZEN

I AM NOT A U.S. CITIZEN. HOW DO I GET MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE FROM A FOREIGN COUNTRY?

Most, but not all, foreign countries record births and will provide certifications of births occurring within their boundaries. You should contact your birth country’s nearest Embassy or Consulate in the United States. Addresses and telephone numbers for these offices are listed in the U.S. Department of State Publication 7846, Foreign Consular Offices in the United States, which is available in many local libraries. Copies of this publication may also be purchased from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402.

If the Embassy or Consulate is unable to provide assistance, U.S. citizens may obtain assistance by writing to the Office of Overseas Citizens Services, U.S. Department of State, Washington, DC 20520-4818. Aliens residing in the United States may be able to obtain assistance through the Embassy or Consulate of their country of nationality.

(3) IF YOU ARE A “NATURALIZED CITIZEN”

I AM A NATURALIZED CITIZEN. DO I NEED MY BIRTH CERTIFICATE?

If you were not born in the United States, but immigrated here and became a U.S. Citizen at some point in your life, you are a “Naturalized Citizen.” You should have been issued a Certificate of Naturalization at the time you became a citizen. This is essentially the same as a birth certificate for purposes of obtaining other ID documents. If your Certificate of Naturalization was lost or destroyed, you can apply for a new one. You will need to fill out an “Application for Replacement Naturalization/Citizenship Document” (form N-565). You can call the Department of Homeland Security, Citizenship and Immigration Services, National Customer Services Center hotline at 1-800-375-5283 to have the form mailed to you. The form is also available online at http://www.uscis.gov/n-565. A copy of the most up-to-date form as of the time of this manual’s printing (2015) is at Appendix C, PG. 97.
III. SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER & CARD

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- The difference between a Social Security Number (SSN) and Social Security Card, and when you’ll need them
- How to find out your SSN if you don’t know it
- How to apply for an original Social Security Card if you’ve never received a Social Security Number
- How to apply for a replacement Social Security Card if you don’t have the original
- How to get a Social Security Card even if you don’t have a U.S. Passport, State ID, or Driver License

WHAT IS A SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER (SSN) AND WHAT IS A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD? WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE AND DO I NEED BOTH?

If you were born in the U.S., and your birth was reported, the government assigned you a Social Security Number (SSN). Your SSN is a 9-digit number that is unique to you. The government uses it primarily to identify you, but also to track your income for tax purposes and to calculate any Social Security benefits you accrue as you work. Also, other institutions—like banks, hospitals, schools, and businesses—will use your SSN as a way to identify you.

A Social Security Card is a paper card that provides a record of your name and SSN. Social Security Cards are issued only by the Social Security Administration of the federal government. Social Security Cards are always free.

While there are many circumstances in which you will need to provide your SSN, you will only need to show the actual Social Security Card in a few limited situations—most commonly, when filling out employment paperwork. For this reason, it is a good idea to memorize your SSN, but store your Social Security Card in a safe place and only carry it with you when you know you’ll need it.

WHY DO I NEED TO KNOW MY SSN?

Like your birth certificate, your SSN proves who you are. You’ll need to provide your 9-digit SSN to access government services and to apply for jobs, public benefits, housing, a Driver License, healthcare, education programs, and financial aid.

I HAVE A SSN, BUT I FORGOT IT/NEVER KNEW IT. HOW DO I FIND OUT WHAT IT IS? 41

If you were assigned a SSN at some point in your life, but you don’t know it, you need to request a replacement card. This is the only way to get your number because the Social Security Administration (SSA) does not give out Social Security Numbers any other way. You can apply for a replacement card by mail or in person at a local SSA Field Office. For more information on getting a replacement card, see PG. 33 if you’re incarcerated, or PG. 35 if you’re out.

I DON’T THINK I EVER GOT A SSN. CAN I GET ONE NOW?

Yes. If you were never assigned a SSN, you will need to apply for an original card. 42 See PG. 38 for more information on getting an original card.

PRE-RELEASE PLANNING—GETTING A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD WHILE INCARCERATED:

CAN I GET A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD WHILE I AM STILL INCARCERATED?

Maybe. If you never had a SSN, the Social Security Administration (SSA) will not assign you one (“an original”) and issue your card while you are incarcerated. You will have to wait until you get out.

However, if you were given a SSN at some point in the past, the SSA may issue you a replacement card with your original number on it while you are still incarcerated—under limited circumstances. 43 See the next question (PG. 33) for the procedures of getting a replacement card while incarcerated.

HOW DO I GET A REPLACEMENT CARD WHILE I AM INCARCERATED?

The process for requesting a replacement card while you are still incarcerated is fairly straightforward. However, due to conflicting rules and practices within the Social Security Administration (SSA), it’s hard to say whether you will be successful or not. You should try anyway. Here is what may affect your request:

• The facility you are in. Where you are incarcerated may affect your ability to get an SSC while you are still incarcerated.
  o MOUs: Official policy states that before the SSA will accept “certification” (proof) of your identity from a correctional facility in order to get your SSN, that correctional facility must enter into a special formal agreement with the SSA called a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU). The purpose of the MOU is to ensure that the corrections officials follow the same strict procedures and requirements as the SSA officials do when they verify people’s identities. If your facility has an MOU with the SSA, the SSA will accept the facility’s certification that you are who you say you are as proof of your identity. However, not all state corrections agencies or facilities have MOU agreements with the SSA. If your facility does not have a current, valid, signed MOU with the SSA, the SSA field office reviewer that evaluates your application cannot accept a certification from the facility as a 100% proof of your identity. If your facility does not have an MOU with the SSA, then its certification carries less weight, and your application for a replacement Social Security Card is more likely to get denied.

- Your local Field Office/Reviewer. The practices of your local Field Office in reviewing applications from incarcerated people will affect your ability to get a Social Security Card while you are incarcerated.
  - If your facility does not have an MOU with the SSA, the local Field Office should still evaluate your application as it would any other application. This means that your reviewer can consider the certification, but can’t rely on it 100%. How much weight your reviewer gives to the certification will depend on that field office’s practices. Some field offices accept certifications without hassle; others do not. It’s always worth a try!

HOW DO I FIND OUT IF MY CORRECTIONAL FACILITY HAS A MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING (MOU) AGREEMENT WITH THE SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION (SSA)?

Unfortunately, this information is not readily available. It may be best to just apply for a replacement card and see if it works!

HOW DO I APPLY FOR MY REPLACEMENT CARD FROM INSIDE?

The process for requesting a replacement card while you are incarcerated is the same whether your facility has an MOU with the SSA or not. Follow these steps:

STEP 1: Get and fill out the application for a Social Security Card (Form SS-5).

The recommended way to get this form is by calling the Social Security Administration (SSA) at 1-800-772-1213 and asking to have it mailed to you. You may also be able to get the form by writing to your local Field Office or the closest Social Security Administration Regional Office. The Regional Office that serves California is:

SSA
Regional Public Affairs Office
P.O. Box 4201
Richmond, CA 94804

Keep in mind that this office also serves Arizona, Nevada, Hawaii, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Mariana Islands, so your request may take some time. The form might also be available from your Correctional Counselor or other prison services staff. (We have included a sample Form SS-5 in Appendix D, PG. 100 for reference).

STEP 2: Gather the documents you will need.

You will need to submit two documents with your application:

*SOC. SEC. ADMIN., PROGRAM OPERATIONS MANUAL SYSTEM, RM 10225.145 Processing SS-5 (Social Security Card Application for Prisoners Under Terms of a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) (March 3, 2011)."
Whether or not your institution has an MOU agreement with the SSA, you should include the prison staff’s “certification” of your identity, as well as a copy of your Prison ID card, if possible. In fact, you should include any & all documents related to your identification, because the SSA must consider everything. Start gathering documents while you’re incarcerated. If you don’t have primary forms of ID, you can use these types of proof after you get released, as well. Along with your birth certificate, these documents will probably be enough. See more info on “other proof of identity” on PG. 37.

HELPFUL HINT

POST-RELEASE—GETTING A SOCIAL SECURITY CARD AFTER YOU’RE OUT:

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED, AND I USED TO HAVE A SSN. HOW DO I GET A REPLACEMENT SOCIAL SECURITY CARD?

You can apply to your local SSA office in person or make the request by mail. We strongly recommend applying IN PERSON for 3 reasons:

1. REASON 1: First, if you go in person, the SSA agent gets to actually see that you are a real person, and this helps verify your identify, especially if you are someone coming out of prison or jail without any other official ID documents.

2. REASON 2: Second, it will be less of a hassle for you to go in person. If you request a replacement card by mail, you are required to submit your original ID documents with your application. This means that while your application is being processed, you won’t have these ID documents for other purposes. Applications can take days or weeks to process. Just in case you still decide to request the replacement card by mail, we explain both processes—in person (PG. 36) and by mail (PG. 37).

3. REASON 3: Lastly, the in-person process is much faster than the by-mail process. If the SSA accepts your application, you will be able to leave with your new Social Security Number the same day (and they will mail you the card)!
GETTING SOCIAL SECURITY CARD IN PERSON

I WANT TO GET A REPLACEMENT SOCIAL SECURITY CARD IN PERSON (WHICH IS RECOMMENDED). HOW DO I DO THAT?

STEP 1: Gather the documents you will need to show proof of your identity.

Proof of identity requires 3 things (which you may be able to show all in one document): \(^{46}\)

- Proof of your age;
- Proof of your citizenship or legal presence in the U.S.;
- Proof that you are still alive.

As mentioned, you may only need to show one “primary” ID document in order to get a replacement Social Security Card \(^{47}\) because a “primary” ID document can prove all 3 of these things by itself. Primary ID documents that are accepted to prove your identity for a replacement Social Security Card are:

- U.S. state-issued Driver License;
- U.S. state-issued ID Card;
- U.S. Passport. \(^{48}\)

Any documents you submit to establish your identity must show your legal name AND provide biographical information (your date of birth, age, or parents’ names) and/or physical information (a photograph or physical description—height, eye and hair color, etc.). Generally, ID documents without an expiration date should have been issued within the past 2 years. \(^{49}\) If you don’t have any of these documents, see

STEP 2: Find your local Social Security Administration Field Office or Card Center.

Search online at http://www.socialsecurity.gov or call the Social Security Administration (SSA) at 1-800-772-1213.

STEP 3: Go to your local SSA Field Office or Card Center and fill out the application.

STEP 4: Meet with an SSA employee to verify your identity.

Remember, the SSA agent is going to evaluate the evidence you bring in and make a judgment call as to who you are. While none of the documents you may have might be enough alone to prove your identity, if you are there in person with as much identifying documentation as possible, everything combined will hopefully be enough to prove your identity.

HOW AM I SUPPOSED TO SHOW THESE IDENTIFICATION DOCUMENTS TO GET MY SOCIAL SECURITY CARD WHEN I NEED MY SOCIAL SECURITY CARD TO GET THESE IDENTIFICATION DOCUMENTS? THIS DOESN'T MAKE SENSE! HOW DO I NAVIGATE THIS ISSUE?

If you have been incarcerated for a long time, or were incarcerated when you were young, chances are you never had one of these primary ID documents, or the government confiscated and destroyed it long ago. Unfortunately, the SSA writes these rules for the general public and the most common situations—for people who still have valid and current primary ID documents and can easily replace their Social Security Card.

Even if you do not have a form of primary identity documentation, you may still be able to get a replacement SSC. You will need to gather as much identifying information and documentation as you can to include with your application. Then it is up to the SSA to decide whether or not you have sufficiently proven who you are. This is done on a case-by-case basis.

IF YOU DO NOT HAVE A PRIMARY ID DOCUMENT, USE AS MANY OF THE FOLLOWING AS YOU HAVE:

1. Authorized Birth Certificate—Without a primary ID document, your birth certificate will be the most important document you submit. But the birth certificate alone is not enough to show proof of your identity. This is because the SSA still needs proof that the person named on the birth certificate is alive and that you are that person!

2. Other proof of identity—The more evidence of your identity that you can provide, the better. Any ID with your picture and name on it, even if it is not government-issued, will make it easier to prove who you are to the SSA. Other proof you can consider are: an employee ID; a school ID; a library card; a Prison ID card, a U.S. Military ID; a health insurance or Medicaid/Medi-Cal card (not Medicare); or a certified copy of your medical record from a health clinic, doctor, or hospital that treated you. The SSA employees are instructed to consider each applicant’s situation on a case-by-case basis, and all of the evidence presented.

GETTING SOCIAL SECURITY CARD BY MAIL

I WANT TO GET A REPLACEMENT SOCIAL SECURITY CARD BY MAIL. HOW DO I DO THAT?

STEP 1: Obtain and fill out the application for a replacement card, Form SS-5.

You can get this form from your local SSA Field Office, download it from the SSA’s website at http://www.socialsecurity.gov/forms/ss-5.pdf, or call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213 and ask to have the form mailed to you. If you decide to call the SSA, be patient. You will likely not speak to a live person, but will have to navigate through several voice prompts before getting to the right function. (We have also included a sample Form SS-5 in Appendix D, PG. 100 for reference).

STEP 2: Gather the documents you will need to show proof of your identity

See STEP 1 on PG. 36 above—the same types of proof apply if you send in your application by mail.51

STEP 3: Mail your application and supporting documentation to any Social Security Administration field office.

To get the address of your local field office, call 1-800-772-1213, or visit the SSA’s website at: https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp and enter your ZIP code.52

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED, AND I'VE NEVER HAD A SSN. HOW DO I GET AN ORIGINAL SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER & CARD?

If you have never had a Social Security Number (SSN)—meaning you were never assigned one at any point in your life—you will need to apply for an original number. The process is fairly similar to the process for getting a replacement card, but it must be done in person, and the ID requirement is even stricter.

STEP 1: Gather the identifying documents you will need.

To get your SSN, you must verify your identity (a process called “enumeration”) by showing proof of:

1. Your age;
2. U.S. Citizenship or Legal Presence; and
3. Your identity.

For an original SSN, you must bring more than one document to prove this information (you can’t just use one “primary” ID document). However, the types of ID documents you can use to prove your identity are the same as for getting a replacement card (see PG. 36). Some documents will carry more weight than others: an authorized certified birth certificate (or proof of naturalization, hospital record, or religious record) will be the most important. Remember, the SSA Field Office reviewer has to decide that you are who you claim to be. Give him or her every reason to believe so and bring as much proof as possible.

STEP 2: Find your local Social Security Administration Field Office or Card Center.

Go to the website https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp to locate a local SSA field office.

STEP 3: Go to your local SSA Field Office or Card Center and fill out the application (Form SS-5).

STEP 4: Meet with an SSA employee to verify your identity.

Bring with you everything that could help prove who you are—even family members who can vouch for you (they must bring valid ID for themselves)! An SSA Field Office reviewer will interview you and review all the documents you bring. Depending on what you provide, the reviewer may ask for additional evidence of your age, citizenship/legal presence, or identity. The reviewer will enter all of your documentation into the SSA’s electronic application system. Generally, if the reviewer believes your documents are authentic and you are who you say you are, your completed electronic application will be sent to a central office, and you’ll be issued a Social Security Card within about 2 weeks. If your information needs to be verified, the process could take several weeks or even months.

IV. CALIFORNIA’S FORMS OF IDENTIFICATION: STATE ID CARD, DRIVER LICENSE & MUNICIPAL ID

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• The difference between a state ID and driver license, and how to decide which will be most useful to you
• How to apply for a state ID if you:
  o Have never been issued a California ID
  o Have an expired California ID
  o Are currently incarcerated
• How to apply for a duplicate card if you know you have a non-expired California ID but misplaced the original card
• How to get the DMV to reduce your application fee for a California ID, if you are eligible
• How to get a valid ID or driver license if you are undocumented
• How to get a new California driver license
• What to do if you have an expired California driver license
• What to do if you have a driver license from another state
• How to find out if your license has been suspended or revoked and, if so, what you can do about it
• What happens when you have an outstanding traffic ticket in another state

A State ID Card and a Driver License are the most commonly used forms of identification for most people in their daily lives. In California, the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) issues both of these documents. The major difference between the two forms of ID is that a California State ID Card can only be used for identification purposes, but does not permit you to drive a car. A California Driver License can be used for identification AND permits you to drive a car.

Once you have an authorized copy of your birth certificate (PG. 22) and know your Social Security Number (SSN) (PG. 32), you have what you need to apply for a California state ID card and/or a California Driver's License.

WHICH ONE IS RIGHT FOR ME—A CALIFORNIA STATE ID CARD, OR A CALIFORNIA DRIVER LICENSE? WHAT’S THE DIFFERENCE?

Both a California State ID and a California Driver License serve as an official government-issued, photo identification that can be used to prove your identity, age, and legal presence* in the United States. Either one will allow you to prove your identity, for example, when you open a bank account, register to vote, or apply for jobs, housing, or public benefits.

If you eventually want to drive, you will need to get a Driver License, but because that process requires testing, we recommend that you get a California State ID first, so that you can get an official ID faster. Once you get a CA State ID, you can always go back and take a driving test to get your Driver License. But this allows you to have official ID easily and quickly.

This chart compares 2 types of identification: California State ID vs. Driver License.

* A NOTE IF YOU ARE UNDOCUMENTED:

As of January 1, 2015, if you cannot provide proof of legal presence in the United States, but otherwise qualify for a California Driver License, will can apply for a “non-ID License.” Holder of this license can legally drive a motor vehicle in CA, but it won’t count as a government-issued proof of identity, and it will not prove legal presence in the United States for any purpose. Also read the note on PG. 58 to learn about other forms of ID in California for undocumented people.
PRE-RELEASE PLANNING—GETTING A CA STATE ID OR CA DRIVER LICENSE WHILE INCARCERATED

I AM CURRENTLY INCARCERATED. CAN I APPLY FOR A CA STATE ID OR A CA DRIVER LICENSE?

You cannot apply for a Driver License from prison or jail. This must be done in person.

But you might be able to apply for a California State ID if your prison has a California Identification Card program (“Cal-ID program”) and you have a release date. Find more information on the Cal-ID program on PG. 41.

WHAT IS THE CAL-ID PROGRAM?

The Cal ID program provides eligible state prisoners with a valid CA State ID—FOR FREE—at the time they are released from state prison. In the past, the Cal-ID program was available only at CDCR prisons designated as “Reentry Hubs.” But starting January 1, 2015, under a new state law, the Cal-ID program must be expanded to ALL adult state prisons in California. This means all eligible prisoners preparing for release SHOULD receive a California State ID when they leave prison—but the prisons have been slow to put this program in place.

As of the writing of this manual, the “Reentry Hub” facilities that already have the Cal-ID Program set up are:

- Avenal State Prison (ASP)
- Central California Women’s Facility (CCWF)
- California Institution for Men (CIM)
- California Institution for Women (CIW)
- California Men’s Colony (CMC)
- Correctional Training Facility (CTF)
- Chuckawalla Valley State Prison (CVSP)
- Folsom Women’s Facility (FWF)
- High Desert State Prison (HDSP)
- Ironwood State Prison (ISP)
- California State Prison, Los Angeles County (LAC)
- Substance Abuse Treatment Facility (SATF)
- Valley State Prison (VSP)

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR THE CAL-ID PROGRAM?

Under the expanded Cal-ID program, you are eligible for a CA State ID if:

- You have a release date AND you are 4-7 months (120-210 days) from that release date;
- You previously had a CA State ID or Driver License;

CALIFORNIA PENAL CODE § 3007.05 (2015).
• Your previous CA State ID or Driver License was issued in the past 10 years;
• You don’t owe any DMV fees for your previous CA State ID or Driver License;
• You have a photo on file with the DMV that is no more than 10 years old;
• You don’t have any active felony holds, warrants, or detainers that could cause you to go back to prison or jail after your release;
• You don’t have an active Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) hold that would cause you to be deported after your release;
• You can provide an address where you will live after your release; and
• You provide the following information, and the DMV can make sure it’s true:
  o True full name;
  o Date of birth;
  o Valid Social Security Number (SSN);
  o Legal presence (legal immigration status) in the U.S..

REMEMBER: Even if you are not eligible under the Cal-ID program, you can still apply for a California State ID through the normal process after you are released. Learn how to apply for a CA State ID once you’re out below.

Note: CDCR should have your information on file, in case you don’t know some of these details.62

I THINK I AM ELIGIBLE UNDER THE CAL-ID PROGRAM. HOW DO I APPLY?63

If you want to apply for a California State ID through the Cal-ID program, talk to your correctional counselor at the prison. As your release date approaches, you should be meeting with your counselor to develop a reentry plan. If you’re eligible for the Cal-ID program, your counselor should help you fill out the application for a CA State ID. The prison staff will check that all of your information is accurate, and then send your application to the DMV.

If the DMV finds that you are eligible, it will send your new CA State ID to the prison. The prison will hold the ID in your file, and give it to you at the time you are released. Note: It’s possible you CA State ID card won’t arrive in time before your release—for example, if your release date is recalculated so that you get out earlier than expected. In this case, once your State ID card is ready, the prison will send it to your address on the outside, or (if you’re on parole) send it to your parole officer to give it to you.

POST-RELEASE—GETTING A CA STATE ID OR DRIVER LICENSE AFTER YOU’RE OUT

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED AND WANT TO GET A CALIFORNIA STATE ID. HOW DO I APPLY?

There are 2 types of California State ID cards: (1) regular State ID cards, which are good for 6 years, and (2) senior State ID cards, for people who are 62 years and older, which are good for 10 years.

- If you have never had a California State ID card, you will need to apply for a new card.
- If you had a California ID State ID card in the past, but it expired, you will need to apply for a new card.
- If you had a California State ID card in the past and it has not expired (it’s still good), you will need to apply for a duplicate card.

The process and the application form are the same for all 3 situations. Follow the steps below:

STEP 1: Find a DMV office near you. You must apply for a California state ID in person at the DMV.

There are 179 local DMV field offices throughout the state. You can find the office closest to you by calling the DMV directly at: 1-800-777-0133, or by looking up field offices on the DMV’s website at: http://apps.dmv.ca.gov/fo/fotoc.htm. The DMV website offers both a city-by-city directory and a “regional map” where you can search for a field office by your home address.

STEP 2: Prepare the required information and documents you need to bring to the DMV office. You will need:

- Your Social Security Number (SSN). You must provide a 9-digit SSN to the DMV (with one small exception explained below). You will not be required to show your actual Social Security card, just to know your number. (If you don’t have or don’t know your SSN, go to PG. 32 to learn how to get one and start that process first.)

ONE SMALL EXCEPTION: You don’t need to bring a SSN to the DMV if you are a non-U.S. citizen who is legally present in the United States, but you don’t have a SSN because you aren’t authorized to work. If this is your situation, you can still apply for a CA State ID. To do so, you must prove #2 (birth date and legal presence in the U.S.), as described below.

7 13 CAL. CODE REGS. § 15.04; CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 1653.5(a)(6), 12800(a), 12801.
8 CAL. VEH. CODE § 12801(2).
10 13 CAL. CODE REGS. § 15.04(c); see also Social Security Numbers for Noncitizens (Publication No. 05-10096), SOC. SEC. ADMIN. (Aug. 2013).
11 13 CAL. CODE REGS. § 15.04(c).
12 The DMV will take your information and double-check your status, then complete your application. See https://www.dmv.ca.gov/pubs/brochures/fast_facts/ffdl108.htm.
• Proof of your birth date & legal presence

Whether you have a SSN or not, you must prove your birth date and legal presence in the United States. The DMV accepts many kinds of documents for this purpose, depending on your situation. Examples include:

- If you are a U.S. citizen: An authorized U.S. birth certificate, U.S. military ID, certificate of U.S. naturalization or citizenship, or certification from the California Department of Corrections & Rehabilitation (CDCR).
- If you are NOT a U.S. citizen: A valid foreign passport with valid I-94, permanent resident alien card ("green card"); U.S. border crossing card with valid I-94; refugee travel document; or judge’s order granting you asylum.
- For a complete list of documents that the DMV accepts to prove legal presence, see Appendix E, PG. 102.

TO GET A REDUCED-FEE ID, YOU SHOULD ALSO BRING TO THE DMV:

• Proof that you receive public benefits—(Form DL 937 filled out).
  - If you receive benefits from a government program such as CalWORKs, CalFresh (“food stamps”), or General Assistance/General Relief (GA or GR), you may be eligible for a fee reduction.
  - Go to the county office that manages your public benefits, and ask for someone there to fill out and sign the DMV form called “Verification for Reduced Fee Identification Card” (Form DL 937—last updated 8/2004, see copy in Appendix F, PG. 103). Bring the completed and signed form with you to the DMV. Alternatively, if you receive services from a nonprofit organization—like a health clinic, legal services provider, etc.—you can ask if a staff person at the nonprofit is able to fill out and sign the DMV Form 937 for you to verify your public benefits. IF YOU QUALIFY, YOU WILL PAY $8 INSTEAD OF THE STANDARD FEE OF $28 FOR YOUR CA STATE ID.

STEP 3: Go to your local DMV office to submit your application and pay the fee.

Have your information and documents ready, and complete the Application Form (Form DL 44) if you have not already. Make sure you provide a reliable and accurate mailing address that will be good for at least 60 days where you will be able to receive your CA State ID. At the DMV, you will be asked to give your thumbprint and have your photo taken.

FEE PAYMENT: Pay $28 by cash, check, money order, or debit card (not credit card). Exceptions: (1) If you bring proof that you receive public assistance, you... can get a Reduced Fee ID for $8 (see PG. 44);\(^5\) (2) If you are over age 62, you can get a Senior ID for FREE.\(^6\)

STEP 4: Receive your Temporary ID, and wait for your official CA State ID card in to come by mail.

After you have submitted your application and paid the fee, DMV staff will print a temporary paper ID for you. You can use this temporary paper ID until your official CA State ID card arrives in the mail. HOWEVER, your temporary ID will not have your photo on it, so it usually won’t be accepted as proof of your identity. Your CA State ID will be valid for 6 years.\(^7\)

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED AND WANT TO GET A CALIFORNIA DRIVER LICENSE. HOW DO I APPLY?

Below are three charts that explain the process of getting your CA Driver License after you are released. Go to one of the following three charts—whichever is appropriate for your situation—for detailed steps on how to get a California Driver License:

(A) “I’ve never had a Driver License, but I want one.”

(B) “I used to have a Driver License, but it expired.”

(C) “I used to have a Driver License, but it’s from another state.”

PLEASE NOTE: AFTER January 1, 2015, under new state law, if you cannot prove legal presence in the U.S., you can get a Driver License ONLY as proof of authorization to drive\(^8\), not as ID. You will need: (1) Proof of Identity, and (2) Proof of California Residency. See Appendix H, PG. 107 a full list of acceptable identity and residency verification documents under the new law.\(^9\)

\(^7\) It expires on the sixth birthday you have after it is issued. CAL. VEH. CODE § 13002.

\(^8\) The Safe and Responsible Driver Act (AB 60), which will amend CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 1653.5, 12800, 12801, and 13002, and which will repeal CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 12801.5, 12801.6, and 12801.8, as they relate to driver licenses.

DRIVER LICENSE SUSPENSIONS & REVOCATIONS

MY DRIVER LICENSE HAS BEEN SUSPENDED OR REVOKED. WHAT DOES THIS MEAN? HOW CAN I GET IT BACK?

If your Driver License was suspended or revoked, this means you lost your driving privileges as a penalty for some violation, conviction, or unpaid debt, such as:

- Driving violations—Driving under the influence, hit-and-run, fleeing a law enforcement officer, driving without proof of car insurance, having too many accidents in a short time, having too many negative points on your driver record, or driving recklessly (road rage, speeding, racing, etc.).
- Other violations—Truancy, vandalism (including graffiti), fleeing a police officer, failing to appear in court, or failing to report an accident.
- Unpaid debts—Failing to pay traffic ticket fines; failing to pay other court-ordered fines, fees and restitution; failing to pay child support; or failing to pay other debts (such as loans, credit card payments, medical bills, car payments, payday loans, landlord dues, utility bills, etc.) if the person to whom you owe money gets a judgment against you in court.

Read more about a suspended driver license due to unpaid child support in the text box on PG. 53.

Read more about traffic fines and other types of court-ordered debt in the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 755.

Read more about child support generally in the FAMILY & CHILDREN CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 823, with specific information on child support starting on PG. 868 of that Chapter.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN IF MY LICENSE WAS SUSPENDED?

If your Driver License was suspended, that means you temporarily lost your driving privileges, but not forever. If your license was suspended, you will not be able to drive for a period of time, anywhere from 30 days to a few years. After your period of suspension has passed, your license is automatically reinstated.

However, if your license was suspended because of a physical or mental condition or disorder that affects your ability to drive, that suspension will be permanent if that condition becomes permanent.

A restricted license allows you to drive during a period of suspension, but only for specific purposes that a judge has granted you permission to do, such as to drive to work, school, or a court-ordered program (for example, a DUI class).

WHAT DOES IT MEAN IF MY LICENSE WAS REVOKED?

If your Driver License was revoked, that means your driving privileges are “terminated” (ended). You may be able to get a Driver License again, but you

153 CAL. VEH. CODE § 16370.
154 CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 11350.6.
155 CAL. VEH. CODE § 13100 et seq.
156 CAL. VEH. CODE § 13102, 13556.
157 CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 13200 et seq.
likely will have to wait several years. In extreme cases, you may be legally forbidden from ever driving again. If you become eligible for a Driver License after it was revoked, you will have to apply for a new license.

IF MY LICENSE WAS SUSPENDED OR REVOKED, COULD I GET MY DRIVING PRIVILEGES BACK?

Maybe. Unless your license was permanently revoked, you should be able to regain your driving privileges if (1) the specified time period of your suspension or revocation has passed, AND (2) you've fulfilled any conditions of your suspension or revocation. Depending on the reason why your license was suspended, the length of suspension will vary, and the steps you will need to take to get your license back will also vary.

If your Driver License was suspended or revoked and you want to regain your driving privileges, here are some steps you can take:

STEP 1: Know the details of your situation.

- The requirements to reinstate your license will depend on exactly why it was suspended or revoked. Call the DMV at 1-800-777-0133, ask them to look up your case, and find out what you need to do. When you call, be prepared with your old Driver License number and any information the DMV has sent to you.
- Unless your Driver License was permanently revoked, you'll probably find out that you need to fulfill specific conditions (see STEP 2 below) and submit “proof of completion” of those conditions to the DMV in order to reinstate your license.

STEP 2: Make sure that you fulfill the conditions of your suspension or revocation.

- You may be required to complete traffic school, DUI treatment, or jail time, and to provide documents proving that you did so. You may also be required to pay fees and fines, including court-related fees and additional penalties imposed by the DMV. See the chart on PG. 52 for examples of requirements and steps to get your license back.
- Keep all documents proving that you've fulfilled these conditions, such as certificates and pay stubs, and be prepared to submit them as required.
- You will also need to submit proof of “financial responsibility.” Most of the time, this means proof of car insurance.

STEP 3: Prepare all required documents and payments.

Make copies of all your important documents, and keep careful records of all payments.

STEP 4: Submit all required documents and payments to the DMV.

Confirm that you're eligible to reinstate your license, and get proof from the DMV.

158 For example, if you were convicted of a felony where you used a vehicle as a deadly weapon. CAL. VEH. CODE § 13351.5.
159 CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 13101, 13351.5.

163 For more information, see Reinstating Your CA Suspended Driver’s License, DMV.org.
164 CAL. VEH. CODE § 13352.
165 CAL. VEH. CODE § 34630.
Once you’ve completed these 4 steps, you may be able to reinstate your Driver License (if it was suspended) or apply for a renewal Driver License (if it was revoked). In some cases, after you’ve completed some or most of the requirements, you may be able to get a restricted license if your suspension or revocation period hasn’t ended yet.\footnote{See CAL. VEH. CODE § 13352.5.}

\textbf{NOTE:} If your license was suspended due to court-ordered debt, and these debts have been referred to the California Franchise Tax Board (FTB) for collection, there is a special payment process to speed up the return of your Driver License. For instructions, go online to https://www.ftb.ca.gov/online/Court_Ordered_Debt/payment.shtml, and see Appendix G, PG. 106 of this chapter.

* \textbf{What are my options if my Driver License was suspended because of unpaid child support?}*

If your Driver License was suspended due to unpaid child support and you cannot pay the amount required, you can ask a judge to reinstate your license temporarily. To do so, you can file a \textit{Notice of Motion for Judicial Review of License Denial} (Form FL-670) with the court that issued your child support order.\footnote{The forms to request your license back in a child support case are available at http://www.courts.ca.gov/1199.htm#id11393.} This form asks the judge of that court to consider giving you back your Driver License so that you can continue to go to work and earn money to pay the child support. The judge will make the final decision, not the local child support agency (LCSA).\footnote{CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 11350.6; see also Child Support FAQs, JUDICIAL COUNSEL OF CALIFORNIA, http://www.courts.ca.gov/1200.htm.} For more information about child support, see the FAMILY & CHILDREN CHAPTER, which begins on PG. 823, with specific information about child support beginning on PG. 868 of that Chapter.

MY LICENSE WAS SUSPENDED IN ANOTHER STATE. WILL I BE ABLE TO GET A CALIFORNIA DRIVER LICENSE?

Unfortunately, if your Driver License was suspended or revoked in another state, you cannot get a California Driver License until:

- You fix the violation and complete all the requirements to get your license reinstated in the state where the suspension or revocation happened; and/or
- The period of suspension or revocation is over, or more than 1 year has passed since the revocation.\(^{70}\)

To figure out your situation and what steps you need to take, it's best to contact the DMV agency in the state where your license was suspended or revoked. If you do not know in which state the suspension/revocation happened, you can call the National Driver Register to find out where the problem occurred (see more information immediately below).

WHAT LAWS COULD NEGATIVELY AFFECT ME IF I AM TRYING TO GET (OR KEEP) A CALIFORNIA DRIVER LICENSE?

A few different laws can affect your ability to get or keep a CA Driver License. They are outlined here to give you a sense of what they are and how they could affect your ability to get or keep a Driver License in California.

NATIONAL DRIVER REGISTER (NDR)\(^{171}\)

When you apply for a California Driver License, the California DMV will check to see whether your name is listed in the NDR’s Problem Driver Pointer System.\(^{172}\) The NDR database contains information about all drivers who have had their licenses denied, revoked or suspended, or who have been convicted of serious traffic violations such as driving while impaired by alcohol or drugs.\(^{173}\) The NDR has information on drivers from all 50 states.

If your name appears in the database, the DMV will investigate the reason and decide whether or not to issue you a Driver License. If your license was suspended or revoked in another state, the DMV will not issue you a California Driver License until you have fulfilled the conditions of suspension or revocation in the other state (including paying all fines and reinstatement fees).\(^{174}\)

How do I find out if my name is in the NDR database?

You can find out whether your name is in the NDR database and check your driver status for free by sending a request letter to the NDR.\(^{175}\) Although the database does not contain your detailed driving record (i.e., it will not tell you why your license was suspended), it will tell you the status of your driver license and the state where any problem occurred (called the State-of-Record, or SOR).\(^{176}\) If you already know the state in which your offense occurred, it may be faster and easier to contact that state’s DMV agency directly for information.

To check your NDR status, write and send a notarized letter (also called a “privacy act request”) to the NDR, stating that you would like an NDR file check. Make sure to include your full legal name, date of birth, gender, height, weight, eye color, and your previous driver license number and state (if you know them); your social security number is optional.\(^{177}\) If your name is in the NDR database, it may mean that your

All state DMV agencies are required to provide NDR with the names of individuals who have lost their privileges or who have been convicted of a serious traffic violation.
\(^{176}\) NATIONAL DRIVER REGISTER (NDR), http://www.nhtsa.gov/Data/National+Driver+Register+(NDR).
\(^{177}\) Under the Privacy Act, you are entitled to request a file search to see if your name is listed (i.e., if have a record) in the NDR database. To do so, you must send a notarized letter (also called a “privacy act request”) to the NDR stating that you would like an NDR file check. Mail your request to the National Driver Register, 1200 New Jersey Avenue, S.E., Washington, D.C. 20590. In your request, make sure to include your full legal name, DOB, State and Driver License Number, Sex, Height, Weight, and Eye Color (your social security number is optional). There is no charge for this service. 23 C.F.R. § 1327.7; NATIONAL DRIVER REGISTER (NDR), http://www.nhtsa.gov/Data/National+Driver+Register+(NDR). You can also request your status online, by visiting the NDR website at http://www.nationaldriverregister-forms.org/national_driver_register_file_check_forms.html (note: the link for Individual File Check Forms was broken as of Dec. 1, 2014). It may take the NDR 45 days or more to respond to your request. driver license has been suspended, cancelled, revoked, or denied because of a serious traffic violation.\textsuperscript{170}

What can I do if my name is in the NDR database?

Once you know your driver license status and which state the problem occurred in, you must contact that state’s DMV agency directly to find out how to resolve the issue and reinstate your license.\textsuperscript{171} You may need to request a copy of your driving record from that state, in order to learn why your license was suspended or revoked.\textsuperscript{180}

If you think the NDR database is incorrect, you will still need to contact the state DMV agency where the problem supposedly occurred. You will need to resolve the error directly with agency before the NDR can correct or delete your record.\textsuperscript{181}

DRIVER LICENSE COMPACT (DLC)

The DLC is an agreement between California and most other states in the U.S. to share driver records and information about traffic violations.\textsuperscript{182} When you apply for a California Driver License, the California DMV will check to see if you ever had a Driver License in another state.\textsuperscript{183} If your license from another state was suspended, the DMV will not issue a new license until the suspension period is over.\textsuperscript{184} If your license from another state was revoked, the DMV will not issue a new license until the revocation period is over or 1 year has passed since the revocation (whichever comes first).\textsuperscript{185}

In addition, the DLC requires each state to enforce traffic convictions that occurred in another state—including by suspending or revoking your license for serious violations. For example, if you have a California Driver License, but you were convicted of a DUI in another state, the state where your DUI occurred will report the conviction to the California DMV. The California DMV will then penalize you for the violation—including suspending or revoking your California Driver License—just as if the violation had occurred locally.\textsuperscript{186} The conviction will also appear on your California driving record.\textsuperscript{187}

If you want to appeal your license suspension for an out-of-state traffic conviction, you will have to follow California appeal procedures.\textsuperscript{188} In general,

\begin{footnotesize}
\textsuperscript{170} Your NDR driver license status may be any of the following:
1. No Match: The individual does not have record a on the NDR.
2. Licensed (LIC): Licensed means the individual holds a license in that State and the privilege to drive is valid.
3. Eligible (ELO): The individual privilege to drive or apply for a license in a State(s) is valid.
4. Not: The individual privilege to drive in a State(s) is invalid.
5. NEN: The individual privilege to drive in a State(s) is invalid due to a non-moving violation.

\textsuperscript{172} The NDR provides online driver record request forms for each state on its website for a fee of $15. NDR, http://www.nationaldriverregister-forms.org/nrd/state_forms/national_driver_register_.

If your license was suspended or revoked in one of these states, the California DMV may issue you a license if it finds that you are a safe driver. CAL. VEH. CODE § 12805(g)(h).

\textsuperscript{176} CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 12805(g), 15024(1).

\textsuperscript{178} CAL. VEH. CODE § 15022; see also CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 13353.5; 13363. Note: There must be a “substantially similar” offense in California laws in order for California to penalize you for an out-of-state violation. If California does not have an equivalent offense, then California cannot penalize you for an out-of-state violation.

\textsuperscript{180} CAL. VEH. CODE § 13358.
\end{footnotesize}
you will have to show that the other state’s DUI conviction is not equivalent to California’s DUI laws, or that the conviction was invalid for some other reason.189

NONRESIDENT VIOLATOR COMPACT (NRVC)190 (NOT YET IN CA)

The NRVC is another agreement among most U.S. states to enforce out-of-state traffic violations. If you get an out-of-state ticket and then fail to pay the fine or appear in court, the state where you got the ticket will notify your home state (where your Driver License is from) that you didn’t comply with the ticket. Your home state can then suspend your license for failing to comply with the out-of-state ticket.

Currently, California is not part of the NRVC, so failing to comply with an out-of-state ticket may not affect your California Driver License.191 (However, the California DMV can still penalize you for the traffic violation itself, just not for your failure to comply with it.) On the other hand, if your Driver License is from another state, but you receive a ticket in California, you may have to pay the traffic fine or post bail immediately (or be subject to arrest if you cannot pay right away), and/or you may lose the right to drive in California.192

If your right to drive in California has been suspended or revoked, but your Driver License is from another state, you can use Form DL 300, “California Proof Requirements for Non-Residents,” to prove your ability to pay and/or car insurance (called “financial responsibility”) and request that your California driving privileges be restored. The form is available online at http://apps.dmv.ca.gov/forms/dl/dl300.pdf.

DRIVER LICENSE AGREEMENT193 NOT YET IN CA

The Driver License Agreement combines the DLC and NRVC into a single agreement, and increases the enforcement of out-of-state traffic violations, making the rules stricter and more severe.194 However, this agreement is still very new and doesn’t apply in most states yet (including California).195

DOES GETTING MY CRIMINAL CONVICTION EXPUNGED HELP ME GET MY SUSPENDED OR REVOKED DRIVER LICENSE BACK?

No. Unfortunately, an “expungement” (a California dismissal) will not reinstate your driving privilege if it has been suspended or revoked by the DMV.196 The only way to get your Driver License back is to satisfy the requirements of the DMV.

189 See, e.g., Moles v. Gourley, 112 Cal. App. 4th 1049 (2003) (upholding suspension of appellant’s California driver license for Virginia DUI conviction, based on court’s finding that California’s and Virginia’s DUI laws are substantially similar, as required for California DMV to enforce Virginia conviction).
193 Driver License Agreement (July 2004).
194 For example, the Driver License Agreement expands enforcement of out-of-state violations to include equipment, registration, and parking violations (which are not currently covered by the NRVC); requires drivers who receive out-of-state tickets to comply with all court orders (e.g., fixing equipment, completing community service, etc.), in addition to paying fines; and requires enforcement of out-of-state violations even if the law is different in the driver’s home state (i.e., if you receive a ticket for doing something that is legal in your home state, but illegal in the state where you received a ticket, your home state must still enforce the violation) or if the violation occurred in a non-member state.
195 To date, only Connecticut, Arkansas, and Massachusetts have adopted the Driver License Agreement.
196 CAL. VEH. CODE § 13555.
I AM UNDOCUMENTED & NEED ID!

You may be able to get one of these limited forms of ID that can be used for some purposes, but not others.

Consular Identification Cards (CIDs): Some governments issue CID cards to identify their citizens who are living in foreign countries. CID cards can be issued to people who are undocumented or documented in the foreign county. See Appendix I, PG. 113, for a list of countries that issue CIDs. If you are a citizen of one of these countries, visit the nearest consulate to obtain your CID card. In the U.S., CID cards can be a helpful ID document as you try to get a Driver License, open a bank account, show proof of identity to police, and access other services. However, CIDs do not grant you legal presence in the U.S. or other privileges.

Municipal IDs: A handful of California cities have begun issuing municipal (“city”) ID cards for their residents. You can use these to get access to city services and benefits. More importantly, they are considered a form of identification by local officials and may provide evidence to get other forms of ID. Additionally, these forms of ID do not require proof of citizenship or legal presence of any kind.

- San Francisco City ID Card—Photo ID card for San Francisco residents to get access to city programs and connect to local businesses. Serves as proof of identity and city residency; can also be used as a public library card, and to access other city services. For more information on this program, visit the SF County Clerk’s website at: http://www.sfgov2.org/index.aspx?page=110, or call 3-1-1 in the San Francisco Bay Area.

- Oakland City ID Prepaid Mastercard—Photo ID with an optional Prepaid Debit Card banking feature for residents of Oakland. This card allows Oakland residents who don’t have bank accounts to have an affordable alternative. For more information about this program, visit http://www.oaklandcityid.com/, or call 1-888-997-3522.

- Richmond City ID Card—Photo ID and prepaid debit card for residents of Richmond CA. See http://www.richmondcityid.com/ or call 888-997-3522 for more information about this program.

To learn about a special CA Driver License that allows undocumented individuals to drive in the state of CA, but does not otherwise count as government-issued ID to prove your identity or legal presence, please see the information on PG. 40 and PG. 41.

V. U.S. PASSPORT

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What a U.S. passport is and why it’s useful
- Whether you are eligible to apply for a U.S. passport
- How to apply for a U.S. passport if you are on probation, parole, or other supervision
- Whether you must apply for a passport in person or can apply by mail
- How to find your local Passport Office or Acceptance Facility and apply for a U.S. passport in person
- How to apply for a U.S. passport by mail
- What documents and information you will need to apply for a U.S. passport
- How long it takes to get your passport after you have applied
- How to get your passport quickly when you have an emergency

WHY WOULD A U.S. PASSPORT USEFUL? WHY MIGHT I NEED ONE?

If you have a U.S. passport, you can lawfully travel outside the United States and return home by air, sea, or land. A passport can be useful if you need to visit family abroad, especially in case of an emergency like illness or death. A passport also qualifies as a government-issued photo ID document for all purposes. For these reasons, if you are eligible OR when you become eligible for a U.S. passport, it is a good idea to get one!

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR A U.S. PASSPORT?

To be eligible for a U.S. Passport, you must:

- Be a U.S. citizen or U.S. National;
- Provide a Social Security Number, proof of citizenship, and proof of identity;
- NOT be currently “under sentence” (incarcerated, on probation, or on parole) for any federal or state drug felony committed while using a passport or crossing international borders (drug trafficking);
- NOT have a conviction for sex trafficking;
- NOT be under a court order or sentence condition forbidding you from leaving the country—for example, if your conditions of parole, probation, or some other type of supervision forbid you from leaving the U.S., you will need to ask your supervising officer or the court for permission to get a U.S. Passport or to change the conditions;

198 22 U.S.C. § 2714; see also 22 C.F.R. § 51.61. There are also a few misdemeanor offenses, such as federal and state drug offenses, that would make someone ineligible for a U.S. passport. See 22 U.S.C. § 2714.
200 22 C.F.R. § 51.70(a)(2).
• Get permission from your supervising officer if you are under any form of supervision but are allowed to leave the country (See the IMPORTANT NOTE about getting permission from a supervising officer below);
• NOT have any state or federal warrants out for your arrest;
• NOT owe $2,500 or more in child support. ²⁰³ For more information about paying off your child support debt, go to the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 755.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT GETTING PERMISSION FROM A SUPERVISING OFFICE/P.O.: Even if you aren’t prohibited from leaving the country, if you’re under ANY type of supervision (including state or federal parole, probation, supervised release, PRCS, or mandatory supervision), you MUST check in with your supervising officer if you want to apply for a passport.²⁰⁵ The officer can write a letter on your behalf giving the passport agency permission to issue you a U.S. Passport. You must submit this letter with your passport application. This is required even if you only want to use the passport as photo ID, and don’t intend to travel outside of the country. If you submit an application for a U.S. Passport without first getting written approval from your supervising officer, you could face legal consequences, including your probation being revoked or a warrant being issued.²⁰⁶

HOW DO I APPLY FOR A U.S. PASSPORT?

It depends on your situation. Some people can apply by mail. Others are required to apply in person.

HOW DO I KNOW IF I NEED TO APPLY FOR A PASSPORT IN PERSON OR IF I CAN APPLY BY MAIL?

You can apply for a U.S. passport BY MAIL if you:
• Currently have a U.S. passport;
• Your U.S. passport is undamaged;
• Your U.S. passport can be sent in with your application;
• Your U.S. passport was issued when you were age 16 or older;
• Your U.S. passport was issued less than 15 years ago; AND
• Your U.S. passport was issued in your current name.²⁰⁷
• If you answered that ALL of the above requirements are true for you, then you can simply apply by mail to renew your U.S. Passport. Go to PG. 64 below to learn how.

You must apply IN PERSON if:
• You have never had a passport before; OR
• Your previous U.S. passport was lost, stolen, or damaged; OR ²⁰³ 22 C.F.R. § 51.60.

²⁰⁴ 42 U.S.C. § 652(k).
²⁰⁵ E-mail from National Passport Information Center Agent 2019 (Jan. 21, 2015, 0:15 p.m.) (on file with author).
²⁰⁶ Telephone call with agent at the U.S. Department of State Office of Legal Affairs (Jan. 21, 2015).
²⁰⁷ Exception to this last condition: If you legally changed your name since your most recent passport, you can still apply by mail if you provide official documents proving your name change. Acceptable documents include: an original or certified copy of your marriage certificate, or government-issued papers showing your legal name change. U.S. PASSPORTS & INT’L TRAVEL, U.S. DEPT OF STATE, http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/renew.html.
• Your previous U.S. passport was issued when you were age 15 or younger; OR
• Your previous U.S. passport was issued more than 15 years ago; OR
• Your name has legally changed since your U.S. passport was issued, and you don’t have official documents proving your legal name change (like government-issued papers showing your legal name change or an original or certified copy of your marriage certificate, if you changed it for marriage).208
• If you are required to apply in person, you will need to find a local Passport Office. You can also apply at any Passport Acceptance Facility, which is a broad category of places that includes post offices, court clerk’s offices, public libraries, and any other government office that accepts passport applications.209 To find passport offices or Passport Acceptance Facilities near you, you can check your local yellow pages, call “Information” at 4-1-1, or check the Internet for these online guides:
  • For a directory of Passport Offices in California, listed by county, visit: www.uspassporthelpPGGuide.com/passport/california/
  • For a directory of Passport Acceptance Facilities in California, listed by city, visit: www.us-passport-service-guide.com/california-passport-office.html
  • To search for any Passport Acceptance Facility near you, based on your ZIP code and city, visit: http://iafdb.travel.state.gov/

HOW DO I APPLY IN PERSON FOR A NEW U.S. PASSPORT?

STEP 1: Put together the required information and documents.

To apply for a U.S. Passport, you will need ALL of the following types of documents: (1) Social Security Number, (2) Proof of Citizenship or Naturalization, (3) Photo ID, and (4) Proof that you are off probation or parole. Here are more details about each of these 4 documents:

(1) Social Security Number (SSN)—You must provide your 9-digit SSN, if you have one (but you don’t need to show your actual Social Security card).211 (See PG. 32 for information on how to request an original SSN or a replacement Social Security Card).212 If you don’t have a SSN, you might still be able to get a U.S. Passport. You have the option of entering zeros on the application instead, but this will delay the processing of your application and may be used as a reason to deny it.

(2) Proof of U.S. Citizenship or Naturalization—You can use any ONE of the following documents as primary evidence of citizenship:
  • An authorized birth certificate (see PG. 22 for how to get one);
  • A previous U.S. passport (can be expired, but must be undamaged);
  • A Consular Report of Birth Abroad (see PG. 30 for how to get one); OR
  • A Certificate of Naturalization or Citizenship (see PG. 31 for how to get one).213

210 NOTE: If your name or gender is different on your evidence of citizenship and/or ID, you may need to submit additional documentation. For more details, see U.S. PASSPORTS & INT’L TRAVEL, U.S. DEPT OF STATE, http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/information/gender.html.
211 If you don’t, your application may be significantly delayed and/or denied. 26 U.S.C. 6039E; see also U.S. PASSPORTS & INT’L TRAVEL, U.S. DEPT OF STATE, http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/information/gender.html.
If you don’t have any of the above, you must provide secondary evidence of citizenship\textsuperscript{214} such as:
\begin{itemize}
\item A delayed birth certificate (one that was filed more than 1 year after birth);
\item A combination of early public records (any records showing your name, birthdate, and birthplace, preferably created in the first 5 years of your life, for example, hospital/doctor records, early school records, religious records, or census records).\textsuperscript{215}
\end{itemize}

For this category (“Proof of U.S. Citizenship or Naturalization”), you will have to submit the ORIGINAL documents with your application. They will all be mailed back to you.

(3) Photo ID—
You can use any ONE of these documents as a primary ID:
\begin{itemize}
\item Valid, current Driver License from the state where you now live;
\item U.S. passport (must be undamaged & issued less than 15 years ago);
\item Certificate of Naturalization;
\item Valid city, state, or federal government ID (like a California State ID, see PG. 39 for how to get one); OR \item Valid military ID.\textsuperscript{216}
\end{itemize}

If you don’t have any of the above, you must provide a COMBINATION of secondary ID documents that have your name, photo, and signature. Bring all of the documents you have. Examples of secondary ID documents include:
\begin{itemize}
\item Expired Driver License;
\item Driver License from a state where you no longer live;
\item Expired State ID card;
\item Student ID card; and \item Employee ID card from your workplace.\textsuperscript{217}
\end{itemize}

The original ID documents in this category don’t need to be sent in with your application, but copies do. Bring the original ID document(s) to show in person when you apply, plus a copy of each ID document to submit with your form.

(4) Proof that you’re no longer on probation, parole, or any other type of community supervision (for people with certain drug trafficking\textsuperscript{218} or sex trafficking convictions\textsuperscript{219}), OR a letter from your supervising officer to the passport agency allowing you to apply for a U.S. Passport.
\begin{itemize}
\item IF YOU’RE NO LONGER UNDER COMMUNITY SUPERVISION SUCH AS PROBATION OR PAROLE, you may apply for a U.S. passport so long as you meet all other eligibility requirements (see the full list of eligibility requirements on PG. 59 above)
\item IF YOU’RE STILL UNDER COMMUNITY SUPERVISION SUCH AS PROBATION OR PAROLE—and you are allowed to leave the country—the passport agency may allow you to get a U.S. Passport if you provide a letter from your

\begin{itemize}
\item Other forms of “secondary evidence” of citizenship: (3) a state-issued Letter of No Record; (4) a notarized Birth Affidavit: Form DS-10. For more details on these forms of evidence, see U.S. PASSPORTS & INT’L TRAVEL, U.S. DEP’T OF STATE, http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/information/secondary-evidence.html.

\item 22 U.S.C. § 212a.
supervising officer supporting your application (for more information about getting permission from your supervising officer, see the pop-out box on PG. 60 above).

STEP 2: Obtain and Complete the Application (Form DS-11).

This form is available at any Passport Office, and also may be available from some Passport Acceptance Facilities. You can go on the Internet from any computer and download the form on one of these websites: http://www.state.gov/documents/organization/212239.pdf or https://pptform.state.gov. You may also contact the Department of State directly and have the form mailed to you (although this will take the longest). You can call the Department of State at (212) 647-4000, or write to: U.S. Department of State, 2201 C Street NW, Washington, DC 20520.

IMPORTANT: Do not sign the form at home. If you fill out the form at home, wait to sign it. You must sign the application in front of a passport agent, so wait until you get to the office and the agent tells you to sign!

STEP 3: Get a passport photo taken and pay for 2 copies.

You must provide 2 passport photos with your application. Passport photos have strict specifications, so make sure you have the photo taken by a professional who is familiar with the requirements (you can go to most pharmacy’s photo centers to have these passport photos taken). Do not attach your photos to the application form, but bring them with you.

STEP 4: Go to your local Passport Office or Passport Acceptance Facility with all of your documents (see PG. 61 to learn how to find a location near you), submit your application, and pay the fees.

You must pay $110 for your new passport, and $25 for processing (“execution fee”—that’s $135 total). You can pay using cash, check, credit card, or money order. If paying by check, make it payable to “U.S. Department of State,” and make sure that your full name and birthdate are typed or printed on the front (use the “Memo” or “For” line). Ask the passport agent if you have any questions!

STEP 5: Receive your passport in 4-6 weeks, and make a reminder about when it needs to be renewed.

After you submit your passport application, it usually takes about 4-6 weeks to receive your U.S. Passport in the mail. If you were age 16 or older when your U.S. Passport was issued, it will be valid for 10 years. If you were age 15 or younger when your U.S. Passport was issued, it will be valid for 5 years. (Note: If possible, it’s best to renew your passport approximately 9 months before it expires. Some countries require that your passport be valid for 10 years.)

220 You can use a photo you take yourself. However, to ensure your photo is acceptable, it may be a good idea to have a professional passport photo service take your photo for about $12. You can find these services at many post offices, print shops, grocery stores, and drug stores.

221 But you can pay an extra $60 fee for “Expedited Service”—quicker processing and delivery of your new passport.

224 If you’re paying an extra $60 fee for Expedited Service, it should take 3 weeks. U.S. Passports & Int’l Travel, U.S. Dept of State, http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/information/expedited-times.html.

passport be valid at least six months beyond the dates of your trip. Some airlines will not allow you to board if this requirement is not met.)

If you have Internet access, you can track the status of your passport application online: go to http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english.html, and click “Check Your Application Status.”

HOW DO I APPLY BY MAIL FOR A RENEWAL OF MY U.S. PASSPORT?

STEP 1: Make sure you’re eligible and prepared to renew your passport. This means:

You have a previously issued U.S. Passport, and ALL of the following is true about it:

• It is undamaged, and it can be sent with your renewal application;
• It was issued when you were age 16 or older;
• It was issued less than 15 years ago;
• It was issued in your current name; AND
• Lastly, depending on what convictions are on your record, and any restrictions of your supervision, you may need to be off parole, probation, and any other type of community supervision, or have permission from your supervising officer. See PG. 59 above for details.

STEP 2: Put together the required documents.

If your legal name hasn’t changed, you will just need to provide your previously issued passport—nothing more.

If your legal name has changed, you will need to provide two additional items: (1) your previously issued U.S. Passport, and (2) official documents showing your legal name change, such as a certified copy of your marriage certificate or a court order.

NOTE: You will need to submit the original documents. They will all be mailed back to you.

STEP 3: Complete and sign the application form (DS-82).

This form is available at any Passport Office, and may be available from some Passport Acceptance Facilities as well (see above on PG. 61 for how to locate these offices). The form is available online at: http://www.state.gov/documents/organization/212241.pdf OR https://pptform.state.gov/?Submit2=Complete+Online+%26+Print. A copy of this form is also available in Appendix J, PG. 115.

STEP 4: Get 2 passport photos taken.

You must provide 2 passport photos with your application. Passport photos have strict specifications, so make sure you have the photo taken by a professional professional.
who is familiar with the requirements (you can go to most pharmacy’s photo centers to have these photos taken). Do not attach your photo to the application form.

STEP 5: Pay the fee.
The fee for a renewal passport is $110. There is no additional processing fee required. You must pay using a personal check or money order—not cash. If paying by check, make it payable to “U.S. Department of State,” and make sure your full name and birthdate are typed or printed on the front (memo or “for” line). Ask the passport agent if you have any questions.

STEP 6: Mail your renewal application materials.
Make sure you include ALL of the following:

- Your completed DS-82 with photo attached
- Your previous passport,
- Your fee payment for $110, AND
- Official documents showing your legal name change (if necessary).

Address the envelope to:

National Passport Processing Center
P.O. Box 90155
Philadelphia, PA 19190-0155

STEP 7: Receive your passport in 4-6 weeks, and make a reminder about when it needs to be renewed.
After you submit your passport application, it usually takes about 4-6 weeks to receive your U.S. Passport in the mail. If you were age 16 or older when your U.S. Passport was issued, it will be valid for 10 years. If you were age 15 or younger when your U.S. Passport was issued, it will be valid for 5 years. (Note: If possible, it’s best renew your passport approximately 9 months before it expires. Some countries require that your passport be valid at least six months beyond the dates of your trip. Some airlines will not allow you to board if this requirement is not met.)

If you have Internet access, you can track the status of your passport application online: go to http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english.html, and click “Check Your Application Status.”

231 If you’re paying an extra $60 fee for Expedited Service, use this address instead: National Passport Processing Center; P.O. Box 90955; Philadelphia, PA 19190-0955.

232 If you’re paying an extra $60 fee for Expedited Service, it should take 3 weeks. U.S. Passports & Int’l Travel, U.S. DEPT OF STATE, http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/information/processing-times.html.

VI. LIBRARY CARD

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- Why a library card is useful, and how to make the most of resources at the library
- How to find your local public library
- What documents and information to bring to the library when you go to apply for a library card
- What to do if you want a library card but don’t have photo ID
- How to submit your application for a library card

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS OF HAVING A LIBRARY CARD?

A library card is FREE and gives access to your local public library. At the library, you will have access to the Internet, a world of information, and entertainment. Some useful benefits are:

- Free access to books and media materials. Public libraries contain all kinds of books, movies, music, newspapers, magazines, and more. Anyone can visit a public library and use these materials on-site.

- Free access to helpful librarians. Public libraries have librarians on staff who are trained to help with all kinds of research questions. Anyone can walk in and get free research help from a librarian.

- Free access to computers and the Internet. Most public libraries have computer labs where anyone can go online for FREE. You can use email, search for information, and visit websites. This can make it much easier to contact people, find jobs and services, do research for school, and look up news and information.

- Free access to classes, programs, and events. Many public libraries provide free trainings, computer services, and educational programs and events for community members of all ages.

WHY WOULD I GET A LIBRARY CARD?234

Although anyone can visit a public library and use certain resources there, you need a library card to borrow books and other materials (to use them outside of the building). Also, in some libraries, you may need to get a library card before you can use the Internet or computers.

HOW DO I GET A LIBRARY CARD?

Below are some basic steps. You might do them in a slightly different order, depending on your situation.

STEP 1: Find a public library near you.

Your local public library will be listed in the yellow pages, or you can call 411 (“Information”) to get the address. You might also try asking at a local community center. A list of public libraries in California, listed by city with addresses and phone numbers, is available online at: http://www.publiclibraries.com/california.htm. A list of public libraries in California, listed in alphabetical order by library name, with web links, is available at: http://www.lib-web.org/united-states/public-libraries/california/.

STEP 2: Bring a photo ID & proof of your current address.

- If you have a California State ID or Driver License, you can use it as both your photo ID and proof of address.
- If you don’t have a California State ID or Driver License, use any 2 of the following (1 must be a photo ID, and 1 must have your current address): U.S. Passport, school ID, any government-issued ID, employee ID, a personal check, credit card statement, rental or property tax receipt, utility bill, or postmarked business mail sent to you at your home address.
- If you don’t have a photo ID: California law says that everyone in the state should have access to public libraries. For this reason, many libraries will make an exception to the photo ID rule. Depending on where you live, your local library may accept a prison ID card, or some other official document with your name and address on it. To find out if the public library in your area accepts other types of identification, call or visit the library and explain your situation.

STEP 3: Fill out a library card application form.

Ask a librarian for the form, fill it out, and turn it in. The librarian will check your ID and proof of address, process your application, and immediately give you your new library card. The card and processing should be FREE.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR USING YOUR LOCAL LIBRARY

- Keep an open mind and enjoy yourself!
- Don’t be afraid to ask for help from librarians—they are there to help with things like finding books, accessing the Internet, and helping you find other resources.
- Take care of any materials you borrow, and keep track of due dates—to be respectful, and to avoid being fined (libraries charge late fees if you return materials past their due date).
- If you’re using library computers, plan ahead and give yourself extra time in case you have to wait for your turn.
- Many libraries offer free classes and programs like literacy programs, computer skills classes, etc. Ask a librarian for a list of what is available at your local branch.

VII. VOTER REGISTRATION

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• Why voting is important
• Whether the type of supervision you are under—like probation or parole—will prevent you from voting
• Whether it’s possible to get your voting rights back
• How to register to vote, either online or by mail
• When you should register to vote
• How to vote if you don’t have a photo ID
• How to vote if you are homeless
• How to get time off work to vote
• How to vote by mail
• How to vote in person at a polling place
• How to vote in person if you have a disability that makes it challenging to get to, or get around, the polling place
• What to do if you want to vote in a language other than English
• What to do if you want to vote in person but need help reading or filling out the ballot
• Who to call if you have any questions about voting

WHY REGISTER TO VOTE?

Voting is a way to participate in choosing the laws and the decision makers in your community. Voting can also be a meaningful way to exercise your rights as a citizen, and an opportunity to express your political identity as a member of your city, county, state, and/or country.

As a person with a criminal record, you may or may not have lost your right to vote. If you’re still able to vote, you may be deciding whether to exercise your right. If you’ve lost your right to vote and need to restore it, you may be deciding whether it’s worth the effort. Either way, voting rights are extremely important in each citizen having a voice—and yet states have absolute power to restrict or restore the voting rights of people with criminal records.237

IN GENERAL, WHO CAN REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

To register to vote in the next election, you must be a U.S. citizen, a California resident, and at least age 18 by Election Day. But even if you meet those requirements, you might not be able to register if you have certain criminal convictions or if you’re under certain kinds of custody or supervision.

I HAVE A CRIMINAL RECORD. CAN I REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

It depends. A MISDEMEANOR conviction never affects your voting rights in California. If you have only misdemeanor(s) on your record, you still have your voting rights!

A FELONY conviction could cause you to lose your voting rights in California. However, you may be able to restore your right to vote. You will have to wait until you finish your sentence, which includes completing your parole term and any other requirements in the community. Note, if you were found mentally ill, you only lose your right to vote during the time you were involuntarily committed.

See the chart on the next page (PG. 70) to understand how your criminal record and supervision status will affect your voting rights.

I LOST MY VOTING RIGHTS WHILE SERVING A FELONY SENTENCE. WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR REGAINING MY ABILITY TO VOTE?

In California, your voting rights are automatically restored once you’ve completed your prison sentence for the felony, AND after your parole or other supervision term. All you have to do is register (or re-register) to vote before the next election (see instruction on how to register on PG. 71 below).

THE CHART BELOW EXPLAINS WHETHER OR NOT YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA BASED ON YOUR CURRENT SUPERVISION AND CUSTODY STATUS. PLEASE NOTE THAT THE TOP-HALF OF THE CHART EXPLAINS VOTING RIGHTS FOR PEOPLE WITH STATE CONVICTIONS, WHILE THE BOTTOM-HALF OF THE CHART EXPLAINS VOTING RIGHTS FOR PEOPLE WITH FEDERAL CONVICTIONS. IF YOU ARE ON MORE THAN ONE TYPE OF SUPERVISION, AND EITHER SAYS “NO,” THEN YOU CANNOT VOTE.

I DON’T KNOW MY SUPERVISION STATUS. HOW DO I FIND OUT?

It is very common to not know what kind of supervision you are on! If you are unaware or unsure of what your supervision status is, you should talk to your supervising officer or your public defender to find out what category you fall

243 There is an ongoing lawsuit to allow people on Mandatory Supervision and PRCS to vote. See Scott et al. v. Bowen, No. RG14-712570 (Cal. Sup. Ct. of Alameda Cnty., June 05, 2014) (appeal granted). That means if you are on Mandatory Supervision or PRCS, you will be able to vote if the lawsuit is ultimately successful, so be on the lookout for any future changes to this rule. To check for the latest updates on this lawsuit, go to https://www.aclunc.org/our-work/legal-docket/michael-scott-et-al-v-debra-bowen.
into. Tell them you are trying to determine if you are eligible to vote. You can even show them this chart to help figure out what classification you are in!

It’s also possible that you are on multiple forms of supervision. If you are on more than one type of supervision and either one prevents you from voting, then you cannot vote. In other words, if you look at the chart—both of your supervision status categories must say “yes;” if one says “no,” you cannot vote.

WHAT IF I VOTED IN AN ELECTION THAT I WAS NOT LEGALLY ALLOWED TO VOTE IN?

It depends. If you ACCIDENTALLY voted in an election that you were not allowed to vote in, you will probably not be in trouble with the law. Voter fraud requires “specific intent.” This means that you had to have meant to vote in an election, knowing that you were not allowed to vote and with the purpose of voting even though you knew you were not supposed to vote.

If you PURPOSEFULLY voted in an election, knowing you were not supposed to vote, you could be found guilty of voter fraud. While majority of the voter fraud crimes are prosecuted when committed on the large scale to impact elections, the punishment can be up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

REGISTERING TO VOTE IN CA:

I WANT TO VOTE IN THE NEXT ELECTION. WHEN IS THE LAST DAY I CAN REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

The deadline to register is 15 days before the next local, state, or federal election. You must submit the voter registration application form before Midnight on the deadline.

- If you register using the online form, the timestamp must be before midnight on the deadline date (by 11:59 p.m.).
- If you register using a paper form, it must be postmarked or hand-delivered to your county elections office at least 15 days before the election. (See PG. 72 to learn how to find your county elections office).

I DON’T HAVE OFFICIAL PHOTO ID. CAN I STILL REGISTER TO VOTE?

Yes. However, if you register to vote without a Driver License number, State ID number, or SSN, then when you later go in person to vote you might have to show documents with your name and address. Examples of documents you could show at the voting poll are: a military ID, a student ID, a prison ID, a utility bill, and/or a check from the government.

245 CAL. ELEC. CODE § 18560.
248 2 CAL. CODE REGS. 20107. For a full list of documents that are acceptable for this purpose, contact your county elections office, or visit the website at http://elections.cdn.sos.ca.gov/regulations/hava_id_regs_from_barclays_3_3_06.pdf.
You’ll only have to show these kinds of documents before voting if ALL of the following is true:
1) You registered online or by mail;
2) You registered without including any Driver License, State ID, or SSN information on your form; AND
3) You’ve NEVER voted before.249

I’M HOMELESS. CAN I STILL REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

Yes. You don’t need a home address to register. Using the map on the bottom of the voter registration form, just identify 2 cross streets where you usually stay. If you fill out your application online, you can check the box that says, “I do not have a street address” in the home and mailing address section.250

SINCE THE LAST TIME I REGISTERED TO VOTE, MY ADDRESS, NAME, POLITICAL PARTY OR SUPERVISION STATUS HAS CHANGED. DO I HAVE TO RE-REGISTER?

Probably. You need to re-register if any one of the following situations is true:
• You’ve changed your permanent address, legal name, or political party; OR
• You’ve completed a felony prison sentence AND you’re no longer on parole; OR
• You’ve completed parole or another type of supervision that prevented you from voting.251

I HAVE OTHER QUESTIONS ABOUT REGISTERING TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA. WHO CAN I ASK FOR HELP?

• Call the CA Secretary of State’s toll-free voter hotline at 1-800-345-VOTE (English), 1-800-232-VOTA (Spanish), 1-800-339-2857 (Chinese), or 1-800-833-8683 (TTY/TDD);252 OR
• Contact your county elections office—This office maintains your voter registration record (if you have one).253 There is an alphabetical list of all county elections offices on the CA Secretary of State’s website at:
  o http://www.sos.ca.gov/elections/voting-resources/find-your-polling-place/. This website lists each county elections office’s address and phone number.
  o (If you don’t know your county, you can look it up by typing in your ZIP code online at http://quickfacts.census.gov/cgi-bin/qfd/lookup or call the voter hotline numbers above.)

PRISON ID S: CAN I USE MY PRISON ID AS IDENTIFICATION WHEN I GO TO VOTE?

Although a prison ID isn’t explicitly listed as acceptable ID, the law does allow a “document issued by a government agency” to prove who you are. (CAL. Code Regs. tit. 2, § 20107(d)(2)(E).) Because your prison ID was issued by the California Department of Corrections & Rehabilitation (CDCR), which is a government agency, it should be an acceptable form of ID. Keep in mind though that the people who work at the polling stations are volunteers and not experts in California law, so you may need to speak with a few different people if you are having difficulties. Remember: you won’t need your prison ID card at all if you were able to provide a SSN, Driver License number, or State ID number when you registered.

LEARN HOW TO FIND YOUR COUNTY ELECTIONS OFFICE HERE!

HOW DO I REGISTER TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA? WHAT IS THE APPLICATION PROCESS?

To register to vote, you need to fill out a voter registration form and submit it to your county elections office (learn how to find your county elections office directly above). You can do this (1) by filling out an online form (if you have access to a computer that’s connected to Internet and a printer) or (2) by filling out a paper form. Both are completely acceptable, so do what is best and easiest for you! Read on for details.

IMPORTANT: If you want to vote in the next election, you must register at least 15 days before that election. Once you’re registered, you can vote in all state and local elections.

> REGISTERING THROUGH THE INTERNET ONLINE FORM:

Choose this option only if you have access to a computer that’s connected to the Internet and a printer.

STEP 1: Go to the online form.
Visit http://registertovote.ca.gov/. Click “Register to Vote Now,” and the website will open the form.

STEP 2: Complete the online form.
Click through the pages and enter your information in the boxes. Make sure you answer all questions that are marked by a star (*).

NOTE: The form asks for your California Driver License or California State ID number, birthdate, and the last 4 digits of your SSN. Enter this if you can, but know that you may still be able to vote even if some information is missing. Your county elections official may assign you a special number to vote.

STEP 3: Submit the online form.
What happens next depends on whether you have a valid California Driver License or State ID and have a signature on file with the DMV.

- If you do have a valid California Driver License or State ID: You probably have a signature on file with the DMV. Click “Submit” when you finish the form, and the website will most likely find your signature in the DMV database. It will then send your information to your county elections office.
- If you don’t have a valid California Driver License or State ID: You probably don’t have a signature on file with DMV. Click “Print” when you finish the form, sign the printed form, and submit the printed form to your county elections office—either by mail or in person.

STEP 4: Wait to hear from your county elections office.
It will contact you if it approves your voter registration, or if it needs more information to confirm that you can vote.

REGISTERING WITH THE PAPER FORM:

STEP 1: Get the paper form. There are a few different ways to get it:

- Pick up a paper form at any county elections office (see PG. 72 for how to find one), a public library (see PG. 67 for how to find one), DMV office (Go to http://apps.dmv.ca.gov/fo/offices/locator/locator.htm to locate one), or post office;
- Call 1-800-345-VOTE (toll-free voter hotline) and ask to get a paper form mailed to you;
- Download the form at www.sos.ca.gov/nvrc/fedform/ and print it; OR
- Contact the CA Secretary of State’s Office, and ask that a paper form be mailed to you. You can ask by sending a letter, calling, or emailing the office:
  California Secretary of State’s Office, Elections Division
  1500 11th Street, 5th Floor; Sacramento, CA 95814
  Phone: (916) 657-2166
  Email: elections@sos.ca.gov

STEP 2: Complete the paper form.

Fill in as much information as possible. Note: The form asks for your California driver license or ID number, birthdate, and last 4 digits of your SSN. Enter this if you have this information, but know that you may still be able to vote even if some is missing. Your county elections official may assign you a number that will identify you as a voter. When you go to vote on election day, you may have to show documents with your name and address. Examples: a military or student ID, a utility bill, or a check from the government.

STEP 3: Submit the paper form. Mail it to your county elections office, or drop it off in person.

STEP 4: Wait to hear from your county elections office.

It will contact you if it approves your voter registration, or if it needs more information to confirm that you can vote.

IMPORTANT TIP

One of the questions on a Voter Registration form is: “Have you ever been convicted of a Felony?” Under law, it is important that you answer this question truthfully.

Even if you have your voting rights restored, you must answer this question honestly and check the box. If you lie, you could be found guilty of perjury.

App. 2d 342, 348 (1943) (The court held that “to sustain a perjury charge it is not necessary that the false statement be made for the purpose of injuring another... Whether a false statement has been made willfully or as the result of an honest mistake is a question of fact solely for the jury to decide.”).
VOTING ON ELECTION DAY

I REGISTERED TO VOTE. WHERE, WHEN, AND HOW DO I VOTE IN THE NEXT ELECTION?

In California, you can vote in two ways: (1) by mail ballot, or (2) at your local county polling place.

Voting by Mail—If you’re already registered to vote at your current home address, contact your county elections office to request a vote-by-mail ballot application form (see PG. 72 to learn how to find the nearest county elections office). Once you get this form in the mail, complete and return it to the county elections office at least 7 days before the election.

Voting in Person—Once you’re registered, you’ll get a sample ballot in the mail (which you don’t need to fill out—it’s just supposed to help to prepare you for election day). Your voting location (called a “polling place”) is listed on this ballot. You can also call your county elections office to ask about your voting location. On the day of the election, go to this location to vote. All polls should be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

WHEN IS ELECTION DAY?

The General Election is on the first Tuesday of November.

CAN I GET TIME OFF FROM WORK TO VOTE IN CALIFORNIA?

Yes. If you don’t have enough time outside of work to vote, you have to right to take time off from work to vote—up to 2 hours, which must be paid time off. You need to tell your employer at least 2 working days in advance, and you can only take the time off at the start or end of your workday unless you have made a different agreement with your boss. This applies to part-time and temporary employees as well if they are hired to work for more than 52 hours over the course of 90 calendar days. But note that independent contractors are not considered employees under law, and thus don’t have the right to paid time off to vote. However, even when you don’t have the right to get paid time off to vote, you can take a reasonable time off work to vote, because federal law prohibits anyone from interfering with citizens’ right to vote.

I HAVE A PHYSICAL DISABILITY. CAN I GET HELP GETTING ACCESS TO MY VOTING LOCATION?

Yes. Follow these 2 steps:

STEP 1: First, contact your county elections office to find out if your voting location (“polling place”) is accessible to you, given your disability.

264 For a directory of California County Elections Offices, including location, office hours, and contact information, visit http://www.sos.ca.gov/elections/elections_d.htm or see PG. 53.

268 CAL. LAB. CODE § 3352.
269 CAL. LAB. CODE § 3353.
STEP 2: Second, if your voting location isn’t accessible to you, “curbside voting” should be available to you. With “curbside voting,” you will be asked to get as close as possible to the voting area as you can, given your disability and elections officials should bring you a sign-in sheet, a ballot, and any other voting materials you may need.271

ENGLISH ISN’T MY FIRST LANGUAGE. CAN I GET A BALLOT IN MY NATIVE LANGUAGE?

Maybe. This depends. Call your county elections office272 to find out what languages the ballot is available in in your county. If your county doesn’t have ballots in your native language, you can bring an interpreter with you to vote (as long as this person isn’t your employer or labor union officer).273

I CAN’T READ, AND/OR I PHYSICALLY CAN’T VOTE BY MYSELF. CAN I GET HELP IN THE VOTING BOOTH?

Yes. If you can’t mark a ballot because you can't read, and/or because you have a disability, tell a poll worker when you get to your voting location (“polling place”).

• You have the right to use a voting machine that is accessible to you. Poll workers should explain how to use the voting equipment before you go into the booth, and should also provide further help if you need it after you go into the booth. They are legally required to do so.274
• You also have the right to select up to 2 people (including a poll worker) to help you in the booth, as long as these people aren’t your employer, agents of your employer, or officers/agents of your labor union.275

WHAT IF I VOTED IN AN ELECTION THAT I WAS NOT LEGALLY ALLOWED TO VOTE IN?

It depends. If you ACCIDENTALLY voted in an election that you were not allowed to vote in, you will probably not be in trouble with the law. Voter fraud requires “specific intent.”276 This means that you had to have meant to vote in an election, knowing that you were not allowed to vote and with the purpose of voting even though you knew you were not supposed to vote. Conversely, if you PURPOSEFULLY voted in an election, knowing you were not supposed to vote, you could be found guilty of voter fraud.277

VIII. SELECTIVE SERVICE REGISTRATION

WHAT IS THE SELECTIVE SERVICE SYSTEM & WHY DO I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT IT?

The Selective Service System is a federal agency that keeps a list of all adult males in the United States. In case of a military emergency, the federal government uses the Selective Service registration list to draft men for military service—and to provide public service work assignments for men who are morally opposed to military service. If you're a male between ages 18 and 25 and you live in the United States, and you don't fall under one of the legal exceptions, you must register with the Selective Service before you turn 26.

For the legal exceptions to registration, see the list below under the question: “WHO IS NOT REQUIRED TO REGISTER WITH SELECTIVE SERVICE?”

You need to know about the Selective Service because almost ALL males who are between ages 18 and 25, and who live in the United States, are legally required to register with Selective Service, with only a few exceptions. IT'S THE LAW, and if you do not follow it, there could be negative consequences. If you did not apply but legally should have, you might now be disqualified from certain federal or state programs and benefits—such as student financial aid, obtaining citizenship, federal job training, or federal jobs. Read on for more information.

WHO IS REQUIRED TO REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE?

Selective Service registration is required for nearly ALL men ages 18 to 25 (before your 26th birthday), who live in the United States. There are very few exceptions, which are listed in the next question.

WHO IS NOT REQUIRED TO REGISTER WITH SELECTIVE SERVICE?

You are NOT required to register with the Selective Service if you fit in one of the categories below:

(1) Certain people who are confined:

- People who are incarcerated in jail or prison—You DO NOT have to register for the Selective Service while you are incarcerated, even if you are a male age 18 to 25. But if you are age 25 or younger at the time of your release, you must register within 30 days of getting out.
- People who are being kept in a hospital or institution for medical reasons.

280 See 32 C.F.R. § 1656.1.
(2) Certain people who have disabilities:
  • People with a mental or physical disability that prevents them from functioning in public, with or without assistance.
  • People who have been confined continuously to a residence, hospital, or institution from ages 18 to 25.  \(^{286}\)

(3) Certain non-citizens:
  • Lawful non-immigrants holding visas in the U.S.
  • Seasonal agricultural workers holding visas (H-2A)  \(^{287}\)

(4) Certain military members:
  • Members of the U.S. Armed Forces on active duty.
  • Cadets or midshipmen in a U.S. Service Academy or Coast Guard Academy
  • Students in Officer Procurement Programs at certain U.S. military colleges

(5) Certain people who have had a sex change:
  • People who are born female (assigned female at birth) and have had a sex change do not need to register with the Selective Service. However, people born male (assigned male at birth) and have had a sex change are still required to register.  \(^{288}\)

WHEN DO I REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE?

You must register within 30 days after you reach age 18, but the Selective Service will accept your late registration through age 25 (before your 26th birthday, but not after).  \(^{289}\)

HOW DO I REGISTER WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE?

You can register in 3 ways, and all are acceptable. You can register:
(1) online, (2) by filling out a paper registration form and mailing it to the Selective Service System, OR (3) by checking the “Register Me” option on the Federal Student Financial Aid Application (called the “FAFSA”).

(1) Registering online:
If you have access to a computer (most public libraries have free computer access, see PG. 66 for more information on public library access), this is the fastest and easiest way to register.
  • Go to https://www.sss.gov/RegVer/wfRegistration.aspx.
  • Fill out the online form and click “Submit Registration.”

(2) Registering by mail:
You can find the registration form for the Selective Service at any U.S. post office and at many high schools. If you want to find it online and print it out to send in via mail, you can go to https://www.sss.gov/PDFs/Regform_copyINT.pdf.
  • Fill out the form and mail it to: Selective Service System, P.O. Box 94638, Palatine, IL 60094-4638.  \(^{290}\)

\(^{287}\) NOTE: Most other categories of non-citizens are required to register. These include permanent resident immigrants (“green card” holders), undocumented immigrants, refugees, and asylum grantees. Selective Service—Who Must Register, Selective Serv. Sys., http://www.sss.gov/PDFs/WhoMustRegisterChart.pdf.

(3) Registering through FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid):
If you are a student applying for federal student financial aid using the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid), you can register simply by checking “Register Me” on Box #22 of that application form. The U.S. Dep’’t of Educ. will send your information to the Selective Service, and you are done!

ISSUES WITH SELECTIVE SERVICE REGISTRATION

I REGISTERED WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE, BUT I LOST MY REGISTRATION NUMBER AND MY PROOF OF REGISTRATION. HOW CAN I GET MY REGISTRATION NUMBER AND PROOF OF REGISTRATION?

Contact the Selective Service to request your number and get new proof of registration. Be ready to provide your name, birthdate, SSN, and current mailing address. You can contact the Selective Service 3 ways:

- By phone: Call 1-847-688-6888.
- By mail: Mail a request to Selective Service System, P.O. Box 94638, Palatine, Illinois, 60094-4638.
- Online: Visit http://www.sss.gov and click “Check Registration.” You’ll need to enter your SSN.

IT’S BEEN MORE THAN 30 DAYS SINCE I TURNED 18, AND I HAVEN’T REGISTERED WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE. CAN I STILL REGISTER?

• IF YOU ARE AGE 25 OR YOUNGER, then YES, you can still register. You should do so immediately!� Follow same steps above on PG. 78 to register.

• IF YOU ARE AGE 26 OR OLDER, it’s probably too late to register. HOWEVER, if you have good reasons for failing to register between ages 18 to 25—such as being incarcerated the entire time you were 18-25, then you might be able to get an official Selective Service response saying that you were or were not required to register called a “Status Information Letter.”� See PG. 81 to learn how to request a “Status Information Letter.”

I AM 26 OR OLDER AND NEVER REGISTERED WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE—AND DON’T FALL INTO ANY OF THE LEGAL EXCEPTIONS. WHAT ARE SOME POSSIBLE CONSEQUENCES?

If you are age 26 or older, failed to register with the Selective Service, and don’t fall into any of the legal exceptions to the registration requirement—then under law you could face a fine of up to $250,000 and/or a prison term of up to 5 years.

Even if you don’t face charges, you may be disqualified from certain government programs and benefits—including federal student financial aid, obtaining citizenship, federal job training, and federal jobs. In California, failure to register with the Selective Service also means you can’t get STATE student financial aid.

In certain situations, you may be able to prove that your failure to register was unintentional. If you have enough proof, you might be eligible for government benefits and programs even though you didn’t register at the required time. (See PG. 80 below.)

I AM 26 OR OLDER AND NEVER REGISTERED WITH THE SELECTIVE SERVICE. NOW I’M DISQUALIFIED FROM CERTAIN GOVERNMENT BENEFITS AND PROGRAMS. WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

It depends on 2 factors—(1) whether you had good reason for not registering and (2) what program or benefit you are applying for.
IF YOU DIDN’T REGISTER FOR THE SELECTIVE SERVICE BECAUSE . . .

| . . . You were incarcerated between the ages of 18 and 26 | You may be able to prove that you should qualify for the benefits or programs you are trying to get. To do this, you will have to fill out a form requesting a “Status Information Letter” from the Selective Service System. (See Appendix K, PG. 122.) You will have to list the dates during which you were incarcerated, and attach any documents that show when and where you were incarcerated. If you can prove that you were incarcerated during the relevant time, the Selective Service System will send you an official letter stating that you were not required to register. If you show this letter to the financial aid, federal job training, or federal job office to which you are applying, it can’t legally deny you benefits because of your Selective Service status. |
| . . . You didn’t know about the registration requirement, OR mistakenly believed it didn’t apply to you OR . . . You thought you were already registered, but the Selective Service has no record of your registration | You may still be eligible for government benefits if you can prove to the benefit-issuing agency that you did not “knowingly or willfully” fail to register. The agency handling your case—NOT the Selective Service System—is in charge of deciding whether you have provided enough proof. You must send the benefit-issuing agency certain documents as proof.
1. First, you must request a “Status Information Letter” (see PG. 81) from the Selective Service System, which summarizes your status with the Selective Service.
2. Then you should send this letter along with a detailed “explanation letter” explaining in your own words why you didn’t register. Your explanation letter should include any information you think might be relevant to the agency’s decision. This may include information about where you were living from the ages of 18 to 25, whether you thought you were already registered, and/or why you weren’t aware of the registration requirement.
3. To present the most persuasive case, you should also include any documentation you have that supports your story. |

HOW DO I GET A “STATUS INFORMATION LETTER?”

You can request a “Status Information Letter” by (1) calling, OR (2) sending a written request. If you are requesting a “Status Information Letter” because you want to establish that you were incarcerated, institutionalized, hospitalized, or confined from ages 18 through 25, before you contact the Selective Service, be prepared to describe ALL of the circumstances that prevented you from registering at the proper time, and have copies of documents showing all the dates you were hospitalized, institutionalized, or incarcerated.

If you are requesting a “Status Information Letter” because you failed to register for other reasons, you must summarize these reasons on the request form. Note: You do not have to send a separate “letter of explanation” to the Selective Service System—that’s only for the agency that denied you the benefits.

TO REQUEST:
- By phone: Call 1-847-688-6888 and connect to an operator. Ask for a “Status Information Letter.”
- By mail: Get a copy of the “Request for Status Information Letter” form. Use the form in Appendix K, PG. 122, or visit http://www.sss.gov/PDFs/status.pdf.

298 The Status Information Letter will include a code that summarizes the Selective Serving's findings in your case. Different codes correspond to different categories. For example, the Selective Service might include a code indicating that you were sent a letter to inform you of the registration requirement, but that it was returned by the post office as undeliverable. See U.S. DEPT. OF EDUC. & FED. STUDENT AID, 2014-2015 FEDERAL STUDENT AID HANDBOOK.
300 See U.S. DEPT. OF EDUC. & FED. STUDENT AID, 2014-2015 FEDERAL STUDENT AID HANDBOOK.
301 See Men 26 and Older, SELECTIVE SERV. SYS., http://www.sss.gov/Status.html.
and print it from a computer. Fill out the form, sign it, and attach copies of documents to prove the information you write in the form. Mail the form, along with your documents, to: Selective Service System, P.O. Box 94638, Palatine, Illinois, 60094-4638.

HOW SELECTIVE SERVICE REGISTRATION AFFECTS GOING BACK TO SCHOOL

I’VE HEARD THAT IF I DIDN’T APPLY FOR THE SELECTIVE SERVICE WHEN I WAS YOUNGER, IT CAN AFFECT MY ABILITY TO GO BACK TO SCHOOL NOW THAT I AM RELEASED AND IN THE COMMUNITY? IS THAT TRUE? WHAT CAN I DO?

It’s true—if you failed to register for the Selective Service between the ages of 18 to 25 (before your 26th birthday), you are not eligible for state or federal financial aid unless you fall into an exception for registering or had a really good reason for not registering, like being incarcerated the entire time ages 18-25.

However, even if you weren’t incarcerated during that entire time period, you still may be able to get financial aid despite not registering if you can prove that your failure to register was unintentional. In other words, you have to prove that you didn’t fail to register on purpose, even though you knew you were supposed to.

For financial aid purposes, the person in charge of deciding whether you have provided enough proof will often be an employee of your school. You will have to request a “Status Information Letter” from the Selective Service System (See Appendix K, on PG. 122), then send that letter to the relevant department at your school, along with a letter explaining why you didn’t register. Learn more about this topic in the EDUCATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 906.

HELPFUL HINT

The school employee in charge of your case is required to consider ALL information related to your situation—not just what the Selective Service System says happened—so provide as much detail as possible to make your case stronger. This may include information about where you were living from the ages of 18 to 25, whether you thought you were already registered, and/or why you weren’t aware of the registration requirement.

---

IX. CONCLUSION

If you are formerly incarcerated, you have quickly realized how important these various forms of identification (“ID”) and other key documents are to rebuilding your life, your identity, and your sense of self.

To review, the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER has covered the following topics:

1. Birth Certificate
2. Social Security Number (SSN) & Card
3. California State ID, Drivers License, and Municipal ID
4. U.S. Passport
5. Library Card
6. Voter Registration
7. Selective Service Registration

We hope this Chapter has empowered you to gather the important documents and ID you need to start over strong—and to better understand the different processes and issues that might come up along the way, so you can plan ahead.

Another important set of documents—not covered in this Chapter—are copies of your criminal records. It is important to know what could show up from your criminal record as you apply for public benefits, programs, housing, and jobs; how to spot and fix errors; and how to get help making your record less visible and less powerful by “cleaning” it up. Criminal records are so important in reentry that we have written an entire chapter of this legal guide dedicated just to them. Go to the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020, to learn more.

Congratulations on all you have accomplished! Feel free to call Root & Rebound at 510-279-3662, email us at roadmap@rootandrebound.org, or write to us at: Root & Rebound, 1730 Franklin Street, Suite 300, Oakland, CA 94612, for further assistance or a referral.

CDPH Application for Certified Copy of Birth Record

APPLICATION FOR CERTIFIED COPY OF BIRTH RECORD

As part of statewide efforts to prevent identity theft, California law (Health and Safety Code Section 103526) permits only authorized individuals as listed on the application to receive certified copies of birth records. All others will be issued Certified Informational Copies marked with the legend, “Informational, Not A Valid Document to Establish Identity.”

Please indicate the type of certified copy you are requesting:

| ☐ I would like a Certified Copy. This copy will establish the identity of the registrant. (To receive a Certified Copy you MUST INDICATE YOUR RELATIONSHIP TO THE Registrant by selecting from the list below AND COMPLETE THE ATTACHED SWORN STATEMENT declaring that you are eligible to receive the Certified Copy. The Sworn Statement MUST BE NOTARIZED if the application is submitted by mail unless you are a law enforcement or local or state governmental agency.) | ☐ I would like a Certified Informational Copy. This document will be printed with a legend on the face of the document that states, “INFORMATIONAL, NOT A VALID DOCUMENT TO ESTABLISH IDENTITY.” (A Sworn Statement does not need to be provided.) |

NOTE: Both documents are certified copies of the original document on file with our office. With the exception of the legend and redaction of signatures and Social Security Number, the documents contain the same information.

Fee: $25 per copy (payable to CDPH Vital Records). PLEASE SUBMIT CHECK OR MONEY ORDER – DO NOT SEND CASH (CDPH cannot be held responsible for fees paid in cash that are lost, misdirected, or undelivered).

To receive a Certified Copy I am:

| ☐ The registrant (person listed on the certificate) or a parent or legal guardian of the registrant. (Legal guardian must provide documentation.) | ☐ A party entitled to receive the record as a result of a court order or an attorney or a licensed adoption agency seeking the birth record in order to comply with the requirements of Section 3140 or 7603 of the Family Code. (Please include a copy of the court order.) |
| ☐ A member of a law enforcement agency or a representative of another governmental agency, as provided by law, who is conducting official business. (Companies representing a government agency must provide authorization from the government agency.) | ☐ A child, grandparent, grandchild, brother or sister, spouse, or domestic partner of the registrant. |
| ☐ An attorney representing the registrant or the registrant’s estate, or any person or agency empowered by statute or appointed by a court to act on behalf of the registrant or the registrant’s estate. (Please include a copy of the power of attorney, or supporting documentation identifying you as executor.) |

APPLICANT INFORMATION (PLEASE PRINT OR TYPE)

| Agency Name (If Applicable) | Agency Case Number | Inmate ID Number |
| Print Name of Applicant | Signature of Applicant | Purpose of Request |
| Mailing Address – Number, Street | Amount Enclosed – DO NOT SEND CASH | Number of Copies |

| State/Province | ZIP Code | Mailing Address for Copies, if Different from Applicant |
| Daytime Telephone (include area code) | Country | City |
| ☐ No ☐ Yes | State | ZIP Code |

BIRTH RECORD INFORMATION (PLEASE PRINT OR TYPE)

| FIRST Name | MIDDLE Name | LAST Name |
| City of Birth (must be in California) | County of Birth |
| Date of Birth – MM/DD/CCYY (If unknown, enter approximate date of birth) | Sex | ☐ Female ☐ Male |
| Father/Parent FIRST Name | MIDDLE Name | LAST Name (Before Marriage/Domestic Partnership) |
| Mother/Parent FIRST Name | MIDDLE Name | LAST Name (Before Marriage/Domestic Partnership) |
INFORMATION:

Birth records have been maintained in the California Department of Public Health Vital Records since July 1, 1905. The name required on Vital Records (see Items 1C, 6C, 7C, 9C, and 12C) is the name given at birth, or a name received through adoption, court-ordered name change, or naturalization. AKAs (Also Known As) and assumed names cannot be entered as the legal name on the birth record.

INSTRUCTIONS:

1. ONLY individuals who are authorized by Health and Safety Code Section 103526 can obtain a Certified Copy of a birth record to establish identity of the registrant (person listed on the certificate). (Page 1 identifies the individuals who are authorized to make the request.) All others may receive a Certified Informational Copy which will be marked, “Informational, Not a Valid Document to Establish Identity.”

   Confidential Information on Birth Record: some individuals have special needs for a birth certificate that contains the confidential information provided at the time the birth record was prepared. This confidential information may be used to establish ethnicity, to provide health background, for other personal reasons. For information on how to obtain a birth certificate containing the confidential information, please refer to the Birth Record section of our website at: www.cdph.ca.gov. Only specific individuals may obtain confidential copies.

2. Complete a separate application for each birth record requested.

3. Complete the Applicant Information section on Page 1 and provide your signature where indicated. In the Birth Record Information section, provide all the information you have available to identify the birth record. If the information you furnish is incomplete or inaccurate, we may not be able to locate the record.

4. If the registrant has been adopted, make the request in the adopted name. If the registrant was born outside the United States and re-adopted in California, mark the “Yes” box and complete the application with the adopted information. (If you are requesting a copy of the original birth certificate, you must provide a court order releasing the original sealed record.)

5. SWORN STATEMENT:

   - The authorized individual requesting the certified copy must sign the attached Sworn Statement, declaring under penalty of perjury that they are eligible to receive the certified copy of the birth record and identify their relationship to the registrant – the relationship must be one of those identified on Page 1.
   - If the application is being submitted by mail, the Sworn Statement must be notarized by a Notary Public. (To find a Notary Public, see your local yellow pages or call your banking institution.) Law enforcement and local and state governmental agencies are exempt from the notary requirement.
   - You do not have to provide a Sworn Statement if you are requesting a Certified Informational Copy of the birth record.

6. Submit $25 for each copy requested. If no birth record is found, the fee will be retained for searching for the record (as required by law) and a “Certificate of No Public Record” will be issued to the applicant. Indicate the number of copies you want and include the correct fee(s) in the form of a personal check or postal or bank money order (International Money Order for out-of-country requests) made payable to CDPH Vital Records. PLEASE SUBMIT CHECK OR MONEY ORDER – DO NOT SEND CASH (CDPH cannot be held responsible for fees paid in cash that are lost, misdirected, or undelivered).

7. Mail completed applications with the fee(s) to:

APPENDIX B

A Listing of Vital Statistics Office Phone Numbers for Each State

For people born outside of California in the U.S., this Appendix provides a chart that lists all the Vital Statistics Office phone numbers and addresses for each state in the U.S. However, because these numbers are subject to change, you should check with the CDC for the most up-to-date information. You can:

- Visit the CDC website at http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/w2w.htm
- Call the CDC directly by phone at 1-800-CDC-INFO (1-800-232-4636) OR
- Write to the CDC at:
  Centers for Disease Control and Prevention
  1600 Clifton Road
  Atlanta, GA 30329-4027

Let the Vital Statistics office in the state where you were born know that you are trying to get an authorized certified copy of your birth certificate. Ask (1) what their procedures are; (2) what you need to send the Vital Statistics Office; and (3) the cost.

IMPORTANT NOTE IF YOU ONLY HAVE A PRISON/JAIL ID CARD:

If the only form of identification (ID) that you currently have is a valid Prison Identification Card, that may be sufficient enough for some States. First, call the State that you were born in and follow the instructions to be connected to an operator and confirm what you need to provide in order to obtain your certified Birth Certificate. Here are a few examples of what states accept if you only have a Prison ID Card:

- Idaho and Delaware accept a current Prison Identification Card (not older than the current year), with a photo on it, to be copied and sent along with your application and payment for a birth certificate.
- Arizona, on the other hand, needs only a notarized signature along with full payment, and does not require a copy of your Prison/Jail ID card.
- Oregon requires a combination of documents, including the following: (1) official court papers, (2) parole or probation paperwork, (3) your full name, (4) your date of birth, and (5) a photo identification (your Prison/Jail ID Card is acceptable). If you have them, Oregon will also accept a Utility Bill, Vehicle Registration Paperwork, and/or Hospital Card to help prove who you are.

The point is, it’s best to call ahead of time and ask!

APPENDIX G

Court-Ordered Debt Payment Instructions

Western Union is the only payment option COD offers to expedite the release. If you have any other referring court-ordered liabilities, they must also be paid. To expedite the release:

• Call the referring office that placed the hold on your driver license and ask: “Does your office accept Western Union payment in full through COD to expedite the release of my license?”
• If the answer is yes, then pay your COD account in full through Western Union and provide COD with the Western Union Money Transfer Control Number (MTCN).
• If the answer is no, ask the referring office if they accept other payment options to expedite the release.

WESTERN UNION

This service charges a fee.

• Go to Western Union—Send Money to pay online, in person, or by phone.
  o Check Pay A Bill box
  o Provide one of the following:
    ▪ Company name: CA Franchise Tax Board
    ▪ City code (no spaces): FranchiseTaxBoard o Account number: Enter account number o Attention: Court-Ordered Debt o Amount: Enter payment amount o Speed: Check Urgent box
• Once payment is complete, Western Union will give you a Money Transfer Control Number (MTCN).
• Call COD at 916.845.4064 and provide your MTCN to verify payment.

WEB PAY

Login to My COD Account online (https://www.ftb.ca.gov/online/Court_Ordered_Debt/index.asp) and go to “Pay Now.” Have the following information ready:

• Your COD account number

SECONDARY REVIEW
AS MANY AS POSSIBLE OF THE FOLLOWING DOCUMENTS

The applicant shall submit as many as possible of the following documents that will be reviewed by DMV to verify the applicant’s identity.

• School documents, including any document issued by a public or private primary, secondary, or post-secondary institution, college, or university that either includes the applicant’s date of birth, or if a foreign school document, is sealed by the school and includes a photograph of the applicant at the age the record was issued.

• Documents issued by or filed with a government within the United States (U.S.) or the U.S. government, including:
  2. U.S. DHS Form I-20 (Certificate of Eligibility for Nonimmigrant (F-1) Student Status – For Academic and Language Students or Certificate of Eligibility for Nonimmigrant (M-1) Student Status – For Vocational Students).
  4. Court documents where the applicant is named as a party to the court proceeding.
  5. Income tax returns.
  6. Driver’s license.

• Documents pertaining to civil marital status or civil unity, including marriage licenses or domestic partner registrations. If the language on the marriage license is in a language other than English, the marriage license shall be accompanied by a certified translation or an affidavit of translation into English.

• Divorce decrees. If the language on the decree is in a language other than English, the decree shall be accompanied by a certified translation or an affidavit of translation into English.

• Foreign passport, consular identification card, foreign national identification card, or a foreign driver’s license. If the foreign driver’s license is in a language other than English, it shall be accompanied by a certified translation or an affidavit of translation into English.

• Identification cards that contain a photograph of the applicant issued by a government within the U.S. or the U.S. government.

• Birth documents including a birth certificate or adoption records.

• Any of the above documents that list the applicant’s spouse, domestic partner, child, parent, or legal guardian provided the applicant also provides a birth certificate, adoption records, marriage license, or domestic partner registration to trace the relationship.

United States citizens residing abroad CANNOT submit this form to the domestic address listed on the Instruction Page 2. Such applicants should contact the nearest U.S. Embassy or Consulate for procedures to be followed when applying overseas.

WARNING: False statements made knowingly and willfully in passport applications, including affidavits or other documents submitted to support this application, are punishable by fine and/or imprisonment under U.S. law, including the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 1001, 18 U.S.C. 1542, and/or 18 U.S.C. 1621. Alteration or mutilation of a passport issued pursuant to this application is punishable by fine and/or imprisonment under the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 1543. The use of a passport in violation of the restrictions contained therein or of the passport regulations is punishable by fine and/or imprisonment under 18 U.S.C. 1544. All statements and documents are subject to verification.

See page 2 of the instructions for detailed information on the completion and submission of this form.
WHAT DO I SEND WITH THIS APPLICATION FORM?

- Your most recent U.S. passport book and/or card;
- A certified copy of your marriage certificate or court order if your name has changed;
- Fees; and
- A recent color photograph.

See below for more detailed information.

1. YOUR MOST RECENTLY ISSUED U.S. PASSPORT (BOOK AND/OR CARD FORMAT).

- Submit your most recently issued U.S. passport book and/or card. When submitting a U.S. passport book and/or card with this form, please verify that the document was issued at age 16 or older in your current name (or see item #2 below) and issued within the past 15 years. You are also eligible to use this form if you currently have a U.S. passport book and/or card that complies with the previously listed criteria, and would like to obtain an alternative product (U.S. passport book and/or card) for the first time. However, you must submit the product you currently have (U.S. passport book and/or card) with this application. If your U.S. passport book and/or card has been lost, stolen, damaged, or mutilated, you must apply on the DS-11 application form as specified below.

2. A CERTIFIED MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE OR COURT ORDER. (PHOTOCOPIES ARE NOT ACCEPTED)

- If the name you are currently using differs from the name on your most recent U.S. passport, you must submit a certified copy of your marriage certificate or court order showing the change of name. All documents will be returned to you by mail. If you are unable to document your name change in this manner, you must apply on the DS-11 application form by making a personal appearance at (1) a passport agency; (2) U.S. Embassy or Consulate, if abroad; (3) any federal or state court of record or any probate court accepting passport applications; (4) a designated municipal or county official; or (5) a post office, which has been selected to accept passport applications.

3. THE CURRENT PASSPORT FEE.

- Enclose the fee in the form of a personal check or money order. MAKE CHECKS PAYABLE TO "U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE." THE FULL NAME AND DATE OF BIRTH OF THE APPLICANT MUST BE TYPED OR PRINTED ON THE FRONT OF THE CHECK. DO NOT SEND CASH. Passport Services cannot be responsible for cash sent through the mail. By law, the fees are non-refundable. Please visit our website at travel.state.gov for detailed information regarding current fees.

OVERNIGHT DELIVERY SERVICE: If you desire overnight delivery service for the return of your U.S. passport, please include the appropriate fee with your payment.

FASTER PROCESSING: For an additional fee, you may request expedited service. Please include this fee in your payment and submit the application to the appropriate address. Please write "Expediting" on the outer envelope when mailing. Also, TO ENSURE MINIMAL PROCESSING TIME for expedited passport book applications, Passport Services recommends using overnight delivery when submitting the application AND including the appropriate postage fee for return overnight delivery for the newly issued passport book. Expedited service is available only in the United States. Overnight return delivery is only available for passport books. Please visit travel.state.gov for updated information regarding fees, processing times, or to check the status of your passport application online.

4. A RECENT COLOR PHOTOGRAPH.

- Submit a color photograph of you alone, sufficiently recent to be a good likeness of you (taken within the last six months), and 2x2 inches in size. The image size measured from the bottom of your chin to the top of your head (including hair) should not be less than 1 inch, and not more than 1 3/8 inches. The photograph must be color, clear, with a full front view of your face, and printed on thin paper with plain light (white or off-white) background. The photograph must be taken in normal street attire, without a hat, head covering, or dark glasses unless a signed statement is submitted by the applicant verifying the item is worn daily for religious purposes or a signed doctor’s statement is submitted verifying the item is used daily for medical purposes. Headphones, "bluetooth", or similar devices must not be worn in the passport photograph. Any photograph retouched so that your appearance is changed is unacceptable. A snapshot, most vendor machine prints, and magazine or full-length photographs are unacceptable. A digital photo must meet the previously stated qualifications, and will be accepted for use at the discretion of Passport Services. Please visit our website at travel.state.gov for details and information.

WHERE DO I MAIL THIS APPLICATION?

FOR ROUTINE SERVICE:
National Passport Processing Center
Post Office Box 90155
Philadelphia, PA 19190-0155

FOR EXPEDITED SERVICE (Additional Fee):
National Passport Processing Center
Philadelphia, PA 19190-0955

Due to the sensitivity of the enclosed documents, Passport Services recommends using trackable mailing service when submitting your application.

NOTE REGARDING MAILING ADDRESSES: Passport Services will not mail a passport to a private address outside the United States. If you do not live at the address listed in the "mailing address", then you must put the name of the person and mark it as "In Care Of." If your mailing address changes prior to receipt of your new passport, please contact the National Passport Information Center (NPIC) at 1-877-487-2778 or visit travel.state.gov.

NOTE: You may receive your newly issued document and your returned citizenship evidence in separate mailings. If you are applying for both a passport book and/or card, you may receive three separate mailings; one with your returned citizenship evidence; one with your newly issued passport book; and one with your newly printed passport card.

If you choose to provide your email address in Item #6 on this application, Passport Services may use that address to contact you in the event there is a problem with your application or if additional information is required.

FEDERAL TAX LAW

Section 6039E of the Internal Revenue Code (26 USC 6039E) requires you to provide your Social Security number (SSN), if you have one, when you apply for a U.S. passport or renewal of a U.S. passport. If you have not been issued a SSN, enter zeros in box #5 of this form. If you are residing abroad, you must also provide the name of the foreign country in which you are residing. The U.S. Department of State must provide your SSN and foreign residence information to the U.S. Department of Treasury. If you fail to provide the information, you are subject to a $500 penalty enforced by the IRS. All questions on this matter should be directed to the nearest IRS office.

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS APPLYING OUTSIDE A STATE DEPARTMENT FACILITY

If you send us a check, it will be converted into an electronic funds transfer (EFT). This means we will copy your check and use the account information on it to electronically debit your account for the amount of the check. The debit from your account will usually occur within 24 hours and will be shown on your regular account statement.

You will not receive your original check back. We will destroy your original check, but we will keep the copy of it. If the EFT cannot be processed for technical reasons, you authorize us to process the copy in place of your original check. If the EFT cannot be completed because of insufficient funds, we may try to make the transfer up to two times, and we will charge you a one-time fee of $25, which we will also collect by EFT.

REMITTANCE OF FEES

Passport service fees are established by law and regulation (see 22 U.S.C. 214, 22 C.F.R. 22.1, and 22 C.F.R. 51.50-56), and are collected at the time you apply for the passport service. If the Department fails to receive full payment of the applicable fees because, for example, your check is returned for any reason or you dispute a passport fee charge to your credit card, the U.S. Department of State will take action to collect the delinquent fees from you under 22 C.F.R. Part 34, and the Federal Claims Collection Standards (see 31 C.F.R. Parts 900-904). In accordance with the Debt Collection Improvement Act (Pub.L. 104-134), if the fees remain unpaid after 180 days and no repayment arrangements have been made, the Department will refer the debt to the U.S. Department of Treasury for collection. Debt collection procedures used by the U.S. Department of Treasury may include referral of the debt to private collection agencies, reporting of the debt to credit bureaus, garnishment of private wages and administrative offset of the debt by reducing, or withholding eligible federal payments (e.g., tax refunds, social security payments, federal retirement, etc.) by the amount of your debt, including any interest penalties or other costs incurred. In addition, non-payment of passport fees may result in the invalidation of your U.S. passport book and/or card. An invalidated passport card cannot be used for travel.

OTHER USES OF SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER

Your Social Security number will be provided to the U.S. Department of Treasury, used in connection with debt collection and checked against lists of persons ineligible or potentially ineligible to receive a U.S. passport book and/or card, among other authorized uses.

NOTICE TO APPLICANTS FOR OFFICIAL, DIPLOMATIC, OR NO-FEE PASSPORTS

You may use this application if you meet all of the provisions listed on Instruction Page 2, however, you must CONSULT YOUR SPONSORING AGENCY FOR INSTRUCTIONS ON PROPER ROUTING PROCEDURES BEFORE FORWARDING THIS APPLICATION. Your completed passport will be released to your sponsoring agency for forwarding to you.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO APPLICANTS WHO HAVE LOST OR HAD A PREVIOUS U.S. PASSPORT BOOK AND/OR PASSPORT CARD STOLEN

A United States citizen may not normally bear more than one valid or potentially valid U.S. passport book or more than one valid or potentially valid U.S. passport card at a time. Therefore, when a valid or potentially valid U.S. passport book or U.S. passport card cannot be presented with a new application, it is necessary to submit a Form DS-64, Statement Regarding a Lost or Stolen U.S. Passport. Your statement must detail why the previous U.S. passport book or U.S. passport card cannot be presented.

The information you provide regarding your lost or stolen U.S. passport book or passport card will be placed into our Consular Lost or Stolen Passport System. This system is designed to prevent the misuse of your lost or stolen U.S. passport book or passport card. Anyone using the passport book or passport card reported as lost or stolen may be detained upon entry into the United States. Should you locate the U.S. passport book or passport card reported lost or stolen at a later time, report it as found, and submit it for cancellation. It has been invalidated. You may not use that passport book or passport card for travel.

PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST IDENTITY THEFT!
REPORT YOUR LOST OR STOLEN U.S. PASSPORT BOOK OR PASSPORT CARD!

For more information or to report your lost or stolen U.S. passport book or passport card by phone, call NPIC at: 1-877-487-2778 or visit our website at travel.state.gov.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO U.S. PASSPORT CARD APPLICANTS ONLY

The maximum number of letters provided for your given name (first and middle) on the U.S. passport card is 24 characters. The 24 characters may be shortened due to printing restrictions. If both your given names are more than 24 characters, you must shorten one of your given names you list on item 1 of this form.
ACTS OR CONDITIONS

If any of the below-mentioned acts or conditions have been performed by or apply to the applicant, the portion which applies should be lined out, and a supplementary explanatory statement under oath (or affirmation) by the applicant should be attached and made a part of this application.

I have not, since acquiring United States citizenship/nationality, been naturalized as a citizen of a foreign state; taken an oath or made an affirmation or other formal declaration of allegiance to a foreign state; entered or served in the armed forces of a foreign state; accepted or performed the duties of any office, post, or employment under the government of a foreign state or political subdivision thereof; made a formal renunciation of nationality either in the United States, or before a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States in a foreign state; or been convicted by a court or court martial of competent jurisdiction of committing any act of treason against, or attempting by force to overthrow, or bearing arms against the United States, or conspiring to overthrow, put down, or to destroy by force, the government of the United States.

Furthermore, I have not been convicted of a federal or state drug offense or convicted for "sex tourism" crimes statute, and I am not the subject of an outstanding federal, state, or local warrant for arrest for a felony; a criminal court order forbidding my departure from the United States; a subpoena received from the United States in a matter involving federal prosecution for, or grand jury investigation of, a felony.

PRIVACY ACT STATEMENT

PURPOSE: We are requesting this information in order to determine your eligibility to be issued a U.S. passport.

Your Social Security number is requested in order to verify your identity. Failure to provide your Social Security number on this form may delay processing of your application.

ROUTINE USES: This information may be disclosed to another domestic government agency, a private contractor, a foreign government agency, or to a private person or private employer in accordance with certain approved routine uses. These routine uses include, but are not limited to, law enforcement activities, employment verification, fraud prevention, border security, counterterrorism, litigation activities, and activities that meet the Secretary of State's responsibility to protect U.S. citizens and non-citizen nationals abroad.

More information on the Routine Uses for the system can be found in System of Records Notices State-05, Overseas Citizen Services Records and State-26, Passport Records.

DISCLOSURE: Providing your Social Security number and the other information on this form is voluntary, but failure to provide the information on this form may, given the form's purpose of verification of identity and entitlement to a U.S. passport, result in processing delays or denial of the passport application.

Failure to provide your Social Security number may also subject you to a penalty enforced by the Internal Revenue Service, as described in the Federal Tax Law section of the instructions to this form. Your Social Security number will be provided to the Department of the Treasury and may be used in connection with debt collection, among other purposes as authorized and generally described in this section. Providing your Social Security number and other information requested on this form is otherwise voluntary.

ELECTRONIC PASSPORT STATEMENT

The U.S. Department of State now issues an "Electronic Passport” book, which contains an embedded electronic chip. The electronic passport book continues to be proof of the bearer’s United States citizenship/nationality and identity, and looks and functions in the same way as a passport without a chip. The addition of an electronic chip in the back cover enables the passport book to carry a duplicate electronic copy of all information from the data page. The electronic passport book is usable at all ports-of-entry, including those that do not yet have electronic chip readers.

Use of the electronic format provides the traveler the additional security protections inherent in chip technology. Moreover, when used at ports-of-entry equipped with electronic chip readers, the electronic passport book provides for faster clearance through some of the port-of-entry processes.

The electronic passport book does not require special handling or treatment, but like previous versions should be protected from extreme heat, bending, and from immersion in water. The electronic chip must be read using specially formatted readers, which protects the data on the chip from unauthorized reading.

The cover of the electronic passport book is printed with a special symbol representing the embedded chip. The symbol will appear in port-of-entry areas where the electronic passport book can be read.

PAPERWORK REDUCTION ACT STATEMENT

Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average 40 minutes per response, including the time required for searching existing data sources, gathering the necessary data, providing the information and/or documentation required, and reviewing the final collection. You do not have to supply this information unless this collection displays a currently valid OMB control number. If you have comments on the accuracy of this burden estimate and/or recommendations for reducing it, please send them to: U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Consular Affairs, Passport Services, Office of Program Management and Operational Support, 2201 C Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20520.
I declare under penalty of perjury all of the following: 1) I am a citizen or non-citizen national of the United States and have not, since acquiring U.S. citizenship or nationality, performed any of the acts listed under "Acts or Conditions" on page four of the instructions of this application (unless explanatory statement is attached); 2) the statements made on the application are true and correct; 3) I have not knowingly and willfully made false statements or included false documents in support of this application; 4) the photograph submitted with this application is a genuine, current photograph of me; and 5) I have read and understood the warning on page one of the instructions to the application form.

INSTRUCTIONS
For filling out the “Request for Status Information Letter”

SECTION 1:

• Name: you must provide your complete name, and any other names you have ever used. If you have more than one last name, you must provide both names.

• Address: you must include your complete mailing address. Forms received without a mailing address will not be processed.

• Social Security Number: If you have a Social Security Number, you must provide it. Also, if you have ever used a different Social Security Account Number, provide that as well.

• Date of Birth: This form is only for men born after December 31, 1959, who are 26 years old or older. You must provide your complete date of birth.

• Daytime Telephone Number: If possible, provide a telephone number where you can be reached during the day, in case we need to contact you.

• E-mail Address: If possible, provide your e-mail address in case we need to contact you.

SECTION 2:

This section is for explaining and documenting why you did not register with Selective Service. This section consists of five different parts. You must complete and submit documentation for any and all parts that apply to you.

Military:

Incarcerated, institutionalized, hospitalized, or confined to home:

For each instance, provide type of confinement, dates of confinement, and supporting documentation.

Non Citizen / Undocumented Immigrants:

If you entered the United States for the first time after your 26th birthday, you must provide documentation to support your claim. Valid documentation includes: entry stamp in your passport, I-94 with entry stamp on it. If you entered the United States illegally after your 26th birthday, you must provide proof that you were not living in the United States from age 18 to age 26. Please note: your Resident Alien Card (Green Card) is not valid as proof of entry to the United States.

If you entered the United States as a valid non-immigrant alien, and remained in that status to your 26th birthday, you must provide documentation to support your claim. For example, if you entered the United States as an F-1 Student, and remained in that status until your 26th birthday, you would need to provide documentation indicating that you were admitted on an F-1 visa and attended school full-time as required. (Acceptable documents for this situation include copies of your I-20s or a letter from the school you attended indicating your full time attendance as a non-immigrant alien). The same thing applies for all non-immigrant statuses. You must explain, if at any point, you violated the terms of your visa, or overstayed your visa and became an undocumented alien.

You should provide as much information as possible. We will use the information you provide to determine your registration status.

Transsexual:

For individuals who have had a sex change. You must indicate what gender you were born as, and attach documentation which indicates this as well.

Reason why you failed to register with Selective Service upon reaching age 18 and before reaching age 26:

Provide a written explanation for not registering with Selective Service.

SECTION 3:

Sign and date the letter. Return this letter to the address listed with copies of supporting documents, showing proof and anything else you may wish to include. Do not send original documents, as they will not be returned. You should retain a copy of all documents and correspondence submitted.

HELPFUL INFORMATION

• This form is designed to be printed for use, and cannot be completed online. After printing, complete the form, attach ALL supporting documentation, and mail to: Selective Service System, ATTN: SIL, PO Box 94638, Palatine, IL 60094-4638.

• This form is for use only by men born after December 31, 1959, who are not registered and are now 26 years old or older.

• This form is not a registration form, and by submitting it, you will not be registered.

• If you feel that you have already registered, verify your registration on our website (www.sss.gov), or call our Registration Information Office at (847) 688-6888 to obtain your Selective Service number.

• We will issue a Status Information Letter based on the information you provide. This letter will clarify your status with Selective Service.

• If you are being denied a right, benefit, or privilege because you are not registered, submit a copy of your status information letter and an explanation letter for your failure to register, to the Agency administering the right, benefit, or privilege. That Agency will make the final determination regarding your eligibility. The Selective Service System does not determine your eligibility for any right, benefit, or privilege.
APPENDIX L

American Civil Liberties Union of California Voting Rights Resources

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What are my voting rights if I have a misdemeanor?

A misdemeanor conviction does not affect your right to vote at all. You can vote in all elections.

What are my voting rights if I have a felony?

If you have a felony conviction, you can vote IF:
• you are on probation, even if you are in county jail as a condition of your probation, or
• you have completed your probation, or
• you are awaiting a judge’s decision on a probation violation, or
• you have completed mandatory supervision, or
• you have completed post-release community supervision, or
• you have completed your parole.

The only time you are not allowed to vote is IF:
• you have a felony conviction and you are still in state prison, or
• you are serving an 1170(h) felony sentence in county jail, or
• you are awaiting transfer to a state prison, or
• you are on parole, on post-release community supervision, or on mandatory supervision.

Once you have completed your prison sentence and parole or other community supervision, you can register to vote. If you are unsure what type of sentence you are serving check with your parole or probation officer.

Can I vote when I am on probation?

Yes! You can vote at all times when you are on probation, whether your conviction is a felony or a misdemeanor.

Can I vote when I am on parole?

No. You can only vote once you have completed your parole.

Can I vote on mandatory supervision?

No. You can only vote once you have completed your mandatory supervision.

Can I vote while I am on post-release community supervision?

No. You can only vote once you have completed your post-release community supervision.

Can I vote while I am in county jail? Maybe. You can vote IF you are in county jail:
• awaiting trial for any crime, or
• for a misdemeanor conviction, or
• on a probation violation, or
• on felony probation.

The only time you lose the right to vote while in county jail is when you are:

• in state prison for a felony conviction, or
• in jail awaiting transfer to a state prison for a felony conviction, or
• serving an 1170(h) felony sentence in the county jail, or
• in jail for a parole violation.

How do I get back my right to vote?

In California, you do not need to do anything to “restore” your right to vote. It is automatically restored once you have completed your parole and no longer in state prison. However, you must register or re-register to vote in an upcoming election.

How do I register to vote?

There are two ways to register to vote:

• You can register online at our website, www.letmevoteca.org
• You can pick up a paper registration form at the DMV, post office, public libraries, or your county elections office. Complete the form, sign it, and drop it in the mail!

Do I need to re-register if I move or change my name?

Yes. You need to re-register (using either of the methods above) if you move or change your name.

How and where do I vote?

In California, you can vote two ways:

Vote-by-Mail: This means that every election your ballot will be mailed to you and you can take your time to fill it out and mail back your vote. It’s easy to become a vote-by-mail voter. Either: (1) put your initials on line 15 on your voter registration application, or (2) if you are already registered to vote, you will get a vote-by-mail application attached to the sample ballot you receive about a month before the election. Complete this application and mail back to your county election official.

Reminder! A vote-by-mail ballot will be mailed to the address you provide on your voter registration. If you move a lot, this may not be the best option for you.

At your local polling place: Once you are registered to vote, you can vote at your local polling place on Election Day. Your local polling place is listed on the Sample Ballot you receive in the mail. If for any reason you are unsure of your polling place, you can look it up at http://www.votersedge.org or contact your local county elections office to find out.

When is the last day to register to vote?

You must register (or re-register, if you’ve moved or changed your name, or if your right to vote has been restored) at least 15 days before the next local, state, or federal election.
If you have a misdemeanor conviction, you can always vote.

In fact, you can always keep your right to vote unless you are currently serving a sentence for certain felonies.

If you have a felony conviction, you can vote if:

• You are on probation OR
• you have completed your post-release community supervision OR
• you have completed your mandatory supervision OR
• you have completed parole

Your voting rights are automatically returned when you complete your sentence. You just have to fill out a voter registration card.

Correctional Supervision in the Community:

PAROLE & PROBATION

Being under some type of supervision is usually required for you to be released from prison or jail into community. In the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, you will learn that in California, there are many types of supervision—state parole, county probation, Mandatory Supervision, PRCS, federal probation & federal parole. This chapter will help you understand what it means to be under supervision, what special rules you have to follow, and all of the rights you have as a person in reentry.

DISCLAIMER – YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it. The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

VII. CONCLUSION ........................................................................... 286

COMMUNITY SUPERVISION: PAROLE & PROBATION APPENDIX........... 287
WHAT WILL I LEARN IN THE PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER?

- The different types of supervision in California, and the basics about each type
- For each type of supervision, you will learn:
  - What to do when you first get out – a step-by-step guide
  - General and Special Rules: What general rules (conditions) you have to follow, What special rules (extra conditions) might be added on, and How to appeal (challenge) the special conditions
  - Length of supervision: How the length of supervision is calculated, and how to get off early, if possible
  - Transferring Supervision to a Different Location: What the procedures are for transferring your supervision to a different county or state
  - Disability Rights: How to navigate parole and probation if you have a disability and need help or accommodations
  - Violations & Revocations: What your rights are if you’re accused of violating the conditions of your supervision, and how the “revocation” (violations) process works
I. INTRODUCTION

WHAT IS COMMUNITY SUPERVISION?

After your release from prison or jail OR instead of incarceration, you will often be required to be under some sort of correctional supervision in the community, with special rules that apply to you—like where you can live and work, who you can contact, and people or places that you have to regularly report to.

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO KNOW WHAT TYPE OF SUPERVISION I AM ON, AND THE RULES OF THAT SUPERVISION DEPARTMENT?

It is important to know what kind of supervision you are on and the rules of that supervision department because it impacts every other part of your life—where you can travel, where and how often you have to report to a supervising officer, the steps you should take if you are having a problem with the rules (“conditions”) of your supervision, the amount of time you’ll be under supervision in the community, the types of record-cleaning and record-improving remedies that will be available to you, the type of contact you may be able to have with certain people or family members, your ability to vote and serve on a jury, and MORE. We hope that this Chapter helps to explain to you the rights and responsibilities you have under your specific type of supervision—state parole; county probation, mandatory supervision, or PRCS; OR federal probation, supervised release, or federal parole.

WHAT ARE THE MAIN TYPES OF SUPERVISION IN CALIFORNIA?

There are 4 main categories of supervision in California. They are:

1) STATE PAROLE: In California, parole is a condition of release for most people coming out of prison.\(^3^{05}\) It only applies in felony cases when a person is sentenced to state prison. It also only takes effect after release from prison.

   a) People sentenced to serve determine sentences—such as an exact term of “seven years”—serve the specified amount of time in prison ordered by the judge. Once their sentence is over, they are released.

   b) People sentenced to serve indeterminate terms, such as “25 to life with the possibility of parole,” are released only after a Board of Parole Hearing (BPH) determines that they are ready to re-enter society.\(^3^{06}\)

   i) Most people released from California state prison are required to serve a period of parole after they are released. People on parole—called parolees—remain under the control of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation’s (CDCR) Division of Adult Parole Operations (DAPO), are supervised by CDCR parole agents, and must meet certain requirements or “conditions” of parole.\(^3^{07}\)

2) COUNTY PROBATION & NEW FORMS OF COUNTY-LEVEL SUPERVISION: Probation is a type of supervision that a judge orders at trial as part of the original sentence, either as an alternative to incarceration OR in addition to incarceration. California probation reduces or eliminates the time that a person must spend in custody in jail or prison. People on probation must report to their county probation office (for felony probation, more information on PG. 203) or to local superior court (for misdemeanor probation, more information on PG. 198), and must meet certain requirements or “conditions” of probation. Depending on the circumstances, either the court or a probation officer monitors the person’s compliance with his/her probation terms. Misdemeanor Probation, Felony Probation, Mandatory Supervision, and Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS) are all types of community supervision that fall under the responsibility of California’s county probation departments. Unlike state parole offices, which are all operated by CDCR and DAPO, county probation departments have a lot more independence and differences between them. Here is a quick overview of the different types of county probation:

a) Misdemeanor Probation: If you get probation imposed for a conviction that is a California misdemeanor, it is known as misdemeanor probation—also called “informal” probation or “summary” probation.

b) Felony Probation: If you get convicted of a felony crime and get placed on probation, it will be Felony Probation (sometimes called “formal probation” or FP).

c) Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS): People released from a state prison after incarceration for a non-violent, non-serious, non-sexual crimes are placed under supervision by local, county probation officers instead of being supervised under state parole. This form of supervision is called Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS). PRCS can last for up to 3 years, but can end earlier if the person under supervision does not violate any conditions of his/her PRCS.

d) Mandatory Supervision: Mandatory Supervision: In California, through a process called “split sentencing,” a judge can split the time of a sentence between a jail term and a period of supervision by a county probation officer. This type of supervision is known as Mandatory Supervision.

3) Federal Probation: People convicted of certain federal offenses may be sentenced to Federal Probation or Supervised Release. The U.S. Probation and Pretrial Services System oversees federal probation.

a) Federal Probation: After you are convicted of a federal crime, federal probation is used as an alternative sentence to prison time. That means that federal “probation” is still considered a sentence in and of itself. For the most part, if you are placed on federal probation, you must report to your assigned probation office and comply with all the rules (“conditions”) of your federal probation.
b) SUPERVISED RELEASE: Supervised Release is overseen by federal district courts with the help of federal probation officers. The judge can sentence you to a term of Supervised Release after your release from federal prison. In other words, a term of Supervised Release does not replace any time you are sentenced to prison; rather, a judge orders Supervised Release in addition to any term in prison you may serve. In some cases, the judge that sentences you is actually required by law to impose a term of Supervised Release in addition to a prison term. It’s common for a federal sentence to include a period of time in prison, followed by a period of time in the community on Supervised Release.

4) FEDERAL PAROLE: Federal Parole was eliminated in 1984. However, a small group of people—(1) those sentenced in federal court before November 1, 1987; (2) those who violate criminal laws in Washington, D.C. (the nation’s capital); (3) those convicted of crimes within the U.S. military’s criminal justice system; and (4) people convicted in certain foreign transfer treaty cases—may still be on federal parole, but are still supervised by federal probation officers.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE STATE & FEDERAL SYSTEMS?

Depending on whether you were convicted of a federal or state crime, it will affect not only where you are incarcerated (federal prison, state prison, or county jail), but also what type of supervision you will be on after your release.

I’M NOT SURE WHAT TYPE OF SUPERVISION I AM ON OR GOING TO BE ON. HOW DO I FIND OUT?

You may not know what type of supervision you are currently on, and in certain situations you could be on more than one type, or on different types back-to-back. If you don’t know, and you are still incarcerated, you should ask a correctional counselor in your institution. If you don’t know, and you are out, you should ask the case manager or supervising officer you report to.

Once you know what type of supervision you are on, you can skip to the section in this chapter that addresses questions and issues related to your specific type of supervision.

• If you are currently or soon to be under the supervision of state parole, go to PG. 147.
• If you are currently or soon to be under the supervision of county probation or some other type of county-level supervision (like “mandatory supervision” or “PRCS”), go to PG. 208.
• If you are currently or soon to be under the supervision of federal probation, go to PG. 229.
• If you are currently or soon to be under federal community supervision of supervised release, go to PG. 243.
• If you are currently or soon to be under the supervision of federal parole, go to PG. 264.

A Note About the Terms Used in the Parole & Probation Chapter:

We want to mention that this Chapter uses a lot of the terminology and language that the California Department of Corrections (CDCR) and other correctional agencies and departments use to describe people returning to the community from prison and jail. We don’t agree with many of the ways that people with criminal records are described, but at times we use this language to make this material understandable to our readers. To learn about the movement to use humanizing language when talking about currently or formerly incarcerated people: please visit the following Root & Rebound blog post that summarized a letter from formerly incarcerated leaders discussing the power of language:
https://rootrebound.wordpress.com/2014/01/29/discourse-can-de-humanize-open-letter-on-language-from-cnus/.

KEY TERMS IN THE PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER

Before you start reading this chapter, it would be good for you to get a sense of some of the key terms we use. Although they are explained in the chapter, we want to include them here for you to get familiar with:

• Conditions—Written rules that you have to follow while on parole or probation
• Special Conditions—Extra rules that apply to you in addition to the basic rules that apply to all people under supervision
• Commitment Offense—The offense for which you went to prison or jail
• Discharge—The date you are released from supervision
• Parole Period—The period of time you have to spend on parole
• Residence—The address where you live
• Board of Parole Hearings (BPH)—A group of 12 commissioners, chosen by the California governor, who sit on a board and conduct hearings where they decide if a person is suitable to get released from prison on to parole.

• CDCR—CDCR is the abbreviation for the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, which is a state government agency runs the criminal justice system in California.

• California Penal Code—The legal basis for all criminal laws in California.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- The Basics of State Parole
- After Release—What to Expect in Your First Days Out on State Parole
- The length of State Parole—including (a) what to do if you believe your parole term length is miscalculated and (b) how to get off parole early
- The general conditions of state parole
- The extra ("special") conditions of state parole, and the legal requirements for imposing these
- The process for challenging conditions of state parole
- Your rights as a parolee with a disability
- Procedures for state parole violations and revocations

BASICS OF STATE PAROLE

WHAT IS CALIFORNIA STATE PAROLE?

In California, parole is a condition of release for a person coming out of prison. It will only apply to people convicted of a state felony and sentenced to state prison. State parole only takes effect after you are released from prison.

People on parole—sometimes called parolees—remain under the control of CDCR. Within CDCR, parolees are more specifically under the control of the Division of Adult Parole Operations (DAPO), a division of CDCR. As a parolee, you are supervised by CDCR parole agents, and must satisfy certain rules or "conditions" of parole.

322 5 CAL. CODE REGS. § 2355.
323 People who are sentenced to state prison for potential life sentences (for example, "25 years to life") are only eligible for parole after they serve the determinate part of their sentence, and only after the Bd. of Parole Hearings (BPW, commonly called the "parole board") determines that you are ready to re-enter society. That determination takes place during a California Bd. of Parole Hearings suitability hearing (also known as a "Lifer hearing"). Some people released from California state prison are required to serve a period of parole after they are released. Lifer Parole Process, CAL. DEPT. OF CORR. & REHAB., http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/BOPH/lifer_parole_process.html.
I AM CURRENTLY INCARCERATED IN CALIFORNIA STATE PRISON, AND PREPARING FOR RELEASE. WILL I BE REQUIRED TO SERVE A PAROLE TERM AFTER I GET RELEASED FROM PRISON?

Yes, if you committed a certain type of offense, or are in a specific situation. If you are currently incarcerated in California state prison, you must serve a parole term after release from prison if any of the following apply:

- Your current prison term is for a serious felony as defined in CAL. PENAL CODE § 1192.7(c);
- Your current prison term is for a violent felony as defined in CAL. PENAL CODE § 667.5(c);
- You were sentenced as a “three-striker” under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 667(b)-(i) or 1170.12(c)(2);
- You are classified by CDCR as a “High-Risk Sex Offender,” regardless of your commitment offense; OR
- You are found to be a “Mentally Disordered Offender” (MDO) under CAL. PENAL CODE § 2962.2.

IMPORTANT: If you don't fall into any of these categories, then you are likely on a new form of supervision called Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS). Go to PG. 208 to learn more about PRCS. If you think you will be on state parole, not PRCS, see the earlier section on state parole, on PG. 147.

WHEN IS THE POST-RELEASE COMMUNITY SUPERVISION (PRCS) VS. PAROLE ASSESSMENT DONE?

Before you are released from prison, a correctional counselor will screen your case and decide whether to refer you to state parole or PRCS.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON STATE PAROLE

WHAT ARE SOME MY RESPONSIBILITIES WHEN I FIRST GET OUT OF STATE PRISON UNDER STATE PAROLE SUPERVISION?

There are several responsibilities to be aware when you first get out of state prison and are living in the community under the supervision of parole:
1. FIRST, YOU SHOULD MAKE CONTACT WITH YOUR PAROLE OFFICER & VISIT THAT PAROLE OFFICE.

CDCR makes it clear that “it is up to you to get yourself to your parole office” upon release, so do your best to make contact with your parole officer right away, and visit the office as soon as you can, if you don’t have a set appointment time. If you cannot get a hold of your parole agent, or do not know who that person is, try going to the closest parole office you can find and ask them for help. The parole office can call your parole agent and let him or her know you are coming and when you will be there. For a list of California state parole office’s main phone numbers, visit: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/Parole/Public_Officers_and_Regional_Offices/.

If you were given a date, time, and place to report to your parole officer (see your Form 611, Release Program Study), you should report to him or her at that time in that location. Generally, it is recommended that if you get out on a weekday and have the time or ability to go to the office that day, you should. If you get out on a weekend or national holiday when the parole office is closed, it is recommended that you go to your parole office the very next day it is open. If you get stuck out of town, get lost, or cannot get to where you have to go, call your parole agent or the Officer of the Day collect. Call the Parole Headquarters for your Region (or if you don’t know which region, call the California Region I Headquarters) and ask for the Officer of the Day: Northern Region Headquarters (Tel. 916-255-2758); Southern Region Parole Headquarters (Tel. 909-468-2300).

2. TELL YOUR PAROLE AGENT OF CRIMES AGAINST YOU AFTER RELEASE, IF ANYTHING LIKE THAT HAPPENS.

If anyone commits a crime against you before you make contact with your parole officer, tell your parole agent what happened.

3. TELL YOUR PAROLE AGENT IF YOU ARE STOPPED BY THE POLICE.

If you get stopped by the police for any reason, tell your parole agent about it.

4. REGISTER WITH THE LOCAL POLICE OR SHERIFF, IF NECESSARY.

Before you get out of prison, you should be told if you have to register with the local police or sheriff. Not all people on parole will have to do this, but if you went to prison for a sex, drug, gang, or arson case, it may be required. If you are told it is a necessary part of your parole conditions, register with the Police or Sheriff as soon as possible. The correctional counselor at the prison must... notify you of your registration requirement before you are released from custody—and will do so by checking a box on CDCR Form 611, “Release Program Study,” indicating your registration requirements (see example of this form in Appendix S, PG. 332), which must be given to you at least 45 days before your expected release date. You will then have to sign a form that tells you when and how you must register (see the chart on the next page to know which additional form you’ll be given). If you have questions, talk with your correctional counselor in the prison, or with your parolee agent once you are out. Please refer to the chart on the next page for a summary of these registration requirements.

THE CHART BELOW SUMMARIZES THE LAWS THAT REQUIRE PEOPLE WITH CERTAIN CONVICTIONS TO REGISTER WITH THE LOCAL POLICE/SHERIFF OR OTHER REGISTRY.

WHAT COUNTY WILL I BE PAROLED TO, AND WHO DECIDES?

You will most likely be paroled from prison to the county where you last lived (called your “last legal residence”). However, CDCR will require you to parole to a different county if it would be “in the best interests of the public.” This means that if you were convicted of certain violent felonies (including murder, voluntary manslaughter, mayhem, rape, sodomy by force, oral copulation, lewd acts on a child under 14, any felony punishable by death), or a crime involving stalking or a great bodily injury enhancement, you will not be paroled to a county where you would be within 35 miles of the residence of a victim or witness if: (1) the victim or witness has requested additional distance, and/or (2) the BPH or CDCR finds that there is a 236 There has been significant case law on what information the police or sheriff can require from you. See, e.g., People v. Sanchez, 105 Cal. App. 4th 1240 (2003); People v. Bailey, 101 Cal. App. 4th 238 (2002).

237 Telephone call with Gang Task Force police officer in Watsonville, CA. If you are required to register for a gang-related offense, the local police/sheriff’s office may ask for relevant information from you like the name of the gang, size of the gang, where the gang tends to congregate, and/or where gang members live. Usually a parole officer will tell someone of this registration requirement in the first days after release from prison, and may give the parolee instructions for when and how to make an appointment to register with the local police or sheriff’s office.
238 See CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003(a).
239 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003(b). A county that wants a parolee to be sent somewhere else must show that the parole authorities have abused their discretion when choosing the county of parole. need to protect the victim or witness.\textsuperscript{341} If the BPH or CDCR decides to send you to another county for parole, the agency making the decision must state their reasons for doing so in writing.\textsuperscript{342}

Interested in requesting a transfer of your parole?

For information on how to request to transfer your parole location from one county to a different county, see PG. 181, or from one state to a different state, see PG. 181.

IS THERE ANY FORM OF FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FROM PAROLE WHEN I FIRST GET OUT?

Yes, but it is very limited and for a very small amount. You are entitled to the money in your trust account and gate money. You may be able to get other emergency funds by requesting them through your parole agent. Below we explain the types of financial assistance you can ask for on your first days out in more detail:

1. TRUST ACCOUNTS:

   Money that you brought to, earned, or received in prison is kept in an interest-bearing trust account. The “interest” is paid to the trust account on a monthly basis, minus operational expenses incurred. Any money in your prison trust account, including any interest you earned, must be given to you at your release.\textsuperscript{343}

   What should I do if the prison never gives me my money?

   If the prison does not give you your gate money, let your parole officer know immediately.

2. GATE MONEY (a.k.a. “RELEASE ALLOWANCE”):

   > $200 GATE MONEY:

   If you are leaving state prison and you are (1) paroled, (2) placed on post-release community supervision (PRCS), or (3) discharged from a CDCR institution or reentry facility, you are entitled to $200 in state funds upon release.\textsuperscript{347} Even though your parole agent is responsible for giving you these funds, the agent is not required to give you the entire amount immediately. Instead, your parole agent may distribute the $200 in separate, smaller amounts over a period of 60 days following your release.\textsuperscript{348} By the end of those 60 days, you should have received the entire $200. If you need to purchase clothes or a bus ticket at the time of your release, you must pay for it; CDCR does not provide extra gate money for clothing or transportation, but will deduct it from your $200 gate money if you ask them to front this cost.\textsuperscript{346} \textsuperscript{341} Cal. Penal Code § 3003(f) and (h). This provision does not apply to the victim’s next of kin. In re David, 202 Cal. App. 4th 675 (2012).

---

\textsuperscript{342} Cal. Penal Code § 3003(b).

\textsuperscript{344} The rules for gate money are in Cal. Penal Code § 2713.1, 15 Cal. Code Regs. § 3075.2(d), and DOM §§ 74070.23, 74070.23.5, 81010.6.1, 81010.6.2.

\textsuperscript{345} The rules for gate money are in Cal. Penal Code § 2713.1, 15 Cal. Code Regs. § 3075.2(d); and DOM §§ 74070.23, 74070.23.5, 81010.6.1, 81010.6.2.

IMPORTANT: You also have the right to the $200 gate money in the following cases:

- If you were sent to a local jail for civil commitment proceedings or evaluation as a “sexually violent predator” (SVP).
- If you are a “lifer parolee” who returned to prison on a parole violation, when you are re-released to parole.
- If you served 6 straight months or more on a sentence OR on a return-to-custody for a parole violation (these 6 months could be time spent in jail or in prison).

> YOU WILL GET ONLY $100 GATE MONEY IF YOU ALREADY RECEIVED A $100 ADVANCE

If you are released from prison into a Community Correctional Reentry Facility or Alternative Custody Program (ACP), you may be given an advance of up to $100 of your gate money at that time. Once you are released from the reentry facility or ACP, you may only receive what is left of the $200 not yet given to you—for most, this will be $100 remaining.

> YOU WILL NOT RECEIVE YOUR GATE MONEY IF YOU ARE RELEASED FROM PRISON INTO THE CUSTODY OF ANOTHER AGENCY THAT IS DETAINING YOU

If you are released from prison into the custody of another state, local law enforcement, or the federal government (i.e. you are released from state prison and into the custody of a federal prison or another jail/prison because you have been convicted or face charges in another jurisdiction), you will not get any gate money until you are released from that custody. Similarly, if you are released from prison into the custody of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) and are waiting a deportation hearing date, you will not get gate money.

> YOU WILL FORFEIT (GIVE UP) YOUR RIGHT TO GATE MONEY IN THE FOLLOWING SITUATION

If you abscond from parole (meaning you flee, go missing, or do not report to your parole agent as required) before receiving all of your gate money, you give up your right to the gate money. This means if you fail to report or to let your parole agent know of your whereabouts, you lose your right to the $200 gate money. If you abscond from parole, you also risk: 1) getting your parole revoked and going back to prison; 2) being held on parole for a longer time period than originally required; 3) being forced to wear a GPS tracking advice by parole (see PG. 170).

349 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3075.2(d).
350 CDCR operates fourteen “reentry hubs” in California. Programs typically last up to four years, and include classes in Substance Abuse, Criminal Thinking, Anger Management, and Family Relationships. They are available to people who have been released from prison within the past four years, and are designed specifically “for inmates who have a moderate-to-high risk to reoffend, as assessed by the California Static Risk Assessment (CSRA), and who have an assessed criminogenic need, as identified by the Correctional Offender Management Profiling for Alternative Sanctions (COMPAS) and/or other assessment(s) identified by CDCR.” CDCR, Fact Sheet: Reentry Hubs, http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/rehabilitation/docs/Factsheets/OS-IP-FactSheet-ReentryHubs-Mar2014.pdf.
351 Alternative Custody Program (ACP) means a voluntary program developed for female inmates whose current commitment offense is neither violent nor serious, and whose prior or current commitment offense is not a registrable sex offense pursuant to PC section 1170.05 that allows eligible inmates committed to state prison to serve their sentence in the community in lieu of confinement in state prison. Provisions for ACP are located in Title 15, Division 3, Chapter 1, Article 6.8 commencing with section 3078. 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3000.
352 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3075.2(d)(8)(A).
353 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3075.2(d)(8)(B).
354 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3075.2(d)(1).
355 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3075.2(d)(2).
YOU HAVE NO RIGHT TO GATE MONEY IN THE FOLLOWING SITUATION

If you are released after being placed in jail for parole revocation proceedings, you do not receive gate money.

3. EMERGENCY FUNDS

There are 2 very limited types of emergency funds that you can request through your parole agent: (1) Cash Assistance Loans (also called “financial assistance funds”) and (2) Funds for Services (also called “Bank Drafts”). Unfortunately, in these current tight budget times, these funds are extremely limited.

These funds are discretionary. This means that your parole agent and his or her supervisor decide whether to give you a “cash assistance loan” or funds for services. Their decision will depend on the following factors:

- Whether there is money available;
- The circumstances, including your history and needs; AND
- Whether you are a citizen (as there are legal limits on the financial assistance that CA State Parole can provide to certain parolees who are not U.S. citizens).

(1) FIRST TYPE OF EMERGENCY FUND: Cash Assistance Loans

Cash Assistance Loans (a.k.a. “Financial Assistance Funds”) are loans that you may request from your parole agent. CDCR expects you to pay back these loans as soon as possible (for example, once employment or other financial circumstances allow you to do so). These loans are only granted when there is a critical need and assistance is not available from any other source. The loans are usually for amounts under $50. The parole agent’s supervisor must approve any loan over $50 or any series of loans totaling more than $150 in a 30-day period.

(2) SECOND TYPE OF EMERGENCY FUND: Funds for Services:

Your parole agent is also authorized to distribute Funds for Services (a.k.a. “Bank Drafts”), including for housing, food, and clothing. Your parole agent may authorize a loan of up to $500 to you for over-the-counter purchases. The check may be written either directly to you or to the vendor who is selling the item that you are purchasing. Once again, the loans are granted on an emergency basis, and you must pay the money back as soon as you able to do so.

358 The rules for these funds are in 15 CAL CODE REGS. § 3605 and DOM § 81070.1 et seq.
359 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3605; DOM § 81070.1 et seq. (outlining Parole’s cash assistance loan procedures).
360 See 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3605.
362 See DOM § 81070.1 (“A determination of how much money is needed is a matter of judgment, and circumstances will generally differ from case to case.”).
363 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3630 (“Pursuant to Section 411 of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, (PRWORA) (8 U.S.C. Section 1621), and notwithstanding any other provision of Title 15, Division 3 of the California Code of Regulations, aliens who are not “qualified aliens” or “nonimmigrant aliens,” as defined by federal law, or who are paroled into the United States for less than one year, are ineligible to receive or participate in the following parole services: (1) Food coupons, (2) Bus passes, (3) Job placement services, (4) Short-term cash assistance.”).

LENGTH OF STATE PAROLE

WHERE WILL I SEE THE LENGTH OF MY PAROLE? AND WHO CALCULATES IT?

Your parole date will be listed on your CDCR Form 1515, “Notice and Conditions of Parole” (see example in Appendix G, PG. 302). Parole will be responsible for calculating these dates based on state law, and your parole agent must tell you what they are.

IF I AM ON STATE PAROLE, WHAT LAW SETS THE LENGTH OF MY PAROLE?

If you are on state parole, the length of your parole period is set by state law and is based on your commitment offense (the crime you are or were incarcerated for), and when the commitment offense occurred. The state law that is applied to determine your base parole period and maximum parole period is the law that was in existence at the time of the commitment offense (NOT the date you were sentenced on and NOT the date you were released onto parole).

In most cases, there is a minimum parole period that can be increased up to a maximum parole period if you commit parole violations. Because state laws set the minimum & maximum parole term lengths, the date that a person actually gets off parole will be determined by a number of factors. See PG. 155 for more information.

There are actually 3 discharge dates—a Controlling Discharge Date, A Maximum Discharge Date, and a Presumptive Discharge Date—that together determine when you will actually get off parole, and a number of factors that interact with those 3 dates to determine when you will be eligible to get off parole earlier or later than you originally expected. See the chart on PG. 155 below for a detailed description of these three dates and how they interact with each other.

You can find the parole term lengths in California Penal Code § 3000(b) (for set-length parole terms) and § 3000.1 (for life-long parole terms)—we have included copies of the current versions of these laws in Appendix F, PG. 298, for your reference. (The California Penal Code is a chapter of laws that apply to crimes, parole, and other criminal justice system-related laws in California). To look up the discharge dates that apply to you, see Appendix C, PG.294 of this chapter.

WHAT STOPS THE CLOCK FOR MY LENGTH OF TIME ON PAROLE?

The clock for your parole period is paused if:

(1) YOU GO MISSING:
Any time during that you “abscond” from parole (go missing or fail to report to your parole agent), and any time you are not available for parole supervision, this “stops the clock” and does not count toward the parole period.

(2) YOU HAVE TO GO THROUGH SEXUALLY VIOLENT PREDATOR (SVP) PROCEEDINGS:
The parole term is “tolled” (paused) until the SVP proceedings are dismissed or you are discharged from the Department of State Hospitals (DSH).

(3) YOU ARE SENT TO COUNTY JAIL (NOT PRISON) FOR A NEW FELONY CONVICTION. If you are sentenced to a county jail term for a new felony conviction, you will stay on parole while serving your jail sentence, but the clock will pause on your parole term. If the jail sentence ends before your controlling discharge date (CDD), you must report to your parole officer upon release and finish serving your original parole term. But if your are sentenced for a new felony conviction, your parole will just be forgotten about—it isn’t paused, but it no longer matters.

Helpful Hint

In addition to these very important 3 dates, you can ask for your parole agent to recommend that you get off parole even earlier than your Presumptive Discharge Date (PDD), but this is very hard to do successfully. That’s because for your parole agent to recommend you get off even earlier, everyone has to agree—the parole agent has to support you; the agent’s supervisor has to agree; the Regional Administrator for your parole region must approve your request; and finally, the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH), must approve your early release from parole.

370. Time during which a parolee absconds or is unavailable for supervision does not count toward either the CDD. There is no limit on how long the CDD can be extended due to absconding or unavailability. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b)(6)(B). Time served in custody for parole revocation terms will extend the CDD, but only until the MDD is reached. The CDD comes from state law: CAL. GOV’T CODE § 3000(b)(set-length parole terms) and § 3000.1 (life-long parole terms).

371. The MDD also comes from state law: CAL. GOV’T CODE § 3000(b) (set-length parole terms) and § 3000.1 (life-long parole terms). There is no limit on how long the CDD can be extended due to absconding or unavailability. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b)(7). See also CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b)(6). Time served in custody for a parole revocation will extend the CDD, but only until the MDD is reached.

372. Note that a provision for early “earned discharge” for some parolees (former 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3075.4) has been repealed. There is no presumptive discharge date from state parole for any person serving a life-long parole period following an indeterminate life term for a sex offense under CAL. GOV’T CODE §§ 269, 288.7(c), 667.51, 667.61(j), (l), (m), or (n), or 667.71 if a victim was a child under age 14. There is also no presumptive early discharge for parolees who were sentenced to prison for offenses committed between July 1, 1977, and December 31, 1978. 12 CAL. CODE REGS. § 2535(b)(5). See In re Miller, 2006 WL 1980385 (Cal. Ct. App. July 17, 2006) at n.2 (discussing CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b), Stats. 1977, chs.2, p.165, as it was prior to 1979).
WHAT CAN I DO IF I THINK THAT THE LENGTH OF MY PAROLE IS MISCALCULATED?

If you believe your parole length has been miscalculated, which does happen time to time, you can and should APPEAL (challenge) your parole term length with CDCR. You have to exhaust the appeals process before you can go to court.

First, understand the timelines for filing an appeal (see box below). Then, follow the three steps, starting on PG. 156, to file your appeal.

TIMELINES FOR ALL 602 APPEALS

What timelines must I follow in submitting a 602 appeal?
1. For submitting an initial 602 administrative appeal, you have 30 days to appeal after the event or decision occurs, or after having first knowledge about the action or decision being appealed;
2. If you get an unsatisfactory response from Parole or CDCR to a 602 appeal, you have 30 days to submit a higher-level appeal.274
3. SPECIAL NOTE: There are special timelines and processes for submitting (1) emergency appeals, (2) appeals of involuntary psychiatric transfer, and (3) disability-related appeals.275 What timelines must CDCR/Parole follow in responding to my 602 appeal?

CDCR/Parole must respond to your 602 appeals within the following time limits:
1. Parole has 30 working days (from date of receipt by Appeals Coordinator) to complete and return to you a First Level Response to your 602 appeal.376
2. Parole has 30 working days (from date of receipt by Appeals Coordinator) to complete and return to you a Second Level Response to your 602 appeal.377
3. Parole has 60 working days (from date of receipt by Appeals Chief) to complete and return to you a Third Level Response to your 602 appeal.378

The only EXCEPTIONS for CDCR/Parole to take longer than this are if:
1. The parolee, staff, or witnesses are unavailable;
2. The complexity of the decision, action, or policy requires additional research;
3. It’s necessary to involve other agencies or jurisdictions in the appeal; or
4. A state of emergency279 requires CDCR and Parole to postpone “nonessential administrative decisions and actions, including normal time requirements for such decisions and actions.”380

IF THERE IS AN UNREASONABLE DELAY IN GETTING A FORMAL RESPONSE TO YOUR 602: Except for the Third Level of a 602 appeal, CDCR/Parole must provide you in writing with (1) an explanation of the reasons for the delay, and (2) an estimated completion date, and these explanations must be given to you within the time limits above.381 SO IF YOU DON’T GET A FORMAL WRITTEN RESPONSE to your 602 and never got notified in writing about the delay, then the appeals process is exhausted, and you can raise your issue in court by filing a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the superior court of the county of your parole (See PG. 312 to learn how).

Keeping the timelines for 602 appeals in mind, you can challenge the length of your parole period by following the steps on the next page.

380 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3084.8(d).
381 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3084.8(e).
STEP 1: Submit two forms at the same time: (1) First, submit CDCR Form 22 to your parole agent, requesting an interview to discuss the issue, and (2) Submit a CDCR Form 602 appeal to the Regional Appeals Coordinator at the same time.

To challenge the length of your parole, you will need to file a CDCR Form 22 (with your parole agent) and a CDCR Form 602 (with your Regional Appeals Coordinator) at the same time. Be sure to attach a copy of the Form 22 to the Form 602 appeal; and vice versa, attach a copy of the Form 602 to the Form 22 request.

- SUBMIT FORM 22: To challenge the length of your parole (your CDD, MDD, or PDD), you will need to file a CDCR Form 22, “Request for Interview, Item or Service” with your parole agent. You can get this Form 22 from any parole field office (see Appendix I, PG. 308 for an example, but always ask for the most current version of any CDCR form). If you don’t already know it, you can find your local parole office’s address online at: http://www.cdc.gov/Parole/Public_Officers_and_Regional_Offices/. Click on the Region where you are located for a full list of parole offices and addresses in that region. You can also deliver the Form 22 in person to your parole agent at your parole office.

Your parole agent has 3 working days from the time he or she receives your Form 22 request to return the original and a copy of the form to you with a response. In the response, your parole agent must: (1) note his or her decision on the form, (2) sign and date the form, and (3) retain a copy for his or her own records.

- SUBMIT FORM 602: At the same time, you should submit a formal administrative appeal using CDCR Form 602 (see Appendix J, PG. 309 for a blank Form 602 for your reference, but always ask your parole officer for the most current version of any CDCR form) to your Regional Appeals Coordinator. (See Appendix D on PG. 296 for a list of Regional Appeals Coordinators to see who and where you should send your appeal.)

Send your completed CDCR Form 602, with all supporting documents listed on the Form 602 and enclosed with the form. As supporting document, you MUST include both a copy of your CDCR Form 1515 AND a copy of your CDCR Form 22 with your 602 appeal.

WARNING: If you send a Form 602 appeal to Regional Appeals Coordinator before filing a more informal Form 22 with your parole agent, the Appeals Coordinator may screen out your 602 for not having first submitted a Form 22 (Parole’s reasoning is that they want parolees to try and solve these issues informally with their parole agent before a formal appeal is processed). So long as you file the Form 22 and Form 602 at the same time, your 602 appeal should not be screened out because parole agents must respond to the Form 22 requests faster than the Appeals Coordinator has to respond to your Form 602 appeal.

382 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3084.6(e)(2).
383 CDCR Form 22, “Request for Interview, Item or Service” is not available online. You should request the most current version from your parole agent. A version is included in Appendix I, PG. 189, for your reference or use.
384 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3086(e)(4).
385 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3086(b)(4).
386 15 CAL. CODE REGS. §§ 3084.2; 3084.3
STEP 2: You should receive a response to your 602 within 30 working days (don’t count state holidays or weekends). If CDCR denies your 602 appeal at the First Level of Review, you must continue to pursue the administrative appeals process THROUGH ALL 3 LEVELS OF REVIEW before filing a case in court.

There are special rules for processing 602 appeals concerning miscalculation of your parole discharge date. First level review will be done by the records office staff. If the appeal is denied at the first level, you can request second level review, which will consist of a “computation review hearing.” Unless you waive (give up) your rights, you should be notified at least 24 hours in advance of the date and time of the hearing. At the end of the hearing, you must be given a copy of the hearing decision on a CDCR Form 1033. If the appeal is denied, or you are dissatisfied with the decision, you can submit the appeal to the CDCR Appeals Chief as normal for third level review.

STEP 3: Finally, if you exhaust (complete) all three levels of the 602 administrative appeals process, you can continue to challenge the calculation of your parole length (or any other parole condition) by filing a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the superior court of the county of your parole. See the next question, and Appendix K, PG. 312 to learn how!

REAL-LIFE PRACTICE TIP FOR 602 APPEALS

In real-life practice, the formal written response to a 602 appeal will often not get back to the parolee who filed it. Sometimes the formal response is sent to a parole agent, who doesn’t hand it over to the parolee. If you are not physically sent or handed a WRITTEN formal response to your Form 602 appeal (which is different and separate than the written response from your parole agent to a Form 22 request), then this is NOT considered an answer or formal response under law—because it was never given/sent to you. After 30 working days are up, you can try calling your parole agent to find out where the formal response to your 602 is and request a copy be sent to you immediately, but if you are still not given anything after an unreasonable amount of time has passed, then you have exhausted (completed) the administrative appeals process and can file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus (or file a second 602 appeal about the delay). See PG. 156 for detailed information about what to do if you don’t hear back within the legal time limits. Please note: A short delay is unlikely to be seen as “exhausting” the administrative appeals process—for example, a few days or a week late, or a mistake that was immediately fixed by handing you a copy when you asked—but if a month or more has passed, this looks more like an unreasonable delay and is likely to be considered exhaustion, allowing you to take the case to state court.

390 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3084.9(d)(3).
IMPORTANT!

WHAT CAN I DO IF CDCR/ PAROLE IS BREAKING THE LEGAL TIME LIMITS FOR RESPONDING TO MY 602 APPEAL?

Unfortunately, it often happens that the CDCR Regional Appeals Coordinator office will not get back to you with a written formal response to your 602 appeal within the timelines required by law. Make sure to ask your parole agent and parole agent's supervisor for the formal response to your 602 appeal at any of the three levels of review. If you still do not receive a written FORMAL RESPONSE in person or by mail after asking, you can:

(1) File another 602 appeal, noting CDCR and Parole’s failure to return a formal response to your 602 appeal within the timelines required by law.

(2) File a state petition for a writ for habeas corpus in your local California State Superior Court—stating in the petition that because CDCR/Parole Department didn’t send you a formal response to your 602 appeal within the legal timelines, you’ve exhausted (completed) the only administrative appeals process available to you.

(3) As a more informal action, and to help create a record of what is happening with your original 602, you should:

→ Call the Regional Appeals Coordinator office requesting a formal response to your 602 be sent to you (and document these phone calls); AND

→ Write and send a dated and signed letter to the Regional Appeals Coordinator where you sent the original 602, noting CDCR and Parole’s failure to return a formal response to your 602 appeal within the timelines required by law; AND

→ Similarly, write and send a dated and signed letter directly to the parole field office where you report, with attention to your parole agent and your parole agent’s supervisor, noting CDCR and Parole’s failure to return a formal response to your 602 appeal within the timelines required by law. In the letter you should include:
  • Your full name;
  • Your CDC number under your name;
  • A brief explanation of what issues your original 602 appeal was all about. Be sure to include the date that a formal response to your 602 appeal was due back to you; explain what level you are at in the 602 appeals process; and how much time has passed since your formal response was due back to you. You may also want to state any additional facts about the 602 appeal that you believe are relevant; AND
  • A copy of your original 602 appeal, if you have one, as evidence of your appeal.

Why is this suggested?

It is always better to have any problems that occur with the appeals process PUT INTO WRITING in a letter to the parole office, rather than just have verbal conversations about CDCR/Parole’s failure to respond with the legal timelines.

Where do you send your letter?

(1) Send the first letter to your parole agent and the agent’s supervisor directly to your parole office where you report. Please visit parole’s website at: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/Parole/Public_Officers_and_Regional_Offices/ to find the address of your local parole office, if you don’t already know it. Click on the Region where you are located for a full list of parole offices and addresses in that region.

(2) Sent the second letter to the Regional Appeals Coordinator to the office address where you sent your original 602. As of now, it will be one of the following addresses, depending on which region of parole you are located in:

Northern Region Parole, Appeals Coordinator
9825 Goethe Road, Ste. 200
Sacramento, CA 95827-2572

Coordinator Southern Region Parole, Appeals
21015 Pathfinder Road Ste. 200
Diamond Bar, CA 91765
I filed a Form 602 Administrative Appeal about my parole length, and was denied at all three levels of review, or it is way past when a formal response was due to me but I never got one. Now that I have “exhausted” (completed) the administrative appeals process, how do I file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus?

If you have gone through all three levels of the 602 administrative appeals process OR it is way past the deadline for receiving a response from CDCR/Parole to your 602 appeal, then you have exhausted (completed) the administrative appeals process and you can now file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the county of your parole.391

Through a habeas corpus proceeding, an incarcerated person or someone on parole can ask a court to order “injunctive relief,” which means you ask a judge to order that prison or parole officials DO something or STOP DOING something. For example, a court could order parole officials to drop an illegal parole condition OR to fix a parole term length miscalculation. For more detailed information on how to file a habeas corpus petition, see Appendix K, PG. 312.

GETTING OFF STATE PAROLE

CAN I GET OFF STATE PAROLE EARLY?

It depends—THIS IS USUALLY AN OPTION FOR PEOPLE, BUT IT IS AT THE DISCRETION OF PAROLE (WITH LIMITATIONS ON HOW THEY CAN MAKE THESE DECISIONS).

Most people have the legal right to a presumption that they should get off of parole early—this is called the presumptive discharge date or PDD. Learn more about PDDs on PG. 155.

Some people do not have a PDD under law BECAUSE OF THEIR commitment offense and when it occurred. See Appendix B, PG. 292, for a list of people who do not have PDDs under law.

If you have a PDD, different time periods apply to you and they are set by state law. Your PDD depends on the underlying commitment offense, and when the commitment offense occurred. The PDD periods can be found in California Penal Code Sections 3000, 3000.1, 3001.392 If you fit into more than one category, the longer period applies. See Appendix B, PG. 292, for a list of current PDD lengths.

WHAT SHOULD HAPPEN WHEN I REACH MY PRESUMPTIVE DISCHARGE DATE (PDD)?

If you are entitled to a PDD under law, then the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) must conduct a discharge review within 30 days of your PDD.\(^{393}\) At this hearing, BPH must decide whether to keep you on parole or let you off early based on your parole agent’s report (submitted to the BPH on CDCR Form 1502)\(^{394}\) recommending for or against keeping you on parole.\(^{395}\) Your parole agent will make his or her recommendation based on factors like:

1. Parole Adjustment: Whether or not you followed your parole conditions or were involved in any criminal behavior or activities. This includes whether your living situation and your employment, education, or vocational training were stable; your ability to be financially independent in the community; your compliance with special conditions of parole; your mental health status and compliance with any mental health treatment; and any gang involvement.

2. Restitution payment: The amount of your restitution balance, and any efforts to satisfy your restitution balance; and

3. Criminal History: Your compliance with any conviction-related registration requirements (for example, sex offense, arson, gang-related, or drug-related registration requirements—refer to the chart on PG. 150)\(^{396}\); whether your commitment offense or other past convictions were serious or violent;\(^{397}\) whether you used a weapon or possessed a firearm during your commitment offense.\(^{398}\)

What can I do if CDCR or parole staff makes a mistake in the report?

If your parole agent (or any other Parole or CDCR staff) makes a “mistake of fact” in the report to the BPH recommending whether or not you should be kept on parole, you can file a CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal challenging the mistake.\(^{399}\) See the steps for filing a 602 administrative appeal above on PG. 156. However, if you want to directly challenge the BPH decision (since there was no mistake in parole’s report, but you still think there wasn’t good cause to keep you on parole), you do not need to file a 602 appeal.\(^{400}\) Please see PG. 163 below for more information about how to challenge a BPH action.

If the reviewers of your 602 appeal find that there was a significant mistake in your parole agent’s report to the BPH and that mistake led to you being kept on parole past your PDD, they can change the recommendation and ask the BPH to reconsider its decision and discharge you from parole.\(^{401}\)

WHAT ARE MY RIGHTS AT THE PRESUMPTIVE DISCHARGE (PDD) REVIEW PROCESS?

You have the right to see a written record of BPH’s decision of whether or not to keep you on parole. The BPH must make a written record of its decision, and must send a copy of that decision to you.\(^{402}\) If it is more than 30 days past your PDD and you did not receive written notice of the BPH’s decision, you may be entitled to IMMEDIATE DISCHARGE FROM PAROLE if the BPH failed to make a decision in your case. See PG. 163 below for more information.

DO I HAVE A RIGHT TO APPEAR AT THE PDD REVIEW BEFORE THE BOARD OF PAROLE HEARINGS (BPH)?

No. You do not have a right to personally appear at the BPH review.\(^{403}\) But, if CDCR staff makes a “mistake of fact”\(^{404}\) (see definition on PG. 161 in the report that goes to BPH, then you can file a CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal asking for reconsideration, and clarifying the mistake that has been made.\(^{405}\) See the steps for filing a 602 appeal on PG. 156.

ON WHAT BASIS CAN THE BPH DECIDE TO KEEP ME ON PAROLE PAST MY PDD INSTEAD OF LETTING ME OFF EARLY?

The BPH must have “good cause” to retain you (keep you) on parole past the presumptive discharge date (PDD), if you are entitled to one.\(^{406}\) The law sets out broad factors that give parole “good cause” to keep someone on parole—such as the original crime, in-prison behavior, and parole adjustment (defined on PG. 161 above).\(^{407}\) At this time, there are no published legal cases challenging a BPH finding of good cause for keeping someone on parole past his or her PDD, so unfortunately there isn’t much legal guidance. If you are in the situation of challenging a finding of good cause, it may help for you to show the BPH as much evidence as possible that you have adjusted well to parole, followed all of your parole conditions, been making efforts to pay off your restitution, complied with any registration requirements, and made significant efforts to turn your life around (both in prison and after release) since your commitment offense (including documentation of any employment, education or training, certificates for completing programs that helped you improve yourself or learn new skills, etc.).

WHAT HAPPENS IF THE BPH DECIDES TO CONTINUE MY PAROLE?

If the BPH decides to continue your parole past the PDD, you will be reviewed for possible discharge each year until your maximum discharge date (MDD) is reached.\(^{408}\) At these annual review dates, you will remain on parole unless the BPH affirmatively acts to discharge you.\(^{409}\)

CAN I APPEAL THE BPH’S DECISION TO KEEP ME ON PAROLE PAST MY PDD? WHERE CAN I LOOK FOR ARGUMENTS TO SUPPORT MY APPEAL?

Yes. Since you are challenging a decision by the BPH, and not by parole, you do NOT need to file a 602 appeal—you can challenge the BPH decision directly in state court.

If there was not a mistake in parole’s report/recommendations to the BPH, but you still want to challenge the BPH’s decision to keep you on parole past your PDD because you don’t think they had a good reason to keep you on parole, then there is no administrative appeals process for challenging the BPH’s decision to retain you. Instead you will skip the appeals process and go straight to filing a state writ of habeas corpus in the state superior court where your parole is located to challenge the BPH’s decision to keep you on parole past the PDD.

WHAT HAPPENS IF I DON’T GET NOTICE OF A BPH DECISION WITHIN 30 DAYS AFTER MY PDD?

It depends on why you didn’t get the notice. There are two possibilities:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>IT HAS BEEN MORE THAN 30 DAYS SINCE MY PRESumptive DIScharge DATE (PDD), AND NO RESPONSE FROM BPH ABOUT WHETHER I AM DISCHARGED FROM PAROLE. WHAT NEXT?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>POSSIBILITY #1: If you didn’t get the notice because the BPH didn’t hold a hearing at all within 30 days following your PDD.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>If your situation falls under this first possibility, then you should be automatically discharged. The law states that unless the BPH acts to retain a person on parole after PDD, the parolee “shall” be discharged from parole. This means that parole ends automatically if the BPH fails to take action to retain the person on parole. So, if there is no decision to retain you within 30 days after your PDD, you should be discharged from parole immediately. If it’s more than 30 days past your PDD, file a CDCR Form 22 with your parole agent and a CDCR Form 602 appeal with your parole region’s Appeals Coordinator to resolve this. For the steps on how to file these forms and start the appeals process, see the steps on PG. 178.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>POSSIBILITY #2: If the BPH held a hearing and decided to retain you on parole, but didn’t give you “notice” of their decision (meaning the BPH didn’t actually tell you their decision)</td>
</tr>
<td>If your situation falls under this second possibility, the lack of notice does not invalidate BPH’s decision to retain you on parole (meaning you will still be on parole), but you may still appeal the decision. If the BPH makes a decision to retain you on parole without giving you notice of that decision within the 30-day requirement under the law, you can file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus (see Appendix K, PG. 312 for steps on how to do this). The court may order BPH to provide you with a copy of the retention decision, which you can use to challenge BPH’s finding of good cause (through a writ of habeas corpus). See Appendix K, PG. 312 to learn how to file a writ of habeas corpus in state superior court.</td>

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO KNOW AND UNDERSTAND THE CONDITIONS OF MY PAROLE?

It is important to know and understand the conditions of your parole because if you violate any of the conditions of your parole, you may be arrested, incarcerated in a county jail, or returned to state prison, even if you are not convicted of a new crime. (See CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.08(c).

GENERAL CONDITIONS FOR EVERY PERSON ON STATE PAROLE:

The general conditions (rules) that apply to you and ALL people on state parole are the following:

- Unless other arrangements are approved in writing, you should report to your parole agent on the first working day following your release.
- You must inform your parole agent of your residence, employment, education, and/or training.
- You must report any change or anticipated change to your residence (the address where you live) before the change.
- You must inform your parole agent within 72 hours (3 days) of any change to your employment—including a change in job location, a change in your employer, or if you are terminated/fired/laid off from your job.
- You must comply with all of your parole agent’s instructions.
- You cannot travel more than 50 miles from your residence without your parole agent’s prior approval.
- You cannot leave your county of residence for more than 48 hours at a time.
- You cannot leave California without prior written approval of your parole agent.
- You cannot engage in any illegal activities (which includes any activities that would violate any state, federal, county, or municipal law). If you engage in illegal activity, even if you are not convicted of a crime, your parole may be revoked.
- If you are arrested for any felony or misdemeanor crime, you must inform your parole agent as soon as possible.
- You cannot own, use, possess, or have access to:
  - Any type of gun or ammunition
  - Any weapon;
  - Any knife with a blade longer than two inches, except kitchen knives (which must be kept only in the kitchen of your home) and knives related to your employment (which may be used and carried only in connection with your employment); or
  - A crossbow of any kind.
- Because you cannot own or have access to or control of any of these weapons/instruments, if you live with someone who has a gun, weapon, knife, or crossbow in your residence, you must make sure that the other person removes those items from the residence, or at least keeps the items locked in a place to which you don't have access.
- You must waive extradition to the State of California from any other state or the District of Columbia (Washington, D.C.). This means that you must give up the right to a formal procedure for returning you to California should you

419 This includes “any device which a reasonable person would believe to be capable of being used as a gun, or any ammunition which could be used in a gun.” In addition to CDCR Regulations that govern gun and weapon ownership while on parole, it is important for you to know that California law makes it a felony for any ex-felon to own, possess, or have custody or control of any firearm—even once you are off parole. Federal law also makes it a crime for an ex-felon to possess a firearm or ammunition that has been shipped or transported through interstate or foreign commerce. A certificate of rehabilitation (see PG. 34) does not restore the right to possess a firearm. In some cases, but not all, the right can be restored by a full pardon.
420 You may not own, use, possess, or have access to a weapon as defined in state or federal laws, or any device, which a reasonable person would believe to be capable of being used as a weapon.
leave the state and get arrested or taken into custody. In other words, you cannot challenge any effort by California to return you to the state.\footnote{CDCR, Notice and Conditions of Parole, \url{http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/Regulations/Adult_Operations/docs/NCDR/2014NCR/14-03/CDCR 1515.pdf}.}

- If another jurisdiction (another state) has lodged a “detainer” against you (meaning that other state has ordered you be held there), you may be released to the custody of that state, which means that California will let that other state take control over your supervision and detention temporarily.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 1389.}

However, if you are released from the other state’s custody before your California state parole would have ended, or if the other state decides not to hold you, you must immediately contact the nearest California state parole office for instructions on reporting to a parole agent.\footnote{CDCR, Notice and Conditions of Parole, \url{http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/Regulations/Adult_Operations/docs/NCDR/2014NCR/14-03/CDCR 1515.pdf}.}

- Almost no right against searches or seizures by a probation officer, a CDCR agent or officer, or any law enforcement/police officer. \textit{See the next question (PG. 166) for more detailed information about searches and seizures while you’re on parole.}

\section*{GENERAL CONDITION OF STATE PAROLE: LITTLE PROTECTION AGAINST INVASION OF PRIVACY, SEARCHES & SEIZURES}

Unfortunately, one of the conditions of parole is that you have almost no right against searches and seizures by parole officers or other law enforcement, but you DO have some. Since this is a very important issue in daily life, this section explains in detail what rights you DO have to privacy from law enforcement searches.

\section*{WHAT ARE MY RIGHTS TO PRIVACY OF MY PERSON, RESIDENCE, OR PROPERTY WHILE ON PAROLE?}

Unfortunately, you lose most of your constitutional rights against searches and seizures while you’re on parole. Generally speaking, for people OFF PAROLE, the government and law enforcement cannot unreasonably search you or your property or take things from you; and if they do search you illegally, it can’t be used as evidence against you in court.\footnote{Silverthrone Lumber Co. v. U.S., 251 U.S. 385 (1920).} BUT ON STATE PAROLE, you have very few rights when it comes to searches of your property, yourself, or your residence. If you are on state parole:

- You, your residence, and any property that you possess can be searched or seized (taken) by a probation officer, a CDCR agent or officer, or any other peace/police officer, at any time (day or night), with or without a search warrant, and with or without cause\footnote{See Samson v. California, 547 U.S. 843 (2006); U.S. v. Lopez (9th Cir. 2007) 474 F.3d 1208.}—even if other non-parolees live there with you.\footnote{People v. Schmitz, 55 Cal. 4th 909 (2012).}

- Officers can also search the passenger compartment of any car while you are a passenger, even if you are not the driver or owner of the car.\footnote{People v. Hunter, 140 Cal. App. 4th 1147, 1152-53 (2006).}

- If you are placed in custody pending parole revocation proceedings, parole agents and other law enforcement officers may search your property.\footnote{See Samson v. California, 547 U.S. 843 (2006); U.S. v. Lopez (9th Cir. 2007) 474 F.3d 1208.}

The U.S. Supreme Court has upheld these conditions, even though they would violate the constitutional rights of someone who is not on parole or not under criminal justice.\footnote{People v. Schmitz, 55 Cal. 4th 909 (2012).}
BUT—AND THIS IS A BIG BUT—A search of you, your residence, or your property that goes outside of the normal rules applied to all citizens CANNOT be justified if the officers who conducted the search did not know that you were on parole, or did not have “probable cause” to believe that you lived in the residence that was searched. With that being said, however, if a law enforcement or parole officer knows that you are on parole, the officer is allowed to assume that you are subject to a parole search condition, in which a search without a warrant, reasonable suspicion or probable cause, and without your consent are permitted, since this is a general condition that applies to all people on parole.

ARE THERE ANY ADDITIONAL LIMITATIONS ON SEARCHES WHILE I’M ON PAROLE?

Yes. Even when the officer knows or has probable cause to believe you are on parole, the one and only limit on parole searches is that such “searches must be no more intrusive than necessary for a legitimate interest in parole supervision.”

The courts have understood this to mean that parole searches must be constitutionally “reasonable”—meaning they cannot take place too often, at an unreasonable time of day, be unreasonably long, or be conducted in an “arbitrary or capricious” (unreasonable) manner. Searches cannot be motivated by the officer’s dislike of you, nor can they be used for non-legitimate law enforcement purposes (for example, to harass or embarrass you).

When conducting a parole search of your house, law enforcement officers must give you notice of the officers’ authority and the purpose in conducting the search prior to entering your house.

WHAT ACTION CAN/SHOULD I TAKE IF A PAROLE OR LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER CONDUCTS A SEARCH THAT I BELIEVE IS UNLAWFUL?

A person on parole has little recourse (very few legal remedies) when law enforcement officers conduct an unlawful search because evidence that is obtained through an unlawful search can still be admitted at a parole revocation hearing. Additionally, it is very rare for a court to even find that parole search was “unreasonable.”

If you believe that the search is unlawful, you should tell the attorney who is representing you. At a parole revocation hearing, you and your attorney will be notified of evidence used against you (see PG. 187 for information on parole revocation hearings).

433 People v. Constancio, 42 Cal. App. 3d 533 (1974); see also Parsley v. Superior Court, 9 Cal. 3d 934, 938.
IN SUM, WHILE YOU ARE ON PAROLE, OFFICERS CAN SEARCH YOU OR YOUR PROPERTY:

• WITHOUT your consent (your permission);
• WITHOUT a search warrant;
• WITHOUT “probable cause” or even reasonable suspicion that you violated parole.438

BUT...

In order to search you or your property, an officer must know or have a reason to know that you are on parole or some other type of supervision. In court cases on this issue, judges have said that a search may be illegal if the parole officer didn’t know or have reason to know the person being searched was on parole. However, any items that are taken (seized) during the search may still be used as evidence against you in a later court proceeding or in a revocation hearing.

Still, the search/seizure cannot be more intrusive than reasonable necessary.

If you believe that you were subject to an illegal search, or a search where an officer did not have knowledge that you were on parole, tell your attorney, contact a Public Defender’s officer for help, or contact Root & Rebound.

ADDITIONAL LAWS THAT APPLY TO ALL PEOPLE ON STATE PAROLE

In addition to general conditions, there are additional laws and restrictions on your civil rights that apply to all people on state parole. These rules won’t be listed on your CDCR Form 1515, “Notice and Conditions of Parole” (the form your parole agent gives you upon release), but they are just as important.

WHAT ARE OTHER LAWS & RESTRICTIONS THAT APPLY TO ME AND ALL PEOPLE ON STATE PAROLE?

Additional laws and restrictions that apply to you and all people on state parole are:

1) YOU CANNOT VOTE—In California elections, people who are on parole (who are currently incarcerated) are not allowed to vote in any elections. To learn more about voting rights in California, go to the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, PG. 70, to see a chart of who can vote based on the type of supervision they’re on.) In federal elections, the voting eligibility laws in the state where you live determine whether or not you have the right to vote if you have a felony convictions. Since these laws vary from state to state, if you ever move, you should look into the state’s voter requirements.

2) YOU CANNOT SERVE ON A JURY—If you have a felony conviction on your record, you cannot serve on a jury in California, even after you are off parole. Unfortunately, that means you will not be able to serve on a jury for the rest of your life if you have a felony on your record.

Is there any way to get back my right to serve on a jury?

Yes. You may be able to reduce the impact of your felony conviction(s), including restoring your right to serve on a jury in California. If you are legally allowed to you may:

1. Have your felony reduced to a misdemeanor (since misdemeanors don’t prevent you from serving on a jury in California); or
2. Apply for a Certificate of Rehabilitation and a Governor’s Pardon at the same time. If you receive the Governor’s Pardon, you can serve on a jury again.
3. Apply directly for a Governor’s Pardon, restoring your right to serve on a jury—and other civil rights—if it is granted. (See the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020, for more information.)

3) YOU CANNOT BE ON PRISON GROUNDS WITHOUT APPROVAL—In California, it is a crime for a former prisoner to be on prison grounds for any reason without prior approval of the warden. To get permission to visit, you must (1) get written approval from your parole officer and send it to the warden, along with a letter requesting the warden’s permission and a visiting questionnaire (CDCR Form 106, see Appendix M, PG. 318).

437 CAL. CONST. art. II, § 4; CAL. ELEC. CODE § 2150.
438 CAL. CODE CIV. PROC. § 203(a)(5). The California Supreme Court has upheld this restriction. See Rubio v. Superior Court, 24 Cal. 3d 93 (1979) (holding that there is no fundamental right to serve on a jury and that excluding ex-felons from juries does not violate the Equal Protection Clause because the prohibition is rationally related to the state goal of assuring impartial verdicts).
439 See CAL. PENAL CODE § 4853; CAL. CODE CIV. PROC. § 203(a)(5).
440 CAL. PENAL CODE § 4571.
441 15 CAL. CODE REGS. §§ 3172(c), 3172.1(b)(4)-(5).
GENERAL VS. SPECIAL CONDITIONS

Aside from the general conditions of parole, are there other special conditions that could be imposed on me?

Yes. There are discretionary special conditions that your parole officer can impose on you if they meet certain legal standards (see PG. 289). There are also mandatory special conditions that are imposed on certain individuals because California state law requires them to be imposed. Continue reading below for special conditions further explained.

SPECIAL (EXTRA) CONDITIONS OF STATE PAROLE: CONDITIONS THAT ONLY APPLY TO CERTAIN INDIVIDUALS ON PAROLE

Sometimes, people are given special conditions by the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) or their Parole Officer that add EXTRA limitations to their lives. This section explains when special conditions can be applied under law, and your rights!

WHO SETS THE SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE, AND HOW DO THEY DECIDE?

The California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) and individual parole agents can require you to follow certain additional, special conditions, which are special rules you must follow while you are on parole.444

If you are a “lifer” in California, or if you were released onto parole before July 1, 2013; or charged with a parole violation before July 1, 2013,445 then the BPH can also require you to follow certain additional, special parole conditions in those cases.

If you are not a “lifer,” County Superior Court judges are in charge of handling parole conditions and revocations of parole.446 County Superior Court judges may impose special parole conditions, but the special conditions must be reasonably related to (having to do with) the offense for which the person spent time in prison, or to the risk of each offender’s recidivism, and criminal history.447

CDCR imposes different supervision levels on you depending on whether you are classified as High Control, High Service, Control

DO YOU THINK THAT A SPECIAL PAROLE CONDITION IS VIOLATING YOUR LEGAL RIGHTS?

Go to PG. 178 to learn how to challenge a parole condition, which you can do either from prison or when you are out in the community.

CAN I ASK FOR MY SUPERVISION LEVEL TO BE REVIEWED/REDUCED?

Yes. Most parolees who complete 180 days of satisfactory parole will automatically be assigned to the “minimum supervision” category EXCEPT for people whose commitment offense is legally classified as “violent” (see CAL. PENAL CODE § 667.5); 290 registrants (see CAL. PENAL CODE § 290); people with cases that received a lot of media or public attention, and certain gang members (as documented on CDCR Form 812-A). If you are not one of the people who is automatically assigned to “minimum supervision” after 180 days of completing satisfactory parole, you can still request a reduction in supervision level by asking the unit supervisor, who can make a decision on a case-by-case basis. (CAL. PENAL CODE § 3504.)

445 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3053 et seq.
446 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b)(7).
447 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3454-55.
448 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3454(b).
Services, or Minimum Supervision (see the footnote below for more information about these four classifications). This impacts what special conditions are imposed on you. Your supervision level should be reviewed periodically to determine whether it should be changed.

It’s also important to know that victims and witnesses can also request special conditions, including no-contact provisions and/or that you are not paroled to the county where they live. Read more about the special conditions that relate to victims and witnessed on PG. 181. It’s also likely that BPH or CDCR will place a no-contact provision for crime partners, preventing you from contacting/seeing anyone who was your co-defendant in the criminal case.

Lastly, state law requires some special parole conditions for people convicted of certain types of offenses (these special conditions are called mandatory). Specifically, there are mandatory special conditions for “Sex Offenders” (see PG. 172 for more information) and mandatory special conditions for “Mentally Disordered Offenders” (see PG. 176 for more information).

WHAT ARE EXAMPLES OF COMMON SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF STATE PAROLE?

The most common special conditions for a person on state parole are:

1. You cannot drink alcohol;
2. You must submit to drug testing; or
4. GPS Devices—some people on parole will be required to wear GPS tracking devices (usually, ankle monitors). It is the CDCR’s policy to require GPS monitoring for:
   - Any parolee validated as a member or associate of a prison gang, street gang, or “disruptive group;”
   - Any parolee placed on “High Control” supervision;
   - Any parolee with a history of being unavailable for supervision, absconding (going missing), escalating parole violations, or other such factors indicating the parolee is likely to commit another crime; and
   - Any parolee required by the BPH to have a GPS monitoring condition.

Failure to keep the GPS device charged or wear it is a violation of mandatory conditions.

451 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3504; see also CDCR, Post-Release (County-Level) Community Supervision, http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/realignment/Post-Release-Community-Supervision.html. “High control” is the highest level of supervision, and it is based on the committed offense and prior criminal history. “High service” is a level of supervision based on service needs and behavioral patterns—this is primarily used for people requiring special assistance, such as individuals with severe mental or psychiatric problems. “Control services” is a level of supervision based on the committed offense and prior criminal history, or service needs and behavioral patterns that do not meet the specifications of “high control.” “Minimum supervision” is a level of supervision based on committed offense and prior criminal history, and services needed for behavioral patterns.

454 See CAL. PENAL CODE § 3053 et seq. For example, any parolee convicted of a sex offense while intoxicated or addicted to alcohol is barred from using alcohol. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3053.5. A parolee convicted of domestic violence must participate in counseling. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3053.2(e)(4).

455 CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 3004(a); 3000.07; 3010.8; 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3563.
WHEN WILL I FIND OUT THE CONDITIONS OF MY PAROLE, AND IF ANY EXTRA (SPECIAL) CONDITIONS HAVE BEEN ADDED?

• WHILE INCARCERATED:

  You should find out about the conditions of your parole at least 45 days before your release: your correctional counselor should provide you with this information in a CDCR Form 1515, “Notice and Conditions of Parole.” You will be asked to sign the Form 1515. You will also be given a copy of Form 1515 for you to keep upon your release.

  If possible, even if you don’t agree with a special condition given to you in the CDCR Form 1515, it is usually best for you to sign Form 1515 and comply with the conditions while at the same time taking the steps necessary to challenge any disputed condition. If you don’t sign the form, you might not get out of prison until the matter is resolved.

• ONCE YOU’RE RELEASED:

  When you are out and you first meet with your parole agent, your parole officer should give you a copy of your Form 1515 to keep and should explain ALL of the general and special conditions of your parole. It is important that you fully understand your parole conditions. If you do not understand your parole conditions, ask your parole agent to clear up and answer your questions or concerns.

  If your parole officer doesn’t present you with the Form 1515 in your first meeting, you should ask him or her to do so. Again, it is very important that the parole agent explains to you your conditions of parole, and if they do not, you should ask them to.

AM I LEGALLY PROTECTED FROM HAVING CERTAIN UNFAIR EXTRA (SPECIAL) CONDITIONS IMPOSED ON ME?

Yes. A parole condition is invalid if it fails one of the following 4 legal tests:

TEST 1: A parole condition is invalid if it:

1. Has no relation to the commitment offense;
2. Bars conduct that is not in itself criminal; and
3. Requires or forbids conduct that is not reasonably related to future criminal conduct or activities.

You must show that the condition does not meet any of the 3 factors.

For example, courts have held that if a parolee has no history of alcohol abuse or committing crimes while intoxicated, alcohol testing cannot be imposed as a condition of parole because using alcohol is not illegal and the condition would not relate to the parolee’s past criminal conduct or future criminality.

TEST 2: A parole condition is invalid if it:
1. Infringes on (violates) a constitutional right AND
2. Is broader than necessary to promote public safety or rehabilitation.

TEST 3: A parole condition may be invalid if it is excessively broad or so vague that it cannot be understood and followed.

For example, a parole condition prohibiting a parolee from associating with certain groups of people must include a requirement that the parolee knows or should know that any given individual is part of the prohibited group.

TEST 4: A parole condition is invalid if it limits the type of employment you can have, but does not directly relate to the parolee’s crime.

For example, a parole condition that forbids you from becoming a salesperson because you were previously convicted of fraud for bouncing a check.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS FOR SEX OFFENDERS

IF I MUST REGISTER AS A SEX OFFENDER, WHAT ARE THE ADDITIONAL MANDATORY CONDITIONS OF MY PAROLE?

The following are the mandatory conditions of parole imposed on sex offenders:

1) REQUIREMENT TO REGISTER!—Any person required to register as a sex offender, who “willfully” (intentionally) decides not to register, is guilty of a new criminal charge for failure to register as a sex offender. If you were originally convicted of a misdemeanor, then the new charge for failure to register will also be a misdemeanor. If you were originally convicted of a felony, the new charge for failure to register will be a felony. You must register with the local chief of police (or with the county sheriff if your city doesn’t have a local police department).

468 CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.018(b).
469 CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.018(b).
470 CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.46.
2) GPS TRACKER—Any person on parole who is required to register as a sex offender must wear a GPS tracking device (usually an ankle bracelet) while on parole.\(^{471}\)

3) RESIDENCY RESTRICTIONS—There are strict residency restrictions on all parolees who are required to register as sex offenders under California Penal Code § 290 (“290 registrants”). If required to register as a sex offender, you cannot reside within 2,000 feet of any school or park where children regularly gather.\(^{472}\) The CDCR may also be able to impose other residency restrictions as special conditions of parole in individual cases based on specific case factors.\(^{473}\)

4) REQUIREMENTS FOR TRANSIENTS—If you are required to register as a sex offender, you must re-register every year, within five business days of your birthday, with the chief of police in the city where you live (or with the county sheriff if there is no city police department).\(^{474}\)

---

IMPORTANT! If you are not living in one place (for example, if you don’t have a stable place to live and/or are homeless), then parole considers you “transient,” and you must register with the chief of police in whatever city you are physically present in on that date (or with the county sheriff if there is no city police department). If you move to a new city, you must inform the chief of police (or county sheriff if there is no city police department) in the city where you have relocated.\(^{475}\) If you don’t have a stable place to live, you should re-register AT LEAST EVERY 30 DAYS with the chief of police in the city where you are currently present (or with the county sheriff if there is no city police department), no matter how long you have been physically present in that city.\(^{476}\)

---

\(^{471}\) Cal. Penal Code § 3004(b). The statute says that § 290 registrants must be monitored by GPS “for life,” but no law enforcement agency is designated to do such monitoring once parole has ended and no punishment is authorized. Also, the GPS requirement does not apply to persons who were both convicted and released from custody prior to November 8, 2006. Doe v. Schwarzenegger, 476 F. Supp. 2d 1178 (E.D. Cal. 2007); Doe v. \(^{472}\) Cal. Penal Code § 3003.5(b). This rule applies to any sex offender released on parole on or after November 8, 2006, even if the most recent term was for a non-sex offense or the parolee was initially released before November 8, 2006, and later re-released after a parole revocation. In re E.J., 47 Cal. 4th 1258 (2010). However, the residency restrictions cannot be applied to people who were both convicted and released from custody prior to November 8, 2006. Doe v. ARE THERE ANY EXCEPTIONS TO THESE MANDATORY SPECIAL PAROLE CONDITIONS FOR REGISTERED SEX OFFENDERS?

Yes, there are 2 exceptions:

1. Parole agents are supposed to make exceptions if you are mentally ill and are either living in a licensed mental health facility or need medical care in a licensed mental health facility.\(^{157}\)

2. If you are homeless, you may stay at such locations as bridges, encampments, and bus stops that are closer than 2,000 feet to a school or park, but you must keep your parole agent informed of your whereabouts.\(^{478}\) In addition, if you are homeless, you may stay temporarily at an address without establishing “residency” if the stay is for approved work, receiving medical services, or conducting legitimate business (i.e. working or completing a task at a licensed business, professional, or government building).\(^{155}\)

IN RE TAYLOR—PROP 83 CHALLENGES

The “Proposition 83” residency restriction on where people convicted of certain sex offense can live was challenged as being so unreasonable, vague, and overbroad that it violates constitutional rights.\(^{480}\) Parolees throughout the state challenged the residency restrictions. In a number of counties, judges granted individual parolees temporary relief (excusing them from following that law, and allowing them to live in more places in the county).\(^{481}\)

In March 2015, the California Supreme Court decided that certain residency restrictions are unconstitutional as applied to all sex offender parolees in San Diego County.\(^{482}\) The Court decided that CDCR may still force conditions on individual sex offenders on a case-by-case basis.\(^{483}\) We do not know whether the Taylor ruling will be interpreted as applying only to San Diego County or throughout the state of California. However, there appear to be strong arguments that the § 3003.5(b) residency restrictions are at least unconstitutional as applied in other counties where there is very little affordable Proposition 83-compliant housing available to parolees.\(^{484}\)

If you are required to register as a sex offender on parole, and learn about the registry restriction court challenges in your county, you should contact the Public Defender’s office to find out the status of local challenges.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS FOR MENTALLY DISORDERED OFFENDERS (MDOs)

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE CLASSIFIED AS A MENTALLY DISORDERED OFFENDER (MDO)—AND WHAT ARE THE MANDATORY SPECIAL CONDITIONS PLACED ON MDOs ON STATE PAROLE?

“Mentally disordered offenders” (MDOs) are people who the California Department of Corrections (CDCR) has determined must receive inpatient treatment from the Department of State Hospitals (DSH) as a condition of their parole.

To be committed as an MDO on parole, you must:
(1) Be diagnosed with a serious mental illness that causes you to pose a substantial danger of physical harm to others, AND
(2) Have been sentenced to prison for an offense involving violence.

WHO DETERMINES WHETHER A PERSON ON PAROLE IS CLASSIFIED AS AN MDO, AND WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR MAKING THIS DECISION?

There are several steps to the MDO determination process by CDCR:

STEP 1: First, CDCR mental health staff and a DSH psychologist or psychiatrist must screen you for classification as an MDO while you’re in prison.

STEP 2: If both agree that you qualify as an MDO, the CDCR will send certification papers to the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) stating that you have been found to be an MDO.

STEP 3: The BPH then notifies the prisoner that he or she will have to undergo DSH inpatient treatment as a condition of parole. The BPH also MUST notify the prisoner of his or her right to challenge the MDO finding.

CAN I CHALLENGE AN MDO DETERMINATION? IF SO, WHAT IS THE PROCESS?

Yes. You can challenge the MDO finding by requesting a hearing before the BPH.

If you challenge the finding, the BPH MUST do the following:
1. Have you evaluated by two independent mental health professionals, AND
2. Must hold a hearing in front of a BPH commissioner. At this hearing, the State of California must prove by a preponderance of the evidence (that it is more likely than not) that you are a Mentally Disordered Offender—again, that you are both (1) diagnosed with a serious mental illness that causes you to pose a substantial danger of physical harm to others AND (2) were

---

485 The DSH was formerly known as the Department of Mental Health (DMH).
486 Cal. Penal Code § 2962. The definition of a crime involving violence under Cal. Penal Code § 2062(e) is broader than the definition of violent felonies in Cal. Penal Code § 667.5(c).
489 15 Cal. Code Regs. § 2573(c).
sentenced to prison for an offense involving violence. If you want a lawyer at the hearing, the state must provide you one for free.\textsuperscript{493}

If, at this hearing, the BPH commissioner determines that you are an MDO, and you want to challenge that finding, you can file a petition in the local superior court to demand a jury trial. The BPH must provide a prisoner who requests a trial with two things: (1) a petition form and (2) instructions for filing the petition. At trial, you have the right to an attorney for free and the district attorney will represent the State. The district attorney has the burden of proving “beyond a reasonable doubt” that you met the criteria of being classified as an MDO.\textsuperscript{493}

IF I AM FOUND TO BE AN MDO, AND I WANT TO BE SEEN AS AN OUTPATIENT, IS THAT POSSIBLE?

It might be possible. The normal rule is that if you are found to be an MDO on parole, you must be placed in inpatient treatment (confined to a state hospital to live and receive mental health treatment)—unless the Department of State Hospitals (DSH) finds that you can be treated safely as an outpatient.\textsuperscript{494}

However, after 60 days in DSH custody, you can request a hearing in front of a BPH commissioner to ask for outpatient status as an MDO (where you live in the community but go to a mental health hospital for treatment).\textsuperscript{495} At the hearing, the DSH must show by “a preponderance of the evidence” (that it is more likely than not) that you require inpatient treatment.\textsuperscript{496} At this hearing before the BPH, you have the right to a free appointed attorney (called a Panel Attorney)\textsuperscript{497} and the appointment of two independent evaluators, and you may appeal the decision in County Superior Court (see below for more information).\textsuperscript{498}

IF I AM FOUND TO BE AN MDO, WHEN AND HOW OFTEN IS MY MDO STATUS REVIEWED?

The Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) must review your status as an MDO when you reach your presumptive discharge date (PDD) (the date under state law that you should be discharged early from parole if the BPH doesn’t find a good reason to keep you: see PG. 155 to learn more about PDDs), and decide whether or not it recommends that you continue in your MDO inpatient placement or be discharged.\textsuperscript{499} If the BPH recommends that you continue in your MDO placement, it MUST hold re-commitment proceedings similar to the original MDO commitment procedures (see PG. 176 for information about the initial MDO classification process that happens in prison before your release).\textsuperscript{500} An MDO who is re-committed multiple times could end up serving his or her entire time on parole in a DSH hospital.\textsuperscript{501} Before being re-committed, you’ll receive a written form notifying you of the decision.\textsuperscript{502}

CAN THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE HOSPITALS (DSH) HOLD ME BEYOND MY MAXIMUM DISCHARGE DATE (MDD)?

Possibly. If you are classified as an MDO and reach your parole’s maximum discharge date (MDD) (The MDD is the maximum parole term as set by statute, after which the parolee must be discharged see PG. 155), the DSH can seek to continue the mental health commitment (meaning you have to stay in inpatient treatment) for 1 more year. 503

If your MDO commitment is continued for an additional year, the DSH can continue to seek re-commitment every year. 504 If the DSH seeks to continue your MDO commitment, the district attorney (prosecutor) will argue on behalf of DSH/the State. You will also be appointed an attorney and a jury trial in county Superior Court. At the trial, the district attorney must prove that you still meet the MDO criteria—that you are still both: (1) diagnosed with a serious mental illness that causes you to pose a substantial danger of physical harm to others AND (2) were sentenced to prison for an offense involving violence. 505

HOW TO CHALLENGE STATE PAROLE CONDITIONS

HELPFUL HINT

It’s suggested that you sign the Form 1515, and then challenge the condition later. Don’t refuse to sign!

First, while you can and should challenge a condition of parole that you believe is unlawful, it is usually best for you to sign the “Notice and Conditions of Parole” (CDCR Form 1515, see example of this form in Appendix G, PG. 302) and comply with them while taking the steps necessary to challenge the disputed condition. Otherwise you may end up having to spend additional time in custody while the matter is being resolved.

HOW COULD I CHALLENGE A CONDITION OF PAROLE THAT I BELIEVE IS UNLAWFUL AND INVALID?

• IF THE CONDITION WAS PUT ON YOU BY BPH:

If you want to challenge a BPH decision or parole condition set by BPH, you do not need to file any administrative appeal UNLESS the issue involves a disability. This is because the BPH has no general administrative appeal process, so you can immediately challenge a BPH decision by filing a state petition for writ of habeas corpus in the Superior Court in the county of your parole.

Again, to learn when & how to file a state petition for writ of habeas corpus, see Appendix K, PG. 312, at the end of this chapter.

• IF THE CONDITION WAS PUT ON YOU BY PAROLE:

STEP 1: APPEAL THE CONDITION:

To challenge a parole condition, you generally must start by filing a CDCR Form 22, “Request for Interview, Item, or Service,” (see sample in Appendix I, PG. 308) and an administrative appeal, on CDCR Form 602. It’s best to file the Form 22 at the same time as the Form 602 appeal because the Appeals Coordinator may screen out a formal 602 appeal if you do not first submit a Form 22.506

The 602 administrative appeal may solve the problem, but even if it does not, courts usually will not consider a lawsuit challenging a CDCR decision unless the parolee has “exhausted administrative remedies.”507 Once you get a response, you should file the first level of 602 administrative appeal and go through all three levels of appeal, if necessary.

There are some circumstances in which you may bring a court challenge without first filing an administrative appeal. These include situations where:

506 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3084.6(e)(2).
• There is no administrative remedy (for example, because the condition is required by a state law);
• An administrative appeal would not give you any relief; OR
• Delay could cause you irreparable harm such as risk of serious injury.508

STEP 2: If your complete Step One and your 602 appeal is denied, you can then file a state writ of habeas corpus.

WHEN? You may consider filing a writ of habeas corpus when authorities or state officials have violated the federal Constitution or statutes or California’s Constitution, statutes, or regulations.

HOW? See Appendix K, PG. 312 to learn how to file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

OTHER RESOURCES TO HELP YOU: A state court habeas form and more information about state habeas cases can be found in the Prison Law Office’s State Habeas Corpus Manual. The manual can be obtained for FREE by writing to the Prison Law Office (at General Delivery, San Quentin, CA 94964) or by visiting its website at: http://www.prisonlaw.com/pdfs/STATEHABEAS2008.pdf.

HOW COULD I CHALLENGE A PAROLE CONDITION THAT IS A PROBLEM FOR ME BECAUSE OF A DISABILITY THAT I HAVE?

If you cannot satisfy a parole condition because of a disability that you have, or if the parole condition is unfair to you because of your disability, the steps to challenge that condition are different than the appeals process discussed on PG. 178. To challenge a parole condition related to a disability that you have, you will first want to figure out which agency put the condition on you—Parole or the BPH—because the steps for challenging it are different depending on who put the condition in place.

IF THE CONDITION WAS PUT ON YOU BY PAROLE: You should file a CDCR Form 1824 Request (NOT a Form 22 and Form 602 appeal) (see a sample copy of that form in Appendix Q, PG. 326). See the section on “DISABILITIES” below at PG. 184 to learn more about that procedure.

IF THE CONDITION WAS PUT ON YOU BY THE BOARD OF PAROLE HEARINGS (BPH): Normally you don’t need to file an appeal to challenge a parole condition that the BPH put on you, but it’s different if that condition relates to your disability or an accommodation that you need. To challenge a BPH condition related to your disability, you should fill out BPH Form 1074 “Request for Reasonable Accommodation,” (see a sample copy of that form in Appendix R, PG. 329), and send it to the BPH’s ADA Coordinator at:

BPH ADA COORDINATOR

1515 K Street, Suite 600
Sacramento, CA 95814

If the response from the BPH is unsatisfactory (doesn’t solve the issue), you can submit your appeal to the Second and Third levels of appeal.

Find the forms you need online here: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/BOPH/Inmates_w_Disabilities_Resource.html

IF YOU ARE UNSURE IF PAROLE OR THE BPH PUT THE CONDITION ON YOU:

Ask your parole agent if it was Parole or the BPH, and then follow the appeals process for challenging conditions related to your disability explained above.

TRANSFER LOCATIONS ON STATE PAROLE

In this section, you will learn how to request that your parole be transferred: from one county to another county, or from California to a different state. Keep reading to learn more!

I WANT TO TRANSFER MY PAROLE TO ANOTHER COUNTY. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

You can request a transfer to another California county while you are still incarcerated (recommended!) or after you are out and living in the community. If your transfer request is denied, you may challenge the denial by filing a 602 appeal (see above PG. 156).

HOW TO REQUEST WHILE YOU’RE INCARCERATED:

While you are still incarcerated in CDCR, it’s best to go to your correctional counselor to help you navigate your transfer request. You should ask him/her to submit a Transfer Investigation Request form (TIR). The correctional counselor will submit your TIR to the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH), which generally discusses it with the District Attorney responsible for your case, to make a final decision.

Try to work with the correctional counselor as much as possible. You should explain why being in a different county will help you be more successful living in the community. You should also provide supporting documents (such as letters from supportive family members, a doctor, a prospective employer) verifying the reasons that the transfer would be beneficial to your rehabilitation and reentry, and submit these supporting documents along with the correctional counselor’s Transfer Investigation Request (TIR) to the BPH.

The BPH could deny your request to transfer your parole to another county if:

1.) It believes denying your request will better protect the safety of the victim;
2.) It believes denying your request will better protect the public’s safety;
3.) You don’t have verified work or educational program in your requested county;
4.) You don’t have family/ a support stem in your requested county.

HOW TO REQUEST AFTER YOU ARE RELEASED:

You should submit a verbal or written request to your parole agent. We recommend a written request, and making a copy and keeping it in a safe place—just in case you don’t hear back and need to follow up and need a paper trail. There is no special form that you need to use for this request; your request can just be submitted as a standard dated letter. See the next question to learn about how your request should be processed by parole after it is received.

You should explain to your parole officer why being in a different county will help you be more successful living in the community. You should also provide supporting documents (such as letters from supportive family members, a doctor, or a prospective employer) verifying the reasons that the transfer would be beneficial to your rehabilitation and reentry.

HELPFUL TIP—REQUEST TRANSFER WHILE INCARCERATED:

If possible, you should make the request for transfer while you are still in prison—when the Release Program Study (CDCR Form 611) is being prepared. For more information about Form 611, the “Release Program Study,” see Appendix S PG. 332.

509 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003(b)(3)-(4).
510 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003(b). If you receive treatment pursuant to Penal Code section 2960—BPH may also deny your transfer request if your requested county doesn’t have the necessary outpatient treatment programs.
511 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003(b)(3)-(4).
What should my parole agent do after I submit a verbal or written request to transfer counties?

A parole agent who receives a transfer request should prepare a Transfer Investigation Request form (TIR) and submit it to the parole unit supervisor. The supervisor should then consider the following factors:

- Any need to protect the safety of the parolee, a victim, a witness, or other person;
- Any public concern that would reduce the chance that parole would be successfully completed;
- A verified work offer or an educational or vocational program;
- The existence of family with whom you have strong ties and whose support would increase the chance that you would successfully complete parole; and
- The presence or lack of any needed mental health treatment programs.

HELPFUL HINT

Because there is a limit on the number of “out-of-county” parolees who may be supervised in each county (meaning there’s a limit on transfers), once again, your request to transfer parole to another county in California may be denied even if some or all of these factors are favorable. It is best to put the strongest application possible forward, and to get as much support as you can, especially from your Parole Agent, correctional counselors, and anyone else you know working for the government—including judges, District Attorneys, Public Defenders, etc. It would also be great to get the support of leaders from the community you are hoping to transfer to.

I WANT TO TRANSFER PAROLE TO ANOTHER STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

First, some background: a legal agreement between all of the states called the Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision sets out the rules for transferring parole from one state to another (called “interstate parole transfer”). The Interstate Compact applies in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands. If you are classified as a sex offender, there are special rules that apply to you in requesting to transfer your parole to a different state (see PG. 183).

IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY INCARCERATED:

The earliest that California can send an interstate transfer request for you is 120 days before your expected release date (ERD) from prison. The receiving state is supposed to respond within 45 days of receiving a transfer request. The process can be sped up in an emergency.

512 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003(b).
513 CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 11180, 11181.
514 An Interstate Commission has developed rules for transfer eligibility and supervision. The Interstate Commission’s rules have the same effect as statutory law and are mandatory in the states that adopted them. All state officials and state courts must carry out the terms of the Compact and comply with these rules. To the extent that state statutes, rules, or policies conflict with the terms of the Compact or rules created by the Commission to carry out the Compact, then such statutes, rules, or policies are superseded by the Commission’s rules to the extent of any conflict. More Information on the Compact can be found at www.interstatecompact.org.
IF YOU ARE FORMERLY INCARCERATED:

If you are out and living in the community, you may request to transfer your parole to a new state if you meet basic eligibility requirements. Read about those requirements below, and follow these steps:

STEP 1: Generally speaking, you must meet the basic eligibility requirements to request to transfer your parole to a different state. The basic requirements are:

1) You have three or more months left to serve on parole at the time you submit your application to the state you wish to transfer to.
2) You have not had parole revoked and have no pending parole revocation charges.
3) You were previously a resident of the receiving state for at least 1 year OR you have family that lives in the state who are willing and able to assist you; and
4) You can obtain employment or have another means of support.

NOTE: Technically, if you do not meet these requirements, California and the state you wish to transfer to may still agree to transfer your parole if there is a very good reason ("good cause") to do so.518

STEP 2: Request the transfer. If you meet the eligibility requirements above, you must request a transfer verbally or in writing from your parole agent. Again, we suggest making a written request to have a paper trail, and making a copy of your request and keeping it in a safe place.

STEP 3: Your parole agent determines whether or not you meet the basic eligibility requirements.

STEP 4: Your parole agent must submit a Transfer Request to CDCR's California Interstate Compact Unit in Sacramento, CA for review.

STEP 5: If California approves the transfer, it will be sent to the receiving state for review. It is then up to the state you wish to transfer to whether or not to accept you for parole supervision.519

STEP 6: If approved by both California AND the state you wish to transfer to, you will then be transferred.520

SPECIAL RULES FOR SEX OFFENDERS TO TRANSFER PAROLE TO NEW STATE:

In addition to the rules laid out above, there are additional special rules for transferring states if you are registered as a Sex Offenders.521

STEP 1: To get the process started, you should talk to your correctional counselor (if you are still incarcerated) or your parole agent (if you are out on parole).

STEP 2: The parole agent should determine whether you meet the eligibility requirements.

STEP 3: If the requirements are met, the parole agent should submit a transfer application to the CDCR’s Interstate Compact Unit in Sacramento, CA.

STEP 4: If the CDCR approves the transfer application, the request will be sent to the receiving state.522

YOUR RIGHTS AS A PAROLEE WITH A DISABILITY

I HAVE A DISABILITY. WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE ON STATE PAROLE TO GET ACCOMMODATIONS FOR MY DISABILITY?

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and California state law\(^\text{523}\) protect you from discrimination due to your disabilities.\(^\text{524}\) There are specific rules and procedures that govern your rights (these apply to both prisoners AND parolees in California):

- The rules for parolees with physical disabilities (such as mobility, hearing, and vision disabilities) and learning disabilities are in the Armstrong Remedial Plan (January 3, 2001, amended December 1, 2010), § IV.S.
- The rules for parolees with developmental disabilities are in the Clark Remedial Plan (March 1, 2002), § VIII.

HOW WILL MY PAROLE OFFICER KNOW ABOUT MY DISABILITY & ANY ACCOMMODATIONS THAT I NEED?

Your correctional counselor in the prison must notify your parole agent about your disability and related special needs by giving information about your disability on CDCR Form 611, “Release Program Study” (see copy of form in Appendix S, PG. 329) and accompanying forms that explain the accommodations you will require (CDCR Form 1845 for physical disabilities (example in Appendix T, PG. 335) and CDCR Form 128C-2 for developmental disabilities (example in Appendix U, PG. 338). If the information about your disability is not on your Release Program Study (Form 611), tell your correctional counselor (if you’re still incarcerated) or your parole agent (if you’re out) about it. If, after you talk to your corrections counselor or parole agent, your disability is not being recorded and accommodated, file an appeal. The process for filing an appeal can be found below on PG. 185.

WHAT KINDS OF ACCOMMODATIONS MUST PAROLE MAKE FOR ME IF I HAVE A DISABILITY?

If you have a disability, parole staff must make the following accommodations:

1. First, parole staff must make sure that you receive “effective communication” during all orientations, interviews, and supervision meetings, and when you are notified of conditions of parole and registration requirements. This means that parole staff must provide any help necessary for you to understand the information that is being communicated. Examples include:
   - Assistance by a sign language interpreter for a hearing-impaired person;
   - Reading aloud of written materials for a vision-impaired person; or
   - Simplifying information for a developmentally disabled person.

\(^{523}\) CAL. GOV’T CODE § 11135 (2011).
\(^{524}\) 42 U.S.C. § 12131 et seq.
2. Second, parole staff must make reasonable changes to procedures so that you can receive services in a location that is accessible to you. For example:
   - If a disability makes it difficult for you to get to the parole office, the parole agent should meet you somewhere else, such as at your home.
   - If the parole agent refers you to community service such as a drug treatment center, job center, or literacy center, the parole staff should make sure that you can actually get to the programs and services offered.
   - If you are required to attend a program at the parole office (such as an outpatient clinic), that program must be accessible considering your special needs.

3. Third, if you are a prisoner who uses a wheelchair or other healthcare appliance (such as a cane, prosthesis, eyeglasses, or prosthetic eyes), you have the legal right to keep the device when you leave prison, even if the state provided you with the device.

4. Fourth, if you are transported somewhere while you are out on parole, the parole staff must consider all of your disability needs in determining the mode of transportation to use.

5. Lastly, if parole staff arrests you while you are on parole, they must take your disability into account in placing you under any physical restraints. For example:
   - If you need to use a cane, the parole agent should not cuff you behind your back.

IF PAROLE IS NOT ACCOMMODATING MY DISABILITY AND I FEEL I AM NOT GETTING FAIR TREATMENT OR EQUAL ACCESS TO PAROLE SERVICES OR PROGRAMS, WHAT CAN I DO?

There is a special CDCR appeals process if you are a person with a disability asking for fair treatment or asking to get access to parole services or programs. Follow these steps:

STEP 1: Fill out CDCR Form 1824 “Request for Modification or Reasonable Accommodation” (a yellow form, see Appendix Q, PG. 326). If you cannot fill out the form due to your disability, ask your parole agent, an advocate, or a friend or family member for help. All parole offices should have this form available. You do not need to request an informal review through Form 22 before filing a Form 1824 (as you do with a 602 appeal).

STEP 2: If you get a First Level response from parole denying your request, you can appeal to the Second Level by attaching the original CDCR Form 1824 (find a sample copy in Appendix Q, PG. 326) to a regular CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal (find a sample copy in Appendix J, PG. 309), filling out Section F of CDCR Form 602. Send both forms to the Regional Parole Administrator (See Appendix D, PG. 309 for their contact information).

STEP 3: If you get a Second Level response denying your request, you can send the appeal to the Third Level for review.

STEP 4: If you get a Third Level response denying your request, that means you have "exhausted" (completed) all three levels of the 1824 disability appeals process, and you can bring the issue to court by filing a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the superior court of the county of your parole. See Appendix K, PG. 312) to learn how! Find the necessary forms online here: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/BOPH/Inmates_w_Disabilities_Resource.html.

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE DURING A PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING TO ACCOMMODATE MY DISABILITY?

Under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), you have the legal right to reasonable accommodations during parole violation/revocation proceedings. Examples of accommodations include:

- Ensuring access to the hearing room for a parolee with mobility impairments;
- Providing Braille, taped documents, or reading assistance for a vision-impaired parolee;
- Providing assistance in communicating for a developmentally disabled parolee; OR
- Providing sign language interpretation for a hearing-impaired parolee.

Just like all other aspects of parole, the CDCR’s parole staff must use “effective communication” and provide reasonable accommodations when interacting with you. That means that they must use effective communication and provide reasonable accommodations when:

1) Arresting you;
2) Modifying your conditions of parole; or
3) Imposing sanctions like flash incarceration.

KEEP IN MIND:

If you are a disabled parolee who is having problems receiving help from parole staff, you can submit a CDCR Form 1824, “Request for Modification or Reasonable Accommodation,” (read more about this process on PG. 185 above). CDCR parole staff should also alert jail staff and the attorney appointed to you about what your needs are when revocation proceedings begin.

In the courtroom, your attorney and the court should be responsible for ensuring your needs are met throughout the court process.
STATE PAROLE VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS

Under AB 109, California’s “Realignment” law, there were major changes to the procedures required for California state parole revocations. These changes took effect on July 1, 2013. The new rules for revocation hearings laws are explained in this section.

WHAT WERE THE MAJOR CHANGES TO THE WAY THAT PAROLE REVOCATION HEARINGS WORK UNDER REALIGNMENT (AS OF JULY 1, 2013)?

1. CHANGE TO WHO HEARS THE CASE
The biggest change is that local county Superior Courts are now responsible for hearing most parole revocation cases. Before July 1, 2013, the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) was responsible for hearing all parole revocation cases, and now that responsibility has shifted to the courts for most cases. County Superior Court judges will be the ones hearing these cases in state court. One of the ideas behind this change was to create more transparency and fairness in parole revocation hearings—by having an independent, unbiased judge hear the case and weigh the evidence.

However, the BPH will continue to hear certain cases. The BPH will continue to hear:
- Parole consideration for lifers (also called “parole suitability hearings”);
- Medical parole hearings;
- Cases regarding mentally disordered offenders” (MDOs); and
- Cases regarding “sexually violent predators.”

2. CHANGE TO WHERE YOU SERVE A SENTENCE FOR A PAROLE VIOLATION
- If your parole is revoked for a parole violation that occurred on or after July 1, 2013, you will be sentenced to COUNTY JAIL, not state prison.
- If your parole is revoked for a parole violation that occurred before July 1, 2013, you would have been sent back to state prison, so this is a big change in the law!
- THERE IS ONE EXCEPTION: If you are a parolee classified as a “serious offender” (meaning you were a life-term prisoner under California Penal Code § 3000.1 or convicted of certain types of sex offenses under California Penal Code § 3000(a)(4), you will be sent back to CDCR to serve time in state prison for a parole revocation, and then you will go back to the BPH, who retains jurisdiction, for future consideration in determining whether or not to discharge you back onto parole.

3. HOW LONG YOU SERVE YOUR SENTENCE
If you serve your parole violation (revocation) term in county jail, you will serve a MAXIMUM of 180 days. Most people do serve their parole revocation terms in county jails.

But, if you are a former lifer, you may be sentenced to a maximum of 12 months in prison for a parole violation. People who have maximum parole periods that...

are life-long (some people convicted to sex offenders or murder) may be sentenced to up to a year in prison for revocations, unless, at sometime during that year sentence, BPH determines that the person should be incarcerated longer.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.1(d).}

IF I AM SUSPECTED OF A PAROLE VIOLATION, WHO HAS THE AUTHORITY TO ARREST ME? DO THEY NEED A WARRANT TO ARREST ME?

A parole agent or police officer can arrest you if he or she has probable cause (meaning a reasonable belief of a prudent person based off of the specific facts)\footnote{See Brinegar v. United States, 338 U.S. 160, 175 (1949).} to believe you violated a condition of parole. BUT the arresting agent/officer does not need a warrant. A judge in the court COULD issue a warrant, but does not have to. (CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.08(c)). If the parole officer suspects that you have violated a term of your parole, then you can be arrested by a parole agent or peace office at any time until the judge makes a final decision about your guilt or innocence of the case (called a “final disposition”).\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.08(d).}

WHAT HAPPENS IF I AM ARRESTED FOR AN ALLEGED PAROLE VIOLATION?

Here is what you can expect if you are arrested for an alleged parole violation:

1) After an arrest, a CDCR parole agent can place you on “hold”— meaning place you in jail pending further proceedings.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 1203.2(a), 3000.08(c), and 3056; People v. Woodall, 216 Cal. App. 4th 1221 (2013).}

2) Once you are on “hold,” CDCR parole staff then decides if there is probable cause to believe that you violated the law or a condition of your parole. The staff does not have to hold a hearing or give you a chance to provide more information, but they have to come to this decision among themselves.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.08(d).}

3) It depends whether or not CDCR staff finds probable cause when they look over the alleged violation.
   a) If CDCR staff does not find probable cause, you will be re-released on parole.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 3000.08(d)-f.}
   b) If CDCR staff does find probable cause, they must decide whether “intermediate sanctions” can address the violation, or whether a formal revocation proceeding needs to happen. Intermediate sanctions might include:
      c) New parole conditions;
      d) Sending you to a special reentry court;
      e) Requiring your participation in treatment or rehabilitation programs; or
      f) “Flash incarceration”—which is detention in the county jail for up to 10 consecutive days.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.08(f).}

4) If CDCR staff decides that intermediate sanctions are not enough, they will file a formal parole revocation petition in the local superior court.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 3000.08(d)-f.}
   a) The CDCR’s petition should describe:
      i) The relevant conditions of parole;
      ii) The circumstances of the violation;
      iii) The history and background of the parolee; and

iv) Parole staff’s recommendations for disposition (meaning there recommendations on what the outcome of the parole revocation petition should be).

b) At this point, CDCR staff should inform you of your rights, including: (1) the right to consult with an attorney, and (2) that if you don’t have the money to hire an attorney, you have the right to have the court provide you a free attorney (the Public Defender will be appointed). We recommend that you consult with an attorney or public defender before waiving any rights.

IMPORTANT: CDCR may inform you that you have the right to waive both your right to an attorney and your right to a hearing, admit the parole violation, and accept the CDCR’s proposed revocation term (sometimes called a “screening offer”). The waiver of an attorney or hearing must be in writing. AGAIN, WE RECOMMEND THAT YOU ASK TO SPEAK TO AN ATTORNEY, AND IF YOU CANNOT AFFORD ONE, THAT YOU WAIT FOR YOUR FREE ATTORNEY TO COME MEET WITH YOU. Please note: There is currently no timeline required for these steps to happen, which is concerning.

Currently, the law does not set any timelines for parole revocation steps. CDCR staff should make a probable cause determination within 2 business days after a hold is placed, notify a parolee of charges and rights within 3 business days after the hold, and either file a revocation petition with the court or release the parolee within 7 business days after the hold. However, these timelines are not formal regulations and the CDCR is not obligated to enforce them.

SUMMARY

So, in sum, what are the 3 options that parole has if they arrest me for an alleged violation?

1) Intermediate Sanctions: new parole conditions, reentry court, and treatment or rehabilitation programs.
2) Flash Incarceration for up to 10 days. No court involvement required.
3) Petition the local superior court for a formal revocation under California Penal Code § 1203.2.

WHAT LAW GOVERNS (SETS OUT THE RULES FOR) THE HEARING?

California Penal Code Section 1203.2.

WHO REPRESENTS THE INTEREST OF PAROLE/THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA IN THE HEARING?

The District Attorney.

CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.08.
CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2.
WHO REPRESENTS ME IF I CANNOT AFFORD AN ATTORNEY?

The Public Defender.

WHAT IS THE LEGAL STANDARD FOR FINDING A PERSON GUILTY OF A PAROLE VIOLATION?

At the parole revocation hearing, the judge must decide whether a “preponderance of the evidence” (meaning 51% or more than half of the evidence) supports the charges. In other words, the District Attorney must prove that it is more likely than not that you violated parole.

IF I GO TO JAIL ON A PAROLE VIOLATION, AM I ENTITLED TO BAIL?

No. You have no right to bail on a pending parole violation. However, a court could still grant it. Once a court has “jurisdiction” (legal authority to hear the case) over a petition to revoke your parole, the court is allowed to set bail and release the parolee on his or her own recognizance (meaning the judge can decide that bail and/or release would be appropriate in that case).

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE DURING A PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING?

Parole cannot be suspended or revoked by the Superior Court Judge unless there is good cause (a good reason) to believe that a person has violated the conditions of his or her parole.

As a parolee, your rights are as follows:

1. Written notice of the alleged violation(s) (the rule or law that parole claims you have broken) and the possible consequences, with enough information to allow you to prepare a defense and obtain evidence that would help explain the situation, or justify it;
2. Disclosure of the evidence against you (just like at trial);
3. Timely hearing of the charges at a probable cause hearing and a formal revocation hearing (within 90 days if you were not granted bail);
4. The right to present witnesses and documentary evidence.

McElroy, 360 U.S. 474, 496–97 (“Certain principles have remained relatively immutable in our jurisprudence. One of these is that where governmental action seriously injures an individual, and the reasonableness of the action depends on fact findings, the evidence used to prove the Government’s case must be disclosed to the individual so that he has an opportunity to show that it is untrue.”). See also People v. Moore, 34 Cal. 3d 215 (1983) (state has duty to preserve and disclose material physical evidence).
558 Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 485 (1972); People v. Woodall, 216 Cal. App. 4th 1221 (2013) (probation revocation procedures that fail to provide probable cause hearing do not violate due process rights if full hearing occurs relatively soon or if preliminary hearing on any new criminal charges is conducted). See also CAL. PENAL CODE § 1381.5; Gonzalez v. Superior Court, 166 Cal. App. 4th 922 (2008).
559 See Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 488-89 (1972). You can subpoena and present witnesses and documentary evidence to the same extent that the State can (In re Carroll, 80 Cal. App. 3d 22, 34 (1978)).
5. The right to confront and cross-examine witnesses who speak out against your interest. You have a conditional right under the U.S. (federal) and California (state) constitutions to cross-examine people whose statements are used against you in a parole violation proceeding. BUT SEE NOTE BELOW!!

6. A neutral and detached (unbiased and fair) hearing body (meaning, the Superior Court Judge); and

7. A written statement of the decision, the evidence relied on, and the reasons for revoking parole.

IMPORTANT! You may waive (give up) your right to a parole revocation by admitting that you violated parole. It is important that you SAY SOMETHING if you believe your rights are violated during the process or in a hearing. If you are unsure if your rights have been violated or if you don’t understand your rights, ask your lawyer or public defender. If you do not have a lawyer or public defender, call your local public defender’s office.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT WITNESSES! Witnesses may not be required to testify in front of you at your parole revocation hearing if they are deemed fearful or confidential. Be sure to speak to your lawyer about all potential witnesses—those both for your and against you—prior to your hearing.

"Fearful witnesses" are witnesses whose identity is known to you but who: (1) have indicated that they are at a risk of harm if they testify in your presence; or (2) have requested that their contact information be withheld from you. Testimony of a fearful witness can be taken outside the parolee’s presence, but your attorney must be present.

"Confidential witnesses" are witnesses, whose identity is not known to you, and who would be at a risk of harm if their identity were disclosed. However, if confidential information is used as part of the evidence that you violated parole, you can ask the District Attorney (prosecutor) to show you this information. If the District Attorney refuses to show you this information, then he or she must prove that showing you this information would create a risk of harm to the informant.

WHAT HAPPENS IF A “MATERIAL” (VERY IMPORTANT) STATE WITNESS DOESN’T SHOW UP TO THE PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING, EVEN THOUGH HE/SHE WAS REQUIRED TO ATTEND?

If a material (very important) state witness fails to attend a parole revocation hearing and the hearing cannot fairly proceed without the witness, the court can postpone the hearing or dismiss the case.

560 Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 488-89 (1972); Valdivia v Schwarzenegger, 599 F.3d 984, 989 (9th Cir. 2010).
561 U.S. CONST. amend. VI; CAL. CONST. art. I, § 15. Thus, upon your request, the people who gave the information that proves the parole violation charge should be made available for you to question them at the hearing, unless the judge determines that requiring the witness to appear would create a risk of harm. If the state has “good cause” (a good explanation or reason) for failing to present a witness and that good cause outweighs your right to confront the witness, the witness’s prior statements may be presented at the hearing, even if those statements were made outside of court. The more important the witness’s testimony is to the case, the stronger your right to confront and cross-examine that witness is. Courts may overturn a parole revocation if the hearing officer relies on unworn hearsay (out of court statements) without determining the unavailability of the declarant or the reliability of the hearsay, or without considering the parolee’s interests prior to admitting the evidence. See, e.g., In re Miller, 145 Cal. App. 4th 1228 (2006).
563 In re La Croix, 12 Cal. 3d 146, 153 (1974).
565 See U.S. v. Comito, 177 F.3d 1166 (9th Cir. 1999); In re Melendez, 37 Cal. App. 3d 967, 973 (1974); In re Prewitt, 8 Cal. 3d 470, 477-78 (1972); In re Love, 11 Cal. 3d 179 (1974) (due process violation in failure to disclose contents of “confidential” report where disclosure would not endanger any informant).
To decide whether the witness's testimony would be “material,” the court will balance the importance of the witness's expected testimony against the availability and reliability of another source of the same information. Also, if the state’s material witnesses fails to appear, but your witnesses are present, you and your attorney may want to ask that the judge take the testimony of your witnesses before postponing the rest of the hearing.

CAN THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY INTRODUCE EVIDENCE AT MY PAROLE HEARING THAT WAS FOUND IN AN UNLAWFUL SEARCH & SEIZURE?

Yes. Unfortunately, the “exclusionary rule,” which applies in criminal cases, does not apply in parole revocation hearings. This means that this evidence may be used in parole revocation hearings, even if it would be excluded from a criminal court trial, or already was excluded from a criminal court trial related to the same issue.567

SUMMARY OF SENTENCING

What are the court’s 3 options for sentencing/punishment if it finds that I violated my state parole?

The court’s 3 options are:

1) Return you to parole supervision with changes (called “modifications”) to your conditions of parole, including possible time in county jail;
2) Refer you to a Reentry Court or other Evidence-Based Practice program; or
3) Revoke your parole and order confinement.

IF THE JUDGE REVOKES MY PAROLE AND ORDERS ME BACK INTO CUSTODY, WHERE WILL I SERVE AND FOR HOW LONG?

It depends on your conviction history.

(1) MOST PEOPLE – Almost everyone who has his or her parole revoked will serve the parole revocation sentence in county jail.569 You will most likely get 180 days in county jail, even if there were multiple grounds for the revocation.570

You can earn “half-time” credit on parole revocation sentences (meaning 2 days “good conduct credit” for every 2 days actually served in custody), regardless of the nature of the commitment offense or parole violation. If you are serving a parole revocation sentence and you violate jail rules or refuse to do assigned work, then you may lose some or all of your good conduct credits.571

(2) FORMER “LIFER” – There are different rules if you are on parole after serving an indeterminate prison term of “life with the possibility of parole” (a.k.a. “former lifers”). If you are a former lifer:
• You can get a parole revocation sentence term of up to 12 months;

568 CAL PENAL CODE §§ 3000.08(f)-(g), 3004(a), 3056(a).
569 CAL PENAL CODE § 3056(a).
570 CAL PENAL CODE § 3056(a). A parolee may not be kept in custody beyond the maximum parole discharge date (see Section 16.C, above). You are no longer subject to extensions of your revocation sentence for in-custody misconduct (meaning bad behavior while you are in jail/custody). See CAL PENAL CODE § 3057(e).
571 CAL PENAL CODE § 4019.
• You are not entitled to earn good conduct credits; and
• Your revocation sentence could be extended if you violate rules while you are in custody.

(3) CERTAIN SEX OR MURDER CONVICTIONS – There are also different rules for people convicted of certain sex offenses or certain murder convictions:

• If you have life-long parole (some people convicted of sex offenses or murder) and it gets revoked, you’ll be sent back to prison, not county jail.
• Within 1 year of being returned to prison, a two-member BPH panel will hold a hearing. The panel must release you within 1 year of the date of the revocation—unless it determines the seriousness of the parole violation requires longer incarceration for public safety. If the two-member BPH panel keeps you in prison longer than 1 year, you have the legal right to a parole consideration hearing every year afterwards.

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE IF I AM A PERSON WITH A DISABILITY GOING THROUGH PAROLE REVOCATION PROCEEDINGS?

Under a federal law called the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), you have the legal right to reasonable accommodations during parole violation/revocation proceedings. Examples of accommodations could include:
• Ensuring access to the hearing room for a parolee with mobility impairments;
• Providing Braille, taped documents, or reading assistance for a vision-impaired parolee;
• Providing assistance in communicating for a developmentally disabled parolee; OR
• Providing sign language interpretation for a hearing-impaired parolee.

Just like all other aspects of parole, the CDCR's parole staff must use “effective communication” and provide reasonable accommodations when interacting with you. That means that they must use effective communication and provide reasonable accommodations when:
1) Arresting you;
2) Modifying your conditions of parole; or
3) Imposing sanctions like flash incarceration.

KEEP IN MIND: If you are a disabled parolee who is having problems receiving help from parole staff, you can submit a CDCR Form 1824, “Request for Modification or Reasonable Accommodation,” (read more about this process on PG. 185 above). CDCR parole staff should also alert jail staff and the attorney appointed to you about what your needs are when revocation proceedings begin.

HOW DO I CHALLENGE (APPEAL) A PAROLE REVOCATION DECISION OR ACTION MADE BY THE COUNTY SUPERIOR COURT?

If you are challenging a decision made by the county superior court, you should be able to file a direct appeal under the statute that allows an appeal “from any order made after judgment, affecting the substantial rights of the party.”[580]

Follow these steps:

STEP 1: To appeal, the parolee must file a Notice of Appeal in the Superior Court within 60 calendar days after the original court’s decision.[581]

STEP 2: When a timely Notice of Appeal is filed, the Superior Court will prepare a record of the parole revocation proceedings consisting of all the documents filed in the original court and transcripts of the hearings; the court will then provide these documents to the Court of Appeal, the State, and you (the parolee). In a direct appeal, the Court of Appeal must appoint a free attorney to represent you if you do not have enough money to pay for a private attorney.[582]

---

IMPORTANT: If you do not file a timely Notice of Appeal, or if the issue involves information outside the court record, then you may be able to raise the issues in a state court petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

WHAT TYPES OF ISSUES COULD I BRING UP IN A CHALLENGE TO PAROLE REVOCATION PROCEEDINGS, DECISIONS, OR ACTIONS?

There are many types of issues that you can raise in a challenge to a revocation proceeding or decision. For this reason, we recommend that you speak with your attorney if you believe that your rights have been violated! Your claim could be based on violations of state or federal constitutional due process rights, California or federal statutes, or California administrative rules. For example, you could argue that:

- The revocation hearing is being unreasonably delayed;
- You were denied the right to cross-examine witnesses at the parole revocation hearing; or
- The evidence did not support the revocation decision.

UNFORTUNATELY—in most cases, the process for raising such challenges will be too slow to provide you any relief before you have served the entire parole revocation sentence term. BUT You may still benefit by:

- Getting your parole revocation cases re-heard;
- Getting their revocations vacated; and/or
- Getting the time served for the revocation deducted from the controlling parole discharge date.

WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR APPEALING A DECISION MADE BY CDCR?

You can challenge a CDCR action or lack of action in these stages by filling out a CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal (see Appendix J, PG. 309 for copy of form) and submitting it to the CDCR’s parole agent.

Possible uses for a 602 appeal include challenging the CDCR’s decision to place a parole hold or find probable cause for a violation, asking for an attorney for the early stage of the revocation process, or challenging a delay by CDCR in filing a formal petition.583

There are two reasons for filing a CDCR Form 602 administrative appeal and re-filing it to the highest level necessary:

1. First reason—it might solve the problem.
2. Second reason—Courts usually require you to “exhaust administrative remedies” (meaning that you pursued all three levels administrative review before filing a case in court) and that you filed an appeal before filing a lawsuit in court claiming that the CDCR violated your legal rights.584

After completing any required administrative remedies, you can challenge a CDCR or BPH action or decision by filing a state court petition for a writ of habeas corpus. If the judge issues an “order to show cause,” it must appoint a free lawyer to represent you if you request one and show that you do not have enough money to pay for a private lawyer.585 See Appendix K, PG. 312 for information on when and how to file a state court petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

III. COUNTY PROBATION AND NEW FORMS OF COUNTY-LEVEL SUPERVISION

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• How California’s “Realignment” Law changed county-level probation and supervision
• The different types of county level supervision—misdemeanor probation, felony probation, post-release community supervision, mandatory supervision
• Terms and condition of probation and supervision
• How to request a change to your probation or supervision conditions
• How to request a transfer to a different county
• What to do if your probation or supervision is revoked
• What happens at a probation revocation hearing
• How to challenge probation conditions
• How to challenge probation revocation

If you are convicted of certain types of state criminal offenses:

1. You will be sentenced to time in county jail/ state prison. This will be followed by either (1) a term on county probation or (2) one of California’s newer forms of county-level supervision; OR
2. You will be sentenced directly to one of these forms of supervision, and you will be supervised by a local county probation officer.

Continue reading to learn more!

WHAT IS COUNTY PROBATION?

Probation is a suspended state prison or county jail sentence. In other words, instead of doing the full amount of time in custody (in prison or jail), you can stay in the community under supervision and be required to follow certain rules and conditions. The primary purpose of probation is rehabilitation.

All probation sentences are different. However, there are some standard conditions that apply to most if not all people on probation in California. If you have a disability, you should get certain accommodations on probation, so make sure you see PG. 184 to learn about requesting the accommodation you need on probation. Each county is responsible for running its own probation department, and each of these departments have their own specific rules.

587 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203(a).
HOW DID CALIFORNIA’S “REALIGNMENT LAW” CHANGE CALIFORNIA’S STATE PROBATION?

The Realignment Law made some of the largest and most pivotal changes to the criminal justice system in California. Generally speaking, Realignment transferred the responsibility of supervision to the state’s 58 counties for people convicted of felonies (excluding those classified as high-risk sex offenders) released from prison whose commitment offenses are statutorily defined as non-serious and non-violent. This is sometimes referred to as “the 3 nons”—non-serious, non-violent, non-sexual felonies.

• If you were convicted after October 1, 2011 and you have no current or prior convictions defined by statute as “serious, violent, or sexual” felony offenses, you now serve time locally (regardless of the length of your sentence) with the possibility of community supervision instead of the full sentence time being spent in custody in jail or prison.

• Here are the 4 types of state probation’s community supervision after Realignment: (1) Misdemeanor Probation (MSD) (a.k.a. “Summary” or “Informal” probation); (2) Felony Probation (FP) (a.k.a. “Formal” probation); (3) Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS); and (4) Mandatory Supervision.

WHAT ARE TYPES OF SUPERVISION FALL UNDER THE CONTROL OF COUNTY PROBATION NOW AFTER REALIGNMENT?

Here is a quick overview of the different types of supervision that are under the control of county probation departments in California:

1) Misdemeanor Probation (MSD)—a.k.a. informal or summary probation: If you get convicted of a misdemeanor and get placed on probation in California, you are placed on misdemeanor probation—also called “informal” probation or “summary” probation. See CAL PENAL CODE § 1203(d).

2) Felony Probation (FP): If you get convicted of a felony and get placed on probation in California, it will be felony probation—also called “formal probation” or FP. See Cal. Dep’t of Corr. & Reh., Implementation of the Post Release Community Supervision Act of 2011, http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/realignment/docs/PRCS-County.pdf.

3) Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS): PRCS is a new type of supervision created by Realignment (AB 109). People released from a state prison after incarceration for non-violent, non-serious, non-sexual crimes are placed under supervision by local, county probation officers. For more information about the 3 nons and PRCS, see http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/realignment/Post-Release-Community-Supervision.html.

4) Mandatory Supervision: Mandatory supervision is a new type of supervision created by Realignment (AB 109). California state courts are allowed to use a tool called “split sentencing,” which allows a judge to split the time of a sentence between a jail term and a period of supervision by a county probation officer. This type of supervision is known as Mandatory Supervision. For more information on split sentences, see University of California Berkeley: The Chief Justice Earl Warren Institute on Law and Social Policy, Thinking Critically About Realignment in California, https://www.law.berkeley.edu/files/bccj/Thinking_Critically_3-14-2012.pdf.
MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (A.K.A. INFORMAL PROBATION OR SUMMARY PROBATION)

BASICS OF MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)

WHAT IS MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (A.K.A. INFORMAL OR SUMMARY PROBATION)?

In California, if you get probation imposed for a misdemeanor conviction, it is known as misdemeanor probation (MSD)—also sometimes called “informal probation” or “summary probation.”

WHO WILL MONITOR ME UNDER MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)?

The County Superior Court.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)

WHAT ARE SOME GOOD FIRST STEPS TO TAKE AFTER I FIRST GET RELEASED FROM JAIL OR PLACED ONTO MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)?

Instructions for what to do when you first start your probation term will be different depending on what county you are being supervised in. The best thing to do when you first get out, is call or visit your county probation department immediately to find out what the requirements and instructions apply to you.

LENGTH OF MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)

HOW LONG IS MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)?

The length of your MSD probation depends on what the court ordered, and that usually depends on what county you are being supervised in. The period of misdemeanor probation may last up to three years, depending on which county you are in. Each county sets a mandatory minimum (which can be as low as one year). But remember, every county in California operates differently.

594 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203(d).
595 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.1(a).
CAN I GET OFF MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD) EARLY?

Possibly. California law allows you to ask the court to be released early from your probation or Mandatory Supervision.\(^{596}\) It is very common for courts to grant a term of 3 or 4 years of informal probation for misdemeanor convictions;\(^ {597}\) however, some people are able to satisfy all of the conditions of their probation (all of the things the court orders you to do—such as attend counseling or paying restitution) before the 3 or 4 years are up. For this reason, judges are often willing to release people from probation early.\(^ {598}\) The process is the same for asking a court to terminate your misdemeanor probation, felony probation, or Mandatory Supervision early. If your request (called a “Motion”) to end your misdemeanor probation early is granted by the judge, then you might also be able to ask for certain convictions to be dismissed from your record! For more information on how to file a Motion to Terminate Probation early, and also how to request dismissals of eligible convictions, please see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.

CONDITIONS OF MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)

ON MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD), WHAT KINDS OF CONDITIONS WILL THE COURT IMPOSE ON ME?

Once misdemeanor probation is granted, the court will decide what conditions of probation to impose. Here is some general information to know about your conditions of probation:

Conditions set by the Criminal Court Judge: The judge in the criminal court has a lot of freedom in determining the conditions of your misdemeanor probation, and may impose reasonable conditions for the purposes of rehabilitation or to protect the community.\(^{599}\) However, the court cannot impose a condition that is unreasonable or that does not properly take into consideration the circumstances of your case.\(^{600}\)

MSD conditions differ from offense to offense. Some common examples of MSD conditions are:

- You must “violate no laws”: This is a general condition for almost everyone on misdemeanor probation that means you cannot violate any laws (other than minor traffic offenses) while you are on MSD probation;
- No-contact (stay away) orders that prevent you from being around or seeing and communicating with certain individuals;
- Anger management courses;
- Substance abuse rehabilitation/ treatment programs;
- Restrictions on your ability to have access to or carry weapons;\(^ {601}\)
- Impose a fine up to $1,000;\(^ {602}\)

\(^{596}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.3(a). “The court may at any time when the ends of justice will be subserved thereby, and when the good conduct and reform of the person so held on probation shall warrant it, terminate the period of probation, and discharge the person so held.”

\(^{600}\) People v. Birkett, 21 Cal.4th 226, 320 (1999).

• Restitution Payments to the Victim or State OR community service: Courts are also required to order restitution payments, either to the victim or to the state, as a condition of probation. Read more about restitution payments in the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 755. The court may also sentence you to serve a sentence in county jail for up to a year.
• Minimum Fine or Jail Sentence Sometimes Required by Law: For some misdemeanor convictions, the court is required to impose a minimum fine or jail sentence as a condition of your probation.

IF I AM ON MISDEMEANOR PROBATION, WILL I HAVE TO REPORT TO A PROBATION OFFICER?

No. If you’re on misdemeanor probation, you’ll report to a judge in the County Superior Court. This means that you will be required to appear in court before a judge for “progress reports” as often as the judge orders you to do so. When you go to the court for a “progress report,” the judge will determine whether you are following the conditions of your probation.

WHAT WILL THE JUDGE LOOK FOR WHEN I AM MONITORED IN COURT DURING “PROGRESS REPORTS?”

When you go to court for a “progress report,” the judge will be checking to see if you are following the conditions of your probation. The judge will also ask you about your progress in any programs (i.e. AA meetings, anger management classes) that you were assigned as part of your misdemeanor probation.

It is important that you BRING DOCUMENTATION of any progress and positive steps that you’ve made in fulfilling your probation conditions. This means that you should bring documentation of any progress that you’ve made in: court-ordered treatment programs; community service; public works service; etc.

HOW DO I CHANGE A CONDITION OF MY MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)?

Under state law, you can ask the judge to modify (change) your probation terms AT ANY TIME. This does not mean the judge will do so, but you can always ask! To ask the judge to change a condition of your probation, you have to file a motion with the court that is monitoring your probation, asking that your probation conditions be modified. You must show why there is a good reason for the judge to modify your conditions. Remember to bring all documentation of your progress with you to court (i.e. reports/attendance sheets from any classes or courses that you were required to take as part of your misdemeanor probation).

463 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(m). However, if the court finds “compelling and extraordinary reasons for not imposing restitution,” it must order community service as a condition of probation instead, unless it also finds “compelling and extraordinary reasons” for not requiring community service. CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(n).
464 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.1(a).
465 For example, if you are convicted of driving on a suspended license and this offense occurred within 5 years of a prior offense for driving on a suspended license, the court must impose a minimum 10-day jail sentence as a condition of probation (see CAL. VEH. CODE § 14601(c) (West 2014)). The CAL. GOV’T CODE also has special mandatory probationary terms for specific offenses, such as completion of a domestic violence rehabilitation program (DVRP) for those convicted of a crime of domestic violence (see CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.097(a)(6) (West 2014)).
466 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.3(a).
467 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(n).
468 For example, if the court ordered you to go to substance abuse treatment, then at your “progress report,” the court will ask for written reports or attendance sheets from your treatment program.
There is no standard statewide form used to request a modification of probation conditions. But some counties may have local forms for this purpose. You may call the county Superior Court clerk’s office to find out whether or not they have local forms to request a change. If the Public Defender was assigned to your case, contact your Public Defender and ask them to file a motion to modify your probation terms for you. If you had a private attorney but can no longer afford one, you may call the Public Defender and ask them to represent you in your attempt to change your probation conditions.

Before the judge can modify your conditions, the court must notify the prosecutor (the District Attorney) in your case, and hold a hearing where the prosecutor has a chance to speak. If the judge decides to change your conditions, he or she must state the reasons for doing so.

IF YOU ARE ASKING FOR THE CHANGE BECAUSE OF A DISABILITY:

If you are asking to change a condition because of a disability, you should explain why your disability makes it difficult for you to comply with your current probation conditions, and what changes (in conditions) or assistance (from the probation department or other services) you need to successfully complete your probation. For example, if you were ordered to perform public works service (for example, highway cleanup), but your disability prevents you from doing so, you may ask the judge at the local county superior court for a modification that allows you to do community service (for example, volunteering at the local public library) instead.

When you go to court, remember to bring documentation of your disability and explain the reasons why your disability makes it difficult for you to follow the conditions and rules of your probation.

WHAT’S THE PROCESS FOR REQUESTING A CHANGE TO MY MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD) CONDITIONS?

To request a change to your misdemeanor conditions (called a “modification”), start by contacting the Court Clerk at your local county superior court where you were convicted to ask if there is a local form for this type of request. If not, you and your attorney will have to draft a motion. See Appendix Y, PG. 346, for more information.

TRANSFER LOCATIONS ON MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)?

HOW DO I TRANSFER COUNTIES ON MISDEMEANOR PROBATION?

Below is the process for a county to submit a “notice of motion for transfer” in order to send the supervision of a person to a new county’s probation department:

1) When a person is released on probation or mandatory supervision, the court must transfer the case to the superior court in any other county where the person resides permanently (the county where the person plans to remain

612 The court must follow the Judicial Council’s procedures and court rules set out in Cal. Penal Code § 1203.9(d). permanently/for the duration of probation or mandatory supervision), unless the transferring court determines that the transfer would be inappropriate.

2) Next, the proposed receiving county may provide comments on the record about the proposed transfer.

3) The court and the probation department must investigate county transfers with precedence over most other actions, and make speedy decisions.

4) If victim restitution was ordered as a condition of probation or mandatory supervision, the transferring court shall determine the amount of restitution before the transfer unless the court finds that it can’t make that decision within a reasonable time from when the motion for transfer is made. If a case is transferred without the amount of restitution being decided, the transferring court must make a determination about the restitution amount as quickly as possible.

5) For every other determination related to probation (besides the amount of victim restitution), the receiving county will have the power to make those decisions, and must accept jurisdiction over the case.

6) The transfer order must require the supervised person to be in the care and custody of the probation officer of the receiving county.

7) If it applies, the transfer order must also include an order for reimbursement of reasonable costs for processing the transfer to be paid to the sending county in accordance with Cal. Pen. Code § 1203.1b.

8) The sending county must send copies of any orders and any probation reports to the court and the probation officer in the receiving county within 2 weeks of finding that the supervised person permanently resides in or has permanently moved to the receiving county.

9) The receiving county may also follow these rules and procedures to again transfer the probation supervision to another county later on.

HOW DO I TRANSFER STATES ON MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)?

If you are on Misdemeanor Probation (or Felony Probation) and want to transfer to a new state, go to PG. 368 to learn how.

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS ON MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)

WHAT ARE THE RULES FOR VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF MISDEMEANOR PROBATION (MSD)?

The rules and procedures for probation and revocation proceedings are the same for misdemeanor probation and felony probation.

Please see PG. 220.
FELONY PROBATION (A.K.A. FORMAL PROBATION)

BASICS OF FELONY PROBATION (FP)

WHAT IS FELONY PROBATION (FP)?

Felony Probation (sometimes called “formal probation” or FP) is a type of community supervision that is part of the original sentence handed down by a judge at trial, as an alternative to or in addition to incarceration for a felony conviction.\(^{613}\)

FP reduces or eliminates the time you must spend in custody in jail or prison and instead allows you to remain in or return to a community sooner, so long as you follow your probation conditions.\(^{614}\)

This means that some people never serve time in jail or prison for a felony but are sentenced to felony supervision in the community, while some other people are sentenced to time in prison/jail and felony supervision in the community.

WHO WILL MONITOR ME ON FELONY PROBATION (FP)?

Depending on the circumstances, either the court (and the judge of that court) or a probation officer will monitor you to make sure you follow your probation conditions.\(^{615}\) Generally, you must report to the probation officer once a month, although the judge could require you to report more or less often than that.\(^{616}\) It is very important to remain in contact with your probation officer, or it could trigger a probation violation hearing.\(^{617}\)

IMPORTANT! How Felony Probation operates, and what services are available, varies from county to county. Ask your probation officer what is available to you in your county.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON FELONY PROBATION (FP)

WHAT ARE SOME OF MY RESPONSIBILITIES WHEN I FIRST GET RELEASED ONTO FELONY PROBATION (FP)?

Instructions for what to do when you first start your probation term will be different depending on what county you are being supervised in. When you first get out, the best thing to do is call or visit your county probation department immediately to find out what requirements and instructions apply to you.
LENGTH OF FELONY PROBATION (FP)

HOW LONG WILL I BE ON FELONY PROBATION (FP)?

Felony probation (FP) is typically imposed for a term of 3–5 years. The length of your probation depends on what the court ordered, and that usually depends on what county you are being supervised in (since each county has some discretion to set the maximum length of felony probation within this range).

CAN I GET OFF FELONY PROBATION EARLY?

Possibly. California law allows you to ask the court to be released early from your probation. If you have completed all of the conditions of your probation (for example, paid all fines/fees, completed all counseling) and you are at least half-way through your probation term (for example, 1½ years through a 3-year probation term), you may be a good candidate to have your probation ended early. The process for terminating (ending) felony probation early is the same as the process for ending misdemeanor probation or mandatory supervision early. If your request (called a “Motion”) to end your felony probation early is granted by the judge, then you might also be able to ask for certain convictions to be dismissed from your record! For more information on how to file a Motion to Terminate Probation early, and also how to request dismissals of eligible convictions, please see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.
IMPORTANT: It is important to know the conditions of your probation because, if you do not follow the terms and conditions of your FP, your probation could be revoked and you could:

- Be sent to jail, or go to prison (where the court had earlier suspended a prison sentence by granting you FP);\(^{621}\)
- Be sentenced to the maximum sentence authorized for the crime you were convicted of;
- Have additional terms, such as public works service (“PWS” or “volunteer works”) or community service added to your probation;\(^{622}\)
- Have your probation revoked, and reinstated, for a new period of three-five years\(^{623}\) (see PG. 220 on probation revocation proceedings)

CONDITIONS OF FELONY PROBATION (FP)

WHAT ARE COMMON CONDITIONS OF FELONY PROBATION (FP)?

There are some general/standard rules and conditions that apply to most (if not all) people on felony probation, BUT REMEMBER, EVERY COUNTY WILL HAVE DIFFERENT RULES AND CONDITIONS.

Felony probation will often include some of the following rules/conditions:\(^{624}\)

1. Meeting with your probation officer as often as required, generally once a month;
2. Payment of restitution, fines, and fees;\(^{625}\)
3. Participation in individual or group therapy;
4. Mandatory drug testing, if you were convicted of certain drug-related crimes;
5. Community service;
6. An agreement to submit to law enforcement searches of your person, residence, or property with or without a warrant (sometimes called a “search condition” or a “4th Waiver”);
7. No contact with victim(s) and following any stay away orders not to harass victim(s);
8. Not associating with people who you know are gang members;\(^{626}\)
9. Agreement not to violate any laws.

To challenge/try to change the conditions of probation, see the next question and answer.

HOW DO I CHANGE A CONDITION OF MY FELONY PROBATION (FP) CONDITIONS?

Follow the outlined steps below to request a change (called a “modification”) in your probation terms: Start by contacting the Court Clerk at your local county superior court where you were convicted to ask if there is a local form. If not, you and your attorney will have to draft a motion. See Appendix Y, PG. 346 for more information. (Note: The process for requesting a change to MSD conditions is the same as the process for requesting a change to FP conditions.)

622. CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.1(c).
625. CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4. This probation requirement will likely be imposed on anyone who was found guilty of being a “gang offender” under of CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(a) or (b).
626. CAL. PENAL CODE § 186.22(a) makes it illegal to participate in a gang. CAL. PENAL CODE § 186.22(b) states that
TRANSFER LOCATIONS ON FELONY PROBATION (FP)

I WANT TO TRANSFER MY FELONY PROBATION TO ANOTHER COUNTY. CAN I DO THAT?

It’s possible. The California Superior Court of the county that you were convicted of a crime in has jurisdiction (decision-making power) over county-to-county transfers for probation.\(^\text{627}\)

When deciding whether transfer is appropriate, the judge will look at:
1) Permanency of residence of the offender;
2) Local programs available for the offender; and
3) Restitution orders and victim issues.\(^\text{628}\)

WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR TRANSFERRING MY FELONY PROBATION (FP) TO A NEW COUNTY?

Below is the process for a county to submit a “notice of motion for transfer” in order to send the supervision of a person to a new county’s probation department:

1) When a person is released on probation or mandatory supervision, the court must transfer the case to the superior court in any other county where the person resides permanently (the county where the person plans to remain permanently/for the duration of probation or mandatory supervision), unless the transferring court determines that the transfer would be inappropriate.
2) Next, the proposed receiving county may provide comments on the record about the proposed transfer.
3) The court and the probation department must investigate county transfers with precedence over most other actions, and make speedy decisions.
4) If victim restitution was ordered as a condition of probation or mandatory supervision, the transferring court shall determine the amount of restitution before the transfer unless the court finds that it can’t make that decision within a reasonable time from when the motion for transfer is made. If a case is transferred without the amount of restitution being decided, the transferring court must make a determination about the restitution amount as quickly as possible.
5) For every other determination related to probation (besides the amount of victim restitution), the receiving county will have the power to make those decisions, and must accept jurisdiction over the case.
6) The transfer order must require the supervised person to be in the care and custody of the probation officer of the receiving county.
7) If it applies, the transfer order must also include an order for reimbursement of reasonable costs for processing the transfer to be paid to the sending county in accordance with Cal. Pen. Code § 1203.1b.
8) The sending county must send copies of any orders and any probation reports to the court and the probation officer in the receiving county within 2 weeks of finding that the supervised person permanently resides in or has permanently moved to the receiving county.
9) The receiving county may also follow these rules and procedures to again transfer the probation supervision to another county later on.\(^\text{629}\)

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF FELONY PROBATION

WHAT ARE THE RULES FOR VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF FELONY PROBATION?

See PG. 220 for the rules and procedures. Probation revocation proceedings are the same for Misdemeanor Probation (PG. 198), Felony Probation (PG. 203), and a newer form of supervision called “Mandatory Supervision” (PG. 215).
POST-RELEASE COMMUNITY SUPERVISION (PRCS)

PRCS is run by your local county probation office and the rules vary from county to county across California. We have tried to provide information here that will be helpful to all as general rules and guidelines, but we encourage you to ask people in your particular county probation office about how PRCS operates locally, and what services or programs are available to you there.

BASICS OF PRCS

WHAT IS POST-RELEASE COMMUNITY SUPERVISION (PRCS)?

It is a new form of community supervision under California’s 2011 “Realignment” Law (AB 109), which mandated that a large group of people leaving state prison would be monitored by the probation department of each county, instead of by state parole.

After October 1, 2011, a specific group of former prisoners—people released from a state prison for crimes that are non-violent, non-serious, AND non-sexual—are now placed under the supervision of county probation officers.

WHO WILL BE RELEASED FROM STATE PRISON TO COUNTY SUPERVISION ON PRCS?

The following people will be released from state prison onto PRCS supervision:

• Individuals currently serving terms for non-violent, non-serious commitment offenses;
• Some sex offenders; AND
• Individuals who, prior to October 1, 2011, would have been placed on non-revocable parole (NRP).

IMPORTANT NOTE: If you were paroled from state prison before October 1, 2011, you will stay on parole, and not be placed on PRCS. However, if you are returned to the custody of state prison due to a parole revocation case, the CDCR will screen your case beginning at least 180 days before your calculated release date (see the next question about this timeline) to decide if you should be (1) returned to state parole or (2) placed on PRCS after serving the revocation term.

WHO WILL NOT BE RELEASED FROM STATE PRISON TO COUNTY SUPERVISION ON PRCS?

The 3 nons—anyone convicted of the following offenses will be released onto state PAROLE, not PRCS:

1) A “serious” felony (as described in Cal. Pen. Code § 1192.7(c));

CAL. PENAL CODE § 3450 et seq; 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3079 et seq.
CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.09(c).
2) A “violent” felony (as described in Cal. Pen. Code § 667.5(c));
3) Individuals with an indeterminate life-term, including third-strikers, who were sentenced pursuant to Cal. Pen. Code § 667(e)(2) or § 1170.12(c)(2);
4) Any crime for which the person is classified as a high-risk sex offender (as defined by CDCR);
5) Any crime for which the person is required, as a condition of parole, to undergo treatment by the State Department of State Hospitals (DSH) as a mentally disordered offender pursuant to Cal. Pen. Code § 2962.633
6) If you think you will be on parole, not PRCS, see earlier section on state parole, PG. 147).

WHEN IS THE PRCS VS. PAROLE ASSESSMENT DONE?
Before you are released from prison, a correctional counselor will screen your case and decide whether to refer you to state parole or PRCS.634 The correctional officer should start this screening process at least 180 days prior to your calculated release date.635 The CDCR Form 611, “Release Program Study,” (see Appendix S, PG. 332) is used to determine if you will be eligible for PRCS
after release.636

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON PRCS

WHAT MUST I DO WHEN I FIRST GET OUT ON PRCS?
You must report to your County Probation Department for PRCS supervision within 2 working days after your release from state prison, court, or county jail.637 Instructions for what to do when you first get out on PRCS vary from county to county. Please see Appendix Z on PG. 348 for some examples of the PRCS release process in a few California counties.

WHERE WILL I BE RELEASED TO ON PRCS?
In most cases, you will be sent to the county of your last legal residence before you were incarcerated.638 However, CDCR can send you to PRCS in a different county for various reasons, including victim safety concerns, to help you maintain family ties, or so you can benefit from work or educational programs.639

Please keep reading for more information on how to make a request to be sent to a different county other than the one you last legally lived in.

CAN I REQUEST THAT CDCR SEND ME TO PRCS IN A DIFFERENT COUNTY THAN WHERE THEY WANT TO SEND ME?

Yes. While you are in prison, you can request to be released on to PRCS in a different county than where CDCR has assigned you—which is typically the county of last legal residence. Please read the section on how to request a PRCS Location Transfer, beginning on PG. 213.

LENGTH OF PRCS

WHO SETS THE LENGTH OF PRCS?

The Superior Court Judge who sentences you.

HOW LONG DOES PRCS SUPERVISION LAST?

PRCS can last for minimum of six months, and for a maximum of 3 years. Remember PRCS can end earlier if you do not violate any conditions of your PRCS.

If at any time you abscond (go missing) or are otherwise unavailable for supervision, that amount of time will not count toward the total PRCS period.

CAN I GET OFF PRCS EARLY?

It’s possible. If you have no violations of your PRCS, the county probation department that supervises you may discharge you after 6 consecutive months of no violations.

However, early release from PRCS is discretionary—it’s up to the supervising agency to decide. Most individuals discharge from PRCS within 30 days after serving a continuous year without violations.

CONDITIONS OF PRCS

WHAT CONDITIONS MUST I FOLLOW IF I AM ON PRCS?

You must comply with all of your conditions on PRCS. The standard conditions include:

1) A waiver of your Fourth Amendment Rights—agreeing to be searched by law enforcement without probable cause;
2) Informing the Probation Department of your home and work addresses; and
3) Never possessing or having access to weapons.

A NOTE ABOUT ADDING EXTRA (SPECIAL) CONDITIONS OF PRCS:

The county probation office may send special conditions to CDCR prior to release, but they must be related to your offense. So CDCR can make the PRCS conditions, and then the local county probation office can add to those conditions, if the new conditions are lawful.

IS THERE A DOCUMENT WHERE I CAN FIND ALL MY PRCS CONDITIONS?

Yes—you should refer to your signed CDCR Form 1515, “Notice and Conditions of Parole” (see Appendix G, PG. 302 for an example of this form). See Cal. Dep’t of Corr. & Reh., Form 1515.

If you do not sign the conditions while you are still incarcerated, the prison/jail staff will notify the county of your supervision, and you can be held in custody until you sign Form 1515 or until your credits expire.

CAN I CHALLENGE A PRCS CONDITION?

Yes. The legal standards for determining whether a PRCS condition is unlawful are generally the same as for parole conditions. Please refer to, PG. 178 above, to understand what makes a PRCS condition lawful vs. unlawful.

HOW DO I CHALLENGE A PRCS CONDITION?

The procedure will depend on whether the supervising agency (the county probation department) or the court made the decision, and when the challenge is being raised.

IF THE CONDITION WAS SET BY THE PROBATION OFFICER SUPERVISING YOUR PRCS: then you should complete any administrative appeal or grievance process that is available through Probation. If there is no administrative appeal process or the administrative appeal is unsuccessful, then you can file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the local superior court. See Appendix K PG. 312 to learn how to file a state petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

IF THE CONDITION WAS SET BY THE COURT JUDGE OR A COURT-APPOINTED HEARING OFFICER: then you should be able to proceed with a court challenge. It appears likely that a direct appeal can be filed under the statute that allows an appeal to be filed “from any order made after judgment, affecting the substantial rights of the party.” To appeal, you must file a 22/ notice of appeal in the superior court within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision.

When 22/a timely notice of appeal is filed:

- The superior court will prepare a record of the parole revocation proceedings consisting of all the documents filed in the court and transcripts of the hearings and provide these documents to the court of appeal, the state, and the parolee.
  - In a direct appeal, an attorney will be appointed by the Court of Appeal at state’s expense, if the parolee does not have enough money to pay for one.
  - If you wish to have a court-appointed attorney, you must file your notice of appeal within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision.

If the notice of appeal is not timely filed or if the issue involves information that is not in the court record, it might be possible to raise the issues in a state court habeas corpus petition.

IMPORTANT: Whether or not issues from your case can be raised on a habeas appeal can be a difficult subject to determine. For this reason, it is recommended that you seek help from a court-appointed attorney, if possible. Again, remember that if you wish to have a court-appointed attorney, you must file your notice of appeal within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision.

Please refer to Appendix K, on PG. 312 for more information on direct appeals and state habeas corpus petitions, including sample forms.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I DO NOT FOLLOW THE CONDITIONS OF MY PRCS?

There are different types of consequences for not following (violating) the terms and conditions of your post-release community supervision (PRCS). These include:

- INTERMEDIATE SANCTIONS: PRCS agencies are supposed to develop and use “intermediate sanctions” for minor violations of PRCS conditions. Intermediate sanctions could include programs like drug treatment, mental health counseling, and job assistance.

- FLASH INCARCERATION: Another type of punishment for violating a PRCS condition is “flash incarceration.” Flash incarceration is an immediate return to jail for a period of up to 10 days. One of the conditions for being placed on PRCS is that you give up the right to demand a court hearing before being subject to flash incarceration.

- COURT PETITION TO MODIFY/REVOKE/TERMINATE PRCS: If the PRCS supervising agency (the county probation office) decides that more serious punishment is appropriate for the violation, the agency will file a petition to modify, revoke, or terminate PRCS through the County Superior Court. The probation office’s petition will be filed with a hearing officer appointed by the local Superior Court. Either the supervising agency (probation department) or the hearing officer can decide to keep a person in custody (in jail) while the petition is pending.

TRANSFER LOCATIONS ON PRCS

HOW DO I TRANSFER COUNTIES (WITHIN CALIFORNIA) ONCE OUT ON PRCS?

California state law governs the process for transferring a person’s PRCS between counties. Unlike the state law that governs transfers of Misdemeanor Probation, PG. 198, Felony Probation, PG. 203, and Mandatory Supervision, PG. 215, the Court does not have the authority to transfer a person’s PRCS. Instead, the PRCS transfer process is administrative, and happens directly from one county to another. Under law, the process for transferring counties on PRCS is as follows:

STEP 1: The supervising agency (the county probation department) must determine that:

You no longer permanently reside (see definition in footnote) within its jurisdiction, AND

Your change of residence was either approved by probation OR didn’t violate the terms and conditions of your PRCS.

STEP 2: The supervising agency (the county probation department) then has 2 weeks in which they must send any information it received from CDCR before you were released over to the receiving probation department in your new county of permanent residence.

STEP 3: Once the receiving county probation department has verified your permanent residency in its county, the agency must accept you on PRCS there.

NOTE: Your supervising agency (the county probation department) is not required to transfer your PRCS to another county unless you have shown your ability to establish permanent residence within another county without violating the terms and conditions of your PRCS.

Go to PG. 182 to learn how to transfer to a new state.

IF THE PROBATION DEPARTMENT PURSUES THE CASE IN COURT, DO I HAVE THE RIGHT TO A HEARING FOR A PRCS VIOLATION PETITION?

Yes. If you must respond to a PRCS violation petition, you have the right to a hearing in County Superior Court.
DO I HAVE THE RIGHT TO A FREE ATTORNEY IF I CAN’T AFFORD ONE AT A PRCS VIOLATION HEARING?

Yes, at least in some cases—you have the right to a free court-appointed attorney if you cannot afford your own. If you give up the right to an attorney and a hearing, admit the violation, and accept the proposed punishment, but it’s suggested that you ALWAYS ask for an attorney and hearing.

IF THE JUDGE FINDS THAT I HAVE VIOLATED THE TERMS OR CONDITIONS OF MY PRCS, WHAT ARE POSSIBLE PUNISHMENTS?

If you are found to have violated the terms or conditions of your PRCS at a hearing, the judge, magistrate, or hearing officer can:
1) Return you to PRCS supervision with modified (changed or new) conditions;
2) Refer you to a special program or to a special “reentry court” for assessment for a special program; OR
3) Revoke (take away) your PRCS and order you to county jail for a maximum term of 180 days.

NOTE: If you are ordered to serve county jail time for a PRCS violation, you can earn 2 days of good conduct credits for every 2 days you actually serve.

HOW CAN I CHALLENGE A COURT DECISION REVOKING MY PRCS, OR A DECISION BY THE HEARING OFFICER AFTER A PRCS VIOLATION HEARING?

You can almost always challenge the judgment of a PRCS revocation hearing. Follow the steps below:

STEP 1: To appeal, you must file a notice of appeal in the county Superior Court within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision.

STEP 2: After a timely notice of appeal is filed, the Superior Court will prepare a record of the PRCS revocation proceedings that includes all the documents filed in the court and transcripts of the hearings. The Superior Court must then provide these documents to (1) the Court of Appeal, (2) the State/ District Attorney (representing the Probation Department), and (3) you. In a direct appeal, the court of appeal must appoint an attorney to represent you for free if you don’t have enough money to pay for one. In order to have a court-appointed attorney, you must file your notice of appeal within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision.

HELPFUL HINT

Alternative to filing a timeline notice of appeal:

If the “notice of appeal” is not filed on time, or if the issue involves information that isn’t in the court record, then it might be possible to raise the issues in a state court habeas corpus petition (see Appendix K PG. 312 to learn about the general process for filing one). This is not recommended unless (1) your notice of appeal wasn’t filed in time, or (2) the appeal involves information that the court has no record of.

MANDATORY SUPERVISION

BASICS OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION

WHAT IS MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

If you receive a split sentence (jail and community supervision time), you could be placed on Mandatory Supervision after your release from county jail. California’s 2011 Realignment law (AB 109) has given criminal courts in California a legal tool called “split sentencing.” Split sentencing allows a judge to split the time of a person’s sentence between a jail term and a period of supervision by a probation officer.

While Mandatory Supervision is not technically probation under law, it will feel the same—you will be supervised by a county probation officer, and it will feel a lot like probation in how the supervision functions.

Please note: Mandatory Supervision is run by the counties and rules vary from county to county across California. We have tried to provide information here that will be helpful to all, but we encourage you to find out information from your particular county probation office about how Mandatory Supervision operates, and what services or programs are available to you there.

WHO CAN BE RELEASED ONTO MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

You are eligible for a “split sentence” and Mandatory Supervision if your felony conviction is for a non-violent, non-serious, non-sex offense (the “3 nons”) under law.

You CANNOT get a “split sentence” if:

1) You have a prior or current felony conviction for a serious felony described in Cal. Pen. Code § 1192.7(c);
2) You have a prior or current conviction for a violent felony described in Cal. Pen. Code § 667.5(c);
3) You have a prior felony conviction in another jurisdiction for an offense that has all the elements of a serious or violent felony discussed directly above;
4) You are required to register as a sex offender pursuant to Cal. Pen. Code § 290 et seq.; OR
5) Your conviction included a sentence enhancement pursuant to Cal. Pen. Code § 186.11.

These 5 categories of individuals will still have to serve their sentence in state prison.

---

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION

WHAT MUST I DO AFTER I GET RELEASED ONTO MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

You must report to your County Probation Department for Mandatory Supervision within 2 working days after your release from state prison, court, or county jail. Other instructions for what to do when you first get out on Mandatory Supervision vary from county to county, and you should check with your local county’s probation office for a list of all the requirements.

LENGTH OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION

HOW LONG WILL I BE ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

It depends. The judge in the court that convicted you sets the term and length of mandatory supervision, and it is different for every person depending on what your conviction is for. BUT there are limitations. Split sentences cannot be longer than the maximum sentence possible for the conviction—meaning the total time you serve in custody (in jail) and supervision time (time on Mandatory Supervision) cannot be more than the maximum original sentence.

CAN I GET OFF MANDATORY SUPERVISION EARLY?

Possibly. California law allows you to ask the court to be released early from mandatory supervision. It is entirely up to the judge to decide whether to terminate your mandatory supervision early. Since they are given so much discretion, some judges (and even some whole counties) are unwilling to let people off of mandatory supervision early, regardless of the person’s progress. Many judges see mandatory supervision as an alternative to incarcerating you for the whole time (that’s why it’s called “split sentencing” because the judge split your sentence between incarceration and being on mandatory supervision in the community), so for the most part they are less likely to end your mandatory supervision early as compared with probation.

We recommend that you speak with an attorney BEFORE filing a “Motion to Terminate Mandatory Supervision” early. If you go ahead with asking a judge to end your mandatory supervision early (such a request is called a “Motion”) and it is granted, then you might also be able to ask for certain convictions to be dismissed from your record! For more information on how to file a Motion to Terminate Probation early, and also how to request dismissals of eligible convictions, please see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020.

CONDITIONS OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION

WHAT ARE THE CONDITIONS OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

State law requires Mandatory Supervision to be supervised by a county probation officer with the same “terms, conditions, and procedures that apply to people on probation (such as submitting to drug testing)”.

Generally speaking, Probation Officers use routine office appointments, employment services and treatment program partnerships to ensure compliance with terms and conditions of probation.

CAN I EARN GOOD TIME CREDITS ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

No. There are no good time credits for the supervision portion of Mandatory Supervision.

TRANSFER LOCATIONS ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION

HOW DO I TRANSFER COUNTIES ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

Transferring counties on Mandatory Supervision works the same way as it does for felony probation. Please read on PG. 181 to learn how to transfer.

Go to PG. 182 to learn how to transfer to a new state.

I AM ON PROBATION (MISDEMEANOR OR FELONY PROBATION), PRCS, OR MANDATORY SUPERVISION, AND I WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

The rules and process for transferring your probation, PRCS, or Mandatory Supervision to another state are the same as rules that apply to state parole. Please refer to the process and rules on PG. 368 to understand the rules and process for interstate transfer, governed by the Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision.

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS OF MANDATORY SUPERVISION

WHAT IS THE PROBATION VIOLATION AND REVOCATION PROCESS ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION, AND WHAT ARE MY RIGHTS IN THAT PROCESS?

Go to PG. 220 to learn about your rights relations to the probation violation and revocation process.

WHAT HAPPENS IF I AM UNABLE TO ABIDE BY THE CONDITIONS OF MY MANDATORY SUPERVISION?

If you’re on Mandatory Supervision, the violation and revocation process works the same way as it does for felony probation (FP) and misdemeanor probation (MSD). Please read the violation and revocations information on PG. 220, for a description of the law and how the process works.

YOUR RIGHTS AS A PERSON WITH A DISABILITY ON MANDATORY SUPERVISION

I HAVE A DISABILITY. WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE REGARDING ACCOMMODATIONS FOR MY DISABILITY?

The federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and California state law protect you against discrimination based on your disability, and protect your rights to equal treatment and reasonable accommodations.

If you are on probation (MSD or FP), PRCS, or Mandatory Supervision, you have the right to:

1. Reasonable accommodations and changes in procedures so that you can participate in probation services, programs, and activities, and can successfully complete the terms of your supervision. EXAMPLES INCLUDE:
   a. If you are in a wheelchair, probation staff should make sure that any programs, meetings, and services are in wheelchair-accessible buildings.
   b. If your probation officer refers you to community service (such as a drug treatment center, job center, or literacy center), or requires you to complete a program, the probation staff should make sure that you can actually get to the services and participate in the programs.
   c. If you are required to complete a work program, probation staff should make sure that you are given a (alternative) job that you are able to do with your disability.

2. Effective communication so that you can fully understand and participate in

2 Title II of ADA, § 202 (codified at 42 U.S.C. § 12132); Cal Gov’t Code § 11135; CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 54 et seq. See also 28 C.F.R. Part 35 (implementing the ADA). In addition to federal and state law, some cities or counties may provide additional protections for individuals with disabilities, which protect your rights while you are on supervision in that county. probation programs, services, activities, and proceedings. This includes communication during orientations, interviews, and supervision meetings; when you are notified of conditions of probation and registration requirements; and during grievance and revocation proceedings. EXAMPLES include:

a. Assistance by a sign language interpreter for a hearing-impaired person;

b. Reading aloud of written materials for a vision-impaired person; or

c. Simplifying information for a developmentally disabled person.

3. Additional assistance (including services) and aids (like healthcare devices) to accommodate your disability and ensure that you can fully and successfully participate in programs, activities, and services. EXAMPLES include:

a. Providing sign language interpretation if you are hearing impaired or

b. Wheelchair assistance if you have difficulty walking and cannot access a building.

4. Information about your right to receive accommodations and equal treatment, and how this affects your probation programming and requirements.

HOW CAN I REQUEST AN ACCOMMODATION OR FILE A COMPLAINT IF I FEEL THAT PROBATION IS NOT ACCOMMODATING MY DISABILITY, OR IF I AM NOT GETTING ACCESS TO PROBATION SERVICES OR PROGRAMS?

Unlike for state parole, there are no formal probation policies or procedures to request accommodations or file a complaint related to your disability. Each county does things differently, and many counties have no formal procedures. You can first talk to your probation officer and explain the situation to him/her OR you may ask a judge to modify your probation to accommodate your disability by filing a motion requesting a change. Please Appendix AA, on PG. 349, for detailed steps on the process.

However, most Probation Departments do not have formal grievance procedures to request accommodations or complain about discrimination based on disability.
VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS UNDER COUNTY PROBATION SUPERVISION OF FELONY PROBATION, MISDEMEANOR PROBATION, & MANDATORY SUPERVISION

The following questions and answers apply to most forms of county-level community supervision in California, including misdemeanor probation (MSD), felony probation (FP), and Mandatory Supervision, but NOT Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS).

PRE-HEARING

WHAT IS THE PROBATION REVOCATION PROCESS IN CALIFORNIA?

The following probation revocation process applies to: (1) misdemeanor probation (MSD), (2) felony probation (FP), and (3) Mandatory Supervision.688

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I DON’T FOLLOW THE CONDITIONS OF MY PROBATION?

If any probation officer, parole officer, or police officer has probable cause to believe that you are violating any term or condition of your supervision, the officer may re-arrest you (even without a warrant) and bring you before the court.689

This is the case so long as you are on probation—at any point until the time your probation terminates or your case is dismissed. Alternatively, the court may, in its own discretion, issue a warrant for your re-arrest.690

If you willfully miss a scheduled court date/ “progress report,” this is considered a probation violation and the court will issue a bench warrant for your arrest.691

CAN I BE REVOKED FOR NOT PAYING RESTITUTION?

Yes, BUT not if you cannot afford to pay. If you do not pay restitution, your probation can be revoked.692 But your probation will not be revoked due to a failure to pay restitution unless the court determines that: 1) you have the ability to pay, and 2) you willfully failed to pay.693

691 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2.
692 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2. See also Bearden v. Georgia, 461 U.S. 660.
693 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2. See also, People v. Self, 233 Cal. App. 3d 212 (“Probation shall not be revoked for failure of a person to make restitution . . . as a condition of probation unless the court determines that the defendant has willfully failed to pay and has the ability to pay. Restitution shall be consistent with a person’s ability to pay.”).
CAN FLASH INCARCERATION BE USED AS AN INTERMEDIATE SANCTION?

Not if you are on misdemeanor probation (MSD), felony probation (FP), or Mandatory Supervision. Flash incarceration can only be used for people on parole or PRCS.\(^694\)

AM I ENTITLED TO BAIL?

It depends. Bail amounts for probation violations vary from county to county. Bail amounts for probation violations may also vary depending on the type of offense you were convicted of, and whether you are on MSD or FP.\(^695\)

If you have internet access, you can usually find standard felony and misdemeanor bail amounts for probation violations (also referred to as “bail schedules”) on your county Superior Court’s website.\(^696\) Or you may call your county public defenders office to ask them about bail amounts for probation violations.

WHAT DOES THE COURT HAVE THE POWER TO DO TO MY PROBATION STATUS?

The court can:

1) Reinstate your probation with the same probation terms and conditions;
2) Reinstate and modify (meaning change the terms or conditions of your probation),
3) Revoke and terminate (meaning take away your probation and sentence you to jail or prison time). The court can modify, revoke, or terminate probation’s supervision of you on its own motion or upon the petition (a formal, legal request through the court) of you, the probation or parole officer, or the District Attorney. This applies to MSD, FP, and Mandatory Supervision.\(^697\)

FOR FULL DETAILS ON THE COURT PROCEDURE AND SENTENCING IN PROBATION REVOCATION PROCEEDING, PLEASE SEE PG. 220.

THE HEARING

WHAT COURT WILL HEAR MY CASE?

The court in the county in which you are supervised has “jurisdiction” (the legal authority) to hear the motion or petition to modify, revoke, or terminate you probation.\(^698\)

For those on probation, it will be either the court in the county in which you are supervised or the court in the county in which the alleged violation of supervision occurred.\(^699\)

\(^{696}\) For example, you can find Riverside County’s bail schedule at: http://www.riverside.courts.ca.gov/bailschedule.pdf. In Riverside County, the standard bail amount for a violation of misdemeanor probation is $5,000. But the bail standard bail amount for a violation of FP in Riverside County is $50,000.

\(^{698}\) CAL.PENAL CODE § 1203.2(b).
WHO HEARS THE CASES?
Judges, magistrates, or court-appointed hearing officers hear probation revocation cases.\(^{700}\)

WHO REPRESENTS THE INTEREST OF PROBATION IN THE HEARING?
The District Attorney (DA), on behalf of the state of California.\(^{701}\)

WHAT DOES THE PROSECUTOR (D.A.) NEED TO PROVE?
The prosecutor, also known as the District Attorney (DA), must prove that is more likely than not that you violated probation.\(^{702}\)

Unlike a criminal trial where the DA must prove the case “beyond a reasonable doubt,” the DA in a probation revocation hearing only needs to prove by a “preponderance of the evidence” that you violated probation.\(^{703}\)

DO I HAVE A RIGHT TO NOTICE OF THE PROBATION REVOCATION HEARING?
Yes, unless you waive the notice requirement in writing.\(^{704}\)

You must be given notice before your first court appearance in the probation revocation proceedings, unless you agreed in writing to a modification (a change) or termination (an end) of a specific term of your supervision.\(^{705}\)

If you agreed in writing to a modification or termination of a specific term of your supervision, you also do not have to make an in-person appearance in court for the hearing.\(^{706}\) We suggest that you speak with an attorney or public defender prior to waiving your right to a revocation hearing.

DO I HAVE THE RIGHT TO AN ATTORNEY AT THE HEARING?
Yes.\(^{707}\) Before you waive the requirement to personally appear at the hearing or before you accept an offer of modification of your probation conditions, you should be informed that you have the right to an attorney, and if you cannot afford one, you have the right to a free attorney provided by the court.\(^{708}\)

(“Considerations of both law and policy dictate that the facts in a probation revocation hearing be provable by a preponderance of the evidence. First, constitutional principles permit the revocation of probation when the facts supporting it are proven by a preponderance of the evidence. While no constitutional provision declares a standard of proof for probation revocation hearings, the United States Supreme Court has indicated that due process requires no stricter standard of proof in probation revocation hearings than a preponderance of the evidence.”)

\(^{707}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2 (b)(2).
\(^{708}\) Pursuant to CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2(b)(2)
If you waive the right to an attorney, this waiver must be in writing. Again, we suggest that you speak with an attorney or public defender prior to waiving your right to a revocation hearing.

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE DURING A PROBATION REVOCATION HEARING?

There are minimal due process requirements for probation revocation proceedings. This means that you don’t have all of the same rights that you have at trial.

You have the following rights:

1. Written notice of the alleged violations and the possible consequences, with enough information to allow you to prepare a defense and obtain mitigating evidence (meaning evidence that would lessen the perceived severity of the violation or help justify it);
2. Disclosure of the evidence against you;
3. Timely hearing of the charges at a probable cause hearing and a formal revocation hearing;
4. The right to present witnesses and evidence. You can subpoena and present witnesses and evidence. A person served with a subpoena for a parole revocation hearing is required to appear at the hearing unless the hearing is held at a place outside the county of his or her residence and more than 75 miles from his or her residence;
5. The right to confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses. You have a conditional right under the U.S. and California constitutions to confront witnesses whose statements are used against you in a probation violation hearing. This means that you or your attorney may cross-examine any people who gave information or testified that you violated your probation.

709 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2(b)(2).
710 In Morrissey v. Brewer, the U.S. Supreme Court established minimal due process requirements for parole revocation proceedings under the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. 408 U.S. 471, 488-89 (1972). With regard to the revocation of probation, the Court subsequently held that “a probationer, like a parolee, is entitled to a preliminary and a final revocation hearing, under the conditions specified in Morrissey.” Gagnon v. Scarpelli, 411 U.S. 778, 782 (1973). Thus, the State “must provide the same process [found in Morrissey] when terminating a probationer from probation.” State v. Rogers, 144 Idaho 738, 742-43 (2007); State v. Scraggins, 153 Idaho 867, 871 (2012). While Morrissey and Gagnon holdings make clear that probationers do not retain the full constitutional protections afforded criminal defendants, a probationer has a protected liberty interest in continued probation, and is therefore entitled to due process before probation may be revoked. Morrissey and Gagnon set forth those minimum due process requirements. See State v. Scraggins, 153 Idaho 867, 871 (2012). Cases since Morrissey have reaffirmed those rights and described them more specifically. See People v. Vickers, 8 Cal. 3d 451 (1979) (“[T]he efficient administration of justice requires that the defendant be assisted by retained or appointed counsel at all revocation proceedings other than at summary proceedings had while the probationer remains at liberty after acquitting.”); see also, Gagnon V. Scarpelli, 411 U.S. 778 (1973).

U.S. Parole Commission, 741 F.2d 1197 (9th Cir. 1984) (due process violated by lack of notice of basis for parole violation charge); Rizzo v. Armstrong, 921 F.2d 855, 858 (9th Cir. 1990) (failure to give notice of consequences if parole revoked at hearing).
713 Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 488-89 (1972); People v. Moore, 34 Cal.3d 215 (1983) (state has duty to preserve and disclose material physical evidence).
714 Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 485 (1972); People v. Woodall, 216 Cal. App. 4th 1221 (2013) (probation revocation procedures that fail to provide probable cause hearing do not violate due process rights if full hearing occurs relatively soon or if preliminary hearing on any new criminal charges is conducted).

718 Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 488-89 (1972); Valdivia v Schwarzenegger, 599 F.3d 984, 989 (9th Cir. 2010).
720 You keep this right to cross-examine a witness unless: a) the hearing officer (i.e. the judge) determines that there is “good cause” that the witness does not have to testify, and b) that the “good cause” outweighs (exceeds) your right to confront that particular witness. If the hearing officer determines that there is “good cause” that a witness does not have to testify, then the hearing examiner may take into consideration that witness’s past out-of-court statements, even though the witness will not be in court to confront. For example, if a judge determines that there is “good cause” that a witness’s safety will be in danger if he or she testifies at your probation revocation hearing, then the witness’s past statements are admissible at your hearing. But remember—the more important the witness’s testimony is to the case, the stronger your right to confront and question that witness is (see U.S. v. Comito, 177 F.3d 1166 (9th Cir. 1999); Valdivia v Schwarzenegger, 599 F.3d 984, 989 (9th Cir. 2010); People v. Arreola, 7 Cal.4th 1144, 1154 (1994). See also Gagnon V. Scarpelli 411 U.S. 778 (1973).”) The minimum requirements of due
6) A fair and unbiased hearing body;\textsuperscript{221} and
7) A written statement of the decision, the evidence relied on, and the reasons for revoking parole.\textsuperscript{222}

IMPORTANT: You may waive (give up) your rights, either expressly—by saying you give up the right, or by implication—by failing to assert the right.\textsuperscript{723} Therefore, it is important that you take advantage of your rights and complain if a right is violated.

CAN THE PROSECUTOR (D.A.) INTRODUCE EVIDENCE THAT WAS OBTAINED IN VIOLATION OF MY FOURTH AMENDMENT RIGHT AGAINST UNLAWFUL SEARCH & SEIZURE AT MY PROBATION REVOCATION PROCEEDING?

Yes.\textsuperscript{724} You should note that the “exclusionary rule” that usually applies in a criminal court trial—a rule that bars evidence obtained in violation of the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution—does NOT apply in probation revocation hearings. This means that even if evidence was suppressed in an earlier criminal trial, it can still most likely be brought in to a later parole revocation hearing.\textsuperscript{725}

CAN A WITNESS BE EXCUSED FROM TESTIFYING IN FRONT OF ME AT A PROBATION REVOCATION HEARING?

Witnesses may not be required to testify in front of you if they are deemed fearful or confidential.\textsuperscript{726}

- “Fearful witnesses” are witnesses whose identity is known to you but who: (1) have indicated that they are at risk of harm if they testify in your presence; or (2) have requested that their contact information be withheld from you. Testimony of a fearful witness can be taken outside the parolee’s presence, but the parolee’s attorney must be present.
- “Confidential witnesses” are witnesses whose identity you are unaware of and who would be at a risk of harm if their identity were disclosed.\textsuperscript{727} However, if confidential information is used as part of the reason you’re charged with violating probation, you can request that the prosecutor disclose (reveal) this information or prove that revealing this information would create a risk of harm to the confidential witness.\textsuperscript{728}
WHAT HAPPENS IF A VERY IMPORTANT WITNESS DOESN’T SHOW UP TO THE PROBATION REVOCATION HEARING, EVEN THOUGH HE/SHE WAS REQUIRED TO ATTEND?

If a very important (called “material”) state witness fails to attend a parole revocation hearing, and the hearing cannot fairly proceed without the witness, the court can postpone the hearing or dismiss the case. 729

SENTENCING

HOW LONG CAN I BE SENTENCED TO JAIL TIME FOR A PROBATION REVOCATION?

It depends on what your original conviction was for. When your probation is revoked and terminated, the court may—if the original sentence was suspended—now sentence you to jail for the longest period (the maximum sentence) that you could have originally been sentenced for the specific crime you were convicted of committing. 730

COULD I BE SENTENCED TO PRISON INSTEAD OF JAIL FOR A PROBATION REVOCATION?

It’s possible. You could be sentenced to prison time instead of jail time if the crime that you were originally convicted of is one that would have allowed a judge to sentence you to prison. 731 On the other hand, if the crime you were originally convicted of would not have allowed a judge to sentence you to prison time, then your probation revocation time cannot be sentenced to prison either.

SUMMARY OF SENTENCING FOR PROBATION REVOCATION PROCEEDINGS

What are the options the court has for sentencing/ punishment if they revoke probation? The judge could:

1) Reinstate your probation on the same terms and conditions;
2) Reinstated and modify (change) the terms of your probation to make them more difficult, (including adding fines, community service, or public works service); OR
3) Revoke and terminate your probation—and send you to jail or prison, depending on the commitment offense. 732

IF MY PROBATION IS REVOKED AND TERMINATED, HOW LONG WILL I BE SENT TO PRISON OR JAIL?

It depends. The length of time that you will be sentenced depends on what 729 To decide whether the witness’s testimony would be “material,” the court will weight the importance of the witness’s expected testimony against the availability and reliability of any alternative source of the same information. Also, if the state’s material witnesses fail to appear, but your witnesses are present, you and your attorney may want to ask that the court take the testimony of your witnesses before postponing the rest of the hearing. See CAL. PENAL CODE § 1050(e).

730 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2 (c).

731 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.2 (d). The statute reads: “In any case of revocation and termination of probation, including, but not limited to, cases in which the judgment has been pronounced and the execution thereof has been suspended, upon the revocation and termination, the court may, in lieu of any other sentence, commit the person to the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, Division of Juvenile Facilities if he or she is otherwise eligible for such commitment.” CAL. judge ordered at the time you were sentenced. When you were initially sentenced to probation, the sentencing judge had the option of either ordering that the Execution of Sentence be Suspended (ESS) or ordering that the Imposition of Sentence be Suspended (ISS). Trying to figure out if the judge imposed ESS or ISS can be tricky. This is a technical area of law, you should be asking your attorney or public defender if you are not sure whether the judge ordered ESS or ISS.

Here are the basics:

- ESS means that the sentence is only executed (meaning, you serve the sentence) if your probation is revoked because you violated your probation conditions.
- ISS means that your sentence has not yet been determined at the time the judge sentences you to probation. But, if you have ISS and you violate the terms of your probation, and you probation is revoked, then the court, at time that the court finds you in violation of your probation, will sentence you to whatever length sentence (up to the maximum for your specified offense) it deems appropriate.

CHALLENGING A REVOCATION DECISION

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE IF I AM A PERSON WITH A DISABILITY GOING THROUGH PROBATION REVOCATION PROCEEDINGS?

The ADA and California state law protect your rights during probation revocation proceedings. In addition, you have a constitutional right to Due Process during a revocation hearing, this means that the court must give you notice of and ensure that you can participate effectively in the hearing. (See PG. 223 above for more information on your Due Process rights during a probation revocation hearing).

If you have a disability, you have the following rights during probation revocation proceedings:

- Reasonable accommodations from Probation staff Examples of accommodations include: Ensuring access to the hearing room for a person with mobility impairments; providing Braille or taped documents or reading assistance for a vision-impaired person; providing assistance in communicating for a developmentally disabled person; or providing sign language interpretation for a hearing-impaired person.
- Probation staff must use effective communication and provide accommodations when interacting with people on probation with disabilities. That means that they must use effective communication and provide accommodation when arresting parolees or modifying conditions of probation.

Footnotes:

233 If you plead guilty and have ISS, then whether or not your sentence will be imposed in front of the same judge who accepted your guilty plea depends on whether or not you signed an Arbuckle waiver. An Arbuckle waiver occurs when a defendant waives his right to be sentenced by the same judge who presided over his/her trial/accepted the change of plea. Without an Arbuckle waiver, any sentencing imposed by another judge is unlawful.

• In the courtroom, attorney and court are responsible for meeting your needs during the court processes.
• Additional assistance to accommodate your disability so that ensure that you can fully and successfully participate in the revocation proceeding.
• Information about your right to receive accommodations and equal treatment, and how this affects your probation programming and requirements.

IMPORTANT TIPS IN COURT:

• Tell the judge about your disability and how it affects your probation: Remember, the judge has much more power than your probation officer in deciding whether or not to revoke your probation. So if your disability is making it difficult for you to comply with your probation conditions (and if this is the reason for your revocation), you should try to explain this to the judge. Remember to bring documentation (i.e. letters from doctors, medical reports) of your disability to court with you.

• Tell the Judge what assistance you need from the Probation Department to accommodate your disability: You should also explain if you need any additional assistance from the Probation Department.

• Bring Witnesses: Finally, you can also bring any witnesses (for example, a doctor, therapist, or other service provider) and evidence (such as a letter from your doctor or prescription for medication) to show how your disability affects you.

CAN I CHALLENGE A DECISION/ACTION BY THE COUNTY SUPERIOR COURT?

Yes. If you are on probation and would like to challenge a revocation decision or action made by a court, you can file a direct appeal that allows you appeal “any order made after judgment, affecting the substantial rights of the party.”

STEP 1: To file an appeal, you must file a notice of appeal in the superior court within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision.

STEP 2: When you file a timely notice of appeal, the County Superior will prepare a record of the probation revocation proceedings consisting of all the documents filed in the court and transcripts of the hearings and provide these documents to you, the court, the state (the prosecutor). In a direct appeal, the court must appoint an attorney to represent the you for free if you do not have enough money to pay for one. If you wish to have a court-appointed attorney, you must file a timely notice of appeal within 60 calendar days after the court’s decision. For a list of California County Superior Courts, visit: http://www.courts.ca.gov/find-my-court.htm.

STEP 3: If you do not file a timely notice of appeal or if your case involves information outside the court record, then you may be able to raise the issues in a state court petition for a writ of habeas corpus (see explanation in Appendix K, on PG. 312).

744 CAL. RULES OF COURT, rule 8.308.
There are many types of issues that you can raise in a challenge to a revocation proceeding or decision. Claims can be based on violations of state or federal constitutional due process rights, California or federal statutes, or California administrative rules. For example, a person could argue that the revocation hearing is being unreasonably delayed, that he or she was denied the right to cross-examine witnesses at the hearing, or that the revocation decision was not supported by the evidence. Unfortunately, in most cases, the process for raising such challenges will be too slow to provide any relief before you serve the entire revocation term. However, you may still benefit by getting their revocation cases re-heard, getting their revocations vacated, and/or getting the time served for the revocation deducted from the controlling parole discharge date.

BASICS OF FEDERAL PROBATION

WHAT IS FEDERAL PROBATION?

After you are convicted of a federal crime, federal probation is often used as an alternative sentence to prison time. That means that federal “probation” is still considered a sentence in and of itself. For the most part, if you are placed on federal probation, you must report to your assigned probation office and comply with all the rules (terms and conditions) of your federal probation.\(^\text{745}\)

\(^\text{745}\) A defendant may receive a sentence of probation unless he or she is convicted of a Class A or B felony; probation is prohibited by statute of conviction; or the defendant is sentenced at the same time to imprisonment. 18 U.S.C. § 3561(a). A court’s authority to impose probation is based solely on statute. See Alford v. U.S., 350 U.S. 79, 83 (1955). The authorized length of probation is between one and five years for a felony; not more than five years for a misdemeanor, and not more than one year for an infraction. 18 U.S.C. § 3561(c).

WHO IS SUPERVISED BY FEDERAL PROBATION?

1) People who are on “federal probation”
2) People who are on something called “supervised release”
3) People who would have, in the past (and today in Washington, D.C. only) be put on federal parole

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON FEDERAL PROBATION

WHEN MUST I REPORT TO MY PROBATION OFFICER?

You must report to your probation officer within 72 hours (3 days), or sooner if a judge or U.S. Probation Officer orders you to.\textsuperscript{747}

Read the written statement given to you by U.S. Probation for information on where, when, and to whom you should report.\textsuperscript{748} If you cannot remember where you were supposed to report or have lost your written statement, you should report to the nearest U.S. Probation office and they will be able to help you.\textsuperscript{749}

To find the U.S. Probation office closest to you:

1) Go to the U.S. Courts’ website here: http://www.uscourts.gov/Court_Locator/CourtLocatorSearch.aspx
2) Fill in your city, state, and zip code.
3) Under the “Court Type” drop-down menu, choose “Probation Offices”
4) A list of offices nearest you will appear. If you click the link for “Details” on any one of those listings, it will take you to a new web page with the street address, phone number for the U.S. Probation office, and an interactive map of the location.

Sometimes the Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP)—which oversees the federal prison system across the country—will release you to a transitional house (a “halfway house”), before you’ve reached your actual release date—usually 6 months ahead of time.

Before you leave federal prison, the prison staff will give you a “Notice of Release and Arrival” (Form BP-S714.056), which will clearly state the exact amount of time you are allowed for transportation from the prison to the transitional house. Once at the transitional house, you might be subject to a lockdown period (for example, a 72-hour lockdown period)—meaning you cannot leave for those days.

After being released from a transitional house, Federal Probation staff will give you another Notice of Release and Arrival (Form BP-S714.056). For some people on federal probation, that is the moment that the 72-hour clock for checking in with your Probation Officer begins. That form will also clearly state your home confinement date. The transitional house you are leasing in may have requirements you first have to meet to their satisfaction before you will be released to home confinement—usually on an ankle monitor until the 6 months are up.

LENGTH OF FEDERAL PROBATION

HOW LONG IS MY SUPERVISION UNDER FEDERAL PROBATION?

The maximum term of probation that can be imposed depends on the type of conviction offense:

(1) FELONY CONVICTION: Minimum 1 year to maximum 5 years (maximum); or
(2) MISDEMEANOR CONVICTION: Maximum 5 years.
(3) INFRACTION: Maximum 1 year.

Therefore, to know the range of time you could be sentenced to federal probation, you will need to know if you were convicted of a felony, misdemeanor, or infraction. If you aren't sure, ask your federal public defender or your probation officer.

CAN I GET OFF OF FEDERAL PROBATION EARLY?

Possibly. You can ask for early release from federal probation from the judge who originally sentenced you.

- For a misdemeanor conviction or an infraction, you can file a petition and ask the judge to terminate your federal probation at any time.
- For a felony conviction, you can file a petition and ask the judge to terminate your federal probation after one year. Talk to your U.S. Probation Officer about this request first, because he or she can help you ask the judge for this.

The court has the power to decide whether or not to let you off probation early. In most cases, judges will deny requests to be let off probation early. But that doesn’t mean that you shouldn’t try, especially if you’ve done really well on your probation. And remember, it is really helpful if your Probation Officer supports your request.

You have the best shot of being let off of federal probation EARLY if:

- You have completed 2/3 of your probation term (or at the very least, you are ½ way through),
- You have had no violations,
- You have complied with all the terms of your probation,
- You have paid all restitution an fines, and
- Your probation officer agrees that you should be let off early.

750 There are three types of crimes in the federal criminal justice system: Felonies, Misdemeanors, and Infractions. Felonies are offenses for which a term of imprisonment of more than one year is possible. Misdemeanors are offenses for which a term of imprisonment no greater than one year may be imposed. Finally, Infractions are offenses for which the term of imprisonment may be no longer than five days. See 18 U.S.C. § 3559.

752 18 U.S.C. § 3564(c).

What factors might the judge consider in my request?

It depends on the judge. Ultimately, the decision to end your federal probation early is up to the judge who originally sentenced you. To get off of federal probation early, you must show the judge that you have earned it through good conduct, and it must be in the interest of justice.\(^5\) See APPENDIX EE PG. 358 for more information about.

Here is the full list of factors that the judge may consider when deciding whether to let you off probation early:

- Whether or not your Probation Officer or the Prosecutor support your request;
- The nature and seriousness of the crime you were convicted of;
- Your criminal history and/or mental illness history;
- Whether the judge believes you are a threat to the public;
- Whether the judge believes you have been sufficiently punished;
- Whether you have completed any substance abuse treatment or rehabilitation programs;
- How your sentence compares to the federal sentencing guidelines recommended sentence;
- U.S. Sentencing Commission policy statements;\(^5\)
- Whether you’ve paid restitution to the victims.\(^5\)

COULD MY TIME ON FEDERAL PROBATION BE EXTENDED BEYOND THE ORIGINAL SENTENCE?

Yes, but only if you were not originally given the maximum term on federal probation that would be allowed under law. The judge may extend your probation at any time before the end of your sentence, but must give you a hearing before doing so. At that court hearing, the judge can make your probation term longer if he or she did not originally give you the maximum authorized term.\(^7\)

A judge may extend your time on federal probation instead of sending you to jail if he or she finds you violated your conditions of probation (see PG. 233 which discusses conditions of federal probation). The maximum amount of time you’ll spend on federal probation supervision depends on whether you were convicted of a felony, misdemeanor, or infraction. Look at PG. 231 to figure out the maximum amount of time you could spend on federal probation.

CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PROBATION

WHAT ARE CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PROBATION, AND WHY ARE THEY IMPORTANT?

Your conditions of federal probation are the rules set by the judge that you must follow if you want to remain in the community under supervision, and not be sent back to prison. These are called “release conditions”—they tell you what you can and can’t do in the community. These conditions are broken down into two types: (1) mandatory conditions and (2) discretionary conditions.

Examples include:

• Not being able to own/store guns or other weapons;
• No contact with victims or witnesses; restrict your association with certain people or groups;
• Restricted travel;
• Curfews;
• Community service;
• Electronic monitoring;
• Employment requirements;
• Mental health treatment;
• Substance abuse treatment.

It is important for you to know what conditions you must follow on federal probation so that you don’t get into trouble or sent to prison for violating those rules.

Also: be sure to talk to your U.S. Probation Officer about how to get connected to any needed services or resources offered in your community.

WHERE CAN I FIND A WRITTEN STATEMENT OF MY CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PROBATION?

The judge must direct the probation officer to provide you with a written statement that explains all the conditions you must follow, and is clear and specific enough to guide your conduct under supervision.\(^{158}\)

The conditions of supervision are also listed on the “Judgment in a Criminal Case” produced by the court after your sentencing hearing. Ask your attorney or the Clerk of the Court where you were sentenced for a copy of this document so that you can be sure of your obligations to the Court. Most judges will not excuse your failure to comply with the conditions of supervision simply because you did not receive a copy of the conditions.\(^{160}\)

HOW OFTEN DO I HAVE TO SEE MY PROBATION OFFICER IF I AM ON FEDERAL PROBATION?

It depends. How often you must report to your probation officer varies widely \(^{159}\) 18 U.S.C. §§ 3563, 3583.

\(^{160}\) This is because the Judge also reads all of the conditions to you at your sentencing hearing.
based on the individual “supervision plan” developed for you by your probation officer.\footnote{See 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b)(15) (permitting the Court to order a defendant to report to a probation officer as directed by probation)\footnote{See Federal Judicial Center, Who Does What?, \url{http://www.fjc.gov/federal/courts.nsf/autoframe/openform&nav=menu1&page=/federal/courts.nsf/page/360}}.

Some supervision plans require weekly meetings and even more frequent phone contact; for others, occasional or monthly contact is sufficient. Meetings may take place at the probation office, your home, or your workplace.\footnote{See 18 U.S.C. § 3563(a) (listing the sentencing factors Judges must consider when imposing sentence).} Probation officers sometimes make “surprise” visits. For this reason, it is important that you always inform your probation officer of any changes to your work schedule.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MANDATORY & DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS?

Federal law governs the mandatory conditions of federal probation (the law breaks it down into a list of mandatory conditions (required) and discretionary conditions (not required).\footnote{18 U.S.C. § 3563.}

1) Mandatory conditions are the rules that judges must impose.
2) Discretionary conditions are the rules that judges can, but do not have to, impose.

If a judge wants to impose a discretionary condition, he or she MUST find that the condition reasonably relates to sentencing factors,\footnote{18 U.S.C. § 3553(a) (listing the sentencing factors Judges must consider when imposing sentence).} and is reasonably necessary for the purposes of supervision.\footnote{18 U.S.C. § 3563(b); 3583(d), 3583.}

The only difference to note is that intermittent confinement may be imposed as a condition of probation during the first year of federal probation. Intermittent confinement means temporarily going into Bureau of Prisons (BOP) custody for a night, a weekend (or possibly for a longer period of time).\footnote{18 U.S.C. § 3563(b)(10).}

WHAT ARE THE MANDATORY CONDITIONS ON FEDERAL PROBATION?

The following conditions are mandatory and apply to EVERYONE on Federal Probation. (Note: These also apply to everyone on Supervised Release, see PG. 243.)

1) You cannot commit another federal, state, or local crime during the entire length of your federal probation. The court must make this condition known and clear to you.
2) You cannot unlawfully use a controlled substance.
3) You must submit to one drug test within 15 days of release and at least 2 periodic drug tests thereafter (as determined by the court).
   a) Consequences for a confirmed positive drug test include:
      b) Possible prison time, and
   c) Court-ordered participation in a substance abuse treatment program (unless your current or past participation in such a program warrants an exception)\footnote{18 U.S.C. §§ 3563, 3583.}

The Court can completely remove or suspend this condition if your pre-sentence report (or other reliable sentencing information) indicated a low risk of future substance abuse.
5) You must cooperate in the collection of a DNA sample. You may be placed in prison for up to one year or fined up to $100,000 if you fail to cooperate with a DNA sample.

6) You must notify your U.S. probation officer if there is any significant change in your income or economic circumstances, which would impact how much you can pay towards any unpaid restitution, fines, or special assessments. Even those receiving SSI/SSDI “Disability” benefits will be asked to pay. If you are low-income, you should communicate with your probation officer about how you might be able to arrange payments you can afford.

IMPORTANT NOTE: OTHER MANDATORY CONDITIONS MAY APPLY DEPENDING ON YOUR COMMITMENT OFFENSE!!! See the next question.

WHAT ARE ADDITIONAL MANDATORY CONDITIONS THAT ONLY CERTAIN PEOPLE ON FEDERAL PROBATION HAVE TO FOLLOW?

The following are mandatory conditions that apply to ONLY CERTAIN people on Felony Probation, depending on your commitment offense.

> MANDATORY CONDITIONS if you were convicted of a felony:

You must also follow at least one of the following two conditions, as ordered by the judge:

- Pay restitution to a victim of the offense, OR
- Perform community service.

EXCEPTIONS: You do not have to obey one of these two additional conditions if one of the following applies to you:

- The judge imposed a fine that removed this requirement; OR
- The judge finds on the record that extraordinary circumstances exist that would make such a condition plainly unreasonable, in which case the judge must impose one or more of the other discretionary conditions.

> MANDATORY CONDITION if you are required to register as a sex offender:

You must comply with all the requirements of the Sex Offender Registration & Notification Act.

WHAT DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS WILL I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON FEDERAL PROBATION?

For a discretionary condition to be lawful, the following must be true:

1) It must be “reasonably related” to the nature and circumstances of the offense, your personal history and characteristics, the need to protect the public from you committing future crimes, and the need to provide you

For people on supervised release, DNA samples are usually taken prior to your release (especially if you were convicted of murder, voluntary manslaughter, enslavement, kidnapping, robbery, burglary, incest, or arson). But if your DNA sample was not taken prior to your release, some Districts contract with companies who will take your DNA sample after your release. 774 42 U.S.C. § 16911, et seq.
A judge may order discretionary conditions on your federal probation—but only if it meets this two-part legal standard.

Furthermore, discretionary conditions of federal probation can be thought of in two categories—(1) “standard conditions,” which are imposed in almost every person’s case (see note directly below), and (2) other discretionary conditions that may be added to you in particular (see the next question).

AN IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT STANDARD CONDITIONS:

The list of “Standard Conditions” below—while technically discretionary (not required)—will be added by the judge in almost every case of federal probation (the same is true for Supervised Release, see PG. 243). These “standard conditions” will be in addition to the general conditions of federal probation discussed on PG. 234 above. For a full list, please see PG. 353. If you are on federal probation that means you will likely have to follow all of these rules.

WHAT RULES MUST THE JUDGE FOLLOW WHEN ORDERING DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS ON MY FEDERAL PROBATION?

To add a discretionary condition to your federal probation, the judge must find that the conditions are reasonably related to the following factors:

• The nature and circumstances of the offense;
• Your personal history and characteristics;
• Reflecting the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law and to provide just punishment for the offense;
• Adequately deterring future criminal conduct;
• Protecting the public from further crimes committed by you; and/or
• Providing you with needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner.

• Furthermore, if the additional discretionary conditions deprive you of liberty or property, the judge must find that the conditions are reasonably necessary to:
  o Reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, and to provide just punishment for the offense;
  o Adequately deter future criminal conduct;
  o Protect the public from further crimes committed by you; and/or o Provide you with needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner.

Courts have emphasized that ALL of these requirements MUST be satisfied for a judge to impose a special condition.

If you want to learn about your rights to challenge or change a discretionary condition of your federal probation, see the next Question & Answer on PG. 106.

CAN I ASK THAT MY CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PROBATION BE CHANGED?

Yes. The judge may change, reduce, or increase the conditions of a sentence of federal probation at any time before your probation term ends. The judge may change or increase the conditions of your probation if you violate a condition of probation. In the best-case scenario—if you have not had any violations and you have fulfilled all probation requirements—the judge may end your probation early. In the worst-case scenario, the judge may revoke your probation and sentence you to time in prison.

CAN I CHALLENGE UNLAWFUL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS THAT WERE ADDED ON TO MY FEDERAL PROBATION?

YES. If you think that a discretionary condition is illegal, then you can appeal the condition.

For a federal probation condition to be LAWFUL:

(1) It must be “reasonably related” to the nature and circumstances of the offense, your personal history and characteristics, any concerns of public safety, and the need to provide you educational or job training, medical care, or correctional treatment; AND

(2) Cannot deprive you of liberty (meaning, your ability to live your life freely without excessive restrictions) any more than “reasonably necessary” to deter future crimes, protect the public, and provide you with training and treatment.

Courts have emphasized that BOTH of these requirements must be met to impose a DISCRETIONARY CONDITION on you. If you object to a special condition, it is the government’s responsibility (NOT yours) to show that the condition is legally justified. We suggest that you speak with an attorney if you think a condition of your probation is illegal.

HOW CAN I CHALLENGE UNLAWFUL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS THAT WERE ADDED ON TO MY FEDERAL PROBATION?

Within 14 days of your sentencing hearing, you must file a Notice of Appeal with the Clerk of the Court where you were convicted. Once this occurs, you should contact the Federal Public Defender’s Office in your federal judicial district. For a list of Federal Public Defender’s Offices in California, visit:

780 18 U.S.C. §§ 3563, 3583; see also Fed. R. CRIM. Pro. 32.1 (describing the procedures required for the probation officer to petition the Court for a modification or revocation of probation or supervised release, and for the Court in adjudicating a potential revocation or modification). The Court can also modify or revoke your Federal Probation or Supervised Release after the official end of the term (i.e., a specific number of years after your release from custody) so long as the violation and Probation Officer’s Petition to Modify or Revoke was filed with the Court before the official end of the term of supervision. This means that the Probation Office can obtain an arrest warrant years after an event occurred.

As a result, when the government seeks to restrict a defendant’s liberty through a term of supervised release, it shoulders the burden of proving that a particular condition of supervised release involves no greater deprivation of liberty than is reasonably necessary to serve the goals of supervised release.").

ROADMAP TO REENTRY

NOTE: The same rules and processes apply for challenging discretionary conditions of Supervised Release as for federal probation (refer back to PG. 106 for challenging conditions of federal probation.)

TRANSFER LOCATIONS ON FEDERAL PROBATION

The same rules and processes for transferring and moving residences apply to both federal probation and Supervised Release (Supervised Release transfers discussed on PG. 252).

I AM ON FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE, AND I WANT TO MOVE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

The process depends on whether you are asking to move to a new residence within the same district OR to a new residence in a different district.

In a nutshell, it's easier to move within the same district than to move to a new one. The steps below outline both possibilities:

POSSIBILITY #1:

If you are moving to a new residence within your current district, follow these steps:

STEP 1: Notify your Probation Officer that you want to change your address, and submit that address and the contact information for anyone else living at that address. You must get permission from your Probation Officer to move within your current U.S. Probation District—even if it's across the street.

STEP 2: Your Probation Officer will investigate the new address—so long as it is located in the same U.S. Probation District. As part of that investigation, your Probation Officer will:

1) Make sure the new address actually exists;
2) Make sure that other people living at the new address are willing and able to have you in their home;
3) Run a background check on everyone living at the new address;
4) PLEASE NOTE: Since it is a standard condition for all people on Federal Probation or Supervised Release to avoid associating with anyone else who has a felony conviction, your request to move/transfer to live with someone who has been convicted of a felony will likely be denied.
5) Make sure that everyone at the new address knows about and agrees to the “Search Condition” of your Federal Probation or Supervised Release.
6) Make sure there are no weapons at the new address.

786 The Search Condition might read something like “The defendant is prohibited from possessing controlled substances. To ensure that the defendant is in compliance, the defendant will submit to search of his person, home, or vehicle at any time of the day or night by any law enforcement or probation officer without cause.” This means your friends may get searched if at your home (or vice versa). If either of you have any contraband, there is a good chance both of you will be getting in trouble.
POSSIBILITY #2:

If you are moving to a new residence outside of your current U.S. Probation District, it's suggested that you follow these steps:

STEP 1: Before you ask for a formal transfer to a new district—which can be a longer, more challenging process—ask your probation officer for what is called “courtesy supervision” by another district. This technically keeps your case in the original district, but allows you to live in and travel to the district of your choice. Your probation officer AND the probation officer of the other district have to agree. After doing this, it is much easier to transfer to the courtesy district than to just transfer from one district to another without “courtesy supervision” being set up first.

STEP 2: If “courtesy supervision” is denied or doesn’t work out, you can still request a formal transfer. Tell your Probation Officer that you want to change your address, and submit that address and the contact information for anyone else living at that address. You must get permission from your Probation Officer to move to a new address in a different U.S. Probation District.

STEP 3: Your Probation Officer must submit a “Transfer Investigation” to the new district. The Transfer Investigation generally takes 30 days or longer, since both your current district and the new district must investigate your new proposed address and approve the transfer. As part of the “Transfer Investigation,” a Probation Officer in the receiving District will:

1) Make sure the new address actually exists;
2) Make sure that other people living at the new address are willing and able to have you in their home;
3) Run a background check on everyone living at the new address;
   a) PLEASE NOTE: Since it is a standard condition for all people on Federal Probation or Supervised Release to avoid associating with anyone else who has a felony conviction, your request to move/transfer to live with someone who has been convicted of a felony will likely be denied.
4) Make sure that everyone at the new address knows about and agrees to the “Search Condition” of your Federal Probation or Supervised Release.
5) Make sure there are no weapons at the new address.

STEP 4: The receiving District must approve or deny the transfer after conducting the “Transfer Investigation.” The receiving district can deny your request to transfer/move for any reason. The sending district where you are currently supervised must wait for a response before it can act to transfer your supervision.

IMPORTANT NOTE! Some districts have hard and fast rules about certain offenses—e.g., they won’t accept people with sex offenses, or the receiving district will require a more onerous investigation of that person.

I AM ON FEDERAL PROBATION AND WANT TO MOVE/TRANSFER TO A NEW STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

To transfer districts, it’s best to first discuss it with your Probation Officer, who will review your plan and make sure you meet certain criteria required for transfer. To have the transfer request approved, you must get the permission of BOTH your current probation officer AND a probation officer from the new district. Only those transfers that follow the U.S. Parole Commission’s...

instructions can be approved.

Go to PG. 275 to learn how to transfer states. An Interstate Compact governs all transfers between states, and applies to all types of supervision (state parole, county probation and other county-level forms of supervision, federal probation, supervised release, and federal parole).

WHAT ARE SOME POSITIVE FACTORS THAT COULD HELP MY REQUEST TO MOVE/ TRANSFER BE APPROVED?

Most U.S. Probation Districts have some internal criteria for analyzing individual requests to transfer into their District.

The following are factors that will likely work in your favor if you can show these to your Probation Officer:

1) Reliable job offer in new area;
2) Proven family and community ties;
3) Other positive connections to the new area;
4) Reasonable plan for living in the new area (e.g., income, social and family support, etc.);
5) The new address was your legal residence prior to incarceration, and had nothing to do with your criminal offense;
6) You have nowhere else to go and would be homeless if you don’t move; and
7) The move appears to be in your best interest for other reasons not listed above.

WHAT ARE SOME NEGATIVE FACTORS THAT COULD HURT THE CHANCES OF MY REQUEST TO MOVE/ TRANSFER FROM BEING APPROVED?

Most U.S. Probation Districts have some internal criteria for analyzing individual requests to transfer into their District.

The following are factors that will make it less likely that your request to move or transfer districts is approved:

1) No job offer in new area;
2) No or weak family and community ties in the new area;
3) Weak social connections to the new area, or connections that could be a bad influence on you;
4) Unreasonable plan for moving (e.g., no income, no social or family connections, etc.);
5) You are unable to provide contact information for the people you are connected to or the people you will be living with at the new address;
6) You appear to be trying to escape a possible violation of your Federal Probation or Supervised Release conditions in your current District;
7) The new address where you want to move is unsafe;
8) Someone with a felony or someone who is currently on community supervision for a criminal conviction lives at the new address; and
9) The residence is connected to a previous criminal offense committed by you or by someone who you would be living with.

\[384\] 28 C.F.R. § 2.38.
I AM ON FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE. IS IT POSSIBLE TO MOVE WHILE A TRANSFER INVESTIGATION IS STILL PENDING?

Maybe. Sometimes a U.S. Probation Officer will give someone permission to move while an investigation is pending.

For example, you may be allowed to move before an official approval of your transfer request if:

1) An eviction is forcing you out of your home and you have nowhere else to live but at the new address in your current district or a different district;
2) You have a job offer that requires you to start on a specific date;
3) Another emergency reason that requires you to move.

IF YOUR NEED TO MOVE IS URGENT:

You should inform your Probation Officer and request a travel permit while the “Transfer Investigation” and approval are still pending. But please be aware, if the new district completes its “Transfer Investigation” and denies the transfer request for any reason, you would be required to move back to the original sending district. If you do not move back, you will be violating the Court’s Order to follow the directions of the Probation Officer. If the court finds you were not following the directions of your Probation Officer it can revoke your supervision and send you to prison.

CAN I CHALLENGE A DENIAL OF MY TRANSFER REQUEST?

Yes. If your request to move/transfer has been denied by your current probation officer, you can ask to speak with a Supervising U.S. Probation Officer. However, it is often the case that the request has already gone through a supervisor, and has been denied with the supervisor’s approval. Other times, a request to move/transfer will be conditionally denied, meaning you could get your request approved later on if you do the things asked of you, like finding a safer home to move to, securing a firmer job offer, finding a different family member to connect with in the new place, etc.

I AM ON FEDERAL PROBATION, AND I’M TRYING TO MOVE IN WITH SOMEONE WHO LIVES IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING (LIKE PUBLIC HOUSING, SECTION 8, OR A VOUCHER PROGRAM), CAN I STILL MOVE IN?

It depends. If the family member or person you want to move in with lives in subsidized housing, there might be federal, state, or local laws that restrict someone on federal probation or Supervised Release from moving into the residence. It may depend on what your conviction was for. To avoid putting that person’s government-assisted housing subsidy at risk, refer to the HOUSING CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 369, to learn more about how your criminal record or supervision status might affect where you can live.

V. FEDERAL COMMUNITY SUPERVISION: SUPERVISED RELEASE

BASICS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE

WHAT IS SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Supervised release is overseen by Federal District Courts with the assistance of federal probation officers.\(^792\) The judge can sentence you to a term of Supervised Release in addition to a sentence of imprisonment.\(^793\) In other words, a term of Supervised Release does not replace any time you are sentenced to prison; rather, a judge orders Supervised Release in addition to any term in prison you may serve.\(^794\) In some cases, the judge that sentences you is actually required by law to impose a term of Supervised Release in addition to a prison term.\(^795\)

It’s common today for a federal sentence to include a period of time in prison, followed by a period of time in the community on Supervised Release.

HELPFUL HINT

Supervised Release vs. Federal Probation: What’s the difference between the two?

Federal Probation: Federal probation is a substitute for incarceration, meaning that probation is ordered instead of incarceration.

Supervised release: Supervised release is ordered in addition to incarceration. This means that after you are released from prison, you may be placed on supervised release.

Note that the same terms and conditions generally apply to both people on federal probation and on supervised release.

---

\(^793\) 18 U.S.C. § 3583.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON SUPERVISED RELEASE

Generally, you must report to your probation officer within 72 hours (3 days) of release, or sooner if a judge or a U.S. Probation Officer orders you to do so.296

IMPORTANT: Read the written statement given to you by U.S. Probation for information on where, when, and to whom you should report.297

LENGTH OF SUPERVISED RELEASE

HOW LONG IS MY SUPERVISION UNDER SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Supervised Release can be up to 5 years, with a few exceptions discussed below on PG. 244.298

The length of the term of your Supervised Release is determined by the “Class” of crime for which you were convicted.299 To figure out what the range of time your will be sentenced to Supervised Release, you should find out which “Class” of crime you were convicted of (for example, a Class A Felony, Class B Felony, Class A Misdemeanor, etc.). See the chart in the APPENDIX HH, PG. 363, for more information.

IMPORTANT EXCEPTIONS:

Despite the lengths of Supervised Release listed above, the term length may be up to life if you committed:

• An offense listed in 18 U.S.C. § 2332b(g)(5)(B), which resulted in, or created a foreseeable risk of, death or serious bodily injury to another person; OR

• A sex offense— for these commitment offenses, the maximum term of supervised release as allowed by statute is recommended.

CAN I GET OFF SUPERVISED RELEASE EARLY?

Possibly. You can ask for an early termination of supervised release from the judge who originally sentenced you. You are eligible to be released early after one year of supervised release.300 Talk to your U.S. Probation Officer about this request first, because he or she can help you ask the judge for this.

The court has the power to decide whether or not to let you off supervised release early. In most cases, judges will deny requests to be let off supervised release early. But that doesn’t mean that you shouldn’t try, especially if you’ve done really well on your supervised release. And remember, it is really helpful if your Probation Officer supports your request.
HELPFUL HINT
You have the best shot of being let of supervised release early if:
• You have completed 2/3 of your supervised release term (or at the very least ½ way through),
• You have had no violations,
• You have complied with all the terms of your supervised release,
• You have paid all restitution and fines, and
• Your probation officer agrees that you should be let off early.\(^{801}\)

WHAT FACTORS CAN THE JUDGE CONSIDER?
It depends on the judge. Ultimately, the decision to end your supervised release early is up to the judge who originally sentenced you. To get off of supervised release early, you must show the judge that you have earned it through good conduct, and it must be in the interests of justice.\(^{802}\)

Here is the full list of factors that the judge may consider when deciding whether to let you off supervised release early:

• Whether or not your Probation Officer or the Prosecutor support your request;
• The nature and seriousness of the crime you were convicted of;
• Your criminal history and/or mental illness history;
• Whether the judge believes you are a threat to the public;
• Whether the judge believes you have been sufficiently punished;
• Whether you have completed any substance abuse treatment or rehabilitation programs;
• How your sentence compares to the federal sentencing guidelines recommended sentence;
• U.S. Sentencing Commission policy statements;\(^{803}\)
• Whether you’ve paid restitution to the victims.\(^{804}\)

CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE

WHAT ARE CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE, AND WHY ARE THEY IMPORTANT?
Your conditions of Supervised Release are rules set by the judge that you must follow if you want to remain in the community under supervision and not end up back in prison. These are called “release conditions”—and tell you what you can and can’t do in the community.

\(^{802}\) 18 U.S.C. § 3683(e)(1).

EXAMPLE of release conditions include:

- Not having guns or other weapons;
- No contact with victims or witnesses;
- Restrictions on your association with certain people or groups;
- Restrictions on your travel; or
- A curfew;
- Community service;
- Electronic monitoring;
- Employment requirements;
- Mental health treatment, or
- Substance abuse treatment.

It is important for you to know what conditions you must follow on Supervised Release so that you don’t get into trouble or sent back to prison for violating those rules. Also, be sure to talk to your U.S. Probation Officer about how to get connected to any needed services or resources offered in your community.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MANDATORY & DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Federal law governs the mandatory conditions of Supervised Release (the law breaks it down by a list of mandatory conditions (required) and discretionary conditions (not required).

WHERE CAN I FIND A WRITTEN STATEMENT OF MY CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE?

The court must direct the probation officer to provide you with a written statement that explains all the conditions you must follow, and is clear and specific enough to guide your conduct under supervision.

The conditions of supervision are also listed on the Judgment in a Criminal Case produced by the Court after your sentencing hearing. Ask your attorney or the Clerk of the Court for a copy of this document so that you can be sure of your obligations to the Court. Most Judges will not excuse your failure to comply with the conditions of supervision simply because you did not receive a copy of the conditions.

HOW OFTEN DO I HAVE TO SEE MY PROBATION OFFICER IF I AM ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

It depends. How often you must report to your probation officer varies widely based on the individual “supervision plan” developed for you by your probation officer.

Some supervision plans require weekly meetings and even more frequent phone contact; for others, occasional or monthly contact is sufficient. Meetings may take place at the probation office, your home, or your workplace. Probation officers sometimes make “surprise” visits. For this reason, it is important that you always inform your probation officer of any changes to your work schedule.

WHAT ARE THE MANDATORY CONDITIONS THAT APPLY TO ME AND EVERYONE ELSE ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

The following conditions are mandatory and apply to EVERYONE on Supervised Release (Note: These also apply to everyone on Federal Probation, see PG. 234).

1. You cannot commit another federal, state, or local crime during the entire length of your Supervised Release. The court must make this condition known and clear to you.
2. You cannot unlawfully use a controlled substance.
3. You must submit to one drug test within 15 days of release and at least 2 periodic drug tests thereafter (as determined by the court).
   - Consequences for a confirmed positive drug test include:
     - Possible prison time, and
     - Court-ordered participation in a substance abuse treatment program (unless your current or past participation in such a program warrants an exception).
4. You must cooperate in the collection of a DNA sample. You may be placed in prison for up to one year or fined up to $100,000 if you fail to cooperate with a DNA sample.
5. You must notify your U.S. probation officer if there is any significant change in your income or economic circumstances, which would impact how much you can pay towards any unpaid restitution, fines, or special assessments. Even those receiving SSI/SSDI “Disability” benefits will be asked to pay. If you are low-income, you should communicate with your probation officer about how you might be able to arrange payments you can afford.

IMPORTANT NOTE: OTHER MANDATORY CONDITIONS MAY APPLY DEPENDING ON YOUR COMMITMENT OFFENSE!!! SEE BELOW:

WHAT ARE ADDITIONAL MANDATORY CONDITIONS THAT ONLY CERTAIN PEOPLE ON SUPERVISED RELEASE HAVE TO FOLLOW?

The following are mandatory conditions that apply to ONLY CERTAIN people on Supervised Release, depending on your commitment offense.

> MANDATORY CONDITIONS if you were convicted of a felony:

You must also follow at least one of the following two conditions, as ordered by the judge:

613 18 U.S.C. § 3563. DNA samples are usually taken prior to your release (especially if you were convicted of murder, voluntary manslaughter, enslavement, kidnapping, robbery, burglary incest, or arson). But if your DNA sample was not taken prior to your release, some Districts contract with companies who will take your DNA sample after your release. See United States Courts, Judiciary Begins Sample Collection for DNA Testing, http://www.U.S.Courts.gov/News/TheThirdBranch/02-02-01/Judiciary_Begins_Sample_Collection_for_DNA_Testing.aspx.
1) Pay restitution to a victim of the offense, OR
2) Perform community service.

EXCEPTIONS: You do not have to obey one of these two additional conditions if one of the following applies to you:

• The judge imposed a fine that removed this requirement; OR
• The judge finds on the record that extraordinary circumstances exist that would make such a condition plainly unreasonable, in which case the judge must impose one or more of the other discretionary conditions (listed below, PG. 245).

> MANDATORY CONDITION if you are required to register as a sex offender:

You must comply with all the requirements of the Sex Offender Registration & Notification Act.

> MANDATORY CONDITION if you were convicted of a domestic violence crime for the FIRST time:

You must attend an offender rehabilitation program that has been approved by the court—in consultation with a State Coalition Against Domestic Violence or other appropriate experts—so long as an approved program is readily available within a 50-mile radius of your legal residence.

ARE THERE OTHER ADDITIONAL CONDITIONS I WILL HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Most likely, yes. The U.S. Sentencing Commission recommends that the “Standard Conditions” be applied to everyone on Supervised Release (this is the same as for Federal Probation conditions, discussed earlier on PG. 234). See the question “WHAT DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS WILL I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?” on PG. 249 for more information.

WHAT RULES MUST THE JUDGE FOLLOW WHEN ORDERING DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS ON MY SUPERVISED RELEASE?

To add a discretionary condition to your Supervised Release, the judge must find that the conditions are reasonably related to the following factors:

• The nature and circumstances of the offense;
• Your personal history and characteristics;
• Reflecting the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law and to provide just punishment for the offense;
• Adequately deterring future criminal conduct;
• Protecting the public from further crimes committed by you; and/or
• Providing you with needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner.

---

815 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b)(2) (2008) (You must make restitution to a victim of the offense under section 3556 (but not subject to the limitation of section 3663(a) or 3663A(c)(1)(A))).
820 This applies to domestic violence crimes listed in 18 U.S.C. § 3561(b).
821 See 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b) (referring to 18 U.S.C. §§ 3553(a)(1), (a)(2)).
Furthermore, if the additional discretionary conditions deprive you of liberty or property, the judge must find that the conditions are reasonably necessary to:

- Reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, and to provide just punishment for the offense;
- Adequately deter future criminal conduct;
- Protect the public from further crimes committed by you; and/or
- Provide you with needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner.

824 See 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b) (referring to 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(2)).

If a judge is going to impose a special condition, then both of the following requirements must: be met:

1. The condition must have a reasonable relationship to the factors listed above on PG. 245 AND
2. The condition must be reasonably necessary to achieve the purposes listed above on PG. 245.

Moreover, if you object to the discretionary condition, it is the federal government’s burden to show that the discretionary condition is justified. 825

These are the same legal standards and rules that applied to setting discretionary conditions for people on federal probation (see below for information about discretionary conditions).

WHAT DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS WILL I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

If the above legal standards are met (refer to the last two questions), the judge may order discretionary conditions on your Supervised Release. These can be thought of in two categories—standard conditions, which are imposed in almost every case (see Appendix CC, PG. 353), and other discretionary conditions that may be added (see Appendix DD, PG. 245).

STANDARD CONDITIONS— The list of “Standard Conditions”—while technically discretionary (not required)—are added by the judge in almost every case of Supervised Release (and federal probation), as recommended by the U.S. Sentencing Commission, the agency that oversees federal sentencing guidelines. 826

You will likely be ordered to follow most if not all of the following rules (conditions), or something very similar to these:

- You cannot leave the limits of your judicial district (meaning the area that the court has jurisdiction—i.e. the “Southern District of California”) without written permission from the court or your probation officer.
- You must file a written report with your probation officer within the first 5 days of each month, or as directed by your probation officer.
- You must truthfully answer any questions and follow any instructions that your probation officer asks of you.
- You must meet your family responsibilities, primarily paying any court-ordered child support or support for the parent with whom your child is living.

826 See 18 U.S.C. § 3583; U.S.S.G. § 5D1.3(b)-(d) (Standard conditions” are set forth in U.S.S.G. § 5D1.3(c)).
• You must work regularly at a lawful occupation, unless your U.S. probation officer excuses you for school, training, or other reasons the officer finds acceptable.

• You must notify your probation officer at least 10 days before you change your address (some officers will require more or less notice, so check your conditions).

• You cannot drink alcoholic beverages to excess. You cannot use or distribute illegal drugs, or frequent places where others use or distribute drugs.

• You cannot associate with people engaged in criminal activity. (This means you cannot hang out with or spend time with people who are committing crimes.)

• You cannot associate with anyone convicted of a felony unless your U.S. probation officer gives you permission to do so. (Again, this means that unless your probation officer says differently, you are not allowed to hang out with or spend time with someone who has been convicted of a felony. Just spending time with someone who has been convicted of a felony can be considered a violation of your probation, even if you were not doing anything else wrong.)

• You must let your probation officer to visit you any time at home or elsewhere.

• You must let your probation officer to take any contraband that he or she finds in plain view around you.

• You must get in touch with your U.S. probation officer within 3 days (72 hours) if you’re arrested or questioned by law enforcement (again, some officers will require you to report faster, so check your conditions).

• You cannot serve as an informant to law enforcement without court permission.

• As directed by your U.S. probation officer, you must notify other people about any risks that your criminal record, personal history or characteristics might pose; and you must allow your U.S. probation officer to notify people of any risks posed by your criminal record, personal history or characteristics.

• You must pay any court-ordered “special assessment” and fines, and follow any court-ordered payment plan set up for you.

• You must notify your U.S. probation officer if there is any significant change in your income or economic circumstances which would impact how much you can pay towards any unpaid restitution, fines, or special assessments (NOTE: this is a mandatory condition for people on federal probation, and a recommended “standard condition” for people on Supervised Release).

WHAT ADDITIONAL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS MAY I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

If the above legal standards are met (refer to PG. 237), the judge may order additional discretionary conditions on your Supervised Release.

As discussed, the Standard Conditions listed on PG. 353 above are almost always added.

For a full list of discretionary conditions that may be added see Appendix DD, PG. 355):
CAN MY CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE BE CHANGED?

Yes. A judge may change, reduce, or increase your conditions before your Supervised Release term ends.\(^{828}\) A probation officer can also change your conditions of Supervised Release.

Changes in conditions (called “modifications”) usually happen because you got in trouble with your probation officer (for example, you tested dirty on a drug test), or you didn’t follow a condition of your Supervised Release. In this type of situation, the probation officer will usually ask a judge to change your conditions, often with the consent of your attorney, to get an order for you to do something (for example, to get an order that you go into in-patient, residential substance abuse treatment).

PRACTICE TIP—AN ATTORNEY CAN HELP YOU: It’s been suggested that it is sometimes easier to work out any changes to your conditions of supervised release directly with your probation officer, rather than go before a judge. To protect yourself in this type of situation, it is best to “invoke your right to counsel”—meaning ask for an attorney to represent you—and then you can communicate with your attorney who will work something out with the probation officer or represent you before the judge if the issue ends up going back to court.\(^{829}\)

WARNING: Sometimes a U.S. probation officer will ask you to waive (give up) your right to an attorney and submit to a change of your conditions of Supervised Release (called a “modification”).\(^{830}\) You may be asked (directly or indirectly) to give up your right to an attorney. You should NOT give up this right. You should “invoke your right to counsel instead,” and ask for an attorney. If you do not agree to changes in the conditions of your Supervised Release, then any changes will require the same justification as conditions imposed during the original sentencing hearing.\(^{831}\)

HOW DO I CHALLENGE UNLAWFUL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS THAT WERE ADDED ON TO MY SUPERVISED RELEASE?

Within 14 days of your sentencing hearing, you must file a Notice of Appeal with the Clerk of the Court where you were convicted.\(^{832}\) Once this occurs, you should contact the Federal Public Defender’s Office in your federal judicial district. For a list of Federal Public Defender’s Offices in California, visit: http://www.fd.org/docs/defender-contacts/federal-public-and-community-defender-directory.pdf?sfvrsn=9.

A discretionary condition on your Supervised Release may be imposed only if it:

\(^{828}\) 18 U.S.C. §§ 3563, 3583; see also Fed. R. Crim. Pro. 32.1 (describing the procedures required for the probation officer to petition the Court for a modification or revocation of probation or supervised release, and for the Court in adjudicating a potential revocation or modification). The Court can also modify or revoke your Federal Probation or Supervised Release after the official end of the term (i.e., a specific number of years after your release from custody) so long as the violation and Probation Officer’s Petition to Modify or Revoke was filed with the Court before the official end of the term of supervision. This means that the Probation Office can obtain an arrest warrant years after an event occurred.

\(^{830}\) See, e.g., U.S. v. Begay, 631 F.3d 1168 (10th Cir. 2011); U.S. v. Emerson, 231 F.3d. 349 (5th Cir. 2007).

(1) Is “reasonably related” certain statutory (meaning, included in the law) sentencing factors,\(^{833}\) which include the nature and circumstances of the offense, the history and characteristics of the defendant, the need to protect the public from further crimes of the defendant, and the need to provide needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment; AND

(2) Involves “no greater deprivation of liberty than is reasonably necessary” to serve the purposes of deterrence, protection of the public, and training and treatment.\(^ {834}\)

Courts have emphasized that BOTH of these requirements must be satisfied in order to impose a special condition.\(^ {835}\) Moreover, in the event of an objection, it is the government’s burden to show that the condition is justified.\(^ {836}\)

NOTE: These rules and processes for challenging discretionary conditions of Supervised Release are the same as those that apply to that apply to Federal Probation (refer back to PG. 237 for information on challenging discretionary conditions of federal probation.)

TRANSFER LOCATIONS ON SUPERVISED RELEASE

The same rules and procedures for transferring and moving residences apply to both federal probation and Supervised Release (federal probation transfers discussed earlier on PG. 238).

I AM ON FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE, AND I WANT TO MOVE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

The process depends on whether you are asking to move to a new residence within the same district OR to a new residence in a different district. A district is the geographic area that a district federal court has power to make decisions over—for example, California has four federal districts: Southern District, Northern District, Central District, and Eastern District.

In a nutshell, it’s easier to move within the same district than to move to a new one. The steps below outline both possibilities:

POSSIBILITY #1: If you are moving to a new residence within your current district, follow these steps:

STEP 1: Notify your Probation Officer that you want to change your address, and submit that address and the contact information for anyone else living at that address. You must get permission from your Probation Officer to move within your current U.S. Probation District—even if it’s across the street.

\(^{836}\) U.S. v. Weber, 451 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2006) (“We have long held that a term of supervised release is part of a defendant’s sentence . . . and, like imprisonment, restricts a defendant’s liberty and fundamental rights . . . As a result, when the government seeks to restrict a defendant’s liberty through a term of supervised release, it shoulders the burden of proving that a particular condition of supervised release involves no greater deprivation of liberty than is reasonably necessary to serve the goals of supervised release.”)
STEP 2: Your Probation Officer will investigate the new address—so long as it is located in the same U.S. Probation District. As part of that investigation, your Probation Officer will:

1) Make sure the new address actually exists;
2) Make sure that other people living at the new address are willing and able to have you in their home;
3) Run a background check on everyone living at the new address;
   a) PLEASE NOTE: Since it is a standard condition for all people on Federal Probation or Supervised Release to avoid associating with anyone else who has a felony conviction, your request to move/transfer to live with someone who has been convicted of a felony will likely be denied.
4) Make sure that everyone at the new address knows about and agrees to the “Search Condition” of your Federal Probation or Supervised Release.
5) Make sure there are no weapons at the new address.

POSSIBILITY #2: If you are moving to a new residence outside of your current U.S. Probation District, follow these steps:

STEP 1: HELPFUL HINT!!!—Before you ask for a formal transfer to a new district—which can be a longer, more challenging process—ask your probation officer for what is called “courtesy supervision” by another district. This technically keeps your case in the original district, but allows you to live in and travel to the district of your choice. Your probation officer AND the probation officer of the other district have to agree. After doing this, it is much easier to transfer to the courtesy district than to just transfer from one district to another without “courtesy supervision” being set up first.

STEP 2: If “courtesy supervision” is denied or doesn’t work out, you can still request a formal transfer. Tell your Probation Officer that you want to change your address, and submit that address and the contact information for anyone else living at that address. You must get permission from your Probation Officer to move to a new address in a different U.S. Probation District.

STEP 3: Your Probation Officer must submit a “Transfer Investigation” to the new district. The Transfer Investigation generally takes 30 days or longer, since both your current district and the new district must investigate your new proposed address and approve the transfer. As part of the “Transfer Investigation,” a Probation Officer in the receiving District will:

1) Make sure the new address actually exists;
2) Make sure that other people living at the new address are willing and able to have you in their home;
3) Run a background check on everyone living at the new address;
   a) PLEASE NOTE: Since it is a standard condition for all people on Federal Probation or Supervised Release to avoid associating with anyone else who has a felony conviction, your request to move/transfer to live with someone who has been convicted of a felony will likely be denied.
4) Make sure that everyone at the new address knows about and agrees to the “Search Condition” of your Federal Probation or Supervised Release.
5) Make sure there are no weapons at the new address.

STEP 4: The receiving district must approve or deny the transfer after completing the “Transfer Investigation.” The receiving district can deny your 837 The Search Condition might read something like “The defendant is prohibited from possessing controlled substances. To ensure that the defendant is in compliance, the defendant will submit to search of his person, home, or vehicle at any time of the day or night by any law enforcement or probation officer without cause.” This means your friends may get searched if at your home (or vice versa). If either of you have any contraband, there is a good chance both of you will be getting in trouble.

---

request to transfer for any reason. The sending district where you are currently supervised must wait for a response before it can transfer your supervision.\(^3\)

IMPORTANT NOTE! Some districts have hard and fast rules about certain offenses—e.g., they won’t accept people with sex offenses, or the receiving district will require a more onerous investigation of that person.

I AM ON SUPERVISED RELEASE AND WANT TO MOVE/TRANSFER TO A NEW STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

To transfer districts, you need to discuss it with your Probation Officer, who will review your plan and make sure you meet certain criteria required for transfer. To have the transfer request approved, you must get the permission of both your probation officer from the current district AND a probation officer from the new district. You can only transfer if it doesn’t go against the instructions from the U.S. Parole Commission.\(^3\)

Go to PG. 275 to learn how to transfer states. An Interstate Compact governs all transfers between states, and applies to all types of supervision (state parole, county probation and other county-level forms of supervision, federal probation, supervised release, and federal parole).

WHAT ARE SOME POSITIVE FACTORS THAT COULD HELP MY REQUEST TO MOVE/TRANSFER BE APPROVED?

Most U.S. Probation Districts have some internal criteria for analyzing individual requests to transfer into their District. The following are factors that will likely work in your favor if you can show these to your Probation Officer:

1. Reliable job offer in new area;
2. Proven family and community ties;
3. Other positive connections to the new area;
4. Reasonable plan for living in the new area (e.g., income, social and family support, etc.);
5. The new address was your legal residence prior to incarceration, and had nothing to do with your criminal offense;
6. You have nowhere else to go and would be homeless if you don’t move; and
7. The move appears to be in your best interest for other reasons not listed above.

---

WHAT ARE SOME NEGATIVE FACTORS THAT COULD HURT THE CHANCES OF MY REQUEST TO MOVE/TRANSFER FROM BEING APPROVED?

Most U.S. Probation Districts have some internal criteria for analyzing individual requests to transfer into their District.

The following are factors that will make it less likely that your request to move or transfer districts is approved:

- No job offer in new area;
- No or weak family and community ties in the new area;

---

\(^3\) Phone Call with Amy Rizor, Supervisory Probation Officer, U.S. Probation (Oakland, CA office) (Sept. 2014).

\(^3\)28 C.F.R. § 2.38.
• Weak social connections to the new area, or connections that could be a bad influence on you;
• Unreasonable plan for moving (e.g., no income, no social or family connections, etc.);
• You are unable to provide contact information for the people you are connected to or the people you will be living with at the new address;
• You appear to be trying to escape a possible violation of your Federal Probation or Supervised Release conditions in your current District;
• The new address where you want to move is unsafe;
• Someone with a felony or someone who is currently on community supervision for a criminal conviction lives at the new address; and
• The residence is connected to a previous criminal offense committed by you or by someone who you would be living with.

I AM ON FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE. IS IT POSSIBLE TO MOVE WHILE A TRANSFER INVESTIGATION IS STILL PENDING?

Maybe. Sometimes a U.S. Probation Officer will give someone permission to move while an investigation is pending.

For example, you may be allowed to move before an official approval of your transfer request if:

1) An eviction is forcing you out of your home and you have nowhere else to live but at the new address in your current district or a different district;
2) You have a job offer that requires you to start on a specific date;
3) Another emergency reason that requires you to move.

IF YOUR NEED TO MOVE IS URGENT:

You should inform your Probation Officer and request a travel permit while the “Transfer Investigation” and approval are still pending. But please be aware, if the new district completes its “Transfer Investigation” and denies the transfer request for any reason, you would be required to move back to the original sending district. If you do not move back, you will be violating the Court’s Order to follow the directions of the Probation Officer. If the court finds you were not following the directions of your Probation Officer it can revoke your supervision and send you to prison.

CAN I CHALLENGE A DENIAL OF MY TRANSFER REQUEST?

Yes. If your request to move/transfer has been denied by your current probation officer, you can ask to speak with a Supervising U.S. Probation Officer. However, it is often the case that the request has already gone through a supervisor, and has been denied with the supervisor’s approval. Other times, a request to move/transfer will be conditionally denied, meaning you could get your request approved later on if you do the things asked of you, like finding a safer home to move to, securing a firmer job offer, finding a different family member to connect with in the new place, etc.\footnote{\textsuperscript{640} Phone Call with Amy Rizor, Supervisory Probation Officer, U.S. Probation, N.D. Cal. (Oakland, CA office) (Sept. 2014).} \footnote{\textsuperscript{641} Phone Call with Amy Rizor, Supervisory Probation Officer, U.S. Probation, N.D. Cal. (Oakland, CA office) (Sept. 2014).}
I AM ON SUPERVISED RELEASE, AND I'M TRYING TO MOVE IN WITH SOMEONE I KNOW. IF MY FAMILY MEMBER OR THE PERSON WHO I WANT TO MOVE IN WITH LIVES IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING (LIKE PUBLIC HOUSING, SECTION 8, OR A VOUCHER PROGRAM), CAN I STILL MOVE IN?

It depends. If the family member or person you want to move in with lives in subsidized housing, there might be federal, state, or local laws that restrict someone on federal probation or Supervised Release from moving into the residence. It may depend on what your conviction was for. To avoid putting that person’s government-assisted housing subsidy at risk, refer to the HOUSING CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 369, to learn more about how your criminal record or supervision status might affect where you can live.
VIOLATIONS & REVOCATIONS—FOR BOTH FEDERAL PROBATION AND SUPERVISED RELEASE

The same rules and processes for violations and revocations apply to both federal probation and Supervised Release.\(^{642}\) Read this section if you are on either of these two types of federal supervision and have questions about violations and revocations.

WHAT IS A VIOLATION OF MY FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE?

It is a violation of your Federal Probation or Supervised Release (SR) if you break any law or disobey any condition of your post-release supervision. Read about conditions of Federal Probation (PG. 233) and Supervised Release (PG. 245) above.

If your probation officer thinks you have broken one of your conditions of supervision, you may be charged with a violation.\(^{643}\)

1) If the judge finds that you have violated one of your conditions of supervision, you could go to prison. \(^{644}\)

2) If you are having trouble with your Probation officer, or if you think you are in danger of being violated, you should call your attorney. If you have retained a private attorney, you should call him or her. If you don’t have a private attorney, you should call the Federal Public Defender in your District. Often an attorney can help you resolve a supervision problem before there is a formal violation charge. \(^{645}\)

CAN MY U.S. PROBATION OFFICER SEND ME BACK TO PRISON?

No, your probation officer cannot send you back to prison, but it is part of the officer’s job to tell the court about a violation of your conditions. The judge at court, however, usually CAN send you back to prison.

- MINOR VIOLATIONS: Typically, if your probation officer learns of a minor violation of a condition, or believes that a violation is likely to happen, the officer will discuss with you how to avoid a more serious problem. Alternatively, the probation officer might ask the judge to modify your conditions of Federal Probation or Supervised Release.
- SERIOUS or REPEATED VIOLATIONS: After a serious violation or repeated violations, your probation officer may tell a judge about these violations and request revocation of your Federal Probation/Supervised Release. If this happens, you have the right to a revocation hearing, at which the judge may decide to revoke your Federal Probation/Supervised Release and send you back to prison. \(^{646}\)

\(^{642}\) To read more about federal probation and supervised release violations and revocation, and the legal distinctions between the two of them and the codes that govern them, see Administrative Office of the United States Court, Revocation of Probation and Supervised Release, http://www.fd.org/docs/select-topics---probation/revocation-of-prob-and-sup-release.pdf.

WHAT COULD THE COURT DO IF IT FINDS THAT I VIOLATED MY FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE?

FOR A FEDERAL PROBATION VIOLATION: If the judge finds that you violated a condition of Federal Probation, it may:

1) Continue you on federal probation, with or without lengthening your term, or changing/increasing the conditions you must follow; OR
2) Revoke your federal probation and resentence you. ¹⁸⁴⁷

FOR A SUPERVISED RELEASE VIOLATION: If the judge finds that you violated a condition of Supervised Release, it may:

1) Continue you on supervised release, with or without lengthening the term, or changing/ increasing the conditions you must follow; OR
2) Revoke your Supervised Release and send you back to prison. ¹⁸⁴⁸ For certain violations, the court is required to do this by law (it’s mandatory). ¹⁸⁴⁹

WHEN IS REVOCATION OF FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE MANDATORY?

For both Federal Probation and Supervised Release, revocation and additional time sentenced to prison are mandatory if the violation is one of the following:

1) Possession of controlled substance (in violation of the condition set forth in section 18 U.S. C. 3563(a)(3));
2) You possess a firearm ¹⁸⁵⁰ (in violation of Federal law or a condition of probation),
3) You refuse to comply with drug testing, ¹⁸⁵¹ or
4) You test positive for illegal controlled substances more than 3 times over the course of 1 year. ¹⁸⁵²

If one of the above situations occurs, then your probation officer or the prosecutor will have to file a violation notice, telling the judge that they think you have violated. ¹⁸⁵³

WHAT WILL HAPPEN IF MY VIOLATION WAS ALSO A NEW CRIMINAL OFFENSE?

All violations of the law are also violations of your conditions of supervision. ¹⁸⁵⁴ Essentially, the law treats a new criminal conviction as two wrongs: (1) Disobeying the federal court by violating a condition of your supervision, AND (2) Whatever you did to break the law. ¹⁸⁵⁵ If you get arrested on state or federal charges while on federal probation or Supervised Release, you will probably be violated in federal court.

A NOTE ABOUT SENTENCING WHEN THERE IS ANOTHER PENDING CRIMINAL CASE AGAINST YOU FOR THE SAME OFFENSE: Your sentence for the violation of your federal probation or Supervised Release will be SEPARATE from whatever sentence you might get in the other criminal case, and will probably FOLLOW your sentence for the new criminal conviction (in other words, these sentences will follow one after the other).

¹⁸⁵⁰ The definition for firearm in 18 U.S.C § 921.
¹⁸⁵² 18 U.S.C. §§ 3565(b), 3583(g).

WHAT ARE POSSIBLE SANCTIONS FOR AN ALLEGED VIOLATION OF FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE?

When there’s an allegation that you violated your federal probation or Supervised Release, revocation proceedings will usually begin. The law and rules that govern these revocation hearings can be found in the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, Section 32.1. There will be a series of steps that you will follow in a revocation hearing, from appearing in front of a Magistrate Judge, to attending a Probable Cause Hearing, and finally attending a Revocation Hearing. The steps below are a general outline of the revocation process, and possible outcomes:

STEP 1: Initial Appearance

Whenever someone is first taken into federal custody or has been cited/summoned to federal court, he or she has an initial appearance before a Magistrate Judge. This appearance allows the Court to advise you of the charges, set a preliminary hearing date (unless waived or you are out of custody) and direct you to the District Judge presiding over your case.

NOTE: If you are arrested outside of the federal district that has jurisdiction over your case (usually the place where you are being officially supervised), then you have additional rights at this Initial Appearance stage. First, you have the right to an “Identity Hearing,” where the government must show only that you are the person named in the warrant for arrest, not that you actually committed the crime. Second, you have the right to receive a reliable certified electronic COPY of the original revocation petition that was filed (this right to receive a copy of the revocation petition is called “Arrival of Process”).

STEP 2: Probable Cause Hearing

Know Your Rights! If you are held in custody for an alleged violation of your federal probation or Supervised Release, then you have the following rights:

1) You must receive a prompt hearing to determine if there is “probable cause” to hold you for a revocation hearing (a.k.a. the “probable cause hearing”).

   If you are in custody, you only receive what is called a “probable cause hearing.” This will usually happen within one week, but “prompt” does not have a specific timeframe, so it could be longer.

2) You must be given notice of the hearing.

857 An Identity Hearing usually consists of a law enforcement officer testifying about what information they received from the charging district in order to determine that you were the person who was named in the arrest warrant. Arrival of Process is usually satisfied by an email copy of the certified petition.

859 For example, if you are in custody doing time on a state charge, and that state charge serves as the violation of your SR, the PO can wait until your state sentence is over before brining you to have your PC hearing even though the PO may have filed the violation petition and the warrant issued at the start of the client’s sentence in state prison. A state defendant could be serving a 15-year state sentence such that his 5-year term of SR would have expired by the time he is done with his state time. However, so long as the petition was filed within the supervised release period, then there is an argument to be made that he can still be sent to prison on a federal violation. Perhaps most judges would not do this, but it is a possibility.

3) You must be given an opportunity to appear and present evidence, an opportunity to question opposing witnesses (if requested), and be told of your right to an attorney. 861

4) The Rules of Evidence are more relaxed; hearsay is allowed. This means that the judge can consider evidence (testimony, photographs, etc.) that he would not be able to consider in a full criminal trial.

5) You will usually appear before the same judge who sentenced you. The judge will explain your rights and make sure you have a lawyer.

6) If you are not held to answer (i.e., probable cause is not found), then the allegations will be dismissed. If you are held to answer (i.e., probable cause is found), then you will be directed to a District Judge to enter an admission or denial to the allegations. 862 If you admit the allegations, the Judge will either set a future date for sentencing or sentence you right then and there. However, if you deny the allegations, then you go to a revocation hearing.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT PENDING CRIMINAL CHARGES AGAINST YOU & THE REVOCATION PROCESS: Unless your lawyer advises you otherwise, do not admit a violation that’s based on pending criminal charges until the pending charges are resolved. Admitting to criminal conduct during the revocation hearing in federal court could then be used against you in your pending criminal case. It’s best to consult with your attorney to figure out what to do in your situation.

STEP 3: Revocation Hearing

You have the right to a revocation hearing before a District Judge within a reasonable time in the district that has decision-making power (called “jurisdiction”) over your case 863

![ KNOW YOUR RIGHTS IN THE REVOCATION PROCESS ]

- You must be given notice of the hearing. 864
- You must be given written notice of the charges against you (i.e., the alleged violation of your supervision). 865
- You must receive notice of your right to an attorney. If you can’t afford an attorney, you will be appointed a Federal Public Defender in your District, or another court-appointed defender. 866
- You must have the opportunity to appear at the revocation hearing. 866
- You must have an opportunity to see the evidence against you, as well as the opportunity to present your own evidence. 867
- The Rules of Evidence are more relaxed; hearsay is allowed. This means that the judge can consider evidence (testimony, photographs, etc.) that he would not be able to consider in a full criminal trial.

866 See U.S. v. Pelensky, 129 F.3d 63 (2d Cir. 1997); U.S. v. LeBlanc, 175 F.3d 511 (7th Cir. 1999); U.S. v. Stocks, 104 F.3d 308 (9th Cir. 1997).
WHAT LAWS GUIDE THE COURT IN SENTENCING ME FOR MY REVOCATION OF FEDERAL PROBATION OR SUPERVISED RELEASE?

IMPORTANT NOTE: The laws about revocation sentencing are confusing and difficult to figure out on your own! You have the right to lawyer if you can’t afford one, and it’s best to ask your attorney to walk through your specific situation and help you understand what the judge can sentence you to if your federal probation or Supervised Release is revoked.

The chart shown below on PG. 262 is important because this period determines the maximum amount of time you can be sent to prison for violating the terms and conditions of your Supervised Release.

For example, assume you have been convicted of a Class A felony and receive 5 years of Supervised Release. Then, let’s say, you violate the terms and conditions of your supervision. The judge may, but is not required to, sentence you to four years in prison. If the judge were to do that, you could only be placed on supervision for one additional year. However, if you were to violate your supervision again, the judge could sentence you up to the maximum available term of imprisonment (which is 5 years), but could not impose any additional supervision. This could result in you serving nine years in prison on revocations when the original term of supervision was only 5 years.

EXCEPTIONS: Offenses committed on or before April 30, 2003:

There are special rules, however, if you committed the offense of conviction on or before April 30, 2003. Assume the same situation as described above: you’re convicted of a Class A felony, sentenced to prison with five years of Supervised Release. Upon your first revocation, you are sentenced four years in prison and one year of Supervised Release. If you violated your Supervised Release again, you can only be sentenced to one year in prison (meaning that the difference between the total term of Supervised Release available by statute for that offense minus the amount of prison imposed during any previous revocation(s)). This is different than the first scenario when the judge could impose a five-year term on a second revocation after imposing a four-year term on the first revocation.

REVOCATION SENTENCING GUIDELINES:

In addition to the statute governing the maximum terms of supervision, judges must consider the United States Sentencing Guidelines in determining your sentence upon revocation. The recommended sentence is based on (1) the Grade of Violation, (2) your Criminal History Category at the time of your original conviction, and (3) the Class of your original conviction.

---

869 18 U.S.C. § 3583(h) (explaining that the length of any term of supervised release imposed upon revocation shall not exceed the term of supervised release authorized by statute for the offense that resulted in the original term of supervised release, less any term of imprisonment that was imposed upon revocation of supervised release); see also U.S. v. Knight, 580 F.3d 933 (9th Cir. 2009).
This chart outlines Congress’ recommended terms of imprisonment upon revocation:

REVOCATION TABLE

(IN MONTHS OF IMPRISONMENT)

<td>3-9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grade B</td>
<td>4-10</td>
</tr>
<tr>

However, if you were on probation or supervised release as a result of a sentence for a Class A felony, the Congress' recommendation looks like this:

<table>

<th>Criminal History Category*</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>I</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grade A</td>
<td>24-30</td>

</table>

Although these are only recommendations for the judge, the judge must consider them first when rendering a decision.

CAN I APPEAL THE COURT’S REVOCATION DECISION/ACTION? WHAT COURT HAS JURISDICTION?

It depends. The appellate court (which is the court above the district court) that made the decision will have the authority to hear the case, unless you have already completed your time on supervision. In that case, appellate courts have held that they don’t have authority to hear the case, because you have already completed your sentence, and have no “injury” that the court can fix.\(^{71}\)

WHAT WILL THE JUDGE LOOK FOR WHEN REVIEWING MY APPEAL?

The judge who is reviewing your revocation case will look at different aspects using different legal standards.

Unless a violation is for drug or firearm possession, which requires revocation, a district court judge’s decision to revoke your federal probation or Supervised Release will be reviewed by the higher-up appellate judge for “abuse of discretion.”\(^{72}\) This means, the judge reviewing your case will only grant you an appeal if they found that the district court judge below them actually mishandled your case—by acting unreasonably or incorrectly applying the law.

The higher-up appellate judge who is reviewing your case can also review the LAW that was applied by the district court judge below as if the questions were being asked for the first time. In other words, the reviewing judge can freshly make his or her own judgment about whether the lower court correctly applied the law (this is called a “de novo” review). 873

If there were any FACTUAL ERRORS made in your case, the appellate judge will review those for “clear error.” 874 This means that the court will not find a factual error unless all the evidence together shows a mistake was made. 875 However, if you fail to object to an argument or a fact, then the judge in the appeals court may review the case under the “plain error” standard—a harder burden for you to meet (this means that the appeals court has to find that the error is extremely unjust or unfair).

Again, the SENTENCE that you received at the revocation hearing will be reviewed for reasonableness, which means that the higher-up appellate judge looks to see if the judge at the district court below abused his or her discretion in making a decision in the case, by mishandling the case (acting unreasonably or incorrectly applying the law). 876

DISABILITIES & SUPERVISED RELEASE

If you have a disability and are under federal community supervision of any kind (including federal probation, supervised release, or federal parole), please go to PG. 284 below to learn about your rights.

875 See U.S. v. U.S. Gypsum Co., 333 U.S. 364, 395 (1948) (“A finding is ‘clearly erroneous’ when although there is evidence to support it, the reviewing court on the entire evidence is left with the definite and firm conviction that a mistake has been committed.”). This standard is highly deferential, meaning most of the time the appeals court will agree with the district court.
VI. FEDERAL COMMUNITY SUPERVISION: FEDERAL PAROLE

The Sentencing Reform Act of 1984 eliminated federal parole for most people convicted of a federal crime. Now, instead of defendant's serving an indeterminate sentence (i.e., one where a parole board determines how much of the Judge’s sentence you serve), all federal defendants serve 85% of his or her sentence. This is much like “mandatory release” discussed below. See the information on “RELEASE PLANNING” at Appendix II PG. 364. In light of the Sentencing Reform Act, only a few groups of individuals are serving a federal parole sentences.

BASICS OF FEDERAL PAROLE

WHO IS RELEASED ONTO FEDERAL PAROLE?

Federal parole now applies only to individuals who were:

- Sentenced for a federal offense before November 1, 1987;
- Convicted of violating the laws of the District of Columbia in D.C. Superior Court before August 5, 2000;
- Convicted of crimes within the military criminal justice system;
- Convicted in certain foreign transfer treaty cases.

IF I AM ON FEDERAL PAROLE, WHY DO I REPORT TO A U.S. PROBATION OFFICER?

Federal U.S. Probation offices and officers are responsible for overseeing and administering federal parole. U.S. Probation Officers provide parole services as request of the USPC. Thus, U.S. probation officers function as parole officers and supervise people on federal parole and mandatory release.
BEFORE RELEASE: WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT GETTING RELEASED ONTO FEDERAL PAROLE

I AM STILL INCARCERATED. WHAT IS THE LEGAL PROCESS FOR GETTING RELEASED FROM FEDERAL PRISON ONTO FEDERAL PAROLE?

There are several steps you will follow in planning for your release from federal prison onto federal parole. These will include creating a release plan, creating a plan for payment of restitution and fines, investigation of your plan, and release. Please see the Appendix II, PG. 364 to find out more.

STEP 1: Release Plan

Once you have a release date from the U.S. Parole Commission (USPC), you must complete a satisfactory plan for parole supervision to actually get released. If the release plan is NOT approved, your release may be delayed regardless of the date the USPC had set when it first granted your parole.

The Regional Commissioner of the USPC may change your date of release (earlier or later) onto parole to allow more time for release planning. At most, the Regional Commissioner can delay your release onto parole for 120 days; otherwise, you have the right to a hearing if the Regional Commissioner wants to push back your release date more than 120 days.

Generally, you are required to have the following included in your release plan:

1) Availability of legitimate employment;
2) An approved residence for the prospective parolee; and
3) Availability of necessary aftercare if you are ill or will require special care.

STEP 2: Unpaid Fines & Restitution

Your release onto parole might also be delayed if you still owe court-ordered fines or restitution. When you still have fines or restitution to pay, a reasonable plan for payment, or a performance of services, if ordered by the court, will be included in your parole release plan, where feasible.

STEP 3: Investigation Phase

Your U.S. Probation Officer will do an investigation to make sure that the person’s release plan is appropriate. This investigation will start with the probation officer asking you questions about your release plan. The probation officer will then follow up and verify your answers. For example, if you told the probation officer that your approved residence did not have any persons with a felony record, the probation officer will follow-up to make sure this is true.

STEP 4: Release

After the Parole Commission approves your release plan, and a U.S. Probation Officer completes an investigation, you will be released on the date set by the Parole Commission (unless there is misconduct or some other reason leading to a change in the date).

881 28 C.F.R. § 2.33(a)(2).
882 28 C.F.R. § 2.7.
883 28 C.F.R. § 2.33.
WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I REFUSE TO SIGN THE CERTIFICATE OF RELEASE?

If you don’t sign the certificate of release, one of the two following things could happen:

1) If you have been granted a parole date and you refuse to sign the certificate of release (or any other document necessary to fulfill a condition of release), the USPC will treat your refusal as a withdrawal of your application for parole, effective on the date of your refusal. You will not be released on parole and you will have to reapply for parole consideration.

2) If you are scheduled for release to supervision through good-time deduction and you refuse to sign the certificate of release, you will be released but you still must follow the conditions listed on the certificate of release, or risk violation and revocation (see Appendix GG, PG. 360).

DO I HAVE TO RETURN TO THE SAME COMMUNITY THAT I CAME FROM FOR MY FEDERAL PAROLE?

Usually, yes. In most instances, you will be released to parole in the U.S. Judicial District of your legal residence, or in the U.S. Judicial District where you were convicted of the federal offense.

THERE IS ONE EXCEPTION: if the U.S. Parole Commission decides that your chances of success on parole will be better in another community, or believes it would serve “the public interest,” it can order you be paroled to a different District.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN FEDERAL PAROLE AND “MANDATORY RELEASE”?

If you are never granted parole during your prison sentence, you will be released through “Mandatory Release” (unless you have forfeited all your statutory “good time credits”). The institution’s officials set your Mandatory Release date by calculating how much statutory “good time” credit you have a legal right to, and how much extra “good time” is earned.

The law states that if you are entitled to Mandatory Release, you must “be treated as if released on parole” and are “subject to all provisions of the law relating to the parole of United States prisoners until the expiration of the maximum term or terms for which [you were] sentenced, less 180 days.” What this really means is that you should have a release plan (see question above) as if you were going out on parole. You will also be supervised by a U.S. Probation Officer as if on federal parole until 180 days before the end date of your sentence—so long as you don’t violate the conditions of your mandatory release, in which case the U.S. Parole Commission (USPC) can hold you under supervision until the original full term date of the sentence.

884 28 C.F.R. § 2.40(a)(2).
886 28 C.F.R. § 2.33(b).
IS IT POSSIBLE THAT I BE RELEASED FROM FEDERAL PRISON AND NOT BE ON ANY TYPE OF COMMUNITY SUPERVISION?

Yes, it is possible, but rare. If you are NOT paroled and have less than 180 days left on your original sentence when you are released, you will be released without supervision. However, if a “special parole term” is being served, supervision will end at the full term date, and this 180-day date does not apply.

AFTER RELEASE: WHAT TO EXPECT IN YOUR FIRST DAYS OUT ON FEDERAL PAROLE

AFTER I AM RELEASED TO FEDERAL PAROLE, WHEN AND TO WHOM MUST I REPORT?

US. Probation Officers function as parole officers and provide supervision to persons released on parole or on mandatory release.887

- You will go to an approved residence and report within 3 days (72 hours) to the United States Probation Office shown on your certificate of release.888
- You must continue to report to a U.S. Probation Officer in-person as instructed by your officer once released.
- In addition, you must submit a monthly written report, and follow all the conditions of your release.889
- U.S. Probation Officers must also provide you with parole services at the request of the U.S. Parole Commission (USPC).890

I AM NOT A U.S. CITIZEN, AND I AM TOLD I HAVE AN OUTSTANDING DETAINER AGAINST ME. WHAT IS A DETAINER? WHAT COULD HAPPEN TO ME?

An ICE detainer is a written request by immigration officials to a local jail or other law enforcement agency that the agency detain an individual for an additional 48 hours (excluding weekends and holidays) after his or her release date so that ICE officials can decide whether to take the individual into federal custody and begin formal deportation proceedings.

A “detainer”—or “immigration hold”—is one of the key tools U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) uses to apprehend individuals who come in contact with local and state law enforcement agencies and put them into the federal immigration, and often times, deportation system.

Even if you have a detainer against you, the USPC may still grant you release onto federal parole if you meet the other criteria in 28 C.F.R. § 2.18. The presence of a detainer is not in itself a valid reason

887 28 C.F.R. § 2.38.
888 Unless you are released on a detainer.
889 28 C.F.R. § 2.40(a)(1) (“Your certificate of release informs you of these conditions and special conditions that we have imposed for your supervision.”).
for the denial of parole.\footnote{28 C.F.R. § 2.31.}

When a State or local detainer is outstanding against a prisoner whom the USPC wishes to parole, the Commission may order either of the following:

1) In this event, you can only be released to agency that put the detainer on you. When such a detainer is removed, you can't be released unless the Commission makes a new order of parole; OR

2) If you have an acceptable plan for community supervision, you can be released into the community if the detaining officials remove the detainer or don't pick you up\footnote{28 C.F.R. § 2.32.}

\section*{Length of Federal Parole}

\subsection*{How Long Will I Be on Federal Parole?}

You will be on parole and under the supervision of a U.S. Probation Officer until the maximum expiration date of the sentence (for offenses committed before April 11, 1987), unless the Commission ends your supervision earlier.

\begin{quote}
\textbf{IMPORTANT NOTE: Your time on federal parole runs at the same time as any other Federal, State, or local sentence to supervision.}\footnote{28 C.F.R. § 2.39.}
\end{quote}

- If your supervision is ended early: You will be given a Certificate of Early Termination, which may also be provided to other supervising agencies.\footnote{See U.S. Parole Comm'n, Frequently Asked Questions, \url{http://www.justice.gov/uspc/faqs.html}.}

- If you are not released to parole, and instead you are mandatorily released: Your supervision by a U.S. Probation Officer automatically ends 180 days before the maximum expiration date, unless the USPC ends supervision earlier. If your supervision is ended early, you will be given a Certificate of Early Termination.\footnote{28 C.F.R. § 2.35.} You have been mandatorily released if you reached the end of the sentence imposed by the court minus any “good time” deductions you earned during the time of your confinement.\footnote{See U.S. Parole Comm'n, Frequently Asked Questions, \url{http://www.justice.gov/uspc/faqs.html}.}

\subsection*{Can I Get Off Federal Parole Early?}

Possibly. Read about when and how you can ask to be released from federal parole early.

- Every year, your U.S. Probation Officer submits a report to the Parole Commission about your adjustment in the community. After reviewing the report and any recommendations it contains, the Parole Commission may decide to end your parole supervision early.\footnote{28 C.F.R. §§ 2.43(a)(1), 2.95(a)(1).}

- At any point in time, you may request, or the Parole Commission on its own motion may decide, to end your parole supervision early.\footnote{28 C.F.R. § 2.39.}
• After you’ve completed 2 years on federal parole (again: not counting any time you spend on parole before the most recent release, and not counting any time you spent in confinement on another sentence\(^{500}\)), the Parole Commission must consider terminating your federal parole, and again must consider early termination at a minimum every year thereafter.

• After you’ve completed 5 years on federal parole (again: not counting any time you spent on parole before the most recent release, and not counting any time you spent in confinement on another sentence), by law, the Parole Commission must end your supervision UNLESS it finds—after conducting a hearing with you present—that you are likely to engage in future conduct violating criminal law. You have the right to a personal hearing before the Parole Commission can make such a finding to keep you on federal parole past 5 years.\(^ {502}\) You should not waive your right to this hearing.

HOW DOES THE U.S. PAROLE COMMISSION DECIDE WHETHER TO LET ME OFF FEDERAL PAROLE EARLY?

The Parole Commission must consider the following guidelines, which indicate that your federal parole should be ended early:

1) You received a “salient factor score” (SFS) in the “very good risk category” AND you have completed 2 continuous years of supervision free from an incident of new criminal behavior or serious parole violation (which includes a new arrest or report of a parole violation if supported by substantial evidence of guilt, even if no conviction or parole revocation results);\(^ {503}\) OR

2) You received a “salient factor score” in a risk category other than very good AND you have completed 3 continuous years of supervision free from an incident of new criminal behavior or serious parole violation (which includes a new arrest or report of a parole violation if supported by substantial evidence of guilt, even if no conviction or parole revocation results).\(^ {504}\)

However, the USPC may disregard the outcome indicated by the 2 guidelines above based on case–specific factors, including:

1) Your current behavior;
2) Your background; and
3) Your criminal history.\(^ {505}\)

IF I AM DENIED EARLY TERMINATION OF MY FEDERAL PAROLE, CAN I CHALLENGE THE U.S. PAROLE COMMISSION’S DECISION?

Yes.\(^ {506}\) You can appeal to the National Appeals Board.\(^ {507}\) However, the National Appeals Board does not often reverse the decision of the Parole Commission, unless an error was made. There are several steps to challenge the Parole Commission’s decision not to let you off federal parole early. Please see the APPENDIX JI PG. 365 for full details on each step.

STEP 1: You may send a written appeal to the National Appeals Board challenging any decision to grant (other than a decision to grant parole on the date of parole eligibility), rescind, deny, or revoke parole.

NOTE: If you want to appeal a decision denying your parole on the date of parole eligibility, you instead need to submit a “petition of reconsideration” to the USPC.

STEP 2: Use the proper form (Parole Form I-22) and file your written appeal within 30 days from the date of entry of the decision that you are appealing. If you don’t file within 30 days of the decision, you lose your right to challenge/appeal it.

OTHER REQUIREMENTS OF YOUR APPEAL:

1. The appeal must include an opening paragraph that briefly summarizes the legal grounds for the appeal.
2. You should then list each ground separately and clearly explain the reasons or facts that support each ground.

If your appeal doesn’t meet these requirements, the USPC may return it to you, in which case have 30 additional days from the date the appeal is returned to submit an appeal that meets the above requirements.

LEGAL GROUNDS FOR YOUR APPEAL CAN INCLUDE:

1. That the guidelines were wrongly applied in your:
   - Severity rating;
   - Salient factor score;
   - Time in custody;
2. That a decision outside the guidelines was not supported by the reasons or facts as stated;
3. That especially mitigating circumstances (for example, facts relating to the severity of the offense or your probability of success on parole) justify a different decision;
4. That a decision was based on wrong information, and the correct facts justify a different decision;
5. That the USPC did not follow correct procedure in deciding the case, and a different decision would have resulted if it would have followed the right procedure;
6. There was important information that you did not know at the time of the hearing;
7. There are compelling reasons why a more lenient decision should be given on grounds of compassion;
8. The Attorney General (AG) may file an appeal by making a written request to have the Regional Commissioner's regarding decision regarding an individual's federal parole. The request by the AG must be within 30 days of the Commissioner’s decision. The National Board of Appeals will have 60 days, after receiving the AG’s request, to reaffirm, modify or reverse the Commissioner's decision. The Board of Appeals decision has to be provided in writing to both the AG and prisoner the appeal relates to.

908 See 28 C.F.R. §§ 2.17; 2.27.
910 28 C.F.R. § 2.26(f)
How can I strengthen my appeal?

You can provide additional information for the USPC to consider in an addendum to your original appeal. An addendum is when you have new or additional information you would like to give to USPC, but you have already turned in your application. You can send the new information to USPC with a note that you would like to attach the new information as an “addendum.”

You can attach exhibits (photos, documents that help your case, etc.) to your appeal, but the exhibits shouldn’t be copies of documents that the USPC already has.

STEP 3: The National Appeals Board may affirm, modify, or reverse the decision of the Parole Commissioner(s) below.

STEP 4: You receive the National Appeals Board’s decision. The National Appeals Board must act within 60 days of receiving your papers to affirm, modify, or reverse the decision below. The decision of the National Appeals Board is final.

CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PAROLE

WHAT CONDITIONS MUST I FOLLOW ON FEDERAL PAROLE?

There are a lot of general and additional conditions that it is important to follow! Here is an overview of all the general conditions, and you should also be aware of any special conditions that might apply to you.

GENERAL CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PAROLE

1) Go directly to your approved residence in the district named in your Certificate of Release (unless you are released to a detainer, explained on PG. 267 above);
2) Report in-person within 3 days (72 hours) to the U.S. Probation Office named on your Certificate of Release. If because of an emergency you are unable to appear in person within 3 days (72 hours) after your release, you should report to the nearest U.S. Probation Office and obey any instructions that the “duty officer” gives you.
   a. If you were released to another authority (not U.S. Probation), then you should follow these first 2 steps as soon as you are released from the custody of the other authority.
3) Cooperate with your Probation Officer, and provide any information requested to your Probation Officer. You must answer completely and truthfully when the Probation Officer asks you for information.
4) Between the first and third day of each month, you must make a written report to the supervision officer on a form provided to you. The written report will look different depending where you are. It will most likely look like a worksheet where you will fill out your address, job information, and answer other questions about your life, or a form that you will fill out and submit on line at the probation office’s website. Your Probation Officer will show you how to fill this out and give it to you at your check-in.

5) Report to your Probation Officer as that officer directs.

6) Tell your Probation Officer if you are arrested or questioned by law enforcement/police within 2 days of the contact with law enforcement.

7) Tell your Probation Officer if you change your job or address within 2 days of the change.

8) You must let the Probation Officer to visit your home and workplace.

9) You must let the Probation Officer take any item that the officer reasonably believes you are not allowed to have (for example, an illegal drug or a weapon), and that is in plain view in your possession (meaning they can see it without having to open drawers or dig through compartments), including in your home, workplace, or vehicle.

10) You must take a drug or alcohol test whenever your Probation Officer orders you to take the test.\textsuperscript{913}

Conditions that Prohibit Conduct:

1) You cannot violate any law and must not associate with any person who is violating any law.

2) You cannot possess a firearm, any other dangerous weapon, or ammunition.

3) You cannot \textit{illegally possess or use} a controlled substance.

4) You cannot drink alcoholic beverages to excess.

5) Stay away from a place where a controlled substance is illegally sold, used, or given away.

6) You cannot leave your district of supervision without permission. (See PG. 275 for instructions on how to get permission to leave your district of permission.)

7) You cannot associate with a person who has a criminal record without the permission of your Probation Officer.

8) You cannot act as an informant (meaning someone who gives information to law enforcement/police about secret or criminal activities) for any law enforcement officer without the prior approval of the U.S. Parole Commission.\textsuperscript{914}

Additional Conditions You Must Follow:

1) You must make a good faith effort to work regularly, unless excused by your Probation Officer.

2) You must support your children and any legal dependents.

3) You must participate in an employment-readiness program if your supervision officer tells you to do so.

4) You must make a good faith effort to pay any fine, restitution order, court costs or assessment or court-ordered child support or alimony payment. If asked by your Probation Officer, you must provide your financial information. You must cooperate with your Probation Officer in setting up an installment plan to pay these debts and obligations.

5) If your underlying conviction was for a domestic violence crime, and it was your first conviction for domestic violence, you must attend an approved offender-rehabilitation program for the prevention of domestic violence (if such a program is readily available within 50 miles of your home).

6) If required by law, you must register with any applicable special offender registration law, for example, a law that requires you to register as a “sex offender” or a “gun offender.”

7) If directed by your Probation Officer AND if authorized by the DNA Analysis Backlog Elimination Act of 2000, you must provide a DNA sample.

8) You must inform a person about your criminal record or personal history if your supervision officer determines that your relationship or contact with this person may pose a risk of harm to this person. The Probation Officer may direct you to do this and then ask for some form of confirmation or proof that you followed the direction. The Probation Officer may also speak directly with that person.\footnote{28 C.F.R. \S 2.204(6).}

I AM ON FEDERAL PAROLE. CAN I TRAVEL OUTSIDE MY FEDERAL PAROLE DISTRICT?

Yes, if you get permission from your Probation Officer and/or the Parole Commission first.\footnote{See 28 C.F.R. \S 2.41.}

1) Your Probation Officer may give you permission to travel outside your federal parole district without approval of the U.S. Parole Commission in the following situations:
   a. Vacation trips for 30 days or less.
   b. Trips to look into certain employment possibilities for 30 days or less.
   c. Repeated travel across a district boundary, no more than 50 miles outside the district, for a job, shopping, or recreation.\footnote{28 C.F.R. \S 2.41(a)(3).}

2) For the following types of travel, you must (1) get the Parole Commission’s advance permission \textit{in writing}, and (2) show a substantial need for such travel:
   a. All foreign travel;
   b. A job that requires you to repeatedly travel more than 50 miles outside your federal parole district (except offshore job locations); and
   c. Vacation travel outside the district for more than 30 days.\footnote{28 C.F.R. \S 2.41(b).}

3) A special condition imposed by the Regional Commissioner prohibiting certain travel shall supersede any of the above general rules.\footnote{28 C.F.R. \S 2.41(c).} This means that if you have a special condition that prohibits certain travel then you will not be able to travel even if you meet the conditions above.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF FEDERAL PAROLE

WHAT SPECIAL CONDITIONS COULD APPLY TO ME ON FEDERAL PAROLE?

If the U.S. Parole Commission determines that it is necessary to protect the public from further crimes and to provide adequate supervision over you, it may impose a special condition other than one of the general conditions above. Examples of special conditions of release that the Commission might require of your are found at 28 C.F.R. § 2.204(b)(2), and include the following possible requirements:

1) If the Parole Commission requires you to participate in a drug-treatment program, you must submit to a drug test before release and to at least two other drug tests, as determined by your Probation Officer. However, a decision not to impose this special condition, because available information indicates that you have a low risk of future substance abuse, constitutes good cause (a good reason under law) for suspending the drug testing requirements of 18 U.S.C. 4209(a). Furthermore, a grant of parole or re-parole depends on your passing all pre-release drug tests administered by the Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP).

2) You must live in or participate in a program at a community corrections center, or both, for all or part of your period of supervision;

3) You must participate in a drug-or alcohol-treatment program, and abstain from all use of alcohol and other intoxicants;

4) As an alternative to incarceration, you may be put on house arrest (home confinement), meaning you remain at home during nonworking hours, and your compliance is monitored by telephone or electronic signaling devices;

5) You must allow a supervising officer, at a time of their choosing, to conduct a search of your person, or of any building, vehicle, or other area under your control, and to seize contraband found.

CAN FEDERAL PAROLE REQUIRE ME TO GO TO A HALF-WAY HOUSE OR REQUIRE ME TO UNDERGO DRUG OR ALCOHOL TREATMENT WHILE I’M UNDER SUPERVISION?

Yes. Federal law allows the U.S. Parole Commission to require you to go into a half-way house or undergo treatment for drug or alcohol for all or part of the time under supervision. In most cases, you will be notified in advance and may submit comments about that proposal to the Parole Commission before the final decision is made.

IF I’M ON PAROLE, MAY I OWN, USE OR POSSESS FIREARMS AFTER THEY ARE RELEASED?

No—almost never. Except in very rare situations, federal law forbids anyone who has ever been convicted of a felony from possessing firearms or ammunition. Generally, you will not be permitted to own or possess a firearm or ammunition.

CAN THE PAROLE COMMISSION CHANGE ANY OF MY CONDITIONS OF RELEASE?

Yes. If you believe the conditions on your Certificate of Release are unfair, you may ask the Case Manager for an appeal form and submit it to the Regional Commissioner within 30 days after your release. The U.S. Parole Commission will consider the appeal and you will be notified of the decision within 21 days.
after you file your appeal. While the appeal is pending, the parolee must continue to abide by the conditions imposed.\textsuperscript{925}

AFTER A PAROLEE IS RELEASED, MAY ANY OF THE CONDITIONS BE CHANGED? CAN ADDITIONAL ONES BE IMPOSED?

Yes. The Probation Officer or the U.S. Parole Commission may propose changing or adding to your conditions of federal parole. You will be notified of any such proposal and be given up to 10 days to make any written comments to the U.S. Parole Commission. You will be notified within 21 days after you provide written comments.\textsuperscript{926} \textbf{STEP 1:} Ask your U.S. Probation Officer for a form to make comments.

\textbf{STEP 2:} You may write directly to the Commission (with a copy to your Probation Officer) if you want to have any of the conditions changed or deleted.\textsuperscript{927}

TRANSFERRING FEDERAL PAROLE

I’M ON FEDERAL PAROLE AND I WANT TO TRANSFER TO A NEW DISTRICT. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

To transfer districts, you need to discuss it with your Probation Officer, who will review your plan and make sure you meet certain criteria required for transfer.

To have the transfer request approved, you must get the permission of both the Probation Officer from the transferring district and from the receiving district. You can only transfer if it doesn’t go against the instructions from the U.S. Parole Commission (USPC).\textsuperscript{928} If you meet the criteria, have your plan approved, and sign the required forms and submit a transfer request through the Interstate Compact Offender Tracking System (iCOTS), your transfer request will then be submitted to the other state for investigation and a decision on acceptance or rejection.

Please read the next question for more information about transferring between states.

I AM ON FEDERAL PAROLE AND WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

An Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision governs transferring between states for adults under all types of community supervision.\textsuperscript{929} The Compact has been adopted by all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

\textsuperscript{925} 28 C.F.R. §§ 2.40(d), 2.204(c)-(d).
\textsuperscript{926} 28 C.F.R. §§ 2.40(d), 2.204(c)-(d).
\textsuperscript{927} 28 C.F.R. §§ 2.40(d), 2.204(c)-(d).
\textsuperscript{928} 28 C.F.R. § 2.38.
\textsuperscript{929} CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 11180, 11181.
An Interstate Commission has developed rules for transfer eligibility and supervision.

At the discretion of the sending state, you are eligible and can be approved for transfer if you meet the following criteria:

1) You have more than 90 calendar days or an indefinite period of supervision remaining at the time the sending state transmits the transfer request; and
2) You have a valid plan of supervision; and
3) You are in substantial compliance with the terms of supervision in the sending state (meaning you have not had your probation or parole revoked and you have no pending revocation charges); and
4) Either:
   a. You are a resident of the receiving state, OR
   b. You have family in the receiving state who indicate a willingness and ability to assist (as specified in your supervision plan) and you can obtain employment in the receiving state or have some other means of support.

If you are approved for transfer by the sending state, then the receiving state must accept you for federal parole supervision.

ALTERNATIVE OPTION:

Even if you do not meet the above criteria and eligibility requirements for interstate parole transfer, the sending and receiving states may also agree to transfer you if there is good cause to do so. To pursue this option:

STEP 1: Discuss the transfer with your Probation Officer.

STEP 2: If the special circumstances and good cause for transferring your supervision are approved, the sending state must provide the receiving state enough documentation to justify the transfer.

STEP 3: The receiving state shall have the discretion to accept or reject the transfer of supervision in a manner consistent with the purpose of the Interstate Compact.

How do I start the process?

To get the process started, you should talk to your federal correctional counselor or federal probation agent. The parole agent should determine whether you meet the eligibility criteria. If the criteria are met, the agent should submit a transfer application to the department’s Interstate Compact Unit (In California, the CDCR’s Interstate Compact Unit in Sacramento). If that unit approves your application, the request will be sent to the receiving state.

How long will it take?

The earliest that your supervising agency can send a transfer request is 120 days before your expected release date from prison. The receiving state is supposed to respond within 45 calendar days of receiving a transfer request. The process can be expedited in an emergency.

I AM CLASSIFIED AS A SEX OFFENDER, AND I WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

You must meet the above 5 criteria, AND you must be able to meet additional specific requirements for transferring the supervision of people classified as sex offenders.

NOTE: You cannot leave the sending state until the receiving state has approved the transfer request or issued reporting instructions.

See Appendix LL, PG. 367 to follow detailed steps.

Follow these steps:

STEP 1: Discuss your desire to transfer with your U.S. Probation Officer.

STEP 2: Satisfy all of the eligibility criteria. At the discretion of the sending state, you are eligible and can be approved for transfer if you meet the following criteria and all 5 of the criteria above (see previous page).

STEP 3: Complete an Application for Transfer.

STEP 4: The sending state must send the receiving state:

1) Assessment information, including sex offender specific assessments;
2) Social history;
3) Information relevant to the sex offender’s criminal sexual behavior
4) Law enforcement report that provides specific details of sex offense;
5) Victim information: including the name, sex, age and relationship to the offender and the statement of the victim or victim’s representative;
6) The sending state’s current or recommended supervision and treatment plan.

STEP 5: The receiving state has 5 business days to review the proposed residence. If the proposed residence is not acceptable due to existing state law or policy, the receiving state may deny the application. No travel permit can be granted by the sending state until the receiving state says it can.

STEP 6: A travel permit will be given to you by your Probation Officer if the receiving state has approved the new residence. Travel permits are issued by the local parole office, so each office uses a different form. Your Probation Officer will give you this form once you have been approved by the Interstate Commission for Adult Offender Supervision.

VIOLATIONS & REVOCATION OF FEDERAL PAROLE

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I VIOLATE THE CONDITIONS OF MY FEDERAL PAROLE (OR MANDATORY RELEASE)?

1) First, a U.S. Probation Officer will likely report the violation to the U.S. Parole Commission. While your Probation Officer is required to report any and all violations to the U.S. Parole Commission (USPC), the officer may recommend that you be continued under supervision without sanctions.

2) Second, a Parole Commissioner determines the appropriate punishment (called "sanctions"), which could include:
   a) Issuance of an arrest warrant, or
   b) A summons for you to appear at a hearing.

The Probation Officer's recommendation is one of the factors considered by the Commission in its decision.\textsuperscript{943}

At this stage of the process, there are two reasons why the USPC might wait to issue an arrest warrant or a hearing summons:

- It may wait until, in the opinion of the Commission, the frequency or seriousness of violations requires it to issue a warrant or summons;
- You (the parolee) have been charged with a new criminal offense and are awaiting disposition of the charge, so the Commission may decide to (1) withhold the summons, (2) issue and hold the warrant in abeyance, or (2) issue a warrant and place a detainer on you.\textsuperscript{944}

3) Third, the warrant will be “executed,” which means that you will be taken into custody or asked to come to a hearing. What happens next will depend on your personal circumstances, but the different possibilities are described in the next two questions.

WHO ISSUES AN ARREST WARRANT OR SUMMONS TO APPEAR AT A HEARING IF I VIOLATE FEDERAL PAROLE OR MANDATORY RELEASE?

Only a Parole Commissioner may issue a warrant or a summons for a violation of the conditions of your release on federal parole.\textsuperscript{945}

Any officer of any Federal correctional institution or any Federal officer authorized to execute the warrant will do so by returning you to the custody of the Attorney General.\textsuperscript{946}

You must be served with a summons to appear at a preliminary interview or revocation hearing by a Federal officer who is authorized to serve you, and proof of such service shall be returned to the appropriate regional office of the USPC.\textsuperscript{947}

\textsuperscript{944} 28 C.F.R. § 2.44(a).
\textsuperscript{945} 28 C.F.R. § 2.44.
\textsuperscript{946} 28 C.F.R. § 2.46(a).
\textsuperscript{947} 28 C.F.R. § 2.46(c).
AFTER A WARRANT OR SUMMONS IS ISSUED, WHAT HAPPENS?

1) You will be either taken into custody, usually in the nearest government-approved jail or detention center, or summoned to appear at a hearing.

2) If you have been convicted of a new offense, a Probation Officer will personally advise you of your legal rights and conduct a preliminary interview.

3) The Regional Commissioner will pick an official to conduct a preliminary interview with you — this official could be a U.S. Probation Officer in the district where you are confined, so long as it is not the same U.S. Probation Officer who recommended that you be arrested.

4) You'll go through a preliminary interview (sometimes called a probable cause hearing) by the official, which will be used to help the U.S. Parole Commission determine if there is probable cause to believe you actually violated your parole conditions. If the Parole Commission finds probable cause, then it must decide whether to conduct a final revocation hearing.

5) YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO ASK FOR AN ATTORNEY & INVITE WITNESSES TO THE PRELIMINARY HEARING! At the beginning of the preliminary interview, the interviewing officer must:
   - Verify that you received the Warrant Application (as required by § 2.46(b));
   - Advise you of your right to have the preliminary interview postponed so that you have time to get an attorney to represent you or to arrange for witnesses to attend on your behalf;
   - Tell you that if you cannot afford an attorney, you can apply to a U.S. District Court for appointment of counsel to represent you at the preliminary interview and the revocation hearing (pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 3006A). You do not have a constitutional right to have an attorney at your revocation hearing, but you can request an attorney and may have one appointed to you. You will most likely qualify for an attorney if you cannot afford one.

6) YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO ASK THE PAROLE COMMISSION TO MAKE WITNESSES WHO PROVIDED INFORMATION LEADING TO YOUR REVOCATION CHARGE APPEAR AT THE PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW—
   - You should request that the Commission bring in anyone who has given information that it will use in its decision to revoke or reinstate your parole. Such adverse witnesses shall be requested to attend the preliminary interview unless (1) you admit a violation; or (2) have been convicted of a new offense while on supervision; or (3) the interviewing officer finds good cause for their absence. The Parole Commission may subpoena (meaning order through the court) witnesses who are against your interest (adverse) and the production of documents.

7) AT THE PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW, THE INTERVIEWING OFFICER MUST:
   - Review the violation charges with you;
   - Tell you about the evidence which has been presented to the Parole Commission;

958 Disclosure of the evidence presented to the U.S. Parole Comm’n must be made pursuant to 28 C.F.R. § 2.50(d). See also 28 C.F.R. § 2.48(c).
ROADMAP TO REENTRY

- Take statements of witnesses and documentary evidence on your behalf; and
- Allow cross-examination of those witnesses in attendance.

8) AT THE CONCLUSION OF THE PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW, THE INTERVIEWING OFFICER MUST:
- Tell you his or her recommended decision as to whether there is probable cause to believe that you violated the conditions of your parole.
- Tell you recommendation and the basis for it.
- Submit to the Parole Commission a summary of the preliminary interview along with the officer’s recommended decision. In this report, the interviewing officer will recommend (1) whether there is “probable cause” to believe that a violation has occurred AND (2) whether you should be held in custody pending a revocation hearing or be reinstated to your parole supervision.

A Finding of Probable Cause

Just because an interviewing officer finds “probable cause” to believe you violated your parole, does not mean that your parole has been revoked. It just means that there is reason to believe you did what the warrant says you did—you will still have a chance to be reinstated at your Final Revocation Hearing. “Probable cause” is a very low standard, meaning an interviewing officer will most likely find “probable cause,” but you can still be reinstated at your Final Revocation Hearing.

9) After the interviewing officer’s report is received, the Parole Commission will either order you reinstated to supervision or order that a Hearing Examiner hold you in custody for a revocation hearing.

10) Even if the Commission finds probable cause to believe you have violated the conditions of your parole, it may still order you reinstated back to parole supervision or release you pending further proceedings if:

a) Continued revocation proceedings are not warranted; OR
b) Keeping you in jail is not necessary because the you have not violated multiple times or the charge you are facing is not serious, and you are likely to appear for further proceedings, and don’t constitute a danger to yourself or others.

11) If you’re convicted of a new offense, you are NOT entitled to a preliminary interview because the conviction is sufficient evidence (probable cause is automatically shown) that you violated your conditions of parole. In that case, you may be immediately transported to a federal institution for a revocation hearing.

MAY A PAROLEE HAVE AN ATTORNEY AT A PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW AND REVOCATION HEARING?

Yes. You have the right to an attorney of your choice, or you may request to have the court appoint you an attorney if you can’t afford your own.

28 C.F.R. § 2.48.
28 C.F.R. § 2.48(e)(2).
28 C.F.R. § 2.48(f).
28 C.F.R. § 2.48(b).
You do not have a constitutional right to have an attorney at your parole revocation hearing, but you will most likely qualify for an attorney if you cannot afford one. You should apply for an attorney with the District Court in your judicial district. It is your responsibility to tell your attorney the time and place of the hearing.

WILL I BE IN PRISON PENDING HEARING?

It depends. If you were picked up on an arrest warrant issued by the USPC, you will be held in custody until a final decision about your revocation or release.

The only exception is if the Regional Commissioner orders otherwise, but this is not likely. If you received a summons to a revocation hearing (under 28 C.F.R. § 2.44), you will remain on supervision pending the decision of the Commission.

WHERE ARE THE REVOCATION HEARINGS HELD?

The revocation hearing will be either (1) an institutional hearing OR (2) a local hearing.

1) INSTITUTIONAL HEARINGS: Generally, revocation hearings are held after you are returned to a federal institution. An institutional hearing is held within 90 days from time you were taken into custody on the U.S. Parole Commission’s warrant.

   OR

2) LOCAL HEARINGS: If there are sufficient reasons to do so, the U.S. Parole Commission may order your revocation hearing held in your own community or in the community where you were arrested. You only have the right to a local hearing if: (1) You deny violating the conditions of your release, AND (2) You were NOT convicted of a new crime.

   If a local revocation hearing is requested, the you must complete a request form. There is a penalty for false answers on this form. Local revocation hearings are generally held within 60 days from the date the Regional Commissioner finds “probable cause” that parole or mandatory release was violated. If granted, your local revocation hearing will be scheduled to happen reasonably near the place of the alleged violation(s) or arrest.

   A NOTE ABOUT GETTING SUPPORT FROM A LAWYER: At a local revocation hearing, you are more likely to have a lawyer and you can request that all adverse witnesses be called so you can confront and cross-examine them. In order to get a local revocation hearing, you and your attorney must (1) deny all the charges and (2) request a local revocation hearing.

WHAT IS THE TIMELINE OF THE HEARING?

A local revocation hearing must be within 60 days of the probable cause determination. Institutional revocation must be held within 90 days of the date the warrant was executed, when you were taken into custody. However, you can request postponement or consent to a postponed revocation proceeding.

965 28 C.F.R. § 2.49(e).

IF MY HEARING IS HELD IN A FEDERAL INSTITUTION RATHER THAN LOCALLY, AM I ENTITLED TO AN ATTORNEY AND MAY I PRESENT WITNESSES ON MY BEHALF?

You do not have the right to appointed counsel, but may secure an attorney at your own expense. NOTE: The attorney can act only in the capacity of a representative.

WHAT IS THE HEARING PROCEDURE?

The purpose is to determine whether you have violated the conditions of your release and, if so, whether your parole or mandatory release should be (1) revoked (taken away) or (2) reinstated (where you continue on parole as you were). To get more information about how to prepare for the hearing, please see the Appendix KK, PG. 366

WHEN IS REVOCATION MANDATORY?

If the USPC finds after a revocation hearing that you:
1. Possessed a controlled substance,
2. Refused to comply with drug testing,
3. Possessed a firearm, or
4. Tested positive for illegal controlled substances more than 3 times over the course of 1 year, the USPC must revoke your term of supervision and impose a term of prison.

If you fail a drug test, the USPC must consider appropriate alternatives to revocation.

HOW COULD I BE SENTENCED FOR A REVOCATION OF FEDERAL PAROLE?

If the Parole Commission finds by a “preponderance of the evidence,” (that it is more likely than not) that you violated a condition of the parole, the Commission may take any of the following actions:

1) Continue your supervision on federal parole, which can include:
   a. Reprimanding you;
   b. Modifying (changing) your conditions of release;
   c. Referring you to a community corrections center for all or part of the remainder of your original sentence;

   OR

2) Revoke your parole, and send you back to prison.

In determining whether to revoke parole for not paying a fine, restitution, court costs or assessment, and/or court-ordered child support or alimony payment that was a condition of your release on supervision, the U.S. Parole Commission must consider your employment status, earning ability, financial resources, and any other special circumstances that may have a bearing on the matter. Revocation shall not be ordered unless you are found to be deliberately evading or refusing compliance.

IF THE COMMISSION REVOKES PAROLE OR MANDATORY RELEASE, DOES A PAROLEE GET ANY CREDIT ON THE SENTENCE FOR THE TIME SPENT UNDER SUPERVISION?

Generally, if you are convicted of a new law violation, you are entitled to credit for any of the time spent under supervision unless serving a Youth Corrections Act (YCA) or Narcotics Addiction Rehabilitation Act (NARA) commitment.

Also, there is no credit given for any time a parolee intentionally failed to respond or report to a Probation Officer or after a parolee has absconded from his or her area and the Probation Officer did not know where he or she was living. For violation of any of the other noncriminal conditions, a parolee generally will be credited for all of the time spent under supervision in the community.

IF I GET MY FEDERAL PAROLE REVOKED, HOW LONG MUST I SERVE BEFORE THE PAROLE COMMISSION REVIEWS MY CASE AGAIN?

The U.S. Parole Commission uses its own guidelines to determine the length of time you should serve in prison for the revocation. The guidelines are the same ones used for inmates who apply for their initial parole hearing. Decisions, of course, can be made above or below the guidelines for good cause (a good reason).

CAN I APPEAL THE REVOCATION DECISION BY THE U.S. PAROLE COMMISSION?

Yes. It’s the same process discussed above (PG. 269) for appealing a denial of early release from parole to the National Appeals Board. The U.S. Attorney General can also appeal a Regional Parole Commissioner’s decision.

The Attorney General, within 30 days after entry of a Regional Commissioner’s decision, may send a written request to the National Appeals Board to review the decision. Within 60 days of the receipt of the request the National Appeals Board must affirm, modify, or reverse the decision, or order a rehearing at the institutional or regional level, and send a written decision to the Attorney General and to you.

973 28 C.F.R. § 2.52.
977 28 C.F.R. §§ 2.26; 2.51.
If the Commission finds out you were convicted of a new crime after your revocation hearing for something you did while you were on parole, the Regional Commissioner may reopen your case pursuant to § 2.52(c)(2) for a special reconsideration hearing on the next regularly scheduled docket to consider whether you should give up your time spent on parole or any other consequence that he may think is appropriate. If he decides to change something, this new ruling will replace the ruling you got at your hearing.

DISABILITY RIGHTS FOR PEOPLE ON ALL TYPES OF FEDERAL SUPERVISION

I HAVE A DISABILITY. WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE ON FELONY PROBATION OR PAROLE TO HAVE ACCOMMODATIONS FOR MY DISABILITY?

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 protects individuals on federal probation/federal parole from discrimination due to their disabilities. The Rehabilitation Act provides essentially the same protections as the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), including the right to reasonable changes in policies, rules, and conditions; equal opportunity to participate in programs, services, and benefits; and additional assistance (services or devices) so that you can participate in programs and activities related to your supervision.

Thus, federal probation staff must offer you the same types of accommodations and services discussed for state parole under “State Parole: Disabilities and the ADA,” see PG. 184.

HOW CAN I FILE A COMPLAINT IF I FEEL THAT MY FEDERAL PROBATION OFFICER IS NOT ACCOMMODATING MY DISABILITY, OR FEEL THAT I AM NOT GETTING ACCESS TO PAROLE SERVICES OR PROGRAMS?

Unfortunately, there are no special procedures or forms to seek accommodations for your disability, or to complain about overly restrictive conditions under federal supervision. There are several steps you can take to try and rectify the situation.

STEP 1: If your disability makes it difficult to comply with your federal probation or parole conditions, or your conditions are overly strict and cause you harm due to your disability, the first thing to do is talk with your U.S. probation officer. You should explain:

1) Your disability;
2) Which condition of supervision is causing you problems due to your disability (e.g., drug testing conditions that prevent you from taking necessary medication) or how you are being treated differently due to your disability (e.g., you are stopped from participating in certain programs due to your disability or related medical treatment) or why you need additional help to participate in activities or follow the rules of supervision; and

3) What accommodations (like changes in rules, policies, or procedures), services, or other assistance you need for your disability.

4) If you have any other documents—such as a letter from your doctor or prescription for medication—you should show that to your probation officer. You can also remind your probation officer that federal law requires him or her to provide “reasonable accommodations” for your disability. Your probation officer, along with the judge and any medical providers who help you with your disability, will consider your situation and make a case-by-case decision about whether and how to accommodate your disability.

STEP 2: If you are unhappy with your probation officer’s decision, you can ask a supervisor for assistance. If the probation department does not provide the assistance you need, you can go to court to request a change in your supervision conditions or other accommodations.

STEP 3: You have the right to file an administrative complaint with the Department of Justice, which will investigate and attempt to resolve cases of discrimination based on disability, including a hearing and appeal process. Note, however that this process can take a long time to complete, so it’s best as a last resort.

983 You can also file a new complaint (start a new case) to allege disability discrimination under Section 504. “Your Section 504 complaint must say that: (1) You are an individual with a disability; (2) You are “otherwise qualified” for the program, activity, or service from which you were excluded; (3) You were denied benefits or discriminated against solely because of your disability; and (4) The program, activity, prison, or jail receives federal financial assistance. But your complaint should also include other information, both to make your situation clear and to get the judge to sympathize with the problems you face in prison. You should (1) discuss your disability in detail, (2) explain the accommodations you need, and (3) describe the discrimination you have experienced. You should also mention any other facts you think are relevant and will make your argument stronger.” Colum. Hum. Rts. L. Rev., A Jailhouse Lawyer’s Manual at 726.
VII. CONCLUSION

Being under some type of supervision is usually required for you to be released from prison or jail. In California, there are many types of supervision—state parole, county probation, Mandatory Supervision, PRCS, federal probation, Supervised, and federal parole. Hopefully now that you’ve read this Chapter, you better understand what it means to be under supervision, what special rules you have to follow, and all of the rights you have as a person in reentry.

LET’S REVIEW!

• In the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, you learned about:
  o Different types of supervision in California, including the state and federal systems for supervision o Who gets put onto what type of supervision, and the reasons why o What to expect and know about when you first get released onto community supervision o The General vs. Special/ Discretionary Conditions of Supervision: What general rules (conditions) you have to follow, what special/ discretionary (extra conditions) might be added on, and how to challenge special/ discretionary conditions o The Length of Supervision: How it is calculated, and how to get off early, if possible
  o Transferring Supervision to a Different Location: What the procedures are for transferring your supervision to a different county or state o Disability Rights: How to navigate parole and/or probation if you have a disability and need help or accommodations
  o Violations: What your rights are if you’re accused of violating the conditions of your supervision, and how the “revocation” (violations) process works for the different types of supervision

General And Discretionary Conditions Of California State Parole

General Conditions of State Parole:

• The release date and how long the parolee may be on parole.
• Advisement that the parolee, their residence, and possessions can be searched at any time of the day or night, with or without a warrant, and with or without a reason. This can be done by a parole agent or police officer.
• By signing the parole conditions, the parolee waives extradition if they are found out of state.
• The parolee's obligation to always tell their parole agent where they live and work.
• The parolee's obligation to report upon release from prison or jail.
• The parolee's obligation to tell their parole agent about a new address before they move.
• The parolee's obligation to tell their parole agent, within three days, if they get a new job.
• The parolee's obligation to report to their parole agent when told to report or a warrant can be issued for their arrest.
• The parolee's obligation to follow their parole agent's instructions.
• The parolee's obligation to ask their parole agent if it is OK to travel more 50 miles from their residence, and receive approval before they travel.
• The parolee's obligations to receive a travel pass before they leave the county for more than two days.
• The parolee's obligations to receive a travel pass before they can leave the State.
• The parolee's obligation to obey ALL laws.
• The parolee's obligation to tell their parole agent immediately if they get arrested or get a ticket.
• An advisement that if a parolee breaks the law, they can be sent back to prison even if they do not have any new criminal charges.
• The parolee's obligation to not be around guns, or things that look like a real gun, bullets, or any other weapons.
• The parolee's obligation to not have a knife with a blade longer than two inches except a kitchen knife. Kitchen knives must be kept in your kitchen.
• Knives you use for work are also allowed if approved by the parole agent tells, but they can only be carried while at work or going to and from work. The parolee must possess a note from the parole agent approving this, and it must be carried at all times.
• The parolee's obligation to not own, use, or have access to a weapon listed in Penal Code Section 12020.
• The parolee's obligation to sign their conditions of parole. Failure to sign them can result in a return to prison.

Parole Conditions, Cal. Dept't of Corr. & Reh., http://www.cdc.ca.gov/Parole/Parolee_Conditions/
Discretionary Conditions of State Parole:

- Require you to support your dependents and meet other family responsibilities;
- Require that you make restitution to a victim of the offense under section 3556;
- Require that you give notice (ordered pursuant to the provisions of section 3555) to the victims of the offense;
- Require that you be employed or be pursuing educational/vocational training to prepare you for suitable employment;
- Prevent you altogether from working in a specified occupation, business, or profession with a reasonably direct relationship to the conduct underlying your commitment offense (OR prevent you from working in a specified occupation, business, or profession only to a certain degree/under stated circumstances);
- Forbid you from going to specified kinds of places;
- Forbid you from associating with specified persons;
- Forbid you from excessive use of alcohol, or any use of a narcotic drug or other controlled substance, as defined in section 102 of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 802), without a prescription by a licensed medical practitioner;
- Forbid you from possessing a firearm, destructive device, or other dangerous weapon;
- Require that you get medical, psychiatric, or psychological treatment, including treatment for drug or alcohol dependency (as specified by the court);
- Require that you live in a specified institution for medical, psychiatric, or psychological treatment;
- Require that you remain in the custody of the Bureau of Prisons during nights, weekends, or other intervals of time, totaling no more than the lesser of one year or the term of imprisonment authorized for the offense, during the first year of the term of probation or supervised release (this is known as intermittent confinement);
- Require you to live at a community corrections facility (including somewhere maintained by or contracted with the Bureau of Prisons), or attend a program at such a community corrections facility, for all or part of the term of probation;
- Require you to work in community service as directed by the court;
- Require you to live in a specified place or area, or prevent you from living in a specified place or area;
- Require you to remain within the jurisdiction of the court, unless granted permission to leave by the court or a probation officer;
- Require you report to a probation officer as directed by the court or the probation officer;
- Allow a probation officer to visit you at your home or elsewhere as specified by the court;
- Require you to quickly notify your probation officer, or answer your P.O.’s questions, about any change in address or employment;
- Require you to quickly notify your probation officer if you are arrested or questioned by a law enforcement officer;
- Require you to stay at home/where you live during non-working hours (this is known as home confinement or house arrest), and require you to be monitored by telephonic or electronic signaling devices to track you and make sure you are at home during these times. This condition can only be used as an alternative to incarceration.\footnote{This is because if you are sentenced to a term of incarceration, you cannot receive a sentence of probation. Rather, you would receive a term of supervised release following imprisonment as part of your sentence.}

- Require that you obey any court order or other government administrative order that requires you to pay for support/maintenance of a child or to both the child and parent with whom the child is living;
- Deport you if you are “deportable” under law;
- Satisfy any other court-imposed conditions; and
- If you are required to register under the Sex Offender Registration and Notification Act: The judge may order a search at any time, with or without a warrant, of your person, any property, your house/residence, vehicle, papers, computer, or other electronic/data devices or media, by any law enforcement or probation officer with reasonable suspicion concerning a violation of a condition of probation or unlawful conduct, and by any probation officer lawfully carrying out his/her function of supervision.
- Intermittent confinement. Intermittent confinement can only be used if you violate a condition of probation.\footnote{18 U.S.C. § 3583(b). (d).}
APPENDIX B

California State Parole Term Lengths

I. CONTROLLING DISCHARGE DATE (CDD) & MAXIMUM DISCHARGE DATE (MDD):

Three-year base period, maximum period of four years:
- People who were sentenced to a determinate (set-length) prison term, and who do not fall into any of the other categories listed below. Longer parole periods apply to people convicted of serious sex crimes or sentenced to life with the possibility of parole.
- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for offenses committed before January 1, 1979.

Five-year base period, maximum period of seven years:
- People sentenced for a sex crime under CAL. PENAL CODE § 661.61 (the “one strike” law) committed between July 19, 2000, and September 19, 2006 (note that the base term can be extended for an additional five years if the prisoner is deemed to pose a danger to society; as of January 1, 2002, either the original or extended parole period can be increased to a maximum of seven years). This also applies to people sentenced under Penal Code § 667.71 (recidivist sex offenders) for offenses committed from January 1, 2003, through September 19, 2006.
- Life prisoners who committed their offenses on or after January 1, 1979, and who do not fall into some other category.

Ten-year base period, maximum period of fifteen years:
- People convicted of a violent sex crime listed in Penal Code § 667.5 (c)(3)-(6), (11), (15), (16), or (18) committed between September 20, 2006, and November 6, 2006. This provision also applies to people convicted of a violent sex crime listed in CAL. PENAL CODE § 667.5 (c)(3)-(6), (11), or (18) committed on or after September 9, 2010, and who do not fall into some other category.
- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for a sex offense under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 209(b) [with intent to commit a sex offense], 269, 288.7, or 667.51 committed between September 20, 2006, and November 6, 2006.
- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for a sex offense under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 667.61 or 667.71 committed on or after September 20, 2006, and who do not fall into some other category.

---

988 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b); 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 2515(e); In re Wilson, 30 Cal.3d 438, 440-41 (1981).
989 CAL. PENAL CODE § 661.61.
990 CAL. PENAL CODE § 661.61.
991 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000(b)(1); 15 CAL. CODE REGS. § 2515(d).
992 This provision also purports to apply to people sentenced to life with the possibility of parole under CAL. PENAL CODE § 209 (with intent to commit a sex offense) or § 667.51 committed on or after September 9, 2010. However, such offenses appear to be covered by the life-long parole provision in CAL. PENAL CODE § 3000.1.
Twenty-year and six month base period with a maximum life-long parole:

- People convicted of a sex offense under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 261, 262, 264.1, 286, 288a, 288(b)(1), 288, 288.5, or 289 if the victim was under 14 years of age and the offense was committed on or after September 9, 2010. These parolees can be kept on parole longer, even without parole violations, upon a finding of good cause.

Life-long parole period:

- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for first- or second-degree murder committed on or after January 1, 1983 (BUT NOT CONSPIRACY TO COMMIT ANY DEGREE OF MURDER).
- People sentenced to life with the possibility of parole under Penal Code § 209(b) [with intent to commit a sex offense] committed on or after September 9, 2010.
- Prisoners sentenced to life with the possibility of parole for sex offenses under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 269, 288.7(c), 667.51, 667.61(j), (l), or (m), or 667.71 [if victim under age 14] committed on or after September 9, 2010.

II. PRESUMPTIVE DISCHARGE DATE (PDD):

Most parolees can be discharged from parole early if they successfully complete a certain amount of parole time and the BPH does not find good cause to retain them on parole. This is called the “presumptive discharge date” (PDD). If a parolee fits into more than one category, the longer period applies.

- Six months: Any person with a determinate sentence for non-violent, non-serious, non-sex offenses.
- One year: Any person who has a three-year parole term following a determinate sentence for a serious felony listed in Penal Code §§ 1192.7 or 1192.8(a) or for an offense requiring registration as a sex offender.
- Two years: Any person who has a three-year parole term following a determinate sentence for a violent felony listed in Penal Code § 667.5(c).
- Three years: Any person who has a five-year parole term following a determinate sentence for a violent sex crime listed in Penal Code § 667.5(c) or following an indeterminate life sentence for a crime other than murder.
- Five years: Any person sentenced to an indeterminate life sentence for second-degree murder.
- Six years and six months: Any person with a ten-year parole term following an indeterminate life sentence under Penal Code §§ 209(b) [with intent to commit a sex offense], 667.51, 667.61, or 667.71.
- Seven years: Any person sentenced to an indeterminate life term for first-degree murder.
- No presumptive discharge date: Any person serving a life-long parole period following an indeterminate life term for a sex offense under Penal Code §§ 269, 288.7(c), 667.51, 667.61(j), (l), or (m), or 667.71 [if a victim was a child under age 14]. There is also no presumptive early discharge for parolees who were sentenced to prison for offenses committed between July 1, 1977, and December 31, 1978.
APPENDIX C

Learn How To Calculate Your State Parole Discharge Date

FOR PEOPLE ON STATE PAROLE:

How Is the Parole Discharge Date Calculated?

A parolee who is not serving life-long parole and who is retained past the “presumptive discharge date” can calculate when he or she must be discharged from parole. There are two important dates: the “controlling discharge date” (CDD) and the “maximum discharge date” (MDD). The CDD is the date that a parolee is currently set to be discharged from parole if nothing changes. The MDD is the maximum parole term as set by statute, after which the parolee must be discharged.

Two types of events may change the CDD and MDD:

• Time during which a parolee absconds or is unavailable for supervision does not count toward either the CDD or MDD. There is no limit on how long the CDD and MDD can be extended due to absconding or unavailability.

• Time served in custody for parole revocation terms will extend the CDD, but only until the MDD is reached.

The pieces of information a parolee needs to figure out his or her CDD and MDD are: (1) the initial parole date; (2) the base and maximum parole terms that apply to his or her case (see Section 16.A, above); (3) how much time he or she has been unavailable for supervision, if any; and (4) the amount of time he or she has served in custody on parole violations.

Here is a calculation worksheet that can be used by any parolee, with an example of a calculation for a parolee named Joe who is serving a three-year parole term with a maximum term of four years following a determinate sentence for a non-serious, non-violent, non-sex offense.

Worksheet

1) Start with the date the parolee was first paroled. For our example, Joe paroled on January 1, 2013. 1/1/2013

2) Add the amount of time the parolee must serve before a presumptive discharge review. Joe has a presumptive discharge date of six months plus 30 days, and was eligible for early discharge on July 1, 2013. 7/1/2013

3) However, the BPH acted to retain Joe on parole, so his CDD will be set by his full statutory base parole period. Joe has a 1/1/2016 three-year base parole period, so his CDD is January 1, 2016. Joe has a statutory maximum parole term of four years, so his MDD is January 1, 2017.

4) Joe absconded from parole, and the “clock” on his parole term stopped running during that time. This extends both the CDD and the MDD. Joe absconded for three months, so his CDD is now April 1, 2016, and his MDD is now April 1, 2017.

5) Joe also violated parole and served a parole revocation term in custody. This extends the CDD but only until the MDD is reached. Joe’s revocation term was 180 days, but he only served 90 days in jail because he behaved well and got good conduct credits. Thus, 90 days is added to his CDD, which is now July 1, 2016. The revocation time does not affect Joe’s MDD, which is still April 1, 2017.

6) Joe violated parole two more times and got two more 180-day revocation terms (360 days total); while he was in jail, Joe got into fights and refused to work, so he did not get any good conduct credits. The time Joe spends in jail extends his CDD but does not affect his MDD. Also, since a CDD cannot be further in the future than an MDD, Joe has “maxed out” and will be discharged on April 1, 2017.

IMPORTANT: if your parole length seems wrong, you can challenge it (it’s a similar process to challenging a parole condition). See PG. 178 above for more information.

California Penal Code Section 3000(b):

(b) Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary in Article 3 (commencing with Section 3040) of this chapter, the following shall apply to any inmate subject to Section 3000.08:

(1) In the case of any inmate sentenced under Section 1168 for a crime committed prior to July 1, 2013, the period of parole shall not exceed five years in the case of an inmate imprisoned for any offense other than first or second degree murder for which the inmate has received a life sentence, and shall not exceed three years in the case of any other inmate, unless in either case the Board of Parole Hearings for good cause waives parole and discharges the inmate from custody of the department. This subdivision shall also be applicable to inmates who committed crimes prior to July 1, 1977, to the extent specified in Section 1170.2. In the case of any inmate sentenced under Section 1168 for a crime committed on or after July 1, 2013, the period of parole shall not exceed five years in the case of an inmate imprisoned for any offense other than first or second degree murder for which the inmate has received a life sentence, and shall not exceed three years in the case of any other inmate, unless in either case the department for good cause waives parole and discharges the inmate from custody of the department.

(A) For a crime committed prior to July 1, 2013, at the expiration of a term of imprisonment of one year and one day, or a term of imprisonment imposed pursuant to Section 1170 or at the expiration of a term reduced pursuant to Section 2931 or 2933, if applicable, the inmate shall be released on parole for a period not exceeding three years, except that any inmate sentenced for an offense specified in paragraph (3), (4), (5), (6), (11), or (18) of subdivision (c) of Section 667.5 shall be released on parole for a period not exceeding 10 years, unless a longer period of parole is specified in Section 3000.1.

(B) For a crime committed on or after July 1, 2013, at the expiration of a term of imprisonment of one year and one day, or a term of imprisonment imposed pursuant to Section 1170 or at the expiration of a term reduced pursuant to Section 2931 or 2933, if applicable, the inmate shall be released on parole for a period of three years, except that any inmate sentenced for an offense specified in paragraph (3), (4), (5), (6), (11), or (18) of subdivision (c) of Section 667.5 shall be released on parole for a period of 10 years, unless a longer period of parole is specified in Section 3000.1.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraphs (1) and (2), in the case of any offense for which the inmate has received a life sentence pursuant to subdivision (b) of Section 209, with the intent to commit a specified sex offense, or Section 667.51, 667.61, or 667.71, the period of parole shall be 10 years, unless a longer period of parole is specified in Section 3000.1.

(A) Notwithstanding paragraphs (1) to (3), inclusive, in the case of a person convicted of and required to register as a sex offender for the commission of an offense specified in subdivision (b) of Section 261, 262, 264.1, 286, 288a, 289, 288.5, or 289, in which one or more of the victims of the offense was a child under 14 years of age, the period of parole shall be 20 years and six months unless the board, for good cause, determines that the person will be retained on parole. The board shall make a written record of this determination and transmit a copy of it to the parolee.

(B) In the event of a retention on parole, the parolee shall be entitled to a review by the board each year thereafter.

(C) There shall be a board hearing consistent with the procedures set forth in Sections 3041.5 and 3041.7 within 12 months of the date of any revocation of parole to consider the release of the inmate on parole, and notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (3) of subdivision (b) of Section 3041.5, there shall be annual parole consideration hearings thereafter, unless the person is released or otherwise ineligible for parole release. The panel or board shall release the person within one year of the date of the revocation unless it determines that the circumstances and gravity of the parole violation are such that consideration of the public safety requires a more lengthy period of incarceration or unless there is a new prison commitment following a conviction.

(D) The provisions of Section 3042 shall not apply to any hearing held pursuant to this subdivision.

(A) The Board of Parole Hearings shall consider the request of any inmate whose commitment offense occurred prior to July 1, 2013, regarding the length of his or her parole and the conditions thereof.

(B) For an inmate whose commitment offense occurred on or after July 1, 2013, except for those inmates described in Section 3000.1, the department shall consider the request of the inmate regarding the length of his or her parole and the conditions thereof. For those inmates described in Section 3000.1, the Board of Parole Hearings shall consider the request of the inmate regarding the length of his or her parole and the conditions thereof.

(6) Upon successful completion of parole, or at the end of the maximum statutory period of parole specified for the inmate under paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4), as the case may be, whichever is earlier, the inmate shall be discharged from custody. The date of the maximum statutory period of parole under this subdivision and paragraphs (1), (2), (3), and (4) shall be computed from the date of initial parole and shall be a period chronologically determined. Time during which parole is suspended because the prisoner has absconded or has been returned to custody as a parole violator shall not be credited toward any period of parole unless the prisoner is found not guilty of the parole violation. However, the period of parole is subject to the following:

(A) Except as provided in Section 3064, in no case may a prisoner subject to three years on parole be retained under parole supervision or in custody for a period longer than four years from the date of his or her initial parole.

(B) Except as provided in Section 3064, in no case may a prisoner subject to five years on parole be retained under parole supervision or in custody for a period longer than seven years from the date of his or her initial parole.

(C) Except as provided in Section 3064, in no case may a prisoner subject to 10 years on parole be retained under parole supervision or in custody for a period longer than 15 years from the date of his or her initial parole.

(7) The Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation shall meet with each inmate at least 30 days prior to his or her good time release date and shall provide, under guidelines specified by the parole authority or the department, whichever is applicable, the conditions of parole and the length of parole up to the maximum period of time provided by law. The inmate has the right to reconsideration of the length of parole and conditions thereof by the department or the parole authority, whichever is applicable. The Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation or the board may impose as a condition of parole that a prisoner make payments on the prisoner's outstanding restitution fines or orders imposed pursuant to subdivision (a) or (c) of Section 13967 of the Government Code, as operative prior to September 28, 1994, or subdivision (b) or (f) of Section 1202.4.

(8) For purposes of this chapter, and except as otherwise described in this section, the board shall be considered the parole authority.

(A) On and after July 1, 2013, the sole authority to issue warrants for the return to actual custody of any state prisoner released on parole rests with the court pursuant to Section 1203.2, except for any escaped state prisoner or any state prisoner released prior to his or her scheduled release date who should be returned to custody, and Section 5054.1 shall apply.

(B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), any warrant issued by the Board of Parole Hearings prior to July 1, 2013, shall remain in full force and effect until the warrant is served or it is recalled by the board. All prisoners on parole arrested pursuant to a warrant issued by the board shall be subject to a review by the board prior to the department filing a petition with the court to revoke the parole of the petitioner.

(10) It is the intent of the Legislature that efforts be made with respect to persons who are subject to Section 290.011 who are on parole to engage them in treatment.

(1) In the case of any inmate sentenced under Section 1168 for any offense of first or second degree murder with a maximum term of life imprisonment, the period of parole, if parole is granted, shall be the remainder of the inmate's life.

(2) Notwithstanding any other law, in the case of any inmate sentenced to a life term under subdivision (b) of Section 209, if that offense was committed with the intent to commit a specified sexual offense, Section 269 or 288.7, subdivision (c) of Section 667.51, Section 667.71 in which one or more of the victims of the offense was a child under 14 years of age, or subdivision (j), (l), or (m) of Section 667.61, the period of parole, if parole is granted, shall be the remainder of the inmate's life.

(b) Notwithstanding any other law, when any person referred to in paragraph (1) of subdivision (a) has been released on parole from the state prison, and has been on parole continuously for seven years in the case of any person imprisoned for first degree murder, and five years in the case of any person imprisoned for second degree murder, since release from confinement, the board shall, within 30 days, discharge that person from parole, unless the board, for good cause, determines that the person will be retained on parole. The board shall make a written record of its determination and transmit a copy of it to the parolee.

(c) In the event of a retention on parole pursuant to subdivision (b), the parolee shall be entitled to a review by the board each year thereafter.

(d) There shall be a hearing as provided in Sections 3041.5 and 3041.7 within 12 months of the date of any revocation of parole of a person referred to in subdivision (a) to consider the release of the inmate on parole and, notwithstanding paragraph (3) of subdivision (b) of Section 3041.5, there shall be annual parole consideration hearings thereafter, unless the person is released or otherwise ineligible for parole release. The panel or board shall release the person within one year of the date of the revocation unless it determines that the circumstances and gravity of the parole violation are such that consideration of the public safety requires a more lengthy period of incarceration or unless there is a new prison commitment following a conviction.

(e) The provisions of Section 3042 shall not apply to any hearing held pursuant to this section.
APPENDIX G
California CDRCR Form 1515

When released from custody, you will be on parole for a period of ______ years. You must obey these conditions of parole. If you do not, you may be arrested, returned to prison and have to serve more time on parole.

GENERAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

1. Criminal Conduct
   - You must obey all laws. The board may find that you have violated parole, even if you are not convicted in court and even if you are not charged with a crime.
   - If you are arrested or cited by any peace officer for any misdemeanor or felony, you must tell your parole agent right away. You must do this even if you are released.

2. Instructions
   - You must report to your parole agent the first working day after your release unless you have written permission to report later.
   - You must do what your parole agent tells you to do.
   - If another agency has placed a hold on you, you may be released to their custody. If you are released from their custody before the end of your parole period, you must contact the nearest California parole office immediately. They will tell you what to do.

3. Searches
   - Any parole agent or peace officer can search and seize you, your property, and any property under your control at any time of the day or night with or without cause.
   - They can also search your residence of record and where you live.

4. Travel
   - You cannot go more than 50 miles from your home unless you have written permission from your parole agent.
   - You cannot leave the county where you live for more than 2 days (48 hours) without written approval from your parole agent.
   - You cannot leave California without written approval from your parole agent.
   - If you are arrested in another state, you agree to give up your right to a hearing on whether you can be brought back to California.

5. Residence and Employment
   - You must tell your parole agent where you are living and where you are working.
   - You must tell your parole agent before you change where you live.
   - You must tell your parole agent within 3 days if you lose, quit, or change your job.
   - You must tell your parole agent within 3 days if your work address changes.

6. Weapons
   - You shall not own, use, have access to, or have under your control:
     - Any kind of gun.
     - Anything a reasonable person would think looks like a gun.
     - Any ammunition that could be used in a gun.
     - Any weapon not allowed by State or Federal law.
     - Anything a reasonable person would think could be used as a weapon.
     - Any knife with a blade longer than 2 inches.
       - You can have kitchen knives, but they must be kept at your house in the kitchen.
       - You can have knives you need for work, but they can only be used and carried during normal work hours for your job with your parole agent’s approval.
     - A crossbow of any kind.

7. Failure to Sign Conditions of Parole
   - You shall sign these conditions of parole and any special conditions imposed by your correctional counselor, parole agent, or the board. Failure to sign any conditions of parole will result in your being returned to custody.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

Gang Restriction
☐ You are a gang member or associate. You cannot be around known gang members. You cannot wear or carry gang colors, clothing, or items. You cannot be involved in any gang activity.

Mentally Disordered Offender
☐ You will be confined in a state hospital and may be placed in a Conditional Release Program (CONREP) community outpatient mental health treatment pursuant to Penal Code (PC) Section 2962 (MDO).

Contact with Victim(s) or Victim(s) Family
☐ You have committed a crime against a person. You may not contact the victim(s) or anyone in their family unless your parole agent gives you written permission. There cannot be contact of any kind. No visiting, calling, or writing to that person. You cannot ask another person to call, visit, or write that person for you. You cannot go by where that person lives.
☐ You have committed a crime against a person under the age of 18. You cannot have contact with ANY person under the age of 18 without permission from your parole agent. No contact of any kind. This means no visiting, calling, or writing. If you have accidental contact with a person under the age of 18, you must tell your agent immediately.

MANDATORY SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

☐ You are required to register under PC Section 290. Because of this, you cannot live with another person who is also required to register under PC Section 290 unless you are related by blood, marriage, or adoption.
☐ You are required to register under PC Section 290. Because of PC Section 3003.5, you cannot live within 2000 feet of any public or private school or any park where children regularly get together. This applies even if you finish parole.
☐ You have a current or prior conviction for violating PC Section 288 and/or PC Section 288.5. You are also a High Risk Sex Offender. Because of PC Section 3003(g), you cannot live within one-half mile of any public or private school. This applies as long as you are on parole.
☐ You were convicted of a sex offense while under the influence of alcohol. Because of this, you cannot drink or have alcoholic beverages.
☐ A judge has issued a protective order that says you cannot contact your victim. You must comply with this order.

You have the right to appeal special conditions of parole imposed by filing a CDC Form 802, Inmate/Parolee Appeal. Special conditions imposed by the board may be appealed through the court by filing a petition for writ of habeas corpus. You can request reasonable accommodation on a CDCR Form 1824. You can also appeal a denial of a reasonable accommodation on a reasonable accommodation on a CDCR Form 1824.

STAFF ISSUANCE/OBSERVATION

☐ I have reviewed the Disability and Effective Communication System (DECS) and the Field File (Parole Staff) or C-File (Institution Staff) for disability and effective communication source documents.

I have informed this inmate/parolee of this notice and have determined that he/she:
☐ Appears to understand. ☐ Appears to have difficulty understanding.

Effective Communication Method Used: (please circle)
Foreign Language Interpreter ☐ Sign Language Interpreter ☐ Read/Spoke Slowly ☐ Assistive Device (specify) ☐
Other (please write):

After providing assistance, inmate/parolee:
☐ Explained the conditions in his/her own words. ☐ Does not appear to understand.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ISSUANCE AND COMPLETION BY STAFF

COMPLETING THE FORM

The staff person will complete the CDCR Form 1515, Notice and Conditions of Parole, in conjunction with the CDCR Form 611, Release Program Study. The staff person will utilize the documentation on the CDCR Form 611 and from the DECS review to determine what accommodations may be needed to effectively communicate the CDCR Form 1515 information to the inmate/parolee. The staff person will initiate the form by clearly printing the inmate’s/parolee’s CDC Number and Name in the appropriate boxes.

DOCUMENTING PAROLE PERIOD

The staff person will write in the appropriate number of years for the inmate’s/parolee’s parole period as indicated on the CDC Form 188, Legal Status Summary (LSS).

SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

The staff person will review the Central File (C-File) to determine whether or not these special conditions apply to the inmate/parolee.

- Gang Restriction - Review the CDC Form 812 and/or 812-A. If the inmate/parolee is a member or associate of any street gang or prison gang, check the box.

- Mentally Disordered Offender - Check box if the inmate/parolee has been certified by the BPH as a MDO pursuant to PC Section 2962.

- Contact with Victim(s) or Victim(s) Family - Review the LSS, POR, C&I, or Confidential Folder to determine whether there is a specific crime victim. If there is, check the first box. (This does not include personal or public property crimes.) If the crime was committed against a person under the age of 18, check the second box.

MANDATORY SPECIAL CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

Review the C-File to determine whether or not these mandatory special conditions of parole apply to the inmate/parolee.

- Box #1 - Review the LSS, 112, C&I to determine whether or not the inmate/parolee is required to register pursuant to PC Section 290. If he/she is required to register, check this box.

- Box #2 - Review the LSS, 112, C&I to determine whether or not the inmate/parolee is required to register pursuant to PC Section 290. If he/she is required to register, check this box.

- Box #3 - Review LSS and C&I Rap Sheet to determine whether or not the inmate/parolee has a current or prior conviction for violating PC Section 288 or 288.5. If he/she was previously convicted, or is currently committed for these offenses and is designated a High Risk Sex Offender per PC Section 3003(g), check the box.

- Box #4 - Review the LSS and POR to determine whether the inmate/parolee’s current commitment includes a sex offense that was committed while the inmate/parolee was under the influence of alcohol. If he/she was, check this box.

- Box #5 - Review the confidential folder to determine whether the inmate/parolee has a restraining order. If he/she does, check this box.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR NOTICING THE INMATE/PAROLEE

Prior to notifying the inmate/parolee of his/her conditions of parole, the staff person will ensure that any necessary accommodations identified through the DECS/File review process are available and utilized, if necessary, when notifying the inmate/parolee of his/her conditions of parole.

The staff person will advise the inmate/parolee of the required length of his/her parole period and then review the conditions of parole with the inmate/parolee as follows:

Reviewing General Conditions of Parole

The staff person will advise the inmate/parolee that the General Conditions apply to every person on parole.

The staff person will either read to or have the inmate/parolee read each condition. After each condition is read, the staff person will ask the inmate/parolee what he/she understands about the condition to ensure it was effectively communicated.

Reviewing the Special Conditions of Parole

The staff person will advise the inmate/parolee that based upon his/her specific case factors; they must comply with these special conditions.

The staff person will either read to or have the inmate/parolee read each applicable special condition which is identified by a check mark in the corresponding box. After each condition is read, the staff person will ask the inmate/parolee what he/she understands about the condition to ensure effective communication.

Reviewing the Mandatory Special Conditions of Parole

The staff person will advise the inmate/parolee that based upon his/her specific case factors; they must comply with these conditions of parole which are mandated by law.

The staff person will either read to or have the inmate/parolee read each applicable special condition which is identified by a check mark in the corresponding box. After each condition is read, the staff person will ask the inmate/parolee what he/she understands about the condition to ensure effective communication.

Documenting Observations

After reviewing the conditions of parole with the inmate/parolee, the staff person will instruct the inmate/parolee to sign and date Page 1 and Page 2 in the appropriate boxes.

Note: If the inmate/parolee refuses to sign the form, the staff person shall remind the inmate/parolee that Condition #7 on Page 1 stated that failure to sign the form will result in his/her being retained in custody. If the inmate/parolee still refuses to sign the form, after completing the form, the staff person shall write a Rules Violation Report for Failure to Sign Conditions of Parole.

The staff person will check the box indicating they have reviewed the DECS and the Field File (Parole Staff) or C-File (Institutional Staff) for disability and effective communication needs. This review is mandatory.

Based upon the staff person’s observations during the issuance of the conditions of parole, the staff person will check the appropriate box indicating whether the inmate/parolee appeared to understand or appeared to have difficulty understanding.

If the staff person had to provide assistance with effective communication, he/she shall check the box “Does not appear to understand (assistance provided)” and then circle what assistance was provided. The staff person shall then check the appropriate box indicating whether after assistance was provided, the inmate/parolee was (1) able to explain in his/her own words, or (2) still did not appear to understand.

The staff person shall then legibly print their name and title, and sign and date the form.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR REAFFIRMATION OF CONDITIONS OF PAROLE

The following are instructions for the staff person who reaffirms the conditions of parole with the inmate/parolee. This form can be utilized for up to three subsequent releases. This form shall be used when the previous conditions of parole have not been modified, added, or deleted.

Upon each release from custody, the staff member shall reaffirm the conditions of parole with the inmate/parolee, and shall sign in the reaffirmation section.

STAFF ISSUANCE/OBSERVATION

The staff person shall enter the date signed from page 3 into the Reaffirm Conditions of Parole dated box.

The staff person shall enter the CDC number and print the inmate’s/parolee’s name in the appropriate box.

The staff person shall have the inmate/parolee sign and date the conditions in the appropriate section.

The staff person will check the box indicating a review of the DECS and the Field File (Parole Staff) or C-File (Institutional Staff) for disabilities and effective communication source documents. This review is mandatory.

The staff person shall check the appropriate box regarding his/her observation of the understanding of the conditions by the inmate/parolee. If assistance was provided, the staff person will check the appropriate box and circle what assistance was provided or enter under “Other” what assistance was provided.

The staff person shall print their name, sign and date where indicated, and record this task in the inmate’s/parolee’s record of supervision.

A copy of the conditions shall be given to the inmate/parolee.

How To File A State Writ Habeas Corpus Petition

WHAT IS A HABEAS CORPUS PETITION?

Once you have gone through the entire 602 appeal process by filing your grievance with the appropriate agency OR if you’ve exhausted administrative remedies because CDCR/Parole didn’t get back to you on an appeal within the legal timeline required by law, you may then file a state-level petition for a writ of habeas corpus. A habeas corpus petition can be based on any rights guaranteed by the federal or state constitutions, statutes, or regulations.

Through a habeas corpus petition, a state parolee (just like a state prisoner challenging conditions of his/her confinement) can ask a court to order “injunctive relief,” meaning that the court will order prison or parole officials to do something or to stop doing something. For example, a court could order parole officials to drop an invalid parole condition or fix a parole term length miscalculation.

WHAT DEADLINES SHOULD I BE AWARE OF IF I WANT TO FILE A WRIT HABEAS CORPUS IN STATE COURT?

There is no deadline or time limit on when you can file a habeas petition. But keep in mind that, the longer you wait, the more you should be prepared to explain in detail, to the court, why you didn’t file the petition sooner. You can only file a habeas petition if you have “exhausted” (meaning that you completed or gone through) all other administrative remedies. You exhaust the administrative remedies by completing the three levels of the appeals process discussed on PG. 178.

You must file your habeas petition while you are still under some form of custody or parole. At the time you file your habeas petition, you must currently be affected by the condition that you are appealing. If you are no longer suffering from the condition that you are appealing, the court will likely dismiss your habeas petition.

HOW DO I FILE A WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS IN STATE COURT?

Here are the steps you should take to prepare your habeas petition:

2. In addition to the MC-275 form, you must include the following information in your habeas petition:
   a. Identify the type of custody you are under (i.e. you are on parole) and the person who supervises you (your parole office and CDCR)

\textsuperscript{999} In re Sanders, 20 Cal. 4th 1083 (1999) ; In re Clark, 5 Cal.4th 750 (1993) ; In re Swain, 34 Cal.2d 300 (1949); In re Moss 175 Cal. App. 3d 913 (1985).

\textsuperscript{1000} If you are no longer suffering from the condition that you are filing a habeas appeal about, then your case is said to be “moot” (meaning not currently at issue; not currently debatable/arguable). There are special circumstances where a court can hear a “moot” case (i.e. the issue you are appealing is one that is likely to come up frequently in other cases). See In re Gardia, 767 Cal. App. 4th 841 (1998).
b. Name a “respondent” (meaning the opposing party) in your case. If you are on parole, the respondent is the Director of CDCR.
c. Describe why your current parole conditions are illegal (i.e. your parole term length has been miscalculated)
d. State whether you have filed any previous court actions about the illegal condition
e. Verify (swear that you are telling the truth) the statements you’ve made in your petition
f. Include any supporting documents, such as sworn declarations by witnesses with your petition

3. If you want to ask the court to appoint an attorney to your case, you should file a “Declaration of Indigency” and “Request for Appointment of Counsel.”
   ○ For a sample habeas petition, please visit:

HOW AND WHERE DO I FILE A WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS?

Usually, you should file your habeas petition with the Superior Court of the county that you are on parole in.\textsuperscript{1001} You can file your petition by mailing it to the Superior Court clerk. Remember: any time you file documents with the superior court clerk, you should include an extra copy of the cover page along with a self-addressed stamped envelope so that the clerk can send you a copy with the date of filing and your case number.

If the court determines that you case should proceed, you will have to “serve” the opposing party. Serving the opposing party means that you will have to send CDCR a copy of your petition along with a “Proof of Service” form that verifies that you have served the document.

HOW CAN I HAVE AN ATTORNEY APPOINTED TO MY CASE?

You can request an attorney by filing a “Declaration of Indigency” and “Request for Appointment of Counsel.”

WHEN WILL I HEAR BACK FROM THE COURT ABOUT MY PETITION?

The judge must act within 60 days from the day you file your petition.\textsuperscript{1002} Note: Unless the court orders an Order to Show Cause (OSC), you do not have the right to an attorney. But if the court does issue an OSC, it must appoint an attorney to your case if you cannot afford one. See below for more information on OSCs.

WHAT CAN THE COURT DO WITH MY PETITION?

The judge at the state court may take the following actions in response to your petition:

1. Deny your petition: If the court denies your petition, it must explain the reasons why it is denying your petition \textsuperscript{1001} Griggs v. Superior Court, 16 Cal.3d 341 (1976). The petition can also be filed initially with the Court of Appeal or even the California Supreme Court, if there are special reasons why those courts should hear it at once. Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10.

2. Request an informal response from the respondent (the opposing party): If the court thinks your case may have merit, but the court still wants more information prior to taking any actions, the court can ask both parties to submit informal briefings. Your reply can be as simple as a letter back to the court (you must also serve the opposing party with a copy of your response). Your response will be due 15 days after the date that the court requested an informal response (unless the court specifies another due date).

3. Issue an “Order to Show Cause”: This will require the opposing party (called the "respondent") to file an explanation why the court should not grant your petition.

   If the court decides that your case has merit (meaning the court decides your case can go forward because you have a valid argument), then the court will issue an OSC. An OSC directs the respondent (opposing party) to state any legal or factual reasons why the petitioner (you) should not be granted his or her request.

WHAT HAPPENS ONCE THE COURT ORDERS AN ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE (OSC)?

The respondent (opposing party) must file a response, called a “return,” explaining reasons why your petition should not be granted. The respondent usually has 30 days to file a return.

IS THERE ANYTHING THAT I HAVE TO DO ONCE THE RESPONDENT FILES A “RETURN?”

Once the respondent files their “return,” you should file a “Denial and Exception to the Return.” In your Denial (also called a “traverse”), you should deny any and all false allegations made by the respondent in the return. You usually have 30 days to file your Denial with the court and serve the opposing party.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER “RETURNS” AND “DENIALS” ARE FILED—THE HEARING?

After the respondent files a “Return” and you file your “Denial,” the court has 30 days to decide whether or not to order an evidentiary hearing. The court only has to grant a hearing if it thinks there is a reasonable likelihood that you may be entitled to relief. If you are granted a hearing, both you and the opposing party will have the opportunity to present evidence.

WHEN HAPPENS AFTER THE HEARING?

At the end of the hearing, the court will decide whether or not to grant you the request made in your habeas petition.

WHAT IF THE COURT DOES NOT GRANT A HEARING?

If the court decides not to grant an evidentiary hearing, then the court will decide whether or not to grant your habeas appeal based off: your petition, the respondent’s Return, and your Denial. If the court did not order a hearing, then it 1003 CAL. RULES OF COURT, rule 4.551(b).

---

1004 CAL. RULES OF COURT, rule 4.551(d).
has 30 days after you filed your Denial to decide whether or not to grant your petition.

WHAT HAPPENS IF MY PETITION IS GRANTED?

If the court grants your petition, the respondent has the right to appeal within 60 days of the court’s ruling. If the respondent does appeal, it can request that the court’s order be “stayed”—meaning that it does not take effect while the appeal is pending. If the respondent does appeal, your case will next be heard by the Court of Appeal.

WHAT HAPPENS IF MY PETITION IS DENIED?

If the Superior Court denies your appeal, you do not have the right to appeal. But, you can, however, file a new appeal with the Court of Appeal, following the same process as discussed above.

WHAT HAPPENS IF THE COURT OF APPEAL DENIES MY PETITION?

If the Court of Appeal denies your petition, you can ask the California Supreme Court to hear your case. You can do this by filing a petition for review with the California Supreme Court. If you file a petition for review, the entire record from your appeal in the Court of Appeal will be sent to the Supreme Court. You also have the option of filing a new petition for a writ of habeas corpus with the Supreme Court—filing a new petition will start the process over again, and the record from your appeal at the Court of Appeal will not be included in your petition.

If the California Supreme Court denies your petition, and your case involves any federal legal issues, you can file a new petition with the United States Supreme Court.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING CDCR 1502, ACTIVITY REPORT

ACTIVITY REPORT:
In the "Circumstances or Charges" section of the Activity Report, include narrative summary of the activity that needs documentation: Parole Agent instructions; case review; unsubstantiated allegations of parole violations; the addition or removal of a special condition of parole; reinstatement of a suspended parolee. Distribution: For reinstatement of a suspended parolee, send the original to Case Records and retain a copy for the field file. For other reports, send the original to the field file, a copy to the parolee, and a copy to POC if applicable.

DISCHARGE REVIEW - FELON:
In "Circumstances or Charges" summarize parole adjustment, including residence, employment, arrests, violations, etc., and special conditions. Parole Agent will recommend "Retain on Parole," "Discharge" or "Discharge and Cancel Want." Attach a CI&I report, BPH 1130 and Legal Status Sheet. Distribution: Original to Case Records, one copy to the field file, and one copy to the parolee.

DISCHARGE REVIEW - NON-FELON:
In "Circumstances or Charges" summarize parole adjustment, including residence, employment, violations, and date of last two negative weekly tests. Parole Agent will recommend "Discharge." Attach a current CI&I report. Distribution: Original to Case Records, one copy to the field file, and one copy to the parolee.

CIVIL ADDICT REPORT - SUSPEND / REINSTATE:
In "Circumstances or Charges" summarize parole adjustment, including residence and employment. Include reason(s) for report, present location, type of drug used, dates used, amount and frequency used. Parole Agent will recommend "Suspend / Reinaite," giving date of first clean test, or "Continue in Out Patient or Civil Addict Parole Status." Distribution: Original to Case Records, one copy to the field file, and one copy to the releasee.

| 13B. If you were discharged from an institution or discharged from parole or outpatient status within the last twelve (12) months, you must have prior written approval of the Warden before visiting will be permitted. You also need to provide a copy of your discharge paperwork. |

15. If you are under 18 years of age and are not an emancipated minor or the inmate’s legal spouse, you must have the written notation consent of a parent or legal guardian and be accompanied by a responsible adult who is also approved to visit. The written consent must be presented each time a minor visits unless prior approval has been attained form the Ward for an inmate to visit with his or her unemancipated child/ren.

16. VISITORS WITH DISABILITIES: If you have special requirements related to your disability (medical implants, prosthetic devices or requiring mobility assistive devices, i.e., canes, walkers, braces, wheelchairs, battery operated or custom prescribed wheelchairs, guide dog for the visually or hearing impaired, insulin kit with syringes, etc.) you will need to attach a verifying statement from your physician. Visitors with guide dogs will need to provide the dog’s certification paperwork upon initial check-in. The CDC will make every effort to provide reasonable accommodations for all qualified/eligible visitors with disabilities in keeping with the safety and security of the institution and the public. If you have any questions and/or concerns, please contact the institution where the inmate is confined.

17. The following laws relate to prison visitation:

SUBJECT TO SEARCH: Visitors entering the correctional institution, camp or facility grounds are subject to a search of their person, vehicle and property. Except as described below, visitors may leave the institution, camp or facility grounds rather than submit to a search of their person, vehicle or property. Refusal to submit to the search will result in denial of visiting for that day.

Visitors may not enter the correctional institution, camp or facility grounds rather than submit to a search when institution officials possess a court issued search warrant or cause for a search arises while the visitor is on the institution grounds and the cause for the search is believed by institutional officials to be a criminal offense.

FIREARMS AND DRUGS ON INSTITUTIONAL GROUNDS (ASSISTING INMATES TO ESCAPE): It is a felony for anyone to assist inmates to escape. Bringing firearms, deadly weapons, explosives, tear gas, drugs, drug paraphernalia, or selling drugs on prison grounds, or giving/selling inmates firearms, weapons, explosives, liquor, cocaine, or other narcotics or any kind of drugs, including marijuana, is a crime (Sections 2772, 2790, 4534, 4535, 4590, 4573, 4573.5, 4573.6, 4573.8, 4573.9, 4574, 4600, California Penal Code).

GIVING LETTERS TO INMATES OR TAKING LETTERS OUT FOR INMATES BY ANYONE IS A MISDEMEANOR:

FALSE IDENTIFICATION: Anyone who falsely identifies himself/herself to gain admittance to a prison is guilty of a misdemeanor. Persons previously convicted of a felony in the State who come upon the grounds of a prison without permission of the official in charge are guilty of a felony (Sections 4570.5, 4571 California Penal Code).

TRESPASSING: Entry on institution property for unauthorized purposes will be considered trespassing as provided in Section 6002(j) of the California Penal Code. Refusal or failure to leave the property when requested to do so by an official will be considered trespassing as provided in Section 6022(p) of the California Penal Code.

PERIOD OF EMERGENCY: In the event of an emergency situation that affects a significant portion of the inmate population at an institution, the visiting program and other program activities may be suspended during the period of emergency (Section 2601(d), California Penal Code).

GIVING OR RECEIVING GIFTS: Giving or receiving gifts to or from inmates is a misdemeanor (Section 2540, 2541, California Penal Code).

HOSTAGES: Hostages will not be recognized for bargaining purposes during attempted escapes by inmates (Section 3304, California Code of Regulations, Title 15, Division 3, Chapter 1).

18. If you are APPROVED to visit, the inmate will be notified and it is his/her responsibility to notify you. If you are DISAPPROVED to visit, the institution will notify you by mail. You will not be allowed to visit until your application is approved.

I have read and understood the above information and agree to follow all Federal, State and CDC rules and regulations.

I AM CLASSIFIED AS A SEX OFFENDER, AND I WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

You must meet the above 5 criteria, AND you must be able to meet additional specific requirements for transferring the supervision of people classified as sex offenders.

NOTE: You cannot leave the sending state until the receiving state has approved the transfer request or issued reporting instructions.

See the APPENDIX LL PG.367 to follow detailed steps.

Follow these steps:

STEP 1: Discuss your desire to transfer with your U.S. Probation Officer.

STEP 2: Satisfy all of the eligibility criteria. At the discretion of the sending state, you are eligible and can be approved for transfer if you meet the following criteria and all 5 of the criteria above (see PG. 367).

STEP 3: Complete an Application for Transfer

STEP 4: The sending state must send the receiving state:

1. assessment information, including sex offender specific assessments;
2. social history;
3. information relevant to the sex offender’s criminal sexual behavior
4. law enforcement report that provides specific details of sex offense;
5. victim information: including the name, sex, age and relationship to the offender and the statement of the victim or victim’s representative;
6. the sending state’s current or recommended supervision and treatment plan.

STEP 5: The receiving state has 5 business days to review the proposed residence. If the proposed residence is not acceptable due to existing state law or policy, the receiving state may deny the application. No travel permit can be granted by the sending state until the receiving state says it can.

STEP 6: A travel permit will be given to you by your Probation Officer if the receiving state has approved the new residence. Travel permits are issued by the local parole office, so each office uses a different form. Your Probation Officer will give you this form once you have been approved by the Interstate Commission for Adult Offender Supervision.

NOTE: THIS FORM IS TO BE USED ONLY BY INMATES/PAROLEES WITH DISABILITIES

In processing this request, it will be verified that the inmate/parolee has a disability which is covered under the Americans With Disabilities Act.

In accordance with the provisions of the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA), no qualified individuals with a disability shall, on the basis of disability, be excluded from participation in, or be denied the benefits of the services, activities, or programs of a public entity, or be subjected to discrimination.

You may use this form to request specific reasonable modification or accommodation which, if granted, would enable you to participate in a service, activity or program offered by the Department/institution/facility, for which you are otherwise qualified/eligible to participate.

Submit this completed form to the institution or facility's Appeals Coordinator's Office. A decision will be rendered within 15 working days of receipt at the Appeals Coordinator's Office and the completed form will be returned to you. If you do not agree with the decision on this form, you may pursue further review. The decision rendered on this form constitutes a decision at the FIRST LEVEL of review.

To proceed to SECOND LEVEL, attach this form to an Inmate/Parolee Appeal Form (CDC 602) and complete section "F" of the appeal form.

Submit the appeal with attachment to the Appeals Coordinator's Office within 15 days of your receipt of the decision rendered on this request form.

If you are not satisfied with the SECOND LEVEL review decision, you may request THIRD LEVEL review as instructed on the CDC 602.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

This process does not require nor is it to result in the automatic screening of all inmates to identify disabilities. This process ensures standardization of CDC policy as procedures dealing with the verification of a disability, the referring of a disability claimed by an inmate if necessary, and placement of inmates with disabilities listed in Section B of this form. The use of this form will be initiated only in response to one or more of the following actions as noted in Section A:

a) The inmate self-identifies or claims to have one of the disabilities listed in Section B;

b) Staff observes that the inmate may have one of the disabilities listed in Section B;

c) The health or mental health record contains documentation regarding one of the disabilities listed in Section B, or

d) A third party (such as a family member) requests an evaluation of the inmate for a disability listed in Section B.

Identification of inmates who may meet the Disability Placement Program (DPP) criteria, will usually occur during reception center (RC) processing, but if an inmate appears to meet disability criteria indicated on the form, all of the institutions/facilities will use the DPP. Any staff member can initiate a referral for verification by directing a CDC 128-B to the institution/facility's health care services department.

Responsibility for verification of the disability through completion of the DPP rests with the health care service physicians. The verifying physician shall follow the "Protocols for Verifying Disabilities" in Exhibit B of the Armstrong Remedial Plan or other official CDC document that includes protocols. Upon completing the DPP, the physician shall sign in the signature block. Health care staff shall forward the completed DPP to the Classification and Parole Representative (C&P) or FCP Correctional Counselor (CC)-III for tracking.

COMPLETION OF THE FORM: Enter identifying information about the inmate and the date the DPP was initiated.

SECTION A: Check the appropriate box to indicate the reason for initiating the form. Any licensed medical staff may complete sections A and B.

SECTION B: The licensed medical staff shall mark the category of disability being evaluated every time a CDC 1845 is completed.

SECTION C: A mark made in any of these boxes indicates a need for special housing or programming and will result in placement in one of the designated institutions/facilities. NOTE: The word permanent is defined as a condition not expected to improve within six months. Check all boxes that apply using the definitions below:

-IF THE INMATE:

1. Uses a wheelchair full time due to a permanent condition and requires use of the wheelchair, both within and outside the assigned cell/unit, check box 1.

2. Has a permanent disability that requires use of a wheelchair outside a cell (does not require use of a wheelchair inside a cell), requires lower bunk, wheelchair accessible path of travel and does not require wheelchair accessible housing, check box 2.

3. Due to orthopedic, neurological, or medical condition that substantially limits ambulation (cannot walk 100 yards on a level surface without pausing) and does not require a wheelchair, check box 3. This condition requires lower bunk, no triple bunk, and no stairs in path of travel.

4. Must rely on written communication, lip reading, or signing, because his/her residual hearing, even when augmented by aids, will not enable him/her to hear, understand, or localize an emergency warning or public address announcement, check box 4.

5. Is permanently blind or has a vision impairment not correctable to central visual acuity of better than 20/200 with corrective lenses, check box 5 and note any housing restrictions in Section E.

6. Has a permanent speech impairment resulting in indiscernible speech or NO speech and does not communicate effectively in writing, check box 6.

SECTION D: A mark made in any of these boxes will not necessarily result in the placement of the inmate in one of the designated institutions/facilities. The exception to this is if a disability in Section E exists. Check all boxes that apply using the definitions below: (Please note numbers 1, 2, and 5 indicate there are no corresponding categories, i.e., there are no DNW, DNO, or DNV categories.)

-IF THE INMATE:

1. Has a lower extremity ambulatory impairment but can walk 100 yards on a level surface without pausing with or without aids, check box number 3. If there are no housing restrictions, check the "No housing restrictions" box. If the condition requires a lower bunk, no triple bunk, or no stairs, check the "See HOUSING RESTRICTIONS" box and all applicable boxes in Section E "HOUSING RESTRICTIONS." If it is determined the inmate requires level terrain and no obstruction in the path of travel, check the corresponding box in Section D.3.

2. Has a hearing loss but follows conversation at normal speaking levels and can hear an emergency warning using a hearing aid(ies), check box 2.

3. Has indiscernible or no speech but communicates effectively in writing, check box 4.

SECTION E: The physician shall complete this section based on Unit Health Record (UHR) review, observation of, and interaction with the inmate. Check all boxes that apply using the definitions below:

-IF THE PHYSICIAN:

- Finds the inmate is designated as DNW and requires placement in an institution with level terrain with no obstruction in the path of travel, the physician shall check the "Requires relatively level terrain and no obstructions in path of travel" box and complete a CDC 128-C. If the physician finds the inmate has a complex medical need that is better facilitated by placement in a more centralized institution to facilitate outside medical treatment, the check the "Complex medical needs affecting placement" box and complete a CDC 128-C explaining the reason for this recommended placement.

- Finds the inmate needs assistance with activities of daily living, appropriate boxes are to be checked.

- Determines there are housing restrictions in conjunction with disabilities verified in Sections C or D, number 3, check the box listing the appropriate restriction.

- Prescribes an assistive device such as a cane, crutch, walker, etc., check the applicable box, enter the date of the supporting CDC 128-C related to that prescription.

- Finds other valid CDC 1845 in the UHR indicating a disability other than the current review, enter the corresponding DPP code and date of the CDC 1845.

SECTION F: The physician is to check the appropriate box specifically to the stated check box as follows:

-IF THE PHYSICIAN:

- Cannot verify a claimed disability through an examination or objective clinical data in the UHR, check the category of disability box being evaluated in Section B as the first box in Section F. The physician shall not check this box for cases pending outside consultation.

- Finds inmate no longer qualifies for a previously verified disability (e.g., cataract surgery restores sight) but has another verified disability that keeps him/her in th DPP, check the second box in Section F and enter the DPP code from which the inmate is being removed. Explain the reason for removal in th Comments Section and complete a CDC 128-C.

- Finds the inmate no longer has a previously verified disability or any other CDC 1845 disability and is to be removed from the DPP, check the third box in Section F, enter the DPP code(s) on the line provided, explain the Comments section, complete a CDC 128-C explaining reasons for removal from the program, and enter the date of the CDC 128-C on the line provided.

SECTION G: If the initial or subsequent examination(s), the physician discovers the need for a sign language interpreter or if an alternate form of communication is required, the physician shall check all applicable box(es) in the box provided. The physician might have to query the inmate for this information. If none of these factors exist, and there are no additional factors or information, mark the "NO EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION ISSUES OBSERVED OR DOCUMENTED IN THE UHR box. The physician shall print, sign, and date the form in the appropriate boxes.

COMMENTS SECTION: This section is for note of any additional comments focusing on affected systems and functional limitations. Specific diagnosis, impairments, or other confidential medical information is to be entered on the appropriate document.

DISTRIBUTION: The Health Care Manager or Chief Physician Surgeon shall review the completed form before distribution. Health care staff shall place the green copy in the chronic section of the UHR, send gold copy to the institution mail, and send original and remaining copies to C&P-CC-III. The original shall be placed in the General Chronic section of the central filing. The C&P-CC-III shall retain the canary copy and forward the pink copy to the assigned CC.

      Victimization Concerns: See below.

*Victimization Concerns (DD2, and DD3): Requires housing in a designated DDP building/unit/wing, consistent with other case factors. These inmates may be easily influenced by others to give up personal property or engage in illegal or inappropriate behaviors. Also may be at risk for physical, emotional, or sexual abuse.
APPENDIX V

California CDCR Form 1707

INSTRUCTIONS

Read the following instructions carefully to fill out the front side of the form so that it can be processed correctly. Sections A, E, and F must be completed. Complete all other sections, based on your needs. All information will remain confidential.

Check one of the two boxes at the top of the CDCR 1707 form to indicate if this is a new/revised request or a change of address/phone/e-mail only. If you check “Change of address/phone/e-mail only,” complete sections A, E, and F only.

SECTION A. APPLICANT INFORMATION

This section must be completed. Check the box that most accurately describes your relationship to the offender: victim, witness, or family member of victim (next of kin) and your relationship to the victim.

Circle the appropriate title: Mr., Mrs., or Ms. Clearly print your name, home address, mailing address (if different), your daytime, evening, cell phone numbers and e-mail address (if you have one).

NOTE: It is your responsibility to keep the OVRS informed of any changes to your personal information.

SECTION B. NOTIFICATION OF OFFENDER STATUS IN PRISON

Complete this section if you choose to request notification services. Check the most appropriate box(es).

You have one of three choices to receive notice of an offender’s release, escape, or death. Check Box 1a to register to receive notification by mail. Check Box 1b to indicate you would like OVRS to register you through VINE to receive phone and/or e-mail notification instead of notification by mail. Check Box 1c to let OVRS know that you already registered through VINE by phone at 1-877-411-5588 or online at www.VINELink.com to receive phone and/or e-mail notification and do not need notification by mail.

Check Box 2 to allow the OVRS to share your information with the California Attorney General’s Office to notify you of the status and outcome of any criminal appeal filed by the offender in this case.

In the area marked FOR VICTIMS/VICTIMS’ FAMILY MEMBERS (NEXT OF KIN) ONLY, if you are the victim or the family member of a victim, check Box 1a to register to receive notification by mail of the date of an offender’s parole hearing only if the offender has been sentenced to life imprisonment. Check Box 1b to ask the OVRS to register you to receive notification by phone and/or e-mail instead of notification by mail. In addition, check yes to allow the OVRS to share your information with the district attorney’s office where the trial was held. The district attorney’s office may be in contact with you if there is a parole hearing for an offender with a life sentence. Check no if you do not want the OVRS to share your information. Check Box 2 to request to receive notification of the scheduled execution of an offender sentenced to death.

SECTION C. CONDITIONS OF PAROLE/COMMUNITY SUPERVISION

Complete this section if you choose to request special conditions of parole/community supervision. Such conditions are not guaranteed but may be requested if you wish to request or are eligible to receive.

Check Box 1 to request that the offender have no contact with you while he/she is on parole/community supervision.

Check Box 2 to request that the offender not be allowed to live in the same county that you live in.

The third box applies to victims and witnesses only. Check Box 3 to request that the offender not be allowed to live within 35 miles of your home address. Per Penal Code Section 3035, available only for the following crimes: murder or voluntary manslaughter, mayhem, rape, sodomy by force, oral copulation, lewd acts on a child under 14, any felony punishable by death, stalking, and assault with a great bodily injury enhancement.

SECTION D. RESTITUTION

Complete this section if you have a court order requiring the offender to pay you restitution and would like to provide the OVRS with information to verify that your restitution records are complete. If your court order for restitution states “TBD” for the dollar amount, contact the district attorney’s office to request that a motion be filed to determine the restitution amount.

SECTION E. OFFENDER IDENTIFICATION

Provide as much information as you can in this section so we can be sure that we have the correct offender involved in your case. If you need help completing this section, you may contact the district attorney’s office in the county where the trial was held.

SECTION F. APPLICANT SIGNATURE

Sign and date the completed form.

PROVIDING INFORMATION: The information requested is necessary to process your request for victim services and is voluntary. Failure to provide any of the information requested may prevent the OVRS from processing your request. All information will remain confidential.

APPENDIX W

Selected California Felony Probation Instructions (County Specific)

Felony Probation Instructions by County in CA (for those publicly available)—limited list.

WARNING: It is very important to understand that there are many different types of FP programs that vary from county to county in California.

1) Fresno County:
   • The Fresno County Probation Department has many types of FP programs to monitor your conduct. For example, if you have a drug problem, you could be referred to Drug Court, the PC1000 program, or the Probationers in Recovery program. Whatever the program or type of supervision, you are expected to obey the conditions of probation that were set by the Court.
   • The frequency and method of contact with your Probation Officer depends on the seriousness of your commitment offense(s).
   • In addition to special supervision programs, there are special programs—these are conditions of probation offered such as Work Furlough and Work Project. These special programs allow for consequences other than custody in jail for a felony conviction.

2) Butte County:

In Butte County, there are different types of FP supervision units. Examples:

   • Adult Supervision Unit—Supervising low to moderate risk offenders, Probation Officers utilize monthly mail-in forms, office appointments, and program referrals to ensure compliance with terms and conditions of probation.
   • Field Supervision Unit—Supervising high risk offenders—namely domestic violence, gang, and sex crimes—Probation Officers utilize routine office appointments and searches, drug testing, and treatment program partnership to ensure compliance with terms and conditions of probation.
   • Adult Treatment Unit—The Proposition 36 and Drug Court programs supervise offenders with substance abuse issues. Probation Officers utilize routine drug and alcohol tests, office appointments, and treatment program partnership to ensure compliance with terms and conditions of probation.

Sample Instructions for County Probation From Different Counties in California

WARNING: There are some standard conditions that apply to most (if not all) individuals placed on probation, but instructions for what to do when you first start your probation term will vary depending on what county you are being supervised in. You should call or visit your county probation department immediately to find out what the requirements and instructions apply to you.

For example only, below you can find a few county probation offices’ reporting instructions:

San Francisco County’s Instructions:

STEP 1: You need to contact the Probation Department as soon as you are released from custody. If you are released after 5:00pm, please contact the Department the next day. We open our offices at 8:00am and close at 5:00pm. Main phone number is: (415) 553-1706.

STEP 2: When you contact the Department you will need to provide our support staff with your full name and date of birth. If you have your court number, please provide it too. Our support staff will be able to give you the name and phone number of your assigned probation officer.

STEP 3: Your probation officer will schedule an appointment to meet with you. Please, make sure to keep your appointment and be on time. If you cannot make your appointment, you must call the day before to re-schedule.

STEP 4: Most likely than not the Court would have ordered for you to attend a counseling or rehabilitation program. You along with your officer will choose which programs better meet your needs. It is important that you contact the program and arrange for an intake session.

STEP 5: Stay out of trouble! We know you’re facing a lot of challenges and difficulties getting your life back together, but if you need help or support, call your officer before you do something that put you back in jail.

Los Angeles County’s Instructions:

STEP 1: If you were just released from county jail or the court, following your sentencing, and you were ordered by the Court to report to the Probation Department for supervision, you need to report within 48 hours or within the time frame ordered by the court.

STEP 2: When you report to the Probation office, tell the receptionist that you were just recently released from jail, or referred from Court, and you need your orientation instructions.

---

Here is a list of important documents to bring to your probation orientation in L.A. County:

1. Valid identification (driver’s license, California I.D., any identification with your name, picture, or signature.

2. Verification of residence (this can be a letter or other mailing with your name and the address where you live, a copy of a rental agreement, or a signed letter from your landlord verifying that the address presented is your residence).

3. A copy of any and all documents that the sentencing court (meaning the court that actually gave you your criminal sentence) gave to you. This may include:
   - A copy of the sentencing minute ordered;
   - A referral card with your next court appointment;
   - A referral for registration due to your conviction that is related to drugs, gang affiliation, arson, or certain sex offenses or proof of registration of any one of these requirements, if so ordered by the court.

Ventura County’s Instructions:

STEP 1: Upon being placed on formal probation (and immediately upon release from custody when on probation), you must immediately report to 800 South Victoria Avenue, Ventura, California, at the Pre-Trial Detention Facility (Sheriff’s Building), Room A, second floor. Bring to probation your current address, phone numbers, and all relevant contact information.

STEP 2: Your assigned probation officer will contact you via mail or phone within 30 days of the date you were granted probation to set up your first appointment/intake meeting.

If you have not heard from your probation officer within a 30-day period:

- Have your case number, date of birth, and Social Security number (SSN) available and call the Ventura County Probation Agency at one of the locations nearest your residence. Tell the receptionist your case number and any relevant identifying information. You will then be connected to your assigned probation officer or the Officer-of-the-Day (OD) at your local probation office.

APPENDIX Y

Changing Conditions Of Misdemeanor Or Felony Probation

STEP 1: Draft the Motion and Supporting Documents:

• There is no official court form for this motion. You may contact the Court Clerk in the local county superior court where you were convicted to ask if there is a local form for this purpose. Most likely there is not, so you or your attorney will have to draft an original motion. Your motion should consist of the following parts:1017

(1) Notice of Motion: This tells the court what you want it to do. In other words, it notifies the court that you want it to modify your probation conditions.1018

(2) Memorandum of Points and Authorities: This section explains the law or authority that you are relying on for your request, as well as the facts supporting your request under that law or authority.1019

In the case of a disability, you should include the following: Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA),1020 California Government Code § 11135, Civil Code §§ 54 et seq., California Penal Code § 1203.3 and the specific facts of your disability, how it affects you on probation, and what changes or additional assistance you need.

(3) Declaration: This is your signed, sworn statement of the facts used in your memorandum. It must include all of the facts used to support your motion.1021

(4) Any Supporting Documentation: If you have any documentation, such as a doctor’s letter or prescription for medication, you should include these.

(5) Proposed Order: This is the document the judge signs to grant your motion and officially allow your probation to be terminated.

(6) Proof of Service: Include the Proof of Service form with your motion. This document must be included with all your court papers to prove that you gave a copy of the court papers to every person who is required by law to get them.

Need help with your court forms? Ask the attorney/Public Defender from your case, the court’s Self-Help Center, or your local law library for assistance with your motion.

IMPORTANT: If you had public defender for your case, many Public Defender offices will write, file, and argue motions to modify probation on your behalf. Call you public defender to find out whether they are able to assist you in filing and arguing your motion.

TIP: Try and get to the Clerk’s office early, because there may be long lines. Make sure to bring lots of copies and a friend to help if you can.

STEP 2: File the Motion

• Once your motion is drafted, you should make at least 4 copies—an original copy for the court, one copy for the District Attorney, one for the Probation

1018 CAL. RULES OF COURT, Rule 3.1112.
1019 CAL. RULES OF COURT, Rule 3.1113.
1020 This law protects people with disabilities against discrimination and requires public entities to provide reasonable accommodations. The law applies to all public entities, including local courts and probation departments. http://www.ada.gov/pubs/adastatute08.pdf.

Department, and one for you to keep. The court clerk will keep the original copy for the court’s file.

- Bring the original motion and all copies to the clerk who will stamp all the documents with the date you are filing these documents. The clerk will give you back your copy, plus any copies that need to be served on the other parties. Remember to make sure that the clerk stamps each of these copies!
- Be sure to confirm with the clerk if the clerk’s office will serve the District Attorney and the Probation Department, or if you are responsible for doing that. If the clerk gives you back more than just your own copy, it most likely means that you are responsible for service! (See STEP 3 below).
- FEES/ COST: Be aware that there are always fees associated with filing documents with the court. These fees will vary by county, and you can request a fee waiver if you qualify. Check with the clerk for your county’s fee schedule and waiver request process. Note: if you had a public defender on your case, you also may be eligible to receive a fee waiver for court filing fees.

After your motion has been filed, the clerk will give you a court date to have your motion heard by the judge.

STEP 3: Serve the Motion on the Other Parties

- If the clerk indicates that you are responsible for “service,” this means that you must make sure that all necessary people (called necessary “parties”) get a copy of the motion in the proper manner.
- The law requires that you give the District Attorney at least 2 days’ notice of your motion (or 5 days if your case involves domestic violence). This means that the DA must have a copy of your motion at 2 two days before the date of your hearing. It is best to serve the motion on all necessary people (parties) right after you file it. Be sure to have the DA’s office stamp the copy of your motion that you are keeping for yourself too—this serves as your proof that you served the DA with your motion.

STEP 4: The Hearing

- When you file your motion, the clerk will give you a court date for your motion to be heard by a judge. You will have to attend the hearing if you are not being represented by an attorney. In most cases, even if you are being represented by an attorney, you will want to be present to show your respect to the judge and the court process. The judge is unlikely to modify your probation unless it thinks that you are taking your probation seriously—and going to your court date shows the judge that you care about your case!
- If the judge grants your motion or modifies your probation conditions in any other way, he or she must state the reasons for doing so on the record.

Sample Instructions for PRCS from Different Counties in California

WARNING: You must report to your County Probation Department for PRCS supervision within 2 working days after your release from state prison, court, or county jail. Instructions for what to do when you first get out on PRCS vary from one county probation department to the next. For example only, here are the instructions for people on PRCS in a couple of California counties:

If you are on PRCS under the L.A. County Probation Department:

• You must report within 2 working days of your release.
• You should bring the following important documents to your probation “H.U.B.” orientation:
  o Valid identification: Driver’s license, California State I.D., or any identification with your name, picture, or signature). [NOTE: Please go to the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 13 if you need to get this type of document/ID.]
  o Verification of residence: this can be a letter or other correspondence with your name and the address where you reside, a copy of a rental agreement, or a signed letter from your landlord verifying that the address presented is your residence.
  o A copy of any and all document you were given by the sentencing court or the Corrections Counselor regarding your release.
• Once the HUB orientation is complete, you will be given:
  o A copy of your signed permanent probation instructions or the court-ordered conditions of supervision, o All signed financial documents, and o A referral to your probation officer or the probation office closest to your residence.
• Lastly, you will be instructed when and where to report to your local county probation office within 48 hours. Once you report to the local county probation office for supervision, you will be assigned a supervision probation officer, who will explain the specific requirements of supervision and reporting requirements to you.

If you are on PRCS under the Butte County Probation Department:

• You must report within 2 working days of your release.
• The Butte County Probation Department’s supervision of people on PRCS includes: office visits, home visits, searches, urine testing, and enforcement.
• Probation will complete an evidence-based “Offender Needs Guide” to identify and target your needs. This is Probation’s tool to identify your specific risk and protective factors to improve case management and reduce the risk of re-offending.
• Based on the “Offender Needs Guide,” your Probation Officer will make referrals for services to the appropriate agencies.

APPENDIX AA

Information on Modifying the Conditions of County Probation

HOW CAN I REQUEST AN ACCOMMODATION OR FILE A COMPLAINT IF I FEEL THAT COUNTY PROBATION IS NOT ACCOMMODATING MY DISABILITY, OR IF MY DISABILITY IS PREVENTING ME FROM ACCESSING PROBATION SERVICES OR PROGRAMS?

Unlike for state parole, there are no formal probation policies or procedures to request accommodations or file a complaint related to your disability. Each county does things differently, and many counties have no formal procedures. You can first talk to your probation officer and explain the situation to him/her OR you may ask a judge to modify your probation to accommodate your disability by filing a motion requesting a change.

STEP 1: Start by talking with your probation officer and explain to him/her:

1. What your disability is;
2. Why it is difficult for you to participate in programs or supervision requirements; and
3. What assistance, accommodations or changes you need.
4. If you have to do any evaluations with other agencies or service providers (for example, if the Probation Department does a risk- or needs-assessment for you, or you have a work placement evaluation by the Sheriff’s department), you should also explain to them why your disability makes it difficult for you to participate or meet other requirements.
5. If you were sentenced under Realignment and are on Mandatory Supervision or PRCS, you may be entitled to participate in special programs or other services for your disability.\(^{1027}\)

STEP 2: If that didn’t fix the problem, you can ask the judge to modify your probation to accommodate your disability by filing a motion requesting a change (called a “modification”).

If after talking to your probation officer or their supervisor, you still need help because (1) you did not get the assistance you require for your disability, (2) you are unable to participate in the programs which you are being offered or required to participate in, or (3) the terms of your supervision are difficult for you due to your disability, then you can go back to court to request help from the judge.

In order to ask the judge to modify your probation, you must FILE A MOTION requesting that the judge modify probation to accommodate your disability. Once you file your motion, you will have a hearing.

Remember, that your motion requesting modification of your probation should include mention of the following laws:

\(^{1027}\) Telephone calls with the following county probation departments, Nov. 6, 2014:
- Tony Crear, Community Network Coordinator, Alameda Cnty. Probation Dept.
- Robin Nicole Livingston, AB 109 Probation Officer, Contra Costa Cnty. Probation Dept.
- Jim Metzen, Probation Consultant, Yolo Cnty. Probation Dept.
- Alan Seeber, Sacramento Cnty. Probation Dept.
- Whitnee Reynolds, Administrative Assistant / Training Coordinator, Chief Probation Officers of Cal.

STEP 3: The Hearing

During the hearing, you (or your attorney, if you have one) will explain to the judge why your disability makes it difficult for you to comply with your current conditions, what changes you need in your probation conditions, and if you need any other assistance from the probation department will help you to successfully complete your probation. You can also ask the court to order the probation department to provide certain assistance or other accommodations. The prosecutor will also have a chance to speak at your hearing—this includes a chance to oppose your request for modification.

Because the judge has much more control over the Probation Department and the terms of your supervision, the Judge can order Probation to provide you with assistance, and can decide any other accommodations that are necessary for you to successfully complete your supervision.\textsuperscript{1031}

Federal Probation/Supervised Release
Standard Conditions

STANDARD CONDITIONS—The list of “Standard Conditions” below—while technically discretionary (not required)—are added by the judge in almost every case of Supervised Release, as recommended by the U.S. Sentencing Commission, the agency that oversees federal sentencing guidelines.1032

You will likely be ordered to follow most if not all of the following rules (conditions), or something very similar to these:

1. You cannot leave the limits of your judicial district (meaning the area that the court has jurisdiction—i.e. the “Southern District of California”) without written permission from the court or your probation officer.

2. You must file a written report with your probation officer within the first 5 days of each month, or as directed by your probation officer.

3. You must truthfully answer any questions and follow any instructions that your probation officer asks of you.

4. You must meet your family responsibilities, primarily paying any court-ordered child support or support for the parent with whom your child is living.

5. You must work regularly at a lawful occupation, unless your U.S. probation officer excuses you for school, training, or other reasons the officer finds acceptable.

6. You must notify your probation officer at least 10 days before you change your address (some offices will require more or less notice, so check your conditions).

7. You cannot drink alcoholic beverages to excess. You cannot use or distribute illegal drugs, or frequent places where others use or distribute drugs.

8. You cannot associate with people engaged in criminal activity. (This means you cannot hang out with or spend time with people who are committing crimes.)

9. You cannot associate with anyone convicted of a felony unless your U.S. probation officer gives you permission to do so. (Again, this means that unless your probation officer says differently, you are not allowed to hang out with or spend time with someone who has been convicted of a felony. Just spending time with someone who has been convicted of a felony can be considered a violation of your probation, even if you were not doing anything else wrong.)

10. You must let your probation officer to visit you any time at home or elsewhere.

11. You must let your probation officer to take any contraband that he or she finds in plain view around you.

1032 See 18 U.S.C. § 3583; U.S.S.G. § 5D1.3(b)-(d) (Standard conditions” are set forth in U.S.S.G. § 5D1.3(c)).
12. You must get in touch with your U.S. probation officer within 3 days (72 hours) if you’re arrested or questioned by law enforcement (again, some officers will require you to report faster, so check your conditions).

13. You cannot serve as an informant to law enforcement without court permission.

14. As directed by your U.S. probation officer, you must notify other people about any risks that your criminal record, personal history or characteristics might pose; and you must allow your U.S. probation officer to notify people of any risks posed by your criminal record, personal history or characteristics.

15. You must pay any court-ordered “special assessment” and fines, and follow any court-ordered payment plan set up for you.

16. You must notify your U.S. probation officer if there is any significant change in your income or economic circumstances which would impact how much you can pay towards any unpaid restitution, fines, or special assessments (NOTE: this is a mandatory condition for people on federal probation, and a recommended “standard condition” for people on Supervised Release).
APPENDIX DD

Federal Probation/Supervised Release
Discretionary Conditions

WHAT ADDITIONAL DISCRETIONARY CONDITIONS MAY I HAVE TO FOLLOW ON SUPERVISED RELEASE?

If the legal standards are met (refer to PG. 237), the judge may order additional discretionary conditions on your Supervised Release.

As discussed, the Standard Conditions listed on PG. 234 above are almost always added.

The following discretionary conditions may also be added (all but one of these is the same as those listed under federal probation, PG. 245):

1) Require you to support your dependents and meet other family responsibilities;
2) Require that you make restitution to a victim of the offense under section 3556
3) Require that you give notice (ordered pursuant to the provisions of section 3555) to the victims of the offense;
4) Require that you be employed or be pursuing educational/vocational training to prepare you for suitable employment;
5) Prevent you altogether from working in a specified occupation, business, or profession with a reasonably direct relationship to the conduct underlying your commitment offense (OR prevent you from working in a specified occupation, business, or profession only to a certain degree/under stated circumstances);
6) Forbid you from going to specified kinds of places;
7) Forbid you from associating with specified persons;
8) Forbid you from excessive use of alcohol, or any use of a narcotic drug or other controlled substance, as defined in section 102 of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 802), without a prescription by a licensed medical practitioner;
9) Forbid you from possessing a firearm, destructive device, or other dangerous weapon;
10) Require that you get medical, psychiatric, or psychological treatment, including treatment for drug or alcohol dependency (as specified by the court
11) Require that you live in a specified institution for medical, psychiatric, or psychological treatment\textsuperscript{1033}
12) Require that you remain in the custody of the Bureau of Prisons during nights, weekends, or other intervals of time, totaling no more than the lesser of one year or the term of imprisonment authorized for the offense,\textsuperscript{1034} during the first year of the term of probation or supervised release (this is known as intermittent confinement)\textsuperscript{1035}
13) Require you to live at a community corrections facility (including somewhere maintained by or contracted with the Bureau of Prisons), or attend a program at such a community corrections facility, for all or part of the term of probation;

\textsuperscript{1034} 18 U.S.C. § 3583(d); U.S.S.G. § 5F1.8.
\textsuperscript{1035} 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b)(10) (known as “intermittent confinement”). See also U.S.S.G. § 5F1.8, which states that intermittent confinement may be imposed as a condition of probation during the first year of federal probation. See 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b)(10). It may be imposed as a condition of supervised release during the first year of supervised release, but only for a violation of a condition of supervised release in accordance with 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e)(2) and only when facilities are available. See 18 U.S.C. § 3583(d).
14) Require you to work in community service as directed by the court;
15) Require you to live in a specified place or area, or prevent you from living in a specified place or area;
16) Require you to remain within the jurisdiction of the court, unless granted permission to leave by the court or a probation officer;
17) Require you report to a probation officer as directed by the court or the probation officer;
18) Allow a probation officer to visit you at your home or elsewhere as specified by the court;
19) Require you to quickly notify your probation officer, or answer your P.O.’s questions, about any change in address or employment;
20) Require you to quickly notify your probation officer if you are arrested or questioned by a law enforcement officer;
21) Require you to stay at home/where you live during non-working hours, and require you to be monitored by telephonic or electronic signaling devices to track you and make sure you are at home during these times.\textsuperscript{1036} However, if you were sentenced to a term of incarceration, this condition cannot be imposed on you.\textsuperscript{1037} This condition can only be used as an alternative to incarceration.
22) Require that you obey any court order or other government administrative order that requires you to pay for support/maintenance of a child or to both the child and parent with whom the child is living;
23) Deport you if you are “deportable” under law;
24) Satisfy any other court-imposed conditions;\textsuperscript{1038} and
25) Finally, there are additional “special conditions” that are discretionary for particular kinds of cases under Supervised Release:
   a) If you are a non-citizen subject to deportation under law:
      i) The court may order you deported and that you remain outside the U.S. as a condition of your Supervised Release, and may order that you are handed over to an authorized immigration official for such deportation.
   b) If you are required to register as a Sex Offender:
      i. If your conviction is for a sex offense, the judge will consider imposing the following special conditions:
         1. A search at any time, with or without a warrant, of your person, any property, your house/residence, vehicle, papers, computer, or other electronic/data devices or media, by any law enforcement or probation officer with reasonable suspicion concerning a violation of a condition of probation or unlawful conduct, and by any probation officer lawfully carrying out his/her function of supervision.\textsuperscript{1040}
         2. Require you to participate in a program for the treatment and monitoring of sex offenders;\textsuperscript{1041}
         3. Limit your use of a computer if one was used as part of your commitment offense;

\textsuperscript{1036} 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b).
\textsuperscript{1037} This is not true of Supervised Release. That is, you can be convicted of a crime, sentenced to a term of imprisonment, and be ordered to serve an additional period of time on house arrest as a condition of Supervised Release.
\textsuperscript{1038} 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b)(19) (2008). This is because if you are sentenced to a term of incarceration, you cannot receive a sentence of probation. Rather, you would receive a term of supervised release following imprisonment as part of your sentence.
\textsuperscript{1039} 18 U.S.C. § 3563(b).
\textsuperscript{1040} 18 U.S.C. § 3583(d).
4. Require you to submit to random, warrantless searches of your person, residence, and computers; ¹⁰⁴²
5. Residency Restrictions (meaning there will be certain places you cannot live);
6. Contact Restrictions (meaning there will be certain people you cannot have contact with);
7. Movement Restrictions (meaning there will be certain places you will not be able to go);
8. Employment/Occupational Restrictions (meaning there will be certain types of jobs you cannot have); ¹⁰⁴³
9. Polygraph and/or Penile Plethysmograph Testing;
10. Tracking Conditions; and
11. Restrictions on the Possession of Certain Materials (meaning there will be certain things you cannot have on your person or in your home). ¹⁰⁴⁵

   ii. If you were convicted of a sex offense, you should ask about any special conditions that apply to you as they differ slightly among jurisdictions and judges. If you were convicted of a federal sex offense, you most likely will have to follow some version of the above conditions.

List Of Factors Federal Judges Consider When Determining Whether To Let Someone Off Probation Early

Here is the full list of factors that the judge may consider when deciding whether to let you off probation early:

• Whether or not your Probation Officer or the Prosecutor support your request;
• The nature and seriousness of the crime you were convicted of;
• Your criminal history and/or mental illness history;
• Whether the judge believes you are a threat to the public;
• Whether the judge believes you have been sufficiently punished;
• Whether you have completed any substance abuse treatment or rehabilitation programs;
• How your sentence compares to the federal sentencing guidelines recommended sentence;
• U.S. Sentencing Commission policy statements;\footnote{1046}
• Whether you’ve paid restitution to the victims.\footnote{1047}

\footnote{1047} See 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(1)-(7).
APPENDIX FF

Federal Crime Classes

Per 18 U.S. Code § 3559:

An offense that is not specifically classified by a letter grade in the section defining it, is classified if the maximum term of imprisonment authorized is:

(1) Life imprisonment, or if the maximum penalty is death, as a Class A felony;
(2) Twenty-five years or more, as a Class B felony;
(3) Less than twenty-five years but ten or more years, as a Class C felony;
(4) Less than ten years but five or more years, as a Class D felony;
(5) Less than five years but more than one year, as a Class E felony;
(6) One year or less but more than six months, as a Class A misdemeanor;
(7) Six months or less but more than thirty days, as a Class B misdemeanor;
(8) Thirty days or less but more than five days, as a Class C misdemeanor; or
(9) Five days or less, or if no imprisonment is authorized, as an infraction.

United States Parole Commission

CERTIFICATE OF SUPERVISED RELEASE
District of Columbia Offender

Having determined that Register No. (DCDC No. ) is to be released to supervised release for a term of 36 months upon release from imprisonment, the United States Parole Commission (the “Commission”) ORDERS that the conditions listed in this certificate apply during that term of supervised release.

Given under the hand and the seal of the Commission on August 25, 2013.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF CONDITIONS

I have read, or had read to me, the conditions that are listed on this CERTIFICATE OF SUPERVISED RELEASE. I have received a copy of this CERTIFICATE OF SUPERVISED RELEASE. I fully understand the conditions that have been imposed upon me and know that if I violate any of those conditions I may be sent back to prison.

CONSENT TO DISCLOSURE OF DRUG/ALCOHOL TREATMENT INFORMATION

By signing this CERTIFICATE OF SUPERVISED RELEASE, I consent to unrestricted communication between any facility administering a drug or alcohol treatment program in which I am or will be participating, on the one hand, and the Commission and the office responsible for supervising me, on the other hand. I consent to disclosure by such facility to the Commission and the office responsible for supervising me of any information related to my supervision, and the disclosure by the Commission and the office supervising me to any agency that requires such information for the performance of an official duty. This consent is irrevocable until the end of the term of supervised release.

GENERAL CONDITIONS

1. You must go directly to Washington, D.C. and appear in person at the intake office of the Court Services and Offender Supervision Agency for the District of Columbia (CSOSA), 300 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C.
   20001. If you are unable to appear in person at that office within three days of release, you must appear in person at the United States Probation Office nearest to you and follow the instructions of the duty officer.

2. If you are not released to the community after your parole, you must follow the instructions in 1A. above when you are released to the community.

3. You must not leave the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area without the written permission of the officer supervising you. The Washington, D.C. metropolitan area consists of the District of Columbia, Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties in Maryland, Arlington and Fairfax Counties in Virginia, and the Cities of Alexandria, Fairfax, and Falls Church in Virginia. For the purpose of applying all conditions of release, "the officer supervising you" includes any supervision officer assisting, substituting for, or acting on behalf of the officer assigned to your supervision.

4. You must notify the officer supervising you within two days of (A) an arrest or questioning by a law-enforcement officer, (B) a change in your residence, or (C) a change in your employment.

5. You must permit the officer supervising you to visit your place of residence and your place of business or employment.

6. You must permit the officer supervising you to confiscate any material that officer believes may be contraband and that is in plain view in your possession, including in your residence, place of business or employment, and vehicle.

7. You must submit to drug or alcohol test whenever ordered to do so by the officer supervising you.

8. You must not violate any law and must not associate with anyone else who is violating any law.

9. You must not possess a dangerous weapon, which includes ammunition.

10. You must not drink alcohol to excess and must not illegally use or possess a controlled substance. You must not frequent a place where you know a controlled substance is illegally used or distributed.

11. You must not associate with a person who has a criminal record without permission from the officer supervising you.

12. You must not enter into an agreement to act as an informant or undercover agent for a law-enforcement agency without permission from the Commission.

13. You must make a diligent effort to work regularly, unless excused by the officer supervising you, and to support any legal dependents.

14. You must make a diligent effort to satisfy any fine, restitution, order, court costs or assessment, or child-support or alimony payment to which you are subject. You must provide financial information relevant to the payment of such a financial obligation that is requested by the officer supervising you. If you are unable to pay such a financial obligation in one sum, you must cooperate with the officer supervising you to establish an installment-payment schedule.

15. If your term of supervised release was imposed because of a conviction for a domestic-violence crime, and that conviction is your first conviction for such a crime, you must, as directed by the officer supervising you, attend an approved offender-rehabilitation program if such a program is readily available within a 50-mile radius of your residence.

16. You must comply with any applicable offender registration law, such as sex-offender or guns-offender registration laws.

17. You must provide a DNA sample if the officer supervising you determines that collection of such sample is required by law.

18. You must participate in an Employment Readiness Program if so directed by the officer supervising you.

19. If you are being supervised by CSOSA, you must submit to the sanctions imposed by the officer supervising you within the limits established by an approved schedule of graduated sanctions.

20. If so directed by the officer supervising you, you must notify a person of your criminal history or characteristics to inform that person of a risk of harm.
SPECIAL CONDITIONS

You shall be subject to the Special Drug Aftercare Condition that requires that you participate, as instructed by your Supervision Officer, in an approved inpatient or outpatient program for the treatment of narcotic addiction or drug dependency. The treatment program may include testing and examination to determine if you have reverted to the use of drugs. You shall abstain from the use of alcohol and all other intoxicants during and after the course of treatment. If so instructed by a Bureau of Prisons institutional employee or your Supervision Officer, you shall reside in, and participate in a program of, the Re-Entry and Sanctions Center until discharged by the Center Director.

In addition, you shall participate in and complete anger management counseling as directed by your Supervision Officer.

You have the best shot of being let of supervised release early if:

- You have completed 2/3 of your supervised release term (or at the very least ½ way through),
- You have had no violations,
- You have complied with all the terms of your supervised release,
- You have paid all restitution and fines, and
- Your probation officer agrees that you should be let off early.

APPENDIX II

Federal Supervised Release Plans

Release plan, creating a plan for payment of restitution and fines, investigation of your plan and release.

STEP 1: Release Plan

Once you have a release date from the Parole Commission (USPC), you must complete a satisfactory plan for parole supervision to actually get released. The Regional Commissioner may change your date of release (earlier or later) onto parole to allow more time for release planning. At most, the Regional Commissioner can delay your release onto parole for 120 days; otherwise, you have the right to a hearing if the Regional Commissioner wants to push back your release date more than 120 days.

Generally, you are required to have included in your release plan:

1. Availability of legitimate employment;
2. An approved residence for the prospective parolee; and
3. Availability of necessary aftercare if you are ill or will require special care.

STEP 2: Unpaid Fines & Restitution

Your release onto parole might also be delayed if you still owe court-ordered fines or restitution. When you still have fines or restitution to pay, a reasonable plan for payment, or a performance of services if ordered by the court, will be included in your parole release plan, where feasible.

STEP 3: Investigation Phase

Your U.S. Probation Officer will do an investigation to make sure that the person’s release plan is appropriate. This investigation will start with the probation officer asking you questions about your release plan. The probation officer will then follow up and verify your answers. For example, if you told the probation officer that your approved residence did not have any persons with a felony record, the probation officer will follow-up to make sure this is true.

STEP 4: Release

After the Parole Commission approves your release plan, and a U.S. Probation Officer completes an investigation, you will be released on the date set by the Parole Commission (unless there is misconduct or some other reason leading to a change in the date).

Appeals To The National Appeal Board

STEP 1: You may send a written appeal to the National Appeals Board challenging any decision to grant (other than a decision to grant parole on the date of parole eligibility), rescind, deny, or revoke parole.

NOTE: If you want to appeal a decision denying your parole on the date of parole eligibility, you instead need to submit a “petition of reconsideration” to the USPC.\footnote{See 28 C.F.R. §§ 2.17; 2.27}

STEP 2: Use the proper form (Parole Form I-22)\footnote{Parole Form I-22, available at http://www.justice.gov/sites/default/files/uspc/legacy/2013/02/26/formi22.pdf.} and file your written appeal within 30 days from the date of entry of the decision that you are appealing. If you don’t file within 30 days of the decision, you lose your right to challenge/appeal it.

OTHER REQUIREMENTS OF YOUR APPEAL:

1. The appeal must include an opening paragraph that briefly summarizes the legal grounds for the appeal.
2. You should then list each ground separately and clearly explain the reasons or facts that support each ground.

If your appeal doesn’t meet these requirements, the USPC may return it to you, in which case have 30 additional days from the date the appeal is returned to submit an appeal that meets the above requirements.

LEGAL GROUNDS FOR YOUR APPEAL CAN INCLUDE:

1) That the guidelines were wrongly applied in your:
   a) Severity rating;
   b) Salient factor score;
   c) Time in custody;
2) That a decision outside the guidelines was not supported by the reasons or facts as stated;
3) That especially mitigating circumstances (for example, facts relating to the severity of the offense or your probability of success on parole) justify a different decision;
4) That a decision was based on wrong information, and the correct facts justify a different decision;
5) That the USPC did not follow correct procedure in deciding the case, and a different decision would have resulted if it would have followed the right procedure;
6) There was important information that you did not know at the time of the hearing;
7) There are compelling reasons why a more lenient decision should be given on grounds of compassion
8) INCLUDE NOTE ABOUT THIS PROCESS AS INITIATED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL WHEN PERSON IS STILL INCARCERATED\footnote{28 C.F.R. § 2.26.}

Federal Parole Revocation Hearings

YOUR RIGHTS DURING A FEDERAL PAROLE REVOCATION HEARING

The purpose is to determine whether you have violated the conditions of your release and, if so, whether your parole or mandatory release should be (1) revoked (taken away) or (2) reinstated (where you continue on parole as you were).\footnote{1057}

Know Your Rights!

1) Present Evidence: You may present evidence at the hearing. However, the presiding hearing officer or examiner panel may limit or exclude any irrelevant or repetitive statements or evidence.

   a) The hearing officer or examiner must disclose all evidence being used to make the revocation decision before or during the revocation hearing. The Hearing Officer will let you examine the document during the hearing, or where appropriate, read and summarize the document for you.

2) Present Witnesses: You may present witnesses at the revocation hearing. At a local revocation hearing only, the USPC may upon your request or on its own motion, ask people to attend who can give statements that will help inform the decision of whether or not to revoke your federal parole.\footnote{1058}

   a) You have the right to question and cross-examine those witnesses, and be present for this, unless the presiding hearing officer or examiner panel finds good cause for you to not be there.

3) Ask for an attorney: You have the right to an attorney. You do not have a constitutional right to have an attorney at your parole revocation hearing, but you will most likely qualify for an attorney if you cannot afford one.\footnote{1059}

4) Appeals: You may appeal a revocation decision.\footnote{1060}

If you agree to the decision, the Commission may make a revocation decision without a hearing if:

1) The alleged violation would be graded no higher than Category Two under the guidelines at § 2.20;

2) The alleged violation is in any category under the guidelines at § 2.20 and the decision imposes the maximum sanction authorized by law; OR

3) You have already served sufficient time in custody for the violation, but that forfeiture of time on parole is necessary to provide an adequate period of supervision.\footnote{1061}

I AM CLASSIFIED AS A SEX OFFENDER, AND I WANT TO TRANSFER TO ANOTHER STATE. HOW CAN I DO THAT?

You must meet the above 5 criteria, AND you must be able to meet additional specific requirements for transferring the supervision of people classified as sex offenders.

NOTE: You cannot leave the sending state until the receiving state has approved the transfer request or issued reporting instructions.

Follow these steps:

STEP 1: Discuss your desire to transfer with your U.S. Probation Officer.

STEP 2: Satisfy all of the eligibility criteria. At the discretion of the sending state, you are eligible and can be approved for transfer if you meet the following criteria and all 5 of the criteria above.

STEP 3: Complete an Application for Transfer (See Rule 3.107)

STEP 4: The sending state must send the receiving state:

1. Assessment information, including sex offender specific assessments;

2. Social history;

3. Information relevant to the sex offender’s criminal sexual behavior

4. Law enforcement report that provides specific details of sex offense;

5. Victim information: including the name, sex, age and relationship to the offender and the statement of the victim or victim’s representative;

6. The sending state’s current or recommended supervision and treatment plan.

STEP 5: The receiving state has 5 business days to review the proposed residence. If the proposed residence is not acceptable due to existing state law or policy, the receiving state may deny the application. No travel permit can be granted by the sending state until the receiving state says it can.

STEP 6: A travel permit will be given to you by your Probation Officer if the receiving state has approved the new residence. Travel permits are issued by the local parole office, so each office uses a different form. Your Probation Officer will give you this form once you have been approved by the Interstate Commission for Adult Offender Supervision.

Interstate Compact Process Flowchart

Overview of the Interstate Compact Process

Offenders have no constitutional right to relocate and the sentencing state has no obligation to allow travel or relocation in another state.

* Please see Rules for further explanation of definitions or processes.
 All Interstate Compact offenders are required to waive their rights to extradition.

- An Interstate Compact eligible* offender* requests to relocate* to another state to their supervising agent (Probation, Parole Officer or Prison Case Worker).
  - PO decides if plan is viable.
    - NO: Transfer does not take place.
    - YES: Application is submitted to the Sentencing State Compact Office.
      - Compact Office determines if reason for transfer and plan is viable.
        - NO: Transfer does not take place.
        - YES: Reporting Instructions are sent for the Offender to transfer.
          - Supervisor Authority* shifts to Receiving State, although Sentencing State still has jurisdiction and can order the offender back.

HOUSING

Housing is one of the most important parts of a strong reentry. In the HOUSING CHAPTER, you will learn more about your housing options and legal rights; what kind of housing you can and cannot get into because your criminal record; and things you can do if your legal rights are violated.

DISCLAIMER – YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it. The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. HOUSING APPENDIX ............................................................... 465

WHAT WILL I LEARN IN THE HOUSING CHAPTER?
• Your housing options in reentry
• What kind of housing you are or are not eligible for because of your criminal record
• How to put your best foot forward in applying for housing
• What you can do if you believe you were illegally denied housing
I. INTRODUCTION

This Chapter explains common housing issues and questions for people with criminal records and the friends and family who live with them. This section will give you information about:

1) Your housing options in reentry;
2) What kind of housing you can and cannot live in based on your criminal record;
3) How to put your best foot forward in applying for housing; and
4) What you can do if you believe you were illegally denied housing.

KEY TERMS IN THE HOUSING CHAPTER

Public Housing Authority (PHA)—a government organization that assists with the development and/or operation of housing for low-income individuals and families. There is a PHA in most counties across California.

Private Owner/Landlord—is the owner of a house or apartment that is rented or leased.

Owner of Government-Assisted Housing—is a private owner/landlord who receives some form of government assistance to make housing more affordable for certain categories of people.

Lease/Rental Agreement—is a legal document that explains the terms under which you are renting your housing.

Background Checks (“Tenant Reports”)—is the process of looking up and compiling criminal, commercial, and financial records of an individual.

Credit Report—is a detailed report of your credit history prepared by a credit bureau and used by a lender or homeowner to determine your creditworthiness; it includes your personal data (current and previous addresses, social security number, employment history), detailed account information (current balances, payment amounts, payment history), inquiries into your credit history, etc.

Eviction (“Unlawful Detainer”)—action by a landlord that forces you to leave the premises through a legal process, as for non-payment of rent.
II. LOOKING FOR & IDENTIFYING GOOD HOUSING OPTIONS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- Some short-term options for housing
- Some long-term options for housing
- The difference between privately run & government-assisted housing
- Recommendations for finding government-assisted housing
- Recommendations for finding housing for people with special needs, such as women and children, domestic violence survivors, seniors, veterans, people recovering from addiction, and 290 sex offender registrants
- Your rights—and how they are different—if you are applying to privately run vs. government-assisted housing
- Your rights if you want to move in with friends and family
- How conditions of parole, probation, or other forms of supervision can affect where you can live and who you can live with after release
- How to challenge denials from housing—whether it’s private or government-assisted—based on your criminal record

WHAT ARE THE FIRST STEPS I SHOULD TAKE IN MY HOUSING SEARCH?

Here are the main types of housing you may consider after getting out of prison or jail:

1) Short-term housing (staying short-term with a family member or friend, staying in transitional housing, staying in a shelter or other emergency housing)
2) Long-term permanent housing (finding an apartment, moving in with family or friends permanently)
3) Special needs housing (which could be short- or long-term)
4) Government-assisted housing

Below we walk through some steps to help you figure out your housing plans.

STEP 1: SHORT-TERM HOUSING PLANS:

First, you should figure out what type of housing is right for you in the short term, and where you will be allowed to live by probation or parole (or which ever type of supervision you are on) when you first get out. See the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 130 to learn about how your rules (called “conditions”) of supervision affect where you can live after release. There is more information about different types of short-term housing beginning on PG. 381.
STEP 2: GET YOUR ID.
Most housing programs will require proof of who you are, your age, and any income you receive. (Go to the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 13, to learn how to get various forms of identification documents.)

STEP 3: LONG-TERM HOUSING PLANS
Later on, you can figure out what type of housing is right for you permanently—we call this “long-term housing.” You need to find housing that you can afford, that you are eligible for (meaning you meet the requirements to be accepted), and that meets your personal needs.

Long-term, permanent housing might mean living with family or friends; living in an affordable apartment or housing unit run by a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or a private landlord; or living in an assisted-living facility for people with special needs (like seniors, veterans, women and children, people with disabilities, or people escaping domestic violence, 290 sex offender registrants). There is more information about different types of short-term housing beginning on PG. 381. For more information on housing for special needs, see PG. 384.

HELPFUL TIPS AS YOU LOOK FOR HOUSING
• KNOW YOUR RIGHTS as a person with a criminal record before you apply for housing! Depending on who owns and runs the housing (private vs. government-assisted—see PG. 393), you will have different rights in the process.
• IT’S ALWAYS A GOOD IDEA TO FIND HELP, if you can. Find an attorney, advocate, case manager, friend or family member, or probation/parole officer who can help you find housing. It is very important to have support in this process and throughout reentry. There is a list of helpful community resources in the back of this guide on PG. 1201 if you want ideas about where to look for help.
• FINDING HOUSING IS TOUGH BUT NOT IMPOSSIBLE—be patient and keep looking!
• SOME OF YOUR OPTIONS. Depending on whether you are currently incarcerated or already out, affordability, eligibility, and whether you are looking for short-term or long-term housing, you will have different types of housing options available to you. As you move further into your reentry, these options
CAN I FIND HOUSING WHILE I AM STILL INCARCERATED?

Yes, it is possible. First, you may want to think about (1) what you need in the short-term vs. long-term; (2) how your parole or probation (or other type of supervision) affects where you can live; and (3) whether you want to look for private housing, government-assisted housing, or both. To help with this process, read about your housing options, starting on PG. 377.

There are additional considerations if you plan to move in with family or friends. You will want to ask them to find out everything possible about the guest policies where they live, and/or about adding someone to their apartment lease. If the housing your family or friend lives in receives any form of government assistance, they may also need to contact their local Public Housing Authority (PHA) to let them know they would like to add you to the household. A list of PHAs in California and their contact information can be found here:
APPENDIX A, PG. 466 or online here: http://www.hud.gov/offices/pih/pha/contacts/states/ca.cfm. Learn more about moving in with family and friends beginning on PG. 437.

If you want to find transitional or emergency housing, generally you or a family member, friend or advocate will have to directly write or call the housing facility to ask about what the requirements are. For a list of transitional housing programs that may accept you while you are still incarcerated, see APPENDIX B, PG. 472.

WHAT ARE SOME STEPS I CAN TAKE IF I AM WORRIED ABOUT BECOMING HOMELESS?

An important step to avoid becoming homeless is to begin planning and identifying housing options while you’re still incarcerated (see question above addressing this topic, PG. 379).

There are also agencies and nonprofits in the community working to help people find permanent housing and avoid/get out of homelessness. Here are some organizations that may be able to help:

• The Public Housing Authority (PHA) in your area: PHAs sometimes give preference to admitting homeless individuals into the Public Housing program or “Section 8” Housing Choice Vouchers. Visit the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) website to find public housing authorities in your area: http://www.hud.gov/offices/pih/pha/contacts/index.cfm

• Emergency shelters and assistance: HUD maintains a list of organizations throughout the country that provide emergency shelter and assistance to homeless individuals (visit the following website: http://nhl.gov/homeless/hmsagen.cfm).

• The National Coalition for Homeless Veterans has an online list of organizations throughout the country that will assist homeless veterans on a variety of issues including housing (visit the following website: http://www.nchv.org/network.cfm).

• The National Coalition for the Homeless has links to databases related to for local service organizations, educating homeless children, transitional housing, drug and alcohol rehabilitation centers, and day shelters (visit the following website: http://www.nationalhomeless.org/resources/index.html).
WILL MY PAROLE OR PROBATION OFFICER HELP ME FIND SOMEWHERE TO LIVE?

It depends, but usually not. But it’s always worth asking your supervising officer if they know of any housing resources!

IF YOU ARE ON CALIFORNIA STATE PAROLE:

There is very little help for housing. In some counties, some parole officers may work with local boarding houses, hotels, or motels to find you a temporary place to stay. Additionally, there could be funding from the California Department of Corrections & Rehabilitation (CDCR) for you to stay a short amount of time in transitional housing (most of those programs are run by the CDCR’s Division of Rehabilitative Programs, which you can read more online at: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/rehabilitation/what-we-do.html).

You can also ask your correctional counselor (if you’re incarcerated) or your parole officer (if you are living in the community) about what types of funding exists for transitional housing while you are on state parole. If your parole officer is unable to help you find short-term, transitional or emergency housing, you may try going to an emergency shelter (see PG. 379.)

As a last resort, you may have to use your Gate Money (read more about Gate Money in the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER on PG. 151) to pay for a hotel or motel, until you find a more permanent living situation.

IF YOU ARE ON CALIFORNIA COUNTY-LEVEL SUPERVISION LIKE PROBATION, PRCS, OR MANDATORY SUPERVISION:

Ask your probation/supervising officer about what local programs are available. Ask if they can make referrals to affordable housing agencies or nonprofits that advocate for low-income people to find housing.

IF YOU ARE ON FEDERAL PROBATION, SUPERVISED RELEASE, OR FEDERAL PAROLE:

Ask your federal Probation Officer for a list of affordable housing options in the area. Federal probation officers will not normally release you from a transitional (“halfway”) house unless you have a plan for permanent housing. Also, read about some of your options for long-term housing on PG. 383 of this chapter.

WHAT ARE MY HOUSING OPTIONS AFTER RELEASE?

Again, there are many different housing options out there—transitional housing programs, emergency shelters, special needs housing, assisted-living housing, living with family or friends, private apartments and houses, and apartments and houses that get government money to make them more affordable for their residents. To make it easier to plan and prepare, we suggest thinking about your housing options in two categories: (1) short-term housing and (2) long-term/permanent housing. Also, consider whether government-assisted housing makes sense in your situation.

SHORT-TERM HOUSING OVERVIEW

When you are preparing for release or first get out of prison or jail, most of your housing options will be focused on short-term and transitional housing. Examples of short-term housing include: staying with a family member; staying with a friend; staying in a shelter (shelters usually offer a bed and shower for one or more nights, and sometimes offer other free services); and living in a transitional housing program.

STAYING WITH FAMILY OR FRIENDS:

Here are some pros and cons to consider if you want to move in with family or friends.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PROS</th>
<th>CONS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>If you have friends or family in the area, staying short-term with them can be an option for immediate housing. Friends and family can be supportive and useful in helping you successfully reenter the community. A few days or weeks on someone’s couch or in their spare bedroom can give you enough time to go to get social services, start looking for jobs, and arrange for longer term housing. You will likely have greater independence in your life. It will be free or at a lower cost because you are splitting the rent.</td>
<td>If you are under supervision after your release, your housing will need to be approved by your probation/parole officer or supervising agency. Home visits by parole/probation officers, search conditions, and other restrictions don’t just affect you; they also affect your host and other household members. (SEE CHAPTER ON PAROLE &amp; PROBATION, PG. 165) If you are a guest in someone’s home or apartment, your stay could cause the family living there to violate the property’s guest policy if you stay beyond the time limit allowed for guests and/or you violate some other rule in the property’s guest policy (see more on PG. 441).</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SHELTERS:

Most shelters are free, and usually offer a bed and shower for one night or multiple nights, and sometimes services such as counseling and job-search assistance. While transitional and permanent housing options can take time to arrange, you can usually access a shelter immediately. Here are some of the main types of shelters that exist:

- 24-hour Shelters—24-hour shelters let you to stay at night and during the day and participate in the services the shelter offers (for example: meals, counseling, and job training, just to name a few). Don’t let the name mislead you—a 24-hour shelter doesn’t necessarily mean you have to leave after 24 hours: in the Bay Area, for example, many 24-hour shelters have beds available for up to 30-90 days; and other shelters reserve beds for people who are participating in special programs, like a required work-program. The key is that 24-hour shelters are open day and night. Ask the specific shelter you’re interested in about any other requirements or restrictions it has.
• 12-hour Shelters—12-hour shelters let you stay for a 12-hour period overnight (usually 7:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m.), but require you to leave in the morning.

• Day Shelters let you come and take advantage of their services during the day, but you can’t stay overnight. Services at day shelters may include showers, meals, computer access, and optional programs like case management/support services and counseling sessions.

• Family Shelters have places to stay for you and the rest of your family. They tend to be 24-hour shelters (see the first type of shelter listed above).

• Domestic Violence Shelters take women (usually not men) who are trying to find safety from someone who is abusive. They usually have confidential addresses for the safety of the residents. Many domestic violence shelters also allow women to bring their children with them.

Transitional Housing Programs:

Transitional housing programs are temporary programs that offer housing and services. Keep in mind they usually have requirements you have to meet before you can move in, and there are usually waitlists.

Examples of transitional housing programs include: shared or private apartments, residential programs that allow for temporary stays (from 3 months to 2 years) at no cost or at a low cost, and sober living environments (SLE) (read more about SLEs on PG. 391). Some transitional housing programs also have services like job training, counseling, general education development (“GED”) programs, and computer classes. Some transitional housing programs are for people with specific needs such as mental health support, addiction treatment and recovery (see PG. 391), or safety from domestic violence (see PG. 386).

Can I Get Into a Transitional Housing Program If I Am Still Incarcerated?

It depends on the program. Unfortunately, most transitional housing programs will not let you fill out an application or get on the waitlist before your release. A few let you apply from inside prison or jail, but may have other requirements or restrictions. Go to APPENDIX B on PG. 472 for a partial list of transitional housing options in California that may accept residents who write to them from inside prison or jail.

What May I Need to Get to Be Accepted Into Transitional Housing?

It depends—each program has different requirements. You might need: identification (learn how to get different types of identification in the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING, beginning on PG. 13); proof of homelessness; proof of any income; proof of your sobriety; police clearance; to get through the waitlist; to have an interview; etc. It’s best to CALL (or if you’re currently incarcerated, ask a family member or friend to call, or WRITE the program a letter with your request) to find out well in advance of when you want to move exactly what you need to do and what the requirements are!
SPECIAL NEEDS HOUSING—SHORT- OR LONG-TERM

There are also housing programs for people with specific needs such as sober living environments that offer addiction treatment and recovery, safety from domestic violence, assisted living for people with disabilities or mental health needs, housing programs for women with children, veterans, and 290 sex offender registrants. These are often transitional housing programs that are for a short term only; others are intended to be long-term/permanent housing for people with special needs. For more information on special needs housing, see PG. 384.

LONG-TERM HOUSING OVERVIEW

Later in your reentry, often after your stay at a short-term or transitional housing program is coming to a close, you will need to figure out what type of housing is right for you permanently. As you consider long-term and permanent housing options, you need to find housing that you can afford, that you are eligible for, and that meets your needs.

PERMANENT HOUSING:

Permanent housing is a place that you can live in for multiple years. Examples of permanent housing include: apartments and homes that get money/assistance from the federal government—though these often have long waitlists and require you to have somewhere else to live first; single-room occupancy (SRO) units where you usually have a private bedroom and bathroom, but a shared kitchen and living space; affordable apartments; and living permanently with family, friends, or other people who support you. For general tips for renters, see PG. 454 of this chapter.

SPECIAL NEEDS HOUSING—SHORT- OR LONG-TERM

Again, as mentioned under short-term housing options, there are special housing programs and units for people with specific needs such as addiction treatment and recovery, safety from domestic violence, assisted living for people with disabilities or mental health needs, housing programs for women with children, veterans, and 290 sex offender registrants. These are often transitional housing programs that are for a short term only; but others are intended to be a long-term, permanent housing solution for people with special needs. See PG. 384 for more details.
HOUSING FOR SPECIAL NEEDS & POPULATIONS

This section provides a brief overview of housing resources for people in reentry with special needs and who might qualify for special programs, including:

1) Women & Children (PG. 384)
2) Domestic Violence Survivors (PG. 386)
3) Seniors/ Elders (PG. 388)
4) Veterans (PG. 389)
5) People Recovering from Substance Abuse/ Addiction (PG. 391)
6) 290 Sex Offender Registrants (PG. 392)

WOMEN & CHILDREN

There are some special housing programs available only for women and their children. These programs may have other requirements (for example, that you are currently on supervision, participating in a substance abuse recovery program, etc.), and they may require a referral from CDCR or another agency.

Since there aren’t many of these programs and they have limited in space, you should contact the program and/or talk to your correctional counselor as soon as possible about contacting the housing program, finding out if you meet the eligibility requirements to participate, and how to get added to the waitlist if there is one.

Below are a few programs in different areas of California for reentering women and children. Please Note: This is not a complete list.

• Centerforce MOMS Program at Santa Rita Jail (in Alameda County, CA):

  Link

  PO Box 415

  San Quentin, CA 94964

  (415) 456-9980

  The MOMS program is located inside Alameda County’s Santa Rita County Jail. It includes an 8-week, in-custody parenting program AND a post-release case management for up to one year, including services, alumni groups, and some limited transitional housing.

  The program supports mothers in Santa Rita Jail during and after their incarceration. Mothers incarcerated in Santa Rita Jail who have not been convicted of violent offenses or sex offense may participate in the MOMS program.

• CAMEO House (San Francisco, CA):

  Link

  424 Guerro St.

  San Francisco, CA 94110

  (415) 703-0600

  CAMEO House provides transitional housing in San Francisco for formerly incarcerated mothers with children.

DID YOU KNOW?

70-80% of women incarcerated in California prisons are mothers, and the majority were the primary caretakers of their children before going to prison. See Barbara Bloom, The Impact of California’s Parole Policies on Women, Testimony Before the Little Hoover Commission (April 22, 2004).
In addition to housing, the program provides supportive services to address a range of issues, including substance abuse, unemployment, mental health as well as help with family reunification. CJCJ’s staff help residents obtain stable housing and gainful employment within six months of their placement, although residents may remain for up to two years.

The transitional housing unit includes access to communal living areas, fully equipped kitchens, bathroom facilities, and an enclosed yard area. CJCJ staffs the residence 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. CJCJ provides help to women with substance abuse issues, women with histories of domestic violence, women who have been clean for at least 6 months, women with children up to age 6, women who are pregnant at least 6 months, women who have been previously incarcerated in jail or prison, women who are homeless with some criminal justice involvement, women on parole, women on probation, women referred by Child Protective Services and women referred by the court.

- Providence Place (San Diego, CA):

  4890 67th St.,
  San Diego, CA 92115
  (619) 667-5287

  Providence Place is a residential substance abuse treatment program that serves women on parole or community supervision and their dependent children.

  In addition to housing, Providence Place provides substance abuse treatment; comprehensive case management and family reunification services; a parenting center focused on child development, parenting skills and family therapy; specialized support groups to address grief and loss, self esteem, trauma, and other needs; and employment development services. The program is available to women on active parole/post release community supervision and their minor children (typically up to the age of 12). All participants receive referrals, authorization and funding through CDCR.

- Free At Last (East Palo Alto, CA):

  http://www.freeatlast.org/services.html

  1796 Bay Road
  East Palo Alto, CA 94303
  (650) 462-6999

  Free At Last offers several housing options for women with children, including:

  - The Residential Treatment Program for Women and Women with Children provides 7–9 months of residential treatment for women and women with children. To graduate, clients must complete treatment goals, secure housing and have a job or be enrolled in job training.
  - The Transitional Clean and Sober Living program provides shared supportive housing for men, women, and women with children.
DOMESTIC VIOLENCE SURVIVORS

If your conviction was related to the domestic violence that you experienced, this is mitigating evidence that helps to explain your criminal record. IF YOU FEEL SAFE DOING SO, you may want to explain the violent situation you were in at the time of your criminal conduct to a housing provider who is considering your criminal record, so that you are not penalized in your application.1067

Below are a few resources that may help you to find housing:

➢ DOMESTIC VIOLENCE SHELTERS & TRANSITIONAL HOUSING:

There are more than 100 shelter-based domestic violence programs throughout California. Many of these programs operate both:

1) Emergency shelters (typical stay = 30–60 days), AND
2) Transitional housing programs (typical stay = 6–18 months)

In addition to providing shelter to survivors, both these programs often provide services such as 24-hour hotlines, legal assistance with restraining orders and child-custody disputes, advocates who can go to court appearances to support you, counseling for you and your children, and referrals to other social services.

Most emergency and homeless shelters for survivors do not conduct criminal background checks (although they are permitted to do so, as long as they follow all of the background check rules on PG. 426). In addition, most shelters are aware that survivors often face criminal charges and/or arrest warrants in connection with the violence that they’ve experienced. Many shelters have relationships with local law enforcement, and are able to accommodate survivors who are under supervision (like probation, parole, etc.).

HELPFUL HINTS & RESOURCES

You should keep in mind that each shelter is different, so the rules and opportunities may not be the same everywhere. There may also be some variation from county to county.

To find a domestic violence shelter or transitional housing program in your area, contact the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-SAFE (7233) or call 211. You will have to contact each shelter or program separately to find out if you met their specific criteria.

A list of resources by county in CA for people experiencing DV is also available online at:

California Dept. of Public Health:
http://www.cdph.ca.gov/HealthInfo/injviosaf/Documents/_California.pdf

California Partnership to End Domestic Violence:
http://www.cpedv.org/Resources%20A%20K

WHO DOES THE GOVERNMENT CONSIDER TO BE “HOMELESS”?

The federal government's definition of “homeless” includes people who are escaping situations of domestic violence and do not have other housing or resources available. This means that if you are escaping domestic violence, you may be eligible for a government-assisted housing program that is for people who are “homeless,” including the programs listed here. Go to PG. 407 to learn about the procedure for challenging denials to government-assisted housing.

CALWORKS:

If you are eligible for CalWORKS and you are homeless, you can apply to the Homeless Assistance Program (HAP) through your local county social service agency. Your family can receive temporary shelter in a hotel or motel for up to 16 consecutive days, financial help to move into permanent housing (such as last month’s rent, security and utility deposits, etc.), and 2 months of back-owed rent to prevent an eviction. Additional services such as counseling referrals are available for domestic violence survivors. For more information on CalWORKS eligibility, go to the PUBLIC BENEFITS CHAPTER, PG. 514.

CA’S VICTIM COMPENSATION PROGRAM RELOCATION ASSISTANCE:

The California Victim Compensation Program (VCP) can provide victims of violent crime—including domestic violence survivors—up to $2,000 per household for relocation expenses, such as first and last month’s rent, security and utility deposits, temporary housing, moving vans, and emergency food and clothing.1073

Please note that the expenses must be considered necessary for your personal safety or emotional wellbeing, as determined by a law enforcement officer or licensed mental health provider. You will also need to provide verification (a signed letter or other documentation) from a law enforcement agent or mental health provider. You may also have to agree to other restrictions, such as not telling the person who committed the violence about your new location, not allowing him/her on the property, and seeking a restraining order against him/her.

VERY IMPORTANT: The VCP also has certain restrictions on people with criminal records. You may not be eligible if any of the following apply to you:1074

- You committed the crime;
- You knowingly and willingly participated in or were involved in the events leading to the crime, though some exceptions may be considered.
- You did not cooperate reasonably with law enforcement in apprehending and convicting the person who committed the crime, though some exceptions may be considered.
- ALSO: If you have been convicted of a felony, you cannot get compensation until you have been released from custody, discharged from probation or parole, and 3 years have passed since the crime occurred. However, you may be able to get your felony reduced to a misdemeanor, which could lessen these restrictions. For more information, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.

SENIORS/ELDERs

Although there are very few housing programs created just for senior citizens in reentry, you may be eligible for housing based on your disability (see PG. 477), your low income (see PG. 393), or qualify for different types of transitional housing (see PG. 382).

One program for seniors in reentry is the Senior Ex-Offender Program (SEOP) at the Bayview-Hunters Point Senior Center in San Francisco, CA. It currently provides temporary and transitional housing and is developing a permanent housing facility for the future.1075 Other transitional housing programs for seniors—particularly low-income housing, homelessness prevention, and sober or residential treatment programs for seniors—may be more likely to admit seniors with criminal records because the conviction was long ago or you have physical or health needs that give you priority for the housing (it may help to mention these factors if the housing provider raises your record as an issue).

A NOTE ABOUT REQUESTING REASONABLE ACCOMMODATIONS IF YOU HAVE A DISABILITY:

If you have a mental, physical, or developmental disability, and you must follow parole, probation, or community supervision conditions that restrict where you can live, you have the right to receive reasonable accommodations for your disability at your residence. To learn how to request an accommodation for your disability from your supervision, go to the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER of this guide, PG. 130. For help, you may also want to contact a legal aid provider for people with disabilities, listed on PG. 1190, or call Root & Rebound (510-279-4662) for a referral or further assistance.

1074 The California Victim Compensation Program, FAQ—Eligibility, http://www.vcgcb.ca.gov/victims/faq/eligibility.aspx#Not. The exceptions for participation or involvement in the events leading to the crime, and cooperation with law enforcement) are especially important for survivors of domestic violence, since many survivors may have criminal records related to the violence they’ve experienced, or may be afraid to cooperate with law enforcement out of fear of further violence or to protect an abusive partner from conviction, incarceration, deportation, etc.
VETERANS

The U.S. Department of Veteran Affairs (VA) offers a variety of housing programs for veterans.

If you are currently incarcerated—whether in a state or federal facility—a “VA Reentry Specialist” is supposed to arrange a meeting with you about your goals to determine the resources available to best meet your needs after release.

What is VA Reentry Specialist and how can I contact one to help me find housing?

Every region of the U.S. has a VA Reentry Specialist who can help determine your eligibility for VA benefits, help you enroll in the VA, and connect you with local housing and services. VA Reentry Specialists have relationships with both state and federal correctional facilities to help incarcerated veterans plan and prepare for release.

If you already met with the VA Reentry Specialist and received instructions for housing, you should continue with those arrangements. If you are starting from scratch, the VA’s Health Care for Homeless Veteran program can help you find housing in your area. You should visit your local VA, if possible, or call the National Call Center for Homeless Veterans hotline available 24/7 at 1-877-4-AID-VET (424-3838). There you will find a VA counselor available to help you.

HELPFUL RESOURCES

To learn more about preparing for release as a veteran, go to the VA website: http://www.va.gov/HOMELESS/docs/Reentry/09_ca.pdf.

AFTER YOU ARE RELEASE, you can visit this website to find your local VA: http://www.cacvso.org/county-contacts/.

➢ YOUR VA HOUSING OPTIONS INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING PROGRAMS:

HEALTH CARE FOR HOMELESS VETERANS CONTRACTS (HCHV) –

The HCHV program provides emergency housing, shelters, and treatment to veterans enrolled in VA Healthcare, through local community organizations and service providers. These local community organizations and service providers may offer outreach, exams, treatment, referrals, and case management to veterans who are homeless and dealing with mental health issues.

- For information about the HCHV program, please visit: http://www.va.gov/homeless/hchv.asp
- For list of HCHV coordinators in California, please visit: http://www.va.gov/HOMELESS/docs/HCHV_Sites_ByState.pdf

---

SUPPORTIVE SERVICES FOR VETERAN FAMILIES GRANTS (SSVF) –

Local non-profit organizations receive funding from the VA to assist low-income veterans (and their families) who are homeless or at risk of homelessness. SSVF programs can help you transition to permanent housing, along with case management and assistance with getting other benefits and services.

For a list of current SSVF providers, please visit the following website:
http://www.va.gov/homeless/ssvf.asp

HELPFUL HINT

Connecting with legal services providers through an SSVF program:

Participating SSVF programs may provide or may contract with local legal aid organizations to provide Veterans with legal services. (Veterans ineligible for VA Enrollment may be eligible to receive SSVF assistance if available. Inquire at your VA if this option is an option for you).

VA SUPPORTIVE HOUSING (HUD-VASH) PROGRAM –

HUD-VASH is a joint effort between HUD (US Department of Housing and Urban Development) and VA to move veterans and their families out of homelessness and into permanent housing. HUD provides Section 8 vouchers to eligible veterans, and the VA offers eligible homeless veterans clinical and supportive services through its health care system.

Veterans applying for Section 8 Housing Vouchers through the HUD-VASH program are subject to most Section 8 Housing eligibility rules (for example, your income).

THERE IS AN IMPORTANT EXCEPTION TO CRIMINAL RECORD BANS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING FOR VETERANS:

HUD-VASH applicants are not subject to most Section 8 regulations regarding criminal and/or drug-related history. This means that Public Housing Authorities (PHAs) cannot deny Section 8 housing to HUD-VASH applicants based off the applicant’s prior drug activity or criminal record (unless you or someone in your household is subject to a lifetime sex offender registration—know as “290 registration” in California—in which case the PHA can still deny you and your household from Section 8 housing programs).

MENTAL HEALTH RESIDENTIAL REHABILITATION AND TREATMENT (MH RRTP) PROGRAMS—

MH RRTP provide residential rehabilitation and treatment services for veterans with multiple and severe medical conditions, mental illness, addiction, or psychosocial deficits. MH RRTP programs promote rehabilitation, recovery, health maintenance, improved quality of life, and community integration, in addition to treatment of medical conditions, mental illnesses, addictive disorders, and homelessness. The residential program helps veterans to develop a lifestyle self-care, personal responsibility, and medical health.

- For more information about MH RRTP and other residential VA programs, please visit the following website: https://www.calvet.ca.gov/VetHomes
- Please note: VA Housing providers are required to verify you are free of Tuberculosis (Tb). If you have had a Tb test within the past year, you should request a copy of the results before your release from incarceration. If you do not have a recent Tb clearance, request the test so you can have this document available.

SUBSTANCE ABUSE TREATMENT & RECOVERY HOUSING (ALSO CALLED “SOBER LIVING ENVIRONMENTS” OR SLE)

If you suffer from past addiction or alcoholism, you may be eligible for special housing and/or funding programs that provide residential treatment for substance abuse. These are also called “Sober Living Environments” (SLEs). More information about funding and these residential facilities can be found on CDCR’s website here: http://www.cdcr.ca.gov/rehabilitation/substance-abuse-services-coordination-agencies.html.

- FUNDING: If you are on state parole, you may be eligible for temporary funding through CDCR’s Substance Abuse Service Coordination Agencies (SASCA) funding or another source. SASCA funding is generally limited to 6 months of assistance. Ask your state parole officer for more information.
- SPECIAL HOUSING: There are transitional housing programs that focus on substance abuse treatment and/or sober living conditions for people with former addictions. They may also take SASCA funding. Be aware that many of these programs are only available for short- or medium-term stays.

My conviction was for past drug or alcohol use. Is past addiction considered a legally protected disability?

Yes. Past (BUT NOT CURRENT) drug addiction and alcoholism are considered disabilities under state and federal law. This means you may have the right to request reasonable accommodations for your disability. Reasonable accommodations might include an extended curfew so that you can attend treatment or AA/NA programs, permission to take methadone if prescribed by your doctor, or access to special rehabilitative services. Moreover, a landlord may not deny you housing or discriminate against you based on your past addiction or alcoholism.
For more information on housing protections for people with addiction-based disabilities, including what information a landlord CAN and CANNOT ask or consider, the following guide may be helpful: Fair Housing for People with Disabilities, by Mental Health Advocacy Services, Inc., pages 18-20, available online at: http://www.mhas-la.org/FH%20Manual%20rev.4-07.pdf.

For more information on asking for reasonable accommodations—where you could ask a landlord to make an exception to their policy banning former addicts from housing (since past addiction is a protected disability), go to Appendix D, PG. 477.

290 SEX OFFENDER REGISTRANTS & RESIDENCY RESTRICTIONS

Recently, there have been some important changes in the law governing residency restriction for 290 sex offender registrants. Up until March 2015, as a result of Proposition 83 (“Jessica’s Law”), there were strict residency restrictions on people who were required to register as sex offenders under California Penal Code Section 290. If this law applied to you, you could not reside within 2,000 feet of any school or park where children regularly gather.\(^{1086}\)

In March 2015, the California Supreme Court declared that the blanket residency restriction for all sex offenders required to register under California Penal Code Section 290 is illegal. Now CDCR can place special restrictions on registered sex offenders in the form of discretionary (decided specifically for you) parole conditions. These conditions can require more or less than Jessica’s law, but they must be based on facts surrounding each individual parolee’s case.\(^{1087}\) The CDCR may also be able to impose other residency restrictions as special conditions of parole in individual cases based on specific case factors.\(^{1088}\)

There is more information about 290 registrants in the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER of this guide. Go to PG. 172 to learn more.

1086 CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003.5(b). This rule applied to any sex offender released on parole on or after November 8, 2006, even if the most recent term was for a non-sex offense or the parolee was initially released before November 8, 2006, and later re-released after a parole revocation. In re E.J., 47 Cal.4th 1258 (2010). However, the residency restrictions could not be applied to people who were both convicted and released from custody prior to November 8, 2006. Doe v. Schwarzenegger, 476 F. Supp. 2d 1178 (E.D. Cal. 2007).

1087 In reTaylor, 60 Cal.4th 1019, 1042 (2015).

1088 For example, parolees convicted of violating Penal Code Sections 288 or 288.5 cannot live within one half-mile (2,640 feet) of a K-12 school if they are deemed “high risk” by CDCR. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003(g). Also, a sex offender parolee cannot live in a single family house with another person who is also a sex offender, unless they are related by blood, marriage, or adoption. CAL. PENAL CODE § 3003.5(a).
PRIVATE VS. GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING: AN OVERVIEW

It is very important that you understand the difference between private and government-assisted housing, because depending on what type of housing you live in will affect your rights. There are very specific legal requirements for how a government-assisted housing provider can access, look at, and consider your criminal record, and different requirements for what a private landlord can access, look at, and consider.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT THE TERMS USED IN THE HOUSING CHAPTER: We use the term “government-assisted” housing throughout this Chapter to refer to housing programs and owners of housing that receive money from the federal government. We do not use “public housing” to talk about any and all housing that gets government money because there is actually a specific program run by the government called the “Public Housing” program. So when we use the term “Public Housing,” we are referring to the specific Public Housing program, NOT all housing that receives government support.

HOW CAN I FIGURE OUT IF I AM APPLYING TO/LIVING IN PRIVATE OR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

• Did you apply for the housing through a PHA?
  o If yes, the rules and criminal record exclusions that apply to federal government-assisted housing apply to you.
• Do you have a “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher?
  o If yes, the rules and criminal record exclusions that apply to federal government-assisted housing apply to you.
• Look up the property online at: http://www.hud.gov/apps/section8/index.cfm
  o If you still don’t know, ask the OWNER of the property.

Sometimes it’s clear that you live in government-assisted housing because you had to apply for the housing unit or program through a local Public Housing Authority (PHA) or your landlord is the PHA itself. Other times, it’s unclear that you live in government-assisted housing because the owner gets a special benefit directly from the government, and you didn’t know it. The hints above will help you figure out if you are living in government-assisted housing, but you can also ask the owner (the landlord) of the property.

PRIVATE HOUSING

This is a large category of housing that is owned and run by private landlords (NOT the government). Private housing could be an apartment, house, shelter, month-to-month lease, or year-to-year lease. It could be owned by a single owner or by a large property management company where you only interact with the housing managers and not the owner(s) themselves. ...VERSUS...

GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

If you are a low-income person or household and you are looking for affordable rental housing in your area, you may want to apply for government-assisted... housing. The federal government funds most government-assisted housing programs. They have many rules about who can and can’t live there, including a lot of rules about how a criminal record affects your ability to live there (read about those rules and exclusions on PG. 397). Government-assisted housing is designed for low-income people.

For some government-assisted housing programs, the government runs the housing facilities and EVERYTHING about the housing application process. For other federally assisted housing programs, the government works with private companies or private owners/landlords who run their own facilities and have their own separate application process from the government.

Government-assisted housing could be short-term, long-term, an apartment, a house, a shelter, or a transitional housing program with services.

WHY WOULD I BE INTERESTED IN LIVING IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

Government-assisted housing is a great option for many low-income people and households. While they have many rules about who can and cannot live there, it provides you with an opportunity to have affordable rental housing in your area. See PG. 394 below for the resources that can help you find government-assisted housing in your area.

HOW CAN I FIND GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

Try the following resources to find government-assisted housing:

1) YOUR LOCAL PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA), which runs some of the biggest government-assisted housing programs, including the Public Housing program and the Housing Choice Voucher program (commonly known as “Section 8” or the voucher program).

2) SEARCH ONLINE: To find your local PHA on the web, visit the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development’s (HUD) website at: http://www.hud.gov/offices/pih/pha/contacts/index.cfm. Once at the website, select your state, then, look for your local PHA by the name of your city or county.

3) SEARCH IN THE PHONE BOOK: If you don’t have a regular access to a computer, look in your phone book in the government or business sections for your local Public Housing Authority (PHA). Some areas have both city and county PHAs; others just have a city PHA. In the government section of the phone book, first look for the city, then look for “housing authority” or “housing department” (for example, the San Francisco Housing Authority, or the Oakland Housing Authority). Sometimes, the local PHA will be listed under the city’s housing department.

4) OTHER GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING, NOT THROUGH YOUR LOCAL PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA):
   a. PRIVATE AND NONPROFIT LANDLORDS operate other forms of government-assisted rental housing programs. The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) maintains a searchable list of these programs online here: http://www.hud.gov/apps/section8/index.cfm
   b. LOW INCOME TAX CREDIT HOUSING is an affordable rental housing developed through the Internal Revenue Services’ (IRS) Low Income Housing Tax Credit program (LIHTC). Typically, this housing does not serve extremely low-income households, but it is less expensive than similar private housing in the community. LIHTC housing is owned and operated by private owners and nonprofit agencies and is monitored in each state by a state agency. Frequently, but not always, that agency is the state housing finance agency. Some of these agencies may have lists of persons and organizations that operate LIHTC housing in your state. In CA, it's the California Tax Credit Allocation Committee that oversees LIHTC. Read more about these types of property at: http://www.treasurer.ca.gov/ctcac/tax.asp

c. RURAL HOUSING: The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) also funds government-assisted rental housing in rural areas throughout the United States and maintains a website that allows you to search for rural government-assisted rental housing here: http://rdmfrntls.sc.egov.usda.gov/RDMFHRentals/select_state.jsp

WHO IS MY LANDLORD IF I LIVE IN SOME TYPE OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

It depends. If you live in PUBLIC HOUSING, the local Public Housing Authority (PHA)—run by your city or county—owns your entire building and is your landlord. In rare cases, a private company may manage the building for the PHA or may be part of the ownership, but the building is still controlled by the PHA. PHAs operate in almost every city and county in California.

If you live in OTHER TYPES OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING, the PHA is not your landlord. This includes all of the other types of government-assisted housing discussed on PG. 393 above. Even if you applied through the PHA, it will not be your landlord. Instead, your landlord will be a private owner who receives financial assistance from the federal government in exchange for renting to low-income people, or a private owner that accepts vouchers from low-income people who went through a PHA to get a reduction on their rent. Owners of government-assisted housing could be individual landlords, for-profit companies, or nonprofit organizations. You can get this type of government-assisted housing through VOUCHERS, where you get the assistance from a PHA and then have to find rental housing on the private market that will accept your voucher. OR you can get this type of government-assisted housing through “multifamily” properties where the owner gets the assistance and it stays with the property to keep it affordable for low-income tenants.
III. APPLYING FOR & GETTING INTO HOUSING

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What it means to be eligible or ineligible for housing
- How your record might ban you from private housing
- How your record might ban you from government-assisted housing
- What types of bans are illegal and when
- When a landlord is allowed to deny you housing but does not have to

UNDERSTANDING HOUSING ELIGIBILITY

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE “ELIGIBLE” FOR HOUSING?

To be eligible for housing means you meet specific criteria so that it is possible for you to be accepted into that housing if you apply. On the other hand, being ineligible for certain types of housing means there is something about you or your situation that automatically disqualifies you and prevents you from being accepted because of housing agency’s rules.

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO UNDERSTAND THE ELIGIBILITY RULES OF DIFFERENT TYPES OF HOUSING?

Knowing the rules and policies that different types of housing have for who can and cannot live there is important for you to understand whether or not you will want to apply, and what your chances are of being accepted. If you are eligible, that means you could be accepted into the housing; but if you are ineligible, something about you or your situation automatically disqualifies you from being accepted because of the rules of that housing agency or because of some law that bans you from living there. Keep in mind: it’s possible for your situation to change in a way that could also change your eligibility. Continue reading to learn more.

WHAT ARE SOME OF THE REASONS I COULD BE ELIGIBLE OR INELIGIBLE FOR A HOUSING PROGRAM?

You could be eligible or ineligible because of (1) your income, (2) your criminal record, and/or (3) some other specific factor.

(1) INCOME: How much money you make will be an important factor for certain types of housing. If you are low-income, it will help you in certain contexts. For example, housing that is subsidized (paid for partially or fully) by the government, you must be low-income—earning less than a certain amount of money per month—to be eligible. The income cutoff is different for different programs (read more below). But for most private housing, you must be earning more than a certain amount of money per month to be eligible. Landlords want proof of your income being a certain amount so they know you are able to pay rent.

(2) CRIMINAL RECORD: For almost all kinds of housing, specific kinds of criminal convictions may disqualify you from applying, or at least make it harder for you to get accepted as a tenant.

(3) OTHER SPECIFIC FACTORS: Some housing programs—especially those fully or partially funded by the government—are designed for certain specific groups of people. Your age, income level, disability status, veteran status, homeless status, gender, and whether you have children are just some of the factors that could make you eligible for certain specific housing programs.

HOW WILL MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY ELIGIBILITY AND APPLICATION TO DIFFERENT TYPES OF HOUSING?

Whether you are looking at short-term/transitional or long-term housing, the impact of your criminal record on your application depends on whether that housing is PRIVATE or GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED. In this Chapter, when we talking about government-assisted housing, we are talking about housing that gets money from the federal government to make it more affordable for low-income people. The federal government has created many laws that control government-assisted housing, including who is allowed to live there.

In this Chapter, we will explain how your CRIMINAL RECORD affects your application to both private housing and government-assisted housing; whether or not a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or owner can refuse to rent to you, what you can do to strengthen your application, and how you can challenge a denial that you believe is illegal.

HOW CAN I FIGURE OUT IF I AM APPLYING TO/LIVING IN PRIVATE OR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

- Did you apply for the housing through a PHA?
- If yes, the rules and criminal record exclusions that apply to federal government-assisted housing apply to you.
- Do you have a “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher?
- If yes, the rules and criminal record exclusions that apply to federal government-assisted housing apply to you.
- Look up the property online at: http://www.hud.gov/apps/section8/index.cfm
- If you still don’t know, ask the OWNER of the property.

Sometimes it’s clear that you live in government-assisted housing because you had to apply for the housing unit or program through a local Public Housing Authority (PHA) or your landlord is the PHA itself. Other times, it’s unclear that you live in government-assisted housing because the owner gets a special benefit directly from the government, and you didn’t know it. The hints above will help you figure out if you are living in government-assisted housing, but you can also ask the owner (the landlord) of the property.
CRIMINAL RECORD BANS TO BE AWARE OF BEFORE YOU APPLY TO HOUSING

1. CRIMINAL RECORD BANS IN PRIVATE HOUSING

HOW CAN MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY CHANCES OF GETTING PRIVATE HOUSING?

Most private landlords will run a background check on you, and have a broad discretion to deny you based on past criminal involvement. However, the landlord cannot have a blanket ban on ALL people with criminal records and must treat your criminal record the same as it treats other applicants'. Keep reading this section to learn what landlords can and can't do when getting and considering your criminal history information.

CAN A PRIVATE LANDLORD REFUSE TO RENT TO ME JUST BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Most of the time, yes. Unfortunately, the law does not protect you from housing discrimination based on your criminal record alone. Although federal and state laws make it illegal for private landlords to discriminate against you because of your race, color, national origin, ancestry, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, religion, disability, marital status, family status, genetic information, and source of income in California, they do not provide any specific or direct protection based on having a criminal record. Landlords have the power to choose their tenants, and judges often side with landlords who claim that banning people with criminal records is necessary to protect other residents and property.

However, there are some cases where you might be protected if a private landlord rejects you because of your criminal record.

1) Currently, the issue of whether private landlords who own buildings with 4 or more apartments can have a policy of refusing to rent to ALL PEOPLE with criminal convictions (these are called “blanket bans”) is being argued in courts. Read more about this on PG. 399.

2) Additionally, if your CONVICTION is for substance/drug abuse, your post substance abuse is considered a disability under state and federal law. People with disabilities enjoy greater protection against discrimination (read more about asking for a reasonable accommodation for a disability in Appendix D, PG. 477).

3) Finally, you are protected by state and federal law that limits what a private landlord can learn about you from a BACKGROUND CHECK (often called a “tenant report” when it’s for a landlord who is screening you for their housing). A landlord has to tell you about the background check, give you a

The Unruh Act is incorporated into FEHA for purposes of housing discrimination (Gov't Code § 12955(d)), but it is best to bring separate claims under each law because the remedies are different.

UDR, Inc., 644 F. Supp. 2d 675 (E.D.N.C. 2009) (holding that the Fair Housing Act (FHA) does not prohibit landlords from denying a disabled tenant’s rental application based on her criminal record; relaxation of landlord’s “no criminal history” policy was not required as a reasonable accommodation for mentally disabled tenant, even where tenant’s disability was an underlying cause of her conviction).

WHEN MIGHT I BE LEGALLY PROTECTED FROM A PRIVATE LANDLORD DISCRIMINATING AGAINST ME DUE TO MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Below are some situations where you might be legally protected if a private landlord is discriminating on the basis of your criminal record:

1) Blanket Bans:

While there is no clear current law that the “blanket bans” when private landlords refuse to rent to all people with criminal convictions are unlawful, it is currently being challenged in courts because it creates a larger impact on particular races and ethnicities. Thus, it may be a good idea to consult an attorney. There are multiple arguments for why a blanket ban could violate the law. These are covered in #2-4 below.

If you come across a blanket ban, you should contact an attorney. See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1190 of this guide.

2) Arbitrary Discrimination:

California state law also prohibits “arbitrary discrimination,” (meaning unreasonable discrimination), so if a landlord has a blanket ban against anyone with criminal records—without consideration of your individual situation and ability to be a good tenant—it may be considered unreasonable, arbitrary discrimination, which is illegal.

If you come across a blanket ban, or discrimination that seems completely arbitrary, you should contact a lawyer. See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1190 of this guide.

3) Unfair Treatment (also called “discriminatory treatment”):

Even though a private landlord is legally allowed to consider your criminal record, the landlord must apply the same standards for screening applicants equally. For example, a landlord can’t reject an African-American applicant based on his/her criminal record, but then accept a white applicant with a similar criminal record.

Another example is that if a private landlord conducts a background check on you, the landlord must also conduct the same background check on all other applicants.

If you come across a private landlord who you believe is treating your criminal record differently from other similar applicants, this may violate your right to Wolfson, 30 Cal.3d 721 (1982) (holding that Unruh Civil Rights Act prohibits all “arbitrary” discrimination, regardless of protected class status; landlord’s blanket exclusion of an entire class of people (children) based on a generalized prediction that the class, “as a whole,” is more likely to commit misconduct than some other classes of public violates the Act.); see also Regional Human Rights/Fair Housing Commission, Fair Housing Handbook, 18 (11th ed., 2012).

equal treatment under federal and state law. You should contact a lawyer. See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1190 of this guide.

4) Unfair Impact (also called “disparate impact” or “discriminatory effect”) & Blanket Bans:

There is a strong argument that banning tenants with criminal records from private housing has a discriminatory effect on African-Americans, Latinos, and other people of color, who are overrepresented in our criminal justice system. However, this argument has not been fully tested in court, so it is too early to tell whether it will be successful.

Lawyers in New York recently filed a lawsuit against a private landlord, arguing that the company’s blanket ban on all tenants with criminal records violates federal and state law due to its discriminatory effect on people of color, and that the company should instead give special consideration to each applicant’s situation.1093 There is also a case that is currently being heard by the United States Supreme Court that will decide if this discriminatory effect should be also prohibited.1094

In addition, California’s fair housing laws may give you slightly stronger protection in this situation, because a blanket ban against all tenants with any criminal records—regardless of the type of conviction, when it occurred, whether it affects your ability to be a good tenant (like pay rent; respect your neighbors and property; etc.), and evidence of your rehabilitation & mitigating circumstances (see PG. 417 for details on evidence of rehabilitation and mitigating circumstances)—has a discriminatory effect and may not be “necessary” to protect other tenants and property.1095

5) Past Drug or Alcohol Addiction (A Protected Disability)

It is illegal for a landlord to deny you housing based on a past drug or alcohol addiction, as this is a protected disability status. Past addiction, as well as current alcoholism,1096 are considered disabilities under both federal and state law, so landlords cannot deny you housing for this reason or even ask about past drug or alcohol abuse. Landlords must also provide you with reasonable accommodations if necessary.

However, a landlord may deny you housing if you are currently using or selling illegal drugs (this is the same rule that applies to current drug use in government-assisted housing properties.

If a landlord denies you housing due to past drug or alcohol abuse, you should request reasonable accommodations and/or challenge the denial. It is suggested that you try and contact an attorney to help, since every individual’s circumstances and case are different. See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1190 of this guide for places that may be able to assist you.

2. CRIMINAL RECORD BANS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

HOW CAN MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY CHANCES OF GETTING ACCEPTED INTO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

When you apply to government-assisted housing through a Public Housing Authority (PHA) (see definition on PG. 376), the PHA runs a criminal background check on:

- You;
- Everyone currently living with you;
- Everyone 16 or older who might live with you;
- Any biological parent of any children who will be living in the household, even parents who do not plan to live with you and are not part of the application to the PHA.

The rules governing who may be denied are very broad. The PHA tries to exclude people it believes will “risk the health and safety of other tenants.” On the other hand, the PHA may choose to overlook your criminal convictions and accept your application, especially if they see evidence that you have changed since the time of your conviction.

IMPORTANT! There are a lot of rules about who can and cannot live in government-assisted housing. Every program has its own set of rules that you should be aware of BEFORE you apply. You want to know what laws or program policies might prevent you from living there because of a criminal conviction or other criminal history information, even if your family already lives there. Some bans are required by law, while others are allowed, but not required. These types of bans are up to the discretion and policies of the PHA and/or the owner of the government-assisted housing. You should look at the policies BEFORE YOU APPLY.

CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) REFUSE TO RENT TO ME JUST BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Yes, it's possible. Rules for government-assisted housing can be VERY STRICT. Your local Public Housing Authority (PHA), which runs a lot of the government-assisted housing programs like Section 8 Housing Choice Vouchers and the Public Housing program, and works with private owners that accept government assistance to keep their buildings more affordable, may reject you and your household because of certain criminal convictions.

There are two reasons that a PHA or owner of government-assisted housing will reject you—the first is when it's legally required (meaning the PHA and/or the owner of government-assisted housing don’t have a choice and must deny you), and the second is when it’s allowed but not required (meaning the PHA and/or the owner of government-assisted housing has a choice to deny you, but doesn’t have to). It is important for you to understand both situations, and your options to challenge the bans that are allowed, but not required, or spot situations where a PHA or owner of government-assisted housing tells you that the ban is legally required, but there is a legal loophole. Keep reading to learn more.

OVERVIEW

REQUIRED VS. ALLOWED BANS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

(1) BANS THAT ARE REQUIRED: Sometimes, a government-assisted housing provider MUST deny certain applicants because they have a specific type of conviction on their record. Because the law says that the rejection is required (“mandatory”), PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing do not have a choice in the matter. They must deny you if you have one of the convictions listed in the law. For all conviction-based bans that are legally required, see the chart PG. 403, and the questions on PG. 406.

(2) BANS THAT ARE ALLOWED, BUT NOT REQUIRED (“CATCH-ALL” BANS): More commonly, you will likely fall into a “catch-all” ban on people with any criminal activity (which includes both arrests and convictions, even if they have been dismissed) that threaten the health, safety, or right of peaceful enjoyment to the government-assisted property by the other residents, the property owner, or the PHA’s staff or agents/contractors. This includes drug-related criminal activity and violent criminal activity (again, both arrests and convictions, even if dismissed, can be considered). Here, the law doesn’t require that you get denied from the housing program, but it allows PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing to deny you on this basis.

• See the chart summarizing these bans on PG. 403, and the questions on PG. 406.
• See Appendix D, PG. 477, for an even more detailed chart explaining which specific criminal convictions make denial mandatory (required by law) and which make denial permissive (allowed, but not required by law), including citations to the specific laws.1099

WHERE DO I FIND A PHA’S RULES & POLICIES ABOUT CRIMINAL RECORDS?

The rules for criminal records are different for every government-assisted housing program and are determined locally. Even an owner of government-assisted housing CAN HAVE DIFFERENT RULES than the Public Housing Authority (PHA) that oversees the government-assisted housing programs. You should be able to find these rules FOR YOUR PROGRAM. You can look in the following places:

• The PHA’s Annual Plan
• The PHA’s Admission and Occupancy Plan (ACOP)
• The lease for public housing
• The Administrative Plan for the Section 8 Voucher program
• The lease and/or house rules for all other government-assisted programs1100
• The PHA’s website for these plans
• By Asking PHA and/or owner for a copy as well.

WARNING: READ CAREFULLY

In the chart above, we summarize 4 situations where a Public Housing Authority (PHA) and the owners of federal government-assisted housing MUST reject you under law based on particular types of convictions.

PLEASE NOTE:

- These required (“mandatory”) bans apply only to SOME types of federal government-assisted housing, but not ALL types. There are government-assisted housing programs where these bans do not apply.
- Also, some of these required bans will last for the rest of your life, but others are only temporary bans.
- Refer back to PG. 402 for an overview of required vs. allowed bans.

SO READ CAREFULLY! Don’t assume the ban applies to you. Try to match your exact situation and conviction/criminal record with this chart to see how your criminal record will impact your ability to get into federal government-assisted housing.

DETAILED QUESTIONS & ANSWERS ABOUT CRIMINAL RECORD BANS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

Here we explain the information from the chart above in a question & answer format in much more detail. You will learn about the specifics of each of these criminal record bans in government-assisted housing. Later we explain how to challenge denials due to your criminal record, beginning on PG. 446.

WHAT BANS ARE REQUIRED IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING—FOR SPECIFIC TYPES OF CONVICTIONS AND SPECIFIC HOUSING PROGRAMS?

Here we explain the four bans that are required (“mandatory”) for SOME types of federal government-assisted housing programs, but not ALL. There might be government-assisted programs where these bans DO NOT APPLY. So please read carefully!
BAN 1: Methamphetamine production on federal government-assisted property → Lifetime ban from 3 federal government-assisted housing programs

Under federal law, PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing MUST PERMANENTLY DENY admission to an entire household to three of the federal government-assisted housing programs—(1) Public Housing, (2) the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher program, and (3) the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation program—if ANY MEMBER of the household has ever been convicted for the manufacture or production of methamphetamine ON THE PREMISES of any type of federal government-assisted housing. Because this rule is so specific, the lifetime ban applies to only a very small number of housing applicants.

Let’s break it down further. As you apply to a PHA for government-assisted housing, this lifetime ban only applies to you if someone in your household was:

1) Convicted (meaning found guilty in a court of law),
2) Of the manufacture or production of Methamphetamine, AND
3) The criminal activity took place on the premises (on the property) of any type of federal government-assisted housing.
4) Lastly, if you are applying to a government-assisted housing program that isn’t one of the 3 programs that PHAs run (again, those are Public Housing, the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher program, and the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation program), then this mandatory lifetime ban does NOT apply to you or your household. Instead, you should look at the catch-all ban on PG. 401 that is allowed, but not required.

I was denied by the PHA or the owner of government-assisted housing, but based on the information in this legal guide, I think it was a mistake or the required ban doesn’t apply to me. How do I challenge the denial?

If another assisted housing program—not one of the three listed above—tries to impose a lifetime ban on you due to your conviction for the manufacture of production of methamphetamine on the premises of federal government-assisted property, you can challenge the lifetime ban and present mitigating information (meaning facts that are specific to your case and circumstances showing you should not be denied the housing—see PG. 399).

• Go to PG. 450 to learn how to challenge a denial by asking the PHA for an informal review hearing.
• Go to PG. 417 to learn about what kinds of mitigating information you should include with your application, and as proof of mitigating circumstances & rehabilitation with any challenges you bring.
• If there was a mistake in the information the PHA or owner of the government-assisted property relied upon, you should immediately bring it to their attention.

Mistakes could include:

• Errors in your criminal records (see UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020)
• Even though you were on the premises of the federal government-assisted housing, you did not actually manufacture the drugs, but you were automatically denied housing anyway; OR
• Even though you were involved in the manufacturing of the methamphetamines, you were a victim of domestic violence that led to your involvement, and you shouldn’t be punished by the PHA.

102. When applying for admission. If an owner, who is not required by statute to impose a lifetime ban, seeks to impose one, an applicant may object to the policy as contrary to congressional intent as it goes beyond the statutory limits. C.F.R. § 3560.154(). If an owner rejects such an applicant, the applicant should challenge the lifetime ban and present information regarding mitigating circumstances or rehabilitation. Mitigating circumstances might include the fact that the applicant was on the premises but did not manufacture the drugs, or was involved in the manufacturing but was a victim of domestic violence. It may also include the fact that there has been a significant lapse of time between the offense and the application for admission with no other intervening criminal activity.
ROADMAP TO REENTRY

- BAN 2: Sex offense convictions requiring lifetime registration
  - Lifetime ban for almost all federal government-assisted housing programs

Under federal law, PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing MUST PERMANENTLY DENY admission to an entire household—to almost all federal government-assisted housing programs—if ANY MEMBER of the applicant household is required to be lifetime registered under any state’s sex offender registration program.\(^{103}\)

THIS REQUIRED BAN DOES NOT APPLY TO YOU if you are required to register as a sex offender for a temporary or limited amount of time. Again, the ban only applies if you are required to register as a sex offender in any state for the rest of your life. Unfortunately, PHAs and owners of government-assisted property will often mistakenly apply the ban to anyone registered as a sex offender.

EXCEPTION FOR CERTAIN TYPES OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROGRAMS (NO REQUIRED BAN): The other exception is that owners of two government-assisted housing programs—Low-Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) properties and Rural Development (RD) housing—are NOT REQUIRED to deny admission to a lifetime registered sex offender; they have discretion.\(^{104}\)

I was denied by the PHA or the owner of government-assisted housing because I am a registered sex offender, but based on the information in this legal guide, I think it was a mistake or the required ban doesn’t apply to me. How do I challenge the denial?

Some PHAs or owners misinterpret the rules that apply to sex offender registrants, and some apply their own criteria—which in the real world means that the PHA or owner will end up automatically banning a person who shouldn’t be automatically banned (an example of this would be if a PHA had a policy that permanently bans all people required to register on a state’s Sex Offender Registry list, even people who don’t have to register for their entire lifetime). If this is your situation, you can challenge the denial by asking the PHA for an informal review hearing (see PG. 450).

Only if you meet the legal definition of a lifetime registered sex offender can you be permanently denied federal government-assisted housing without any other consideration of your individual circumstances. Thus, if you do not have a lifetime sex offender registration requirement, the PHA should analyze the time, nature and circumstances of the offense, as appropriate for any other criminal activity (see PG. 392).\(^{105}\) As an applicant, you should also be allowed to show mitigating information and/or proof of your rehabilitation (see PG. 417 for explanations of what counts as mitigating information and proof of rehabilitation). For example, if you do not have to register as a sex offender for the rest of your lifetime, you should be able to establish that the criminal conduct was not violent, did not involve children, happened a long time ago, and that there have been no problems since the conviction.\(^{106}\)

---

\(^{103}\) 42 U.S.C. § 13663(a); 24 C.F.R. §§ 5.100 (definition of federally assisted housing), 5.856 (federally assisted housing in general), 882.518(a)(2) (Section 8 moderate rehabilitation), 766.204(a)(4) (public housing), 982.553(a)(2)(i) (voucher) (2007); Screening and Eviction for Drug Abuse and Other Criminal Activity—Final Rule, H 2002-22 (Oct. 29, 2002).

\(^{104}\) See 7 C.F.R. § 3560.154(j) (2007) (RD housing). There are no regulations for LIHTC properties requiring the denial of admission of a registered sex offender.

\(^{105}\) One could argue that the federal statute barring lifetime registered sex offenders preempts an expansion of that bar to other sex offenders. There are three general types of situations in which preemption may be established. One of the situations is that preemption may be inferred where the scheme of the federal legislation is so comprehensive that it creates the inference that Congress “left no room” for local regulation in that area. Cal. Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass’n v. Guerra, 479 U.S. 272, 281 (1987). Applying that standard, the area in question is eligibility for federally assisted housing and Congress has fully defined eligibility for federally assisted housing. Imposing an absolute lifetime bar when none is required is determining eligibility in an area that Congress has not left any room for local regulation. Success on such a claim may be complicated as the party seeking preemption has the burden of proof and the presumption is against preemption. Cipollone v. Ligget Group, 505 U.S. 504, 518 (1992).

• Go to PG. 450 to learn how to challenge a denial by asking the PHA for a review hearing.
• Go to PG. 417 to learn about what kinds of mitigating information and proof of rehabilitation you should include with your application, and/or with any challenges you bring.
• If there was a MISTAKE in the information the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing relied upon, you should immediately bring it to their attention. Mistakes could include errors in your criminal records (see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020, which discusses how to fix errors in your record).

IMPORTANT: There are other restrictions on where people who must register as sex offenders can live under California state law. It is VERY IMPORTANT to check your state and local laws regarding these requirements to know if they apply to you, and how it will affect where you can live. See PG. 392 of this HOUSING CHAPTER and PG. 172 of the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER to understand additional restrictions on where 290 registrants can live in California.

➤ BAN 3: PAST EVICTION FOR DRUG-RELATED ACTIVITY ON FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED PROPERTY → MINIMUM 3-YEAR BAN FOR THREE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROGRAMS

Under federal law, PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing MUST DENY admission to an entire household to three of the government-assisted housing programs—(1) Public Housing, (2) the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher program, and (3) the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation program—if ANY MEMBER of the household has ever been EVICTED from any federal government-assisted housing program or property because of drug-related criminal activity. This ban must last for a minimum of 3 years, starting from the date of eviction, but PHAs and owners can choose to extend it.

PLEASE NOTE: This ban only applies to the three types of federal government-assisted housing mentioned above. It does NOT apply to the following types of government-assisted housing programs:
• Low-Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) properties and Rural Development (RD) housing;
• Housing applicants who were evicted for drug-related activity from any other type of housing or program that does not receive federal government money.

sexual abuse for failing to protect a child from such abuse); see also Housing Rights Watch, No Easy Answers: Sex Offender Laws In The US (2007).

1108 4 C.F.R. §§ 5.852(d) (federally assisted housing), 960.203(c)(3)(ii), 966.41(1)(5)(vii)(E) (public housing). HUD apparently believes that the statute sets a floor of three years, and that PHAs and owners are not violating the statute if they expand the time period. The HUD explanation in the regulations is that “[s]ince the intent of the statute was to strengthen protections against admitting persons whose presence in assisted housing might be deleterious, HUD does not interpret this new provision as a constraint on the screening authority that owners and PHAs already had.” Screening and Eviction for Drug Abuse and Other Criminal Activity—Final Rule, 66 Fed. Reg. 28,776, 28,779 (May 24, 2001).
1109 4 C.F.R. §§ 5.850(a) (excludes rural development housing), 5.854(a) (federally assisted housing in general), 882.518(a)(1) (Section 8 moderate rehabilitation), 960.204(a)(1) (public housing), 982.553(a)(1) (voucher); Screening and Eviction for Drug Abuse and Other Criminal Activity—Final Rule, H 2002-22 (Oct. 29, 2002) ¶ VI (HUD Notice applicable to HUD-assisted project-based housing, excluding Section 8 moderate rehabilitation housing and project-based vouchers or certificates). The rule is also not applicable to housing assisted with S+C, SHP or HOPWA funding.
IMPORTANT EXCEPTION TO THE RULE: PHA or owner may admit your household if the person whose drug-related criminal activity led to the eviction later goes on to complete an approved, supervised drug rehabilitation program, OR if your circumstances have changed. This is an important exception, because it gives you the power to change your situation!

By taking and completing an approved drug rehabilitation program, you could become eligible for housing again, or if your circumstances have changed. “Changed circumstances” could mean:

• The household member with the drug-related conviction has died or is in prison, and won’t return to the household.

• The applicant household has had no contact for a period of time and does not know the whereabouts of the former household member who was evicted for the drug-related activity.

• There could be other reasons the family should be allowed back into the housing if the person with the conviction is no longer in the picture or has been rehabilitated.

My application was denied by the PHA or the owner of government-assisted housing because of a past eviction from federal government-assisted property for drug-related criminal activity, but I think it was a mistake or that the ban is unreasonably long (more than 3 years). How do I challenge the denial?

• You can challenge a denial because the ban is unreasonably long or because there was a mistake in the information the PHA or owner of the government-assisted property relied on. Go to PG. 450 to learn how to challenge a denial by asking the PHA for an informal review hearing.

• Go to PG. 417 to learn about what kinds of mitigating information you should include with your application, and as proof of mitigating circumstances & rehabilitation with any challenges you bring.

• If there was a mistake in the information the PHA or owner of the government-assisted property relied upon, you should immediately bring it to their attention. Mistakes could include errors in your criminal records (see CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020).

A NOTE ABOUT CHALLENGING UNREASONABLY LONG BANs FOR PAST DRUG-RELATED ACTIVITY ON FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED PROPERTY:

If you were convicted of a less serious drug-related crime, such as mere possession, OR you have been rehabilitated (and can show you have changed, done classes, or improved yourself), these are all good reasons to challenge a ban that is significantly longer than 3 years. If you can, talk to a lawyer or advocate! See General APPENDIX X on PG. of this guide for a list of legal aid providers in California. A lawyer can explain how to gather proof that shows the housing ban shouldn’t apply to you for more than 3 years. Again, go to PG. 407 to learn about the procedure for challenging a denial, and asking the PHA for an informal review hearing.

105 4 C.F.R. §§ 5.850(a) (excludes rural development housing), 5.854(a) (federally assisted housing in general), 882.518(a)(1)(i) (Section 8 moderate rehabilitation), 960.204(a)(1) (public housing), 982.553(a)(1)(i) (voucher); Screening and Eviction for Drug Abuse and Other Criminal Activity—Final Rule, H 2002-22 (Oct. 29, 2002) ¶ VI (HUD Notice applicable to HUD-assisted project-based housing, excluding Section 8 moderate rehabilitation housing and project-based vouchers or certificates). The rule is also not applicable to housing assisted with S+C, SHP, or HOPWA funding.

106 2 U.S.C. § 1366(a); 24 C.F.R. § 5.854(a)(2). The rehabilitation should not be limited to supervised rehabilitation programs but also ought to recognize self-help programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous. See, e.g., Rules & Regulations, Dep’t of Hous. & Urban Dev., 66 Fed. Reg. 28,776, 28,785 (May 24, 2001) (codified at 24 C.F.R. § 5.852(c)(1)).

107 842 U.S.C. § 1366(a); 24 C.F.R. § 5.854(a)(2). The rehabilitation should not be limited to supervised rehabilitation programs but also ought to recognize self-help programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous. See, e.g., Rules & Regulations, Dep’t of Hous. & Urban Dev., 66 Fed. Reg. 28,776, 28,785 (May 24, 2001) (codified at 24 C.F.R. § 5.852(c)(1)).

108 Preemption may be inferred where the scheme of the federal legislation is so comprehensive that it creates the inference that Congress “left no room” for local regulation in that area. Cal. Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass’n v. Guerra, 479 U.S. 272, 281 (1987). Applying that standard, Congress has fully defined eligibility for federally assisted housing. Imposing an absolute lifetime bar when none is required is determining eligibility in an area that Congress has not left any room for local regulation. Cipollone v. Ligget Group, 505 U.S. 504, 518 (1992).
BAN 4: CURRENT ILLEGAL DRUG USE → REQUIRED BAN WHILE ILLEGAL DRUG USE IS “CURRENT”

PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing MUST DENY admission to an entire household if ANY MEMBER of the household is currently using illegal drugs.\(^{1114}\)

QUESTIONS RELATED TO CURRENT DRUG USE:

When does drug use or alcohol abuse disqualify me from getting into federal government-assisted housing?

Current drug use on or near the property by any tenant, household member, person under the tenant’s control, or guest will disqualify you.\(^{1115}\) “Current” means you used illegal drugs “recently enough to justify a reasonable belief” that you’re still using. In their written policies, PHAs and owners should spell out what they define as “recent,” and must abide by that policy. Read more about “recentness” requirements on PG. 479. To learn about how your past addiction could be a protected disability which allows you to ask for a “reasonable accommodation”—which means you can ask the PHA or owner of government-assisted housing to lift or relax this ban (see Appendix D, PG. 477).

How would PHA or owner find out about my alcohol or drug use?

A PHA or owner could learn about your drug or alcohol use directly from you (in your application) or from access to records about your criminal history or drug treatment. To learn more about how a PHA or owner accesses records related to your alcohol or drug use, read Access to Your Drug/Alcohol Records for Government-Assisted Housing on PG. 429.

Should I try to hide my current illegal drug use from the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing?

No, you should be honest on the application. You can be denied the government-assisted housing—or later evicted (kicked out/terminated from the program)—for intentionally lying during the application process.

Do PHAs or owners of government-assisted housing consider whether I have participated in or completed a drug or alcohol rehabilitation program to let me into a housing program?

Generally, they don’t have to, but PHAs and owners may consider that you have participated in or have completed a drug rehabilitation program, and may ask you for documentation that you are not currently using illegal drugs.\(^{1116}\) Specifically, you may have to provide documentation of your drug rehabilitation with your application if you want to avoid or reduce the 3+ year ban on admitting people who were previously evicted from federally-assisted housing due to a drug-related crime.\(^{1117}\)

Can PHAs or owners of government-assisted housing screen me by using or requiring a medical exam or drug test?

No. PHAs and owners may not require you to undergo any type of physical exam or medical testing in order to admit you to a housing program. This includes testing for HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis (Tb), pregnancy, and, presumably, drug/alcohol screening.\(^{1118}\)

\(^{1117}\) See PG. 47 for information about federally-assisted housing programs that have a 3-year ban on someone who was evicted from housing for a drug-related offense. In sum: For certain federally-assisted housing programs, including (1) public housing, (2) the voucher program, and (3) project-based Section 8 housing, there is a mandatory 3-year ban on admission for families, if any member of the applicant’s household has ever been evicted for “federally assisted housing” for drug-related criminal activity. 42 U.S.C. § 13661(a). However, this ban does not apply to LIHTC and RD housing. See PG. 48. This rule also does not apply to applicants who were evicted for drug-related activity from non-federally assisted housing. See PG. 48.
\(^{1118}\) See HUD, Occupancy Requirements Of Subsidized Multifamily Housing Programs ¶ 4-8(B)(1) (rev. November 2013) (Prohibited Screening Criteria). Typically this provision is used to prohibit owners from inquiring into an applicant’s medical/physical condition, such as pregnancy, AIDS or TB. But it also could be used to argue that an owner may not request drug testing.
 IF APPLYING TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING, IT IS VERY IMPORTANT FOR ANYONE WITH A CRIMINAL RECORD TO READ THE FOLLOWING SECTION ***

WHAT BANS ARE ALLOWED, BUT NOT LEGALLY REQUIRED IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING—THE “CATCH-ALL” CATEGORY OF BANS THAT APPLY TO ALL PEOPLE WITH CRIMINAL RECORDS?

For the many of you who do not fall into one of the required (“mandatory”) bans discussed above, it’s more likely you could get denied government-assisted housing because the Public Housing Authority (PHA) or the owner of the government-assisted housing has decided based on your criminal record that you currently “pose a risk to the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the property by other residents, the owner, or the PHA staff or agents/contractors.”

This is a “catch-all” category and allows the PHA or owner of government-assisted property to deny applicants with criminal histories more generally. They are allowed to consider a lot of information, including past convictions (even convictions you had expunged); arrests (even those that never led to a conviction); and in some cases your drug treatment records. See PG. 429 for detailed information about what criminal records a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or owner of government-assisted property can access about you.

REMEMBER THAT THESE “CATCH-ALL” BANS ARE NOT REQUIRED:
This “catch-all” category is NOT a required ban. The PHA or owner is allowed to exclude you only if they can show that your criminal history poses a current threat to the health, safety, or peace of other residents, the owner, or PHA staff or agents/contractors. It’s recommended that they consider mitigating information and proof of your rehabilitation—and in the case of the Public Housing program, the PHA MUST consider such additional information!

HOW CAN I FIND OUT THE CRIMINAL RECORD POLICIES OF MY LOCAL PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OF THE OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

Each local PHA and owner of government-assisted housing will have different rules about what criminal history information they will ignore and what they will consider. By law, the PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing MUST put their policies in writing and make them available to applicants.

The rules and policies of each local PHA and owner of government-assisted housing MUST not violate the legal protections discussed on PG. 429. Furthermore, the PHA must follow its own rules and policies.

You may want to consider talking to an advocate/lawyer about whether or not a particular PHA’s policies to exclude people with certain criminal records could be violating the law. (See PG. 1190 for a list of legal aid providers across California.)

---

119 24 C.F.R. § 982.553
UNDER THE “CATCH-ALL” BAN, CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING DENY ME FOR A CONVICTION THAT I HAD “EXPUNGED”?

Yes. A PHA or owner of government-assisted housing may consider expunged convictions in deciding whether to admit you into a government-assisted housing program or unit.

This also means, for this application, when you are asked about any past convictions, you should list even those that have been expunged. If you lie or don’t include them, the PHA or owner can reject you during the housing application process just for lying OR the PHA or owner could evict you later if it finds out that you intentionally lied during the application.

Remember, The PHA’s or owner’s right to reject you based on your criminal record (including expunged convictions) is limited by federal and state law. Go to PG. 406 to learn more about these protections and limitations on the kinds of denials that PHAs and owners can make.

For more information on getting a conviction expunged, see the CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020.

UNDER THE “CATCH-ALL” BAN, CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER DENY ME FROM GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING FOR ARRESTS THAT DID NOT RESULT IN A CONVICTION?

Yes, but they will likely need prove more than just a past arrest. A PHA or owner may consider arrests that never led to a conviction in deciding whether to admit you into a government-assisted housing program or unit—but should NOT make its decision based on an arrest alone. Some PHAs or owners of government-assisted housing might ask about arrests, and some might not. But whatever the policy, the PHA or owner MUST be able to show that the conduct underlying the arrest is sufficient reason to deny your housing application (because such conduct could threaten the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the building by other residents, the owner, or PHA staff or its agents/contractors). Generally, this means the PHA or owner of government-assisted housing will need other forms of proof (beyond just the arrest record) that you pose such a risk—because, of course, an arrest is NOT legal proof that you actually committed a crime (unlike a conviction, which does show guilt).

If you were denied government-assisted housing based on arrests alone (without more proof), you can challenge the denial. There is some indication from the courts that this practice may violate fair housing and anti-discrimination laws and/or violate your right to due process. We suggest that you contact a housing attorney or legal aid organization that can help you—see the list of legal aid providers on PG. Whether or not you can find a lawyer to help you, you should try to get familiar with the procedure for challenging a PHA’s or government-assisted owner’s decision to deny you. For details on this process, see PG. 407.

UNDER THE “CATCH-ALL” BAN, WILL MY PARTICIPATION IN A PRE-TRIAL INTERVENTION OR DIVERSION PROGRAM MATTER?

If the program shows up on your background check as a conviction, then the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing can consider it, and possibly deny you. SO it depends on how it comes up on your background check.

• If you are placed into a pre-trial intervention program and you do NOT have to plead guilty in order to participate, then a background check report will probably show the filing of a case, but no conviction while you are participating in the program. If you successfully complete the program, then your case will be dismissed without a conviction ever having been recorded. Therefore, it CANNOT show up as a conviction in a background check, because it never was one. If there are errors in your background check, the PHA or owner must give you an opportunity to correct them.

• If instead you are placed in a pre-trial intervention program that requires you to plead guilty, then this guilty plea will probably appear as a conviction on a background check report while you are still participating in the program. If you successfully complete the program, your guilty plea should be automatically withdrawn and those records sealed, after which a private background check company CANNOT report this as a conviction. If there are errors in your background check, the PHA or owner must give you an opportunity to correct them.

To learn more about how private background checks work, see PG. 426.

UNDER THE “CATCH-ALL” BAN, CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING DENY MY APPLICATION BECAUSE OF THE CONVICTIONS OF FAMILY MEMBERS WHO LIVE WITH ME?

Yes. You can be excluded from federal government-assisted housing for the convictions of family members who are part of the current household.\textsuperscript{1137}

If the person no longer lives with you, you should NOT be denied because of their convictions, but you may have to prove that he or she is not part of the household anymore.\textsuperscript{1136}

YOUR RIGHTS AGAINST ILLEGAL DENIALS FROM GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING BECAUSE OF YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD

HOW DOES THE LAW PROTECT ME FROM BEING DENIED GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

The Public Housing Authority (PHA) or owner of government-assisted housing must follow certain laws and rules when considering your past convictions and criminal history information. They may only reject you for criminal activity that threatens the health, safety, or peace of other residents or staff AND the criminal activity must be “reasonably recent.”

1. PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing may only reject you for certain kinds of criminal activity—not everything.

A PHA or owner may only reject you for criminal activity that is:

• Currently posing a threat to the health, safety or peace of other residents;
• Currently posing a threat to the health, safety or peace of the owner or local PHA staff or agents/contractors;
• Drug-related;
• Violent.

2. PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing may only reject you for criminal activity that is reasonably recent.

A PHA or owner of federal government-assisted housing can only reject you due to criminal activity that is CURRENT or is ”REASONABLY RECENT.”

The length of any ban based on criminal records cannot be “unconscionable”—meaning unreasonable and excessive, drastic beyond what’s really needed, or extremely unfair.

What is considered a “reasonably recent period”?

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which oversees most federally-funded housing programs (such as Public Housing, the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher program, and others),

WHAT DOES “CURRENTLY POSING A THREAT” MEAN?

If you are denied government-assisted housing by a PHA or owner because of criminal activity that DOES NOT threaten anyone’s health, safety, peace, or property, then you have a strong argument to challenge the denial. Go to PG. 407 of this chapter to learn how. Many advocates argue that certain crimes—like prostitution, DUls, & shoplifting—should not disqualify you because they do not pose any threat to others. The PHA or owner must base his/her decision to deny you on a “reasonable belief” that the criminal activity would threaten the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of others.

1139 42 U.S.C § 13661(c); 24 C.F.R. §§ 5.855(a), 882.518(b), 982.533(a)(2)(ii).
1140 See 42 U.S.C. § 1437a(b)(9) (definition of drug-related criminal activity); 24 C.F.R. § 5.100.
1141 The regulations define “violent criminal activity” as “any criminal activity that has as one of its elements the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force substantial enough to cause, or be reasonably likely to cause, serious bodily injury or property damage.” 24 C.F.R. § 5.100.
1142 See Madison, Wis. Code Of Ordinances Ch. 39.03(1) and (4) (Renumbered by Ord. 12,039, Adopted 2-17-98) (ordinance prohibiting discrimination against individuals with a criminal record is applicable for most offenses two years after the individual has completed or complied with the penalty).
1143 Thomas v. Hous. Auth. of Little Rock, 282 F. Supp. 575, 580 (E.D. Ark 1967) (unwed mother admission policy is drastic beyond reasonable necessity); see also United States v. Robinson, 721 F. Supp. 1541, 1544-45 (forfeiture of tenant’s apartment and her federal housing assistance payments, which were the only means by which the defendant could provide shelter for her children, was disproportionately severe to the offense of knowingly and intentionally distributing a mixture containing cocaine base); In the Matter of Elaine Sicardo v. Peter Smith, etc. No. 2007-03609, Index No. 219067/06 (N.Y. App. Div. Second Jud. Dept., March 18, 2008) (penalty in termination case so disproportionate to the offense as to be shocking to one’s sense of fairness).
suggested that “5 years may be reasonable for serious offenses” (like making or dealing drugs) and suggests that PHAs and owners should set reasonable time periods for different types of criminal activity in their WRITTEN POLICIES.

HUD has also suggested that a conviction for illegal drug use that happened 1 year ago could still be considered “recent.”

3. If your criminal conviction was the result of a disability (like past substance abuse or mental illness), you can ask for an exception to the criminal record policy (called a “reasonable accommodation”).

If you can prove that your conviction was the result of a disability (which includes past drug addiction and mental illness), then you can ask the PHA or owner of government-assisted housing for an exception from their ban as a “reasonable accommodation” to accommodate your disability and give you equal opportunity to access the housing. Read more about how to do this in Appendix D, PG. 477.

IMPROVING YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING INTO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING—OFFERING PROOF OF REHABILITATION & MITIGATING FACTORS

This section explains the types of information and evidence that you can show to strengthen your application to a PHA or government-assisted housing. You can also provide this type of information and evidence to challenge a denial from government-assisted housing. (Learn more about challenging denials from government-assisted housing beginning on PG. 446.)

WHAT IS “PROOF OF MITIGATING FACTORS?”

“Proof of mitigating factors” is extra information and evidence that explains that the PHA or landlord should not view the offense or conduct as negatively as it might otherwise. You can submit things like:

- A period of time has passed since your conviction or criminal activity (the crime was not very recent);
- You were convicted at a young age;
- The nature and extent of your conduct are less involved (like showing you were not as involved in the offense/conduct as one might think);

Reg. 34,660, 34,688 (July 3, 1995) (codified at 24 C.F.R. § 982.553(b)) (HUD regulations formerly stated that to deny admission, drug use or possession should have occurred within prior year).
ROADMAP TO REENTRY

- Physical or emotional abuse, coercion, or untreated abuse or mental illness that led to the conviction (and any of these factors might have led to the crime/offense);
- Disabilities that you or a family member has that might have led to the conviction; and
- Any additional context for the conviction (other factors that would help explain the circumstances you were in when the offense occurred and why it should be viewed with more leniency).

WHAT IS “PROOF OF REHABILITATION?”

Proof of rehabilitation is information and evidence that you have changed and improved since the time of your criminal offense or conduct. You can submit things like:

- Certificates or letters from supervising officers, or court documents showing completion of parole, probation, or other supervision;
- Letters of support/recommendations from employers or others (see a list of suggestions for letters of support on PG. 420);
- Certificates or diplomas for education or training you’ve received;
- Letters or certificates for completing alcohol/drug treatment programs; and
- Letters or certificates for completion of rehabilitation programs.

DO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROGRAMS HAVE TO CONSIDER MITIGATING CIRCUMSTANCES & EVIDENCE OF REHABILITATION?

Generally, programs are not required to consider mitigating circumstances and evidence of rehabilitation, but they are encouraged to do so. Only the Public Housing program—run by your local Public Housing Authority (PHA)—MUST consider mitigating circumstances (that is in cases where the PHA has a criminal record ban in place that is not required by law—see PG. 401 for more information on such bans that are allowed, but not required).

Good news! THIS GIVES YOU AN OPPORTUNITY TO EXPLAIN THE SITUATION AND PRESENT FACTS IN A WAY THAT WILL PUT YOUR RECORD IN THE BEST POSSIBLE LIGHT—WHICH WILL IMPROVE YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING ACCEPTED.

All PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing are ENCOURAGED to look at the following (and for the Public Housing program, PHAs must look at the following):

1148 24 C.F.R. § 960.203(d); HUD, Public Housing Occupancy Guidebook, ¶¶ 4.6, 4.8, 4.10 (rev. November 2013); see also Lancaster v. Scranton Hous. Auth., 479 F. Supp. 134, 138 (M.D. Pa. 1979), aff’d mem., 620 F.2d 288 (3d Cir. 1980) (applicant has burden of putting forth such evidence). In court cases involving eviction or termination of benefits through the government-assisted housing program, courts have sent cases back for review because of the PHA or landlord’s failure to consider mitigating circumstances. See Hicks v. Dakota Cnty. Comm. Dev. Agency, No. A06-1302, 2007 WL2416872 (Minn. App., Aug. 28, 2007) (“The permissive nature of the [voucher] regulation does not preclude a determination that mitigating circumstances are an important factor that must be considered in a particular case.”); Oakwood Plaza Apartments v. 4) The effect that denial of admission would have on the rest of your family;
5) The effect that denial of admission would have on the community;
6) The extent to which you have taken responsibility for your actions and taken steps to prevent or mitigate bad conduct in the future;
7) Evidence of rehabilitation;
8) Mitigating circumstances relating to your disability or the disability of any family member; and
9) Evidence of your family’s participation or willingness to participate in social services, reentry support, or counseling programs.

WHEN COULD I SHOW PROOF OF MITIGATING CIRCUMSTANCES AND REHABILITATION TO THE PHA OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

IF YOU PROVIDE THIS INFORMATION UPFRONT, you will likely have a better shot of getting into the government-assisted housing program. Many government-assisted housing programs that are not legally required to ask you for mitigating or rehabilitative evidence won’t... so be proactive!

Similarly, if you are TRYING TO REJOIN a government-assisted housing unit, be prepared to explain why you should be accepted, despite your record. Because the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing is likely to run a background check on you, you should be prepared—if asked—to honestly disclose your criminal record AND to demonstrate mitigating circumstances and evidence of your rehabilitation (see PG. 417).

Consider giving the PHA or owner additional information about all the benefits of having you join your family and how your joining may positively affect the stability of the entire housing development. These benefits depend on the facts of your specific situation. For example, you might include information about your relationship with the family members currently living in the household, especially a positive relationship with any children or a supportive relationship between you and your spouse. Another example is your potential to increase the income of the family unit already living there, so that you will stabilize the rent paid to the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing. To learn more about joining family and friends—in either private or government-assisted housing—see PG. 437.

2002), and letter from Michael Liu, Assistant Secretary of HUD to Public Housing Directors (June 9, 2002), both letters are available at: http://www.nhlp.org/html/new/index.htm (in the eviction context HUD has urged PHAs to be guided by “compassion and common sense”).

24 C.F.R. § 960.203(d)(ii). This last factor is listed in the context of public housing but could be considered with respect to applications for other federally assisted housing.
SPECIFIC TYPES OF EVIDENCE THAT SHOW PROOF OF MITIGATING CIRCUMSTANCES & REHABILITATION TO STRENGTHEN YOUR APPLICATION TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

IMPORTANT TIP AS YOU GATHER HELPFUL EVIDENCE OF YOUR REHABILITATION & MITIGATING CIRCUMSTANCES: Try to get at least one item from the following list, and as many of these forms of proof as you are able. If you cannot do so, you will have to work very hard—and creatively—at getting other evidence to overcome a criminal record ban or challenge a denial to government-assisted housing.

WHAT SPECIFIC TYPES OF EVIDENCE WILL STRENGTHEN MY HOUSING APPLICATION TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

Provide proof of your rehabilitation and mitigating factors as explained above! Letters of support and certificates of successful completion of programs that improved your life are one of the key ways can help strengthen your application to government-assisted housing!

Make sure that the letters you get are detailed and really, really positive about you! A weak, impersonal letter is almost as useless as no letter at all.

Below are some places you should consider getting letters of support or other documents proving your participation:

➢ EVIDENCE FROM SCHOOL:

Show that you stayed in school for at least 6 months and have a positive school record.

• Proof could be in a transcript with good grades, or a letter from a teacher or school administrator.

• Our suggestion: If school administrators or teachers can say the following things truthfully, these letters should say that you:
  o Were in school for at least six months;
  o Had great attendance and punctuality;
  o Had excellent grades; and
  o Are motivated to learn and get ahead in life.

➢ EVIDENCE FROM JOB TRAINING PROGRAMS:

Show that you stayed in a job-training program for at least 6 months and have a positive record.

• Proof could be through a letter from a program supervisor or administrator.

• Our suggestion: If true, ask your teacher or the program administrator to say that you:
  o Participated for at least six months;
  o Had great attendance and punctuality;
  o Are motivated to learn and get ahead in life;
  o Have learned useful skills to apply to a job; and o Get along well with others.
EVIDENCE OF EMPLOYMENT:

Show that you kept a job for at least 6 months and had a positive work record:

- Proof could be a letter from a supervisor or other person at the job.
- Our suggestion: These letters should not just state how long you have worked. If possible, they should also say:
  - How well you have performed your job;
  - Whether you have been promoted;
  - That you have an excellent attendance record and come to work on time; and
  - That you are motivated, responsible, and get along well with others.
- If you worked while you were incarcerated and can get a good letter from a supervisor, do it! This can be useful, especially if you went above and beyond what was required by the job.

EVIDENCE OF YOUR PARTICIPATION IN COUNSELING OR SOCIAL SERVICE PROGRAMS:

Show that you spent at least 6 months in counseling or another social service program to deal with the problem that led you into criminal behavior. If you were in drug treatment or had a drug problem, you might be required to provide a clean drug test. You also have to show that you have done well in the program.

- Proof could be a letter from your counselor, therapist, or doctor.
- Our suggestion: These letters should do a lot more than simply state the dates you were in treatment and the fact that you completed treatment. If your counselors in social service, mental health, and/or alcohol and drug programs can say the following things truthfully, then they should also say that you:
  - Had great attendance;
  - Had positive drug tests for at least 12 months (and provide the test results);
  - Showed excellent motivation and desire to change;
  - Participated fully in programs;
  - Got along well with others;
  - Understand the causes of your past behaviors and are committed to positive growth;
  - Are not a risk to the safety of others; and
  - No longer hang out with the same peers that got you into trouble.

PROOF OF A DISABILITY:

If you have any type of disability that prevents you from going to school or working, then it can help to show any programs you have participated in to get support for your disability. If the disability is a past drug or alcohol addiction (NOT a current one), or a mental health issue, it could be helpful to show at least six months of counseling, such as mental health treatment or drug or alcohol treatment.

Proof of this can be your counselor’s letter explaining that you are unable to work (see above). You can also try to get any other proof of your disability, such as a letter from your doctor, saying that you cannot work or go to school because of your disability. If you are on SSI or SSDI public benefits, you can also provide proof (learn more about SSI on PG. 567, and more about SSDI on PG. 561 in the PUBLIC BENEFITS CHAPTER). If you cannot show at least six months of counseling, work, school, or job training, then you will have a much harder time convincing the PHA to find you eligible. However, if your disability is so severe that you cannot participate in ANY of these activities (for example, you are homebound), a letter explaining this can be helpful.

PROOF OF EXPUNGEMENT, DISMISSAL, PARDON, OR CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION FOR A PAST CONVICTION:

For more information about whether you qualify for some form of expungement (like a dismissal, pardon, or Certificate of Rehabilitation), and how to get these, go to the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.

OTHER HELPFUL EVIDENCE:

While PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing are not as persuaded by the following types of evidence, they can still be helpful if the support letters are very detailed, very positive, and make you look like you are doing ALL YOU CAN DO to move your life in a positive direction and be a productive member of society. Consider the following other forms of helpful evidence to include in your application to government-assisted housing (OR at a hearing challenging a denial):

- Certificates from programs in or after prison, like anger management and drug or alcohol treatment. Remember that any programs in prison count!
- Letter from your Parole or Probation Officer: Our suggestion—If your Probation or Parole Officer can say the following things truthfully, ask him/her to comment on your:
  - Positive drug tests for at least 12 months;
  - Positive outlook;
  - Compliance with all the requirements of parole or probation; and
  - Exceptional motivation.
- Letters from clergy: Our suggestion—These letters are most helpful if they show that you volunteer and play a leadership role in your community.
- Letters from landlords or building superintendents. Our suggestion—Ask them to say that you:
  - Always paid your rent on time;
  - Respected your neighbors; and
  - Treated the property well.
- Letters from neighbors: Our suggestion—They should discuss what a good neighbor you are—for example, that you are quiet, respectful, and/or helpful to the building or community.
- Letters from your volunteer work: Our suggestion—Have you helped out at your children’s school? At their daycare center? Have you been a mentor to a child? Helped a senior citizen? Volunteered in any other way? Get a letter saying that you:
  - Are responsible;
  - Have made a major contribution; and/or
  - Are dedicated to your volunteer work.
  - Also get a letter from anyone you have helped. Have them say what an important role you played for them. Ask the person to be specific!
- Letters from people you have helped: Our suggestion—It can be very moving to read a letter from someone whose life you have touched in a positive way. Have you helped someone through your church? In your neighborhood? Through work?
• Proof about your children’s successes: Our suggestion—if your children have done impressive things, highlight that your parenting had something to do with it. Examples of what you might give are:
  - Letter from your child’s teacher about his/her great work or good grades, emphasizing your role in encouraging your child to do his/her best, making sure your child does his/her homework, etc.
  - Letter from your child’s coach in sports—similar to the letter from a teacher.

What about getting support letters from family?

While it is always nice to have support from your family, these letters are not as helpful because the PHA and/or owner of government-assisted housing assumes that your family members would write anything to help you get the housing. You can certainly include such letters if you like, but letters from people outside your family will have a bigger impact.

IF I CAN SHOW THE PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) THAT I REALLY NEED THE HOUSING, WILL THAT HELP MY APPLICATION?

If you need the housing badly due to a disability or because you are homeless, you should let the PHA know, as those needs might help your application to be processed faster.

Beyond these situations, however, information about how you really need the housing or the fact that you can’t afford other housing in the area won’t hurt or help you because it’s usually not enough of a reason to overcome your criminal record. If you’re not sure, you can go ahead and mention the need in the application.

SPECIAL NOTE FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES & SPECIAL NEEDS:

If the housing unit has unique characteristics that you need, you should request that the unit be kept open while your application is being reviewed, especially if you are challenging a denial of your application. This means that the PHA or owner agrees not to rent the unit to someone else until your application is decided. You wouldn’t want to win the right to live in the unit, just to have it lost to another renter while you challenge the unlawful denial. A PHA or owner will balance such a request with the need to rent vacant units. Go to PG. 391 to learn more about getting into housing if the crime you committed was caused by a disability (like mental illness or past addiction).
IV. ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS AS YOU APPLY FOR HOUSING

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• What could show up on a background check (also called a “tenant report”) for housing
• What private landlords can and cannot see and consider from a background check/tenant report
• What Public Housing Authorities (PHAs) and owners of government-assisted housing can and cannot see and consider from a background check/tenant report

AN OVERVIEW OF THE TYPES OF CRIMINAL RECORDS THAT COULD SHOW UP AS YOU APPLY FOR HOUSING

WHAT CRIMINAL RECORDS COULD SHOW UP AS I APPLY FOR ANY TYPE OF HOUSING?

Here are three major categories of records that might tell a private landlord, Public Housing Authority (PHA), or owner of government-assisted housing something about your criminal history:

(1) CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORDS:
These include: government-produced criminal records; publicly available court records of cases involving you; police and law enforcement records including arrest records; reports produced by private background check and tenant-screening companies (see #2: “BACKGROUND CHECKS/ TENANT REPORTS” below); Internet research; the newspaper; and/or information received directly from you—through an application form or by asking you. Learn more about where your criminal records come from in the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.

(2) BACKGROUND CHECKS/ “TENANT REPORTS”:
A private landlord, PHA, or government-assisted owner will MOST LIKELY get a copy of your background check from a private company—and when it’s for a housing provider, the background check report is often called a “tenant report.” Tenant reports show credit information, employment history, certain criminal history information, entries in sex offender registries or other public databases, driving records, interviews with people who know you, and more. These reports are created and provided by private background check companies and/or credit bureaus. (See PG. 426 to better understand the rules about getting background checks, and what information can be considered for housing.)

(3) DRUG OR ALCOHOL TREATMENT RECORDS:
These are documents that show your enrollment in, participation in, and completion of any drug or alcohol treatment programs. In some cases, a PHA or owner of government-assisted housing, may be able to get records about your past drug or alcohol treatment, BUT A REGULAR PRIVATE LANDLORD CANNOT GET THESE RECORDS.1153

DOES THIS CHAPTER COVER WHAT CAN AND CANNOT SHOW UP IN MY CREDIT REPORT?
No, not really. As a general note, whenever you apply to ANY type of housing—whether you’re applying to private housing (run by a private landlord) OR to government-assisted housing (through a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or directly to an owner of government-assisted housing)—all of these people and agencies CAN access your credit report, which is different from your criminal records, but might be combined in a “tenant report” (which is just a background for housing).

Credit reports include information about your past finances and credit history, such as whether you have a history of paying bills on time. Credit reports also show whether past credit problems have ended in a bankruptcy or a court proceeding for failing to pay your rent on time (called an “eviction” or an “unlawful detainer” under law). A credit report shows ONLY credit information, NOT criminal history information. We included some very general rules about credit reports in Appendix F, PG. 486 of this chapter, but these rules are only a summary. This Chapter is focused on how criminal records come up as you apply for housing, not past credit issues.

CAN A PRIVATE LANDLORD, PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA), OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING CHARGE ME A FEE FOR RUNNING A BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT ON ME?
It depends on who is running the background check. Neither PHAs nor owners of federal government-assisted housing can charge you any fees for criminal background checks.1155 The rule is different if you are applying for private housing from a private landlord—private landlords can charge you a fee. See more on PG. 456.

ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS AS YOU APPLY FOR PRIVATE HOUSING

HOW PRIVATE LANDLORDS LEARN ABOUT YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD

HOW DO PRIVATE LANDLORDS LEARN ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

A private landlord can learn about your criminal record from any of the following sources:

- Private background checks (also called “tenant reports”) (see the next question for more information);
- Publicly available court records of cases involving you;
- Internet research;
- The newspaper; and/or
- Information received directly from you—through an application form or by asking you.

See also the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020, for a detailed explanation of the many public places that your criminal history information is stored, and how to correct mistakes.

YOUR RIGHTS WHEN A PRIVATE LANDLORD RUNS A CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECK

As an applicant to private housing, you have legal rights related to the information that comes up in a private background check, and how a private landlord may use it. The law protects you by making it illegal for certain types of information to be included in a criminal background check (also called a “tenant report,” or in California, a “consumer report”) on you. But there are a lot of laws that limit what a private background check company creating a tenant report for a landlord can share with them.

WHAT MUST A PRIVATE LANDLORD DO IF THEY WANT TO GET A BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT ON ME?

Under state and federal law, you have the right to the following protections if a private landlord runs a background check on you:

1) The Landlord Must Give You “Notice” & Get Written Permission to Run a Background Check: This means that you must receive a written document (“notice”) from the landlord saying that s/he wishes to conduct a background check on you. The landlord must get your written permission before getting the background check.

2) Give the Applicant a Copy of the Background Check: Within 3 days of receiving the background check report, the landlord must provide you with a copy. In California, you also have the right to request a copy of your report.

What information cannot be included in a private background check/tenant report in California?

The following information cannot show up in a private background check report in California:

- Lawsuits or judgments from more than 7 years ago;
- Criminal convictions from more than 7 years ago;
- Any information about arrests or formal charges from more than 7 years ago;
- Criminal convictions that have been fully pardoned, dismissed, expunged, eradicated, or sealed under law;
- Any information about arrests or formal charges that did not result in conviction, no matter how recent (unless your judgment is still pending);
- Any information about referrals to, or participation in, any pre-trial or post-trial diversion programs (court-mandated programs which function as a form of alternative sentencing);
- Paid tax liens from more than 7 years ago;
- Accounts placed in collections from more than 7 years ago;
- Bankruptcies from more than 10 years ago;
- Evictions actions ("unlawful detainers") that you won or resolved with a settlement agreement;
- Any other negative information like repossessions, foreclosures, check verification reports, motor vehicle reports, or drug test results from more than 7 years ago.

Do private background check companies have to make sure the information they report to a landlord in a tenant report is true and accurate?

Yes. Private background check companies (called “Credit Reporting Agencies” in California) CANNOT include “public record” information unless it has been double-checked for accuracy in the past 30 days. Public record information includes arrests, convictions, civil actions, tax liens, and outstanding judgments.

Does a private landlord have to tell me that the criminal record information that showed up in a private background check/tenant report is the reason I am not getting the apartment?

Yes! The landlord has to tell you if your criminal history is the reason you are not getting the apartment. If there is a negative action taken—like not renting you the apartment—because of a background report, the landlord must follow this 2-step procedure:

---

1158 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.11.
1159 Unless governed by a longer statute of limitations, which extends the time in which a suit, judgment, or arrest remains effective.
1160 EXCEPTIONS: An agency can report these kinds of arrests or charges if judgment is still pending.
1161 When a tax debt is not timely paid, the government’s legal claim against your property is considered a “tax lien.” http://www.irs.gov/Businesses/Small-Businesses-&-Self-Employed/Understanding-a-Federal-Tax-Lien.
1163 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18.
STEP 1: The landlord must provide you with a copy of the report and a copy of the Federal Trade Commission Summary of Rights before the negative action is taken—giving you an opportunity to clear up any inaccuracies in the report.

STEP 2: If the landlord goes forward with the negative action, it must provide you notice about the adverse decision, the contact information of the reporting agency, a statement that the landlord (and not the screening company) made the adverse decision; and your right to dispute the accuracy or completeness of the report.

YOUR RIGHTS WHEN A PRIVATE LANDLORD DIRECTLY ASKS YOU ABOUT YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD

CAN A PRIVATE LANDLORD ASK ME ABOUT CONVICTIONS OR ARRESTS OLDER THAN 7 YEARS?

Generally, yes. A private landlord can ask you—in writing in an apartment application OR directly in conversation—about past criminal convictions, arrests, and other criminal activity, and you should answer honestly. BUT if the landlord is asking you about past convictions, criminal conduct or activity, he or she must be asking everyone equally.

* SPECIAL “BAN THE BOX” PROTECTION IN SAN FRANCISCO, CA:

In San Francisco, CA, there are special protections if you apply to city-funded affordable housing in San Francisco—which includes private “Below Market Rate” (BMR) apartments that are often in new buildings. See APPENDIX G, PG. 487 to learn more about this new law called the “San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance,” which prevents some housing providers from asking you about your criminal record on the initial application.

YOUR RIGHTS TO CONFIDENTIALITY WHEN A PRIVATE LANDLORD GATHERS CRIMINAL RECORD INFORMATION ON YOU

DOES THE LANDLORD HAVE TO PROTECT AND KEEP CONFIDENTIAL MY CRIMINAL RECORD AND OTHER PERSONAL INFORMATION?

Yes. When a landlord collects information in the background check process—like credit reports and criminal background checks/tenant screening reports, the landlord CANNOT use those reports for any other purpose than the one they originally asked for. Also, when a landlord is done using the information, federal law requires that he/she get rid of it (whether in paper or electronic form).

15 U.S.C. §§ 1681b(b)(3), 1681m(a); CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.40.

ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS AS YOU APPLY FOR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING:

When you apply to PHAs and/or owners of government-assisted housing, they can research you to decide whether you should be accepted or rejected. To do this research, they are allowed to access different kinds of records. There are rules for how they can access and use these records, described below, so keep reading!

PLEASE NOTE: There are different rules for how PHAs and owners of federal government-assisted housing can access and use your criminal history records. In sum, the PHA can get more information about your criminal history than an owner of government-assisted housing. We will explain how each gets access to your criminal history information below.

YOUR RIGHTS WHEN A GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROVIDER RUNS A CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECK

➤ (1) PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITIES’ (PHAS) ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL & DRUG TREATMENT RECORDS:

WHAT CRIMINAL RECORDS CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) ACCESS, AND WHO GIVES THE PHA MY CONVICTION RECORDS?

Most PHAs get criminal history information about you from private background check companies that gather lots of criminal history information from different public sources and put them in one report to the PHA (see more on PG. 426).

PHAs can also get your criminal history information directly from ALL OF THE PUBLIC SOURCES listed on PG. 426, such as Internet searches and adult criminal court records!

If you apply to a PHA for one of the three major federal government-assisted housing programs (Public Housing, “Section 8” Housing Choice Vouchers, and project-based Section 8 Housing), PHAs can ask for criminal records on you from the National Crime Information Center, state and local police departments, and other law enforcement agencies—and they are required to hand them over to the PHA.\(^7\)

REMEmBER: There is a DIFFERENT RULE FOR OWNERS OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING. Owners of federal government-assisted housing CANNOT get your conviction records directly from the National Crime Information Center or law enforcement agencies—but the PHA might share some of this information with them. See the next question below.

\(^7\) 42 U.S.C. § 1437d.
CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) REQUIRE ME TO SIGN A RELEASE TO GET MY CRIMINAL HISTORY INFORMATION?

Yes. PHAs can legally require you to sign a release form so that they can get this criminal history information for these housing programs.\(^{168}\)

IF I AM MOVING INTO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING IN A DIFFERENT CITY OR COUNTY, CAN MY CURRENT PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) SHARE MY CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORDS WITH THE NEW PHA WHERE I AM APPLYING?

Most likely, yes. Your current PHA is encouraged (but not required) to send criminal background check information about you to the new PHA.\(^{169}\)

CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) ACCESS MY DRUG TREATMENT RECORDS, AND IF SO, UNDER WHAT CIRCUMSTANCES?

The law is still unclear for most government-assisted housing programs. The short answer is that a PHA can get limited access to your drug/alcohol treatment records if you are applying to or currently living as a tenant in the Public Housing program (which is a specific type of government-assisted housing program). There are no similar rules for the other government-assisted housing programs (like “Section 8” Housing Choice Vouchers or the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program).\(^{170}\) Therefore, unless you are applying to the Public Housing program, it is still unclear if PHAs can legally request or obtain information about you from drug/alcohol treatment facilities. This rule is further explained below.

I am an applicant or tenant for the Public Housing program. What information can a Public Housing Authority (PHA) get about me from a drug/alcohol treatment facility?

If you are applying to the Public Housing program, the local PHA is allowed to request and get information about you from drug treatment facilities,\(^{171}\) but the PHA is limited to asking only one question relating to your eligibility for the housing, which is:

“Does the drug abuse treatment facility have reasonable cause to believe that the household member is currently engaging in illegal drug use?”\(^{172}\)

---

\(^{170}\) The argument against such adoption of those rules (for other federally-assisted housing programs, not including public housing, which already has these rules in place) is that Congress intentionally limited the applicability of the statutory provision to public housing and did not extend it to the other programs. However, if a PHA, for the voucher program, or an owner, for other programs, adopts a policy that seeks to obtain records from drug treatment facilities, it should also be argued that the public housing statutory protections or their equivalent must be incorporated, as the statute is designed to avoid a violation of fair housing laws and claims of discrimination based upon disability.

\(^{171}\) 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(t); 24 C.F.R. § 960.205.

\(^{172}\) 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(t); 24 C.F.R. § 960.205; cf. Campbell v. Minneapolis Pub. Hous. Auth., 175 F.R.D. 531 (D. Minn. 1997), vacated and remanded, 168 F.3d 1069 (8th Cir. 1999). Campbell involved an interpretation of 42 U.S.C. §§ 1437n(e)(1), (2), which have been repealed. The court allowed the PHA to seek information regarding drug use and rehabilitation efforts from drug treatment facility, but remanded the case to the PHA to determine eligibility because the administrative record was incomplete. The PHA conceded that it would have to change its policy based upon the repeal and amendments to the statute.
That is the only question that can be asked and the PHA cannot seek any additional information from the drug treatment facility!

What is the process that a Public Housing Authority (PHA) must follow when requesting information about me from a drug treatment facility?

When requesting information from a drug treatment facility about an applicant or tenant for the public housing program, The PHA must:

- Get your signature on a release form (also called a written consent form) before asking the drug treatment facility about you. The release automatically expires right after the PHA makes a final decision to approve or deny your application to the government-assisted housing program.
- Have a system to protect your confidentiality (your privacy). When a PHA or landlord collects information in credit and tenant screening reports, it cannot use the information it collects for any purpose other than to decide whether or not to admit you into the housing unit. The PHA and owner must keep this information confidential, even when throwing it out.
- Have and follow a nondiscriminatory policy (a document that outlines a policy in regards to discrimination and management practices) that applies equally to anyone applying to public housing. This policy must be written down in the PHA’s official plans and policies.

WHAT CAN I DO IF A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) VIOLATES MY RIGHTS IN ACCESSING AND USING MY DRUG TREATMENT INFORMATION?

If you believe you were denied housing because of illegal access to your records, or because of incorrect or illegal information, you should IMMEDIATELY ask for a review hearing! A review hearing is an informal procedure in which you can present corrections to your record, evidence of rehabilitation, and other mitigating information (see PG. 417) to challenge a denial to government-assisted housing. Go to PG. 407 of this HOUSING CHAPTER to learn about the procedure for challenging denials and how to request an informal review hearing.

(2) GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED OWNERS’ ACCESS TO RECORDS:

WHAT CAN OWNERS OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING SEE? HOW DO THEY GET MY CRIMINAL RECORDS?

Most owners of government-assisted housing—just like most private landlords—get your criminal records from background check reports (a.k.a. “tenant reports”)

---

1177 24 C.F.R. § 960.205(e).
run by private background check companies (a.k.a. “tenant screening” companies), public records and Internet searches, or by asking you directly in your application or interview.

- Unlike PHAs, owners of government-assisted housing CANNOT get records about you directly from the National Crime Information Center, state and local police departments, or other law enforcement agencies.
- Also, owners of government-assisted housing CANNOT get your criminal records directly from the PHA. In fact, PHAs are not allowed to disclose information about your criminal conviction history to owners of government-assisted housing. If an owner wants details about your record, s/he must do his/her own research to get them (with one exception, see side box).

* THERE IS ONE EXCEPTION TO THIS RULE: Owners of Project-Based Section 8 housing (which is a government-assisted program where the financial subsidy for the housing stays with the unit, as opposed to the traditional Section 8 voucher that moves around with the person) can ask the PHA about your criminal history information BUT cannot get copies of the actual records from the PHA. The PHA may disclose information to the owner only to the extent necessary to help him/her decide whether you can be denied or evicted from the assisted housing unit. Lastly, if the PHA is screening your criminal history information for an owner of Project-Based Section 8 housing, the PHA must apply the property owner’s own policy, not the PHA’s policy, in making that determination. So if the owner doesn’t or can’t consider something, the PHA cannot either. In practice, Most owners of project-based Section 8 housing units are not using PHAs to obtain criminal history information; instead, these owners are using private background check companies to get information on applicants (see PG. 426 for more info on the rules governing tenant reports in California).

➢ (3) LIMITS ON BOTH PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITIES (PHAS) AND OWNERS OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING:

CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING GET RECORDS OF MY ARRESTS THAT DIDN’T LEAD TO CONVICTIONS?

No. Under California state law, police and law enforcement agencies, and private background check companies cannot share information about arrests that did not lead to a conviction—unless the charges are still pending. They CAN ONLY report arrests that are pending AND/OR led to a conviction.

Unfortunately, private companies hired to do background checks often report arrest records anyway—which is against the law. Because this is such a big problem, there are lawyers working to sue reporting agencies that are illegally reporting arrest records. When you get a copy of your report, check to make sure there

CAN A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING GET MY JUVENILE RECORDS?

No. It’s against the law for police and law enforcement agencies and private background check companies to share your juvenile record with PHAs.

YOUR RIGHTS WHEN A GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROVIDER RUNS A CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECK—THE RULES THEY MUST FOLLOW

IMPORTANT: The most common way that most PHAs AND owners of government-assisted housing (as well as private owners) access your criminal history information is by ordering private background check companies to run “tenant screening reports”.

WHAT ARE TENANT SCREENING REPORTS?

As discussed on PG. 426, a tenant screening report is a background check done by a private company or credit bureau on a housing applicant. It reports credit information, employment history, certain criminal history information, entries on sex offender registers and/or other public databases, driving records, and more. A tenant report may also include information gathered from personal interviews with your neighbors, former landlords, or coworkers.

WHO CONDUCTS TENANT SCREENING CHECKS & PROVIDES TENANT REPORTS TO PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITIES (PHAS) & OWNERS OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

Many private background check companies provide tenant screening reports, including the 3 national credit bureaus, Experian, TransUnion, and Equifax.

DO YOU HAVE TO PAY FOR A SCREENING REPORT? IF SO, HOW MUCH DOES A REPORT COST?

No, not if you are applying to government-assisted housing—neither a PHA nor an owner can charge you to run a criminal background check or “tenant report.”

calling the CRA’s conduct protected speech under the First Amendment. The court noted that to fall outside of the anti-SLAPP statute, the defendant’s conduct must be criminal in nature. WHAT MUST A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING PROVIDE ME WITH IF IT ORDERS A BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT FROM A PRIVATE BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANY?

California state law requires that you receive information about the background check company within 3 days of when the landlord orders your report. You also have the right to request a copy of the report from the PHA or landlord for at least 2 years after the report is done.

DO I HAVE ANY RIGHTS IF A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING REJECTS MY RENTAL APPLICATION BECAUSE OF A BACKGROUND CHECK/ TENANT REPORT?

Yes. The PHA or landlord must give you an “adverse action” notice letting you know it plans to take an action that could harm you based on information that showed up in your tenant report/background check. The notice must include the following information:

- The name and contact for the company that supplied the report;
- A statement that the landlord, not the screening company, made the adverse decision; and
- Notice of your right to dispute the accuracy of the report and to receive a free copy of your report within 60 days.

EXTRA PROTECTIONS for the Public Housing program and the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher program ONLY:

ONLY for these two government-assisted programs, PHAs must follow certain extra rules (set forth below).

- The PHA must make sure the criminal records are true and accurate.

After the PHA has you sign a release of criminal records information and submits that release to the law enforcement agency that holds the criminal records, it may receive a response that there is a match based on your name, date of birth, and social security number. The PHA cannot deny admission based on this information alone; the PHA must verify the match with a positive fingerprint comparison.

- The PHA must give you notice of any proposed action that could harm you.

A PHA must notify the household of any proposed action that could harm you (called an “adverse action” notice). The PHA must also provide a copy of the criminal record information to the person who was the subject of the record—as well as to the applicant, if that’s a different person.

1189 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q)(2).
1191 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q)(2). There are conflicting interests involved in providing the criminal record to both the applicant and the member of the family subject to the criminal record. The FBI “commented that dissemination of criminal records is limited to those with authorization (such as the PHA) and the person who is the ‘subject’ of the record, not to other persons in the household.” 66 Fed. Reg. 28,776, 28,789 (May 24, 2001). HUD disagreed.
• The PHA must give you an opportunity to challenge the criminal record information. The person whose information was relied on must be given an opportunity to dispute the proposed negative action.\(^{1192}\) NOTE: Even if you don’t have an automatic legal right to a review hearing, you can always ask for one! To learn more about challenging a denial to government-assisted housing, please go to PG. 407.

• The PHA Must Protect the Confidentiality of Your Records:\(^{1193}\)

Under federal law, PHAs must have a system to:
1. Protect the confidentiality of applicants’ criminal records;
2. Guard against improper sharing of those records; AND
3. Destroy the records once their purpose has been achieved.

\[\text{YOUR RIGHTS AGAINST ILLEGAL ACCESS OF YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS AS YOU APPLY FOR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING:}\]

 WHAT ARE MY LEGAL RIGHTS IF A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING ILLEGALLY ACCESSES OR USES MY CRIMINAL RECORD INFORMATION?

THE GENERAL RULE:

In general, if you believe you were denied housing because of illegal access to your records, or because of incorrect or illegal information, you should IMMEDIATELY ask for a review hearing! A review hearing is an informal procedure in which you can present corrections to your record, evidence of rehabilitation, and other mitigating information (see PG. 417) to challenge a denial to government-assisted housing. Go to PG. 407 of this Chapter to learn about the procedure for challenging denials and how to request an informal review hearing.

SPECIAL RULE for Public Housing & “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher programs:

If you applied through a PHA for Public Housing or “Section 8” Housing Choice Vouchers, there is a special rule that says PHAs and owners of the government-assisted housing cannot take any “negligent or knowing action that is inconsistent with” the laws and regulations governing access to your criminal records.\(^{1194}\)

\(^{1192}\) 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q)(2); 24 C.F.R. § 5.903(f); see also 42 U.S.C. §§ 960.204(c), 966.401(j)(iv) (public housing) and 982.553(d) (voucher). The notice and opportunity to contest must also be provided in the case of an eviction or lease enforcement action.

\(^{1193}\) Special Note for Advocates: The statutory language shows a policy concern that PHAs maintain the confidentiality of criminal records obtained through the federally authorized process. However, the regulation states that it is not applicable to public information or to criminal records information obtained from law enforcement agencies if the information was not sought pursuant to the regulations. 24 C.F.R. §§ 5.901(c), 5.903(c)(2). This exemption may be too broad. The meaning and full effect of the exclusion and its consistency with the statute has not been tested. The concern is that this may mean that if a PHA obtains information from a private consumer reports agency, it may not have to abide by the confidentiality provisions of the statute. 15 U.S.C. §§ 1681-1681u. Additionally, the confidentiality provisions of the statute most likely do not cover information the PHA or owner obtains from other sources, such as police blotters and newspaper reports. Nevertheless, advocates should argue that any information obtained from law enforcement agencies that is not otherwise publicly available should be subject to the statutory protections. 24 C.F.R. § 5.901(c). With respect to the management of the records, the statute references “any criminal records received,” whereas other provisions of the statute are limited to information received under the subsection. 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q), § 13,663(f); see also 24 C.F.R. § 982.307(b)(2) (PHA may provide voucher landlords information in PHA files).

\(^{1194}\) 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q)(4), (6); 24 C.F.R. § 5.903(h).
A negligent action is one where the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing knew or should have known that their access to your records violated the law. A knowing action is one where the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing actually knew that its access to your records violated the law.

A PHA or owner MAY BE LIABLE for negligence if they do any of the following:

- Improperly disclose a criminal record;
- Improperly use a consent form (a.k.a. a “release” form);
- Fail to notify you of the criminal history information collected;
- Fail to provide you with a copy of the information collected (whether you are an applicant or a current tenant); and/or
- Fail to allow you the right to dispute the information.

In this situation, it’s best to talk to a lawyer! You could recover attorney’s fees and other litigation costs as part of the relief you get in court. See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1190 to contact an organization that may be able to provide you legal assistance.

ERRORS IN YOUR BACKGROUND CHECK REPORT & HOW TO CORRECT THEM—AN OVERVIEW

COULD THERE BE ERRORS IN THE BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT THAT A HOUSING PROVIDER RUNS ON ME?

Likely, yes. Unfortunately errors in background check reports are an incredibly common problem.

HOW CAN I CORRECT ERRORS IN MY BACKGROUND CHECK/TENANT REPORT?

The law that covers background checks and background check companies is very specific about how you can challenge mistaken, incomplete, or missing information in your background check report/tenant report. If you think there is something wrong, you can tell the landlord, call the background check company that ran the report, and try to get it fixed. For more details on how to correct mistakes in your background check report, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.

1196 The broad scope of the PHA’s or owner’s liability may provide leverage for an applicant harmed by the negligence. The threat of litigation costs and attorney’s fees may encourage settlement and the admission of the applicant.
1197 42 U.S.C. § 1437d(q)(7); see also Rivers v. Housing Auth. of Contra Costa Cnty., No. COS-04291 PJH (N.D. V. JOINING FAMILY & FRIENDS IN HOUSING

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- Important tips if you are looking to move in with family or friends in their housing
- Suggestions and considerations if you want to move in with family or friends into their private housing
- Suggestions and considerations if you want to move in with family or friends into the government-assisted housing
- Rules and policies if you are a guest in a family member or friend’s government-assisted housing
- Rules and policies if you are a live-in aide to someone with special needs or disabilities in government-assisted housing

This section will discuss tips and important steps you should take if you want to join a family or friend’s household after your release. In addition to these considerations, you always need to think about any restrictions based on your supervision status (probation, parole, etc.)—learn more about the rules and conditions you must follow for your type of community supervision in the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 130.

JOINING FAMILY OR FRIENDS IN PRIVATE HOUSING

Here are some general tips if you want to join someone in private housing (meaning neither the family or friends living there nor the landlord who owns the housing receive any government money):

1) You can look at the lease/rental agreement and see what it says about the maximum number of occupants/residents and any guest policies (these will usually be in the written lease);
2) You can ask the landlord about guest policies and for permission to add a new person to the lease if that is what you would like to do (sometimes a landlord will say it’s allowed but may be able to increase the rent);1198
3) If the person you are living with OWNS their housing, you don’t have to worry about landlord policies, but you may still want to consider the pros & cons of living with family and friends on PG. 381 above.

JOINING FAMILY OR FRIENDS IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

I HAVE A CRIMINAL RECORD AND WANT TO JOIN A HOUSEHOLD LIVING IN FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING. CAN I?

It depends on your conviction and the requirements of the government-assisted housing program.

There is a good chance you will want to join or rejoin a family living in a government-assisted housing unit. Unfortunately, the laws and policies for adding an individual with a criminal record to an existing household can be complex, and sometimes the interests of other family members who are living in the government-assisted housing unit will conflict with your interests in joining them.

Here are some COMMON QUESTIONS that often come up, which we will address in this section.

(1) May I join my family members in their government-assisted housing unit? (PG. 437)
(2) Does my family have to tell the PHA or owner that I am joining their assisted household? How do they do that? (PG. 439)
(3) Can we challenge a denial if the PHA or owner rejects my application to join the household? How do we do that? (PG. 407)
(4) Do I have any rights if I am rejoining my household in government-assisted housing? (PG. 439)
(5) What are the rules if I just want to be a guest of someone living in government-assisted housing and I have a record? (PG. 441)
(6) What are the rules if I am a live-in aide for someone living in government-assisted housing and I have a record? (PG. 444)

I WANT TO JOIN A HOUSEHOLD LIVING IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING. CAN I?

It depends on your background and on the policies of the PHA or owner. The same eligibility and exclusion rules apply if you want to join a family living in government-assisted housing as those that would apply if you were applying on your own—see PG. 397. As with new applicants there are a few limited situations in which a PHA or owner must reject the new family member (see PG. 403 for bans based on your criminal record). But in the vast majority of situations, the PHA or owner has BROAD DISCRETION to accept or reject you as an additional household member, just like for new applicants.

The rules for adding family members to an assisted household are different for every assisted housing program and are determined locally. You should be able to find these rules FOR YOUR PROGRAM. You can look in the following places:

---

1199 Studies have shown that a substantial number of public housing residents have family members or significant others with recent criminal history. See CATRINA GOUVES ROMAN, TAKING STOCK: HOUSING, HOMELESSNESS, AND PRISON REENTRY 24 (2004). It's likely that members of other federally assisted housing programs are similar.

1200 See PG. 59 for a discussion of the screening criteria relating to individuals with criminal histories.
• The PHA’s Annual Plan
• The PHA’s Admission and Occupancy Plan (ACOP)
• The lease for public housing
• The Administrative Plan for the Section 8 Voucher program
• The lease and/or house rules for all other government-assisted programs
• The PHA’s website for these plans
• By asking the PHA and/or owner for a copy.

IMPORTANT: Depending on the type of criminal activity and whether or not if happened on the government-assisted property, it could disqualify not just you, but your entire family from meeting the eligibility requirements of the assisted housing program! (Again, read PG. 396 to better understand eligibility requirements.)

DOES THE FAMILY IN THAT HOUSEHOLD HAVE TO REPORT THE ADDITION TO THE HOME?

Yes. In general, if a family is adding an adult member to the household, they (1) must notify the PHA and government-assisted owner AND (2) in most cases, receive the PHA’s and government-assisted owner’s approval for the new addition to the household.

Ask the PHA and owner of the government-assisted housing what the rules are for reporting a new member, and what the timeframe is for when you have to report a change to who is living in your household. It is very important to follow all of their rules!

I WANT TO RETURN BACK TO MY GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING UNIT AFTER A BRIEF PERIOD OF INCARCERATION. CAN I DO THAT?

It depends on the program. And it depends on the criminal activity.

As always, anyone joining or returning to government-assisted housing MUST meet ALL of the eligibility requirements for that housing program, for that PHA, and for the owner (if there is one).

For exclusions (bans) based on your criminal record, read PG. 403 of this chapter to understand when there are required bans vs. when the PHA or owner of government-assisted housing has discretion (meaning is allowed, but not required) to ban you from a government-assisted household. You can also learn how to challenge a denial on PG. 407 of this Chapter.

For most federal government-assisted housing programs, the local PHA and owner of the government-assisted housing may develop rules and policies regarding temporary absences, and many do have 1201 This includes HUD-assisted housing, Rural Development (RD) project-based programs, and Low Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) properties.

1202 24 C.F.R. §§ 966.4(a)(1)(v), 982.516(c), 982.551(h)(2). Because tenants generally are not aware of the rules set forth in HUD Handbooks, and the lease does not require interim reporting, tenants without notice of the obligation to report should not be penalized for failing to report interim changes in family composition. Compare HUD, Occupancy Requirements Of Subsidized Multifamily Housing Programs ¶ 7-10A(2) (rev. November 2013) (requiring that all tenants notify the owner when a family member proposes to move a new member into the unit), with HUD, Occupancy Requirements Of Subsidized Multifamily Housing Programs, App. 4-A the model lease, ¶ 16a (does not require interim reporting of changes in family composition).
such policies. You need to check with the PHA and owner that oversee the housing unit you want to join about their policies.\textsuperscript{203}

\begin{center}
\textbf{IMPORTANT:} Since your return could harm the entire family’s ability to stay in government-assisted housing, it’s a good idea for the family to discuss these issues with the PHA and/or owner of the government-assisted housing BEFORE you return from your brief absence. If that is not possible, there are legal defenses to an eviction action if it is brought against the entire family in court. This HOUSING CHAPTER does not cover eviction law and all of its defenses, so if this is your issue, you will need to contact a legal aid organization that specializes in eviction defense. Go to PG. 1190 for a list of legal aid organizations that may be able to help.
\end{center}

\section*{IF I AM JOINING A HOUSEHOLD, WILL THE PHA OR OWNER OF THE GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING RUN A CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECK ON ME?}

Most likely, yes. Most government-assisted housing programs, will check the members of a family every year, and some programs will require mid-year reporting as well. This process is called \textit{recertification}. When the recertification process is happening, the PHA or owner will be checking all new household members to make sure they meet \textit{all of the eligibility criteria for move-in!} Most PHAs and owners will check the criminal background of any NEW family members at this time. \textit{They could} re-check the criminal background of current tenants at this time, but it’s unlikely.\textsuperscript{1204} The criminal background check on any tenant could lead to the PHA or owner threatening to evict or end the assistance to an entire household.\textsuperscript{1205} Again, this HOUSING CHAPTER does not go into eviction defense, but see PG. 1190 for a list of legal aid organizations that may be able to help you if you are facing an eviction.

\begin{center}
\textbf{BE PREPARED TO EXPLAIN WHY YOU SHOULD BE ACCEPTED INTO HOUSING, DESPITE YOUR RECORD.}
\end{center}

Because the PHA or owner is likely to run a criminal background check on you, you should be prepared—\textit{if asked}—to honestly disclose your criminal record \textit{and} to demonstrate mitigating circumstances and evidence of your rehabilitation (see PG. 417). Consider giving the PHA or owner additional information about all the benefits of having you join the family and how your joining may positively affect the stability of the entire housing development. These benefits depend on the facts of your specific situation. For example, you might include information about your relationship with the family members currently living in the household, especially a positive relationship with any children or a supportive relationship between you and your spouse. Another example is your potential for increasing the income of the family members that are already living in the assisted housing unit, and therefore stabilizing the rent paid to the PHA or owner.

IF I AM BEING INCARCERATED FOR A NEW OFFENSE, DOES MY FAMILY HAVE TO REPORT THAT I MOVED OUT?

Generally, yes. PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing usually have policies that require family members to report when a family member moves out.\(^{1206}\) The family’s duty to report an absence generally depends on whether your absence is temporary, and whether you intend to continue to reside in the unit after your return. Whether or not you have to re-apply will depend on how long you are gone. Many PHAs consider you to have permanently moved out if you’re absent from the rental unit for 30 or more consecutive days.\(^{1207}\) Keep in mind that depending on the terms of your lease/rental agreement, the PHA may be able to evict your family for failing to report any changes in the number of people living there (called “occupants”).

Therefore, even if your absence is temporary (for example, less than 30 days), your family should still report that you’ve temporarily moved out to the PHA and owner of the government-assisted housing unit, to avoid breaking any rules in the lease. There is a chance that if it’s just a short, temporary absence, it won’t change your family’s ability to stay in the government-assisted housing unit. BUT if you know you are going to be absent from the unit for 30 or more days, then your family should declare you permanently absent, meaning that you have permanently moved out.\(^{1208}\) If, after your incarceration, you intend to return to the unit, you will have to re-apply and meet ALL of the eligibility requirements (see PG. 397 to understand how your criminal record could affect your being re-admitted to federal government-assisted housing).

GUEST POLICIES IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING:

I HAVE A RECORD AND WANT TO TEMPORARILY VISIT OR STAY OVERNIGHT AS A GUEST WITH MY FAMILY IN THEIR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING UNIT. WILL MY VISIT IN ANY WAY RISK MY FAMILY’S GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE?

Unfortunately, it could—depending on the policies of the PHA or owner. Below we explain the general rules for staying with family or friends as a guest in their government-assisted housing, and suggested steps to avoid putting their housing assistance at risk.

I HAVE A RECORD AND WANT TO TEMPORARILY VISIT OR STAY OVERNIGHT AS A GUEST WITH MY FAMILY IN THEIR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING UNIT. WHAT ARE SOME SUGGESTED STEPS I CAN TAKE TO AVOID PUTTING MY FAMILY OR FRIEND’S HOUSING ASSISTANCE AT RISK?

(1) If you are planning to stay for only 1 night as a guest:

As a general rule, people living in government-assisted housing are allowed to have overnight guests. For federal government-assisted housing, federal regulations define the term “guest” as “a person temporarily staying in the unit with the consent of a tenant.”

The person living in the government-assisted housing unit should not be required to register and seek prior approval for an overnight guest. The owner of the government-assisted housing should allow the tenant to host guests for a “reasonable” amount of time, which is usually 14 to 30 days, depending on the landlord’s policy.

WARNING: There might be circumstances where an individual CANNOT stay as a guest or visit the assisted property AT ALL. For example, if someone committed a criminal offense on the property, the PHA and owner of the government-assisted housing may be legally allowed to ban that person from ever returning to the property. There could also be a restriction on a person’s parole or probation that forbids them from being on the property. For this reason, you want to be careful to know the rules of that PHA or owner AND know your rules of probation or parole.

(2) If you are planning to stay for longer than 1 night as a guest:

You want to be careful to know the rules of that PHA or owner about “Unauthorized Occupants.” There are situations where, instead of being seen as a “guest”—even if that’s what you and your family consider you to truly be—the PHA or owner might classify you as an “unauthorized occupant,” a resident living in that housing unit without permission of the PHA or owner and against the rules. Being seen as an unauthorized occupant is a big problem for many reasons:

- Your income and/or assets (for example, any savings or major property you own) could affect the amount of rental assistance that your family receives. The total income might be too high for the family to qualify for any assistance at all. This could lead to your family being evicted from the unit or losing its financial assistance for the housing unit.

Some state courts have also invalidated unreasonable guest policies imposed by subsidized owners. See Messiah Baptist Hous. Dev. Fund Co. v. Rosser, 92 Misc. 2d 383 (1977) (occasional overnight visitor does not violate subsidized housing lease provisions requiring reporting of changes in income and family composition and prohibiting accommodations for boarders); Ashley Ct. Enters. v. Whittaker, 249 N.J. Super. 352 (App. Div. 1991) (refusing eviction of tenant-based Section 8 recipient because lease provision barring recurring visits was unreasonable and so vague as to be unenforceable); cf. New Boston Kiwanis Hous. Dev. Corp. v. Sparks, No. 1957, 1992 WL 79561 (Ohio Ct. App. Apr. 14, 1992) (lease provision requiring tenant to report changes in family composition does not constitute unlawful attempt to legislate morality; if guest stays long enough to become household member, tenant can be evicted for failing to report).

121 See, e.g., Ritter v. Cecil County Office of Hous. & Cmty. Dev., 33 F.3d 323 (4th Cir. 1994) (Section 8 tenant-based recipient violated two-week guest rule and had notice that violation could result in termination); Zajac v. Altoona Hous. Auth., 156 Pa. Commw. 209 (1993), appeal denied, 537 Pa. 627 (PHA policy provided that no one other than a resident could reside in the unit other than on a temporary basis not to exceed 30 days).
• Just by being in the apartment, you might be violating the lease or the owner’s or PHA’s guest policies and subject your family to eviction.

If you want to stay as a guest for a longer period, you need to know the PHA or owner’s time limit on the number of back-to-back days OR number of total days in a year that a guest may stay in the government-assisted housing unit and still be considered a “guest.”

IMPORTANT! Again, find out the PHA’s and owner’s rules and do not break them. Check the lease and the PHA’s and owner’s policies. There is usually a period of time stated in the lease and/or in the PHA’s or owner’s policies that defines when a guest becomes an “unauthorized occupant.”

* Special Guest Policy Rules for Specific Government-Assisted Housing Programs:
  * Section 8 Vouchers and Rural Development Housing

Section 8 Vouchers programs: Some PHAs have established guest policies for Section 8 voucher participants, limiting the time period that persons not listed as household members can stay with a tenant. PHAs should inform participants of these policies and give them an opportunity to request that anyone living there for a longer period be added to the household.

Rural Development (RD) programs: Federal regulations require that all RD leases “include provisions that establish when a guest will be considered a member of the household and be required to be added to the tenant certification.” Also, the owner of the property must post this same information in its occupancy rules. That means that although there is no standard amount of time required by law, the owner still must include its guest policies in the agency-approved lease used with tenants. As with the other programs, preapproval and registration of guests should not be required and the amount of time that a tenant may have a guest should be a reasonable period. However, if the guest was a former tenant who committed a drug violation and was evicted, then the owner may require that the tenant obtain approval before the guest may visit.

IF I AM PLANNING TO STAY AS A GUEST WITH FAMILY OR FRIENDS UNTIL I AM ADDED TO THEIR HOUSING LEASE, WHAT ARE SOME SUGGESTED STEPS I CAN TAKE TO MAKE SURE WE ARE FOLLOWING ALL THE GUEST POLICIES?

Yes, you can try to negotiate with the PHA or owner of the government-assisted property.

For example, if your family is seeking to add you to the lease—but the screening process to add you to the lease TAKES LONGER than the amount of time the family is allowed to have you as a guest—your family, or an advocate working on your behalf, may be able to negotiate with the housing provider at the start to extend the period of time that you are allowed to stay as a guest in that government-assisted household. If your family can negotiate a policy that allows you to stay longer as their guest, this helps avoid problems later on if the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing accuses your family of exceeding the time limits for guests, in violation of their lease agreement.

IF A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING DENIES MY REQUEST TO BE ADDED TO MY FAMILY OR FRIEND’S LEASE, WHO CAN CHALLENGE THE DENIAL AND HOW?

Your family member (whomever is listed on the lease) can request a REVIEW HEARING (sometimes call a grievance hearing, informal review, informal hearing, or conference)! Go to PG. 407 to learn about how to challenge a denial to government-assisted housing and request a review hearing.

LIVE-IN AIDE POLICIES IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

WHAT IS A “LIVE-IN AIDE?”

A live-in aide is a person who resides with one or more elderly, near elderly, or disabled persons, and who is essential to the care and well-being of that individual. The live-in aide is not obligated to support the person and would not be living in the unit except to provide the required services.\textsuperscript{1217}

A live-in aide is NOT a household member. If you are a live-in aide, your income will be excluded from calculating the rent for the assisted unit. However, the family that lives in the unit could request an extra bedroom for the live-in aide and then be required to pay the standard amount for the larger bedroom size.

CAN I BE SOMEONE’S LIVE-IN AIDE IN GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING IF I HAVE CRIMINAL RECORD?

Maybe. If you have a criminal record, you may be able to reside in a government-assisted housing unit as a live-in aide, but you will need to be screened (see next question).

Depending on the policies of the PHA or owner, the criminal background check conducted for a live-in aide may be less strict than the one used for admitting a new tenant because a live-in aide is not considered a true household member.

WILL THE PHA OR OWNER SCREEN ME FOR MY CRIMINAL BACKGROUND IF I AM SOMEONE’S LIVE-IN AIDE?

Yes. The PHA and owner can screen you for issues related to your being present in the assisted unit. Most PHAs and owners will screen live-in aides for their criminal background using the same or similar criteria as they use for admissions (read PG. 403 for the criminal record-related bans in federal government-housing, including which ones are required versus which ones are allowed). 218

\textsuperscript{1217} 24 C.F.R. § 5.403.

WILL THE PHA OR OWNER SCREEN ME FOR MY CREDIT HISTORY IF I AM SOMEONE’S LIVE-IN AIDE?

No. The PHA or owner should not screen you for your credit history if you are a live-in aide. Your credit history has nothing to do with the family’s ability to pay for the unit—so you should not be screened for credit. 219

I WAS EXCLUDED FROM BEING SOMEONE’S LIVE-IN AIDE BASED ON MY CRIMINAL RECORD. WHAT CAN I DO?

THE PERSON REQUIRING AID SHOULD ASK FOR A REVIEW HEARING. Go to PG. 407 to learn how (s)he can challenge this denial of you as his/her live-in aide.

There may be situations in which the disabled/elderly resident needing the care has great difficulty finding a live-in aide, or that you meet some unique need of that individual requiring care. In such situations, the disabled/elderly individual needing the live-in aide may request a reasonable accommodation by asking the PHA or owner to waive its strict screening criteria, and allow the person with the criminal record to reside in the unit as a live-in aide due to the special function he or she plays in the tenant’s life.

WHAT MAKES A REQUEST FOR A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION SUCCESSFUL?

Whether the request for reasonable accommodation is successful will depend upon the facts and an interpretation of reasonable accommodation rules, discussed in Appendix D, PG. 477.

I AM A LIVE-IN AIDE IN A GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED UNIT, BUT THE PERSON WHO I WAS CARING FOR HAS LEFT THE UNIT. DO I HAVE A RIGHT TO STAY?

No. If you are a live-in aide, you have NO RIGHT to continue living in the assisted unit if the tenant needing the assistance leaves. 220

VI. CHALLENGING DENIALS FROM HOUSING

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• Tips and guidance for challenging an illegal denial to private housing
• Tips and guidance for challenging an illegal or unfair denial to government-assisted housing (either through a Public Housing Authority (PHA) or an owner of government-assisted housing units)

CHALLENGING DENIALS TO PRIVATE HOUSING:

If you believe you have been illegally discriminated against in applying for private housing from a private landlord, you can challenge that discriminatory denial. Read about the bases that you can challenge an illegal discriminatory denial below, and which government agencies you should contact.

WHAT ARE MY MAIN OPTIONS FOR CHALLENGING A DENIAL TO PRIVATE HOUSING?

• Blanket bans against all people with criminal records
• Treating your criminal record differently than others (arbitrary discrimination)
• Landlord violated your right to notice of a background check, and your right to fix errors (go to PG. 426)

Go to Appendix H, PG. 491 to learn about how to file a discrimination complaint with a government agency. Try to get an lawyer to help if you can. See PG. 1190 of this guide for a list of legal aid providers across California.

As a summary, your main options for challenging an illegal denial from private housing are the following:

1) You could file an administrative complaint with California’s DFEH (the state housing protection agency);
2) You could file an administrative complaint with HUD (the federal housing protection agency);
3) You could file a civil lawsuit in state or federal court; OR
4) You could allow HUD (the federal housing agency) or California’s DFEH (the state housing agency) to file a lawsuit on your behalf.
HOW DO I FIGURE OUT WHICH OPTION TO CHOOSE IF I WANT TO CHALLENGE A DENIAL FROM PRIVATE HOUSING?

Talk to a lawyer or an advocate at a nonprofit legal services organization if possible—they can help advise you! Also, you can always file a complaint with both HUD & DFEH, but talking to a lawyer is important. More on each of these 3 options below.

For general instructions on how to file a complaint against a private landlord, go to Appendix H, PG. 491.

CHALLENGING DENIALS TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

This section will help you understand how to challenge a denial from a federal government-assisted housing program, and what to expect in the process.

If you are denied government-assisted housing, you have the right to receive notice of the denial with the SPECIFIC REASONS for the denial—including anything that came up in your criminal records (see PG. 56 for what PHAs and government-assisted owners can access). You also have the right to a review of the denial—which could be a very informal meeting or hearing (see PG. 78 about what those look like) and the right to receive information on how to prepare for that informal hearing/review. You also have rights during the review hearing process AND the right to challenge the decision if you still disagree. Continue reading to learn more.

WHEN WOULD I CHALLENGE A DENIAL FROM A PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY (PHA) OR OWNER OF GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

If the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing discriminated against you in a way that was illegal, or abused their discretion in denying you the housing—either for something in your criminal record, a disability, OR because they relied on mistaken information—then you will want to challenge that denial by asking for a review of the decision. YOU WILL ALSO WANT TO GATHER AS MUCH INFORMATION AS POSSIBLE (see PG. 417 about mitigating circumstances and proof of your rehabilitation) to prove that you should not have been denied.

RECALL—Important Information about the “Catch-All” Ban: Under the “CATCH-ALL” ban (described in detail on PG. 403), there are many situations in which a PHA and/or owner of government-assisted housing is allowed BUT NOT REQUIRED to deny you. In fact, the law limits the ways that PHAs and owners of government-assisted housing can exclude you passed on your past criminal history.

The PHA or owner of government-assisted housing must follow certain laws and rules when considering your past convictions and criminal history information. They may only reject you for criminal activity that threatens the health, safety, or peace of other residents or staff AND the criminal activity must be “reasonably recent.” For more information on these protections, go to PG. 397.
If you were denied housing due to information that showed up in your criminal record, then the PHA also MUST give you a copy of the criminal record it used. This will help you to understand why you were denied.

Furthermore, if you are denied admission to federal government-assisted housing, you have the right to written detailed notice of the denial—this should explain the specific reason(s) you were denied. Sometimes, PHAs and owners will give you a general notice just telling you that you were denied, but not the specific conduct or offense that was the basis for the decision. If you get a general notice without the important details, you should ask for the detailed notice—which you have the right to! The PHA or owner of government-assisted housing MUST provide you with a detailed notice under law.

WHAT IS THE TIMELINE FOR CHALLENGING A DENIAL TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

In terms of timing, if you want to challenge a denial, you should request a “review hearing” in writing as soon as you receive notice of the denial. There are strict time deadlines for requesting a review hearing, and they are different for every housing program. You must stick to the deadline, so READ THE NOTICE of denial! You may have as little as 1 week (7 days) to request a review hearing! If you miss the deadline, you will not only lose the housing unit, but will also be taken off the waitlist and have to reapply. If you request a review hearing on time, the housing unit will be held for you until there is a final decision!

WILL I DEFINITELY GET INTO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING IF I AM SUCCESSFUL IN CHALLENGING THE INITIAL DENIAL?

No, not necessarily. If you are successful, you could get admitted into housing, but you might just get another review of the facts or another hearing—which could help you get in, or could still result in denial. What you will get, if successful, is a fairer hearing.

HELPFUL HINT:
Language of Notice: If there are a lot of non-English speakers served by the PHA or owner, the notice may have to be written in the language used by the applicant. If you need the notice to be translated, ask the PHA or owner for a copy in your native language.

HELPFUL HINT:
Challenging the rejection may give you the necessary time to improve or gather information to clarify your criminal history. If you haven’t already done so, you should request a copy of your criminal record and try to correct any mistakes.

[Cross-reference to record-cleaning section] You should also gather evidence of rehabilitation and mitigating evidence.

1223 See, e.g., 7 C.F.R. § 3560.154(h) (requiring that the credit report relied upon to deny admission to an applicant under the USDA Rural Development housing programs be attached to Notices of Ineligibility or Rejection in accordance with the Fair Reporting Credit Act); HUD, Public Housing Occupancy Guidebook, ¶ 4.9 (June 2003); see also Edgecomb v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254 (1970) and Edgecomb, and public policy.)
HOW CAN I FIGURE OUT THE SPECIFIC PROCEDURES FOR CHALLENGING A DENIAL TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

The notice will tell you the specific procedure for challenging the denial for that particular housing program. The first step in challenging any denial, however, is always to submit a WRITTEN request for a review hearing, where you can fight the denial. Under law, you almost always have the right to a review of denial from government-assisted housing.1225

The notice of denial will tell you who to send the written request for a review hearing to AND when you need to do it (the timing deadline by which you have to challenge the denial).1226 The time frames must be “reasonable”—which usually means within 10-30 days.1227 Follow the deadlines that you are given!

In sum, if you were denied from housing because of your record and you want to fight it, your first step will be to request a review hearing to AND when you need to do it (the timing deadline which usually means within 10-30 days)—follow all of the procedures the notice gives you!

IMPORTANT! ASK YOUR SUPPORTERS TO COME TO THE HEARING WITH YOU! If there are individuals who are willing to accompany you to your hearing and testify (talk about how your circumstances have changed and to support your housing application), their attendance can help!

1225 Special Note for Advocates: This section cites cases involving denial or termination from federally assisted housing. Note: There may be cases from other social welfare programs that also may be used to build an applicant’s case. Such cases are not included in this discussion, as they are beyond the scope of this manual.

REVIEW HEARINGS: THE WAY TO CHALLENGE A DENIAL TO GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING

Requesting a review hearing is one of the most important avenues for challenging a denial to most types of government-assisted housing (whether it was a denial by the Public Housing Authority (PHA) or an owner of government-assisted housing).

Of course, if you can, it’s best to find a lawyer or advocate who can help you through this process. It’s tough to find lawyers who do this, but it’s worth a try. See PG 1190 for a list of legal aid organizations that may be able to help advise you as you challenge your denial from government-assisted housing. If you cannot find a lawyer to help you, do not despair! It’s possible to do this on your own!

WHAT CAN I EXPECT AT THE REVIEW HEARING? AND HOW CAN I PREPARE?

THE HEARING:

Once I have sent in a written request for a review hearing, how can I prepare for the review hearing?

At the informal hearing or review, you are going to want to show the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing that you should not have been denied the housing because of mitigating circumstances/ proof of rehabilitation (see PG. 417), a disability that requires a reasonable accommodation (see Appendix D, PG. 477), or a mistake in the criminal records that the PHA or owner used (see CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1029).

Before the informal hearing/review, you should:

1) Ask the PHA or owner for all documents and information regarding the denial of your housing application, including a copy of the criminal records it relied upon to deny you. 1228

2) Get a copy of your criminal record yourself to make sure it is correct. (For information on how to do this, see CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1041).
   a. Compare your criminal record with the information the PHA or owner used to deny you.
   b. At the same time, you will want to work on fixing any mistakes in the records used by the PHA or owner—or showing documentation of the errors. Records often have mistakes and you shouldn’t be denied housing for an error. 1229 (See CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1036.) This can take time, so you should act fast, and ask the PHA and/or owner of the government-assisted housing to hold the unit while you collect the documents you need.

3) Review your application & be prepared to talk about important differences.
   a. Make sure you know what you wrote on your application about your criminal record, illegal drug use, or whatever it was that made you get

---

1228 For the USDA rural housing programs, applicants who have been denied housing and choose to file grievances are entitled to examine the records that a borrower plans to rely upon to defend the admission decision. 7 C.F.R. § 3560.160(g)(4) (Rural Development housing); see also, HUD, Public Housing Occupancy Guidebook, App. VIII (sample Applicant Notice of Rejection) (June 2003) (offers applicant the opportunity to review applicant file); See Chapter 3 for a discussion of special federal rules regarding access to criminal records by PHAs and owners. In the event that the denial is based upon criminal record information obtained by a PHA (including lifetime sex offender registration) in accordance with the federal statute, the PHA has an obligation to provide the applicant a copy of that record.

1229 Sharon M. Dietrich, When “Your Permanent Record” Is a Permanent Barrier: Helping Legal Aid Clients Reduce the Stigma of Criminal Records, 41 CLEARINGHOUSE REV. 139 (July-Aug 2007).
denied for the housing. For example, what did you say in response to the question about your convictions? What did you say about your illegal drug use? Whom did you say would live in your household? If the answer you gave on your application is not exactly the same as the answer you would give today, you must be able to explain why. If you didn’t include certain information about your criminal record in your application to the PHA or owner, you will have to explain why it was left out. Or if you said that a certain relative would be living with you who is not, you need to explain what has changed.

IMPORANT: If you were denied under a ban that is allowed but not required, then you will want to prove to the PHA or owner of the government-assisted housing that there are mitigating circumstances or evidence that you have changed and rehabilitated since the time of your offense.

If you were denied because of your criminal history, you should present evidence of rehabilitation. This includes all the letters and documents you can think of that will show how you have changed and grown since your negative conduct. You should get any of the following: letters of support. Ask people who have supported you through reentry—like your current employer, a teacher, probation officer, social worker, neighbors, current or prior landlords, community leaders— to write a letter of support on your behalf. The letters should emphasize:

- How your circumstances have changed since the negative conduct/offense,
- That you are a good person who gets along well with others,
- That you are motivated to improve your life, and
- Your good performance or attendance record if you are in school or working.

WHAT CAN I EXPECT FROM THE REVIEW HEARING?

WHAT IS IT LIKE?

Every hearing is different, but generally, the hearing is likely to be very informal (more details about these informal hearings below). It is very different from a court proceeding, and formal evidence rules do NOT apply. For example, the PHA or owner may introduce newspaper reports, police blotters, declarations or criminal records, with no one to authenticate or testify about the evidence that he or she presents. Broughton v. Hous. Auth. of Pittsburgh, 755 A.2d 105 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 1999) (tenant’s hearsay evidence excluded in judicial setting).

bring in any evidence showing why your criminal record should not bar you from getting into the housing program.

You are allowed, and it’s recommended, that you bring a friend or family member who can be supportive and can also be a witness to what is happening and what is said at the hearing.

WHAT RIGHTS DO I HAVE IN A REVIEW HEARING?

1) You have the right to a hearing before an impartial, unbiased hearing officer. That means that hearing officer should be independent, with no stake in the outcome of the hearing, and ready to hear both sides. He/she should not be the same person who made the original decision to deny you, or anyone who works for the person who made the original decision to deny you.

2) You have the right to an opportunity to make an argument (called a “rebuttal”) to challenge the information the PHA or owner relied upon in denying you.

3) You should be allowed to explain why you pled guilty to a past conviction. The hearing’s decision maker may find your explanation important and relevant.

4) You should ask for a written transcript and an audio recording of the review hearing. If the hearing officer won’t provide you this, you can ask to bring in your own recording device (many cell phones have this function).

5) Ask for witnesses to testify under oath.

6) The right to a written decision after the review hearing (for most government-assisted housing programs). The written decision must be given to you within a reasonable period of time (usually 10-30 days), state the reasons for the decision, and state the evidence the hearing officer relied upon in making a decision.

Conn. 1993) (in a termination of benefits case, hearing decision could not be based wholly on hearsay; hearing officer decision inadequate because no reasons given; participant entitled to cross-examine witness); Powell v. D.C. Hous. Auth., 818 A.2d 188 (D.C. 2003) (reversing PHA’s termination decision for alleged fraudulent underreporting of income because hearing officer failed to make findings with respect to each contested material allegation of fact as required by due process and applicable local Administrative Procedure Act (APA); see also Hicks v. Dakota County Cmty Dev. Agency, No. A06-1302, 2007 WL2416872 (Minn. App., Aug. 28, 2007) (the record must be sufficient to facilitate meaningful review and where there are no findings or credibility determinations, the court could not conduct a meaningful review); see, e.g., New York City Housing Authority, Division of Applicant Appeals, Public Housing Hearing, Report of Informal Hearing, August 6, 2007, No. 113-52-7732 (copy available as Exhibit 3 to this Chapter). For Rural Development housing, the notice must be served within ten days of the hearing. 7 C.F.R. § 3560.160(i)(2) (2007). As noted above, the decision also should not be based wholly upon uncorroborated hearsay.
7) Extra Rights for Public Housing & Voucher housing programs: In addition to the requirements above, for public housing and the voucher program ONLY, there is the additional protection that the hearing can only go into the issues that were presented in the rejection notice. At the hearing, no information should be presented if it was not the basis for the rejection because otherwise you don’t have an opportunity to investigate ahead of time and challenge that new information at the hearing.

8) The Rules for Rural Development (RD) housing hearings are different. To learn about that process, see APPENDIX I, PG. 498.

WHAT CAN I DO IF I AM UNHAPPY WITH THE WRITTEN DECISION BY THE REVIEW HEARING?

If you are unhappy with the decision made at the review hearing, and want to challenge it further, ask the hearing officer or an attorney on how to challenge that decision. Usually, if you lose your informal hearing, you cannot continue to challenge the denial of government housing at the Public Housing Authority (PHA) level. Most likely, the only way for you to continue to challenge the denial after losing your informal review hearing is to sue the Public Housing Authority in court. This is a big decision and a lawyer can help you figure out your options, since every individual case is different. Please contact Root & Rebound’s office for a referral or further guidance (Phone: 510-279-4662, Address: 1730 Franklin Street, Suite 300, Oakland, CA 94612).

1241  You could bring an action for federal civil rights violations under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, which has a three-year statute of limitations, to challenge a decision on fair housing or due process grounds, and also sometimes on the grounds that the decision is contrary to applicable federal law. This is a field of law that is very complicated. It is unclear whether you can use § 1983 to make a challenge that a decision lacks substantial evidence, or that the officer did not exercise discretion properly. The state certiorari statute is necessary, especially if your challenge focuses on the failure of the housing program to comply with agency procedures and policies.

GENERAL TIPS FOR RENTERS

I AM PLANNING TO RENT AN APARTMENT (PRIVATE OR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED). WHAT ARE SOME GENERAL TIPS FOR RENTERS?

These tips can help you prepare for the process of renting an apartment, and avoid problems related to background checks!

ORDER YOUR FREE CREDIT REPORT BEFORE YOU APPLY FOR AN APARTMENT.

The landlord will almost certainly order your credit report before letting you live as a tenant in his/her unit. Even though this Chapter does not go into all of the rules and laws that govern credit check, it’s still important to understand that this is part of what most landlords will be looking at. Before you apply to ANY type of housing, you can order your own credit report to make sure that all the information is accurate and up-to-date. You can order your credit reports free once every 12 months from each of the three national credit bureaus: (1) Experian, (2) TransUnion, and (3) Equifax. To learn more, see the Federal Trade Commission’s information on Free Annual Credit Reports on its website: http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/microsites/freereports/index.shtml (Note: this is a trusted government website about credit reports).

LEARN ABOUT BACKGROUND CHECKS/ TENANT REPORTS.

Most landlords use “tenant reports” (these are background checks specifically for the purposes of housing and renting apartments) to screen housing applicants. As discussed on PG. 426, these reports can include both credit history and non-credit information such as your criminal record; court cases related to past evictions; references from former landlords; information from local, state and national databases (such as Sex Offender registries); and more. If you learn you that the landlord is going to order a background check/tenant report on you, you could save yourself a lot of time and trouble by simply asking the landlord the name and contact information for the screening company, so that you find the tenant report yourself and make sure the information is accurate and up-to-date.
UNDERSTAND YOUR RIGHTS & RESPONSIBILITIES AS A RENTER.

Carefully review any lease or rental agreement before you sign it. Be sure that any WRITTEN agreements include VERBAL conversations you had with the landlord or property management company—so that those agreements will be legally enforceable later on. As well as general rules about rent payments, utilities, and the time period covered, a lease or rental agreement should cover anything you have discussed together: things like pets, visitors, roommates, or subletting. If you know there is something in the lease or agreement that limits your basic legal rights, bring that up with the landlord. In California, the Department of Consumer Affairs has published a great guidebook on tenants’ rights available online at: http://www.dca.ca.gov/publications/landlordbook/catenant.pdf.

WHAT ARE SOME OF MY GENERAL RIGHTS AS A RENTER IN CALIFORNIA?

GENERALLY, YOUR BASIC RIGHTS AS A TENANT IN CALIFORNIA (NO MATTER WHAT THE LEASE OR RENTAL AGREEMENTS SAYS) INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING:

• Limits on the amount of the security deposit that the landlord can require you to pay.
• Limits on the landlord’s right to enter the rental unit.
• The right to a refund of the security deposit, or a written accounting of how it was used, after you move.
• The right to sue the landlord for violations of the law or your rental agreement or lease.
• The right to repair serious defects in the rental unit and to deduct certain repair costs from the rent, under appropriate circumstances.
• The right to withhold rent under appropriate circumstances.
• Rights under the warranty of habitability.
• Protection against retaliatory eviction.
• These and other rights will be discussed throughout the rest of this booklet.

KEEP RECORDS OF YOUR LEASE & OTHER DOCUMENTS RELATED TO YOUR APARTMENT.

Keep a file with your signed lease or rental agreement and any other important documents. The file should include notes of any conversations you have with your landlord or apartment manager regarding repairs, disturbances, disputes, or any other event or incident that may affect your rights as a tenant. It should also include any mail, emails, repair orders, and even notes left on your door. Keep and maintain a separate file for each rental unit you live in.

AVOID SCAMS.

Avoid rental scams by recognizing warning signs. Online resources such as Craigslist (www.craigslist.com) are a popular way to search for available rental units. However, scammers also use these sites to place phony rental listings or to hijack a valid listing to attempt to steal your money or identity. If you are asked to wire money—it’s probably a scam! If you are asked to pay a security deposit or an advance on your rent before signing a rental agreement, that is a red flag too. You should also be aware of foreclosure scams targeting unsuspecting renters and upset homeowners. To learn how to spot and avoid foreclosure scams, check out the following website: http://www.freddiemac.com/news/blog/joan_ferenczy/20121008_fraudsters_falsely_advertising_reo_as_rents.html.

---

REVIEW ALL NOTICES YOU RECEIVE FROM YOUR LANDLORD OR RENTAL AGENCY.

Small problems can become big problems if you ignore them. A landlord’s notice to evict you may give you only a certain number of days to respond. If you do not respond within the given time, the landlord may seek a court order to evict you. Notice of court actions give only a certain number of days to respond! If you have questions about what a notice means, see the list of housing legal aid providers on PG. 1190 to try and speak to a lawyer who may be able to help you.

KNOW WHERE TO COMPLAIN OR SEEK HELP IF PROBLEMS COME UP.

Understand that no single law covers all rental situations. And no single federal, state, or local government agency has the ability or authority to investigate every type of problem you might encounter. This guide suggests ways you might make a complaint or challenge a discriminatory act based on your criminal record. But also know that sometimes, private landlords are allowed to make decisions on the basis of your criminal conviction history. Learn more on PG. 399.

PREPARE THE INFORMATION YOU WILL NEED FOR A RENTAL APPLICATION:

A rental application may require you to provide any of the following information:

• Current and past addresses of where you have lived, your employers, your personal references, and your previous/current landlords.
• Your Social Security Number (SSN) and Driver’s License or State ID number. [Go to the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER for more information: getting a SSN covered on PG. 32; getting a Driver’s License or California State ID covered beginning on PG. 39.]
• The number of people expected to live in the unit.
• Bank account and credit account numbers. Questions about how much you earn and where your income comes from will almost certainly be on the rental application.

BE PREPARED TO PAY MOVE-IN COSTS.

You will likely have to pay for a screening fee when you apply for a place to live from a private landlord. California law allows a landlord to charge you out-of-pocket expenses, and the cost changes yearly.\(^ {124} \) It costs approximately $50 for a landlord’s screening of you. You will also likely have to pay a security deposit and 1-2 months worth of rent after you sign the lease agreement. This can be expensive—be prepared!!

\(^ {124} \) \text{CAL. CIV. CODE § 1950.6}
PROTECTIONS FOR ACTIVE MILITARY MEMBERS:

If you are in the military, the Service Members Civil Relief Act gives active duty members the right to terminate a lease when they are ordered to a new permanent location or any change of location that amounts to more than 90 days.

\[1244\] Servicemembers Civil Relief Act, 50 U.S.C. App. § 517.
EVICIONS

The HOUSING CHAPTER does NOT go into the specifics of eviction law—but we realize it is an issue you may come across and need help with. Below we include some very basic know-your-rights information if you are facing an eviction or received what is called a “3-Day Notice” from your landlord to do something (like pay rent).

It’s also important to know that if you engage in any “new criminal activity,” like committing a new crime, you and your entire household could face eviction.

If you need a lawyer to help with defending against an eviction, please see the list of housing legal aid providers on PG. 1190, who may be able to assist you.

If you are facing eviction, it’s important to ACT FAST to respond to the notice of eviction, so get in touch with a housing lawyer as soon as possible.

WHAT IS AN EVICTION?

Eviction is a process that a landlord can use to remove a tenant from a rental unit. The fancy legal term for an eviction lawsuit is an “unlawful detainer” action. It is called “unlawful detainer” because the landlord is accusing the tenant of staying in a rental unit when he or she does not have a legal right to do so, therefore, the rental unit is unlawfully detained. To “be evicted” means (1) you were the defendant (the renter who is being accused of unlawfully staying in the rental unit) in this type of lawsuit, (2) you lost the lawsuit, and (3) the court then ordered you to move out of the apartment or rental unit. If you leave a rental unit because the landlord asks you to do so, but you are never served with “unlawful detainer” eviction court papers, then you have not been evicted in the legal sense of the word.

I AM FACING AN EVICTION. WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

Since responding to an eviction notice can be VERY time-sensitive, it’s important to respond and act fast! Keep reading this section to learn more. It can also be VERY HELPFUL to have a lawyer assist you. If you need a lawyer to help with defending against an eviction, see the list of housing legal aid providers on PG. 1190 for organizations that may be able to assist you.

I RECEIVED A 3-DAY NOTICE TO DO SOMETHING FROM MY LAWDLORD. CAN I BE EVICTED BECAUSE OF THIS NOTICE?

There are different kinds of “3-Day” notices. Most 3-Day notices can be corrected without having to actually move out of your apartment or home. The most common is the 3-Day notice “to pay rent or quit.” A landlord can give other kinds of 3-Day notices, as well. Another common one is the notice that says the tenant (the person living in the apartment who is on the lease) has created a nuisance or has done something which is not allowed under the rules of the lease agreement. All of these notices must be in writing.
THE 3-DAY NOTICE TO “PAY RENT OR QUIT”:

If your rent is late or not paid in full, the landlord may give you a notice called a “Three-Day Notice to Pay Rent or Quit.” The landlord cannot give you this notice until the rent is late. This notice must be in writing.

WHAT MUST A “3-DAY NOTICE TO PAY RENT OR QUIT” SAY?

Under law, the notice must state:
1) The exact amount of rent you owe (generally, this may NOT include late charges or other fees, although some courts have allowed late charges to be included);
2) That you have a choice of paying the rent or MOVING OUT (“Quit” is the legal term for moving out);
3) Your correct address;
4) The name, address and telephone number of the person you are supposed to pay the rent to; AND
5) If you are allowed to pay rent in person, the usual days and hours the person receiving the rent will be available. Note: If there is some other way you are supposed to pay rent, the landlord may have to explain that to you.

WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS IF I GET A “3-DAY NOTICE TO PAY RENT OR QUIT”?

To figure out when the third day is, start counting with the day after you received the notice. If the third day falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a holiday, you then have until the next business day to pay or move.

(1) One choice is that you can move out during the 3 days. If you move out at this time, technically, the landlord CANNOT file a court eviction against you. However, some landlords try to do so anyway. If this happens, you should call a legal aid office immediately; see a list of legal aid providers across California on PG. 1190 that may be able to assist you. Also, even if you move out within the 3 days, the landlord can later sue you for past rent due. Most landlords will not bother with this.

(2) Another choice is to pay the rent. If you decide to pay, you should pay the ENTIRE AMOUNT that the notice asks for, before the three days are up. Make sure that you get a receipt. If you cannot pay the full amount, you may be better off not paying anything —unless you can agree on a payment schedule with the landlord. If you reach such an agreement, make sure it is in writing and keep a copy of the agreement.

If you offer the full amount asked for within the 3 days, the landlord MUST ACCEPT the money from you. If you think the landlord might refuse your money, take along a friend to be a witness just in case. After the 3 days, the landlord does not have to accept any money from you. If you decide to try to pay the landlord even though the 3 days are up, you should get a RECEIPT and ask the landlord to agree IN WRITING not to evict you. If the landlord refuses to agree to that, the landlord may still try to evict you.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I DO NOT PAY MY RENT OR DO NOT MOVE WITHIN THE 3 DAYS?

The landlord must go to court to evict you.
After the 3 days are over, the landlord cannot simply put you out in the street, change the locks, or have the police or sheriff evict you without going to court first. The 3-Day notice is only the first step in the eviction process. The landlord must go to court and get a judge’s order to get the rent and the house or apartment back. For a short explanation of the eviction process, see PG. 458.

THE 3-DAY NOTICE TO PERFORM COVENANT(S) OR QUIT

Sometimes this kind of notice is called “3-Day Notice to Perform or Quit.”

The landlord will give you this notice if s/he believes that you did something OR failed to do something that violated your lease or rental agreement. Some examples include, if you did not pick up trash around your place, if you took in pets when they are not allowed, or if you left a junk car in the parking lot. This notice must be IN WRITING.

After you get this notice, you have 3 days to fix the problem or move out.

To figure out when the last day to fix the problem or move out is, start counting with the day after you received the notice. If the third day falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a holiday, you then have until the next business day to correct the problem. If you do not fix the problem and if you do not move out by the third day, your landlord may start the court process to evict you. However, after the three days are over, the landlord cannot simply put you out in the street, change the locks, or have the police or sheriff evict you without going to court first. The landlord must file court papers and get a judge’s order to get the rent and the house or apartment back. For a short explanation of the eviction process, see PG. 458.

If you feel that you are being wrongly accused of breaking the lease, you should write to your landlord explaining your side of the story. Make sure to date and sign the letter and get it to the landlord as soon as possible. Make a copy of it to keep for your records.

If you already have broken the lease or rental agreement but now you agree to obey it, you should write a letter to the landlord. Tell him or her that you have done what the notice requested and that you will obey the lease agreement from now on. Sign and date the letter and get it to the landlord as soon as possible. Keep a copy for your records.

THE 3-DAY NOTICE TO QUIT

This kind of notice orders you to move because you have done something that the landlord believes cannot be corrected. This is the most serious notice your landlord can give you. For example, you may get this kind of notice if you have done illegal things (such as using or dealing drugs) on the property. This notice does not give you the chance to correct what was done. This notice means your landlord just wants you to move out. This notice must be in writing.

If you feel that you are being wrongly accused of doing something that you did not do, you should write to your landlord immediately and state that you did not do what you are accused of doing. Make sure you date and sign the letter and get it to the landlord as soon as possible. You must also keep a copy of the letter for your records.

If you do not move out by the third day, your landlord may start the court process to evict you. However, as with other eviction notices, after the 3 days are over, the landlord cannot simply kick you out without a court order.
SERVICE OF THE 3-DAY NOTICE

The law states that you must be given a 3-Day Notice in writing. The courts are not always strict about how the landlord gives the 3-Day Notice to you. However, the law says that the landlord must give the notice to in one of the following ways:

1) Personal Service — by handing you a copy.
2) Substituted Service — if you are not home or at your usual workplace, a copy can be left at either place with a person who is old enough to understand the importance of the 3-Day Notice. A copy of the notice must also be mailed to you. Keep the envelope in which the notice was mailed.
3) “Nail and Mail” — if the landlord cannot do either of the above, a copy of the 3-Day Notice can be posted on your property in a place that you will find it. A copy of the notice must also be mailed to you.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF MY LANDLORD TAKES ME TO COURT TO EVICT ME?

If the landlord takes you to court to evict you, you will get legal papers called a “Summons” and a “Complaint.” Make a note of what day you receive these papers. You have 5 days from the day you receive the Summons and Complaint to respond to the court. To count the 5 days: start counting with the day after you received the papers. You must count Saturdays and Sundays, but do not count court holidays. If the 5th day falls on a Saturday, Sunday or holiday, you will have until the end of the next court business day to “answer” these papers.

Example: Jane gets the Summons and Complaint papers on a Monday. Tuesday is the first day of the 5 days. The 5th day would be a Saturday. Jane has until the next business day, Monday, to file her papers. If Monday is a holiday, Jane has until Tuesday.

If you want to fight the eviction, you should contact a legal aid lawyer immediately. Do NOT wait until the fifth day to call!! If you wait until the last minute, they may not be able to help you.

Within those 5 days, you can file a written response to the landlord’s summons and complaint. You must use the right legal form and file it in the same court where the “Complaint” was filed. This form is called an “Answer.” If you are low-income and file a separate form called an “Application for Waiver of Court Fees and Costs,” you will probably not need to pay the court filing fees. You can get both the Answer and the Fee Waiver forms at the court clerk’s office.

When you fill out the Answer, you will need to list any legal defenses to the eviction. After you file the Answer, you will receive a “Memorandum to Set Case for Trial” and a notice of the trial date by mail. Generally, the trial must be within 20 days of when the landlord files the “Memorandum to Set Case for Trial.” The court clerk must mail you the notice telling you when the trial will be at least ten days before the trial. When your court date comes up, plan to arrive early at the courthouse so that you can find parking, get through the security check, and find the courtroom. If you are late and the judge has already called your case, you will lose your case.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I IGNORE THE SUMMONS AND COMPLAINT AND DO NOTHING?

After the five days are up, if you have not filed an Answer to challenge the eviction, the landlord can ask the court clerk for a “default judgment.” If this happens, you will NOT go before a judge. This means that the landlord automatically wins the case and gets the property back from you.

Sometimes the court will allow you to “re-open” the case after entering a “default judgment” if you have a good reason for not filing the Answer on time. If this happens to you, contact a legal aid organization and ask for assistance with a default eviction.

NOTE: You should not assume that the court will allow you to “re-open” your case. In many cases, the tenant’s request is denied. Therefore, you must try to file your Answer within the 5 days so that you do not lose your case by missing a legal deadline.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I LOSE IN COURT OR AFTER A JUDGMENT AGAINST ME?

If the landlord wins or gets a default judgment against you, the landlord will get a form called a “Writ of Possession.” The landlord takes this writ to the Sheriff’s Department who will then bring you (or post on your door) a “Notice to Vacate.” The notice will give you at least 5 days before the officer will come back to evict you. The Notice to Vacate will tell you exactly by what date and time you must be out of the house or apartment. Even if you are not completely moved out, the sheriff can prevent you from re-entering the house to get your stuff after the time and date listed on the notice. If you cannot get all of your belongings out in time, at least remove your important papers, medications, valuables, and clothing. If you leave things behind, you can claim them within 15 days of the eviction, but you will have to pay the storage and removal costs. However, the landlord cannot require you to pay back rent, attorney’s fees or court costs in order to get your belongings back.

HOW LONG DOES THE EVICTION PROCESS TAKE?

If you do not file an “Answer” to the eviction notice, the sheriff may be out to evict you as soon as 11 days after you receive the Summons and Complaint. If you file an Answer to the lawsuit, the process will take a little longer. Do not expect the entire process to take more than 1 month—it could take even less than 1 month. Contrary to some popular belief, you can be evicted if even if you are pregnant, have small children, have an unexpected financial hardship (like losing your job), if you’ve never been late with the rent before or if you have nowhere else to move.

I LIVE IN TRANSITIONAL HOUSING, AND THE HOUSING PROVIDER (OR PAROLE) IS TRYING TO EVICT ME WITH VERY LITTLE NOTICE & WITHOUT GOING TO COURT. IS THIS LEGAL & WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

In most cases, a transitional housing provider MUST follow all of the normal rules and laws to evict you. That means they must follow all of the rules for giving you proper notice and taking you to court if they want to evict you.

 There is one VERY SMALL EXCEPTION that could allow a transitional housing provider to evict you more quickly than the standard court process. However, for this exception to apply, it must be explicitly written in the contract you signed.

with the transitional housing provider. There are other requirements beyond that, but at a minimum, if it’s not in your contract with the transitional housing provider, then the transitional housing provider can’t evict you overnight, with little notice, or without first going to court.

If this issue is a condition of your supervision (a requirement of parole or probation), see the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 130, to learn more about rules (called “conditions”) of different types of supervision in California, and how to challenge them.
VIII. CONCLUSION

Where you live is critical to your well-being. Unfortunately, it can also be one of the most challenging aspects of reentry. Hopefully, this Chapter has helped you understand your housing options, and given you the tools to help you to find appropriate housing and recognize illegal discrimination when it occurs.

APPENDIX B

A list of transitional housing that may accept your application while you are still incarcerated

The following chart is a list of transitional housing options for individuals who are currently incarcerated and are being proactive about lining up housing for post release or are looking to provide documentation to the parole board that they have transitional housing that will accept them if they receive a parole date.

For more information on the different programs, you can write the address listed or call the phone number.

Please note that this chart is not comprehensive – there may be places that accept applications from people currently incarcerated who are not on this list.

APPENDIX D

Disabilities & Requesting Reasonable Accommodations on Any Housing Application

AS SOMEONE APPLYING FOR HOUSING (PRIVATE OR GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED), WHAT DO MY DISABILITIES HAVE TO DO WITH MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

If your can prove that your criminal conviction was the result of a disability—for example, due to mental illness and/or past drug addiction you may be able to get a “reasonable accommodation” when applying for ANY type of housing. However, a PHA, owner, or other housing provider is not required to grant a reasonable accommodation to an individual with a disability if that person would be a “direct threat” to the health, safety or property of others, unless the requested reasonable accommodations can actually eliminate or significantly reduce such a threat.

Under the law, housing providers cannot treat persons with disabilities exactly the same as other housing applicants or residents if doing so denies people with disabilities an equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling. Therefore, by law, a PHA or owner must make reasonable accommodations to its rules, policies, practices, or services when it may be necessary to provide applicants with disabilities an equal opportunity to use and enjoy a living space—even if that accommodation results in a preference for disabled individuals over similar, non-disabled individuals.

This rule applies to ALL types of housing—public and private.

WARNING: Just because you committed a criminal offense as a result of a disability does not mean you automatically have the right to a reasonable accommodation for housing. It can be very difficult to prove that your disability CAUSED your criminal offense, AND that the disability is the type that qualifies you for a reasonable accommodation.

IF MY CRIMINAL CONVICTION WAS THE RESULT OF A DISABILITY, WHAT IS A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION THAT I CAN ASK FOR?

A “reasonable accommodation” is a change, exception, or adjustment to a rule, policy, practice, or service that may be necessary to give an applicant with a disability an equal opportunity to use and enjoy a living space. There is no limit or restriction to the type of accommodation that you can request, as long as the accommodation is reasonable.
As a general rule, an accommodation will be considered reasonable so long as it does NOT:

1) Pose an undue financial burden on the PHA or owner, and/or
2) Require the PHA or owner to fundamentally change its housing program

OUR ADVICE:

You could ask a Public Housing Authority (PHA), owner, or housing provider to look at your criminal record using a different standard, or to make an exception to its criminal history policy altogether. For information on how to ask for a reasonable accommodation from a PHA, owner, or housing provider, see this.

WHAT IS CONSIDERED A DISABILITY IN CALIFORNIA?

California law defines a disability as any physical or mental impairment that limits one or more of your major life activities.

> What is a physical disability in California?

A physical impairment is any disease, physical disorder, physical condition, or disfigurement that:

- Affects one or more of your body systems (i.e. your heart, your eyes) or functions (i.e. breathing, speaking), and
- Limits a major life activity.

> What counts as a mental impairment?

A mental impairment is any mental or psychological condition that limits a major life activity. Common examples of mental impairments are:

- Intellectual disabilities
- Brain disease
- Emotional or mental illnesses
- Learning disabilities
- Any other mental or psychological condition that requires special attention or services

WHAT IS NOT CONSIDERED A DISABILITY IN CALIFORNIA?

It is not a protected disability if you are:

- Currently engaged in illegal drug use;
- Currently abusing alcohol in a way that interferes with others’ health, safety, or peaceful enjoyment of the property;
- People who pose a substantial threat to others, that cannot be controlled by a reasonable accommodation (see below for more information on reasonable accommodations)

---

1255 CAL. GOV’T CODE §§ 12925-12928.
1256 CAL. GOV’T CODE §§ 12925-12928.
DOES DRUG ADDICTION QUALIFY AS A DISABILITY?

Technically, yes, if it is PAST drug use and you have permanently stopped using illegal drugs, it does qualify as a disability under both federal and state law. BUT if you are currently using illegal drugs, then you are not considered disabled. See the next question for what is considered a disability in California.

IMPORTANT! There are no reported California cases where a rehabilitated applicant with a history of substance abuse, or an applicant with mental impairment, and a history of criminal acts arising from the substance abuse or mental illness has been granted a reasonable accommodation from a PHA’s criminal activity restrictions. Courts have generally been unreceptive to these arguments.

Specifically, courts have been hesitant to accept arguments that a housing applicant’s criminal convictions were the result of mental illness and/or past substance abuse. Again, since it may be difficult to prove that your criminal conviction was the result of your mental illness and/or drug addiction, it is important that you offer as much evidence as possible.

HOW CAN I PROVE MY PAST DRUG USE QUALIFIES AS A DISABILITY?

Under this rule, it can be tricky to prove that you are not a current illegal drug user, especially if there was drug use or convictions for drug use in your recent past. The law doesn’t clearly define what counts as “current” illegal drug use, and there are no reported California court decisions defining “current” illegal drug use. Some courts outside of California have said a person is NOT a current illegal drug user if that person has permanently stopped using illegal drugs for periods of time ranging from a few months to a year.

Outside of California, courts have said that someone is still a “current” user if they have stopped using for only a few weeks.

Based on the different ways courts are treating this issue, we recommend that you provide evidence that you are not a current user by showing any proof that:

- You have successfully completed a supervised substance abuse/drug rehabilitation program;
- You are not currently using illegal drugs (meaning any proof that you have permanently stopped using illegal drugs); and/or

---

1260 42 U.S.C. § 3602(h); 24 C.F.R. § 9.103. Federal HUD regulations define “handicap” to include drug addiction. Similarly, the ADA states that a person with a disability includes “someone who has successfully completed a drug rehabilitation program, is currently in such a program, or is mistakenly regarded as engaging in illegal drug use.”

• You are currently participating in a supervised substance abuse/drug rehabilitation, treatment, or self-help program.

REMEMBER:

It may be difficult to prove that your criminal conviction was the result of your mental illness and/or drug addiction. It is important that you submit as much evidence as possible!

EXAMPLES OF REASONABLE ACCOMMODATIONS INCLUDE:

- An exception (“a waiver”) to a PHA, owner, or housing provider’s policy that bars housing to applicants with criminal records, if your criminal conviction was caused by your disability;
- An owner or housing provider agreeing to admit a tenant with a mental illness that causes the tenant to sometimes become loud or confrontational, so long as the tenant agrees to seek treatment for his or her mental illness;
- An owner or housing provider allowing a tenant suffering from mental illness to have a live-in aid; or
- A PHA, owner, or housing provider accepting a reference from an applicant’s social worker or service provider if an applicant has no recent rental history.

---

IF I CAN SHOW THAT I’M DISABLED, HOW CAN I REQUEST A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION AS I APPLY FOR HOUSING?

Send a letter to the PHA/housing provider/owner/landlord (whomever is making the decision) requesting a reasonable accommodation. You should SEND A WRITTEN LETTER with a request that clearly explains ALL of the following:

1) That you have a disability, and what that disability is.
2) That the disability caused the offense. Attach any documentation you have, like:
   a. Letters from service providers showing that you experienced a mental illness and/or a drug addiction at the time of the offense;
   b. It’s even better if you can have a doctor submit a letter confirming the existence of your disability;
   c. If it is addiction, explain that you no longer suffer from addiction. Attach any documentation you have, like:
      i. Letters from service providers showing successful completion of a rehabilitation program or effective or ongoing treatment for your addiction;
      ii. Letters from service providers that show you are no longer using substances.
3) What your requested accommodation is, clearly stated:
   a. Ask for what you want directly!! You could ask a PHA, owner, or housing provider to look at your criminal record using a different standard, or to make an exception to its criminal history policy altogether.
4) Why the accommodation you are requesting is NECESSARY and REASONABLE.
   a. Here, you should say that an exception from criminal history policy is NECESSARY to give you an equal opportunity to access the housing.
      i. Explain how your criminal conduct was the result of the disability —showing the relationship (also called a “nexus”) between your disability and your requested accommodation.
      ii. It is helpful and more persuasive if you have a doctor or service provider submit a letter explaining why your disability requires a reasonable accommodation.
   b. You must also show that the requested accommodation is REASONABLE. A requested accommodation may be found reasonable if:
      i. It’s necessary for you to have an equal opportunity to enjoy the living space.

1263 29 U.S.C § 705.
1264 The Housing Center, Obtaining and Maintaining House: Fair Housing for People with Mental Health Disabilities. For more information about obtaining a reasonable accommodation, visit: http://www.fhrc.org/HRAC_Brochure.pdf.
1265 Joint Statement of the Dep’t of Hous. & Urban Dev. and the Department of Justice, Reasonable Accommodations Under the Fair Housing Act, 6 (May 17, 2004).
ii. It’s not too expensive for the landlord.
iii. The administrative burden is not too great.
iv. It doesn’t fundamentally change the PHA’s, housing provider’s, or owner/landlord’s operations.
v. A landlord or PHA accommodation that gives you “preference” over similar non-disabled people may be reasonable under the circumstances.

THE DIRECT THREAT EXCEPTION:

Remember that the law does not require that reasonable accommodations be granted to an individual with a disability if that person would be a “direct threat” to the health or safety of other individuals or if that person’s residency would result in substantial physical damage to the property of others UNLESS the reasonable accommodations requested can actually eliminate or significantly reduce such a threat. This is known as the “direct threat” exception.

There are some protections for you if a PHA, housing provider, or landlord/owner is arguing that you would be a direct threat to other tenants or property:

• First, a PHA or owner MUST PERFORM an individualized assessment of you.
• Second, if a reasonable accommodation can significantly reduce the “direct threat” posed by a recognized disability, then the PHA, housing provider, or landlord/owner must make it.
• Third, if the PHA, housing provider, or landlord/owner finds that you pose a direct threat to other tenants or property, this should be based only on actual examples of you causing harm or other factual, objective evidence—not their own fears or assumptions about what could happen.
• Fourth, a finding of a direct threat cannot be based on assumptions, stereotypes, or fears about mental illness, drug addiction, or other disabilities.

ONCE I HAVE SENT MY REQUEST FOR A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION, WHAT HAPPENS?

There are several phases of a reasonable accommodation request:

1) Initial request (see PG. 480). This is when you first send your letter informing the PHA, owner, or housing provider that you have a disability and are requesting a reasonable accommodation.

2) Verification: Once you make your initial request for a reasonable accommodation, the PHA, owner, or housing provider will want to verify that you are indeed disabled.
   a. If your disability is obvious or known, and the need for a reasonable accommodation is known, then the housing provider should not ask you for any more information.

---

1267 See Joint Statement of the Dep’t of Hous. & Urban Dev. and the Department of Justice, Reasonable Accommodations Under the Fair Housing Act (May 17, 2004).
b. If your disability is known and obvious, but your need for the accommodation is not well-known or obvious, then the housing provider should ask only for information necessary to verify the need for a reasonable accommodation—for example, notes explaining your need from a doctor or clinician.

c. If neither your disability nor the need for your accommodation is known nor obvious, the housing provider may ask for verification of both your disability and your need for a reasonable accommodation.

3) The Decision. After reviewing your request, the PHA, owner, or housing provider will decide whether or not to grant your reasonable accommodation request.

4) The “Interactive” process:
   a. If the PHA, owner, or housing provider refuses to grant you a reasonable accommodation, you should try to engage them in an informal “interactive process” in which you discuss alternative solutions that might meet both of your needs. HUD guidelines encourage you to try this informal route first, before starting the formal grievance procedure, because it is more flexible and often leads to quicker resolutions.
   b. If, after engaging in the “interactive process,” the PHA, owner, or housing provider still refuses to grant you a reasonable accommodation, you may have to file a formal Fair Housing complaint with HUD or the DFEH.

HOW CAN I CHALLENGE MY DENIAL FOR A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION?

OPTION 1: YOU CAN FILE A COMPLAINT.

If you believe that a PHA, owner, or housing provider denied your request for a reasonable accommodation due to your disability and/or your past drug use, you may file a complaint with HUD (federal housing protection agency) or with California’s DFEH (the state housing protection agency).

After you file a complaint, if HUD or DFEH determines that you were discriminated against (meaning it finds that your complaint has “merit”) then HUD or DFEH will file a civil lawsuit against the PHA, owner, or housing provider on your behalf. Go to Appendix H on PG. 491 to learn how to file a complaint with HUD or DFEH.

OPTION 2: YOU CAN TRY TO SUED IN COURT.

To sue a housing provider under the federal Fair Housing Act (FHA), California’s Fair Housing and Employment Act (FEHA), or other state anti-discrimination laws (such as California’s Unruh Civil Rights Act), you must show that your status as an individual with a disability or drug history was a motivating factor in the owner’s or PHA’s decision to deny your reasonable accommodation request. You must also provide sufficient evidence that the requested accommodation is reasonable, and that you are a former/recovering substance user (and not a current substance user), or that you are receiving treatment for your mental illness.

WHAT IS THE PHA, OWNER, OR LANDLORD LIKELY TO ARGUE TO DEFEND ITS DECISION TO DENY MY REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION?

The PHA or owner will likely argue that you do not have a protected disability. They might argue that, you are a “current user” of illegal drugs or substances, and therefore, you are not disabled under law, OR that you have not sought adequate treatment for your mental illness, and therefore are not disabled under law.

If you go to court, you can attempt to disprove these arguments by providing treatment records establishing that you have not used illegal substances for the relevant period of time, or that you receive treatment for your mental illness. Your argument will be even stronger if you can provide evidence of your participation in or completion of a drug/substance abuse treatment program, or proof that you receive treatment for your mental illness. Go to PG. 407 to learn more about challenging a denial from federal government-assisted housing, or go to PG. 447 to learn more about challenging a denial from private housing.

1276 See Head v. Glacier Northwest Inc., 413 F.3d 1053 (2005) (holding that the ADA outlaws adverse employment decisions motivated, even in part, by animus based on a plaintiff’s disability or request for an accommodation); Village of Arlington Heights v. Metro. Hous. Dev. Corp., 429 U.S. 252, 265 (1977); see also United States v. S. Mgmt. Corp., 955 F.2d 914, 916 (4th Cir. 1992) (finding a private apartment complex to have violated the FHA by refusing to rent units to a community drug and alcohol rehabilitation board for its participants who had remained drug-free for one year); Campbell v. Minneapolis Pub. Hous. Auth., 168 F.3d 1069 (8th Cir. 1999) (remanding a matter in which the local PHA had rejected a former substance abuser’s application to public housing because of insufficient evidence). Campbell demonstrates the importance of housing applicants providing documentation that he or she is a recovering substance user, not a current substance user.

Housing Owners’/ Landlords’ Access to Credit Reports

WHAT IS A CREDIT REPORT?

Your credit report includes information about creditworthiness, such as your record of paying bills on time. A credit report will show information dating back 7 years (or 10 years in the case of a bankruptcy), including the following:

- history of paying bills and loans on time or record of late payments;
- open accounts and level of indebtedness;
- collection actions;
- bankruptcies or tax liens; and
- civil court judgments, including housing-related court actions filed by a previous landlord that may or may not have led to a past eviction.

However, a credit report does NOT include criminal history information like a tenant report would.

WHO CAN ACCESS MY CREDIT REPORT?

Anyone who is evaluating your ability to pay for housing can order your credit report in California. That means that private owners, PHAs, AND owners of government-assisted housing can order a credit report to see if you have good credit and will be a reliable tenant.

DOES MY CONSISTENTLY PAYING RENT ON TIME IN THE PAST HELP MY CREDIT STANDING?

Maybe, but most likely not. The companies that collect information about your credit standing are only just beginning to collect this information in a systematic way.

A credit report will show whether or not you’ve ever been evicted, your ability to pay credit card bills, utility bills, and other bills on time, and any success you’ve had paying back loans.

CAN SOMEONE FIND OUT ABOUT PAST LATE PAYMENTS ON RENT FROM A CREDIT REPORT?

Maybe. Generally, late rent payments are not a part of your credit history unless the landlord or management company is reporting them. If the matter was referred to a collection agency or a civil court (like eviction case started against you), it is possible it would show up on your credit report.

HELPFUL HINT:

If you are looking for a rental, it is best to check your credit reports before the PHA or owner does—so you know what they will find. You can go online and order FREE credit reports from the three national credit bureaus: Experian, TransUnion, and Equifax. If there’s an error, it’s a good idea to file a dispute with the bureau rather than try to explain it at the last minute.

San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance

WHAT IS THE SAN FRANCISCO FAIR CHANCE ORDINANCE?

The San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance is a new law that offers special protections for people with criminal records who apply to certain types of affordable housing in San Francisco. (If you are interested in the parts of this new law that apply to employment, go the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, Appendix G, on PG. 724.)

LOOKING FOR MORE INFORMATION ONLINE?

Check out the San Francisco Human Rights Commission’s website about how the San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance applies to affordable housing providers: http://sf-hrc.org/sites/sf-hrc.org/files/Fair%20Chance%20Housing%20Notice%20FINAL.pdf.

WHAT KINDS OF HOUSING DOES THE SAN FRANCISCO FAIR CHANCE ORDINANCE PROTECT?

It protects applicants and tenants in city-funded affordable housing in San Francisco, CA. It does NOT apply to federally subsidized housing (unless the property is receiving multiple subsidies including city-funded subsidies to keep it affordable).

DOES THE SAN FRANCISCO FAIR CHANCE ORDINANCE APPLY TO FEDERAL GOVERNMENT-ASSISTED HOUSING?

No. These new legal protections apply only to city government-funded affordable housing in San Francisco, CA.

WHAT KIND OF PROTECTIONS DOES THIS LAW GIVE ME IF I’M APPLYING TO CITY-FUNDED AFFORDABLE HOUSING IN SAN FRANCISCO AND HAVE A CRIMINAL RECORD?

We break down all the rights it gives you in each step in your affordable housing application process:

STEP 1: YOUR RIGHTS WHEN APPLYING FOR AFFORDABLE HOUSING IN SAN FRANCISCO

When you are APPLYING, Affordable housing providers in San Francisco:

• MUST NOT have a question about past convictions on the initial application. Before an affordable housing provider asks about your convictions or looks at a background check report on you, it must:

1281 S.F. POLICE CODE, Art. 49, San Francisco’s Fair Chance Ordinance.

- Determine that you are (1) legally eligible to rent the housing unit and (2) qualified to rent the housing unit under the affordable housing provider’s criteria for evaluating rental history and credit history;
- Provide notice about the San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance; and
- Provide notice about state and federal laws about background checks.

• MUST NOT have blanket bans like “No Felons Apply.”
• In ads, they MUST state that they will consider qualified applicants with criminal histories.
• They MUST have a notice posted about the San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance. Here is an electronic copy of the notice that affordable housing providers must post: http://sf-hrc.org/sites/sf-hrc.org/files/Fair%20Chance%20Housing%20Notice%20FINAL.pdf. You can also see a copy on APPENDIX G, PG. 487.

STEP 2: YOUR RIGHTS WHEN ASKED ABOUT YOUR BACKGROUND

What can city-funded affordable housing providers in San Francisco ask me about my criminal record after they find I am qualified for the housing in every other way?

After you’re found qualified, an affordable housing provider in San Francisco can ask about:

- Pending (open) arrests, and
- Convictions that are 0–7 years old (based on the date of sentencing).

BUT even though they can ask about this information, there are limits on how the affordable housing provider can use it—see Step 3 below.

What can city-funded affordable housing providers in San Francisco NEVER ask me about my criminal record?

City-funded housing providers in San Francisco can never ask about:

- Arrests that didn’t lead to a conviction;
- Diversion or deferral programs;
- Dismissed convictions (which means any conviction that has been dismissed, expunged, voided, invalidated, or made inoperative by the Court);
- Juvenile convictions;
- Convictions older than 7 years (based on the date of sentencing);
- Infractions (meaning anything that is not a misdemeanor or felony under law).
- Affordable housing providers cannot ask about these 6 types of cases and can never use them against you at any stage!

STEP 3: YOUR RIGHTS WHEN BEING CONSIDERED

An affordable housing provider in San Francisco that is considering your conviction history must:

---

1282 A housing provider may run a criminal history/background check report at the same time as it runs a rental or credit history check, BUT it may not look at the report before determining if the applicant is qualified to live in the housing unit.
1283 S.F. POLICE CODE, Art. 49, § 4907(b).
1284 S.F. POLICE CODE, Art. 49, § 4907(c).
1285 S.F. POLICE CODE, Art. 49, §§ 4906, 4907.
1286 S.F. POLICE CODE, Art. 49, § 4903.
• Conduct an individualized assessment—meaning look at all of the circumstances of the person applying to housing and information available about their criminal record, including mitigating circumstances;

• Consider only “directly-related” convictions — which means that the underlying conduct “has a direct and specific negative bearing on the safety of persons or property, given the nature of the housing;”

• Consider the time that has passed since your conviction(s); and

• Consider any evidence of rehabilitation or mitigating information you share, such as:
  o Completion of parole or probation;
  o Letters of recommendation from employers or others;
  o Education or training you’ve received;
  o Participation in an alcohol/drug treatment program;
  o Completion of rehabilitation programs; and o Any additional context for the conviction—including your age when you were convicted, or mitigating factors like physical or emotional abuse, coercion, untreated abuse/mental illness that led to the conviction.

STEP 4: YOUR RIGHTS IF YOU ARE DENIED SF AFFORDABLE HOUSING BECAUSE OF YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD

If an affordable housing provider in SF wants to deny you because of your record, THEY MUST abide by the following rules:

• They cannot deny you because of a conviction more than 7 years old (based on the date of sentencing)
• They cannot deny you because of arrests that never led to convictions;
• They must provide you a copy of your background report;
• They must tell you why you were denied—what the issue was in your conviction history; and
• Give you 14 days to provide information about your rehabilitation or any errors in the background check report.

STEP 5: YOUR RIGHT TO A FINAL DECISION AFTER YOU RESPOND & ANOTHER LEVEL OF APPEAL

Must I get notice of the housing provider’s final decision?

Yes. An affordable housing provider in SF who makes a final decision to deny you must give you a final notice. If a final negative decision is made based on your criminal record, you should consider challenging the decision to the San Francisco Human Rights Commission. HOW? See STEP 6 below.

STEP 6: REPORT CLEAR VIOLATIONS* TO THE SAN FRANCISCO HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION WITHIN 60 DAYS

If you believe that there has been a violation of the rules above, you should report it to the SF Human Rights Commission. This must be done within 60 days of the violation (when you get your final decision).

---

1287 S.F. Police Code, Art. 49, § 4903.
1288 S.F., Cal., Police Code, Art. 49, § 4911(a).
You can begin the process of reporting a violation by following these 3 steps:

- STEP 1: Fill out a complaint form online here: http://hrc.sfintranet.firmstep.com/achieveforms-node/discrimination-public-form, and submit. Give as many details about the discrimination as possible! You can submit the complaint form online, by mail, or in person.

- STEP 2: Call (415) 252-2500 to schedule an intake interview. If you submitted the intake questionnaire online, HRC will contact you to set up an intake interview appointment.

- STEP 3: After intake, the HRC will try to mediate between you and the housing provider; investigate the alleged violation; and make a finding about whether or not the housing provider broke the law. The HRC’s process for responding to these complaints looks like this:

!Intake Mediation Investigation Finding

NOTE: HRC’s Discrimination Complaints Investigation and Mediation Division investigates and mediates complaints of discrimination and non-compliance in employment, housing, and public accommodation.1289

REMEMBER—YOU ARE AN AGENT OF CHANGE! ✓

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO REPORT VIOLATIONS OF THE SAN FRANCISCO FAIR CHANCE ORDINANCE TO THE SAN FRANCISCO HRC?

It’s important to report violations because:

- You are helping to enforce this important law that adds protection for people with criminal records applying for affordable housing in San Francisco;
- Helping others in your community;
- The Human Rights Commission (HRC) can find out more information than you can;
- You could get relief—for example, be admitted into the affordable housing;
- The affordable housing provider could be penalized by the city—and hopefully won’t do it again!1290

APPENDIX H

Filing a Complaint for Illegal Discrimination in Private Housing

If you believe you have been illegally discriminated against in applying for private housing from a private landlord (meaning neither the owner, you nor the property receive federal government money to assist in making the housing more affordable), you can challenge that discriminatory denial. Read about how to challenge an illegal discriminatory denial below, and which government agencies you should contact.

WHAT GOVERNMENT AGENCIES ARE IN CHARGE OF INVESTIGATING HOUSING DISCRIMINATION COMPLAINTS?

FEDERAL HOUSING AGENCY:

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is a federal agency that enforces the federal Fair Housing Act (FHA). HUD has to refer the complaints of housing discrimination it receives to the fair housing enforcement agency in the state where the discrimination occurred if that state’s fair housing agency is certified by HUD as having mostly the same laws, procedures, remedies, and judicial review.

AND

STATE HOUSING AGENCY:

In California, our state fair housing enforcement agency is the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH), and it is certified by HUD to enforce, investigate, conciliate, and litigate discriminatory housing practices in California.

I BELIEVE A PRIVATE LANDLORD ILLEGALLY DISCRIMINATED AGAINST ME DUE TO MY CRIMINAL RECORD. WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

Your 3 main options are:

You could file an administrative complaint with California’s DFEH (the state housing protection agency);

1) You could file an administrative complaint with HUD (the federal housing protection agency);

2) You could file a civil lawsuit in state or federal court;

OR

3) You could allow HUD (the federal housing agency) or California’s DFEH (the state housing agency) to file a lawsuit on your behalf.

---

1292 42 U.S.C. § 3610(f).
> HOW CAN I FIGURE OUT WHICH OPTION TO CHOOSE?

Talk to a lawyer or an advocate at a nonprofit legal services organization if possible—they can help advise you! Also, you can always file a complaint with both HUD & DFEH. More on each of these 3 options below.

You can file an administrative complaint with California’s DFEH or the federal agency HUD, or both. This may lead to a lawsuit in civil court (possible with both DFEH or HUD) or an administrative hearing (HUD only). Read about how to file a state administrative complaint and a federal administrative complaint below.

OPTION 1:

FILING A STATE ADMINISTRATIVE COMPLAINT WITH CALIFORNIA’S DFEH.

You can file an administrative complaint with California’s DFEH within 1 year of the discriminatory act. To begin the process, you must contact DFEH in writing, online, or by phone, with basic information about the discrimination (what happened to you, when, where, etc.). The DFEH will conduct an intake interview to learn more about your situation, and to determine whether you can file a formal (“verified”) complaint. See PG. 492 for a step-by-step explanation of the DFEH’s state complaint process.

Under what circumstances will California’s DFEH accept my complaint?

DFEH is supposed to be very generous in accepting your complaint. However, in some cases, the DFEH may decide that you cannot file a complaint—for example, if the landlord’s conduct is legal, happened more than a year ago, or is outside of DFEH’s legal control, or if you already filed a complaint with DFEH or HUD regarding the same discrimination.

How much time does the DFEH have to respond and investigate?

Once the DFEH accepts your complaint, it must follow certain time limits. The DFEH has 10 days to inform you of your procedural rights and obligations. The landlord then has 20 days to respond to the complaint. Within 30 days, DFEH must begin to investigate your complaint, and it must finish the investigation within 100 days.

Will I have to do anything else while I wait for a response from the DFEH?

Maybe. At some point (before, during, or after the investigation), the DFEH may also require you and the landlord to go through mediation (meaning an alternative dispute resolution or a settlement negotiation) to see whether you can resolve the problem cooperatively.

---

1293 Please note that the DFEH complaint process was changed starting in 2013. Previously, the Department would issue an accusation after determining that the landlord discriminated against you. You then had the right to choose between an administrative hearing before an administrative law judge, or a civil lawsuit in court. Starting in 2013, the accusation and administrative hearing option were eliminated; so DFEH must automatically file a civil lawsuit if it finds that you were discriminated against. Cal. Gov’t. Code § 12981 (effective Jan. 1, 2004–Dec. 31, 2012), repealed by 2012 Cal. Legis. Ch. 46 § 56 (S.B. 1038) (effective Jan. 1, 2013). For more information on these changes, see Phyllis W. Cheng, Transformative Year for Civil Rights in CA, LOS ANGELES DAILY JOURNAL, Aug. 2, 2012.

1296 2 CAL. CODE REGS. §§ 10038.

1301 2 CAL. CODE REGS. § 10056-57.
HERE IS A STEP-BY-STEP OVERVIEW OF THE FEHA HOUSING COMPLAINT PROCESS IN CALIFORNIA:

STEP 4: File a Pre-Complaint Questionnaire.

First, you need to file a Pre-Complaint Questionnaire, Form DFEH-700-01 (English) or Form DFEH-700-01S (Spanish). A Pre-Complaint Questionnaire can be filed by you, the Director of DFEH, or a community organization. You can do this online, by phone, or by mail.

NOTE: It's important that you provide an up-to-date phone number where you can be reached!

- Online: Go to http://esq5.houdiniesq.com/dfeh/intake/, create an account, log in, and fill out the Pre-Complaint Questionnaire. Alternatively, you can email your Pre-Complaint Questionnaire to contact.center@dfeh.ca.gov.

  - By Phone: Call the DFEH's Communication Center at (800) 884-1684. If you have a hearing impairment, please call 800-884-1684 or TTY at (800) 700-2320 for service.

  - By mail: Request a printed copy of the form through the DFEH website (http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/contact.htm). After you carefully fill out the questionnaire, you can send it to the DFEH office nearest you (see the list below for office locations):

    - DFEH—Elk Grove Office
      2218 Kausen Drive, S. 100
      Elk Grove, CA 95758

    - DFEH—Bay Area Regional Office
      39141 Civic Center Drive, S. 250
      Fremont, CA 94538

    - DFEH—Fresno Office
      1277 E. Alluvial Avenue, S. 101
      Fresno, CA 93720

    - DFEH—Bakersfield Office
      4800 Stockdale Highway, S. 215
      Bakersfield, CA 93309

    - DFEH—Los Angeles Office
      320 West 4th St., 10th Floor
      Los Angeles, CA 90013

STEP 5: Intake.

Within 10 days of receiving your Pre-Complaint Questionnaire, an investigator from the DFEH will contact you by telephone to conduct an intake interview. The investigator will ask you questions to collect facts about the possible discrimination.

STEP 6: File the Formal Complaint.

If your complaint is accepted for investigation, the DFEH investigator will draft the complaint and ask for you or your representative to sign the complaint. This formal complaint is then served on the “Respondent” (the person or entity that who you have made the allegation against). The Respondent is required to answer the complaint and is given the opportunity to voluntarily resolve it. A no-fault resolution can be negotiated at any time during the complaint process.

---

If there is also federal law that would protect you, then the formal complaint is also filed with the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Note: HUD usually accepts DFEH’s findings with respect to the alleged discrimination.

STEP 7: Investigation Period.
DFEH must investigate every case in a standard, timely manner.

DFEH has the authority to take depositions, issue subpoenas and interrogatories and seek Temporary Restraining Orders when appropriate.

If the investigative findings do not show a violation of the law, the DFEH will close the case. If the DFEH finds a violation, continue to STEP 5.

STEP 8: Mediation (a.k.a. “Conciliation”)

If the DFEH’s investigation shows that there was a violation of fair housing law, then it will schedule formal mediation/conciliation conferences between the DFEH’s representatives, you, and the responding landlord.

During the mediation/conciliation conference, the DFEH presents information supporting its belief that there has been a violation and explores options to resolve the complaint.

If formal mediation/conciliation fails, the DFEH will then have to decide whether or not to file a civil lawsuit.

- Possible Outcome #1: If the DFEH determines that you have been discriminated against (that your complaint has “merit”), and that the discrimination cannot be resolved through mediation, the DFEH will file a civil lawsuit against the landlord on your behalf. (Continue to STEP 6 below).

- Possible Outcome #2: If the DFEH decides not to file a lawsuit (or takes longer than 100 days to file the lawsuit), the DFEH must give you a written notice with the following information: (1) DFEH’s decision regarding your complaint, (2) the reasons for the DFEH’s decision; (3) your right to sue the landlord directly in court (see PG. 496 below on how to file a civil lawsuit in court); and (3) a list of resources for filing a civil lawsuit.

STEP 9: Litigation
If the DFEH decides to litigate the case, it will be heard in civil court.

STEP 10: Court Remedies & Possible Outcomes.
If the lawsuit is successful (meaning the court finds that the landlord discriminated against you), you may be awarded some or all of the following remedies:

1) actual money damages (to compensate you for your losses);
2) punitive damages (to punish the landlord for committing illegal discrimination);
3) injunctive relief (ordering the landlord to stop discriminating or take some other action, such as changing its screening procedures or providing you with housing); AND/OR

\[\text{CAL. GOV'T CODE § 12980(h); 2 CAL. CODE REGS. § 10064. DFEH must give you this notice within 30 days after (1) deciding not to file a lawsuit, or (2) 100 days passes, whichever comes first. When deciding whether to file a civil lawsuit, the Department will consider the following factors: (1) whether there is strong evidence of discrimination; (2) whether a lawsuit is likely to be successful; (3) whether the discrimination involves an important legal issue for establishing new caselaw; (4) whether the lawsuit and its impact on civil rights are consistent with DFEH’s mission; and/or (5) whether landlord offered to resolve the issue directly and you refused. 2 CAL. CODE REGS. § 10063(c).}\]
4) attorneys fees and costs (to reimburse the DFEH or a private attorney for the costs of the lawsuit).

Below is a flowchart showing what happens when you file a DFEH complaint.

Remember: if HUD (the federal fair housing agency, see PG. 495) also has jurisdiction (legal authority) over your housing complaint, then the DFEH will also file your complaint with HUD at the same time.

OPTION 2:

FILING A FEDERAL ADMINISTRATIVE COMPLAINT WITH HUD.

The procedures and potential relief of filing an administrative complaint with HUD are basically the same as filing an administrative complaint with California’s DFEH (see PG. 492 on how to file state housing discrimination complaint with the DFEH).

How much time do I have to file a complaint after the discriminatory act occurs?

You have 1 year after the discriminatory practice occurs to file your complaint with HUD.

How long does HUD have to respond and investigate?

HUD has 100 days to determine if there is “reasonable cause” to believe the discrimination occurred. Within these 100 days, HUD must try to facilitate a conciliation agreement (meaning an agreement that solves the problem) between you and the landlord who discriminated.¹³⁰⁶

Will HUD ever give special treatment to my housing discrimination complaint over other ones?

* HUD gives special treatment in 2 types of cases:

Special Case #1: If HUD decides that a court must act quickly, it can refer your case to the U.S. Department of Justice (U.S. DOJ) which must then file a civil enforcement action for temporary or permanent injunctive relief pending a final disposition on the case.¹³⁰⁹ This civil action doesn’t stop the administrative proceedings; it just tries to create a solution more quickly when it’s deemed necessary.

Special Case #2: If your complaint has to do with the legality or illegality of any zoning or other land use law, then HUD must refer it to the U.S. DOJ for civil prosecution.¹³¹⁰ HUD must then file either a charge against the respondent, or dismiss the complaint.

OPTION 3: YOU CAN FILE A CIVIL LAWSUIT DIRECTLY IN STATE OR FEDERAL COURT—DEPENDING ON WHAT KINDS OF LEGAL VIOLATIONS YOU ARE ALLEGING.

You may file a civil state or federal lawsuit under either or both federal law (e.g., the FHA) and state law (e.g., the FEHA, the Unruh Act, or other laws).

1) Under federal Law: FHA and FEHA, you must file your lawsuit within 2 years of the discriminatory act itself OR within 2 years of the landlord violating a mediation/conciliation agreement that HUD or DFEH had facilitated for you (refer back to STEP 5 on PG. 494 above).

2) Under state law: California’s Unruh Act, there is not a clear deadline by when you must file the lawsuit, but it could be as short of a timeline as 1 year¹³¹³ If you are able to do so, talk to an attorney about your options and timelines as soon as possible after the discrimination occurs (see a list of housing legal aid providers across California on PG. 1190).

What remedies are available to me in a state or federal lawsuit?

If the lawsuit is successful (meaning the judge finds that the landlord discriminated against you), you may be awarded some or all of the following remedies:

3) actual money damages (to compensate you for your losses);
   a. punitive damages (to punish the landlord for committing illegal discrimination);
   b. injunctive relief (ordering the landlord to stop discriminating or take some other action, such as changing its screening procedures or providing you with housing); AND/OR
   c. attorneys fees and costs (to reimburse the DFEH or a private attorney for the costs of the lawsuit).¹³¹⁴

¹³⁰⁶ 42 U.S.C. § 3610(b).
¹³⁰⁹ 42 U.S.C. § 3610(e).
¹³¹¹ 42 U.S.C. § 3610(g)(3).
¹³¹² 42 U.S.C. § 3613(a); CAL. GOV’T CODE § 1289.1.
¹³¹⁴ 42 U.S.C. § 3613(c); CAL. GOV’T CODE § 1289.2.
OPTION #4:
The U.S. Department of Justice (U.S. DOJ) or the California Department of Justice (CA DOJ) may also file a complaint—on the behalf of their government agencies OR on your behalf.

The U.S. DOJ may file a civil lawsuit in federal court if there is reasonable cause to believe that:

1) any person or group is engaged in a pattern or practice of unlawful acts,
2) or (2) the denial of federal or state housing rights is an issue of “general public importance.”

The California Attorney General, who leads the CA DOJ, may also file a civil lawsuit in state court under the same standard. In such a case, the California Attorney General and the DFEH (California Department of Fair Employment and Housing) must comply with the California State Bar’s Rules of Professional Conduct in representing your interests, establish an attorney-client relationship, and zealously represent your interests.

This type of lawsuit is called a “state enforcement action,” and the U.S. DOJ or CA DOJ must file the lawsuit within 18 months (1.5 years) after the discriminatory act.

DOES MY CITY HAVE ADDITIONAL LOCAL PROTECTIONS?

It may! If your city or county has special protections against housing discrimination of people with records, or has local agencies in charge of enforcing fair housing laws, then you may also want to bring your housing discrimination complaint to the city agency responsible for fair housing where you live. If you aren’t sure, you can always ask someone at the DFEH, or ask a local nonprofit housing attorney (see a list of legal aid organizations that may be able to assist you on PG. 1190). For example, the city of San Francisco, CA has a new law called the “Fair Chance Ordinance” that adds additional protections for people with criminal records who apply to live in city-funded affordable housing (which includes Below Market Rate or “BMR” units in private buildings in SF). Go to Appendix H, PG. 491 for information on the San Francisco law and the process of filing a complaint against a landlord or housing provider who has violated the law in San Francisco.

1316 CAL. GOV’T CODE § 12989.3. California Government Code Section 12981.1 permits DFEH to dismiss a complaint only if “no reasonable cause exists to believe that an unlawful housing practice” has occurred. California Government Code Sections 12980(d) and 12981(g) ensure that complainants are notified of the limited availability of damages in administrative proceedings.

APPENDIX I

Rural development (RD) grievance procedures

The grievance procedures for Rural Development (RD) housing are different from most other government-assisted housing programs. Here is an overview of how it works if you live in RD housing:

- When a grievance is filed, regulations require the owner of the multifamily property (or owner’s representative) to offer to meet informally with the denied applicant within 10 calendar days to resolve the grievance.
- If the informal meeting fails to resolve the issue, the owner must file a report summarizing the problem to USDA and the applicant.
- The applicant (you) may submit a summary of the problem to USDA.
- After you get a summary of the problem, you must file a written request for an informal review hearing within 10 calendar days.
- After you request the informal review hearing, a hearing panel will be selected.
- You and the owner of the multifamily property may agree on a hearing officer, or you may each appoint one member of a 3-person panel, and those two hearing officers choose the third officer. If you and the owner cannot agree within 30 days on the two hearing officers, USDA will give you notice and appoint a person to act as the sole hearing officer.
- A USDA-approved ‘Standing Hearing Panel’ can also hear all grievances related to a particular development, where at least one member of the standing hearing panel must be selected by the residents at a formal resident meeting called to select hearing panel members.
- After the hearing panel is selected, the hearing will be scheduled within 15 days.
APPENDIX J

Transitional Housing Participant Misconduct Act (THPMA)

It is very common to live in a transitional housing program after release from prison or jail. As described on PG. 382, transitional housing programs are temporary programs that offer temporary housing and services. They usually have requirements you have to meet before you can move in, and there are usually waitlists. Some transitional housing programs offer services like job training, counseling, GED programs, and computer classes. Some transitional housing programs are intended for people with specific needs such as mental illness, addiction treatment and recovery (see PG. 391), disabilities (PG. 477), or domestic violence support (see PG. 386).

In this section, we explain a special law called the Transitional Housing Participant Misconduct Act (THPMA). Just because you live in transitional housing does NOT mean that the THPMA applies to you, so read carefully!

HOW CAN A TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROVIDER REMOVE ME FROM MY HOUSING?

AS A GENERAL RULE:

If a resident and a transitional housing provider have an agreement for that person to live in the housing unit, the transitional housing provider MUST follow California’s formal eviction process in civil court (these cases are called “unlawful detainer” actions under the law). If a transitional housing provider removes you without going through the formal court process, that housing provider could be subject to legal liability. If possible, talk to an lawyer or advocate at a legal aid organization about your rights (see a list of legal aid organizations across California, beginning on PG. 1190).

EXCEPTION TO THE GENERAL RULE—THE THPMA:

The THPMA is a California state law and says owners of transitional housing can evict you more quickly than a normal eviction procedure ONLY IF the following 3 requirements are met:

• You committed “participant misconduct or abuse”;
• You have lived in the transitional housing program for less than 6 months; AND
• You signed a WRITTEN CONTRACT with the transitional housing provider when entering the program that explicitly stated that the THPMA applied, with information about your rights and the procedure for using the THPMA to kick someone out more quickly.

ALL of these factors need to be true, and most of the time, they are not, so REMEMBER—generally you have the same rights as a tenant facing eviction, which means usually a transitional housing provider has to go through the court process to evict (remove) you.
WHAT IS CONSIDERED A “TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM” UNDER THE THPMA?

Under the THPMA, a transitional housing program is any program designed to assist homeless persons to live independently in permanent housing with all the following components:

1) Residency requirements from 30 days to 24 months.
2) Provides comprehensive social service programs incl. individualized case mgt. and may include other services such as alcohol/substance abuse counseling, self-improvement training, employment and training, and living skills.
3) Provides temporary housing with structured setting and rules participants need to comply with to remain in program.

WHEN MAY A TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM OPERATOR USE THE THPMA PROCESS AND EVICT ME MORE QUICKLY THAN THE NORMAL EVICTION PROCESS?

An operator may use the faster, expedited THPMA restraining order/injunction process only for (1) program misconduct, or (2) abuse, defined below.

1) Program misconduct—is an intentional violation of the transitional housing program’s rules and regulations. The intentional violation must “substantially interfere with the orderly operation of the program,” and involve one of the following acts:
   o Drunkenness on site;
   o Unlawful use or sale of drugs;
   o Theft;
   o Arson;
   o Destruction of property (against the operator, other program participants, employees, or people living within 100 feet of the program site); or o Violence or threat of violence and harassment (against the operator, other program participants, employees, or people living within 100 feet of the program site).

OR

2) Abuse—is intentionally or recklessly causing, or attempting to cause, bodily injury or sexual assault; or placing someone else in reasonable fear of “imminent serious bodily injury” (against yourself, the operator, other program participants, employees, or people living within 100 feet of the program site).

Even in these situations, the transitional housing provider may NOT use the expedited THPMA removal process against a participant in the program for 6 months or more, unless a restraining order (permanent injunction) or temporary restraining order (TRO) is already pending or in force against you.
If the operator hasn’t started a THPMA action within 6 months of your participation in the program, then the operator must either (1) go through the form eviction (“unlawful detainer”) court process, and/or (2) use a traditional civil harassment restraining order process to remove you.

HOW COULD A TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM OPERATOR USE THE THPMA PROCESS?

If the above requirements are all met, a transitional housing program operator may:

1) Use the formal eviction/”unlawful detainer” court process (see the GENERAL RULE on PG. 499—the THPMA gives the transitional housing owner two options for evicting someone); OR
2) If program misconduct or abuse: Use the Temporary Restraining Order (TRO)/injunction process under the THPMA.

WHAT IS THE TRO PROCESS?

The TRO process is a 2-step process:

STEP 1: The transitional housing program operator must file an application for an immediate temporary restraining order (TRO) until a hearing can take place. This immediate TRO may include orders that you (the program participant) refrain from misconduct, or it may exclude you from participating and living at the transitional housing program site, and stay at least 200 feet away from the site of abuse (defined above, PG. 500) was alleged.

STEP 2: There is a hearing on permanent injunction—usually within in 5 days of the program operator filing the TRO. For the judge to issue a permanent injunction (permanent restraining order) at the hearing, there must be clear and convincing evidence of program misconduct or abuse by the participant.

WHAT ARE “STAY AWAY” AND “EXCLUSION” ORDERS, AND WHEN CAN A PROGRAM OPERATOR GET ONE AGAINST ME?

These types of orders are defined below:

- Exclusion Order: An exclusion order says that you are not allowed to participate or live at the program site.
- Stay Away Order: A stay away order says that you cannot be within 200 feet of the transitional housing program site or other program sites that it runs.

A transitional housing program operator may only ask for exclusion and stay away orders for “abuse,” NOT for “program misconduct” (defined above on PG. 500). These orders can last for up to 1 year after the hearing, and the operator can ask the court to renew the restraining order after that (NOTE: the operator must ask for an extension of the exclusion or stay away order at least 3 months before the original one expires).

The program operator may also be able to get an immediate exclusion or stay away order from the court in a temporary restraining order (TRO) hearing—but only if it’s an emergency. It can only be considered an emergency if it’s 1319 See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 527.6.

---

necessary to protect another participant, employee, or person living within 100 feet of the program site from “imminent serious bodily injury.”

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF THE TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM OPERATOR GETS AN EXCLUSION OR “STAY AWAY” ORDER?

Before the hearing, through a TRO, the transitional housing program operator may have you immediately removed from the unit.

After the hearing, the transitional housing program operator may take immediate possession of the unit and consider it “abandoned.” If there are other people living in the unit (for example, your family members), but those other people were not named in the restraining order petition, then the program operator may only remove you, and anyone actually named in the petition. A copy of the order will also be given to the local police.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF THE TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PROGRAM OPERATOR DOESN’T GET AN EXCLUSION OR STAY AWAY ORDER?

If you violate the conditions of the restraining order (also called a permanent injunction), the transitional housing program operator may:

1) Serve you with a 3-day “notice to quit”—meaning you have 3 days to get you and your belongings out of the transitional housing program; and after the 3 days are up, the operator can start a formal eviction process in court (an “unlawful detainer” action – learn more about these eviction lawsuits on PG. 458 above).
2) File a “contempt” action in court along with a request (called a “petition”) to modify the exiting restraining order to include an exclusion order (EVEN IF the original action was based only on “program misconduct”),
3) Finally, if you “willfully disobey” the court’s restraining order, you could be charged and possibly convicted of a criminal misdemeanor.
4) Below, we have copied the instructions from the California Courts for someone who is participating in a transitional housing program covered by the THPMA and who receives restraining order papers.

You can download all forms related to the THPMA on the California Superior Court’s website at http://www.courts.ca.gov/forms.htm?filter=TH.

WHAT STEPS DOES THE CALIFORNIA COURT SUGGEST I TAKE IF YOU’M BEING KICKED OUT OF TRANSITIONAL HOUSING UNDER THE TRANSITIONAL HOUSING PARTICIPANT MISCONDUCT ACT (THPMA)?

The California Courts have published instructions for people who are facing removal from transitional housing under the THPMA. Those instructions are available on court form TH-210, available online at http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/th210.pdf, and also copied below for your reference.

1. Legal advice. If you are served with an Order to Show Cause and Temporary Restraining Order ["OSC/TRO"] and a Petition, you should seek legal advice right away. The OSC/TRO should list the name, address, and phone number of the Legal Services Office in the county where the petition is filed. You may be able to get legal services by contacting this office. If you do not have an attorney, you can also call the attorney's referral service of your local bar association for help.

2. Read the Instructions. Whether or not you choose to talk to an attorney, you should read all of these instructions and the other papers you have received.

3. Obey the Order. Read the papers served on you very carefully. The Petition tells you what orders the program operator is asking the court to make. The OSC/TRO tells you when to appear in court and may contain a temporary order telling you that you cannot do certain things. YOU HAVE TO OBEY THE ORDER. IF YOU DO NOT OBEY THE COURT'S ORDERS, CRIMINAL CHARGES MAY BE FILED AGAINST YOU. IF YOU ARE FOUND IN CONTEMPT OF COURT FOR NOT FOLLOWING THE COURT'S ORDERS, THE COURT CAN CHANGE THE ORDERS TO FORCE YOU TO MOVE OUT OF THE PROGRAM'S HOUSING.

4. Review the facts. Read the description of the facts on the Petition very carefully. This is where the program operator tells the judge what he or she thinks happened. If you do not agree with the facts on the petition or you think it would not be fair for the court to grant orders against you, GO TO THE HEARING.

5. Respond to the court. If you want to fight the petition you should file a Participant's Response. YOU DO NOT HAVE TO PAY A FEE TO FILE THIS FORM. A blank copy of the Response should have been given to you with the OSC/TRO. You can also file and serve statements signed by people who have personal knowledge of the facts. These are called "declarations." You can type these declarations on form MC-031 and attach them to your Response. If you do not know how to prepare a declaration, you should see an attorney.

6. Serve a copy on program operator. After you have filed the Participant's Response with the superior court clerk, a copy must be delivered personally or by mail to the program operator or the program operator's attorney.

   You cannot serve the program operator yourself. Service may be made by a licensed process server, the sheriff's department, or any person 18 years of age or older, other than you. The person should complete and sign a Proof of Personal Service form. (A blank copy should have been given to you with the OSC/TRO.) You should take the completed form back to the court clerk or bring it with you to the hearing.

7. Extensions. If you need more time to find an attorney or to prepare your Response, you must ask the judge for a continuance (extension) by the hearing date shown on the OSC/TRO.

8. Opposing the Petition. If you wish to fight the lawsuit, you should file a Participant's Response and also go to the hearing. If you have any witnesses, they also must be present. If you do not attend the hearing, the court may make "permanent" orders against you that will last up to one year. If you can't file and serve a Response (or find an attorney who will), SHOW UP AT THE HEARING ANYWAY. At the hearing, explain your difficulties to the judge, and ask to be allowed to tell your side of the case.
Basic Overview:

PUBLIC BENEFITS

This PUBLIC BENEFITS CHAPTER will give you an overview of the public benefits (government assistance) available to you in reentry, including how a criminal record affects your application. This chapter explains the most common public benefits programs that can help provide things like: case assistance, health care, or food in your transition.

DISCLAIMER – YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it. The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

PUBLIC BENEFITS APPENDIX ................................................................. 585
WHAT WILL I LEARN IN THE PUBLIC BENEFITS CHAPTER?

- Who is eligible for each type of public benefits
- What you get if you are eligible for public benefits
- How your criminal record could affect your ability to get public benefits
- Which public benefits you can apply for while incarcerated
- How and where to apply for public benefits
- What happens once you’re enrolled in public benefits
- What to do if your public benefits are denied or ended
I. INTRODUCTION

“Public benefits” are government programs that ensure people can get basic life necessities. Public benefits are also sometimes referred to as “welfare,” or “welfare benefits.” There are public benefits programs to help people get food, shelter, healthcare, childcare, cash for day-to-day expenses, and support in emergencies. To qualify for any public benefits program, you have to meet certain requirements. Each benefits program works a little differently and has different rules and requirements in place. Depending on your situation, you may qualify for several kinds of public benefits, just one, or none. This section explains what the main public benefits programs offer, which ones you may qualify for, and how to get them.

WHAT SHOULD I KNOW ABOUT FEDERAL, STATE, AND COUNTY BENEFITS?

The federal (national) government is in charge of certain public benefits programs that operate across the country; and the state and county governments are in charge of others that are specific to their own residents:

• For some benefits programs, such as Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI), the federal government sets all the rules about who can receive benefits and how they get issued, requiring agencies in every state and county to follow those rules when distributing those benefits. For example: If you are a person with a disability and no income, and you want to apply for SSI benefits, you have to follow the same rules and meet the same requirements no matter what state or county you live in.

• For other benefits programs, such as cash assistance, the federal government sets only very general rules, allowing state and county governments to set up their own systems for distributing those benefits to their residents. For example, if you’re a California resident struggling to cover your living costs and want to apply for cash aid through the General Assistance or General Relief (GA/GR) programs, the rules are set by California and your specific county.

• For other benefits programs, such as healthcare, the federal government sets up a general system for low-income people (Medicaid) and requires agencies in every state and county to follow those national rules—but also allows states and counties to set more specific rules for their residents and run their own benefits programs for residents who don’t qualify under the federal rules.

It is important to know what government agency runs your public benefits—who sets the program rules, as well as which agency you apply and report to.

This chart describes the most common types of public benefits programs, and what they can provide to people who qualify. Whether you qualify depends on many individual circumstances—including your criminal history.

Can my criminal history limit my ability to get public benefits?

It depends. With some benefits programs, there are no rules or requirements related to criminal histories, so you can and should apply to these programs. You can even apply for certain benefits while you are still in prison or jail. But with other benefits programs, there are rules that may disqualify you based on your criminal history. Some programs may limit or deny your access to benefits if you have a certain kind of criminal conviction (a criminal offense you were found guilty of); a parole/probation violation; certain kinds of unpaid fines, fees or debts; or an outstanding warrant. Different programs will have different rules and requirements about these issues. Some programs also impose different restrictions based on what your conviction or violation was, how long ago it was, and how many other convictions or violations you have had.

Can I apply for public benefits while I’m incarcerated?

It depends. For some benefits, yes, you can and should! Depending on where you’re incarcerated, there may be special staff or programs in your facility to help you apply for health care, disability support, and other benefits. Often, you can’t start receiving the benefits while you’re still incarcerated—but by signing up before your release, you can ensure you’ll have access to those benefits soon after you get out. This manual will provide information about the programs where this is possible.
II. BASIC NEEDS CASH BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What “basic needs cash benefits” are (GA/GR and CalWORKS)
- How your criminal record could affect your ability to apply for & get cash benefits (GA/GR and CalWORKS)
- How to apply for cash benefits
- Whether you can apply for cash benefits while incarcerated
- How cash benefits are distributed and how to stay in the program after you’re enrolled
- What to do if you think your application for cash benefits was wrongly denied

GENERAL ASSISTANCE/GENERAL RELIEF (GA/GR)

General Assistance and General Relief (GA/GR) provide cash assistance to adults who have little money, no sources of support, and who are not currently receiving any other public benefits. Every county in California runs its own GA or GR program, referred to in some counties (mostly in Northern California) as General Assistance (GA) and in other counties (mostly in Southern California) as General Relief (GR).

HELPFUL HINT

What’s the difference between General Assistance (GA)/General Relief (GR) & CalWORKS?

General Assistance/General Relief is designed to assist needy single adults. The typical General Assistance/General Relief recipient is a low-income single person who has limited resources and does not receive any other Public Benefits. The typical CalWORKS recipients are low-income families with minor children who may also receive other Public Benefits.
AM I ELIGIBLE FOR GA/GR?

In general, to be able to get General Assistance/General Relief, you must:

- Be at least age 18 (unless you are an emancipated foster child denied aid through CalWORKs);
- Be a resident of the county where you’re applying;
- Be a U.S. citizen, a legal permanent resident, or an immigrant with satisfactory status;
- Have a Social Security Number (a card is not necessary); and
- Have limited income and property.

Every county has its own rules, including specific limits on the income and property you can have. Contact your county welfare agency for more details. For a list of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A on PG. 586.

When applying for GA/GR, you should bring whatever form of identification you have. If you do not have any ID, the social worker at the county welfare agency should be able to help you in proving your identity. Some counties also require a fingerprint be taken before benefits can be distributed. For information about applying for a California State ID card for free or reduced price, see the BUILDING BLOCKS IN REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, on PG. 39. If you have more questions about applying for GA/GR, you may call the following nonprofit organizations: Public Interest Law Project (PILP) at (510) 891-9794 or the Western Center on Law and Poverty (WCLP) at (213) 487-7211, for advice.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET GA/GR?

Maybe. Some counties have special rules and restrictions for people with drug-related criminal convictions or other violations, or for people who are suspected of having a warrant, being in violation of parole or probation, or fleeing to avoid prosecution for a crime. Contact your county welfare agency to ask about its local policy. For a directory of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, PG. 586.1323 If you believe that your county welfare agency is wrongly or unlawfully denying GA/GR benefits to you, you may call the following nonprofit organizations: Public Interest Law Project (PILP) at (510) 891-9794 or the Western Center on Law and Poverty (WCLP) at (213) 487-7211, for advice.

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH GA/GR?

It depends on your county. Every county offers different benefits and services through GA/GR, and every county sets its own specific rules. Generally, every county’s GA/GR program provides a monthly cash amount. But remember that the rules vary by county:

- Each county has its own rules for calculating a person’s monthly GA/GR amount—typically based on factors like whether you’re married, your housing situation, disabilities, ability to work, and ability to apply for other public benefits programs.
- Some counties’ GA/GR programs provide help with:
  - Transportation costs;
  - Health care and nutrition needs;
  - Substance abuse treatment referrals;
  - Emergency food and housing.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR GA/GR?

You must apply for General Assistance/General Relief in person. If you have a disability that stops you from going into the county welfare office, you can request help. Contact your county welfare agency for details about the application process in your county. For a directory of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, PG. 586. Note that some counties accept GA/GR applications only at specific offices, so if you are unsure about which office to go to, you should call the main county welfare office and ask.

Note that you can apply for General Assistance/General Relief at the same time you apply for CalFresh (“food stamps”) and/or Medi-Cal (health insurance for low-income Californians), and it is usually a good idea to do so. Some counties may allow you to apply for General Assistance/General Relief upon release or at a community re-entry center. See PG. 522 for information on CalFresh and PG. 539 for information on Medi-Cal.

CAN I APPLY FOR GA/GR WHILE INCARCERATED?

No. You are not eligible to apply for GA/GR while in jail or prison. But remember that you may be eligible to apply once you are released.\(^{125}\) If you are on house arrest, contact your county welfare agency to ask if you are eligible for GA/GR.\(^{126}\)

ONCE I’M ENROLLED IN GA/GR, WHAT RULES MUST I FOLLOW TO STAY ELIGIBLE?

It depends on your county. Every county sets its own General Assistance/General Relief rules. Here are some of the rules to know about:

- Generally, you must fall under the income and property limits to be eligible.
- All counties require you to immediately report any changes to your address, income, or property. Failure to report such changes can result in your losing the GA/GR benefits, even if the change would not otherwise disqualify you.

• Some counties may limit how long you can receive GA/GR if you able to work, or require that you apply for Social Security and/ or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) if you are not able to work.
• Some counties treat GA/GR as a “loan,” and will make you pay back the GA/GR money you received if you have enough income, get a job, or get approved for SSDI or SSI disability benefits.
• Some counties also provide you and/or require you to use employment services to help you find, get, and keep a job. But you can’t be required to join and use employment services if you are “unemployable.” You may be considered unemployable if you are: older than 70 years old; responsible for the substantial and continuous care of a family member; or you are disabled. If you have not been screened by the county welfare agency to determine if you are employable, or you believe the county has made a mistake in determining that you are “employable,” and you have been required to participate in an employment program or denied GA/GR assistance, you should consider appealing. It’s best to contact your local legal aid provider to help with filing your appeal (you can visit the website http://lawhelpca.org/find-legal-help to browse legal aid providers, and see list of legal aid providers at the back of this guide on PG. 1190).\footnote{1327}

I BELIEVE MY APPLICATION FOR GENERAL ASSISTANCE/GENERAL RELIEF BENEFITS WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW CAN I APPEAL?

If you are denied or lose General Assistance/General Relief benefits, you can request a hearing at any time. The back of any county notice about General Assistance/General Relief eligibility should contain a form that explains how to request a hearing. You may also request a hearing by calling your county welfare agency. We recommend requesting a hearing in writing, so that there is a record of your compliant.

• General Assistance/General Relief is a county program, so hearings are held by the county, and can only be requested by contacting the county social services agency. Each county has its own specific procedures regarding appeals hearings.
• For help filing an appeal, it’s best to find a local legal aid provider. You can search for one by visiting the website http://lawhelpca.org/find-legal-help, and see the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1190.

CALWORKS

CalWORKS provides monthly cash aid, access to food and health care benefits, and other services for families with children.\footnote{1328} The State of California runs CalWORKS as part of the federal government’s Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program.\footnote{1329} Both the federal and California governments set the major rules for this program, but each county runs their own program, and

\footnote{1327 See Find a Lawyer or Court Program, LAWHELPCA.ORG, http://lawhelpca.org/find-legal-help.}
\footnote{1328 See California Work Opportunity and Responsibility to Kids (CalWORKs), CAL DEPT OF SOC. SERVS., http://www.cdss.ca.gov/calworks/.}
\footnote{1329 See Office of Family Assistance. Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program, http://www.acf.hhs.gov/programs/ofa/programs/tanf/about.}
each county may have slightly different rules for how to apply and available services.\footnote{See CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 11000. The California Department of Social Services interprets these laws through All County Letters and its Manual of Policy and Procedures, Divisions 40-45, and 80-82.}

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR CALWORKS?

CalWORKs is for families with children who need support because at least one parent is unemployed (defined as working less than 100 hours per month), disabled, absent, in jail or prison, or dead, and for needy caretakers of foster child(ren).\footnote{See California Work Opportunity and Responsibility to Kids (CalWORKs), CAL. DEPT. OF SOC. SERVS., http://www.cdss.ca.gov/calworks/; see also CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 112201.}

If you’re a parent or caretaker with at least one child in your home, you may be able to get CalWORKs if all of the following requirements are met:

- You, the parent or caretaker, must (1) be a California resident and (2) be legally present in the U.S. (either a citizen or legal permanent resident).\footnote{See CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 11104; see also SHD Paraphrased Regulations: Citizenship-Allen Residency, http://www.dds.cahwnet.gov/shd/res/pdf/ParaRegs-CalWORKs-Citizenship-Allen-Residency.pdf; CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 11250.}

- At least one child in your home must (1) be under age 18,\footnote{CalWORKs: FAQs, DISABILITY BENEFITS 101: WORKING WITH A DISABILITY IN CALIFORNIA, http://101.org/cal/programs/income_support/calworks/program2.htm.} and (2) need support because at least one parent is unemployed, disabled, absent, in jail or prison, or dead.\footnote{See Glossary: Minimum Basic Standards of Adequate Care, DISABILITY BENEFITS 101: WORKING WITH A DISABILITY IN CALIFORNIA, http://ca.db101.org/glossary_item.aspx?item-id=1372 (This limit is also called a “needs standard” or “Minimum Basic Standard of Adequate Care”).}

- Your family’s resources must be no greater than the CalWORKs resource limit.
  - For CalWORKs, resources include cash or property that you own, can convert to cash, or can use to support yourself. Some examples are savings accounts, stocks, and bonds. The resource limit is slightly higher for families that include a senior citizen (age 60 or over).
  - For CalWORKs, certain things that do NOT count as resources are: your home, household goods (like furniture or appliances), some types of trusts, and your car if it’s worth $4,650 or less. For more information, please visit CalWORKs resource income glossary at http://ca.db101.org/glossary_item.aspx?item-id=1388.

- Your family’s income must be no greater than the CalWORKs income limit.\footnote{See CALWORKs: FAQs, DISABILITY BENEFITS 101: WORKING WITH A DISABILITY IN CALIFORNIA, http://ca.db101.org/glossary_item.aspx?item-id=763.} For example, unearned income includes: public benefits, interest from a trust or investment, or spousal support. For CalWORKs eligibility, income does not include SSI, loans and grants, Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), Federal Relocation/Disaster benefits, and certain other items, family size, and where you live.

There is an exception for age limit of a child. If there is a child over 18 that is living at home but is expected to complete high school before his/her 18th birthday, you may be eligible for CalWORKs.
IMPORTANT: Counting your income to see if you’re eligible for CalWORKs works differently than counting your income to calculate your benefit amount. To calculate your income for CalWORKs, please visit: http://ca.db101.org/ca/programs/income_support/calworks/program2.htm

CALWORKS COMBINED WITH OTHER BENEFITS PROGRAMS:

• If you receive SSI disability benefits, you do not qualify for CalWORKs. However, other people in your family may still qualify, and you can apply for them. Your income will not be counted. This means when CalWORKs staff determines your family’s eligibility and cash aid amount, they won’t count you as a family member, and they won’t count your SSI benefits as part of your family’s income. For more information about SSI benefits see PG. 567.
• If you receive SSDI benefits, you may still qualify for CalWORKs. However, part of your SSDI benefits will count as income when CalWORKs determines your eligibility and calculates your monthly cash aid. For more information about SSDI benefits see PG. 561.
• If you’re approved to get CalWORKs, you may be automatically eligible for CalFresh (“food stamps”) and Medi-Cal. If your household is receiving cash aid through CalWORKs, you are “categorically eligible” for CalFresh. This means the CalFresh Program accepts the CalWORKs worker’s determination of your eligibility based on information you gave when applying for CalWORKs. For more information on CalFresh, see PG. 522. For more information on Medi-Cal, see PG. 539.

Learn how to apply for CalWORKs on PG. 518. You may also visit the following website for tips on applying to CalWORKs: http://lsnc.net/calworks-tips-and-factsheets/.

IMPORTANT: In calculating your benefits, CalWORKs may not count some people in your home as part of your family. Ask your county CalWORKs office for details on which family members are counted. Examples of people who may not count, even if they live with you, are: anyone getting SSI benefits; anyone who does not have citizenship or permanent legal presence in the U.S.; foster children receiving foster care payments; sponsored non-citizens who receive support from sponsors; anyone who was sanctioned by the CalWORKs program.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET CALWORKS?

Maybe. If any of the following statements apply to you, you might not be eligible for CalWORKs:

• You are in violation of a condition of probation or parole, as found by a court or administrative judge.
• You have been found guilty of an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) involving fraud or misuse of public benefits. Depending on how many IPVs you have, and what they were for, you may be disqualified from CalWORKS (and CalFresh) for varying periods of time—anywhere between 12 months to life.\footnote{See CalWORKS Handbook: Intentional Program Violations, Cnty. Of Santa Clara, http://www.sccgov.org/sas/aofd/aofchp53.pdf.}

- You are a “fleeing felon.” In other words, if you are hiding or running away to avoid felony charges, and/or to avoid being incarcerated for a felony conviction you will not be eligible for CalWorks.\footnote{See Cal. DSS ACL No. 13-70, available at http://www.dss.ca.gov/lettersnotices/EntRes/getinfo/acl/2013/13-70.pdf; California Work Opportunity and Responsibility to Kids (CalWORKs), CAL. DEPT OF SOC. SERVS., California DHSS ACL No. 14-78, http://www.cdss.ca.gov/lettersnotices/entres/getinfo/acl/2014/14-78.pdf; see also The Consequences of Criminal Proceedings, BRONX DEFENDERS, http://www.reentry.net/ny/library/attachment.256160.} But other people in your household may be and you will be required to be listed on the application and/or report forms and your income will be counted when anyone in your family applies for or gets CalWORKS.

Am I ineligible for CalWORKs because of a past felony drug conviction?

Not anymore. California’s law changed! Read the important update box below.

IMPORTANT UPDATE!

New CalWORKs Rules for People with Prior Drug Felony Convictions

GREAT NEWS! California eliminated the ban on aid for people with past drug-related felony convictions. Starting on April 1, 2015, you won’t be disqualified from CalWORKs or CalFresh because of a prior drug-related felony conviction and you will no longer be required to report a prior drug-felony conviction on any application or report (see more on CalFresh “food stamps” beginning on PG. 522). If you applied for CalWORKs or CalFresh before April 1, 2015, and were denied due to a past drug-related felony conviction, it’s recommended that you REAPPLY NOW under the newer rules.

To remain eligible, it’s important to follow the conditions of your parole, probation, or other form of community supervision, or be off supervision. If you violate the terms of your parole, probation, or other form of community supervision, you will lose your CalFresh and CalWORKs, (See Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 11251.3, 17012.50.)

If anyone in your family was already receiving CalWORKs aid, your benefits should have been automatically added to your family’s April 2015 Grant. Once you are added to CalWORKs, you are also required to participate in the Welfare-to-Work program requirement (see PG. 552). If you were already meeting Welfare-to-Work requirements, you became newly eligible for transportation costs, subsidized child care, and other work supports. Contact your family’s CalWORKs caseworker if you do not receive a letter from the county about these new benefits and rules by March 1, 2015.

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH CALWORKS?

You can get cash assistance, employment services, and other benefits.

Cash assistance: CalWORKs provides monthly cash aid to help pay for basic needs such as housing, food, utilities, clothing, and medical care. Your monthly aid (“grant level”) is based on two factors:

1. Your family size: Generally, if you have a larger family, you’ll qualify for more cash aid; and if you have a smaller family, you’ll qualify for less.
2. Where you live: Generally, if you live in an urban county ("Region I") where living costs are higher, you’ll qualify for more cash aid; and if you live in a rural county ("Region II"), you’ll qualify for less.\(^{1345}\)

Generally, parents or caretakers can get CalWORKs cash aid for up to 48 months. But in many cases, a child in the family can keep getting cash aid after the 48 months are up.\(^{1346}\)

Employment services: CalWORKs provides job training and job counseling services through a program called Welfare-to-Work (WTW).\(^{1347}\) For more information about Welfare-to-Work, see PG. 552.

Other benefits: Depending on your situation and what your county provides, you may qualify for other benefits through CalWORKs, such as:
- CalFresh (also called “food stamps,” see PG. 522 for more information)
- Medi-Cal (see PG. 539 for more information)
- Child care services
- Family planning services
- Child health and disability prevention (CHDP) services
- Homeless and housing assistance
- Emergency cash aid
- Child support enforcement.\(^{1348}\)

HOW DO I APPLY FOR CALWORKS?

Contact your local county welfare agency to get an application form and start the application process. For a directory of county welfare agencies in California, see Appendix A, PG. 586 or visit the website: www.cwda.org/links/chsa.php.

If you have Internet access, you can also visit MyBenefits CalWIN at https://www.mybenefitscalwin.org/ to learn more about CalWORKs, check if you are eligible, and apply online.

CAN I APPLY FOR CALWORKS WHILE INCARCERATED?

No. You can only apply for CalWORKs once you have been released from prison or jail, and you have active custody of a child as a parent or caretaker.\(^{1349}\) But if you’re currently incarcerated, you can and should look at the eligibility requirements so you are more aware of your options upon release.

You need to regain custody before you can apply for CalWORKs; and you can only have physical custody after you have been released. (To learn about how you can seek custody after release, go to the FAMILY LAW CHAPTER, PG. 823).

HOW DO I RECEIVE MY CALWORKS BENEFITS?

If you are eligible for CalWORKs benefits, you will be issued your benefits on an Electronic Benefits Transfer (EBT) card unless you request that your benefits are directly deposited into your personal bank account. You will need to set up a PIN number for the card to use it, and can then use the card at most grocery stores and ATMs.

To avoid unnecessary fees and surcharges when withdrawing your CalWORKs cash, you should only use the card at ATMs with the “MoneyPass” symbol, or the same “Quest Mark” symbol that appears on the card-sleeve. To find free ATM locations, look for the appropriate symbol, ask your county worker, or visit the following website: http://www.ebtproject.ca.gov/Library/Cash_Access.pdf. The “Quest Mark” symbol is on storefronts, checkout lanes, ATMs, and credit card machines to tell you that your EBT card can be used there.

- If the “Quest Mark” looks like this: . . . it’s only for cash benefits.
- If the “Quest Mark” looks like this: . . . it’s only for CalFresh (food stamps) benefits.
- If the “Quest Mark” looks like this: . . . it can be used for BOTH CalFresh and cash benefits.

ONCE I’M ENROLLED IN CALWORKS, WHAT RULES MUST I FOLLOW TO STAY ELIGIBLE?

To keep getting CalWORKs benefits, you and your family must stay within income and resource limits. In addition, you and all of the adults in your family must follow requirements related to Welfare-to-Work activities, reporting changes, and maintaining children’s access to health care and school.

- Welfare-to-Work: Generally, you and any other adults in your family must participate in welfare-to-work activities for a certain number of hours per week. The hours and activities required of you will depend partly on your family situation, and partly on what county you live in (see PG. 552). In special cases, adults may be “exempt” (excused) from welfare-to-work requirements. You may be exempt if you are: disabled for 30+ days; under age 19 and attending school full-time; over age 60; caring for a relative’s child who is at risk of being put in foster care; OR caring for a sick or disabled person.

• Reporting: You must regularly report changes to your income and living situation. If both you and your child are on CalWORKs, you must report once every 6 months via a Semi-Annual Income Eligibility Report known as “SAR 7.” If only your child gets CalWORKs, you must report once a year. In addition, you must immediately report certain changes within 10 days.

• Children: If your child is under age 6, he or she must have all standard immunizations. If your child is of school age and under age 16, he or she must be attending school regularly.

I BELIEVE MY CALWORKS WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

If the county decides to deny your application, it must mail you a “Notice of Action” explaining why you were denied. It must do so within 30 days of receiving your application. If you disagree, you have the right to ask for a State Hearing to appeal (challenge) the denial. You must request a hearing within 90 days of the county’s decision.

WAYS YOU CAN REQUEST A STATE HEARING:

• By phone. Call the California Department of Social Services (CDSS) at 1-800-952-5253 (TDD: 1-800-952-8349).

• By mail. Write your request on the back of the Notice of Action, or write a letter. Then mail your request to the county welfare agency’s address, which is on your Notice, or mail it to: CDSS Office of Hearings and Appeals; 744 P Street, M.S. 19-36; Sacramento, CA 95814.

• By fax. Fax request to the CDSS State Hearings Division at 916-651-5210.

TIPS TO REMEMBER WHEN REQUESTING A STATE HEARING:

• It’s recommended that you request a hearing in writing, so that there is a record of it. Keep a copy of your written request.

• In your request, clearly state that you want a hearing, and briefly state your reason.

• If you have a disability, note this in your request and specify any accommodations you will need. For example, if you need a large print of any official documents or a wheelchair-accessible room, write this in your request.

---

RIGHTS YOU HAVE WHEN REQUESTING A STATE HEARING:

• You have a right to have the county welfare agency’s help, if you ask for it, with understanding how to appeal a decision about your case and what your next steps should be.

• You have a right to a free interpreter who will explain all procedures and also interpret for you at the hearing in your preferred language. If you want an interpreter, state this in your request, and specify your language.

---

• You have a right to choose a representative (such as a friend, family member, lawyer, or advocate) who will ask for a hearing on your behalf. You also have a right to bring anyone to your hearing if you do not want to go alone.\[1358\]

\[1358\] 7 C.F.R. § 273.150(1); M.P.P. § 22-004.211; Requesting a Fair Hearing, CAL. GUIDE TO FOOD BENEFITS, http://www.cdss.ca.gov/cdssweb/entres/forms/English/CF285.pdf.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- About the different types of food benefits that you may qualify for—CalFresh (food stamps), EFAP, and WIC
- Who is eligible to receive food benefits
- How to receive food benefits
- How your criminal record could affect your ability to get food benefits
- If you can apply for food benefits while incarcerated
- How and where to apply for food benefits
- What to do if you were wrongly denied food benefits
- Where to find food (contact information for local food banks)

CALFRESH (FOOD STAMPS)

CalFresh is California’s “food stamps” program, providing money for low-income adults and their families to buy food. This program is part of the federal program called Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). Each county runs its own CalFresh program and issues food benefits (food stamps) in the form of a plastic Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card, which looks and feels like a credit card. CalFresh includes the California Food Assistance Program (CFAP), which provides the same benefits as CalFresh but to noncitizen legal permanent residents (see PG. 522 for CFAP’s requirements).

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR CALFRESH?

There are many factors that are considered to determine whether you are eligible for CalFresh. Most are related to residency, citizenship/immigration status, and income. In some cases, certain people in a household may qualify for CalFresh while others do not, even though they live in the same house (see PG. 522 for more details).

HELPFUL HINT

CalFresh “Households”

For CalFresh, a “household” can be one person, or it can be any group of people who live together, buy food, and make meals together. This means if you live with other people, but you buy and prepare food separately from them, you can apply for food benefits as part of a separate household. Spouses and parents and their children under age 22 who live together must apply as a single “household.”

---

To be eligible for CalFresh (food stamps), you must:

- Be a resident of the county where you are applying.
- Be a U.S. citizen or a “qualifying noncitizen.” You’re a “qualifying noncitizen” if you: (1) Are a lawful permanent resident (“LPR” or “Green Card Holder”) and (2) you meet all other CalFresh eligibility requirements.
- Have a monthly total income that is no greater than the CalFresh income limit. ¹ The maximum total income you can have will depend on your household size, and the maximum limits change every year. Contact your local CalFresh office or call the toll free number below to learn what the limit is for your household when you’re ready to apply. You can also use this online tool to calculate how much CalFresh money you can get per month:

  http://lsnc.net/calculator/FFY2014_Food_Stamp_Calculator_Final_PlanNovemberCut.xls

- Call toll-free English: 1-877-847-3663 Spanish: 1-888-926-6432
- You can also look online at http://www.cdss.ca.gov/foodstamps/PG3628.htm
- Keep in mind that the maximum gross income limits do not always apply to households with mixed immigration status and/or people who are seniors or disabled.
- If you have less than $200 in liquid resources, you may be entitled to expedited benefits, and receive your benefits within three working days. For CalFresh purposes, “liquid resources” include all funds readily available to your household, such as; cash on hand, money in bank accounts, trust deeds, stocks, bonds, or individual retirement account (IRA) funds.
- You can still qualify for CalFresh if you own the home you live in, own a car, have a job, and/or do not have children.

How Other Public Benefits Programs Combine With CalFresh

- Individuals who receive SSI/SSP benefits are currently not eligible for CalFresh, but other people in the household may still qualify. SSI benefits, for example, already include the value of CalFresh benefits, through a process known as “cash out.” For more information, please visit http://cfsa.ca.gov/CFPA/CFPAPublications/CalFresh-Cashout101-2013.pdf.

- If you or your household is receiving cash aid—such as CalWORKs or GA/GR, you are “categorically eligible” for CalFresh (food stamps). However, you can still qualify CalFresh without receiving cash aid like CalWORKs or GA/GR, and in fact, most CalFresh recipients do not receive cash assistance. ¹²¹

---

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET CALFRESH?

Maybe. But remember, even if you are not eligible, others in your household may be. You might be disqualified if:

1) You are a “fleeing felon”—meaning you are hiding or running away to avoid felony charges or to avoid being incarcerated for a felony conviction.

2) You are in violation of a condition of your probation or parole, as found by a court or administrative judge.

3) You have been found guilty of an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) involving fraud or misuse of public benefits. Depending on how many IPVs you have, and what they were for, you may be disqualified from CalFresh and CalWORKs for varying periods of time—anywhere between 12 months to life.

What does it mean to be “found guilty of an IPV”?

If a county welfare agency thinks you violated its rules when applying for or getting benefits, it may investigate and hold an administrative hearing to determine if you are guilty. It may also ask you to admit guilt by signing a Disqualification Consent Agreement (DCA). When you apply for CalWORKs, any prior IPV counts against you if you were found guilty at a hearing, or you admitted guilt by signing a DCA (even if you did not have a hearing).

IMPORTANT UPDATE!

New CalFresh Rules for People with Prior Drug Felony Convictions

GREAT NEWS: California eliminated the ban on aid for people with past drug-related felony convictions. Starting on April 1, 2015, you won’t be disqualified from CalFresh (food stamps) or CalWORKs because of a prior drug-related felony conviction and you will no longer be required to report a prior drug-felony conviction on any application or report (read more about the CalWORKs program beginning on PG. 514). If you applied for CalFresh (or CalWORKs) before April 1, 2015, and were denied due to a past drug-related felony conviction, you should REAPPLY NOW under the newer, more favorable rules. To remain eligible, you must follow the conditions of your parole, probation, or other form of community supervision, or be off supervision. If you violate the terms of your parole, probation, or other form of community supervision, you will lose your CalFresh and CalWORKs (See CalFresh Regulation 63-163.1).

HOW DO I APPLY FOR CALFRESH?

The process may vary by county. Generally, it involves filling out a form, providing documents, and having an interview. For details about how to apply in your county, contact the CalFresh office in your area. For a directory of county CalFresh offices, see Appendix A, on PG. 586. For information on how to apply for CalFresh benefits in your county, please call 1-877-847-3663. You can also apply online at http://benefitscal.org.

1366 “Fleeing felon” is a legal term for someone “fleeing to avoid prosecution, or custody or confinement after conviction” for a felony offense. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 1382(e)(4), 402(x)(l)(A); see also Bronx Defenders, The Consequences of Criminal Proceedings, http://www.reentry.net/ny/library/attachment.256160.
1368 7 C.F.R. § 273.16(b)
CAN I APPLY FOR CALFRESH WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! You can’t receive CalFresh benefits until you’re out, but, under some circumstances, you can apply while in prison or jail. Although you may apply for CalFresh while incarcerated, you should not do so unless you are less than 30 days from your release date. (If you apply for CalFresh more than 30 days before your release date, the county social services agency will probably deny your application because they will find that you are not eligible for the program yet – but you can re-apply again once you’re within 30 days of release or after you get out.) If you apply for CalFresh benefits while incarcerated, you will generally need to provide proof of your release date and a local address within the county. You must also complete and sign the application and designate an Authorized Representative (see Helpful Hint Box for more information.) If you are approved for CalFresh benefits, you will not begin receiving these benefits until after you get out.

HOW DO I RECEIVE MY CALFRESH BENEFITS?

If you are approved for CalFresh benefits, they will be issued on an Electronic Benefits Transfer Card (EBT). You will need to set up a PIN number for the card to use it, and can then use the card at most grocery stores.

In some counties, people who are homeless, elderly or disabled can also use their benefits at certain restaurants through the CalFresh Restaurant Meal Program. Visit http://www.ebtproject.ca.gov/clientinformation/calfreshrmp.shtml to see which counties participate in the CalFresh Restaurant Meal Program and to locate participating restaurants.

HELPFUL HINT

CalFresh for People Living in Drug/Alcohol Treatment Centers and Other Licensed Residential Facilities:

If you are required to live in a residential facility (for example, a drug/alcohol treatment center) after getting out of prison or jail, then special CalFresh rules apply to you:

- If you live in a treatment/residential facility that does NOT provide a majority of your meals, then you may apply as a one-person CalFresh “household.”

- Alternatively, if you live in a treatment/residential facility that does provide a majority of your meals, then you are only eligible for benefits that the facility applies for, and you MUST be certified for CalFresh through an Authorized Representative (AR). Either you or your AR may sign the application forms. The AR is designated in writing by the head of the household. The AR must sign the form “Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) Request for Designated Alternate Cardholder/Authorized Representative” (CSF 64 form) and the benefits will be assigned to the facility, not to the resident (see sample CSF 64 form in Appendix B, PG. 588).

1372 When the county social services department receives your application, it must make a decision about your eligibility within 30 days of receiving your application. 7 C.F.R. § 273.2. 1375 See Eligibility and Issuance Requirements, CAL. DEPT. OF SOC. SERVS., http://www.cdss.ca.gov/foodstamps/PG841.htm. As always, contact your county CalFresh office or an advocate should you have any questions regarding CalFresh benefits. Many thanks to Liz Gomez, CalFresh Outreach Manager at the Alameda County Community Food Bank, for her advice and feedback regarding the CalFresh application process.

ONCE I’M ENROLLED IN CALFRESH, WHAT RULES MUST I FOLLOW TO STAY ELIGIBLE?

Purchase requirements: You can only use CalFresh benefits to buy food. You can’t use CalFresh benefits to buy any non-food items such as alcoholic beverages, tobacco, household cleaning supplies, toiletries, or cosmetics, and you can’t exchange CalFresh benefits for money. If you sell your CalFresh benefits or use them for non-food items, you can be charged with fraud and you could be banned from receiving CalFresh and other food benefits for life.

Time Limits: Typically, every able-bodied adult (ages 18-49) without dependents in your household is limited to 3 months of aid in a 36-month period unless you are working at least 20 hours per week; participating in an approved work activity; OR doing workfare. But California HAS WAIVED this requirement through September 30, 2015, due to California’s high unemployment rate.1377

Work Requirements: As a CalFresh recipient, your county may require you to participate in an Employment and Training program, unless you county is listed as a “Labor Surplus Area” (LSA). An LSA is a county that, during the last two years, has had an unemployment rate of 20% or more above the national average. Right now, all counties are expected to be listed as LSAs until December 2016. Additionally, if you are employed, but choose to leave your job, and apply for or receive CalFresh benefits, you can’t get CalFresh for 3 months.

Report Requirements: Most CalFresh households must submit a report, called a Semi-Annual Income Eligibility Report (SAR 7) every six months. Additionally, they must immediately report a change in address, any changes in employment, changes in people who live with the family, and anytime their income goes over the Interim Report Threshold. Failure to report within the time limits could result in an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) (IPVs explained on PG. 524).

Recertification requirements: When you first enroll in CalFresh, your enrollment will only last for a limited time called a “certification period.” This is usually one year, but in some cases it’s only a few months. If you want to get CalFresh for longer than that, then before this period ends, you must apply for recertification—that is, prove that you’re still eligible for CalFresh. Before the first day of the last month of your certification period, the county should send you a “Notice of Expiration” (NOE) that says when, where, and how to apply for recertification. If your certification period is 1-2 months, the county must give you a NOE at the start of your certification period.1380

Exceptions to Work Requirement

Certain people are exempt (excused) from these work requirements. You may be exempt if you are:

- physically or mentally unfit to be working
- already engaged in the CalWORKs work program
- receiving unemployment insurance benefits
- participating in a drug or alcohol addiction treatment program
- enrolled in school on at least a half-time basis
- an honorably discharged veteran of the U.S. military.

Contact your county CalFresh office for details.

---

IMPORTANT: To keep getting CalFresh without interruption, apply for recertification on or before the 15th day of the last month of your certification period; For example, if your 1-year certification period runs April 1, 2014 to March 31, 2015, you must recertify BEFORE March 15, 2015. Please note: If your certification period has expired and your recertification application has been delayed, and your household has very little income, check to see if you qualify for “expedited services” (ES) CalFresh (read more on PG. 522). If so, you may be able to get recertified for CalFresh benefits in just 3 days.

I BELIEVE MY CALFRESH WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

If the county denies your CalFresh application, it must mail you a Notice of Action explaining why. It must do so within 30 days of getting your application. If you disagree, you have a right to ask for a State hearing to appeal (challenge) the denial. You must request a hearing within 90 days of the county’s decision. In order to continue receiving benefits during your appeal, with assistance being paid while your appeal is pending, you must request a hearing within 10 days.

WAYS YOU CAN REQUEST A STATE HEARING:

• By phone. Call California Department of Social Services (CDSS) at 1-800-952-5253 (TDD 1-800-952-8349).

• By mail. Write your request on the back of your Notice, or write a letter. Then mail your request to the county welfare agency’s address, which is on your Notice—OR mail it to: CDSS Office of Hearings and Appeals; 744 P Street, M.S. 19-36; Sacramento, CA 95814.

• By fax. Fax your request to: CDSS State Hearings Division at 916-651-5210.

TIPS TO REMEMBER WHEN REQUESTING A STATE HEARING:

• It is best to request a hearing in writing, so that there is a record of it. Keep a copy of your request.

• In your request, clearly state that you want a hearing, and briefly state your reason for wanting one.

• If you have a disability, note this in your request and specify any accommodations you will need—such as a need for documents to be in a larger font, or in a room with wheelchair accommodations.

RIGHTS YOU HAVE WHEN REQUESTING A STATE HEARING:

• You have a right to have the county welfare agency’s help, if you ask for it, with understanding how to appeal a decision about your case and what your next steps should be.

• You have a right to a free interpreter who will explain all procedures and also interpret for you at the hearing in your preferred language. If you want an interpreter, state this in your request, and specify your language.

• You have a right to choose a representative (such as a friend, family member, or advocate) who will ask for a hearing on your behalf. You also have a right to bring someone to your hearing (such as a friend, family member, or advocate) if you do not want to go alone.

FOOD BANKS

WHAT IS A FOOD BANK?

A food bank is a nonprofit organization that asks for, stores, and gives out food. They sometimes give the food to a variety of smaller organizations (churches, non-profits, community centers, libraries) that also serve people in need.

WHERE CAN I FIND FOOD?

To find a food bank or other partner organization that gives out donated food near you, visit http://www.cafoodbanks.org/Hunger-in-CA or call the Association of California Food Banks at 1-866-321-4435.

You do NOT need to enroll in any public benefits programs to visit a food bank or partner organization for food.

But, you may wish to consider enrolling in the Emergency Food Assistance Program (see PG. 528 below), if you are eligible, as it is a government-assisted program for low-income people and their families.

WHAT IS THE EMERGENCY FOOD ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (EFAP)?

The Emergency Food Assistance Program (EFAP) is a federal government program that sends food to county food banks. The food banks then distribute this free food to eligible individuals and households. See the next question to learn how to find an EFAP-supported food bank.

To be eligible for EFAP benefits at a county food bank, your household must (1) live within the region that the food bank serves, and (2) self-certify that they meet the income requirements. To see if your household meets income requirements, call the California Department of Social Services’ Emergency Food Assistance Program office at 916-229-3344.

If you do not have a place to prepare food, you should ask the food bank to give you a list of soup kitchens, which also receive food through the state’s Emergency Food Assistance Program.

WHERE CAN I FIND A FOOD BANK TO GET EFAP BENEFITS?

Steps to finding food banks/partner agencies:

1) You should try to go to an Emergency Food Assistance Program food bank near your house. Try looking online at http://www.cafoodbanks.org/Hunger-in-CA or call the Association of California Food Banks at 1-866-321-4435.

2) If there are no Emergency Food Assistance Program food banks near your house, then you should try to go to an Emergency Food Assistance Program food bank nearby. You might still be able to get food there if you show that you live in an area that’s within the same county. But be aware that—you might be turned away and told to try and find a food bank that serves the area you live in.

3) If you are turned away, remember you can always try and find a non-Emergency Food Assistance Program food bank or partner agency that does not use Emergency Food Assistance Program restrictions.

Here are some numbers you can call to find food banks in your local area:

• California hotline for food aid information: 1-877-847-FOOD
• Local information and referral hotline: 2-1-1 (not available in every county)

If you have Internet access, here are some websites you can visit:

• List of food banks across California: http://www.dss.cahwnet.gov/efap/PG1910.htm
• Tool to find food aid near your ZIP code: http://www.cafoodbanks.org/?q=find-food-assistance

WHAT DOCUMENTS MIGHT I NEED TO GET EFAP BENEFITS?

When you go to a county food bank seeking Emergency Food Assistance Program benefits, you may be asked to show proof that you live in the service area, such as a government-issued I.D. card with your address (for example, a Driver License, library card, or voter registration card). But even if you don’t have proof of residency, you should not be denied food as long as you agree to sign an “Emergency Food Assistance Program Certification of Eligibility Form” (Form EFA-7) (see example form in Appendix C, PG. 590).

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET EFAP?

No. You will be able to get EFAP food benefits no matter your criminal history. Only two factors matter—where you live and how much income you have. Even if your address falls outside of an EFAP food bank’s service area, you might still be able to get food there, if you can prove that you live in the same county. But there is also the possibility that the food bank turns you away and asks that you go to the food bank that serves the area where you live.

CAN I APPLY FOR EFAP BENEFITS WHILE INCARCERATED?

No. You can only get EFAP food benefits by showing up at a county food bank that serves the area where you live. But remember, once you are released you can find donated food at a local food bank or partner agency!
WOMEN, INFANTS & CHILDREN PROGRAM (WIC)

WIC is a program for low-income women, women who are pregnant, postpartum, or breastfeeding, infants, and children under age 5. WIC provides nutritious food, nutrition education, breastfeeding support, and health service referrals. With WIC benefits you get coupons for things like milk, cheese and eggs, bread, cereal, juice, peanut butter, fruits and vegetables, infant food, and much more.¹³⁸⁸

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR WIC?

To receive WIC benefits, you must: (1) be a resident of California; (2) be a woman who is pregnant, postpartum, breastfeeding and/or the parent/guardian of a child up to age 5; and (3) have less than the maximum yearly income allowed for your household size. Please note: If you or your children receive CalFresh (food stamps), Medi-Cal, or CalWORKs, you automatically meet the income requirement for WIC. If you have Internet access, you can use these online tools to see if you’re likely to qualify for WIC.¹³⁸⁹

- California’s Eligibility Assessment: www.cdph.ca.gov/programs/wicworks/Pages/WICEligibilityAssessment01.aspx

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET WIC?

No! Your criminal history does not affect your ability to get WIC benefits.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR WIC?

Contact your local WIC office and make an appointment. To find a WIC office near you, call 1-800-852-5770 or 1-888-WIC-WORKS (1-888-942-9675). Both numbers are toll-free. If you have Internet access, you can also use this online search tool: http://www.apps.cdph.ca.gov/wic/resources/lasSearch/search.asp.

CAN I APPLY FOR WIC WHILE INCARCERATED?

No. You can only apply for WIC after you are released because eligibility can only be determined after an in-person appointment with a county health professional who will assess you and your child for nutritional risk. Additionally, WIC benefits can only be used in-person at certain locations (such as grocery stores) certified to participate in the program. But remember: you can call the WIC office to help you review your eligibility before your release. To find contact information for your county WIC office, call the following toll free number: 1-800-852-5770.

IV. HEALTH CARE BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• An overview of different types of health care coverage in California (including Covered California, Medi-Cal, & Medicare)
• How to figure out which health care plan is best for you
• What benefits you get from the different health care plans
• How to apply for health care
• Whether you can receive or apply for health care while incarcerated
• How your criminal history could affect your ability to get health care coverage
• What to do if you are wrongly denied health care

WHY SHOULD I GET HEALTH CARE COVERAGE (INSURANCE)?

First, everyone needs health care at some point in life. If you have health care coverage, you can access hospitals and medical services when you need them. Most health insurance will cover mental health and substance abuse treatment too. Second, for almost everyone living in the U.S., it’s now required by law that you have adequate health care coverage. (There are exceptions, explained on PG. 533).

While you’re incarcerated, the jail or prison is responsible for providing you with essential health care, including mental health services. You have a constitutional right to treatment while in jail or prison. Once you have a release date, you should ensure that you have health care coverage in place for when you get out.

COVERED CALIFORNIA

Covered California is an online health care marketplace where you can sign up for health care coverage online, by phone, by mail, or in person. This online marketplace is a website where you can “shop” by choosing a health care plan and compare various plans’ prices and benefits. Each health care plan must cover essential health benefits, such as doctor visits, hospitalization, emergency care, maternity leave, pediatric care for children, and prescriptions. Through the Covered California application process, you can find out if you’re eligible to get federal tax credits to reduce your health care costs, or if you’re eligible for free or low-cost health care coverage through Medi-Cal (see PG. 539 for more information on Medi-Cal).

AM I ELIGIBLE TO ENROLL IN HEALTH CARE COVERAGE THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA?

To get health care through Covered California, you must be:

1) A California resident;
2) Lawfully present in the United States;¹³⁹⁴
3) Age 18 or older, and
4) Not currently incarcerated.¹³⁹⁵

Based on your household size and income, your family may qualify for financial assistance to help you afford health care. By submitting a Covered California application, you’ll find out exactly what kinds of assistance you can get, and how much.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT IMMIGRATION STATUS: If you have one of these statuses, you may qualify for health coverage through Covered California: lawful permanent resident (“Green Card holder”); lawful temporary resident (“LTR”); asylee or applicant for asylum; refugee; Cuban/Haitian entrant; paroled into the U.S.; conditional entrant granted before 1980; battered spouse, child or parent; victim of trafficking or that person’s spouse, child, sibling, or parent; individual with non-immigrant status (including worker or student visa holders); Temporary Protected Status (“TPS”) or applicant for TPS; Deferred Enforced Departure (“DED”); deferred action status; individual granted withholding of deportation/removal; applicant for withholding of deportation/removal; applicant for special immigrant juvenile status; applicant for adjustment to LPR status, with approved visa petition; registry applicant with Employment Authorization Document (EAD); applicant for cancellation of removal or suspension of deportation. Even if your immigration status is not listed above, you may still qualify for health insurance and should still apply!

¹³⁹⁵ At the time of production of this Manual, California Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), was engaged in the process of drafting new rules that would allow for applications prior to some “qualifying life events,” including release from incarceration. But this proposed rule is not currently in effect.
WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA?

As required by law, all Covered California plans must cover a set of essential health benefits, including:

- Hospital care and emergency services;
- Medical services;
- Prescription drugs;
- Mental health and substance abuse treatment (potentially including treatment that is a condition of probation or parole);
- Maternity and pediatric care;
- Rehabilitation services;
- Preventative care and chronic disease management; and
- Some dental care.\(^{196}\)

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET HEALTH CARE USING COVERED CALIFORNIA?

No. There is no law or policy that limits your access to Covered California based on your criminal history. You have the right to apply for health care coverage, and you should.

AM I LEGALLY REQUIRED TO ENROLL IN HEALTH CARE COVERAGE?

If you live in the U.S., and you’re not currently incarcerated, the answer is probably yes.

Certain people in special situations (explained below) are excused from this requirement. Unless you have one of these situations, you MUST enroll in health care coverage, or else you must pay a penalty fee when you file taxes.\(^{197}\) This legal requirement is called the “individual mandate,” and the tax penalty is called the “shared responsibility fee.”\(^{198}\)

Exemptions to the Individual Mandate: If you qualify for an exemption, you don’t have to pay a penalty even if you don’t have health care coverage. You may qualify for an exemption if one of the following situations applies to you:\(^{199}\)

- Currently incarcerated: You’re currently in jail or prison serving a...
A Note About Individual Mandate Exemptions

Even if you qualify for an exemption, you still can apply and get health care coverage to help pay for medical expenses. An exemption just means that you don’t have to pay the penalty fee—called the “shared responsibility fee”—if you one of the exemption situations applies to you, and you don’t get health care coverage.

For most of these situations, you must apply to get an exemption. The process varies by situation.

If you have questions about the forms you need, or if you aren’t sure how to get an exemption for your situation, call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY 1-888-889-4500) or the federal government’s Health Insurance Marketplace at 1-800-318-2596 (TTY 1-855-889-4325). Or you may try calling Health Consumer Alliance (HCA), a non-profit organization dedicated to providing information about and helping Californians to get health care. For a list of local HCA call centers, please visit: http://healthconsumer.org/index.php?id=partners.

NOTE: YOU DON’T APPLY FOR AN EXEMPTION IF:

• You have a short coverage gap;
• If you are not required to file taxes because your income is too low;
• If you are not lawfully present;
• You are currently incarcerated (But note: Once you’re released, the individual mandate will apply to you, so you’ll need to get health coverage at that time. See PG. 533 for more information.)

1400 COVERED CALIFORNIA, https://www.coveredca.com/faqs/Tax-Penalty/#102, www.healthcare.gov/fees-exemptions/exemptions-from-the-fee/. For detailed lists of non-citizen categories who are “qualified” to get health care through Covered California, see: http://www.bia.gov/WhoWeAre/BIA/OIS/TribalGovernmentServices/TribalDirectory/. If you are not a citizen and you are not on these lists, you qualify for an exemption.

WHEN CAN I APPLY FOR HEALTH CARE THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA?

It depends. If you’re planning to buy a private health care plan from the Covered California marketplace, you must enroll during the “Open Enrollment period” to get coverage for the following year (unless you qualify for a Special Enrollment period, see PG. 535). The Open Enrollment period typically runs from fall to spring. If you don’t enroll during this period, you may not be able to find a private plan that can cover you (and you may have to pay the Shared Responsibility Fee, discussed above on PG. 533). To get the specific start and end dates for the next Open Enrollment period, call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY 1-888-889-4500) or the federal government’s Health Insurance Marketplace at 1-800-318-2596 (TTY 1-855-889-4325). You can also check online at www.CoveredCA.com and www.healthcare.gov.

But, if you’re eligible for Medi-Cal based off your income—your income must be at or below 138% of the federal poverty level—you can apply to Medi-Cal at any time, even if it’s not currently Open Enrollment period. If you qualify for Medi-Cal, you can enroll right away. To learn more, go to PG. 539.

IMPORTANT: Remember, if you qualify, for Medi-Cal, then you are ineligible for private health care plans through Covered California.

Exceptions to the Open Enrollment requirement: Certain people with special situations may enroll in private health care through Covered California during a Special Enrollment Period (“SEP”). This is a 60-day period outside of the Open Enrollment period, typically starting from the day that the special situation started for a person.

Two types of situations may allow you to enroll in private health insurance through Covered California during a Special Enrollment Period:

1) A “qualifying” life event suddenly creates a greater need for health coverage. For example: getting married or divorced, having a baby, losing a job, moving, losing your health coverage, or getting released from incarceration. Go to PG. 538. to learn more about Special Enrollment Periods.
2) A complex problem that prevented you from enrolling successfully. For example: a major accident, a natural disaster, misconduct by someone who helped with your health care application, or an error by Covered California or an insurance company in processing your application.

If one of these situations comes up for you, you have 60 days to notify Covered California, get approved for a SEP, submit (or re-submit) an application, and... enroll in a health care plan. If you don’t complete this process in 60 days, you may have to pay the Shared Responsibility Fee (a tax penalty, discussed above on PG. 533) for not having health care coverage.

IMPORTANT: You will not qualify for a Special Enrollment Period (SEP) if you voluntarily ended health care or lost health care coverage that didn’t provide the minimum essential benefits now required to avoid paying the Shared Responsibility Fee. For more information on SEPs and how to appeal if you were denied a SEP, please visit: https://www.healthcare.gov/coverage-outside-open-enrollment/special-enrollment-period/, or call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY 1-888-889-4500) or the federal government’s Health Insurance Marketplace at 1-800-318-2596 (TTY 1-855-889-4325).

HOW DO I ENROLL IN HEALTH CARE THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA?

You can apply for Covered California through several methods: online, by phone, in person, by mail, or by fax. You can get the paper application at your local county social services office, or online at https://www.coveredca.com/PDFs/paper_application/CA-SingleStreamApp_92MAX.pdf. The introductory pages of the application (but not the full application) can be found here in Appendix D, PG. 592.

- Online: Go to www.CoveredCA.com. Set up an account with a username and password. Once you log in, you can browse different health plans and start the application process.
- By phone: Call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY: 1-888-889-4500). A staff person will walk you through the application process.
- In person: Visit your county social services office. (For a statewide directory, see Appendix A, on PG. 586) At the office, you can pick up the application form, get help filling it out, and submit it.
- By mail: Send your completed application form to: Covered California; P.O. Box 989725; West Sacramento, CA 95798-9725.
- By fax: Fax your completed application form to: 1-888-329-3700.

IF YOU WANT FREE HELP WITH YOUR COVERED CALIFORNIA APPLICATION:

- Call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY: 1-888-889-4500). The line is open Monday to Friday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Saturday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.
- Get in-person help at a local county social services office (for a statewide list of offices, see Appendix A, PG. 586, or visit http://www.coveredca.com/faqs/).
- Local community-based organizations and community clinics provide free assistance. You can identify which organizations help with enrollment by calling Covered California or using the “Find Local Help” tool on the Covered California website at http://www.coveredca.com/get-help/local/.
- If you use the online application at www.CoveredCA.com, you can get help through the “online chat” feature.

HELPFUL HINT

Tax Credits to Reduce Cost of Private Health Care

If you’re planning to buy a private health care plan, and you want tax credits to help reduce your costs, have the following information ready when you apply:\footnote{How to Apply, COVERED CALIFORNIA, http://www.coveredca.com/apply/; If you want to buy a health plan without trying to get tax credits, you just need to provide SSNs for all family member. Enrollment and Eligibility, COVERED CALIFORNIA, https://www.coveredca.com/faqs/Enrollment-and-Eligibility/; How to Apply, COVERED CALIFORNIA, http://www.coveredca.com/apply/.}

- Birthdates and Social Security Numbers (SSNs) of all household members. For Covered California, a “family” is defined as the person who files taxes as head of household, plus all dependents claimed on those taxes.
- If you are NOT a citizen, you must have your immigrant status information. Proof of citizenship or immigration status is required only for individuals in your family who are applying for health care coverage. You are allowed to apply for your child even if you aren’t eligible for coverage because of your immigration status. Applying for your eligible child won’t affect your immigration status, or your chances of getting immigrant or citizenship status.\footnote{Also, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) has stated that they will not use information obtained through health care applications for immigration enforcement purposes.}
- Current income and latest tax return information for your household. You may be asked to follow up with documents proving your income. If you earn wages, acceptable proof may include: your most recent W-2, a recent pay stub, a letter from your employer on official office letterhead, or a copy of a check paid to you as wages.\footnote{For a full list of documents you can use to verify your income, See Accepted Income Documents, COVERED CALIFORNIA, http://www.coveredca.com/PDFs/Accepted-Income-Documents.pdf; Note: Even if you don’t file taxes, you can still qualify for free or low-cost health insurance through Medi-Cal. To learn about signing up for Medi-Cal, go to PG. 38, http://www.coveredca.com/apply/; How to Apply, COVERED CALIFORNIA, http://www.coveredca.com/apply/.}
- Information about any health insurance that you or any household member receives through a job.\footnote{http://www.ice.gov/doclib/ero-outreach/pdf/ice-aca-memo.pdf}

CAN I GET HEALTH CARE THROUGH COVERED CALIFORNIA WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

No. You cannot get health care through Covered California while you are incarcerated, but you may apply for Medi-Cal once you are nearing your release date (more information on Medi-Cal starting on PG. 539). Or if you prefer to have private health care through Covered California, you may apply once you are released (see below for more details).
HELPFUL HINT

If you’re currently serving a sentence in jail or prison, special rules apply to you for applying for health insurance:

While you’re incarcerated:

- You are eligible to enroll in Medi-Cal while incarcerated. You may apply on your own, or through any enrollment program available at your facility. You can’t start using a Medi-Cal health care plan while you’re incarcerated; but if you enroll before your release, you may be able to get health care more quickly once you’re out. To learn more about Medi-Cal and how to enroll while incarcerated, go to PG. 539.
- You are not eligible to buy a private health care plan through Covered California, and the Individual Mandate (see PG. 533) doesn’t apply to you as long as you’re incarcerated following a criminal conviction. This means you don’t have to worry about paying a penalty, or applying for an exemption from the penalty, during your incarceration.

Once you’re released:

You may be eligible to enroll in health care through Covered California; and the Individual Mandate (see PG. 533) may now apply to you. This means you may now be legally required to have health care, or pay a tax penalty—unless you get an exemption (read more about exemptions on PG. 533).

- If you want to enroll in Medi-Cal, and you didn’t already enroll while incarcerated, you can apply at any time after your release. For details about Medi-Cal, go to PG. 539.
- If you want to buy a private health care plan (and also get tax credits to help pay for it), you have 60 days after your release to notify Covered California, get approved for a Special Enrollment Period (see PG. 535), submit a Covered California application, and enroll in a health care plan. If you don’t complete this process in 60 days, you must wait for the next Open Enrollment period (see PG. 535), and you may have to pay a penalty.

Note: These special rules do not apply to you if you are on probation, parole, or home confinement; or if you are being “detained pre-trial”—in other words, being held in jail or prison but have not yet been convicted of a crime. Incarcerated People, HEALTHCARE.GOV, https://www.healthcare.gov/incarcerated-people/, http://www.safeandjust.org/resources/HealthEnrollmentToolkit. Also, please note that at the time of production of the “Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide,” the California Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) was drafting new rules that would allow for applications prior to some “qualifying life events,” including release from incarceration. But this proposed rule is not currently in effect.

Exception: You may use health care while incarcerated for the purpose of paying for medical expenses occurred during an inpatient stay in a non-correctional health facility (such as a hospital), if that stay lasts longer than 24 hours. For more information, please visit: http://www.dhcs.ca.gov/services/medi-cal/eligibility/Documents/MC%20Inmate%20Eligibility%20Program%20pdf.

Note: You are not considered “incarcerated,” if you are on probation, parole, on home confinement; or if you are being detained while you await trial. See Incarcerated People, HEALTHCARE.GOV, https://www.healthcare.gov/incarcerated-people/.

INFO ON INCOME LIMITS

The limit is defined as 138% of the Federal Poverty Level (FPL). The FPL varies based on family size, and it changes from year to year. Because the income limit changes each year, ask your county welfare agency for exact numbers when you're ready to apply.

To determine whether you qualify for Medi-Cal benefits, based on your income, visit: http://www.dhcs.ca.gov/services/medicaid/Pages/DoYouQualifyForMedi-Cal.aspx.

To download and print the income limit, visit: https://www.coveredca.com/PDFs/paper_application/CA-SingleStreamApp_92MAY.pdf.

MEDI-CAL

Medi-Cal is California's Medicaid program, offering free or low-cost health care coverage for low-income California residents. You can apply as an individual or as a family. Due to recent changes in the law, California has expanded the Medi-Cal program. Thus, if you applied for Medi-Cal prior to January 1, 2014 and were denied, you may still be eligible under the new rules.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR MEDI-CAL?

If you live in California, you can qualify for full Medi-Cal coverage in a few different ways:

First: You may be eligible for Medi-Cal if:
1) You're a California resident or you're lawfully present in the U.S., and
2) You have limited income.

Second: You may be automatically eligible for Medi-Cal if you (1) meet the income requirements, and (2) fall into one of these special categories:
- Adults age 65 and older
- Blind or disabled individuals
- Children under age 21
- Pregnant women
- Women diagnosed with breast and/or cervical cancer
- Parents or caretakers of disadvantaged children under 21
- Residents in skilled nursing or intermediate care homes
- Individuals enrolled in certain other public benefits programs, including CalWORKs, SSI/SSP, Refugee Assistance Program, In-Home Supportive Services (IHSS), Foster Care or Adoption Assistance Program.

To find out if you’re eligible for full or partial health care coverage through Medi-Cal, contact your county welfare agency. For a statewide directory of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, on PG. 586. You may also seek to apply using a paper application.

1431 Many thanks to Kellen Russoniello of the ACLU of San Diego and Imperial Counties, California for his feedback and contributions do this manual.
1432 If you’re a legally present non-citizen ("lawful permanent resident," “green card holder”) with limited income, you may qualify for partial or full Medi-Cal coverage—depending on the details of your status and your exact income. If you’re not lawfully present (i.e. undocumented), you may be able to get Medi-Cal coverage for emergencies or pregnancies, but not full Medi-Cal coverage. WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH MEDI-CAL?

As required by law, Medi-Cal covers a set of “essential health benefits,” including:

• Hospital care and emergency services;
• Medical services;
• Prescription drugs;
• Mental health and substance abuse treatment (potentially including treatment that is a condition of probation or parole);
• Maternity and pediatric care;
• Rehabilitation services;
• Preventive care and chronic disease management; and
• Some dental care.

Qualifying for Medi-Cal Because of a Disability:

If you think you qualify for Medi-Cal based on a disability, contact your county Medi-Cal office before you apply. Also, if you are homebound or living in an assisted care facility, you can ask to have a Medi-Cal representative visit you and help complete your application in person. For a statewide directory of county social services offices, see Appendix A, PG. 586.

Retroactive Medi-Cal Coverage

When applying for Medi-Cal benefits, you may request retroactive Medi-Cal coverage for medical services you received during any of the three calendar months immediately before the month that you applied to Medi-Cal, so long as the services would have qualified for coverage had you been enrolled in Medi-Cal at the time. If you do apply for retroactive benefits, you must complete a supplemental request form. You may request retroactive coverage when you apply for Medi-Cal or within one year of the last month for which retroactive coverage is sought.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET MEDI-CAL BENEFITS?

No! There are no restrictions on Medi-Cal eligibility based on past convictions or violations. You are eligible to receive Medi-Cal benefits while on probation or parole. You have the right to apply for health care using Medi-Cal, and you should!

HOW DO I APPLY FOR MEDI-CAL?

You can apply for Medi-Cal by submitting a Covered California application through several methods: online, by phone, in person, by mail, or by fax. You can get the paper application at your local county social services office, or online at https://www.coveredca.com/PDFs/paper_application/CA-SingleStreamApp_92MAX.pdf. The introductory pages of the application (but not the full application) can be found here in Appendix D, PG. 592.

- Online: Go to www.CoveredCA.com. Set up an account with a username and password. Once you log in, you can apply for Medi-Cal. Or you may use BenefitsCal by visiting http://www.benefitscal.org, where you can apply for several California benefits programs in addition to Medi-Cal all at once. We suggest contacting your county Medi-Cal office prior to applying online, because some counties prefer that you apply in person.

- By phone: Call your county social services office to apply by phone. You can contact Covered California to ask for the number of your county social services office by calling Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY: 1-888-889-4500), or by visiting its website: http://www.coveredca.com/contact/.

- In person: Visit your county social services office. (For a statewide directory, see Appendix A, PG. 586.) At the office, you can pick up the application form, get help filling it out, and submit it.

- By mail: Send your completed application form to: Covered California; P.O. Box 989725; West Sacramento, CA 95798-9725.

- By fax: Fax your completed form to: 1-888-329-3700.

IF YOU WANT FREE HELP WITH YOUR APPLICATION:

- Call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506 (TTY: 1-888-889-4500) to speak with a Certified Enrollment Counselor. The line is open Monday to Friday, 8 AM to 8 PM; and Saturday, 8 AM to 6 PM.

- Get in-person help at a local county social services office (for a statewide list of offices, see Appendix A, PG. 586, or visit http://www.dhcs.ca.gov/services/medi-cal/Pages/CountyOffices.aspx.

- Local community-based organizations and community clinics provide free assistance. You can identify which organizations help with enrollment by calling Covered California or using the “Find Local Help” tool on the Covered California website at http://www.coveredca.com/get-help/local/.

- If you use the online application at www.CoveredCA.com, you can get help through the “online chat” feature.

- You can find a listing of Medi-Cal approved certified enrollers at: http://www.coveredca.com/get-help/local/#null. Certified enrollers are 1440 You can get the paper application at your local county social services office, or online at How to Apply, COVERED CALIFORNIA, http://www.coveredca.com/apply/.

1441 The online application requires moving through about 70 web pages. Covered California has said that applying online takes about 30 minutes, but the total time will depend on how many household members you’re applying for.
1443 A list of county offices is available here: http://www.dhcs.ca.gov/services/medi-cal/Pages/CountyOffices.aspx.

CAN I APPLY FOR MEDI-CAL WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! If you were on Medi-Cal before you were incarcerated, there’s a good chance you’re eligible to reapply as your release date approaches. If you were also on SSI disability benefits before your incarceration, you may need to contact the Social Security Administration to restart your SSI checks before Medi-Cal accepts you (see PG. 570 for details on what happens to your SSI while incarcerated).

For people in state prisons: If you’re approaching your release date and likely to qualify for Medi-cal, pre-release staff at your correctional facility should offer to help you apply about two months before your release. If you agree to authorize correctional staff as your “Authorized Representative” using form MC 306 (see sample form in Appendix E, PG. 595), that staff person must ensure that your application is complete 60-90 days before your release, and send it to the Medi-Cal office in the county where you’ll be living. Ideally, the office will establish your eligibility before your release and send you a Benefits Identification Card so that you can access health care when you get out. In some cases, there may be a delay if the Medi-Cal office needs more information from you. Speak to the prison’s pre-release staff to find out about Medi-Cal enrollment pre-release.

For people in county jails: The kind of help you can get with applying for Medi-Cal will depend on what county you’re in. Most jails in California now provide some form of information and help with Medi-Cal enrollment for people nearing release. And in some jails you can even get help connecting with community health services covered by Medi-Cal. Speak to the jail’s pre-release staff to find out about Medi-Cal enrollment pre-release.

I HAD MEDI-CAL WHEN I ENTERED PRISON OR JAIL. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

It depends on how long your incarceration lasts. In California, as soon as you go to prison or jail, your Medi-Cal gets suspended, meaning paused.

- If you’re incarcerated for less than 1 year: you can reactivate your enrollment by working with staff at your correctional facility before you get out, or by notifying the Medi-Cal office as soon as you’re out.

• If you’re incarcerated for 1 year or more: your Medi-Cal gets ended, and you need to file a new application. See the next question for more details.\(^{1453}\)

HELPFUL HINT

The Medi-Cal Inmate Eligibility Program (MCIEP)

If you are pregnant, disabled, blind, or aged, MCIEP allows Medi-Cal to cover expenses for inpatient (over 24 hours) medical care in non-correctional healthcare facilities (such as hospitals) to individuals who are otherwise eligible for Medi-Cal. Individuals can obtain MCIEP benefits as long as they are remain eligible for Medi-Cal due to pregnancy, disability, blindness, or old age.\(^{1452}\) If you were receiving MCIEP benefits while incarcerated, upon your release from jail or prison, you will be able to switch back to receiving regular Medi-Cal.

MY MEDI-CAL STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTART IT?

It depends on when you first became incarcerated, and when your release date is/was. California law on this has recently changed, and different rules started to apply on January 1, 2014.\(^{1453}\)

The old rule. If you were incarcerated before January 1, 2014: If you were on Medi-Cal prior to your incarceration, then your Medi-Cal was ended on the day that you entered jail or prison. This means if you wanted to get Medi-Cal again, you had to reapply, get approved, and wait until your release before you could receive healthcare coverage through Medi-Cal.

The new rule. If you were incarcerated anytime after January 1, 2014: If you were on Medi-Cal prior to your incarceration, then your Medi-Cal got automatically suspended (paused) on the day that you entered jail or prison. The suspension period is set to last 1 year. This means that:

- If you’re released before 1 year passes, AND you continue to meet all other eligibility requirements, your Medi-Cal should automatically restart on the day of your release (and you don’t need to reapply).\(^{1454}\)
- If you’re still incarcerated after 1 year passes, then your Medi-Cal coverage will end—and if you want to get Medi-Cal again, you’ll need to reapply to restart your coverage after your release.\(^{455}\)

\(^{1455}\) But if you become ineligible for some reason before 1 year passes (for example: your income increases beyond the limit allowed for Medi-Cal), your Medi-Cal may be terminated (ended) while you’re incarcerated.

If you qualified for Medi-Cal through SSI, you may need to restart your SSI benefits (see PG. 570) before you can get your Medi-Cal coverage back.¹⁴⁵⁶

I BELIEVE MY MEDI-CAL WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

If and when the Medi-Cal office decides to suspend or end your Medi-Cal coverage, it must send you a "Notice of Action" explaining this decision.¹⁴⁵⁷ If you disagree with the decision and want to appeal (challenge) it, read the back of the Notice for instructions about how to request a hearing.

In general, you’ll need to contact the California Department of Social Services (CDSS) State Hearings Division:

- By phone: 1-855-795-0634
- By fax: 1-916-651-2789
- By email: shdacabureau@dss.ca.gov
- By mail: P.O. Box 944243, Mail Station 9-17-37; Sacramento, California 94244-2430.

Or you may try calling Health Consumer Alliance (HCA), a non-profit organization dedicated to providing information about and helping Californians to get health care. For a list of local HCA call centers, please visit http://healthconsumer.org/index.php?id=partners.

MEDICARE

Medicare is a federal health care program for people who are elderly and people who have disabilities. Medicare benefits are grouped into four parts: Part A covers hospital care; Part B covers outpatient services; Part C covers services offered by private insurance plans; and Part D covers prescription drugs.

There are two main ways to get your Medicare coverage: (1) Original Medicare (Part A and Part B) OR (2) a Part C Medicare Advantage Plan. Some people get additional coverage, such as optional prescription drug coverage through Part D.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET MEDICARE?

No! There are no eligibility restrictions based on past convictions or violations.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR MEDICARE?

When you apply for Medicare, you have to consider whether you will eligible to enroll in each part Parts A and B (and possibly D) or Part C (and possibly D). This is because each Part has different requirements and rules, and your incarceration affects each Part differently.1458

If you’re a citizen of the U.S. or you’ve been a legal resident for 5+ years, you may qualify for Medicare if:

• You’re age 65 or older, and you or your spouse has worked and paid into Medicare for 10+ years; or
• You have a disability that qualifies you for Social Security Disability benefits (no matter how old you are); or
• You have permanent kidney failure requiring dialysis or a kidney transplant.1459

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH MEDICARE?

Medicare covers services and supplies that are medically necessary to treat a disease or condition.1460

ORIGINAL MEDICARE (Part A and Part B): Part A covers hospital insurance, and Part B covers medical insurance.1461

• Part A Hospital Insurance covers:
  o Hospital care;
  o Nursing care;
  o Nursing home care;
  o Hospice; and
  o Home health services.1462

• Part B Medical Insurance covers:
  o Medically necessary services (services that are needed to diagnose or treat a medical condition); and o Preventative services (health care to detect or prevent illness).1463

  You have your choice of doctors, hospitals, and other providers that accept Medicare. You pay a monthly premium for Part B, and you may pay no or very low premiums for Part A (depending on your employment history).1464 Note: Part B is optional. When you enroll in Part A, you can choose whether to get Part B. If you’re on Social Security benefits, Part B premiums will get deducted from your Social Security checks; otherwise, you’ll get billed for Part B premiums.1465

1459 Medicare, Legal Services of Northern California, http://health.lsnc.net/medicare/.
1460 Some services may only be covered in certain places, or for patients with certain conditions. What Medicare Covers, Medicare.gov, http://www.medicare.gov/what-medicare-covers/.
1462 Part B covers 2 types of services: medically necessary services that are needed to diagnose or treat a medical condition, and preventive services that help detect and prevent illnesses. This includes doctors’ visits, lab tests, ambulance services, mental health care, and certain medical supplies. Medicare Part B http://www.medicare.gov/what-medicare-covers/part-b/what-medicare-part-b-covers.html, http://www.cahealthadvocates.org/basics/partB.html.
1465 Part A costs vary based on how many years you (or your spouse) have paid into the Social Security system. If you have 10+ years of Social Security credit, you can get Part A without paying premiums. http://www.medicare.gov/sign-up-change-plans/decide-how-to-get-medicare/your-medicare-coverage-choices.html#collapse-3135; Benefits Summary, CAL HEALTH ADVOCATES, http://www.cahealthadvocates.org/basics/benefits-summary.html
MEDICARE ADVANTAGE PLAN (Part C): Part C plans include hospital and medical insurance (Parts A and B). Private insurance companies, approved by Medicare, provide this coverage. You choose a Part C plan, and then you must use doctors, hospitals or other providers listed in that plan (or else pay higher costs). You pay an extra premium for getting Part C, in addition to whatever it would cost you to be enrolled in Parts A and B (through Original Medicare).

MEDICARE PRESCRIPTION DRUG PLAN (Part D): Part D provides prescription drug insurance for anyone enrolled in Medicare. You choose a Part D plan, and it works as an addition to your Original Medicare (Parts A and B)—or your Medicare Advantage Plan (Part C). PLEASE NOTE: Part D is optional. When you enroll in Medicare, you can choose whether to get Part D. If you have low income, you can get extra help paying for Part D.

Below are more details about eligibility for specific types of Medicare coverage.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR MEDICARE?

If you’re currently incarcerated: Read the next question (PG. 547) to learn how to apply.

If you are not incarcerated and have never been enrolled in Medicare: Read on for details related to your situation:

• If you’re approaching age 65:
  ○ And already getting Social Security benefits: you’ll automatically get Parts A and B when you turn 65. About 3 months before you turn 65, you’ll get...

1467 The details of MA plans available to you through Part C depend on where you live. Some cover prescription drugs; some don’t. http://www.cahealthadvocates.org/advantage/overview.html.
your Medicare card by mail. If you want Part D as well, you must sign up for that separately by calling 1-800-MEDICARE.\(^{1470}\)

- And NOT getting Social Security benefits (see PG. 555): you should apply for Medicare by contacting the Social Security Administration at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778).\(^{1471}\)

- If you’re under 65 and have a disability:
  - And you’re already getting disability benefits from Social Security; you’ll automatically get Parts A and B after 24 months of disability benefits.\(^{1472}\) In the 25th month, you’ll get your Medicare card by mail. If you want Part D as well you must sign up separately by calling 1-800-MEDICARE.\(^{1473}\)
  - And you’re not getting disability benefits from Social Security, you should apply for SSDI (see PG. 563 for details).

CAN I APPLY FOR MEDICARE WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! If you turn 65 and become eligible for Medicare while incarcerated, you should contact the Social Security Administration (SSA) to enroll in Parts A and B. Unlike people who are not in custody, you will NOT be automatically enrolled—so you need to take action. Although Medicare won’t start paying for your health care until you’re released, it’s important to get enrolled as soon as you can. This way, you avoid getting charged penalties for late enrollment, and you also ensure that your Medicare is ready as soon as you’re out.

- When: Contact the SSA to get enrolled during the 7-month period surrounding your 65th birthday—the month of your birthday, plus 3 months before, and 3 months following. This is called your Initial Enrollment Period (“IEP”). Supposing that you turn 65 on April 10, 2015, your Initial Enrollment Period would run from January 1, 2015 through July 31, 2015. If you don’t enroll during your Initial Enrollment Period, you may not have access to health care for months after you’re released; and you may get charged penalties if you try to enroll in Medicare later.

- How: Send a signed and dated letter to the Social Security Administration. The letter should include your full name, Social Security Number, a clear statement that you want to enroll in Medicare Parts A and B, and the date that your coverage should be effective. Make sure you sign the letter. Keep a copy of your letter and a copy of the envelope—and, if possible, send the letter by certified mail with return receipt.\(^{1474}\)

I HAD MEDICARE WHEN I ENTERED PRISON OR JAIL. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

All your Medicare benefits get suspended (paused) while you’re incarcerated. The rules for staying enrolled and restarting your benefits upon release are different for each Part of Medicare.\(^{1475}\)

\(^{1470}\) You can also enroll online using the Medicare Plan Finder: https://www.medicare.gov/find-a-plan/questions/home.aspx.\(^{1471}\) You can also enroll online using the official Social Security website: http://www.socialsecurity.gov/medicare/apply.html.\(^{1472}\) If you have permanent kidney failure, you can get Medicare earlier during your first 3 months of dialysis treatment; and other special rules apply to you. If you have Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (“ALS,” or Lou Gehrig’s disease), you’ll be automatically enrolled in Medicare when you start getting SSDI. Contact the Soc. Sec. Admin. at 1-800-722-1213 or visit www.ssa.gov for details about these special kinds of cases.\(^{1473}\) You can also enroll online using the Medicare Plan Finder: https://www.medicare.gov/find-a-plan/questions/home.aspx.\(^{1474}\) If You Become Eligible for Medicare While Incarcerated, MEDICAREINTERACTIVE.ORG, http://www.medicareinteractive.org/page2.php?topic=counselor&page=script&script_id=1781.\(^{1475}\) If You Already Have Medicare When You are Incarcerated, MEDICAREINTERACTIVE.ORG, http://www.medicareinteractive.org/page2.php?topic=counselor&page=script&script_id=1782.
> Your Part A (hospital insurance) enrollment stays in place. Although you won’t get Part A benefits while incarcerated, you don’t have to do anything to stay enrolled. When you’re released, your access to Part A benefits should be automatically restored.\textsuperscript{1476}

> Your Part B (medical insurance) is more complicated, since you can only stay enrolled by paying premiums.\textsuperscript{1477}

- If you keep paying premiums, you’ll stay enrolled, although you won’t get Medicare benefits while incarcerated.
- If you stop paying premiums, your coverage will be ended; and for every 12 months that pass before you re-enroll, your premium amount will be higher by 10%.\textsuperscript{1478} Also, you can re-enroll in Part B only during the General Enrollment Period (“GEP”), which runs January through March, and coverage starts July 1 of the year that you enroll. Depending on your release date, this may cause a gap in your medical coverage.\textsuperscript{1479}

These rules create a dilemma if you’re someone who can’t afford to keep paying Part B premiums while incarcerated, and won’t be able to afford higher premiums upon release. If you were on Medicare and SSDI before incarceration, you may be able to address this dilemma by applying for SSDI while incarcerated (see PG. 573).

> Your Part C (Medicare Advantage plan) and Part D (prescription drug plan) will end when you’re incarcerated. You’re no longer eligible to be enrolled in these plans while the prison or jail is providing your health care. If you want Part C and/or Part D after release, you’ll have to re-enroll (for details, see PG. 548).\textsuperscript{1480}

MY MEDICARE STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTART IT?

If you had Part A (hospital insurance) before you were incarcerated, you don’t have to do anything to restart it. Your enrollment should still be in place, and you should have access to Part A coverage as soon as you’re released.\textsuperscript{1481}

If you had Part B (medical insurance) before you were incarcerated, your next steps depend on your situation:

- If you kept paying premiums and stayed enrolled in Part B while incarcerated: you don’t have to do anything to restart it. Your enrollment is in place, and you should have access to Part B coverage once you’re released.\textsuperscript{1482}

• If you stopped paying premiums and your Medicare enrollment was ended while incarcerated: you can re-enroll during General Enrollment Period (“GEP”), which runs January to March.
  o Your Part B coverage will start on July 1 of that year.
  o You’ll have a higher premium based on how many months passed since your Medicare enrollment ended.
  o If you’re under 65 and previously qualified for Medicare due to a disability, you must restart your SSDI before you can get Part B again. Once you know your release date, contact Social Security to do this (see PG. 557).1483
• If you had Part C (Medicare Advantage) and Part D (prescription drug plan) before you were incarcerated, these forms of coverage ended during your incarceration. If you want Part C and/or D after release, you must enroll again during your Special Enrollment Period (“SEP”). Your SEP starts the month before your release date and ends two months after that date. If you miss your SEP, you’ll be charged a penalty when you try to enroll later. 1484

IMPORTANT: If you qualified for Medicare through SSDI, you need to restart your SSDI benefits before you can get Medicare coverage back. Even if you contact Social Security before your release, you won’t start getting SSDI again until a month after release. One possible way to avoid a gap in health care coverage is to apply for SSI before your release, if you qualify. If your SSI application is approved, you’ll be automatically enrolled in both SSI and Medi-Cal as soon as you’re released. You’ll only be on SSI for 1 month until your SSDI kicks in, and then your Medi-Cal will be linked to your SSDI again.1485

I BELIEVE MY MEDICARE WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

The steps you take will depend on what Medicare coverage you have, what decision you want to challenge, and what your situation is.

What can you do? Call 1-800-MEDICARE to learn what to do in your situation. If you need help filing an appeal, contact the California Department of Aging’s Health Insurance Counseling and Advocacy Program (HICAP) at 1-800-434-0222. 1487

You can also appoint a representative to act on your behalf; this can be a family member, friend, advocate, attorney, doctor, or anyone else you choose. You can appoint a representative in 2 ways: 1488

• Fill out and submit an “Appointment of Representative” form (see PG. 595). 1489
• Along with your appeal, submit a written request that includes:
  o Your name, address, phone number, and Medicare number;

If you are eligible for both, Medicare and Medi-Cal (“Dual Eligibility”)

Those Eligible for Both Medicare and Medi-Cal: People who qualify for both Medicare and Medi-Cal are known as “dual eligibles” or “Medi-Medis.” People typically become “dual eligible” by first being enrolled in one program and later becoming eligible for the other program. For example, someone may already meet Medi-Cal’s income requirements, and then age into Medicare when he or she turns 65. Dual eligibles do not necessarily receive the same benefits from Medicare and Medi-Cal. The majority of dual eligibles receive full Medi-Cal benefits and assistance with Medicare premiums and cost-sharing.

For counseling on dual eligibility, go to Health Consumer Alliance’s (HCA) website and view their list of local HCA call centers at http://healthconsumer.org/index.php?id=partners, or visit Cal MediConnect’s website at www.calduals.org.

V. WORK SERVICES BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- An overview of work services offered through public benefits programs
- What benefits you get work services programs
- How your criminal history could affect your ability to participate in work services offered through public benefits programs
- How to enroll in work services programs through public benefits if you are eligible

CALFRESH EMPLOYMENT & TRAINING (E&T) PROGRAM

This program offers employment and job training support for people who are getting CalFresh benefits and are NOT getting CalWORKs cash aid. Currently, only 21 counties have an E&T and, in all counties that have an E&T program, participation is voluntary.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR CALFRESH E&T?

It depends. This program is available in some California counties but not others, and it operates differently in each county. These programs are usually only offered to recipients of General Assistance/General Relief (GA/GR). If your county has an E&T program, you may be able to participate if:

- You are currently getting food stamps through CalFresh; and
- You are not currently getting cash aid through CalWORKs.

In some counties, you may be able to enroll in this program even if you aren’t getting GA/GR. Contact your local county welfare office to find out if it has an E&T program, what services it offers through this program, and if you qualify. For a statewide list of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, on PG. 586.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET CALFRESH E&T?

Maybe. As explained in the section on CalFresh food stamps, you may be disqualified from CalFresh depending on the details of your history and when you apply. For details, see PG. 522.

1494 For federal law governing this program, see Food and Nutrition Act of 2008, § 6(d); C.F.R. § 273.7. For state regulations governing this program, see the Manual of Policies and Procedures (MPP), CAL. DEPT OF SOC. SERVS., http://www.cdss.ca.gov/cdssweb/PG128.htm
1495 http://www.leginfo.ca.gov/pub/11-12/bill/sen/sb_0001-0050/sb_43_bill_20111006_chaptered.html
WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH CALFRESH E&T?

It depends. E&T programs work differently in each county, so it’s best to contact your county welfare office for all the details. Services may include:

• Workfare
• Job search activities
• Job club activities (i.e., job readiness training and counseling)
• Educational programs (such as adult basic education, basic literacy, ESL, and GED preparation)
• Referrals to vocational training
• Case management and supportive services to ensure job retention
• Mental health and/or addiction recovery counseling.

HOW DO I ENROLL IN CALFRESH E&T?

CalFresh E&T operates differently in each county. Call your local county welfare office to find out if your county has a CalFresh E&T program, and if so, how enrollment works. For a list of county welfare agencies, see Appendix A, on PG. 586.

CALWORKS WELFARE-TO-WORK

CalWORKs Welfare-To-Work (WTW) is a mandatory CalWORKs program designed to help adults find or get ready for employment. All 58 counties in California have Welfare-To-Work programs, and is operated locally by each county welfare department or its contractors. If you receive CalWORKs, you must participate in Welfare-To-Work, unless you have an exemption.

ONCE I’M ENROLLED IN CALWORKS WELFARE-TO-WORK, WHAT RULES MUST I FOLLOW TO STAY ELIGIBLE?

Unless you have an exemption, all adult CalWORKs recipients are required to participate in Welfare-To-Work (see the Helpful Hint Box on PG. 553 below for more information about exemptions). You have 24 months to complete your Welfare-To-Work requirements.

The CalWORKs Welfare-to-Work requirements include the following:

• You must complete the Welfare-To-Work program within 24 months (unless you have an exemption).
• After receiving aid for up to a maximum of 24 months, you must work in unsubsidized employment or participate in community services activities for the minimum number of hours listed below:

1498 Unsubsidized employers do not receive government subsidies (funding) to create an employment position.
ROADMAP TO REENTRY

Adults in one-parent families with a child under the age of six must spend at least 20 hours per week in Welfare-To-Work activities. Adults in one-parent families with a child over the age of six must spend at least 30 hours per week in Welfare-To-Work activities. The minimum participation requirement for two-parent families is 35 hours per week.

HELPFUL HINT

Exemptions from CalWORKs Welfare-to-Work Requirement

All adults who apply get CalWORKs must participate in the Welfare-to-Work (WTW) program, unless they have an exemption from the WTW requirement. Adults are exempt from WTW if you are:

- Age 60 or older;
- Disabled;
- Caring for an ill or incapacitated member of your household;
- The parent of a child age 0-23 months;
- Having a pregnancy that impairs your ability to be regularly employed;
- A fulltime member in VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America); OR
- A past or present victim of domestic abuse (or have a family member that is a past or present victim of domestic abuse) and the county determines that your condition or situation prevents or impairs your ability to be employed.

If you believe that any of these exemptions apply to you, contact your CalWORKs worker. You may request an exemption verbally or in writing using the “CalWORKs Exemption Request Form” (Form CW 2186 A). To view a copy of the form, visit:
http://www.cdss.ca.gov/cdssweb/entres/forms/English/CW2186A.pdf.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO PARTICIPATE IN CALWORKS WELFARE-TO-WORK?

Maybe. As explained in the section on CalWORKs, you may be disqualified depending on your conviction history and when you applied (see PG. 514).

WHAT BENEFITS AND SERVICES CAN I GET THROUGH CALWORKS WELFARE-TO-WORK?

You can get help with childcare, transportation, and work- or training-related expenses. Even when you’re no longer eligible for CalWORKs cash aid, you may continue to receive help with child care expenses.

All WTW participants will:

- Attend a group orientation that explains the cash benefit and WTW rules;
- Meet with a county welfare worker who will look at your work history and skills, and connect you to other services you may need in order to work.

VI. SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• What Social Security is and how it works
• Who is eligible to receive Social Security benefits
• About the different types of Social Security benefits (retirement benefits, SSDI, SSI/SSP)
• How to apply for Social Security benefits
• How your criminal record affects your ability to get Social Security benefits
• What happens to Social Security benefits when you are incarcerated
• How to restart your Social Security benefits if they’ve been suspended (paused)
• What to do if your Social Security benefits have been wrongly ended or suspended

Social Security is a federal benefits program that provides cash benefits to retired people, disabled people, and their dependents. Social security is a “pay-as-you-go” program, meaning that workers pay Social Security taxes, and these taxes are used to provide benefits to Social Security beneficiaries (retired people, disabled people, and their dependents).

For starters, there are four ways to qualify for federal Social Security benefits:

1) As a retired individual;
2) As a disabled individual;
3) As the spouse or dependent of an eligible individual; or
4) As the survivor of an eligible individual.

RETIREMENT BENEFITS

Social Security retirement benefits are paid out of money collected from Social Security taxes on individual paychecks to working taxpayers. For each year you work and pay Social Security taxes to the government, you earn “credits”—up to 4 per year. Generally, you need 40 credits (10 years of working and paying Social Security taxes) to qualify for retirement benefits.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR SOCIAL SECURITY RETIREMENT BENEFITS?

To get Social Security retirement benefits, you must

1) Be at least 62 years old; and
2) Have earned 40 Social Security credits (by working and paying Social Security taxes to the U.S. government for 10 full years).

You can start getting retirement benefits as early as age 62. But depending on your situation, you may want to wait so you can get a higher monthly benefit. This age may be 65, 66, or 67, depending on what year you were born.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET RETIREMENT BENEFITS?

Possibly—but it might be just temporary.

You can’t receive Social Security benefits for any month that you:

1) Are confined in a correctional facility for a period of 30+ days in a row due to a conviction;
2) Are confined to an institution by court order because you’ve been found “guilty” but insane, “not guilty” due to insanity or mental illness, or “incompetent to stand trial”;
3) Have an outstanding arrest warrant because you’re avoiding prosecution or confinement for a felony; or
4) Have been determined by a judge to be violating a condition of probation or parole.

• Here is an example of how this works: If you were convicted and confined on March 29, 2014 and you stayed in jail until May 2, 2014, you weren’t entitled to any benefits for the months of March, April, or May since you were being confined for 35 days in a row. This means you cannot collect back payments for any benefits you otherwise would have received if you never had a conviction, warrant, or violation as described in the four situations above. Additionally, if you were in prison or jail over 30 days, you may 1553 To find out the full retirement age for your birth year, call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213 or visit the SSA website to See a chart: http://www.socialsecurity.gov/retire2/retirechart.htm. If you decide to start getting retirement benefits earlier, Social Security will reduce the benefit amount you get per month. If you delay getting retirement benefits until age 70 or later, you get a special credit for each month after age 70 that you’re not getting retirement benefits.

have accrued an overpayment, which may be withheld from future Social Security benefits once you are released and your benefits are reinstated.\textsuperscript{1520}

Once you qualify for Social Security retirement benefits, you stay enrolled in the program as long as you’re eligible. Although your benefits get suspended (paused) during incarceration, they don’t get terminated (permanently ended) due to your incarceration, no matter how long your incarceration lasts.\textsuperscript{1521}

If you’re currently being incarcerated for 30 or more days, and you were already getting retirement benefits when you were arrested, those benefits were paused on your 34\textsuperscript{th} day of incarceration.\textsuperscript{1522} But you can apply to restart them once you have documents showing your release date (see PG. 559). If you weren’t already getting retirement benefits when you were arrested, and being incarcerated is the only factor disqualifying you now, you can start a new Social Security application before your release (see PG. 556).\textsuperscript{1523}

HOW DO I APPLY FOR RETIREMENT BENEFITS?

You can apply online, by phone, or in person:\textsuperscript{1524}

- Online: Visit SSA’s website (www.ssa.gov) and start a new application at https://secure.ssa.gov/iClaim/rib.\textsuperscript{1525}
  - By phone: Call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778). A representative will set an appointment for you to do your application by phone. This toll-free line is open Monday through Friday, 7 AM to 7 PM. For each time you call, record the date of your call and the name of the person who assists you.\textsuperscript{1526}
  - In person: First, call the SSA to find a local office near you; or, if you have Internet access, use the office locator at https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp. Then call the local office to make an appointment.

TIPS:

- Before you start, you may want to look over the Social Security’s application checklist (see Appendix G, on PG. 600).\textsuperscript{1527} to gather the information you need.
  - If you need help with the application, call the Social Security Administration or visit a local Social Security office. You have a right to assistance from Social Security representatives if you need help due to a disability.\textsuperscript{1528}

\textsuperscript{1520} For example, if you were convicted and incarcerated starting on the fifth of the month, the following month’s check, if cashed would be an overpayment. The best way to handle an overpayment is to return the check to SSA. http://www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/EN-05-10398.pdf. • You have a right to appoint any individual—such as a friend, family member, attorney, social worker, or other trusted advocate—to act as your representative in the application process. To do so, use the form in Appendix F, PG. 600.\footnote{Your Right to Representation, SOC. SEC. ADMIN., http://www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/EN-05-10075.pdf.}

• If you need benefits right away due to a financial emergency, ask if you can get “expedited” benefits.\footnote{Your Right to Representation (2011), PRISON LAW OFFICE, http://www.prisonlaw.com/pdfs/BenefitsLetter_Aug2011.pdf.}

CAN I APPLY FOR RETIREMENT BENEFITS WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! You can’t receive Social Security benefits while incarcerated\footnote{20 C.F.R. § 404.468(a).} but if you haven’t applied before, and you think you may qualify, you can start the application process as early as several months before your release date.

Some prisons and jails have a prerelease agreement with local Social Security offices. Ask the pre-release staff if your facility has a pre-release agreement with a local Social Security Office.

• If your facility has a pre-release agreement:
  o Speak to the pre-release staff. They should be available to help you complete and submit your application before your release.
  o Pre-release staff should also notify the Social Security office about your release date.
  o Ideally, if a prerelease agreement is in place, staff should start working with you several months before your release, and Social Security should then process your application promptly so that your benefits will start shortly after you get out.\footnote{Entering the Community After Incarceration—How We Can Help, SOC. SEC. ADMIN., http://www.ssa.gov/pubs/EN-05-10133.pdf.}

• If your facility doesn’t offer prerelease assistance—and/or you have trouble working with correctional staff:
  o Call Social Security to have application materials mailed to you and get help with them. Be prepared to give your Social Security number and release date. If Social Security’s automated phone system doesn’t accept your call, you should ask a non-incarcerated family member to call as an Authorized Representative (“AR”) on your behalf (use the form in Appendix F, PG. 600 to appoint a family member as an AR).

I WAS RECEIVING RETIREMENT BENEFITS WHEN I ENTERED PRISON OR JAIL. WHAT HAPPENS TO THEM WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

If you were convicted and incarcerated for 30 or more days in a row, your Social Security benefits got suspended on the 31st day.\footnote{Entering the Community After Incarceration—How We Can Help, SOC. SEC. ADMIN., http://www.ssa.gov/pubs/EN-05-10133.pdf.} You can’t get Social Security benefits got suspended on the 31st day. If you were convicted and incarcerated for 30 or more days in a row, your benefits are suspended for any months you're incarcerated. The amounts might get deducted from your future Social Security benefits, when you’re later released from incarceration.

WHAT TO DO IF YOU KNOW YOU WILL BE INCARCERATED 30 DAYS OR MORE:

As soon as you know that you will be incarcerated for 30 or more days, you should report this fact to Social Security so that your benefits get suspended in a timely way. If you get any Social Security checks for any months during which you’re incarcerated, these will be treated as overpayments and you’ll have to repay them later. The amounts might get deducted from your future Social Security benefits, when you’re later released from incarceration.

these benefits while incarcerated, but you’ll stay enrolled in the program. This means if your spouse or children have been getting benefits based on your Social Security eligibility, they’ll keep getting them while you’re incarcerated (even if your benefits were suspended), so long as they’re eligible.1537 This also means that once you have official documents proving your release date, you can apply to restart your retirement benefits (see PG. 559).1536

Please note that BEFORE you are actually convicted—even if you are incarcerated while awaiting trial—you will continue to receive Social Security benefits until you are convicted AND incarcerated for 30 days or more in a row.1537

IMPORTANT EXCEPTIONS

Exceptions for People Incarcerated Before April 1, 2000—What happened to your Social Security Benefits during incarceration:

- If you were incarcerated before February 1, 1995: Your benefits get suspended after your 31st day of incarceration only if you were convicted of a felony.

- If you were incarcerated between February 1, 1995 and March 31, 2000: You’re not entitled to benefits for any month in which you were incarcerated following conviction for a crime that can be given a one-year or longer sentence under law (regardless of the actual sentence the court imposed).

- If you were incarcerated before April 1, 2000: Your benefits don’t get suspended if you’re confined by court order because you’re found “not guilty” due to insanity, “guilty” but insane, or “incompetent to stand trial.”1538

MY RETIREMENT BENEFITS STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTART THEM?

Before release:

- Once you know your release date, notify your correctional counselor (or another staff member at your facility) that you want to restart your Social Security benefits. It’s best to start this process at least 3 months before your release date.1539
  - If your facility has a pre-release agreement:
    - should be available to help you complete and submit the necessary paperwork in a timely way1540
  - If your facility doesn’t offer prerelease assistance—and or you have trouble working with staff:
    - Call 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to notify Social Security that you were getting retirement benefits before you got incarcerated, and you want your benefits to restart as soon as possible after your release. The toll-free line is open Monday to 1534 So, for example, if you were convicted and went to prison or jail on March 3, your benefits would stop on April 2. Arrested? What Happens to Your Benefits?, BAZELON CENTER, http://www.itsaPGov.com/pubdef/Forms/LinkClick.Benefits.pdf.

- If Social Security’s automated phone system doesn’t accept your call, you should ask a non-incarcerated family member to call as an Authorized Representative (“AR”) on your behalf (use the form in Appendix E, PG. 595 to appoint a family member as an AR).
- You can also ask a friend, family member, or trusted advocate to communicate with Social Security about your benefits on your behalf. Remember that you have a right to appoint any individual—such as a friend, family member, attorney, or social worker—to act as your representative in the application process. To do so, use the form on Appendix E, PG. 595\footnote{Your Right to Representation, SOC. SEC. ADMIN., \url{http://www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/EN-05-10075.pdf}}.

After release:

- Call 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to notify Social Security that you were released from prison and want to restart your retirement benefits. Be prepared to provide your Social Security number. A representative will set an appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to bring your official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.\footnote{Benefits After Incarceration, SOC. SEC. ADMIN. \url{http://www.ssa.gov/reentry/}; What Prisoners Need to Know, SOC. SEC. ADMIN., \url{http://www.ssa.gov/pubs/EN-05-10133.pdf}}

IMPORTANT: You can’t get back-payments of Social Security for the months you spent in prison or jail.\footnote{42 U.S.C. § 1382} In other words, you can never collect retirement checks you otherwise would have gotten if you weren’t incarcerated. However, you should be able to collect back-payments of benefits dating back to the month following the month of your release. So, for example, if you were released on October 10, 2014, you became entitled to start receiving retirement benefits again starting November 2014. Since monthly Social Security benefits are paid 1 month after they’re due, you can collect your November retirement check in December 2014.\footnote{What Prisoners Need to Know, SOC. SEC. ADMIN., \url{http://www.ssa.gov/pubs/EN-05-10133.pdf}}
SOCIAL SECURITY DISABILITY INSURANCE (SSDI)

Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefits are paid out of money collected from Social Security taxes on individual worker’s paychecks.1546 SSDI is for U.S. citizens and lawfully present non-citizens (legal permanent residents or LPRs) who have earned a certain amount of Social Security credits by working and paying Social Security taxes, but who can no longer work due to a disability.1547

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR SSDI?

To get SSDI, you must:

1) Have a disability.
   a. A disability is a severe medical condition that prevents you from being able to work.1548
   b. Once you apply for SSDI, California Department of Social Services (CDSS) will collect medical records to decide if you have a disability.1549
   c. Note: Being unemployed, incarcerated on parole, or currently addicted to substances do not qualify as disabilities for SSDI.1550

AND

2) Have a recent and long enough work history to meet SSDI requirements.
   a. What counts as recent and lengthy enough work for SSDI depends on the age when you became disabled. Generally, the older you were when you became disabled, the more recent and lengthy your work must be.1551

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET SSDI?

Possibly—but this could be just temporary. You can’t get Social Security benefits for any month that you:1553

1) Are confined in a correctional facility for a period of 30+ days in a row due to a conviction;1554

1548 The law defines “disability” as the inability to do any “substantial gainful activity” due to a “medically determinable physical or mental impairment” that can be expected to result in death or that has lasted (or can be expected to last) for at least 12 months in a row. 20 C.F.R. § 416.905(a); Your Right to Representation (2011), Prison Law Office http://www.prisonlaw.com/pdfs/BenefitsLetter,Aug2011.pdf
1552 To see detailed work requirements for people who became disabled at different ages, see Disability Planner, Soc. Sec. Admin., http://www.ssa.gov/pubs/EN-05-10029.pdf
Are confined to an institution by court order because you’ve been found “guilty” but insane, “not guilty” due to insanity or mental illness, or “incompetent to stand trial”;

3) Have an open arrest warrant because you’re avoiding prosecution or confinement for a felony; or

4) Are found to be violating a condition of probation or parole.

Here is an example of how this works: If you were convicted and confined on March 29, 2014 and stayed in jail until May 2, 2014, you weren’t entitled to benefits for the months of March, April, or May since you were being confined for 35 days in a row. This means you can’t collect back payments for any SSDI benefits you otherwise would have received if you never had a conviction, warrant, violation, and/or period of confinement as described above.

Also, you CANNOT apply for any Social Security benefits based on a disability that is related to a felony you committed. For example, if you fell while committing a felony and lost your ability to walk as a result, that disability won’t qualify you for SSDI. But you could still apply for SSDI based on a disability that has no connection to your felony.

Once you qualify for SSDI, you stay enrolled as long as you still have a qualifying disability. Although your benefits get suspended (paused) during incarceration, they won’t get terminated (permanently ended) due to your incarceration.

This means that if your spouse or children have been getting benefits as your dependents based on your SSDI eligibility, they’ll keep getting these benefits while you’re incarcerated, as long as they stay eligible.

If you’re currently incarcerated for 30 or more days, and you were already getting SSDI when you were arrested, then your SSDI was suspended on your 31st day of incarceration. But you can apply to restart your SSDI benefits once you have documents showing your release date (see PG. 565). If you weren’t on SSDI when you were arrested, and being incarcerated is the only factor disqualifying you now, you can start a new application for SSDI before your release (see PG. 563).
IMPORTANT EXCEPTIONS

Exceptions for People Incarcerated Before April 1, 2000—What happened to your SSDI during incarceration:

- If you were incarcerated between February 1, 1995 and March 31, 2000: You’re not entitled to SSDI benefits for any month in which you were incarcerated following conviction of a crime punishable by more than a one-year statutory sentence, regardless of the actual sentence imposed by the court.
- If you were incarcerated before February 1, 1995: Your SSDI benefits get suspended after your 31st day of incarceration only if you were convicted of a felony.
- If you were incarcerated before April 1, 2000: Your SSDI benefits didn’t get suspended if you were confined by court order because you were found to be “not guilty” due to insanity, “guilty” but insane, or “incompetent to stand trial.”

HOW DO I APPLY FOR SSDI?

You can apply online, by phone, or in person.

- Online: Visit SSA’s website (www.ssa.gov) and start a new application at https://secure.ssa.gov/iClaim/dib.
- By phone: Call the SSA at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778). A representative will set up an appointment for you to do your application by phone. This toll-free line is open Monday through Friday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. For each time you call, record the date of your call and the name of the person who helps you.
- In person: First, call the SSA to find the office nearest you; or, if you have Internet access, use the office locator at https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp. Then call to make an appointment.

TIPS:

- Apply as soon as possible when you become disabled. The application review process can take 3-5 months.
- Before you start, you may want to look over the Social Security Administration’s disability application checklist (see Appendix G, PG. 606) to gather the information you need.
- If you need help with the application, call the Social Security Administration or visit a local Social Security office. You have a right to assistance from Social Security representatives if you need help due to a disability.
- You have a right to appoint any individual—such as a friend, family member, attorney, social worker, or other trusted advocate—to act as your representative in the application process. To do so, use the “Appointment of Representative” form (a copy of form in Appendix E, PG. 595).

CAN I APPLY FOR SSDI WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes! You can’t receive Social Security benefits while incarcerated\(^ {1573}\)—but if you haven’t applied for SSDI before, and you think you may qualify, you can start the application process as early as several months before your release date. Keep in mind that review of an SSDI application can take 3-5 months.\(^ {1574}\)

Some prisons and jails have a prerelease agreement with local Social Security offices to make this process easier.

I WAS RECEIVING SSDI WHEN I GOT ARRESTED. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT WHILE I'M INCARCERATED?

If you were convicted and incarcerated for 30 or more days in a row, your SSDI benefits got suspended on the 31st day. You can’t receive SSDI benefits while incarcerated, but you’ll stay enrolled in the program. This means that if your spouse or children have been getting benefits as your dependents based on your SSDI eligibility, they’ll keep getting these benefits while you’re incarcerated, as long as they stay eligible. This also means that once you have official documents proving your release from incarceration, you can apply to restart your SSDI benefits (see PG. 565).

MY SSDI STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTART IT?

BEFORE RELEASE:

- Once you know your release date, notify your correctional counselor (or another staff member at your facility) that you want to restart your SSDI benefits. It’s best to start this process at least 3 months before your release date.
- If your facility has a prerelease agreement with Social Security:
  - Staff should be available to help you complete and submit the necessary paperwork in a timely way.
- If your facility doesn’t offer prerelease assistance—and/or you have trouble working with correctional staff:
  - Call 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to notify Social Security that you were getting SSDI before incarceration, and you want your benefits to restart as soon as possible after your release. The toll-free line is open Monday to Friday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.
  - Be prepared to provide your Social Security number and release date.
  - If Social Security’s automated phone system doesn’t accept your call, you may have to call repeatedly until you reach a representative who can help you with your release appointment.
  - You can also ask a friend, family member, or trusted advocate to communicate with Social Security on your behalf.

AFTER RELEASE:

- If you weren’t able to do so while incarcerated, call Social Security to report that you were released from prison and want to restart your SSDI benefits. A representative will set an appointment for you at a local Social Security office, ask you to bring your official release documents, and tell you what else you need to do.
- If your SSDI has only been suspended (paused)—which is what normally happens—it may take only a month to restart it. If you are incarcerated for 12 months or more, then your SSDI benefits would have been terminated, and you have to file a new application to reestablish your eligibility.

---

1578 So, for example, if you were convicted and went to prison or jail on March 3, your benefits would stop on April 2. Arrested? What Happens to Your Benefits? BAZELON CENTER, http://www.kitsaPGov.com/pubdf/Forms/LinkClick.Benefits.pdf

HELPFUL HINTS
SSDI Back-payments

You can’t get back-payments of SSDI for the months you spent in prison or jail. In other words, you can never collect SSDI checks you otherwise would have gotten if you weren’t incarcerated. However, you should be able to collect back-payments of SSDI dating back to the month following the month of your release.

Getting SSDI on the Day You Apply

In SPECIAL EMERGENCY CASES, you may be able to get benefits on the day you walk into the local Social Security office to complete your SSDI paperwork. This may be possible if:

(1) your SSDI was only suspended and not terminated during your incarceration, or you’ve already filed a new SSDI application before your release;
(2) you can show proof of a financial emergency; and
(3) you haven’t already received benefits for the month.

I BELIEVE MY SSDI WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

Many people who apply for SSDI are denied at first, but then get benefits once they appeal. Considering the small odds of getting approved on the first try, be prepared to get denied and to go through the appeals process.

If Social Security decides to deny your SSDI application, it must mail you a notice of this decision.

• You have a right to appeal. To do so, you must file a “Request for Reconsideration” within 60 days after the date you received the notice. You can send it by mail, but it’s best to file it in person at a local Social Security office. This way you get a copy with a time-and-date stamp, which proves that you appealed on time.

• You can also appeal online at: https://secure.ssa.gov/apps6z/iAppeals/ap001.jsp

• If you miss the 60-day deadline due to factors beyond your control, like illness or hospitalization, file a request for a “good cause exception” to the deadline along with your “Request for Reconsideration.”

If Social Security then decides to deny your Request for Reconsideration, it must mail you a notice of this decision.

1587 42 U.S.C. § 1382
1588 So, for example, if you were released on October 10, 2014, you became entitled to start receiving SSDI benefits again starting November 2014. Since monthly Social Security benefits are paid 1 month after they’re due, you can collect your November SSDI check in December 2014. What Prisoners Need to Know, SOC. SEC. 1592 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.911(a), 416.1411(a)
• Again, you have a right to appeal. To do so, you must file a “Request for an Administrative Law Judge Hearing” within 60 days after the date you got the notice.

If you can’t afford a lawyer to help with your appeal, you may be able to find free help by contacting a local legal aid office, a local bar association referral services, or another local nonprofit organization that helps with Social Security issues.

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME (SSI)

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) provides financial support for low-income people who are 65 years old or older and/or have a disability—regardless of work history. The federal government provides certain amounts of aid for people who qualify, and California adds to the federal amounts in certain cases. SSI benefits are meant to cover basic necessities like food, clothing and shelter.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR SSI?

To be able to get SSI, you must:

1) Be at least age 65, or blind, or disabled;
   a. For SSI purposes, a disability is a severe medical condition that prevents you from being able to work. This is the same definition used for SSDI, and the same process is used to decide whether you have a qualifying disability.

2) Have very little or no income;
   a. The income limit varies by where you live and may change from year to year.

3) Own limited resources;
   a. The resource limit means that the value of things you own (besides your home and your car) must be below a certain amount, which is set by law and differs for single and married people.

4) You must be living in the U.S. as a citizen or a lawfully present non-citizen (LPR),
   a. If you are ineligible for SSI due to residency status, but you are legally present, you may be eligible for the Cash Assistance Program for Immigrants (CAPI). For information about this program, see the Helpful Hint box below.

1596 The law defines “disability” as the inability to do any “substantial gainful activity” due to a “medically determinable physical or mental impairment” that can be expected to result in death or that has lasted (or can be expected to last) for at least 12 months in a row. 20 C.F.R. § 416.905(a); Benefits Available to Paroling & Discharging Inmates, PRISON LAW OFFICE (2011), http://www.prisonlaw.com/pdfs/BenefitsLetter,Aug2011.pdf.
1601 If you’re a non-citizen, you may be able to get SSI if you meet specific requirements; the rules on this are complex. Resources are available from California Immigrant Policy Center (www.caimmigrant.org) and National Immigration Law Center (www.nilc.org). You should also ask your county social services office for information about benefits programs for non-citizens, such as CAPI (See Helpful Hint box above). Benefits Available to Paroling & Discharging Inmates, PRISON LAW OFFICE (2011), http://www.prisonlaw.com/pdfs/BenefitsLetter,Aug2011.pdf.
1602 For more information on how to apply, visit http://www.cds.ca.gov/cdssweb/entres/getinfo/pdf/eas16.PDF
5) You must apply for any other cash benefits you might be eligible for; and
6) You must not be currently incarcerated (details below).

HELPFUL HINT

Cash Assistance Program for Immigrants (CAPI)

- CAPI is a state-funded program that provides monthly cash benefits (similar to SSI) for aged, blind, and disabled non-citizens who are ineligible for SSI/SSP solely due to their immigrant status.
- CAPI Eligibility: To be eligible for CAPI, you must:
  - Fill out an application in the county welfare office
  - Be a lawfully present noncitizen
  - Meet all other SSI/SSP eligibility requirements (except for immigration status)
  - Be ineligible for SSI/SSP solely due to immigration status
- For more information on CAPI, call your local SSA office (listing of SSA offices available at: https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp or visit: http://www.cdss.ca.gov/cdssweb/PG42.htm

HOW SSI AFFECTS YOUR ABILITY TO GET OTHER PUBLIC BENEFITS:

- If you get SSI, you can’t also get CalFresh, since SSI is supposed to cover food expenses. However, other people in your household may be eligible and your income will not count in determining their eligibility.
- If you get SSI, you’ll be automatically enrolled in Medi-Cal (see PG. 539) and may qualify for extra help with paying for Medicare (see PG. 544).
- SSI recipients who do not have access to a kitchen or have a kitchen but no stove or refrigerator are eligible for additional food benefits through SSI. You are not considered as having access to a kitchen unless you have a working refrigerator or icebox and a stove with at least two working burners.
- Depending on your work history, you may be eligible to get retirement benefits (see PG. 555) and/or SSDI (see PG. 561) in addition to SSI.

CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET SSI?

Possibly—but this could be just temporary. You can’t get SSI for any month that you:

1) Are confined in a correctional facility for that full calendar month;
2) Have an outstanding arrest warrant because you’re avoiding prosecution or confinement for a felony; or
3) Are found to be violating a condition of probation or parole.

• Here is an example of how this works: If you went to jail on October 30, 2014 until November 2, 2014, you weren’t entitled to SSI benefits for the months of October or November. 1610 This means you can’t collect “back payments” for SSI benefits that you would have received if you never had a violation, warrant, and/or period of confinement as described in the three situations above. 1611 Additionally, your benefits will be paused for up to one year. After that, they will be ended and you will need to re-apply (see PG. 571 below).

• Also, you can’t apply for any Social Security benefits based on a disability that is related to a felony you committed. For example, if you fell while committing a felony and lost your ability to walk as a result, that disability won’t qualify you for SSI. 1612 But you could still apply for SSI based on a disability that has no connection to your felony.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR SSI?

You can apply by phone or in person: 1613

• By phone: Call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778). A representative will set an appointment for you to do your application by phone. This toll-free line is open Monday through Friday, 7 AM to 7 PM. For each time you call, record the date of your call and the name of the person who assists you. If you complete your application within 60 days of your first call to request information or materials, the SSA will treat that call as the date of your application. 1614

• In person: First, call Social Security to find a local office near you; or, if you have Internet access, use the office locator at https://secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp. Then call the local office to make an appointment. Unfortunately, you cannot apply for SSI online.

TIPS:

• If you’re applying based on a disability, apply as soon as possible when you become disabled. The application review process can take 3-5 months. 1615

• Before you start, you may want to look over the Social Security Administration’s SSI brochure (available online at http://www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/EN-05-11000.pdf) and/or disability application checklist (see Appendix G, PG. 606) 1616 to know what you’ll need.

• If you need help with the application, call the Social Security Administration or visit a local Social Security office. You have a right to assistance from Social Security representatives if you need help due to a disability. 1617

• You have a right to appoint any individual—such as a friend, family member, attorney, social worker, or other trusted advocate—to act as your representative in the application process. To do so, use the “Appointment of Representative” form in Appendix F, PG. 600. 1618

---

• Some counties offer assistance with representation or referral to legal services programs for representation.

CAN I APPLY FOR SSI WHILE INCARCERATED?

Some prisons and jails have a \textit{prerelease agreement} with local Social Security offices.

- \textit{If your facility has a pre-release agreement}: Speak to correctional staff. They may be available to help you complete and submit your SSI application before your release.
  - Correctional staff should also notify the Social Security office about your release date.
  - Ideally, if a prerelease agreement is in place, staff should start working with you several months before your release, and the Social Security office should then process your application promptly so that your benefits will start shortly after you get out.
- \textit{If your facility doesn’t offer prerelease assistance—and/or you have trouble working with correctional staff}: Call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY: 1-800-325-0778) to have application materials mailed to you and get help with them. Be prepared to give your release date.
  - If Social Security’s automated phone system doesn’t accept your call, you should ask a non-incarcerated family member to call as an Authorized Representative (“AR”) on your behalf (use the form included in Appendix F, \textit{PG. 600} to appoint a family member as an AR).

I WAS RECEIVING SSI WHEN I ENTERED PRISON OR JAIL. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

\textit{It depends} on how long your incarceration period lasts—and, specifically, how many full calendar months you spend in prison or jail.\footnote{2013}

---

\textit{Finding the Key to Successful Transition from Jail or Prison to the Community, BAZELON CENTER (2009), http://www.bazelon.org/News-Publications/Publications/Publications/List/1/CatalogID/7/Level/a/ProductID/17.aspx?SortField=ProductNumber%2CProductNumber}

• If your incarceration doesn't last a full calendar month: Your SSI benefits generally continue without interruption. Once you've spent a full calendar month in prison or jail, your SSI benefits get suspended (put on pause).

• If your incarceration lasts for less than 12 calendar months in a row: Your SSI benefits stay suspended, but you remain enrolled in SSI. This means once you're released, Social Security can promptly restart your SSI benefits if it has proof that you've been released and proof that you still qualify based on income and resources. You won't be required to show new proof of your disability—although you should promptly report any changes to your disabled condition. (For details on how to restart your SSI after release from incarceration, see PG. 573.)

• If your incarceration lasts 1 year or more, and your SSI has been suspended for 12 calendar months in a row: Your SSI gets terminated (officially ended). This means you're no longer enrolled in SSI. If you want to get SSI after your release, you must file a brand new SSI application, including proof of your income and resources and proof of your disability. Processing your new SSI application may take 12-18 months. (For general information on how to start a new SSI application, see PG. 569. For details on how to apply for SSI while incarcerated, see PG. 573).

The toll-free line is open Monday to Friday, 7AM to 7PM. Be prepared to provide your Social Security number and release date. SSI Backpayments

You can’t get back-payments of SSI for any months you spent incarcerated. In other words, you can never collect checks you otherwise would have gotten if you weren’t incarcerated. But you should be able to collect benefits dating back to your release. So, for example, if you were incarcerated on June 7, 2014 and released on September 7, 2014, your SSI can be restarted as of September 7. You’ll be eligible for a partial SSI payment for September and full benefits for October. If your SSI application is approved pre-release, SSI benefits should be paid to you immediately upon release. If your SSI application is approved post-release, SSI benefits should be paid to you immediately upon approval; and you should get backpayment to the date of your release.

I BELIEVE MY SSI WAS WRONGLY DENIED OR STOPPED. HOW DO I APPEAL?

Many people who apply for SSI are denied at first, but then get benefits once they appeal. Considering the small odds of getting approved on the first try, be prepared to get denied and to go through the appeals process. NOTE: The rules and procedures for appealing SSI decisions are the same as for SSDI (described on PG. 566).

If Social Security decides to deny your SSI application, it must mail you a notice of this decision.

- You have a right to appeal. To do so, you must file a Request for Reconsideration within 60 days after the date you got the notice. You can send it by mail, but it’s best to file it in person at a local Social Security office. This way you get a copy with a time-and-date stamp, which proves that you appealed on time.

- If you miss the 60-day deadline due to factors beyond your control, like illness or hospitalization, file a request for a “good cause exception” to the deadline along with your Request for Reconsideration.

If Social Security then decides to deny your Request for Reconsideration, it must mail you a notice of this decision.

- Again, you have a right to appeal. To do so, you must file a Request for an Administrative Law Judge Hearing within 60 days after the date you got the notice.

If you can’t afford a lawyer to help with your appeal, you may be able to find free help by contacting a local legal services program, a local bar association referral services, or a local Protection & Advocacy organization.

VII. VETERANS’ BENEFITS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What benefits are available to veterans
- Who is eligible to receive veterans benefits
- What effect your criminal history has on your ability to receive veterans benefits
- Whether you can apply for veterans benefits while incarcerated
- The effects of incarceration, if you were already receiving veterans benefits
- What to do if your veterans benefits are reduced or stopped
- What to do if you’re disqualified from VA benefits due to your discharge status

The federal Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) provides various benefits to U.S. military veterans. These include disability compensation, pensions, education benefits, vocational and employment services, healthcare benefits, insurance benefits, and survivors’ and dependents’ benefits. Here you will learn about how your criminal history and incarceration may affect your access to these benefits.

For more detailed and comprehensive information, you should read:
1) The California Veterans Resource Book, an overview of veterans’ resources across the state; and
2) The Guidebook for California Incarcerated Veterans, a practical resource for pre- and post-release planning. You can also call the VA at 1-800-827-1000 (TDD 1-800-829-4833) with questions and to obtain copies of all these resources. If you have Internet access, visit www.benefits.va.gov/benefits for further details and downloadable forms; and visit www.ebenefits.va.gov to view your status, access your documents, and apply for VA benefits.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR VETERANS’ (VA) BENEFITS?

Generally, to be eligible for most VA benefits:
- You must have been discharged from active military service, and
- You must have served the minimum time in service;

1647 Active service means full-time service, other than active duty for training, as a member of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, or as a commissioned officer of the Public Health Service, Environmental Science Services Administration or National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, or the Coast and Geodetic Survey. U.S. Title 38, Federal Benefits for Veterans Dependents & Survivors (2014), U.S. DEP’T OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.va.gov/opa/publications/benefits_book.asp
• Your character of discharge must not be dishonorable or based on bad conduct, and
• You must not be statutorily barred from all VA benefits because of your reason for discharge
• You must not currently be wanted for an open felony warrant.

Your basic eligibility for different benefits will also depend on the type of military service you performed, how long you served, and other specific needs or issues you may have. For more details about benefits you may qualify for, visit a VA regional office, call 1-800-825-1000, visit www.va.gov/benefits, or create an account at www.ebenefits.va.gov.

ABOUT DISHONORABLE DISCHARGES

Certain dishonorable discharges may bar you from all VA benefits (see PG. 576). But for some dishonorable discharges, including most situations involving a felony conviction, you might still qualify for benefits if the VA reviews your case and decides your discharge wasn’t under dishonorable conditions (see PG. 577) through a “discharge upgrade.”

More specifically, if you have a discharge status of honorable or general under honorable conditions, you are automatically eligible to apply for most VA Benefits including VA health care, VA Compensation, and VA Pension. If you have a discharge status of dishonorable or bad conduct (by general court martial) you are likely barred from all VA benefits. If you have a discharge status of other than honorable (OTH), bad conduct (special court martial), or uncharacterized, the VA is required to make an individual determination as to whether you were discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable (see PG. 576). This determination is based solely on your period of service in the military, not conduct or convictions post-service.

1640 A person who originally enlists after September 7, 1980 must complete either twenty-four months of continuous active duty or the full period for which the person was called or ordered to active duty. 38 C.F.R. § 3.12a. Persons who enlisted prior to September 7, 1980 or persons with a compensable service-connected disability are not subject to the minimum time in service requirement. 38 C.F.R. § 3.12a.
1648 Unless it’s determined that you were insane at the time you committed the offense, you’re barred from benefits if you were released or discharged for any of the following: a sentence of a general court-martial; being a conscientious objector; desertion; resignation by an officer for the good of the service; absence without official leave (AWOL) for a continuous period of 180+ days, without compelling circumstances warranting the unauthorized absence; requesting release from service as an alien during a period of hostilities. 38 U.S.C. § 5303; Claims for VA Benefits & Character of Discharge: General Information, U.S. DEPT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, http://www.benefits.va.gov/BENEFITS/docs/COD_Factsheet.pdf
1650 A discharge under honorable conditions is binding on the Department of Veterans Affairs as to character of discharge. 38 C.F.R. § 3.12(a).
1651 M21-1 Manual Rewrite (MR), Part III, Subpart v, Chapter 1, Section B; Beyond "T.B.D." Understanding VA's Evaluation of a Former Servicemember's benefits eligibility following involuntary or punitive discharge from the armed services, 214 MIL. L. REV. WINTER 2012; the term ‘veteran’ means a person who served in the active military, naval, or air service, and who was discharged or released therefrom under conditions other than dishonorable.” 38 U.S.C. § 101(2).
CAN MY CRIMINAL HISTORY LIMIT MY ABILITY TO GET VA BENEFITS?

Yes. You’re not eligible for VA compensation, pension, or death benefits if:

- You’re currently wanted for an open warrant on a felony charge;
- You’re violating a probation or parole condition for a felony sentence;\(^{1662}\) or
- You have a felony conviction that led to your discharge\(^ {1659}\) unless and until the VA reviews your case and determines that the circumstances leading to your discharge may have been “other than dishonorable.”\(^ {1660}\)

IMPORTANT: INFORMATION ABOUT MILITARY SERVICE & DISCHARGE CONDITIONS:

- If you served more than one term of active military service, and your discharge for one of the terms was under dishonorable conditions, you may not be eligible for VA benefits based on that term—however, if your discharge for a different term of service ended under honorable conditions, you can still be eligible for VA benefits based on this separate term.\(^ {1661}\)
- Also, if you completed a full term of enlistment, and it didn’t end with a formal discharge because you later reenlisted, you can still be eligible for VA benefits based on completion of that first term.\(^ {1662}\)
- If you have disabilities that are service-connected, and your discharge was under dishonorable conditions, you may not be eligible for VA disability compensation due to your discharge status. However, as long as your discharge isn’t related to a situation that would absolutely disqualify you from VA benefits by law (see PG. 576) you may still be eligible for VA health care benefits (e.g., treatment at a VA medical facility) for those disabilities.\(^ {1663}\)

HOW DO I APPLY FOR VA BENEFITS?

The required forms and steps vary for different types of VA benefits. For most VA benefits, you can submit your application online, by mail, or in person at a Regional Benefit Office.

If the VA believes that you are in violation of probation or parole you must be provided notice by the VA and an opportunity to present evidence, such as evidence that you are not in violation of probation or parole. See VBA Letter 20-14-09 (June 23, 2014). If the VA determines based upon the warrant and evidence that you submitted that you are fleeing from justice or violated a condition of your probation or parole, your benefits will be terminated. See VBA Letter 20-14-09 (June 23, 2014).

\(^{1662}\) For example, if an individual enlisted for three years, completed the three years and reenlisted for two more years, then received a discharge under other than honorable conditions during the second enlistment, VA benefits may be provided based on the first period of service, even if it is determined that the character of discharge of the second period of service is a bar to benefits. See Claims for VA Benefits & Character of Discharge, U.S. DEPT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.benefits.va.gov/BENEFITS/docs/COD_Factsheet.pdf.

CAN I APPLY FOR VA BENEFITS WHILE INCARCERATED?

Yes. Although your eligibility for VA benefits may be limited or cut off during incarceration, there are various VA benefits you can apply for while incarcerated. There are certain benefits you can apply for and receive in full while incarcerated; and there are certain other benefits you should start applying for while incarcerated so that you can access them immediately upon your release. Information about some of these benefits is provided below. Contact the VA at 1-800-827-1000 (TDD 1-800-829-4833) for further details.

Overview of VA benefits You Can (& Can’t) Apply for While Incarcerated:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>VA Benefits You CAN Apply for:</th>
<th>VA Benefits You CAN’T Apply For:</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>• Service-related disability compensation, disability pensions, dependency benefits, and death benefits</td>
<td>• You can’t apply for or receive any non-service-related pension benefits while incarcerated for a felony.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Apportionment of benefits if incarcerated for a non-felony. This means you can ask the VA to pay your dependents some or all of the benefits that you can’t receive while incarcerated. You or your dependents must complete VA Form 21-0788 (see Appendix H, on PG. 610) and submit it to a VA Regional Office.</td>

1665 If you’re incarcerated for 60+ days, on the 61st day the VA will reduce any disability compensation and pension payments you were getting (see PG. 79). 38 U.S.C. § 5313(a), 38 C.F.R. § 3.665(a), (d); Federal Veterans Benefit: Incarceration Information, WASH. STATE DEPT OF CORR., www.doc.wa.gov/family/docs/VAFederalBenefits.pdf.

1667 In deciding whether and how much apportionment to award your family member(s), the VA will consider various factors including their income, living expenses, and any special needs. 38 U.S.C. § 5313(a), 38 C.F.R. § 3.665(a), (d); Federal Veterans Benefit: Incarceration Information, WASH. STATE DEPT OF CORR., www.doc.wa.gov/family/docs/VAFederalBenefits.pdf.

1669 If another government program is covering part of these costs, you can apply for VA benefits to cover the rest. See Health Care for Re-entry Veterans Services & Resources, U.S. DEPT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.va.gov/homeless/reentry.asp; Guidebook for California Incarcerated Veterans, 4th ed. (July 2013), U.S. DEPT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.va.gov/HOMELESS/docs/Reentry/09_ca.pdf.
Pre-release steps for securing VA health care (& other benefits):

- Meet with your region’s Re-entry Specialist. Every region of the U.S. has a VA Re-entry Specialist who can help determine your eligibility for VA benefits. He/she can also help you enroll, restart disability benefits, getting your DD-214 (explained below), and connecting you with services. Your region’s Re-entry Specialist should be scheduled to visit your facility at least yearly.

- Enroll with the VA. Do this by visiting with a Re-entry Specialist, OR by submitting a VA Form 10-10EZ by mail (see copy of form in Appendix I, PG. 610). If your release date is within 6 months and you haven’t seen a Re-entry Specialist, enroll by mail to ensure timely access to services. To request a form, write to a VA Enrollment Office near your place of release (directory online at http://www.va.gov/directory/guide), and mail back your completed form with “VA Enrollment” written on the envelope.

- Get a copy of your “DD-214: Report of Separation.” Have this ready before release. This is your proof of military service, and it’s a key to your access to job opportunities, community resources, and health care. To request your DD-214, write to: National Personnel Records Center; 1 Archives Drive; St. Louis, MO 63136.

- File for service-related disability compensation or disability pension, if that applies to you.

VA programs that can help you plan & navigate reentry:

- Health Care for Re-entry Veterans offers outreach, support, and information to veterans in state or federal prison who are at risk of homelessness upon release. To reach an HCRV Specialist near you, call VA’s health care line (1-877-222-8387); or check the directory on HCRV’s online page.

- Veterans Justice Outreach offers outreach, support, and information to veterans who are under arrest, under supervision of treatment courts, or in county jail and at risk of homelessness upon release. To reach a VJO Specialist near you, call VA’s health care line (1-877-222-8387); or check the directory on VJO’s online page.

- Homeless Veterans Outreach (HVO) offers outreach, support, and information to veterans who are involved in the criminal justice system. HVO can help you apply for benefits and refer you to services that meet your needs. To reach an HVO Coordinator near you, call the VA’s National Call Center for Homeless Veterans at 1-877-424-3838.

I WAS RECEIVING VA BENEFITS BEFORE I GOT ARRESTED. WHAT HAPPENS TO THEM WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

It depends. Until you’re convicted, there’s no problem: if you’re in jail awaiting trial, you’re presumed innocent, and still entitled to VA benefits. Once convicted, your ability to get VA benefits depends on your conviction and the length of your incarceration.\(^\text{1675}\)

---

FOR NON-SERVICE-RELATED PENSIONS:

- If you’re incarcerated for a felony or misdemeanor, you should keep getting regular pension payments for the first 60 days of incarceration. If you’re released on or before the 60th day, your payments should continue without interruption. But starting on the 61st day of incarceration, payments get cut off. After release, you may be able to restart your payments if you’re eligible at that time (details on PG. 581).\(^\text{1676}\)

FOR HEALTH CARE BENEFITS:

- If you’re incarcerated for any conviction, you don’t lose eligibility for VA health care; but the VA won’t provide this care while you’re incarcerated, since the correctional facility has the duty to provide care to you. After release, you should be able to apply for and receive VA health care benefits again (details on PG. 581).\(^\text{1677}\)

FOR SERVICE-RELATED DISABILITY COMPENSATION:

- If you’re incarcerated for a misdemeanor, you should keep getting your regular disability payments.
- If you’re incarcerated for a felony, you should keep getting regular disability payments for the first 60 days of incarceration. If you’re released on or before the 60th day, your payments should continue without interruption. But starting on the 61st day of incarceration, payments get reduced: if your disability rating was 20% or higher before incarceration, it should drop to 10%; if it was 10% before, it should be cut in half. After release, you may be able to restore your payments based on how severe your disability is at that time (see details on PG. 581).\(^\text{1678}\)

Apportionment of benefits while incarcerated:

Even though you only receive a portion of your service-related benefit while incarcerated, the balance, or full amount, of the benefit may be “apportioned” to your family member during the period of incarceration.\(^\text{1679}\) For example, if you are 50% service-connected, you would only be entitled to receive 10% while incarcerated. However, your family may be apportioned the remaining 40% of the benefit.

Either you or your family member may apply for apportionment using VA Form 21-0788. The amount apportioned will be determined based on need. In determining need, the VA considers factors such as the appointee’s income, living expenses and any other relevant factors. Apportionment may not be granted retroactively.

IMPORTANT: Notifying the VA about Your Incarceration and Release:

- You are required to notify the VA when you go to jail or prison. The VA needs to know whether and when to reduce or stop your benefits. If you receive larger or more VA payments than you’re legally entitled to receive while incarcerated, the VA will require that you eventually repay the total amount that you should not have received—your “overpayment.” Basically, after you’re released from incarceration and once again eligible for benefits, the VA will withhold all your benefits until the overpayment is paid off.\(^{1681}\)

- You should notify the VA within a year after your release—in advance, if possible. The VA will assume that you remain incarcerated until you submit proof of your release date. The VA needs this proof before it can restore or restart your benefits.\(^{1682}\)

- The VA periodically identifies people receiving VA benefits who are incarcerated or in violation of parole or probation via listings that it receives from the U. S. Bureau of Prisons (BOP), the Social Security Administration (SSA), and other sources. However, these listings may have errors regarding your dates of incarceration, so it is helpful for you to be in direct contact with the VA to correct any inaccurate information.

Note, you can use VA Form 21-4193 to notify the VA of your incarceration and release dates. (See copy of form in Appendix J, PG. 615.) If you’re incarcerated, you can get this form from a correctional counselor. If you have Internet access, download the form at www.reginfo.gov/public/do/DownloadDocument?documentID=203887&version=1. You can also call the VA at 1-800-827-1000 and ask that the form be mailed to you. The form must be signed by a correctional official.

MY VA BENEFITS WERE REDUCED OR STOPPED WHILE I WAS INCARCERATED. HOW DO I RESTORE OR RESTART MY VA BENEFITS?

FOR DISABILITY COMPENSATION OR PENSION BENEFITS:

- The VA will not automatically resume paying benefits at the full amount once you are released. Once you have a release date, contact the VA as early as 30 days before that date. Provide official proof of your release date, such as VA Form 21-4193 (see Appendix J, PG. 615) or your parole papers.\(^{1683}\) As long as you notify the VA within one year following your release, you’ll receive benefits dating back to your release date.\(^{1684}\)

- The VA will backdate your benefits to the date of release if you provide the VA with proof of your release within one year of your release. If you do not \(^{1683}\) For the VA, being “released from incarceration” includes being on parole, participating in a work release program, or living in a halfway house. See Fact Sheet: Incarcerated Veterans (Aug 2012), U.S. DEP’T OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.benefits.va.gov/BENEFITS/factsheets/misc/incarcerated.pdf

\(^{1684}\) Depending on the type of disability, the VA may also schedule you for a medical examination to see if your disability has improved. See Fact Sheet: Incarcerated Veterans (Aug 2012), U.S. DEP’T OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.benefits.va.gov/BENEFITS/factsheets/misc/incarcerated.pdf provide notification of your release within one year, your benefits will only be retroactive to the date of the notification.

- You can use VA Form 21-4193 to notify the VA of your incarceration and/or release. (See Appendix J, PG. 615.) If you’re incarcerated, you can get this form from a correctional counselor. If you have Internet access, download the form at www.reginfo.gov/public/do/DownloadDocument?documentID=203887&version=1. You can also call 1-800-827-1000 and ask that the form be mailed to you. The form must be signed by a correctional official to be valid as proof.

FOR HEALTH CARE BENEFITS:

- If you don’t have your Veteran Identification Card, and/or if you plan to access services at a VA health care facility you haven’t visited before, complete VA Form 10-10EZ (see Appendix I, PG. 610) and send it to that facility. Doing this at least 6 months before your release can help ensure you’ll have access to health care when you get out. You can request this form by calling or writing to any VA health care facility, or by calling 1-877-222-8387. If you have Internet access, download the form at www.va.gov/1010ez.htm or by visiting Appendix I. See also “Arrested? What Happens to Your Federal Benefits?” (2006), BAZELON CENTER, www.kitsapgov.com/pubdef/Forms/LinkClick.Benefits.pdf

- If you have your Veteran Identification Card, and if you plan to access services at a VA health care facility you’ve visited before, you should be able to access services there without submitting any forms.

DEBTS OWED TO THE VA CAUSED BY INCARCERATION:

- If you were paid VA benefits after your 61st day of incarceration you may have an overpayment. An overpayment may prevent you from receiving the full benefit amount to which you are entitled after you are released.

- Whenever an overpayment is established in any program under the jurisdiction of the Veterans Benefits Administration, the Debt Management Center (DMC) at the St. Paul, Minnesota, VA Regional Office assumes responsibility over your debt. The VA DMC may be contacted by mail or by calling 1-800-827-0648.

- You may request a waiver of your debt. The VA does not require the use of a specific form to request a waiver. The time limit for requesting waiver of an overpayment is 180 days from the date you are first advised of the existence of the overpayment and the notification specifies the amount of the debt. A request for waiver should be submitted to the DMC with a completed financial status report using VA Form 20-5655.

- If the VA incorrectly calculated your dates of incarceration, you may challenge the validity of the debt or the effective date of the debt. There is no official form for disputing the validity of the debt.

1687 Once you have Internet access, you can find the form at www.va.gov/1010ez.htm or by visiting Appendix I. See also “Arrested? What Happens to Your Federal Benefits?” (2006), BAZELON CENTER, www.kitsapgov.com/pubdef/Forms/LinkClick.Benefits.pdf
1688 However, if you aren’t receiving service-related disability benefits, the VA may ask for information about your income for the prior year. Guidebook for California Incarcerated Veterans, 4th ed. (July 2013), U.S. DEP’T OF VETERANS AFFAIRS, www.va.gov/HOMELESS/docs/Reentry/09_ca.pdf

1692 38 C.F.R. § 9.4-9.4.8.
I'M DISQUALIFIED FROM VA BENEFITS BECAUSE OF MY NEGATIVE DISCHARGE STATUS. HOW CAN I HAVE MY DISCHARGE STATUS REVIEWED FOR AN UPGRADE?

These requests are rarely granted, so you may want to get help.

If you left the military less than 15 years ago, apply for a “Review of Discharge or Dismissal” using Department of Defense’s DD Form 293 (see copy of form in Appendix K, PG. 617).1694 You can also have the form mailed to you by calling the VA at 1-703-607-1600; or by sending a written request to: Army Review Boards Agency; ATTN: Client Information and Quality Assurance; Arlington, VA 22202-4508. Alternatively, obtain DD Form 293 from a VA regional office, or online at http://www.usapa.army.mil.1695

• The Review Board will grant your upgrade request only if your discharge reason was “inequitable” (not consistent with the policies and traditions of the service) or “improper” (based on error, or violating a law or regulation). With your application form, include written statements and records that help prove this.1696

If you left the military more than 15 years ago, apply for a Correction of Military Records using DD Form 149 (see copy of form in Appendix L, PG. 622).1697 You can also have the form mailed to you by calling the VA at 1-703-607-1600; or by sending a written request to: Army Review Boards Agency; ATTN: Client Information and Quality Assurance; Arlington, VA 22202-4508. Alternatively, obtain DD Form 149 from a VA regional office, or online at www.usapa.army.mil.1698

• Generally, you must request a correction within 3 years of discovering an “error” or “injustice” in your record. However, if the Board for Correction finds it is “in the interest of justice” to excuse a late request, it may do so. If your request is late, you must explain why your application was delayed, and why it’s in the interest of justice for the Board to consider it despite the delay.

• The Board for Correction will grant your request if you show that something in the record is inaccurate or unjust. With your application form, include ALL available evidence that helps to prove this, such as signed witness statements, personnel records, or a brief of arguments supporting the correction.1699

Because these applications are rarely granted, you should consider the following options to get help:

1) Contact a local veteran service organization to see if any staff can help you complete the forms and/or represent you.
2) Find a legal aid lawyer who specializes in discharge reviews.
3) Using the contact information provided on the form (see DD 293 or DD 149, whichever applied to you), contact the Review Board to discuss your case and ask questions.1700

IMPORTANT: If you have an undesirable, other than honorable (OTH), or a bad conduct discharge, you may be eligible for VA benefits if the VA determines that your service was “other than dishonorable” through the Character of Discharge administrative process.\(^{1701}\)

- You may apply for a Character of Discharge determination by applying for any VA benefit.\(^{1702}\)
- The VA will only consider your time in service in making the determination.\(^{1702}\)
- You will not be eligible for a favorable determination if you are statutorily barred from benefits.\(^{1703}\)
- The VA may consider any number of factors in deciding whether to grant a favorable decision, including, your length of service, whether you deployed to a combat zone, whether you were diagnosed with a medical condition prior to or shortly after discharge, and any other relevant factors.\(^{1704}\)

Covered California – Application for Health Insurance Instructions

NOTE: For the full Covered California/ Medi-Cal application, please go to your local county social services office, or find the full application online at:

See the next page for Instructions on how to apply to Covered California/Medi-Cal.
Covered California is the place where individuals and families can get affordable health insurance. With just one application, you'll find out if you qualify for free or low-cost health insurance, including Medi-Cal.

The state of California created Covered California™ to help you and your family get health insurance.

Having health insurance can give you peace of mind and help make it possible for you to stay healthy. With insurance, you'll know you and your family can get health care when you need it.

Use this application to see what insurance choices you qualify for:
- Free or low-cost insurance from Medi-Cal
- Low-cost insurance for pregnant women through Access for Infants and Mothers (AIM)
- Affordable private health insurance plans
- Help paying for your health insurance

➤ You may qualify for a free or low-cost program even if you earn as much as $94,000 a year for a family of 4.

➤ You can use this application to apply for anyone in your family, even if they already have insurance now.

Apply faster through Covered California at CoveredCA.com

Or call: 1-800-300-1506 (TTY: 1-888-889-4500)
You can call Monday to Friday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Things to know

What you need to know when you apply

- Social Security numbers for applicants who are U.S. citizens, or document information for immigrants with satisfactory status who need insurance. Proof of citizenship or immigration status is required only for applicants.
- Employer and income information for everyone in your family.
- Your federal tax information. For example, the person who files taxes as head of household and the dependents claimed on your taxes.
- Information about health insurance that you or any family member gets through a job.

➤ We ask about income and other information to make sure you and your family get the most benefits possible.

➤ We keep your information private and secure, as required by law. We’ll use your information only to see if you qualify for health insurance.

➤ Families that include immigrants can apply. You can apply for your child even if you aren’t eligible for coverage. Applying for your eligible child won’t affect your immigration status or chances of becoming a permanent resident or citizen.

➤ If you don’t file taxes, you can still qualify for free or low-cost insurance through Medi-Cal.

➤ If you are a federally recognized American Indian or Alaska Native who is getting services from the Indian Health Services, tribal health programs, or urban Indian health programs, you may still qualify for health insurance through Covered California.

Apply faster online

Apply online at CoveredCA.com. It’s safe, secure, and fast—and you will get results sooner!

When you’re done

Send your completed and signed application to:

Covered California
P.O. Box 889725
West Sacramento, CA 95798-9725

➤ If you don’t have all the information we ask for, sign and send in your application anyway. We can call you to help you finish your application.

➤ Do not send your health insurance plan enrollment payment with this application. Your plan will send you an invoice for the amount you owe.

Get help with this application

We’re here to help you! You can get help at no cost.

Section 3: Waiver of Fee for Representation

Instructions: This section must be completed if the representative is required to, or chooses to waive their fee for representation. (Note that providers or suppliers that are representing a beneficiary and furnished the items or services may not charge a fee for representation and must complete this section.)

I waive my right to charge and collect a fee for representing ______________________ before the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services.

Section 4: Waiver of Payment for Items or Services at Issue

Instructions: Providers or suppliers serving as a representative for a beneficiary to whom they provided items or services must complete this section if the appeal involves a question of liability under section 1879(a)(2) of the Act. (Section 1879(a)(2) generally addresses whether a provider/supplier or beneficiary did not know, or could not reasonably be expected to know, that the items or services at issue would not be covered by Medicare.)

I waive my right to collect payment from the beneficiary for the items or services at issue in this appeal if a determination of liability under §1879(a)(2) of the Act is at issue.

Charging of Fees for Representing Beneficiaries Before the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services

An attorney, or other representative for a beneficiary, who wishes to charge a fee for services rendered in connection with an appeal before the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) (i.e., an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) hearing, Medicare Appeals Council review, or a proceeding before an ALJ or the Medicare Appeals Council as a result of a remand from federal district court) is required to obtain approval of the fee in accordance with 42 CFR §405.910(f).

The form, “Petition to Obtain Representative Fee” elicits the information required for a fee petition. It should be completed by the representative and filed with the request for ALJ hearing or request for Medicare Appeals Council review. Approval of a representative’s fee is not required if: (1) the appellant being represented is a provider or supplier; (2) the fee is for services rendered in an official capacity such as that of legal guardian, committee, or similar court appointed representative and the court has approved the fee in question; (3) the fee is for representation of a beneficiary in a proceeding in federal district court; or (4) the fee is for representation of a beneficiary in a redetermination or reconsideration. If the representative wishes to waive a fee, he or she may do so. Section III on the front of this form can be used for that purpose. In some instances, as indicated on the form, the fee must be waived for representation.

Authorization of Fee

The requirement for the approval of fees ensures that a representative will receive fair value for the services performed before DHHS on behalf of a beneficiary, and provides the beneficiary with a measure of security that the fees are determined to be reasonable. In approving a requested fee, the ALJ or Medicare Appeals Council will consider the nature and type of services rendered, the complexity of the case, the level of skill and competence required in rendition of the services, the amount of time spent on the case, the results achieved, the level of administrative review to which the representative carried the appeal and the amount of the fee requested by the representative.

Conflict of Interest

Sections 203, 205 and 207 of title XVIII of the United States Code make it a criminal offense for certain officers, employees and former officers and employees of the United States to render certain services in matters affecting the Government or to aid or assist in the prosecution of claims against the United States. Individuals with a conflict of interest are excluded from being representatives of beneficiaries before DHHS.

Where to Send This Form

Send this form to the same location where you are sending (or have already sent): (1) your appeal if you are filing an appeal, (2) grievance if you are filing a grievance, or (3) initial determination or decision if you are requesting an initial determination or decision.

If additional help is needed, contact your Medicare plan or 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227).

Cobro de Honorarios por Representación de Beneficiarios ante el Secretario(a) del Departamento de Salud y Servicios Humanos

Un abogado u otro representante de un beneficiario, que desee cobrar un honorario por los servicios prestados en relación con una apelación ante el Secretario(a) del Departamento de Salud y Servicios Humanos (DHHS en inglés) (por ejemplo, una audiencia con un Juez de Derecho Administrativo (ALJ en inglés), una revisión con el Consejo de Apelaciones de Medicare o un proceso ante un ALJ o el Consejo de Apelaciones de Medicare como resultado de una orden de remisión del la Corte de Distrito Federal) debe, por ley obtener aprobación para recibir un honorario de acuerdo con 42 CFR §405.910(f).

Mediante este formulario, “Solicitud para obtener un honorario por concepto de representación” se recaba la información necesaria para solicitar el pago de honorario. Debe ser completado por el representante y presentado con la solicitud para audiencia con el ALJ o revisión del Consejo de Apelaciones de Medicare.

La aprobación de honorarios para el representante no es necesaria si: (1) el apelante es representado por un proveedor o suplidor; (2) prestados en calidad oficial como un tutor legal, comité o cargo similar representante designado por el tribunal y con la aprobación del tribunal del honorario en cuestión; (3) el honorario es por representación del beneficiario ante la corte de distrito federal; o (4) el honorario es por representación del beneficiario en una redeterminación o reconsideración. Si el representante desea renunciar al cobro de un honorario, puede hacerlo. La sección 3 en la primera página de este formulario puede usarse para ese propósito. En algunas instancias, según se indica en el formulario, no se cobrará el honorario por concepto de representación.

Autorización de Honorarios

El requisito para la aprobación de honorarios garantiza que el representante recibirá una remuneración justa por los servicios prestados ante DHHS en nombre de un beneficiario y brinda al beneficiario la seguridad de que los honorarios sean razonables. Para la aprobación de un honorario solicitado, el ALJ o el Consejo de Apelaciones de Medicare considera la naturaleza y el tipo de servicios prestados, la complejidad del caso, el nivel de pericia y capacidad necesaria para la prestación de servicios, la cantidad de tiempo dedicado al caso, los resultados alcanzados, el nivel de revisión administrativa al cual el representante llevó la apelación y el monto del honorario solicitado por el representante.

Conflicto de Interés

Las secciones 203, 205 y 207 del título XVIII del Código de Estados Unidos consideran como un delito penal cuando ciertos funcionarios, empleados y antiguos funcionarios y empleados de los Estados Unidos prestan ciertos servicios en temas que afectan al Gobierno, ayudan o asisten en el procesamiento de reclamaciones contra los Estados Unidos. Los individuos con un conflicto de interés quedarán excluidos de ser representantes de los beneficiarios ante DHHS.

Dónde Enviar este Formulario

Envíe este formulario al mismo lugar que está enviando (o ha enviado) su: (1) apelación si está solicitándola, (2) queja, (3) determinación o decisión inicial si está solicitando una determinación inicial o decisión. Si necesita ayuda, comuníquese con su plan de Medicare o llame al 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227).

Information for Claimants

What Your Representative(s) May Do
We will work directly with your appointed representative unless he or she asks us to work directly with you. Your representative may:

- get information from your claim(s); file;
- with your permission, designate associates who perform administrative duties (e.g., clerks), partners and/or parties under contractual arrangements (e.g., copying services) to receive information from us on his or her behalf (by checking the appropriate block and signing this form); you are providing your permission for your representative to designate such associates, partners, and/or contractual parties;
- give us evidence or information to support your claim;
- come with you, or for you, to any interview, conference, or hearing you have with us;
- request a reconsideration, a hearing, or Appeals Council review; and
- help you and your witnesses prepare for a hearing and question any witnesses.

Also, your representative will receive a copy of the decision(s) we make on your claim(s). We will rely on your representative to tell you about the status of your claim(s), but you still may call or visit us for information.

You and your representative(s) are responsible for giving Social Security accurate information. It is wrong to knowingly and willingly furnish false information. Doing so may result in criminal prosecution.

We usually continue to work with your representative until (1) you notify us in writing that he or she no longer represents you; or (2) your representative tells us that he or she is withdrawing or indicates that his or her services have ended (for example, by filing a fee petition or not pursuing an appeal). We do not continue to work with someone who is suspended or disqualified from representing claimants. We will inform you if we suspend your representative.

What Your Representative(s) May Charge
Each representative you appoint can ask for a fee. To charge you a fee for services, your representative must get our authorization if you or another individual will pay the fee. However, as described in "Completing this form to appoint a representative, Part III Fee Arrangement" section of this form, under certain circumstances, we do not have to authorize the representative’s fee. To request a fee, your representative must file a fee agreement or a fee petition. In either case, your representative cannot charge you more than the fee amount we authorize. If he or she does, promptly report this to your Social Security office.

Filing A Fee Agreement
If you and your representative have a written fee agreement, one of you must give it to us before we decide your claim(s). We usually approve the agreement if:
- you both signed it;
- the fee you agreed on is no more than 25 percent of past-due benefits, or $6,000 (or a higher amount we set and announced in the Federal Register), whichever is less.
- we approve your claim(s); and
- your claim results in past-due benefits.

We will tell you in writing the amount of the fee your representative can charge based on the agreement.

If we do not approve the fee agreement, we will tell you and your representative in writing. If your representative wishes to charge and collect a fee, he or she must file a fee petition.

After we tell you the amount of the fee your representative can charge, you or your representative can ask us to look at it again if either or both of you disagree with the amount. If we approved a fee agreement, the person who decided your claim(s) also may ask us to lower the amount. Someone who did not decide the amount of the fee the first time will review and finally decide the amount of the fee.

How Much You Pay
You never owe more than the fee we authorize, except for:
- any fee a Federal court allows for your representative’s services before it;
- and out-of-pocket expenses your representative incurs or expects to incur, for example, the cost of getting your doctor’s or hospital’s records. Our authorization is not needed for such expenses.

Your representative may accept money in advance as long as he or she holds it in a trust or escrow account. We usually withhold 25 percent of your past-due benefits to pay toward the fee for you if:
- your retirement, survivors, disability insurance, and/or supplemental security income claim(s) results in past-due benefits;
- your representative is an attorney or a non-attorney whom we have determined to be eligible to receive direct payment of fees; and
- your representative registers with us for direct payment before we effectuate a favorable decision on your claim.

You must pay your representative directly:
- the rest of the fee you owe, if the amount of the authorized fee is more than the money we withheld and paid to your representative for you plus any amount your representative held for you in a trust or escrow account;
- all of the fee you owe, if we did not withhold past-due benefits, (for example, because there are no past-due benefits, your representative waived direct payment, did not register for direct payment, you discharged the representative, or he or she withdrew from representing you, before we issued a favorable decision); or we withheld an amount from your past-due benefits, but your representative did not ask us to authorize a fee or tell us that he or she planned to ask for a fee within 60 days after the date of your notice of award and we released the withheld amount to you.

PART III - CERTIFICATION AND SIGNATURE

I CERTIFY THAT the foregoing statements are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

1. SIGNATURE OF VETERAN OR CLAIMANT
2. DATE SIGNED

PENALTY - The law provides severe penalties which include fine or imprisonment or both, for the willful submission of any statement or evidence of a material fact, knowing it is false, or fraudulent acceptance of any payment to which you are not entitled.

PRIVACY ACT INFORMATION - The VA will not disclose information collected on this form to any source other than what has been authorized under the Privacy Act of 1974 or Title 38, Code of Federal Regulations 1.576 for routine uses (i.e., civil or criminal law enforcement, congressional communications, epidemiological or research studies, the collection of money owed to the United States, litigation in which the United States is a party or has an interest, the administration of VA programs and delivery of VA benefits, verification of identity and status, and personnel administration) as identified in the VA system of records, 58VA 21/22/28, Compensation, Pension, Education and Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment Records - VA, published in the Federal Register. Your obligation to respond is required to obtain or retain benefits. The requested information is considered relevant and necessary to determine maximum benefits under the law. The responses you submit are considered confidential (38 U.S.C. 5701). Information submitted is subject to verification through computer matching programs with other agencies.

RESPONDENT BURDEN - We need this information to determine whether an apportionment of VA disability or death benefits may be made (38 U.S.C. 5307). Title 38, United States Code, allows us to ask for this information. We estimate that you will need an average of 30 minutes to review the instructions, find the information, and complete this form. VA cannot conduct or sponsor a collection of information unless a valid OMB control number is displayed. You are not required to respond to a collection of information if this number is not displayed. Valid OMB control numbers can be located on the OMB Internet Page at www.reginfo.gov/public/dor/PRAMain. If desired, you can call 1-800-827-1000 to get information on where to send comments or suggestions about this form.

Department of Veterans Affairs
“Application for Health Benefits – VA Form 10-10EZ

See next page.

This form is also available at:

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING ENROLLMENT APPLICATION FOR HEALTH BENEFITS

Please Read Before You Start . . . What is VA Form 10-10EZ used for?

For Veterans to apply for enrollment in the VA health care system. The information provided on this form will be used by VA to determine your eligibility for medical benefits and on average will take 30 minutes to complete. This includes the time it will take to read instructions, gather the necessary facts and fill out the form.

Where can I get help filling out the form and if I have questions?

You may use ANY of the following to request assistance:
- Ask VA to help you fill out the form by calling us at 1-877-222-VETS (8387).
- Access VA's website at http://www.va.gov and select "Contact the VA."
- Contact the Enrollment Coordinator at your local VA health care facility.
- Contact a National or State Veterans Service Organization.

Definitions of terms used on this form:

SERVICE-CONNECTED (SC): A VA determination that an illness or injury was incurred or aggravated in the line of duty, in the active military, naval or air service.

COMPENSABLE: A VA determination that a service-connected disability is severe enough to warrant monetary compensation.

NONCOMPENSABLE: A VA determination that a service-connected disability is not severe enough to warrant monetary compensation.

NONSERVICE-CONNECTED (NSC): A Veteran who does not have a VA determined service-related condition.

Getting Started:

ALL VETERANS MUST COMPLETE SECTIONS I – III.

Directions for Sections I – III:

Section I – General Information: Answer all questions.

Section II – Military Service Information: If you are not currently receiving benefits from VA, you may attach a copy of your discharge or separation papers from the military (such as DD-214 or, for WWII Veterans, a "WD" Form), with your signed application to expedite processing of your application. If you are currently receiving benefits from VA, we will cross-reference your information with VA data.

Section III – Insurance Information: Include information for all health insurance companies that cover you, this includes coverage provided through a spouse or significant other. Bring your insurance cards, Medicare and/or Medicaid card with you to each health care appointment.

Directions for Sections IV-VI:

Financial Disclosure: ONLY NSC AND 0% NONCOMPENSABLE SC VETERANS MUST COMPLETE THIS SECTION TO DETERMINE ELIGIBILITY AND COPAY RESPONSIBILITY FOR VA HEALTH CARE ENROLLMENT AND/OR CARE OR SERVICES.

Financial Disclosure Requirements Do Not Apply To:
- a former Prisoner of War; or
- those in receipt of a Purple Heart; or
- a recently discharged Combat Veteran; or
- those discharged for a disability incurred or aggravated in the line of duty; or
- those receiving VA SC disability compensation; or
- those receiving VA pension; or
- those in receipt of Medicaid benefits; or
- those who served in Vietnam between January 9, 1962 and May 7, 1975; or
- those who served in SW Asia during the Gulf War between August 2, 1990 and November 11, 1998; or
- those who served at least 30 days at Camp Lejeune between August 1, 1953 and December 31, 1987.

You are not required to disclose your financial information; however, VA is not currently enrolling new applicants who decline to provide their financial information unless they have other qualifying eligibility factors. If a financial assessment is not used to determine your priority for enrollment you may choose not to disclose your information. However, if a financial assessment is used to determine your eligibility for cost-free medication, travel assistance or waiver of the travel deductible, and you do not disclose your financial information, you will not be eligible for these benefits.

VA FORM 10-10EZ
MAR 2015

Complete only the sections that apply to you; sign and date the form.

Section IV - Dependent Information: Include the following:
- Your spouse even if you did not live together, as long as you contributed support last calendar year.
- Your biological children, adopted children, and stepchildren who are unmarried and under the age of 18, or at least 18 but under 23 and attending high school, college or vocational school (full or part-time), or became permanently unable to support themselves before age 18.
- Child support contributions. Contributions can include tuition or clothing payments or payments of medical bills.

Section V - Previous Calendar Year Gross Annual Income of Veteran, Spouse and Dependent Children.

Report:
- Gross annual income from employment, except for income from your farm, ranch, property or business. Include your wages, bonuses, tips, severance pay and other accrued benefits and your child's income information if it could have been used to pay your household expenses.
- Net income from your farm, ranch, property or business.
- Other income amounts, including retirement and pension income, Social Security Retirement and Social Security Disability income, compensation benefits such as VA disability, unemployment, Workers and black lung, cash gifts, interest and dividends, including tax exempt earnings and distributions from Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) or annuities.

Do Not Report:
- Donations from public or private relief, welfare or charitable organizations; Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and need-based payments from a government agency; profit from the occasional sale of property; income tax refunds, reinvested interest on Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs); scholarships and grants for school attendance; disaster relief payments; reimbursement for casualty loss; loans; Radiation Compensation Exposure Act payments; Agent Orange settlement payments; Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act Income, payments to foster parent; amounts in joint accounts in banks and similar institutions acquired by reason of death of the other joint owner; Japanese ancestry restitution under Public Law 100-383; cash surrender value of life insurance; lump-sum proceeds of life insurance policy on a Veteran; and payments received under the Medicare transitional assistance program.

Section VI - Previous Calendar Year Deductible Expenses.

Report non-reimbursed medical expenses paid by you or your spouse. Include expenses for medical and dental care, drugs, eyeglasses, Medicare, medical insurance premiums and other health care expenses paid by you for dependents and persons for whom you have a legal or moral obligation to support. Do not list expenses if you expect to receive reimbursement from insurance or other sources. Report last illness and burial expenses, e.g., prepaid burial, paid by the Veteran for spouse or dependent(s).

Section VII - Submitting your application.

1. Read Paperwork Reduction and Privacy Act Information, Section VIII Consent to Copays and Assignment of Benefits.
2. In Section VIII, you or an individual to whom you have delegated your Power of Attorney must sign and date the form. If you sign with an "X", 2 people you know must witness you as you sign. They must sign the form and print their names. If the form is not signed and dated appropriately, VA will return it to you to complete.
3. Attach any continuation sheets, a copy of supporting materials, and your Power of Attorney documents to your application.

Where do I send my application?

Mail the original application and supporting materials to the Health Eligibility Center, 2957 Clairmont Road, Suite 200 Atlanta, GA 30329.

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 requires us to notify you that this information collection is in accordance with the clearance requirements of Section 3507 of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995. We may not conduct or sponsor, and you are not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB number. We anticipate that the time expended by all individuals who must complete this form will average 30 minutes. This includes the time it will take to read instructions, gather the necessary facts and fill out the form.

Privacy Act Information: VA is asking you to provide the information on this form under 38 U.S.C. Sections 1701, 1710, 1712, and 1722 in order for VA to determine your eligibility for medical benefits. Information you supply may be verified from initial submission forward through a computer-matching program. VA may disclose the information that you put on the form as permitted by law. VA may make a "routine use" disclosure of the information as outlined in the Privacy Act systems of records notices and in accordance with the VHA Notice of Privacy Practices. Providing the requested information is voluntary, but if any or all of the requested information is not provided, it may delay or result in denial of your request for health care benefits. Failure to furnish the information will not have any effect on any other benefits to which you may be entitled. If you provide VA your Social Security Number, VA will use it to administer your VA benefits. VA may also use this information to identify Veterans and persons claiming or receiving VA benefits and their records, and for other purposes authorized or required by law.

Assignment of Benefits

I understand that pursuant to 38 U.S.C. Section 1729 and 42 U.S.C. 2651, the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is authorized to recover or collect from my health plan (HP) or any other legally responsible third party for the reasonable charges of non-service-connected VA medical care or services furnished or provided to me. I hereby authorize payment directly to VA from any HP under which I am covered (including coverage provided by my spouse's HP) that is responsible for payment of the charges for my medical care, including benefits otherwise payable to me or my spouse. Furthermore, I hereby assign to the VA any claim I may have against any person or entity who is or may be legally responsible for the payment of the cost of medical services provided to me by the VA. I understand that this assignment shall not limit or prejudice my right to recover for my own benefit any amount in excess of the cost of medical services provided to me by the VA or any other amount to which I may be entitled. I hereby appoint the Attorney General of the United States and the Secretary of Veterans' Affairs and their designees as my Attorneys-in-fact to take all necessary and appropriate actions in order to recover and receive all or part of the amount herein assigned. I hereby authorize the VA to disclose, to my attorney and to any third party or administrative agency who may be responsible for payment of the cost of medical services provided to me, information from my medical records as necessary to verify my claim. Further, I hereby authorize any such third party or administrative agency to disclose to the VA any information regarding my claim.

All applicants must sign and date this form. Refer to instructions which define who can sign on behalf of the veteran.

- Ask VA to help you fill out the form by calling us at 1-877-222-VETS (8387).
- Access VA’s website at http://www.va.gov and select “Contact the VA.”
- Contact the Enrollment Coordinator at your local VA health care facility.
- Contact a National or State Veterans Service Organization.

Definitions of terms used on this form:
SERVICE-CONNECTED (SC): A VA determination that an illness or injury was incurred or aggravated in the line of duty, in the active military, naval or air service.
COMPENSABLE: A VA determination that a service-connected disability is severe enough to warrant monetary compensation.
NONCOMPENSABLE: A VA determination that a service-connected disability is not severe enough to warrant monetary compensation.
NONSERVICE-CONNECTED (NSC): A Veteran who does not have a VA determined service-related condition.

Getting Started:
ALL VETERANS MUST COMPLETE SECTIONS I - III.

Directions for Sections I - III:
Section I - General Information: Answer all questions.
Section II - Military Service Information: If you are not currently receiving benefits from VA, you may attach a copy of your discharge or separation papers from the military (such as DD-214 or, for Vietnam Veterans, a “WD” Form), with your signed application to expedite processing of your application. If you are currently receiving benefits from VA, we will cross-reference your information with VA data.
Section III - Insurance Information: Include information for all health insurance companies that cover you, this includes coverage provided through a spouse or significant other. Bring your insurance cards, Medicare and/or Medicaid card with you to each health care appointment.

Directions for Sections IV-VI:
Financial Disclosure: ONLY NSC AND 0% NONCOMPENSABLE SC VETERANS MUST COMPLETE THIS SECTION TO DETERMINE ELIGIBILITY AND COPAY RESPONSIBILITY FOR VA HEALTH CARE ENROLLMENT AND/OR CARE OR SERVICES.
Financial Disclosure Requirements Do Not Apply To:
- a former Prisoner of War, or
- those in receipt of a Purple Heart, or
- a recently discharged Combat Veteran, or
- those discharged for a disability incurred or aggravated in the line of duty, or
- those receiving VA SC disability compensation, or
- those receiving VA pension, or
- those in receipt of Medicaid benefits, or
- those who served in Vietnam between January 9, 1962 and May 7, 1975, or
- those who served in SW Asia during the Gulf War between August 2, 1990 and November 11, 1998, or
- those who served at least 30 days at Camp Lejeune between August 1, 1953 and December 31, 1987.
You are not required to disclose your financial information, however, VA is not currently enrolling new applicants who decline to provide their financial information unless they have other qualifying eligibility factors. If a financial assessment is not used to determine your priority for enrollment you may choose not to disclose your information. However, if a financial assessment is used to determine your eligibility for cost-free medication, travel assistance or waiver of the travel deductible, and you do not disclose your financial information, you will not be eligible for these benefits.

Complete only the sections that apply to you; sign and date the form.

Section IV - Dependent Information: Include the following:

- Your spouse even if you did not live together, as long as you contributed support last calendar year.
- Your biological children, adopted children, and stepchildren who are unmarried and under the age of 18, or at least 18 but under 23 and attending high school, college or vocational school (full or part-time), or became permanently unable to support themselves before age 18.
- Child support contributions. Contributions can include tuition or clothing payments or payments of medical bills.

Section V - Previous Calendar Year Gross Annual Income of Veteran, Spouse and Dependent Children.

Report:

- Gross annual income from employment, except for income from your farm, ranch, property or business. Include your wages, bonuses, tips, severance pay and other accrued benefits and your child's income information if it could have been used to pay your household expenses.
- Net income from your farm, ranch, property, or business.
- Other income amounts, including retirement and pension income, Social Security Retirement and Social Security Disability income, compensation benefits such as VA disability, unemployment, Workers and black lung, cash gifts, interest and dividends, including tax exempt earnings and distributions from Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) or annuities.

Do Not Report:

Donations from public or private relief, welfare or charitable organizations; Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and need-based payments from a government agency; profit from the occasional sale of property; income tax refunds; rent-based interest on Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs); scholarships and grants for school attendance; disaster relief payments; reimbursement for casualty loss; loans; Radiation Compensation Exposure Act payments; Agent Orange settlements payments; Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act income; payments to foster parent; amounts in joint accounts in banks and similar institutions acquired by reason of death of the other joint owner; Japanese ancestry stipend under Public Law 100-383; cash surrender value of life insurance; lump-sum proceeds of life insurance policy on a Veteran; and payments received under the Medicare transitional assistance program.

Section VI - Previous Calendar Year Deductible Expenses.

Report non-reimbursed medical expenses paid by you or your spouse. Include expenses for medical and dental care, drugs, eyeglasses, Medicare, medical insurance premiums and other health care expenses paid by you for dependents and persons for whom you have a legal or moral obligation to support. Do not list expenses if you expect to receive reimbursement from insurance or other sources. Report lost wages and burial expenses, e.g., prepaid burial, paid by the Veteran for spouse or dependent(s).

Section VII - Submitting your application.

1. Read Paperwork Reduction and Privacy Act Information, Section VIII Consent to Copays and Assignment of Benefits.
2. In Section VIII, you or an individual to whom you have delegated your Power of Attorney must sign and date the form. If you sign with an “X”, 2 people you know must witness you as you sign. They must sign the form and print their names. If the form is not signed and dated appropriately, VA will return it for you to complete.
3. Attach any continuation sheets, a copy of supporting materials and your Power of Attorney documents to your application.

Where do I send my application?

Mail the original application and supporting materials to the Health Eligibility Center, 2957 Clarendon Road, Suite 200
Atlanta, GA 30329.

PAPERWORK REDUCTION ACT AND PRIVACY ACT INFORMATION

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 requires us to notify you that this information collection is in accordance with the clearance requirements of Section 3507 of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995. We may not conduct or sponsor, and you are not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB number. We anticipate that the time expended by all individuals who complete this form will average 30 minutes. This includes the time it will take to read instructions, gather the necessary facts and fill out the form.

Privacy Act Information: VA is asking you to provide the information on this form under 38 U.S.C. Sections 1701, 1710, 1712, and 1722 in order for VA to determine your eligibility for medical benefits. Information you supply may be verified from initial submission forward through a computer-matching program. VA may disclose the information that you put on the form as permitted by law. VA may make a "routine use" disclosure of the information as outlined in the Privacy Act systems of records notices and in accordance with the VHA Notice of Privacy Practices. Providing the requested information is voluntary, but if any or all of the requested information is not provided, it may delay or result in denial of your request for health care benefits. Failure to furnish the information will not have any effect on any other benefits to which you may be entitled. If you provide VA your Social Security Number, VA will use it to administer your VA benefits. VA may also use this information to identify Veterans and persons claiming or receiving VA benefits and their records, and for other purposes authorized or required by law.

ASSIGNMENT OF BENEFITS

I understand that pursuant to 38 U.S.C. Section 1729 and 42 U.S.C. 2651, the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is authorized to recover or collect from my health plan (HP) or any other legally responsible third party for the reasonable charges of non-service-connected VA medical care or services furnished or provided to me. I hereby authorize payment directly to VA from any HP under which I am covered (including coverage provided under my spouse's HP) that is responsible for payment of the charges for my medical care, including benefits otherwise payable to me or my spouse. Furthermore, I hereby assign to the VA any claim I may have against any person or entity who is or may be legally responsible for the payment of the cost of medical services provided to me by the VA. I understand that this assignment shall not limit or prejudice my right to recover for my own benefit any amount in excess of the cost of medical services provided to me by the VA or any other amount to which I may be entitled. I hereby appoint the Attorney General of the United States and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs and their designees as my Attorneys-in-fact to take all necessary and appropriate actions in order to recover and receive all or part of the amount herein assigned. I hereby authorize the VA to disclose, to my attorney and to any third party or administrative agency who may be responsible for payment of the cost of medical services provided to me, information from my medical records as necessary to verify my claim. Further, I hereby authorize any such third party or administrative agency to disclose to the VA any information regarding my claim.

ALL APPLICANTS MUST SIGN AND DATE THIS FORM. REFER TO INSTRUCTIONS WHICH DEFINE WHO CAN SIGN ON BEHALF OF THE VETERAN.

INSTRUCTIONS

Under Title 10 United States Code Section 1552, Active Duty and Reserve Component Service members, Coast Guard, former Service members, their lawful or legal representative, spouses of former Service members on issues of Survivor Benefit Program (SBP) benefits, and civilian employees with respect to military records other than those related to civilian employment, who feel that they have suffered an injustice as a result of error or injustice in military records may apply to the respective Boards for Correction of Military Records (BCMR) for a correction of their military records. These Boards are the highest level appellate review authority in the military. The information collected is needed to provide the Boards the basic data needed to process and act on the request.

1. All information should be typed or printed. Complete all applicable items. If the item is not applicable, enter "None."

2. If space is insufficient on the front of the form, use the "Remarks" box below for additional information or attach an additional sheet.

3. List all attachments and enclosures in item 9. Do not send original documents. Send clear, legible copies. Send copies of military documents in conditions related to your request, if you have them available. Do not assume that they are all in your military record.

4. The applicant must exhaust all administrative remedies, such as corrective procedures and appeals provided in regulations, before applying to the Board of Corrections.

5. ITEM 5. State the specific correction of record desired. If possible, identify exactly what document or information in your record you believe to be erroneous or unjust and indicate what correction you want made to the document or information.

6. ITEM 6. In order to justify correction of a military record, it is necessary for you to show to the satisfaction of the Board by the evidence that you supply, or it must otherwise satisfy totally appear in the record, that the alleged error or omission in the record was in error or unjust. Evidence, in addition to documents, may include affidavits or signed testimony of witnesses, executed under oath, and a brief of arguments supporting the application. All evidence not already included in your record must be submitted by you. The responsibility of securing evidence rests with you.

7. ITEM 8. U.S. Code, Title 10, Section 15525a, provides that no correction may be made unless a request is made within three years after the discovery of the error or injustice, but that the Board may excuse failure to file within three years after discovery if it finds it to be in the interest of justice.

8. ITEM 10. Personal appearance before the Board by you and your witnesses or representation by counsel is not required to ensure full and impartial consideration of your application. If the Board determines that a personal appearance is warranted and grants approval, appearance and representation are permitted before the Board or at your expense to the government.

9. ITEM 11. Various veterans and service organizations furnish counsel without charge. These organizations prefer that arrangements for representation be made through local posts or chapters.

10. ITEM 12. The person whose record correction is being requested must sign the application. If that person is deceased or incompetent to sign, the application may be signed by a spouse, widow, widower, next of kin (son, daughter, mother, father, brother, or sister), or a legal representative that has been given power of attorney. Other persons may be authorized to sign for the applicant. Proof of death, incompetency, or power of attorney must accompany the application. Former spouses may apply in cases of Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) issues.

17. REMARKS
EMPLOYMENT

The EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER will help you prepare to reenter the workforce and will guide you throughout the job application process. You will learn about your rights when an employer runs a background check on you, how and when an employer may consider your criminal record, and how to protect your rights in these situations. This Chapter will also help you if you want to apply for a professional or occupational license, start your own small business, or consider other alternatives to traditional employment. Finally, this Chapter will explain your rights in the workplace if your incarceration was the result of a disability, and how to protect yourself against illegal discrimination.

DISCLAIMER – YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it. The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

In this chapter, you will learn about:

• Your rights throughout the job search process
• How to prepare for the job market
• How to make the best impression on employers
• What to do if an employer or background check company violates your rights
• How to maximize your opportunities of finding the right job for you
I. INTRODUCTION: LOOKING FOR WORK

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What to expect as a job applicant with a criminal record
- How your criminal history will affect your job search
- The basic documents you need before applying for jobs
- How to prepare for questions about your criminal record
- Key terms to know and understand when reading this chapter
- How to improve your resume
- Basic information on cleaning up your record
- How to target your job search to find the right job for you, and what types of jobs may not be available based on your record
- Options for work beyond traditional employment
- Important information about filling out job applications
- How to succeed in job interviews and present your best self to employers
- Special benefits that are available to employers who hire people with criminal records

People with criminal convictions can and do get jobs—it happens every day! They are employed in the workforce at all levels, from entry-level jobs to executive positions. You may (or may not) have to work a little harder to get a job, but it can and will happen. Remember the 3 “P”s—be Persistent, be Professional, and keep a Positive attitude.

PREPARING TO ENTER THE JOB MARKET

Before talking about your employment rights, let’s review some basics. This section goes over what you can realistically expect from today’s job market, and the things you need to do and get before you can hold any job.

WHAT CAN I EXPECT AS A JOB APPLICANT WITH A CRIMINAL RECORD?

The job market is a competitive place for anyone looking for a job. Although it may be a tough process, finding a job is possible if you give it time and effort! It is important to get organized and learn about your options. This section will help you understand the unique rights that you have as a job applicant with a criminal record and how to exercise those rights during your job search.
HOW WILL MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY JOB PROSPECTS?

Unfortunately, if you have a criminal record, it is harder to get hired, paid, and promoted fairly. But you are not alone—one in four adults in the U.S. has a criminal record, and having a record does not mean you are unqualified for the job. If you take steps to understand your rights, responsibilities, and limitations, you can arm yourself with the knowledge necessary to secure the right job.

Employers often conduct background checks on job applicants and current employees. In order to be prepared, you must be highly proactive about:

1) Learning strategies for how to present your skills, credentials, and personal background (for more information, see PG. 634);
2) Understanding and cleaning up your criminal record (some record-cleaning can only happen later-on in reentry—for more information, see PG. 643); and
3) Knowing and protecting your rights (for more information, see PG. 701).

WHAT DOCUMENTS DO I NEED BEFORE I APPLY FOR ANY JOB?

You should get: (1) official ID and (2) copies of your criminal records to review.

OFFICIAL FORMS OF IDENTIFICATION:

Before you apply for any job, you should begin the process of applying for basic government-issued IDs. (To learn more about different forms of official ID, see the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 13.) In most cases, you will need at least:

1) A government-issued ID (such as a Driver License/State ID, PG. 39, or Passport, PG. 59), AND
2) EITHER your Social Security Number (SSN) (PG. 32) OR your Birth Certificate (PG. 22).

You will need these ID documents when you apply for a job and complete the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Form I-9, which all employees in the United States must fill out. Form I-9 proves you are legally allowed to work in the country. Your employer should give you this form to fill out. See Appendix A, PG. 711, for more information about Form I-9.

Please note that the employer cannot keep your documents, but may make a photocopy of them for your employment file.

COPIES OF YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS:

You should get copies of your criminal records so that you know what employers are likely to find out if/when they run a background check. This will help you prepare to answer questions about your history and to address any concerns an employer may have. It’s also good to get a copy of your official criminal record (called a “RAP Sheet”) just for you, to make sure that all the information is accurate, and to correct errors if you find them. See UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020, for information about how to get a copy of your RAP sheet. See PG. 643, below, to learn more about background checks and what information your employer can see.

---

HOW CAN I PREPARE FOR EMPLOYERS’ QUESTIONS ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

1. Know everything about your official criminal record.

Knowing absolutely everything about your criminal record means that you know not only what is in your record, but also what is NOT in your record. You should be aware of all arrests, convictions, dismissals, and sentences that are currently part of your record, but you should also know about any information that has been dismissed, expunged, sealed, removed, or corrected. When you know what your record should look like, you will have a better understanding of how it will affect your job search, and you can make informed decisions about what steps you should take to improve your chances of getting hired.1708

2. Know what employers might find out about you.

To know what information an employer might find out about you, you will need to do research on yourself. Doing research on yourself is how you will see what information exists out there about you—not just what is in your official criminal record, but also anything public, especially on the Internet (for example, on Facebook, Twitter, or Instagram). If you know what employers are going to see, you can be prepared to answer their questions about your history and address any of their concerns. You can also correct any mistakes, and ensure that agencies aren’t illegally providing information that they shouldn’t be reporting.

Here are some suggestions for how to conduct research on yourself:

• Look online – The best place to start is online. (If you don’t feel comfortable using a computer or the Internet, ask a trusted person—like a case manager, counselor, or friend—to help you.) Search for your name on www.google.com to see what shows up. If there is negative or untrue information, you (or a trusted person) can send an email to the person who posted the information or the website owner and politely ask them to remove it. Unfortunately, there is no guarantee that they will do so, and it could require a lawsuit to get the information down. If the person running the website won’t remove the information, you may want to get the advice of a lawyer (see list of legal aid providers on PG. 1190).

• Call your references – When you apply for a job, the new employer and/or background check company may contact your past employer(s), people you list as references, and/or other people who know you (like a landlord, neighbor, or teacher) to find out about your work history or other information. An important way to research yourself is to call some of these people (or have a trusted person call for you) to find out what they will say about you. This way you know beforehand if someone is likely to say something negative about you, and you can be sure NOT to list them as a reference on the job application. For more information on listing references, see PG. 638.

• Get copies of your criminal records – To learn how to get copies of your official and unofficial criminal records, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.

Knowing your employment rights means knowing what employers can and can’t do when it comes to reviewing and using your criminal history when deciding whether to hire you. It also means knowing how to prevent employers from violating your rights by not hiring you, and what actions you can take if your rights are violated. See PG. 671 to learn more about these rights and how to protect them. In the meantime, the here is a summary of what employers CAN and CAN’T consider about your criminal record.1709

4. Present yourself in the best way possible.

Presenting yourself in the best way possible means doing what you can to reduce any negative impressions that your criminal record may cause. This might include addressing your past during job interviews and talking about your rehabilitation efforts and all the changes you have gone through; obtaining proof of rehabilitation, where possible (see Appendix C, PG. 717); making thoughtful decisions about what jobs you apply for (see PG. 636); and cleaning up your record, where it is possible (see PG. 635).1710

LET’S REVIEW:

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

A Summary of What Employers CAN & CAN’T Find Out About Your Criminal Record

Employers CAN:

- Run a background check on you and CAN consider certain criminal history information when deciding whether to hire you.
- See and ask about: convictions and unresolved (pending) arrests, charges, or cases. But if the employer uses a private company to run a background check, it CANNOT report convictions older than 7 years.
- See public records, which generally includes adult court records; police, correctional facility, and CDCR records (including mug shots); and DMV driving records.

Most Employers CANNOT:

- See or ask about: arrests that did not lead to conviction; convictions that have been dismissed/expunged/sealed; participation in court diversion programs; and certain minor marijuana convictions.
- In general, employers CANNOT see or ask for: Your RAP sheet (your complete, official criminal record); or your credit report.
- “Ban the Box” laws give you more rights and protections if you apply for a job with a state or local government agency, or in certain cities and counties.

HO W TO PRESENT YOUR BEST SELF

HOW DO I PRESENT MY BEST SELF TO AN EMPLOYER?

While you can’t control everything about the job search, there are MANY steps you can and should take to improve your chances of being hired for the job you want—whether that means cleaning up your record, finishing school, or learning new skills and getting more experience. This section will explain what you can do before you begin applying for jobs, throughout your job search, and during your application process, to help improve your chances of being hired.

• BEFORE you begin applying for jobs:
  o Beef up your resume before any new job application
  o Clean up your record
• THROUGHOUT your job search:
  o Target your job search for jobs that are an appropriate fit for you • WHILE APPLYING for jobs:
  o Ace the job application
  o Interview well
  o Understand and explain the benefits to the employer

BEEF UP YOUR RESUME

HOW CAN I BUILD UP MY RESUME?

1. Explore volunteer opportunities. Volunteering is a great way to learn new skills, gain solid references, find out about local job opportunities, and show potential employers that you are dedicated and responsible. Although it is usually unpaid, it strengthens your application and offers experiences you can talk about in your job search.

2. Go back to school. Going back to school to get your GED or advanced college or professional degree shows that you are responsible, focused and driven—all qualities that employers look for when hiring. As a practical matter, going back to school can offer you training to expand your skillset and qualify you for more jobs.

3. Participate in a reentry program. Employers will be impressed if you are proactive and take steps to grow and learn from challenging past situations. Reentry programs in your local area may be able to help you in your job search, and support you in your transition. To find out about reentry programs or other employment opportunities, we recommend that you attend local reentry fairs and/or talk to people (in prison or jail or outside) who might know about these programs. Ask your counselor or case manager, parole or probation officer, mentor or sponsor, or others for recommendations.

4. Participate in workforce development (job readiness) programs. Many organizations have workforce development or job readiness programs for people with criminal records or other employment barriers. These programs help you to search for jobs, improve your

VOLUNTEERING

Consider volunteering with local religious or community organizations, and plan to stick around for at least 6 months. The length of time you remain dedicated to the organization is more important than the amount of time you spend volunteering during a particular day or week. Your volunteer work can help to calm an employer’s concerns about your past, and strong references can go a very long way in helping to secure a future paying position.

TALK TO YOUR TRUSTED PERSON

Talk to your trusted person or someone at a workforce development program to see what school, work, and volunteer opportunities are available in your area, and for other ideas about how to build your resume and gain new skills.
job skills, and prepare for job applications and interviews. They provide services like job counseling, job training, resume writing, interview coaching, and sometimes job placement and referrals.

Even if there are no reentry-focused job readiness programs in your area, look for programs with similar services. Sometimes the only workforce development program near you will be an America’s Job Center, which is run by the government. If the America’s Job Center is your only option, then you should definitely take advantage of the case managers and other programs there. However, if there are other workforce programs available in your area, we recommend that you use those first, since they can provide more individual attention and help. For a list of workforce development programs around the state, see Appendix B, PG. 715, or call 2-1-1 to ask about programs in your area.

HELPFUL HINT

What are America’s Job Centers of California?

America’s Job Centers of California (once called One-Stop Career Centers) are job readiness centers run by the state through the California Employment Development Department (EDD), a state agency that assists workers and employers. America’s Job Centers provide FREE services and resources to people looking for work, including: job counseling to figure out what jobs are right for you; free access to phones, fax machines, computers, and Internet; job search and résumé writing workshops; community resources and referrals for training; and job fairs.

To find an America’s Job Center near you, go to http://www.americasjobcenter.ca.gov/ To find job fairs and workshops, go to http://www.edd.ca.gov/Jobs_and_Training/Job_Fairs_and_Events.htm and follow the links to find events in your region.

CLEAN UP YOUR RECORD

CAN I CLEAN UP MY RECORD?

Maybe. Your record is not necessarily permanent for the purpose of getting a job. You may be able to clear—or more likely lessen the impact of (in other words, “clean up”)—your criminal record, making you more attractive to potential employers. For more information about the different ways to clean up your record, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.

Different organizations may offer “clean slate” services in your area, such as:

* Public Defenders Offices
* “Clean Slate” or “Second Chance Clinic” programs
* Civil Legal Aid Programs

For more information about finding “clean slate” services and programs in your area, see the list of legal aid providers on PG 1190.

For more information about ways to show employers proof of your rehabilitation, see Appendix C, PG. 717.
TARGET YOUR JOB SEARCH

HOW DO I TARGET MY JOB SEARCH AND FIND THE BEST FIT?

1. Consider the type of job you’re applying for.

Employers will be more concerned if the job position you are applying for requires you to do work that directly relates to your past convictions. For example, if you’ve been convicted of theft, this may concern an employer who is looking to hire someone to become a manager or cashier at a store. If you can proactively point out that the circumstances of your crime—including the seriousness of the offense and the length of time since it occurred—won’t affect your ability to do the job, an employer is more likely to feel you will be an honest and truthful worker. Also, there may be some types of jobs or occupational licenses that you can’t hold by law, based on your conviction offense. See PG. 688 for more information about legal restrictions for certain types of jobs.

2. Consider the type of employer you’re applying to.

Consider the type, size, and management style of the company to which you are applying. Most applications ask whether or not you have been convicted of a crime, but some only ask about felonies. Some experts suggest that applying to a small business could be more successful than a larger corporation, because this allows you the opportunity to speak directly with the owner and explain what happened.

ARE THERE CERTAIN TYPES OF JOBS I CAN’T HAVE BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

It’s possible. Before applying for work, you should know that a few types of jobs have legal restrictions that disqualify people with certain past convictions from working in that position. Also, certain types of jobs require you to have a professional or occupational license from the state, and such licenses have their own legal restrictions and can be difficult to get depending on what’s in your record. For more information on legal restrictions and professional licenses—and how you can become re-eligible to work in some cases—see “Jobs & Professions Your Record Might Exclude You From,” starting on PG. 688.

Examples of jobs with legal restrictions for certain types of convictions:
- Airport security screeners;
- Federal law enforcement officers;
- Bank employees;
- Childcare workers in federal facilities or agencies;
- Port workers.

Examples of jobs that require a professional or occupational license:
- Barber;
- Beautician / Cosmetologist;
- Pharmacist;
- Nurse;
- Cemetery / funeral home worker;
- Real estate agent.

WHAT ABOUT STARTING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Some people find it more fulfilling and empowering to be their own boss. Self-employment can give you more control over the type of work you do, freedom and flexibility to make your own decisions, and greater responsibilities at work. Think about your skills, interests, and previous work experience or vocational training. If you think that self-employment may be a good option for you, read the section on “Alternatives to Traditional Employment,” starting on PG. 696 for more information and helpful resources on starting your own business.
HELPFUL HINT

Consider All Your Job Options

As you’re thinking about jobs or looking for work, it can be helpful to think about other work options—alternatives to traditional employment—like starting your own business, joining a worker-run cooperative business, or going through a temp agency. You may decide that one of these alternatives is more exciting, more convenient for your schedule and needs, or just a good way to get your foot in the door with an employer.

Here are some other ways of working and earning an income that are different from traditional employment:

• Consider self-employment or become an independent contractor
• Start your own business
• Join a worker-run cooperative business
• Apply through a temp agency
• Take short-term jobs or temporary positions to get your foot in the door.

For more information on each of these options, read section on Alternatives to Traditional Employment, starting on PG. 696 below.
ACE THE JOB APPLICATION

HOW CAN I HAVE A SUCCESSFUL JOB APPLICATION?

In the past, applying for a job meant filling out a paper application and handing (or mailing) it to the employer. Now, any information that you give about yourself may become part of your job application that the employer considers. This includes information you share with the employer or other employees at the company, with a temp agency, at a job fair, at a workforce development center, or with other people or organizations that are involved in your job search process. It can include paperwork you fill out or sign, a questionnaire that you complete, information that you type in online, documents you hand in, or answers/information that you say in person.

HELPFUL HINTS

1) Listing Previous Work Experience

   If an application asks about your previous work experience, MAKE SURE you accurately write the dates of your previous employment and how much you were paid! The new employer will probably contact your former employers to check your references and ask about this information.

   If you list incorrect information about the dates you were employed or your wages at your past job (even by mistake!), the new employer may think you’re intentionally lying and may reject your application for that reason. If you can’t remember the exact dates you worked or your wages, write down that you are guessing or estimating this information, and that you are NOT certain. This will show the employer that you’re trying to be honest and are not intentionally giving wrong information.

2) Listing personal and professional references

   When you apply for a job, you will probably have to give a list of references—people who know you and can talk about whether you’re a good worker. Most likely this will be an old employer, but it could also be a teacher from a vocational training or certification program, or even someone from your church or other community organization that you’re involved in. The new employer will contact these people to ask about your previous work history, personality, whether you were a good employee, and other information to help decide if they should hire you.

   Be careful about whom you list as a reference and what they will say about you! BEFORE you list someone as a reference, it is best to call the person (or have a trusted person call for you) to ask what they will say about you. If it turns out they say something negative, you’ll know not to list them after all.

   Keep in mind that even if you don’t list someone as a reference, an employer or background check company may still contact them as part of their own background check process.

3) Ask your trusted person!

   If you’re filling out a paper or online application, ask your trusted person, or someone from a local reentry or workforce development program, to look over your completed application before you send it to the employer.

A NOTE ABOUT BAD REFERENCES

Under state law, former employers and other references ARE allowed to say negative things about you as part of a job reference. So you should always ask your reference if they are willing to be listed, and you can ask what they will say about you before you list them.
INTERVIEW WELL

HOW CAN I SUCCEED IN AN INTERVIEW?

Here is a list of the essential steps to prepare for and succeed in an interview with a potential employer. For more detailed information about each of these steps, please see the Appendix D, PG. 718.

STEP 1: Thoughtfully answer each interview question.
STEP 2: Ask your own questions.
STEP 3: Practice beforehand!
If possible, you should try to do a practice (“mock”) interview before the real thing with your case manager, social worker, counselor, or even family or friends. Remember, even if you have your answers prepared on paper or in your head, things will sound different when you try to say them out loud!

STEP 4: Be polite and confident during the interview.
STEP 5: Follow-up after the interview.

ADDITIONAL JOB INTERVIEW RESOURCES:

Here are some resources that can help you prepare for a job interview:

• Tips for the Ex-Offender (Wisconsin Job Center)—http://www.wisconsinjobcenter.org/exo/eo_criminal_background.pdf
• Interview Tips (Jobs Not Jails)—http://jailstojobs.org/html/interview_tips.html
• Connect with a workforce development program that can help counsel and coach you through the job application and interview process. For a list of these workforce development programs, see Appendix B, PG. 715 on PG. 715. You can also ask a case manager, local reentry program counselor, or workforce development staff person for other suggestions in your area, or call 2-1-1 to ask about other programs in your area.
• For more information about how to talk about your conviction record with an employer, see PG. 645.
UNDERSTAND & EXPLAIN THE BENEFITS OF HIRING PEOPLE WITH RECORDS TO THE POTENTIAL EMPLOYER

Learn here about two government programs that are meant to encourage employers to hire people with criminal records: (1) the Federal Bonding Program and (2) the Work Opportunity Tax Credit (WOTC).

BONDING INSURANCE: WHAT IS IT & HOW CAN IT ENCOURAGE EMPLOYERS TO HIRE ME?

Some employers require their employees to be covered under fidelity bonding insurance, which is a special type of insurance that protects the employer from money or property loss caused by employee dishonesty. If your employer requires fidelity bonding insurance, there are two options: (1) private fidelity bonding insurance, and (2) the Federal Bonding Program.

(1) Private Bonding Insurance—Many private insurance companies sell fidelity bonding insurance that employers can buy. The insurance will reimburse employers for losses due to things like forgery, theft of money or valuables, or fraud by a company employee. An employer can buy insurance coverage for ALL employees, or for only a few, specific employees. However, if you already have a criminal conviction record, your employer may not be able to get private bonding insurance for you. In this case, the employer may be able to get bonding insurance through a special federal government program (see immediately below).

(2) Federal Bonding Program—if you already have a criminal conviction record, your employer may not be able to get private bonding insurance for you. If you are applying for a job with an employer who requires employees to be covered by fidelity bonding insurance, the federal government has a special program to provide FREE fidelity bonding insurance for 6 months to cover individuals who are eligible for the program. In California, the California Employment Development Department (EDD)—the same state agency that runs America’s Job Centers of California—runs the Federal Bonding Program. For more information and instructions on how to apply for the Federal Bonding Program, see Appendix E, PG. 720.

Am I eligible for the Federal Bonding Program?
If you meet the following requirements, you may be eligible for the Federal Bonding Program:
• You have a firm job offer (or are already employed) at a job that is likely to be long-term or permanent.
• The job requires you to be bonded, and you cannot get private bonding insurance due to your arrest or conviction record, history of drug or alcohol abuse, poor credit or employment history, dishonorable discharge from the military, or other “risk” factors.
• The employer is ready to hire you (or keep you on the job) once you have insurance, so the only thing stopping you from working there is the lack of insurance.
• You are 18 or older and legally eligible to work in the U.S.

For a complete list of eligibility requirements, see Appendix E, PG. 720.

1711 Here are some insurance companies that offer private fidelity bonding insurance for employers:
• State Farm Insurance—https://www.statefarm.com/small-business-solutions/insurance/surety-fidelity-bonds
IMPORTANT: Your employer can only get free insurance coverage for the first 6 months that you work there; after that they will have to purchase insurance directly. If you switch to another job that also requires bonding, you will have to reapply to the EDD, and they will decide on a case-by-case basis whether you can get new insurance coverage at the new employer. If you left your previous job on good terms, you will have a better chance of getting bonding insurance for your next job, but it is not guaranteed. For this reason, it’s recommended that you only use the bonding program for jobs that are likely to be long-term or permanent—NOT for temporary positions.

WORK OPPORTUNITY TAX CREDITS: WHAT ARE THEY & HOW CAN THEY ENCOURAGE EMPLOYERS TO HIRE ME?

Suggest that your employer look into the federal Work Opportunity Tax Credit (WOTC). The WOTC is a federal tax credit historically available to employers for hiring job applicants who face significant barriers to employment, including people with felony convictions who are hired within 1 year after their conviction or release from prison, veterans, and recipients of certain public benefits. (For this reason, be sure to answer truthfully if an employer or job application asks whether you receive public benefits!) The WOTC ranges from $1,200 to $9,600, depending on your hours and pay during your first year as an employee, and on the maximum allowed credit. For more information about the WOTC in California, contact the WOTC Coordinator at (916) 227-5163, or visit the Employment Development Department’s (EDD) website about the WOTC at:

IMPORTANT: Although the legal authority for the WOTC expired on December 31, 2013, tell your employer that he/she should continue to submit WOTC applications to the EDD. In the past, when the WOTC expired, Congress eventually reauthorized the tax credit and applied it retroactively; so it’s recommended that employers continue to submit applications while reauthorization is pending.

[174] Telephone call with Gil Barkley, State Bonding Coordinator, California Employment Development Department (Feb. 17, 2015). The EDD will also want to make sure that the employer is not simply exploiting you for free insurance coverage and then getting rid of you after the first 6 months of free coverage is over.
[175] Telephone call with Maria Alexander and Mary Weaver, Friends Outside in Los Angeles County (Jan. 21, 2015).
KEY TERMS IN THE EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER

Before we discuss the laws that will affect you as you reenter the job market, let’s review a few key terms. (For more detailed definitions and explanations of these terms, see UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020).

Criminal Record: This is the general term we use for all of the information about your criminal history. Your “criminal record” includes arrests, charges against you, convictions, pleas, acquittals, dismissals, sentences, and any other time your contact with law enforcement was documented.

RAP Sheet: A RAP sheet (Record of Arrest and Prosecution) is the government’s official version of your criminal record. It lists every contact you’ve had with the criminal justice system, including arrests, convictions, acquittals, dismissals, and sentences. If you’ve been arrested or convicted of a crime in California, you could have 3 different RAP sheets:

- County RAP sheet—all of your criminal justice contact in a single county (so if you have arrests or convictions in more than one county, you will have a separate RAP sheet for each county);
- California DOJ RAP sheet—all of your contact with the criminal justice system across the state of California;
- FBI RAP sheet—all of your contact with the criminal justice system from anywhere in the U.S. (so if you have arrests or convictions in more than one state, all of these should show up on your FBI RAP sheet).

Background Check: This is the process of looking up information about someone’s past activities—their criminal records, finances and credit, or other personal information—through public records, Internet searches, or interviewing people you know. When you apply for a job, the employer will most likely pay an outside company to run a background check on you.

IMPORTANT: You have legal rights when someone runs a background check on you! The law limits what information can be included in your background check and what information employers, landlords, and others can use, and it allows you to challenge mistakes and violations.

Consumer Report—This is the technical, legal name of the document that is produced when an employer (or anyone else) runs a background check on you (produced by private companies called “Consumer Reporting Agencies”—see next definition). Since “consumer report” is the technical term, but not used by most, this Chapter uses the layperson term “background check reports.”

Reporting Agency—This is a company that investigates and produces background check reports. They’re also called Consumer Reporting Agencies (federal law) and Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies (state law), but this Chapter uses the layperson term “background check companies.”

II. KNOW YOUR RIGHTS ON EMPLOYMENT BACKGROUND CHECKS

This section explains the laws and your rights when an employer runs a background check on you for a job. It will explain what information an employer CAN and CANNOT see, ask about, and consider about your criminal record; and what information background check companies CAN and CANNOT report about you. It also explains how to correct background check errors, and what you can do if an employer or background check company violates the law.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

Your rights against employers

- Employer CAN run a background check on you and CAN consider certain parts of your criminal history when deciding whether to hire you.
- Employers MUST offer you a copy of the background check report or any public records used.
- Employers CAN see and/or ask about: convictions and pending (unresolved) arrests, charges, or cases; court records; police, correctional facility, and CDRC records (including mug shots); DMV driving records; other public records.
- In general, employers CANNOT see or ask about: arrests that did not lead to conviction; convictions that have been dismissed/expunged/sealed; participation in court diversion programs; and certain minor marijuana convictions; your RAP sheet; your credit report.
- In general, PRIVATE employers can ask about your record at any time.
- In general, PUBLIC employers can only ask about your record AFTER they decide that you meet the basic job qualifications.
- If an employer decides not to hire you because of information in your background check report, the employer MUST give copy of the background check report or any public records used, and SHOULD give you a chance to correct any errors in your background check report.
- “Ban the Box” laws give you more rights and protections if you apply for a job with a state or local government agency, and/or in certain local cities and counties.

Your rights against background check companies

- Background check companies CAN report information about convictions; pending arrests or criminal charges; lawsuits and civil (money) judgments against you; evictions; DMV driving records; and other personal information from within the past 7 years.
- Background check companies CANNOT report information about convictions; lawsuits; unpaid judgments; tax liens; or any other negative information that is more than 7 years old.
- Background check companies MUST check that information from public records is accurate and up-to-date.
YOUR RIGHTS AGAINST EMPLOYERS

This section will explain your rights when an employer runs a background check on you or asks you about your criminal record, and what you can do if the employer violates your rights.

The next section will explain your rights when a background check company produces a report on you, and what you can do if the background check company violates your rights (see PG. 666).

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- The 3 ways employers can learn about your past, and what kinds of information employers CAN and CAN’T consider about you
- What kinds of information employers can directly ask you about your criminal record
- What information employers CAN’T ask you about your criminal record
- When employers can ask about your criminal record, and the different rules for public and private employers
- What your rights are if an employer runs a background check on you through a private background check company
- What your rights are if an employer decides not to hire you based on the results of a private background check
- What your rights are if an employer runs an “in-house” background check on you

HOW CAN EMPLOYERS LEARN ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

There are three main ways an employer can access information about your criminal history:

1) The employer can ask you about it. Some employers will ask you directly if you have a criminal record. For this reason, it is important that you know your rights about what can be asked and what you have to answer. See PG. 645 to learn more.

2) The employer can pay a private background check company to run a background check report on you. Background check companies are private companies that create background check reports for employers. This is the most common way for an employer to find out information about your past because it is easy, fast, and usually done online. See PG. 666 to learn more.

3) The employer can conduct an “in house” background check. Some employers will do their own background check and look up your public records, research you online, and call your friends, family members, and former employers to ask about you. See PG. 658 to learn more.

IF THE EMPLOYER ASKS YOU DIRECTLY ABOUT YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD

➢ WHEN CAN AN EMPLOYER ASK ME DIRECTLY ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD & WHAT CAN THEY ASK ABOUT?

An employer might ask about your criminal record in writing, on a job application, or in an interview. This section discusses all of these situations. It’s important to know your rights:

• There are limitations to WHAT an employer can ask about and learn from you by asking, either on an application or in an in-person interview.
• There are also limitations on WHEN an employer can ask you about certain information—they cannot ask you everything up front!

These laws are meant to protect you from discrimination as you apply for jobs.

WHAT CAN’T EMPLOYERS ASK ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

HELPFUL HINT
Public vs. Private Employers

Public (government) employers can ask and get access to more information than private companies or nonprofit organizations. Read carefully to understand what laws apply to public vs. private employers.

There are certain parts of your criminal record that employers CANNOT legally ask you about. Under state law, an employer cannot ask you about:

1) Convictions that have been sealed, dismissed, expunged, or statutorily eradicated. A private employer cannot ask a question like, “Have you ever been convicted of any crimes that were dismissed?” And if a private employer asks about these convictions, you don’t have to report ones that were expunged/dismissed.
   a. EXCEPTION: On the other hand, public (government) employers and law enforcement agencies can request more information about dismissed records from you than private employers.
2) Convictions for minor marijuana-related offenses, if the conviction is over 2 years old. Minor marijuana-related convictions over 2 years old that an employer CANNOT ask about include, but are not limited to:
   a. Marijuana possession (other than concentrated cannabis).
   b. Carrying or giving away small amounts of marijuana (other than concentrated cannabis).
   c. Having a pipe, bong, or other device for illegally smoking marijuana.
   d. Being in a room, car, or other location with someone who is illegally using or smoking marijuana, and helping them to do it.

1724 2 CAL. CODE REGS. § 7287.4(d)(1)(B); CAL. LAB. CODE § 432.7(a).
1725 CAL. LAB. CODE § 432.7(b).
1726 CAL. LAB. CODE § 432.8.
1727 CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE § 11357(b), (c).
1728 CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE § 11360.
1729 CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE § 11364.
1730 CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE § 11365.
3) Arrests that did not lead to a conviction. Employers (private and most public employers) CANNOT ask about past arrests where you were not convicted of the alleged crime. This includes arrests where the charges against you were never brought, charges were dismissed, and cases where you were found not guilty. THERE ARE 3 EXCEPTIONS TO THIS RULE YOU SHOULD KNOW:

a. First, private and public employers can still ask about recent arrests that are pending or unresolved (for example, if you were arrested, posted bail money, and are awaiting trial, the arrest is still considered pending, and employers can learn out about those). PLEASE NOTE: If you live in a city or county that has “banned the box,” the rule for when employers can ask about pending arrests is different. See PG. 645 for more information about when an employer can ask.

b. Second, law enforcement employers can ask about and consider all arrests.

c. Third, health care facilities and pharmacy employers can ask about and consider CERTAIN arrests (for drug and/or sexual offenses) if you are applying for a job with regular access to drugs or medications (for drug arrests), or to patients (for sexual offense arrests).

4) Arrests that led to the completion of a court diversion program. A court diversion program (such as a drug rehabilitation program) helps a person charged with certain crimes avoid criminal charges—and therefore avoid a criminal record. By law, employers are NOT allowed to ask for any information about your participation in a court diversion program. 1733

---

WHAT CAN EMPLOYERS ASK ME ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Under state law, employers can ask you questions about certain convictions, but not all. 1734 For example, an employer could ask (on an application or in person): “Have you ever been convicted of a crime?”—but if the employer is following the law, he/she should have a big warning saying that it’s not asking you to report convictions you don’t legally have to admit (all those listed, starting on PG. 645). 1735

Employers can also ask you direct questions about pending arrests and ongoing/ unresolved cases. For example, and employer could ask (on paper or in-person), “Do you have any pending arrests or unresolved criminal cases?”

WHEN CAN (AND CAN’T) EMPLOYERS ASK ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Unfortunately, the answer is complicated because the rules are not the same for all types of employers in all counties and cities. When a California employer can ask about your criminal record depends on the following factors:

1) Whether it’s a public (state or local government) or private employer, and
2) For private employers, what county and city the employer operates in.

Because of these differences, this section is divided into rules for public (government) employers and rules for private employers.

WHEN CAN A PUBLIC (GOVERNMENT) EMPLOYER IN CALIFORNIA ASK ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Because of the recent state law known as “Ban the Box,” public employers in California CANNOT ask you—in-person, verbally, or in writing on a job application—ANY information about your conviction history, until AFTER the employer has determined that you meet the minimum job requirements. This law applies statewide to ALL state and local government employers, but does NOT apply to federal government jobs, jobs with law enforcement, or positions that require a criminal background check by law.

Some cities and counties in California (such as San Francisco, Richmond, and Compton) have passed their own local “Ban the Box” laws that sometimes apply to certain private employers. See Appendix F, PG. 722, for more information about local “Ban the Box” laws in California (such as the one in San Francisco called the “Fair Chance Ordinance”).

WHEN CAN A PRIVATE EMPLOYER IN CALIFORNIA ASK ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

It depends on your city and county. For many years, across the entire state, a private employer could ask certain questions about your criminal record at any time, and most private employers can still ask these questions AT ANY TIME.

Recently, however, San Francisco passed a “Ban the Box” law that applies to private employers. This means that in SF, employers must wait to ask about records until AFTER they have determined the person would be qualified, just like public employers must around the state. For now, San Francisco is the ONLY county in which “Ban the Box” legislation applies to private employers, but other cities and counties are considering similar legislation. See Appendix G, PG. 724, for a full explanation of the San Francisco law, called the Fair Chance Ordinance.

1736 CAL. LAB. CODE § 432.9.
In addition, the cities of Richmond and Compton have implemented “Ban the Box” laws that apply to government contractors—meaning private employers that have contracts with the local city government. If you are applying to a job with a private contractor in one of those cities, you should find out if “Ban the Box” would apply to you. See Appendix H, PG. 728 to learn about Richmond, CA’s “Ban the Box” law.

SUMMARY

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS: What Employers Can Ask You & When

- In general, employers CANNOT ask about: arrests that did not lead to conviction; convictions that have been dismissed/expunged/sealed; participation in court diversion programs; and certain minor marijuana convictions.
- Employers CAN ask about: convictions and pending (unresolved) arrests, charges, or cases.
- In general, PUBLIC employers can only ask about your record AFTER they decide that you meet the basic job qualifications.
- In general, PRIVATE employers can ask about your record at any time.
- “Ban the Box” laws you more rights and protections if you apply for a job with a state or local government agency, and/or in certain local cities and counties.

IF THE EMPLOYER USES A PRIVATE BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANY TO RUN A BACKGROUND CHECK ON YOU

- IF THE EMPLOYER USES A PRIVATE BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANY, WHAT CAN IT FIND OUT AND CONSIDER? WHAT ARE THE RULES THAT LIMIT THESE SEARCHES?

ARE EMPLOYERS LEGALLY ALLOWED TO RUN A BACKGROUND CHECK ON ME?

Yes. In California, employers are allowed to conduct background checks “for employment purposes”—when deciding whether to hire, promote, reassign, or keep you on as an employee. Private Background check companies are allowed to provide background checks (also called consumer reports) to anyone the agency reasonably believes will use the information “for employment purposes.”

---

HELPFUL HINT

If an employer tells me that they will run a background check, should I still apply for the job?

Yes! Even if the employer does run a background check, this doesn’t mean that they won’t hire you. 58% of employers allow job applicants to explain the results of their background check before the employer makes a final decision about whether or not to hire them. See PG. 634 above for some tips on how to discuss your background and record in the most favorable way—showing the employer why he/she should hire you and give you a chance!

CAN AN EMPLOYER CONSIDER MY CREDIT HISTORY?

Generally, no. Employers CANNOT look at your credit report unless you are applying for certain high level or sensitive job positions, such as a manager or supervisor within a company, a law enforcement officer, or a position with access to large amounts of cash and/or sensitive financial information. If you have further questions about your credit history, contact a local legal service organization or call 2-1-1.

ARE EMPLOYERS LEGALLY REQUIRED TO CONDUCT CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECKS?

Generally, no. Most of the time, the employer is not legally required to run a background check, though many choose to.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

Your Rights If An Employer Runs A Background Check

• Employers MUST NOTIFY you and get your PERMISSION BEFORE running a background check on you through a private background check company.
• Employers MUST offer you a copy of the background check report. ALWAYS request a copy of the background check report.
• Employers CAN see: convictions and pending (unresolved) arrests, charges, or cases; other personal information about you. But they CANNOT see convictions and other negative information that is more than 7 years old.
• In general, employers CANNOT see: arrests that did not lead to conviction; convictions that have been dismissed/expunged/sealed; participation in court diversion programs; and certain minor marijuana convictions; your RAP sheet; your credit report.
• If an employer decides not to hire you because of information in your background check report, the employer MUST NOTIFY you beforehand; give you a COPY of the background check report; and give you a chance to CORRECT any errors in your background check report.

1738 CAL. LAB. CODE § 1024.5, et seq.
The only exception to this rule is if the job involves unsupervised access to sensitive populations or the handling of sensitive information (like law enforcement officers, airport security screeners, security guard positions, bank employees, port workers, childcare workers in federal facilities or agencies, certain insurance personnel, any personnel involved in administration of an employee benefits plan, defense contractors, and prisoner transportation personnel). For these specialized jobs, a background check is mandatory.

SINCE EMPLOYERS ARE ALLOWED TO RUN BACKGROUND CHECKS ON ME, DO I HAVE ANY LEGAL RIGHTS IN THE PROCESS?

Yes—you have a number of important rights under law THROUGHOUT the hiring process in how the employer can run and use a background check. The following rules protect your rights when you are applying for a job and the employer runs a background check on you through a private Background check company. (Note: There are different rules if the employer runs a background check on a current employee because it suspects the person of misconduct or wrongdoing.)

Before an employer runs a background check on you using a private background check company, the employer must do ALL of the following: give you notice, get your written permission (consent) to run the check, inform you of your rights, and offer you a copy of the report, once it is done. Here are the 4 steps below in more detail:

STEP 1: Give you ADVANCED, WRITTEN NOTICE

An employer must provide you with written notice if it intends to hire a background check company and use information in your background check to make decisions related to your employment. This notice must be in a separate document from other information from the employer—it can’t just be mentioned on the job application or buried among other papers—SO that it is clear that the employer is running a background check done on you.

The NOTICE must include the following INFORMATION:

• Explain the purpose of the background check.
• Explain that the background check may include information on your “character, general reputation, personal characteristics, and mode of living”—meaning certain personal information about you and your past.

160 CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1786.16, 1786.16(c).
161 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.16(a)(2)(A). California law is stricter than federal law about what an employer must do when notifying a job applicant about the requested consumer report. See generally California Investigative Consumer Background check companies Act (ICRAA) at CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786 et seq.
163 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.16(a)(2)(B). The Background check company’s website must explain its policy about transferring personal information transferred to third parties outside the United States, and must give you a way to contact an agency representative with further questions. If the agency doesn’t have a website, you may request that a copy of the privacy policy be mailed to you.
164 There are strict limits on what information can be included in your background check report. For example, the Background check company generally CANNOT include information about arrests or convictions that are more than
• Give the name, address, phone number, and website of the private background check company that will conduct the background check. There are many background check companies out there, and you are entitled to know exactly which one is providing a report on you.

• Explain your right to review the background check company’s files along with all the information the agency used when conducting your background check and preparing your background check report for the employer. If the report will include information from interviews with your neighbors, friends, or associates, you must be given special notice.

STEP 2: Get WRITTEN PERMISSION from YOU before they run the check:

After the employer gives you notice, the employer must ask and get your permission in writing—before conducting a background check. Usually, there will be a box to check on the job application, asking you for your permission for the employer to do a background check.

IMPORTANT: If the employer wants to run another background check later...

Employers must give you NOTICE and get your PERMISSION EVERY TIME they run a background check.

If the employer wants to do another background check later, or wants to get continuous, updated background checks on you during your employment, they must give you a NEW NOTICE AND get NEW written PERMISSION from you each and every time they do a background check (except in cases of suspected misconduct).

STEP 3: Inform you of YOUR RIGHT TO SEE THE INFORMATION in your background check:

The employer must inform you of your right to see the information used by the Background check company when conducting your background check.

STEP 4: Offer you a COPY of your background check report:

The employer must give you a chance to request a copy of the background check report they got. There should be a box you can check to request copy of your report—usually it will be on the same form you sign to give permission for the background check. Always check YES to get a copy of the report so you can see what the employer sees!

If you check the box to request a copy of your background check report, the employer must send you a copy of the report within 3 business days from the time when the employer receives it.

7 years old, bankruptcies that took place more than 10 years ago, or debts that are more than 7 years old. CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18.

1754 If interviews are involved, the report is defined as an “investigative consumer report” under the FCRA.

1756 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.16(a)(2) requires employers to provide notice and get permission “at any time” they want to run a background check.

1757 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.16(a)(2)(B)(v); see also CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.22.

1758 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.16(b)(1).

1759 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.16(b)(1). You may receive a copy of the report from the employer or from the screening company. The report’s cover page must (1) include a notice in at least 12-point boldface type saying that the report does not guarantee the accuracy or truthfulness of the information, but was simply copied from public records; (2) include a warning that negative information could be the result of identity theft; and (3) give notice in English and Spanish of your rights. Business days only include weekdays (Mon-Fri). CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.29.
IMPORTANT: ALWAYS request a copy of the background check report.

You have a legal right to receive a copy of the background check report used by the employer, and it is recommended that you always request a copy of the report. Always check the box to request a copy of the background check report.

- WHAT TO LOOK FOR: The box to request a copy of the background check report will probably say something like this:
  - "Check this box if you would like to receive a free copy of any consumer report or investigative consumer report obtained on you."
  - or
  - "I am a California resident and I would like a free copy of my background check report."
- Make sure you CHECK THIS BOX to request a copy of your background check report.

CAN AN EMPLOYER DECIDE NOT TO HIRE ME BASED ON MY RECORD?

Yes, BUT ONLY if they follow the law. The law sets certain rules that the employer must follow in the hiring process and in deciding whether to hire someone with a record. The employer must follow additional legal rules both before AND after taking any adverse action against you.

WHAT RULES MUST AN EMPLOYER FOLLOW IF THEY DECIDE NOT TO HIRE ME BASED ON MY RECORD?

Under, federal law (FCRA) the employer must notify you both before AND after taking any adverse (negative) action against you based on the results of your background check.

BEFORE ADVERSE ACTION:

Before an employer takes any adverse action against you based on the results of your background check, the employer must give you a "Pre-Adverse Action" letter to notify you that it is planning to take the adverse action.

Under federal law, the Pre-Adverse Action letter must:

1. NOTIFY you that the employer plans to take adverse action against you based on information from your background check report;
2. Include a COPY of your background check report that the employer used to make its decision, and
3. Include the DOCUMENT, "A Summary of Your Rights Under FCRA" (see Appendix I, PG. 730).

1766 Note: This means that the employer must give you a copy of your background check report, even if you did not check the box to request a copy of the report when giving permission to run the background check.
After you receive this letter, you must be given a reasonable opportunity (about 5 days) to review your report and correct any errors.

IMPORTANT: If you receive a “Pre-Adverse Action” letter, you should:

- Review your background check report immediately to make sure it does not contain any incomplete, inaccurate or outdated information—such as convictions that are more than 7 years old; convictions that were dismissed/expunged/sealed; and/or arrests that did not lead to a conviction (as long as the charges are not still pending);
- Tell the employer immediately if there is any incomplete, inaccurate, or outdated information in the report;
- Offer proof of errors in your background check report, such as court records showing the final disposition (outcome) of the case;
- Offer proof of your rehabilitation efforts, including certifications or documents that show completion of programs, school transcripts, letters of support from past employer or other community members (not family or friends).

If the employer does not give you enough time to review the report and correct any errors—for example, if the employer gives you the “Pre-Adverse Action” letter and then rejects your job application on the same day—you may have a legal claim against the employer for violating your right to receive notice before the adverse action.24

IMPORTANT: Although the purpose of the Pre-Adverse Action law is to allow you to correct errors in your background check report, the law is NOT clear about whether the employer is required to reconsider your application if you correct the error and provide proof. If this happens to you, you should talk to an attorney about whether the employer may have violated your rights.25

AFTER ADVERSE ACTION

After an employer takes any adverse action against you, such as rejecting your job application or firing you, the employer must give you an “Adverse Action Notice” to notify you that an adverse action was taken against you based on information from your background check. The employer can give you this notice orally, in writing, or electronically, but it must be within 3 business days of the employer’s final decision.

1768 Although the law does not provide exactly how much time an employer must wait after sending a “Pre-Adverse Action” letter to take the adverse action, guidance from Congress suggests that 5 business days is a reasonable amount of time. See H.R. Rep. No. 103-486, at 30 (1994).
1770 Compare, e.g., Beverly v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., No. CIV.A. 3:07CV469, 2008 WL 149032, at *3 (2008) (“The statutory purpose is to enable employee or applicant to correct any of inaccurate information in background report before any adverse decision or action is taken.”); with Johnson v. ADP Screening & Selection Servs., Inc., 768 F. Supp. 2d 979, 984 (2011) (“Nothing in the FCRA requires an employer to consider any correction that a Background check company might make.”) Under federal law, the Adverse Action Notice must include:

1) The name, address, and phone number of the background check company that supplied the report to the employer;
2) A statement that the background check company that supplied the report is not responsible for the adverse action and cannot explain the specific reasons for the action; and
3) A statement of your rights to:
   4) Dispute (challenge) the accuracy or completeness of any information the background check company provided; and
   5) Get an additional free report from the company within 60 days, if you ask for one.

The Adverse Action Notice is important so that you know why the employer made the adverse decision against you and what information the employer considered. This way you can challenge or correct any information that is incorrect, incomplete, or illegal. And if the employer or background check company has NOT followed any of the laws described here—or if the employer does NOT give you an Adverse Action Notice—you may have a legal claim against them.

IMPORTANT: Adverse Action Notices

If an employer takes an adverse action against you (such as not hiring you) based on information in your background check report, they must give you BOTH a Pre-Adverse Action AND Adverse Action Notice.

If the employer does not give you these documents, you may have a legal claim against them for violating your rights under background check laws. However, you will need to show that they employer’s decision was actually based on information in your background check report (such as your criminal record) and NOT for other reasons. See the text box immediately below on PG. 654 for how to do this.

For more information on what you can do if an employer does NOT give you an Adverse Action Notice or does NOT follow any of the other laws described here, see PG. 653.

For more information on how to challenge or correct information in your background check report, see information below, or see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020.

For information on how to get a copy of your background check report, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020.

HELPFUL HINT

If I did not receive a Pre-Adverse Action or Adverse Action Notice, how can I show that the employer rejected me based on my background check and NOT other reasons?

Here are 2 strategies that have been used for showing that the employer may have rejected you based on your background check, even if they did NOT give you a Pre-Adverse Action or Adverse Action Notice:

1. Did the employer say they would run a background check on you—either in person, on the job posting, or on the job application? Did the employer give you a Notice saying they would run a background check, or have you sign a document giving them permission to run a background check? Did the employer give you a Pre-Adverse Action Notice but NOT Adverse Action Notice (or the opposite—an Adverse Action Notice but NOT Pre-Adverse Action Notice)? Did the employer say anything about your record, or about (not) hiring people with criminal records? Any of these can help show that the employer did run a background check on you, and may have rejected your application based on information in your background check.

2. If you feel comfortable, you can try talking to the employer directly. You can explain that you are trying to improve your application for the future, and then ask why the employer did not select your application and what you can do to improve your chances in the future.

• In some cases, the employer may say something that reveals he/she made a decision based on your record or other information in your background check—for example, a negative comment about your being trustworthy, creating a risk to others, or about people with criminal records, in general. If this happens, make sure that you write down afterward exactly what the employer said!

• In other cases, the employer may actually give you a helpful explanation that really can help you to improve your job applications in the future. This may show that the employer really did have some other reason for not hiring you, or at the very least can give you help you to be more successful for future jobs.

• Finally, the employer may not give you any explanation for their decision, or may simply say that other people were more qualified or applied before you. In this case, it may be difficult to show that the employer actually rejected you based on your background check report.

WHAT CAN I DO IF THERE IS INACCURATE, INCOMPLETE, OR ILLEGAL INFORMATION IN MY BACKGROUND CHECK REPORT?

You have the right to dispute (challenge) any inaccurate, incomplete, or illegally included information in your background check report.

If there is inaccurate, incomplete, or illegal information in your background check report, you have the right to dispute (challenge) this information with the background check company that prepared the report. The background check company must investigate the error, delete or correct any improper information, and send a notice and a statement of correction to ANY employer who received a copy of your background check in the past 2 years (or anyone else who received a copy of your background check in the past year) if you ask.

For more information on how to dispute inaccurate, incomplete, or illegally included information in your background check report, see information below, or see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020.

IF I AM HIRED, CAN MY EMPLOYER RUN BACKGROUND CHECKS ON ME IN THE FUTURE WITHOUT MY PERMISSION?

No. Under California state law, an employer must follow the legal procedure of giving you notice, getting permission, etc., every time it wants to run a background check on you. In addition, an employer CANNOT ask you to waive (give up) your right to receive notice, give permission, etc., before running a background check.

EXCEPTION: If an employer suspects you of wrongdoing or misconduct, it can run a background check without giving you notice or asking for your permission. This exception applies if the employer is conducting a background check because they suspect you of misconduct on the job, including violating any written policies of the employer, or violating any federal, state, or local laws or regulations.

WHAT CAN I DO IF THE EMPLOYER HAS ALREADY RECEIVED INFORMATION FROM A BACKGROUND CHECK REPORT THAT IT SHOULDN’T HAVE RECEIVED BY LAW?

Unfortunately, employers sometimes get information that should NOT have been included in your background check report. They might ask you about it during an interview (or on a job application), or consider the information when deciding whether to hire you. Here are some suggested steps if this happens to you:

STEP 1: The first recommended step is that you get a copy of the background check report, so that you know what information the employer is seeing. For this reason, it’s important to always check the box to request a copy of the report when you give permission to an employer to run a background check on you.

If you didn’t check the box before, you can still get a copy of the report in 2 ways:

1) If the employer decides take an adverse (negative) action against you—such as rejecting your job application—they must give you a copy of the background check report before taking the action.

2) The background check company is required to give you a copy of the same report sent to the employer, if you ask for it within (at least) 2 years.

STEP 2: If there are errors or inaccurate information on the background check report, it’s recommended that you point this out to the employer right away. If possible, you may also want to show the employer any proof of the correct

1773 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.24(b).
1774 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.57.
1775 Both California and federal law have exceptions to the notice and permission requirements if an employer does a background check because they suspect you of “wrongdoing or misconduct,” and uses a private Background check company to conduct the background check. CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.16(a)(2), (c); 15 U.S.C. § 1681a(y)(1). In this case, the employer is NOT required to notify you or get your permission before conducting the background check. If the employer later decides to take adverse action based on the results of the background check, they are only required to give you a summary of the background check report (not the sources of information nor full report itself), and only after the adverse action is taken (not before the adverse action). 15 U.S.C. § 1681a(y)(2).
1777 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.11.
information—for example, court papers showing that your conviction has been expunged, or that charges against you were dismissed.

You also have the right to make the background check company correct the information, and send the employer a notice and statement of the correction. For more information on correcting information with the background check company and notifying the employer of the correction, see PG. 664 below.

STEP 3: If the employer asks you about things that should NOT have been in your background check report—such as convictions that are more than 7 years old—it’s recommended you answer the question directly and honestly, but briefly:

- You can take responsibility for your actions. State the facts, but express regret for what happened. Don’t get defensive. Be honest, but don’t go into details.
- You don’t need to go into details. Keep your answer short. Be honest, but only talk about necessary information based on the questions you are asked.
- You can emphasize how you have changed. Emphasize that the incident happened long ago and that you are a different person now. Explain what you learned while you were in prison/jail, and what you are doing differently now. Paint a picture of the person you are now.
- You can emphasize your qualifications. Describe the things that will make you a good employee—such as previous work experience, job training programs, or classes that you’ve done—and any letters of recommendation that you have. Show the employer why you are qualified for the position and will be a benefit to the company.
- You can describe your hopes and dreams. Show the employer that you are in control of your life and have short-term and long-term goals. Highlight any services that you’re getting to help you move on and achieve your goals. Emphasize that you would be very appreciative of the opportunity to work for them, and you will be the hardest worker they will ever have.

STEP 4: If the employer asks you (or makes comments) about incorrect or improper information in your background check report, you may want to write down anything the employer says and anything you say to the employer, so that you have a record to protect your rights later.
IF THE EMPLOYER CONDUCTS AN “IN-HOUSE” BACKGROUND CHECK

WHAT AN EMPLOYER CAN FIND OUT AND CONSIDER THROUGH THEIR OWN BACKGROUND CHECK INVESTIGATION...AND THE RULES THAT LIMIT THESE SEARCHES.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS
General Overview of the Law & your Rights

• Instead of hiring a background check company, employers can also directly access your criminal record and other public records by conducting their own “in-house” background check on you.
• Employers are NOT required to get your permission before running an in-house background check.
• You have the RIGHT to receive a COPY of any public information an employer is viewing. It is recommended that you NEVER give up this right!
• Your RAP sheet is generally confidential and NOT accessible by employers.
• Your RAP sheet is not the only place to find your criminal records, because most criminal records are public records.
• If an employer decides not to hire you based on information in a public record (including criminal court records), the employer MUST give you a COPY of the public records.
• An employer is NOT required to give you copies of any NON-public information used (such as information from talking to people who know you).

Most employers hire an outside private background check company to gather public record information on job applicants and produce a background check report (this method of running a background check is covered in the previous section, starting on PG. 633).

However, instead of hiring an outside background check company, an employer can conduct its own “in-house” (internal) background check on you. The employer can look at your public records directly, as well as interview your friends, family members, and former employers or co-workers. This “in-house” type of background check is a less common practice, but it is important for you to understand that if an employer chooses this route, there are different legal protections than when a private company runs the background check.

HOW DOES AN IN-HOUSE BACKGROUND CHECK WORK?

An in-house background check is very similar to a third-party background check by an outside Background check company, except the employer alone is responsible for conducting the research, without any outside assistance.
Any employer may conduct an in-house background search in the following ways:

- Looking at public records, such as criminal convictions and civil judgments. You have a right to see any public records that the employer looked at; see PG. 658 below for more information.
- Talking to friends, neighbors, former employers, or colleagues about your character, reputation, or living situation. The questions should be related to job skills, ability to work with others, attendance, attitude, and ability to follow instructions and receive criticism.
- Verifying school records—your attendance and any degrees you earned. However, employers cannot see your transcripts (courses and grades) or other school records (e.g., disciplinary records) unless you give written consent.
- Online searches—like searching for your name on Google, looking at your Facebook page, checking other social networking sites (Twitter, MySpace, etc.), and checking websites that post mug shots. Note: An employer cannot ask you for your social networking username or password or make you show them your online profile.

WHAT RULES GOVERN CALIFORNIA EMPLOYERS WHO RUN IN-HOUSE CHECKS?

The law is more relaxed about in-house background checks than it is about outside background check companies’ background checks. This means that you have fewer rights when it comes to being notified, giving your permission, and challenging the results of in-house background checks.

However, if an employer is running his/her own in-house background check on you, they still must follow certain rules. Here is what the employer is and isn’t legally required to do:

- The employer may request your permission, but it’s not required. Look carefully at the job application form—the employer might ask to run an in-house background check right on the application form itself.
- The employer must give you a copy of public records used in the report—unless you check the box to waive (give up) this right. Be careful—the job application or other forms MAY have a box that you can check to waive (give up) your right to see the public records, and it’s recommended that you do not check that box!

1780 20 U.S.C. § 1232g(b)(1).
1781 California law prohibits regular employers from using information taken from Megan’s Law websites (which list people required to register under Penal Code 290) when deciding whether to hire you or when making any other employment decisions. CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.46(i). However, employers can use the same information if taken directly from public records (like court records), rather than from online websites. (In general, the only employers who can use Megan’s Law website are the same employers who can see your RAP sheet.)
1782 CAL. LAB. CODE § 982.
1783 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.53.
KNOW YOUR RIGHTS: You can ALWAYS get a copy of PUBLIC RECORDS used by the employer. You have a legal right to get a copy of the public records used by the employer, and it’s recommended that you never give up (“waive”) that right! It’s recommended that you always indicate that you DO want to see the public records report, and make sure you DON’T check a box waiving your right. What to look out for:

- The box to waive your rights will probably say something like this: “I further understand that the Company may obtain Public Records about me as part of an internal background investigation and that I may waive my right to receive a copy of such Public Records by checking the box to the right.” It’s recommended that you DON’T CHECK THIS BOX!

- This can be confusing because it is the opposite of what happens when the employer hires a private background check company to do the background check (in which case it is recommended that you check the box to request a copy of the background check report).

- If you don’t waive your right to view the public records gathered about you, the employer must give you a copy of the public records within 7 days after it receives them.
  - EXCEPTION: In California, if your existing or future employer wants to run an in-house background check because it suspects you of misconduct or wrongdoing, the employer is not required to reveal its findings until after the investigation is over. However, upon completion of the investigation, the employer must give you a copy of the public records unless you waived (gave up) your rights (so again, it’s recommended that you don’t give up your right to a copy of those public records!).

- If the employer takes any adverse (negative) action against you—such as deciding not to hire you—because of information in the public records, the employer must give you a copy of the public records even if you checked the box that waived your right to see the records. The employer is not required to give you information it gets from NON-PUBLIC sources, such as checking your references with past employers, verifying your education records, or talking to people who know you.

Important things to know about listing references and previous jobs

When you apply for a job, the new employer will often contact your former employers and other people you list as references, in order to find out if you were a good employee and to decide if they should hire you. Keep in mind that a former employer CAN say negative things about you as part of a job reference even suspected criminal activity, regardless of whether you were convicted of anything—so long as they reasonably believe the information is true and they are not simply acting out of meanness towards you.

Also, the new employer is NOT required to tell you what these people said about you, and they can say positive or negative things. It’s recommended that you check in with your references BEFORE listing them, so that you know what they will say about you. (You can also ask someone you trust—a case manager, social worker, legal aid attorney, or friend—to call for you.)

Finally, the new employer will also check the dates when you worked at your previous jobs and how much you earned—so make sure you know the EXACT dates and amount you earned, or it could seem like you are being dishonest in a new job application. For more information about listing references and previous jobs on a job application, see PG. 638.
ERRORS IN EMPLOYERS’ IN-HOUSE BACKGROUND CHECKS:

HOW CAN I FIND OUT IF AN EMPLOYER RELIED ON INCORRECT PUBLIC RECORDS ABOUT ME?

As noted above, if an employer runs its own background check—instead of hiring an agency to do a consumer report—it must disclose to you any public records it relies on. Specifically, the employer is required to ask you whether you want copies of these public records. If you checked “yes” when asked whether you want a copy (which it is recommended that you do), by law the employer must send you the public records in the mail and give you the opportunity to examine them thoroughly. If you find incorrect or misleading information, you can inform your employer about the false information, so he or she does not rely on it as accurate. Then you can attempt to get the errors fixed.

IF AN EMPLOYER RELIED ON INACCURATE PUBLIC RECORDS, WHAT CAN I DO?

If an employer ran his/her own background check and relied on inaccurate public records, you can:

1) Contact your employer as soon as possible, to prevent any confusion.
2) Send a written letter or e-mail (“written notice”) to the employer, pointing out the incorrect or incomplete records, and request that the employer re-investigate the records.
3) Provide the employer with proof, including copies of any official documents to show why the information is incorrect, outdated, or incomplete. (For example: you could give the employer court papers showing that your convictions have been dismissed or “expunged” in some way.)
4) You can fix the errors in your public records by contacting the agency that produced the incorrect record. For example, if you need to fix incorrect information about a tax lien, contact the IRS; if you need to fix the record of a legal matter (civil or criminal case), contact the clerk at the courthouse that processed your legal case.

It is important to remember that you only have the legal right to know about public records that an employer uses. If an employer chooses to investigate your past on its own, they do NOT need to disclose any information learned through in-person interviews with your former bosses or family and friends. 1791

CAN AN EMPLOYER ASK ME FOR OR CONSIDER MY RAP SHEET?

Usually, no. Most employers are not allowed to see or ask for your RAP sheet. Your RAP sheet is the government’s official record of all your arrests, convictions, and other criminal justice contact. (Your RAP sheet is a confidential document, meaning most people and most employers are not allowed to see it or ask about it! Still, there are many other ways for employers to see your criminal record without ever looking at your official government RAP sheet—such as checking court and public records (see PG. 658) or hiring a private background check company to do a background check (see PG. 666).

1791 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.10(b)(1).

WHICH EMPLOYERS CAN SEE MY RAP SHEET?

Under California law, only certain people are allowed to see your RAP sheet for employment purposes:

- Most public employers can see your RAP sheet. These include all federal, state and local government agencies—including police and fire departments, the California Department of Corrections (CDCR), local Boards of Education, and the U.S. Postal Service.

- Certain private employers can see your RAP sheet if you are applying for a job that involves access to sensitive information (e.g., nuclear power plants, public utilities, private security companies, and financial institutions like banks) OR you will be working with children, elderly, disabled, or other vulnerable people.

- State occupational licensing agencies can see your RAP sheet if you apply for a professional license. For more information on licensing restrictions based on a criminal record, see PG. 688.

- Law enforcement & criminal justice agencies have full access to your RAP sheet, including juvenile cases, expunged/dismissed cases, and sometimes even sealed records!

In order to get a copy of your RAP sheet, these employers are allowed to ask for your fingerprints, including making you do Live Scan (electronic) fingerprinting.

It is illegal for a regular employer (i.e., NOT an employer listed above) to do any of the following:

- Ask you for a copy of your RAP sheet;
- Get a copy of your RAP sheet through any other means; or
- Make you prove that you do NOT have a record—for example, by requiring you to get fingerprinted, or asking you for a “notice of no record”.

1792 CAL. PENAL CODE § 11105 et seq. In addition, federal law requires background checks for the following jobs, which mean that these employers will be able to see your RAP sheet: Airport security screeners; federal law enforcement officers; defense contractor; prisoner transportation; port workers; childcare workers in federal facilities or agencies; bank employees; insurance personnel; and any personnel involved in the administration of an employee benefits plan. See 49 U.S.C. § 44935(e)(2)(B); 5 U.S.C. § 7371(b); 10 U.S.C. § 2408(a); 42 U.S.C. § 13722(b)(1); 46 U.S.C. § 70105(c); 42 U.S.C. § 13204(a); 12 U.S.C. § 1829; 16 U.S.C. § 1033(b); 29 U.S.C. § 1111(a).

1793 Note: Other people and agencies (not listed here) may be able to see your RAP sheet for non-employment purposes: Federal, state and local government agencies, public utilities, private security companies, and financial institutions like banks OR you will be working with children, elderly, disabled, or other vulnerable people.

1794 See §§ 11105(c)(1); 11105.3, 11105.4; Cal. Fin. Code § 777.5; CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE § 1596.871; CAL. VEH. CODE § 44237. However, private employers must still get authorization from the DOJ in order to view RAP sheets.

1795 Occupational licenses are required for: accounting, acupuncture, architects, automotive repairs, barbering and cosmetology, cemetery and funeral services, contractors, court reporters, dental services, electronic and appliance repair, occupational therapy, physical therapy, real estate, security and investigative positions, structural pest control, vocational and registered nursing. For a list of the 200+ occupational licenses available in California, see http://www.labormarketinfo.edd.ca.gov/occguides/.

1796 This includes police and sheriff departments, courts, district attorney and public defender offices, parole and probation departments, and corrections agencies.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

Some ways an employer can violate background check laws:

- Ordering a background check without your permission;
- Failing to inform you of your rights in a timely way;
- Not giving you notice of an adverse action (i.e., deciding not to hire you) BEFORE taking the action against you;
- Not providing you with a copy of your background check report:
  - if you requested a copy of the report when giving permission to run the background check, and/or if
  - before taking any adverse action against you;
- Asking you for a copy of your RAP sheet OR making you get fingerprinted (including Live Scan)—except in a few limited situations (e.g., public employers; occupational licensing agencies; and certain private employers if the job involves working with children, elderly, or disabled, or gives you access to sensitive information). For more information on which employers can access your RAP sheet or fingerprints, see PG. 662.
- Making YOU prove that you do NOT have a record.

---

1801 Cal. Penal Code § 11123.
1802 If you cannot afford the fee, you can request a fee waiver (i.e., a request to be excused from paying the fee) with your application, and provide proof of your financial situation. See Cal. Penal Code § 11123.
1804 Cal. Penal Code § 11142.
If you believe that an employer has violated the law for any reason, you may want to take the following steps, if possible:

- Talk to the employer. The first thing you can do is try to talk to the employer directly. Simply bringing the matter to the employer’s attention may be all that it takes to solve the problem, especially if the employer just didn’t know it was violating the law. Explain the law and give the employer the chance to change his/her behavior.

- Report the employer to the Attorney General. If talking to the employer directly does not work, you can report the employer to the California Attorney General. The Attorney General will then investigate your claim and try to resolve it. You can report your claim by calling the Attorney General’s Office of Public Inquiry Unit at (916) 322-3360 or toll free at 1-800-952-5225. You can also send a written complaint to:

  Attorney General’s Office
  California Department of Justice
  Attn: Public Inquiry Unit
  P.O. Box 944255
  Sacramento, CA 94244-2550

- Report the employer to the FTC. If the employer has violated federal background check laws, you can report the employer directly to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). The FTC has the authority to force employers to comply with background check laws by requesting a court order to stop the employer from violating the law, or by filing a lawsuit against the employer. To file a complaint with the FTC, call the agency directly at 1-877-382-4357.

- Sue the employer in state or federal court. You can file a lawsuit against an employer in either state or federal court for violating background check laws. You may be able to get a court to order the employer to stop violating the law and/or pay you money. For more information about suing the employer, talk to a lawyer first!

III. YOUR RIGHTS AGAINST BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANIES

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• How private background check companies learn information about you
• What information private background check companies CAN report about you
• What information private background check companies CAN’T report about you
• What you can do if your background check report has incorrect or incomplete information
• What you can do if a private background check company violates your legal rights

This section will explain your rights against private background check companies that conduct background checks for employers and report information about you to them. For information on how to get a FREE copy of your background check report, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020.

BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANIES’ ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS

HOW DO BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANIES GET INFORMATION ON ME FOR THEIR BACKGROUND CHECK REPORTS?

Background check companies will use any available source to dig up information on you. They may look at:

• Court records (any criminal or civil case you’ve been involved with);
• Police, correctional facility, and CDCR records (including mug shots);
• DMV driving records;
• Other public records (eviction records; tax records; property records; birth certificates; marriage and divorce records; etc.);

There are also rules that Background check companies must follow to verify the information reported to an employer in a background check report. See 15 U.S.C. §§ 1681d, 1681g.

Police records—such as arrests and logs—are considered public records, subject to certain exemptions. See CAL. GOV’T CODE §§ 6250 et seq., 6254(f). Law enforcement agencies are permitted to provide copies of mug shots to the general public. See 86 Cal. Op. Att’y Gen. 132 (2003).
• Internet searches, including on Google and social networking sites (Facebook, MySpace, Twitter, etc.); other websites (including websites that post mug shot photos),

• Your previous school and work history, AND

• Talk with people who know you or have information about you (friends, neighbors, co-workers, landlords, etc.)

If the background check includes any information from public records (such as court records), the background check company must state in the background check report:

1) Where it got the information (including which court), AND
2) When the information was reported (i.e., made public).

See PG. 662 about the rules around accessing RAP sheets, which are confidential to most (not all) employers.

WHAT CAN A BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANY REPORT ABOUT ME TO AN EMPLOYER?

Most importantly for the purposes of this manual, under California law, the only information about your criminal history that background check companies are allowed to include in a background check is

• Information on convictions that are less than 7 years old, and

• Arrests and formal charges filed against you if a judgment is still pending.

For further information on what can be included in your background check, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020.

WHAT CAN A BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANY NOT REPORT ABOUT ME TO AN EMPLOYER?

Although some background check companies brag that they can “find out anything about anyone,” both federal and California laws impose restrictions on what information they are allowed to put in your background check, especially when it relates to your criminal history.

For example, Background check companies are NOT allowed to include information about criminal convictions that are more than seven years old, convictions that were pardoned, dismissed or sealed, arrest records, or referrals to diversion programs.

1810 California law prohibits most employers from using information taken from Megan’s Law websites (which list people required to register under Penal Code 290) when deciding whether to hire you or making other employment decisions. CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.46(i). However, private Background check companies ARE allowed to publish information from Megan’s Law websites in your background check report. Mendoza v. ADP Screening & Selection Svcs., Inc., 182 Cal. App. 4th 1644, 1650-59 (2010) (holding that private Background check company did not violate statute by publishing information from Megan’s Law website, because Background check company did not “use” information for employment purposes, but rather compiled and republished information for employer to “use” in employment decisions). In addition, employers can use the same information if taken directly from public records (like court records), rather than from online websites.

1811 There are special rules that apply to background check information obtained through personal interviews. Both California and federal laws require Background check companies that get negative background check information through personal interviews to (1) reasonably verify that the information is accurate, or (2) only interview people who are “the best possible source of the information.” CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18(b); 15 U.S.C. § 1681d(d)(4). Federal law also has additional notice requirements for background check reports that include information from personal interviews. 15 U.S.C. § 1681d(a).

1812 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.28(a).

1813 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18.

1814 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18.
KNOW YOUR RIGHTS: Background check companies MUST verify certain information to make sure it is accurate! If a Background check company includes information that is a matter of public record in your background check (such as information about your convictions), it must have verified the information within the previous 30 days before issuing its report. Additionally, a Background check company cannot include negative information about you that it got from talking to a person who knows you (for example, a former employer or a neighbor) UNLESS it has tried to confirm that information from another source, or has determined that that person is the best (or only) source of the information.

WHAT CAN I DO IF I THINK MY BACKGROUND CHECK REPORT IS INCOMPLETE OR INCORRECT?

You can challenge it! If you dispute Information in your background check, a background check company must investigate your claim.

If you notify a background check company in writing that information contained in your background check is incomplete, incorrect, or illegally included, the agency must investigate your claim. The agency has 30 days from the day it receives your challenge to begin its investigation. Once the investigation is complete, the agency must notify you of the results within 5 days.

If the agency finds that the original information was inaccurate, incomplete, or illegally included, it MUST delete or correct the information AND notify you of the correction.

IMPORTANT: The background check company MUST send the employer a NOTICE OF THE CORRECTION if you ask. If there was inaccurate, incomplete, or illegal information in your background check report, you have the right to make the background check company send a notice and statement of correction to ANY employer who received a copy of your background check in the past 2 years (or anyone else who received a copy of your background check in the past year).

For more information and instructions on how to dispute or correct information in your background check, go to the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.

WHEN HAS A BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANY VIOLATED THE LAW?

If a private background check company does any of the following actions, it has broken the law and violated your legal rights:

• Reporting information that is not legally allowed to show up in your background check report;

• Reporting inaccurate or out-of-date information, without first verifying that the information is correct and up-to-date beforehand;

\[CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18\]
\[CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.24. (Unless your claim does not include enough information to allow the agency to properly identify and investigate the information in dispute); see 50 U.S.C. § 1681.\]
\[CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.12(f), 1786.18; see also § 1786.20.\]
• Failing to report the final disposition of arrests or charges that did not result in a conviction (e.g., you were never charged, or the charges were dismissed); convictions that have been dismissed under Penal Code § 1203.4; or charges where you plead guilty to a lesser offense;\footnote{\texttt{1820}}
• Giving a copy of your background check report to someone who is not authorized to receive a copy—including an employer who has not promised to comply with legal requirements of notice and permission;\footnote{\texttt{1821}}
• Refusing to investigate or correct mistakes in your background check;\footnote{\texttt{1822}}
• Refusing to give you a copy of the report provided to your employer;\footnote{\texttt{1823}}
• Refusing to let you see the information that the Background check company used to conduct your background check; report;\footnote{\texttt{1824}}
• Reporting information on someone who has a similar name.\footnote{\texttt{1825}}

WHAT CAN I DO IF A BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANY HAS BROKEN THE LAW?

Generally, if you believe that a background check company has violated the law in conducting a background check on you, you can take the following actions:

Contact the background check company\footnote{\texttt{1826}}—First, you can contact the background check company directly to demand that it complies with the law. This is especially important because most violations by background check companies involve the nature of the information that the agency has provided. Contacting the agency directly is the quickest and most efficient way to clear harmful information from your background check.

Report the background check company to the Attorney General—If contacting the background check company directly does not solve the problem, you can report the agency to the California Attorney General. The Attorney General will investigate your claim and try to resolve it. You can report your claim by calling the Attorney General's Office of Public Inquiry Unit at (916) 322-3360 or toll free at 1-800-952-5225. You can also send a written complaint to: Attorney General’s Office, California Department of Justice, Attn: Public Inquiry Unit, P.O. Box 944255, Sacramento, CA 94244-2550

Report the background check company to the FTC—If the background check company has violated federal background check laws, you can report the background check company directly to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). The FTC has the authority to force background check companies to comply with

\textit{Summary of your rights against private background check companies}

- Background check companies CAN report information about convictions; pending arrests or criminal charges; lawsuits and civil (money) judgments against you; evictions; DMV driving records; and other personal information from within the past 7 years.
- Background check companies CANNOT report information about convictions; lawsuits; unpaid judgments; tax liens; or any other negative information that is more than 7 years old.
- Background check companies MUST check that information from public records is accurate and up-to-date.
- Background check companies MUST check that information they get from other people is accurate or from the best possible source.
- Background check companies MUST allow you to see the information they collect about you when conducting your background check.

IV. HOW EMPLOYERS CAN (& CAN’T) USE YOUR CRIMINAL HISTORY

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- How employers CAN and CAN’T discriminate against you based on your criminal record
- What employers CAN, CAN’T, and SHOULD consider about your criminal record
- What laws protect people with criminal records against discrimination
- Different types of illegal discrimination related to your criminal record
- What you can do if an employer illegally discriminates against you, and how to file a discrimination complaint
- The different government civil rights agencies that protect your rights against illegal discrimination
- What kind of remedies you may be able to get if an employer illegally discriminates against you
- How to locate an attorney, government civil agency, or non-profit organization to help you if you think an employer illegally discriminated against you

This section will explain the laws on how employers can (and can’t) use your criminal history to make employment decisions, and what you can do if you think an employer has illegally discriminated against you.

In general, the law says that employers should only consider your criminal history if it directly relates to your ability to do the job, and cannot use your criminal record to discriminate based on your race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. However, there is often a gap between what the law says on paper—about your rights as a job applicant or employee, and about the employer’s duties to treat you fairly—and how employers act in real life. In addition, it can be difficult to prove that an employer has illegally discriminated against you, which can make it difficult to enforce your rights. But it is IMPORTANT for you to know what your rights are on paper, and know how to spot illegal discrimination and protect yourself from certain violations in practice.
HELPFUL HINT:

Find an attorney or government civil rights agency to help you

If you think an employer has illegally discriminated against you the law, you may want to contact an attorney who can help you decide what to do next. There are 3 types of people who may be able help you:

1. Legal aid or employment attorney

Legal aid attorneys provide FREE legal assistance to people who cannot afford to hire a lawyer (like a public defender, but for lawsuits and other civil legal cases). Many private employment attorneys only charge fees if you win or settle a case, so you may not have to pay anything out-of-pocket UNLESS you win money from the employer. To find a local legal aid attorney or employment attorney in your area:

   • Call 211;
   • Contact the local county bar association, or look on the State Bar website at http://lawhelpca.org/find-legal-help; or
   • To find a list of employment attorneys in your area, visit the California Employment Lawyers Association website at http://www.cela.org/?page=4;
   • For a list of legal aid offices throughout California, see PG. 1190 at the back of this guide.

2. Government civil rights agencies

There are 2 government agencies responsible for enforcing your rights against illegal discrimination by employers. Because federal and state law are very similar, you can generally ask either agency to enforce your rights if you think an employer has illegally discriminated against you. For more information about how to report discrimination and file a complaint with the EEOC and DFEH, read the next section, starting on PG. 672.

   • The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) is the federal agency that enforces federal civil rights laws; and
   • The Department of Fair Employment & Housing (DFEH) is the California state agency that enforces your rights under state law.

3. Non-profit organizations

You can also contact a non-profit organization that helps people who have been discriminated against by employers based on their criminal record:

   • National Employment Law Project (NELP)—(510) 409-2427
     ○ http://www.nelp.org/index.php/content/content_issues/category/criminal_records_and_employment/
   • Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights (LCCR—San Francisco)—(415) 814-7610
   • Or other local organizations or clinics in your area—see PG. 1190 for more information on reentry legal aid services available in your area.
LEGAL AND ILLEGAL DISCRIMINATION

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS:

General overview of the law & your rights

- An employer CAN run a background check on you.
- An employer CAN consider your criminal history and use it to deny you a job.
- An employer CANNOT weigh your conviction history more heavily than another candidate's similar conviction history because of your race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.
- An employer CANNOT deny employment to everyone with a criminal history.
- An employer, however, CAN justify a hiring policy against people with criminal histories if it shows the policy is "job related" and "consistent with business necessity."\(^\text{1830}\)
- An employer SHOULD evaluate your individual circumstances and consider:
  - Facts and circumstances surrounding your offense;
  - The number of convictions in your history;
  - Your age at the time of conviction / release;
  - If you have held the same type of job, post-conviction, without incidents;
  - Your employment history before and after conviction;
  - Your rehabilitation efforts;
  - Employment or character references and any other information pointing to your fitness for the position; and
  - Whether you are bonded.\(^\text{1831}\)
- An employer SHOULD give you notice that you were denied employment because of your criminal history, and also give you a chance to show that it should make an exception for you based on your individual circumstances.

CAN EMPLOYERS LEGALLY DISCRIMINATE AGAINST ME (NOT HIRE OR FIRE ME) JUST BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

In a few situations, yes, but usually, NO. There are some laws that protect applicants from this discrimination. While employers are permitted under law to consider convictions that might impact your ability to do the job safely and adequately, there are laws that prohibit employers from treating you differently from other applicants or employees based on your race, sex, religion, national origin, and other protected characteristics.

While it is not always illegal for an employer to disregard applicants or fire employees because of their records, an employer’s hiring policy is more likely to be illegal if they have a complete ban on applicants with records. The correct and legal practice is for the employer to consider the individual circumstances of the person applying for the job.\(^\text{1832}\)

\(^\text{1830}\) Hiring policies excluding people based on criminal history must consider at least three factors in order to be "job related" and "consistent with business necessity": (1) the nature and gravity of the offense; (2) how much time has passed; and (3) the nature of the job sought. See Green v. Missouri Pac. R.R., 549 F.2d 1158 (8th Cir. 1977).

\(^\text{1832}\) EEOC Enforcement Guidance at § V(B)(9). Note: Employers are not necessarily required to give individualized consideration in all circumstances, but doing so will allow them to consider more complete information about the applicant, and will help them to show that the hiring policy—including the rejections of specific job applicants—is "job related and consistent with business necessity."
It is almost always illegal for an employer to have a complete ban on applicants with criminal records because these kinds of bans cause greater harm to Black and Latino applicants (“protected classes”) under Title VII (explained in detail in Appendix J, PG. 733)\textsuperscript{1833}. This is because Blacks and Latinos are incarcerated at dramatically higher rates than people of other races in the United States,\textsuperscript{1834} so excluding applicants with criminal records is likely to have a greater impact on Blacks and Latinos. A ban will only be upheld in court if the employer can show that the ban is “job related” and “consistent with business necessity”—meaning the conviction affects your ability to do the job, and the ban is necessary for the good of the business.\textsuperscript{1835}

If an employer chooses not to hire individuals based solely on their records, the employer must be able to show that this is necessary to ensure safe and efficient job performance for the position in question.\textsuperscript{1836} The courts have said that, in doing so, an employer must show the court that they evaluated an applicant’s ability to perform the duties of the job and whether an applicant’s conviction poses an unreasonable risk of harm, based on the particular requirements and responsibilities of the position.\textsuperscript{1837} Of course, these laws still give the employer a lot of discretion and room to discriminate, but they require the employer to do some analysis of each applicant.

HELPFUL HINT:

What does a complete ban look like?

Sometimes the employer’s job posting, employment application, written policy, or some other part of the application process will show that the employer does not hire or employ people with criminal records. The policy may apply to all convictions, certain types of convictions (e.g., all felonies, or all theft offenses), and/or for convictions that occurred during a certain period of time (e.g., within the past 7 years). Or the policy may not be written down anywhere, but the employer says that they do not hire people with (certain) criminal records, or the employer’s hiring practices over time show that they always reject applicants with (certain) conviction records. These are all examples of complete bans—and are likely illegal because of their effect on minority, protected groups.

IMPORTANT: If you see something, you can say something!

This section explains the civil rights laws that protect people with criminal records against discrimination by employers. However, there is often a gap between what the law says employers SHOULD do, and what employers ACTUALLY do in reality. And courts are still figuring out how these laws can fully protect people with criminal records in different situations, because there have not yet been many legal cases to enforce the rights of people with records under these laws. For this reason, it’s important that you talk to a lawyer and/or government civil rights agency if you think an employer has violated any of these laws. You won’t just be protecting your own rights—you’ll be standing up for the rights of all people with criminal records to be free from employment discrimination!

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS:

What is a protected class?

“Protected classes” are groups of people that have historically experienced discrimination, and therefore are specifically protected by civil rights and anti-discrimination laws—for example, African Americans, women, immigrants, LGBTQI individuals, and people with disabilities. The specific characteristic that makes someone part of a protected class—for example, their race, sex, national origin, sexual orientation or gender identity, and/or disability status.

Under the law, it is illegal to discriminate against someone based on a protected characteristic. However, it is generally NOT illegal to discriminate against someone for some other reason that is NOT protected (for example, the color of their shirt).

IMPORTANT: Having a criminal record is NOT considered a protected class under the law. However, discriminating against people with criminal records can still be illegal in many situations because it has a much greater effect on Blacks and Latinos. Also, it is illegal for an employer to treat people with similar records in a different manner, based on any protected characteristics. For more information about different kinds of discrimination based on criminal record, see PG. 678 below.

What groups are “protected classes” under the law? Under federal law, it is illegal to discriminate against someone for any of the following reasons:

- Race
- Color
- National origin
- Religion
- Age (40 and over)
- Sex
- Pregnancy
- Disability
- Genetic information

Under California law, it is illegal to discriminate against someone for any of the following reasons:

- Race
- Color
- National origin or ancestry*
- Religion
- Age (40 and over)
- Sex
- Pregnancy
- Family or marital status*
- Sexual orientation*
- Gender identity*
- Disability or medical condition*
- Genetic information
- Military or veteran status*
- *

In other words, California law protects all of the same characteristics as federal law, plus additional characteristics (marked with a "star") that are NOT protected by federal law.

WHAT LAWS PROTECT APPLICANTS FROM DISCRIMINATION BASED ON THEIR CRIMINAL RECORD?

The laws that give applicants some protection are the federal civil rights law called “Title VII,” the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission’s (EEOC) Enforcement Guidance, and California state laws that are very similar. Learn more about these laws in the Appendix J, PG. 733 and Appendix K, PG. 734.

---

1838 See EEOC Guidance. See also EEOC, Questions and Answers About Race and Color Discrimination in Employment, (EEOC Guidance May 16, 2006).

Under these laws, an employer cannot have a “blanket ban” policy that permanently excludes anyone with a criminal record. Instead, the employer’s hiring policy should only exclude convictions that are “job related for the position” and “consistent with business necessity.” This means that the employer should look at a number of factors when considering the convictions, such as:

1) The nature and seriousness of the conviction, AND
2) How much time has passed since the conviction, conduct, or completion of the sentence, AND
3) The nature of the job you’re seeking—including the specific duties and responsibilities of the job.

For a more detailed description of how employers should evaluate these factors, see the rules below.

Can an employer have a policy that excludes applicants who committed certain specific crimes?

Maybe. If an employment policy excludes ALL applicants who committed a certain crime (for example, theft), the employer must show that anyone who committed that crime can’t do the job properly or creates too much risk of harm in the position.

WHAT CAN AN EMPLOYER CONSIDER ABOUT MY CRIMINAL HISTORY?

Under the law, an employer SHOULD evaluate you as an individual, and should consider the circumstances of your criminal history, as well as any progress that you have made since the offense.

To conduct an individual assessment of you as a job applicant/ employee, the employer should abide by these rules:

1) Never make a permanent exclusion or “blanket ban” of people with criminal records. See PG. 676 above for more information on blanket bans.
2) Consider the following 3 factors to determine whether a specific conviction may be relevant to the job:
   a. The nature and seriousness of the conviction.
      i. The “nature” of the crime includes things like: the harm caused by the crime, and the legal elements of a crime—such as violence, theft, or fraud. The “seriousness” of the crime includes... crime would include, for example, consideration that misdemeanors may be less severe than felonies.

b. How much time has passed since the conviction, conduct, or completion of the sentence.
   i. Again, there should be no permanent exclusions of people with criminal records.
   ii. The employer should understand that the risk of recidivism decreases over time.

c. The nature of the job that you are seeking—including the specific duties and responsibilities of the job.
   i. The job title and nature of duties (e.g., data entry, lifting boxes);
   ii. The job’s essential or most important functions;
   iii. The circumstances under which the job is performed (e.g., the level of supervision, oversight, and the amount of agency the employee has);
   iv. The environment in which the job’s duties are performed (e.g., outside, in a warehouse, or in a private home).

3) Look at individual factors like:

   • The total number of convictions on your record;
   • Your age at the time of conviction or release from prison;
   • Evidence that you did the same type of work after your conviction (with the same or a different employer) with no known incidents of criminal conduct;
   • The length and consistency of your employment history before and after the offense or conduct;
   • Evidence of your rehabilitation and efforts to change—for example, education/training;
   • Mistakes in your criminal record;
   • Mitigating facts or circumstances surrounding the offense or conduct (mitigating facts are things that show your crime should be considered in a less harsh light; for example, if you were the victim of abuse or coercion at the time of the offense);
   • Personal and professional references who can talk about your employment record and character, and any other information regarding your fitness for a particular job; and
   • Whether you are bonded under a federal, state, or local bonding program.

HOW CAN I IMPROVE MY CHANCES OF GETTING HIRED IF THE EMPLOYER SEES MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

When applying for jobs, keep these individual factors in mind. Highlight the positive elements in your application and history so that employers are more likely to consider and weigh them favorably. Don’t lie about your background, but you can explain how it has made you a better person and worker. For more information about how to talk about your record, see Appendix D, PG. 718, “How to Present your Best Self: Tips for Success in Job Interview.”

---

1843 EEOC Enforcement Guidance at § V(B)(9).
WHAT CAN I DO IF I BELIEVE THAT AN EMPLOYER HAS A COMPLETE BAN ON HIRING PEOPLE WITH RECORDS?

If you believe that there is an illegal ban in place, it is important for you to gather all of your job application materials and other (detailed) evidence that supports your claim. You can also contact an employment attorney or agency that protects employees from discrimination. See the “Helpful Hint” box on PG. 672 above for how to contact one. The following evidence can help you to show that the employer has a policy of rejecting applicants with (certain) criminal records:

• A job posting that says the employer will not hire people with (certain) criminal records;
• A copy of the job application that says the employer will not hire people with (certain) criminal records;
• A copy of the employer’s written policy, employee handbook, or other document saying the employer will not hire people with (certain) criminal records;
• Information about other applicants whom the employer has hired or rejected for having a criminal record;
• If the employer has a reputation in the community for not hiring people with (certain) criminal records; and/or
• Comments or statements by the employer about not hiring people with (certain) criminal records, such as during an interview or when inquiring about the job—make sure you write it down! Try to write down exactly what the employer said, when, whom the employer was speaking to, what the circumstances were, and who else was there.1644

REAL LIFE SITUATIONS—EXAMPLES OF DISCRIMINATION INVOLVING CRIMINAL RECORD PLUS RACE (OR OTHER PROTECTED CHARACTERISTICS)

IMPORTANT: In real life, discrimination based on your criminal record doesn’t always happen alone—it may also happen in combination with racial discrimination or other illegal discrimination based on your protected class. For example, if an employer decides not to hire you due to your criminal record AND your race, this would be ILLEGAL racial discrimination.

CAN AN EMPLOYER DISCRIMINATE AGAINST ME BECAUSE OF MY RACE, COLOR, RELIGION, SEX, SEXUAL ORIENTATION, OR NATIONAL ORIGIN?

Absolutely not. Sometimes there is racism (or other discrimination against a protected class) in addition to discrimination based on criminal history. This happens when an employer weighs your criminal history more heavily or negatively because of your race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, or other protected class. This is absolutely illegal, but needs to be proven.

1644 EEOC Enforcement Guidance at § V(A).
The next question will explain what to do and how you may be able to prove that an employer used your criminal record to discriminate against you based on your race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, or other protected class.

Remember: Race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, and national origin are all protected classes—meaning they are illegal reasons to discriminate against someone. For more information, and a complete list of all protected classes, see PG. 675 above.

WHAT CAN I DO IF I THINK AN EMPLOYER HAS TREATED MY CRIMINAL HISTORY MORE HARSHLY THAN OTHER JOB APPLICANTS BECAUSE OF MY RACE, COLOR, RELIGION, SEX, SEXUAL ORIENTATION, OR NATIONAL ORIGIN?

If you believe that your criminal history was treated more harshly than someone else’s similar criminal history because of your race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, nation origin, etc., it is important for you to gather all the evidence that supports your claim, especially any information showing that the employer treated you differently than someone else with a similar record.

You can also contact an employment attorney or organization that specializes in protecting employees from discrimination. See PG. 672 for how to contact someone.

The following evidence can help you to show that the employer discriminated against you by treating your criminal record differently because of your race, sex, religion, national origin, or other protected characteristic:

- The employer hired other job applicants or employees with similar criminal records and similar job qualifications;
- The employer did not require background checks for other job applicants for the same position;
- The employer gave other job applicants a chance to explain their criminal record;
- The employer made comments showing bias or stereotypes about you, based on your race, sex, religion, or national origin, including group stereotypes about crime; or
- The only major difference between you and other applicants or employees who were treated more favorably than you (such as job applicants chosen over you, former employees, and employees in positions similar to the position you applied for), is your race, sex, religion, national origin, or other protected characteristic;
- Information about the employer’s overall workforce (i.e., other employees), job applicants, application procedures, and background check data, shows that the employer treated your criminal history more negatively than other applicants/employees of other races, sex, religions, or national origin; and/or
- Any other information showing that the employer treated you differently than other job applicants with similar qualifications and a similar criminal record, because of your race, sex, religion, or national origin.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS:
SUMMARY OF YOUR RIGHTS

- An employer CANNOT discriminate against you based on your race, color, religion, sex, national origin, or any other protected characteristic.
- An employer CANNOT weigh your criminal history more heavily than another applicant’s similar criminal history because of your race, color, religion, sex, national origin, or any other protected characteristic.

- An employer SHOULD give you notice that you were denied employment because of your criminal history, and give you a chance to show that it should make an exception for you based on your individual circumstances.

WHAT CAN I DO IF I FEEL I WAS ILLEGALLY DISCRIMINATED AGAINST?

If you think that an employer has illegally discriminated against you either because of a complete ban against people with criminal records or by treating your record negatively because of your race, sex, religion, or national origin, etc., you can report the employer to the EEOC or DFEH as soon as possible. (Remember, the EEOC and DFEH are the government civil rights agencies responsible for enforcing your rights against discrimination.)

You may want to talk to a legal aid or employment attorney, or non-profit advocacy organization about your situation. However, you will still have to go through the EEOC or DFEH first, before you are allowed to file a lawsuit in court against the employer. For this reason, it is recommended that you contact the EEOC or DFEH immediately, and then you can talk to a lawyer as well. For more information about finding a legal aid or employment attorney or non-profit organization, see PG. 672. For more information about filing a lawsuit, see PG. 682.

You must contact the EEOC or DFEH immediately because there are strict time limits for filing an employment discrimination complaint. In California, you only

File a Complaint by Contacting the EEOC:

If you decide to file a claim, you can contact the EEOC in person or by mail to report the employment discrimination and file a complaint.

- In person: The EEOC has local offices in the following California cities: Los Angeles, Fresno, San Diego, San Francisco, Oakland, and San Jose. Contact the local EEOC office near you to report discrimination and file a complaint. (See Appendix L, PG. 736 for local EEOC office addresses and phone numbers.) You can also call 1-800-669-4000 to give basic information about your situation, and then a local office will follow up with you about filing a complaint. (Important: You cannot actually file an EEOC complaint by phone, but you can get the process started.)

- By Mail: You can mail a written complaint to any local EEOC office. For instructions on how to write a complaint, see PG. 682, below. For a list of local EEOC offices and addresses, see Appendix L, PG. 736.

File a Complaint by Contacting the DFEH:

You can contact the DFEH by mail, by phone, or online to report the discrimination and file a “Pre-Complaint Inquiry”:

- By Mail: Fill out the Pre-Complaint Inquiry form and mail it to any local DFEH office. For a list of local DFEH offices and addresses, see Appendix M, PG. 737. To learn how to obtain the Pre-Complaint Inquiry form, see Appendix N, PG. 738.\textsuperscript{1849}

- By Phone: Call the DFEH Communication Center at (800) 884-1684. If you have a hearing impairment, please call 800-884-1684 or TTY at (800) 700-2320 for service.

- Online: Use the DFEH’s online system, available at http://esq5.houdiniesq.com/dfeh/intake/, or email the Pre-Complaint Inquiry form to contact.center@dfeh.ca.gov.

Once you file a complaint with the EEOC and/or the DFEH, you have 2 options:

1) You can ask the EEOC or DFEH to investigate and resolve the discrimination claim, including filing a lawsuit in court on your behalf; OR

2) You can file a lawsuit directly in court on your own, but you must ask the EEOC or DFEH to give you a “Right to Sue” letter. (Note: You cannot go directly to court—the law requires you to go through the DFEH or EEOC first.)\textsuperscript{1850}

LIMITS ON COMPENSATORY & PUNITIVE DAMAGES:

There are limits on the amount of compensatory and punitive damages a person can recover. These limits depend on the size of the employer:

- For employers with 15-100 employees, the limit is $50,000.
- For employers with 101-200 employees, the limit is $100,000.
- For employers with 201-500 employees, the limit is $200,000.
- For employers with more than 500 employees, the limit is $300,000.

42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(3)

WHAT KINDS OF REMEDIES MIGHT I GET IF AN EMPLOYER ILLEGALLY DISCRIMINATED AGAINST ME?

The types of remedies that might be available to you will depend upon what the employer did (the “discriminatory action”) and how it affected you. For example, if an employer refused to hire you for an illegally discriminatory reason, the remedy may include hiring you for the job or giving you any back pay or benefits that you would have received if you had been hired. If you filed a lawsuit in court, you may also get back any money you spent on attorney's fees, expert witness fees, and court costs.

You also may be awarded “compensatory” or “punitive damages.” For intentional cases of discrimination based on a person's race, color, national origin, sex (including pregnancy), religion, disability, or genetic information, compensatory and punitive damages may be awarded. Note: punitive and compensatory damages are rare, and should never be expected.

- Compensatory damages repay victims for out-of-pocket expenses caused by the discrimination (such as costs of continuing with a job search) and compensate them for any emotional harm suffered because of the discrimination.
- Punitive damages may be awarded to punish an employer who has committed an especially hateful or careless act of discrimination.

In addition, the employer may be required to stop any discriminatory practices immediately and take steps to make sure not to discriminate again in the future. For example, if the employer had a blanket policy of not hiring anyone with a criminal record, they would have to change this policy and remove any language on the job application that says people with convictions will not be hired.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN AN EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION (EEOC) COMPLAINT AND A DEPARTMENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING (DFEH) COMPLAINT?

The EEOC is the federal civil rights agency that enforces federal civil rights law. The DFEH is the state civil rights agency that enforces California civil rights law.

Federal and state civil rights laws are very similar. This means that in most cases, you can file a discrimination complaint with either the EEOC or the DFEH. Once you file a complaint with one agency, that agency will investigate your complaint and will ALSO send a copy of your complaint to the other agency.

---

This is called “dual filing,” but it is NOT something that you need to worry or about. Once you file a complaint with either the EEOC or DFEH, the agencies will take care of filing it with the other agency on its own, and you will not need to do anything else.

However, there are certain situations where it is better to file with one agency than the other.

THIS CHART EXPLAINS SOME OF THE SITUATIONS WHERE IT WOULD BE BETTER TO FILE WITH ONE AGENCY (USUALLY THE DFEH) OVER THE OTHER AGENCY.

HOW DO I FILE A DISCRIMINATION COMPLAINT WITH THE EEOC?

IN PERSON:
Contact the local EEOC office near you to report the discrimination and make an appointment. Some EEOC offices may also have walk-in times when you can file a complaint without an appointment. Check with the local office to find out if this is available. (For a list of local EEOC offices and contact information, see Appendix L, PG. 736.)

When you go to the EEOC office, bring any information or papers that are related to your situation. For example, you might bring a copy of the job posting or application, any letters or documents you received from the employer, notes that you took about discriminatory statements made by the employer, or a list of other people who know about what happened. You can also bring anyone you want to come with you, such as a friend, translator, or anyone else to provide assistance or support.

At the EEOC office, you will meet with an EEOC representative and complete a questionnaire to provide information about the job discrimination you experienced. The representative will ask you for details about your experience, the employer, and when and where the discrimination occurred, and will decide whether Title VII covers your situation. If so, the EEOC representative will explain the process for filing a formal complaint, called a “Charge of Discrimination,” and will help you to write up and file the complaint if you want to go forward. (If Title VII does not cover your situation, the EEOC will give you information about where you can go for help, but you will not be able to file an EEOC complaint.)

BY MAIL:
You can file a complaint by writing a letter to the EEOC that includes the following information:

• Your name, address, and telephone number;
• The name, address and telephone number of the employer whom you want to file your charge against;
• How many employees work there (if you know this information);
• A description of the actions that you believe were discriminatory (for example, you were fired, demoted, harassed, or not hired);
• Why you believe you were discriminated against (for example, the employer hired other people with a similar criminal history, or did not require background checks for other applicants, or gave other applicants a chance to explain their conviction record; or the employer made biased comments);
• When the events took place; and
• Your signature (Important: The EEOC cannot investigate your complaint unless you sign the letter!)

You can also include additional information or documents, such as copies of the job posting or application or names and contact information of other people who know what happened or have information. (Important: If you are sending documents, make sure you make a copy first—keep the original for yourself and send the copy to the EEOC.)

WHAT IF THE EEOC DISMISSES MY COMPLAINT RIGHT AWAY?
If your complaint was not filed within the time limit, or if the EEOC decides that your situation is not covered by Title VII, the EEOC will dismiss your complaint (close your case) right away. The EEOC may also dismiss your complaint right away if it decides that it probably will not be able to prove discrimination. If your charge is dismissed, you will be notified.

Important: Even if the EEOC dismisses your complaint, you may still be able to file a complaint with the DFEH for the same discrimination.

---

You can mail your letter or deliver it in person to the nearest EEOC office. The EEOC will contact you if they need more information about your situation and may send you a questionnaire to fill out and return. Afterward, they will put all your information into an official EEOC complaint (“charge”) form, and will contact you so that you can sign the form.1863

Note: You can also call the EEOC at 1-800-669-4000 to start the process, but you will still have to go through the steps above to file a formal written complaint.1864

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER I FILE A COMPLAINT WITH THE EEOC?

This is a brief summary of what happens after you file a complaint. For a complete description of each step, see Appendix O, PG. 739.

HOW DOES THE INVESTIGATION PROCESS WORK?

STEP 1: Filing a Complaint (see above).

STEP 2: Notifying the Employer.

Within 10 days, the EEOC will send a notice and a copy of the charge to the employer. The EEOC may ask both you and the employer to agree to participate in mediation, which is an informal way of trying to resolve the problem instead of filing a lawsuit.

STEP 3: Employer’s Response.

If your case is not sent to mediation, or if mediation doesn’t resolve the problem, the EEOC will ask the employer to respond (submit a written answer) to the charges, and answer any questions that the EEOC has about your complaint. Then your complaint will be given to an EEOC investigator for investigation.

STEP 4: Investigation.

How the EEOC investigates a complaint depends on the specific facts of your case and the kinds of information that will be helpful. In some cases, an EEOC representative may visit the employer, interview other employees or witnesses, and gather documents. The EEOC may also interview you again, or ask you for more documents or information. It’s very important to cooperate and keep in touch with the EEOC!

STEP 5: Decision.

After the investigation is completed, the EEOC will issue a decision to let you and the employer know the results. The decision will say either:

• NO CAUSE—meaning the EEOC did NOT find any evidence that the employer illegally discriminated against you; or
• REASONABLE CAUSE—meaning the EEOC thinks the employer DID illegally discriminate against you.

STEP 6: Your Options After the EEOC Decision.

Depending on what the EEOC decision says, these are your options:

• NO CAUSE decision—The EEOC will send you a Right-to-Sue notice, which allows you to file a lawsuit in court against the employer on your own. You must file a lawsuit within 90 days (approximately 3 months) after receiving the Right-to-Sue Notice; otherwise it will be too late.

- REASONABLE CAUSE decision—The EEOC will try to reach a voluntary settlement (called “conciliation”) with the employer. Conciliation usually means that the employer agrees to pay you to cover the harm from the discrimination.
  - If the EEOC can’t reach a settlement with the employer, the EEOC may decide to file a lawsuit against the employer on your behalf.
  - If the EEOC decides not to file a lawsuit, it will give you a Right-to-Sue notice, which allows you to file a lawsuit against the employer on your own. You must file a lawsuit within 90 days (approximately 3 months) of receiving the Right-to-Sue Notice; otherwise it will be too late.

For more information about each of these steps, see Appendix O, PG. 739.

HOW DO I FILE A COMPLAINT WITH THE DFEH?

The process for filing a complaint with the DFEH is almost the same as filing a complaint with the EEOC. For a complete description of how to file a complaint with the DFEH, and what happens after you do, see Appendix P, PG. 741.

WHAT IF I WANT TO GO STRAIGHT TO COURT AND FILE A LAWSUIT ON MY OWN?

Under Title VII (and California law also), you cannot go straight to court—you must begin by filing a complaint with the EEOC or DFEH first. This is called “exhausting your administrative remedies.”

However, once you file your complaint, you can choose to file a lawsuit against the employer instead of asking the EEOC (or DFEH) to investigate and resolve your complaint.

If you want to file a lawsuit right away, you must ask the EEOC for a Right-to-Sue notice, which is a legal document that allows you to file a lawsuit in court on your own. However, you generally have to give the EEOC 180 days to investigate your complaint first.

- If it has been more than 180 days (6 months) since you filed your complaint, the EEOC is required to give you a Right-to-Sue notice.
- If it has been less than 180 days, the EEOC will give you a Right-to-Sue notice only if its own investigation will take longer than 6 months.

To request a Right-to-Sue notice, send a written letter to the local EEOC office that is handling your complaint. Once you get the Right-to-Sue notice, you only have 90 days to file your lawsuit in court.

IMPORTANT: Once you get the Right-to-Sue notice, the EEOC will dismiss your complaint and will not do anything more to investigate or resolve your case. So if you want the EEOC to continue to help with your case, DON’T request a Right-to-Sue notice.

---

HELPFUL HINT:

Even though you can’t go straight to court, you can still talk to a legal aid or employment attorney, or non-profit employment advocacy organization to get advice about your situation. When doing so, you should ALSO contact the EEOC or DFEH right away, so that you can get your complaint filed on time (and then request a Right-to-Sue if you still want to go to court).
The process for requesting a DFEH Right-to-Sue notice is very similar. For more information on how to request a Right-to-Sue from the DFEH, see http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/res/docs/Complaints/Right%20to%20Sue%20form%20(3%20pages).pdf.
V. JOBS & PROFESSIONS
YOUR RECORD MIGHT EXCLUDE YOU FROM

WHAT WILL I LEARN?
• What types of jobs you may be disqualified from getting, based on your criminal record
• When and how you may become eligible for these jobs in the future

LEGAL RESTRICTIONS ON CERTAIN JOBS

ARE THERE CERTAIN TYPES OF JOBS I CAN’T HAVE BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Unfortunately, yes... But this is very rare. Although we don't want to give you bad news, we also want to give you the information you need to decide which jobs will be best for you! There are a few situations when having a criminal record—or having certain types of convictions on your record—will disqualify you from getting certain types of jobs. It is important that you know about these situations beforehand, so that you can realistically set your sights on jobs that you can have.

Although this list is incomplete, below are some examples of jobs that have legal restrictions for people with certain criminal convictions. In general, these are jobs where you would have access to private or sensitive information (like financial records); vulnerable people (like children or the elderly), or high-security places, where there might be a greater risk of harm to the public.

• Airport security screeners (or anyone with unsupervised access to secure airport areas);\(^{1870}\)
• Federal law enforcement officers;\(^{1871}\)
• Defense contractors;\(^{1872}\)
• Prisoner transportation personnel;\(^{1873}\)
• Port workers;\(^{1874}\)
• Bank employees;\(^{1875}\)
• Insurance personnel;\(^{1876}\)
• Jobs that administer employee benefits plan;\(^{1877}\)
• Childcare workers in federal facilities or agencies;\(^{1878}\)

• Working for a school district in a position that requires certification or a supervisory capacity (if you have been convicted of a felony defined as serious or violent under law).\textsuperscript{1879}

NOTE: Most of the time, if an employer cannot hire a person with a record for certain types of job positions, the employer may still be able to hire that person for other positions. If an employer says that they cannot hire you for a job based on your criminal record, you should ask whether there are any other positions available that you could take instead.

CAN I EVER BE ELIGIBLE AGAIN TO GET THESE JOBS?

It depends. Each of these jobs has very specific rules about what convictions will disqualify you, and whether and how you can become eligible for them again. It will depend on the specific laws, regulations, and other rules that apply to that type of work.\textsuperscript{1880} It is recommended that you ask a lawyer to review your RAP sheet and explain how your convictions will affect your ability to get the job you want. See PG. 672 for how to contact an attorney.

• For some jobs, you are only disqualified for a certain period of time, and then you will become eligible after that time has passed.
• For many jobs, you can become eligible if your conviction is expunged, or if you get a Certificate of Rehabilitation or a pardon for the conviction.
• For some jobs, you can request a waiver or exemption for your conviction, which means asking the government to make an exception to the law based on your individual circumstances. You may need to present evidence of rehabilitation and other factors showing that your conviction does not pose a risk of harm and therefore you should not be disqualified because of it.
• If you think you were disqualified based on incorrect information in your record, you may be able to appeal the disqualification and show that you should NOT be disqualified according to the law. For example, if you were not actually convicted of the offense that caused you to be disqualified for the job (e.g., the charges were dismissed, or you pleaded guilty to a lesser offense that does NOT disqualify you), you can appeal and present court records showing that you were not convicted of that offense.

LEGAL RESTRICTIONS ON CERTAIN PROFESSIONAL LICENSES

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• What professional and occupational licenses are and what they require
• How your criminal record may affect your ability to get a professional or occupational license
• What kinds of information a licensing board can consider about your criminal record
• When a licensing board can deny you a license based on your criminal record
• What to do if a licensing board denies your application for a license because of your criminal record
• What to do if you used to have a professional or occupational license, but lost it due to a criminal conviction
• Other groups you can contact for assistance or additional information about professional and occupational licenses

Many people with criminal records CAN and DO get professional and occupational licenses to work in the jobs of their choice. If you want to work in a job that requires a license, don’t be discouraged! Although it can be harder to get a license with a criminal record, this section will help you to understand your rights and how to increase your chances of getting the license you want!

WHAT ARE PROFESSIONAL AND OCCUPATIONAL LICENSES AND WHAT DO THEY REQUIRE?

In California, people who work in certain jobs are required to get a license from the state to do so. There are over 200 professions in California that require a professional or occupational license—ranging from barbers and cosmetologists, to security guards, nurses and nursing assistants, teachers, doctors and lawyers. Professional and occupational licenses are granted and regulated by different licensing boards, agencies, and bureaus (over 40 in total, each for a different industry), all under the control of the California Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA).

Applying for a professional or occupational license generally requires submitting fingerprints, paying various application fees, and proving that you meet certain educational and/or work experience requirements, which are set by the particular licensing board that you’re applying to.

HELPFUL HINT FOR OCCUPATIONAL LICENSES:

If you are thinking of applying for a professional/occupational license, you should talk to an attorney or reentry program counselor for advice and assistance. They can help you to better understand the specific barriers and opportunities you may have, depending on your record and the type of license you want.

WHAT KINDS OF JOBS REQUIRE A PROFESSIONAL OR OCCUPATIONAL LICENSE?

There are over 200 kinds of jobs in California that require a professional or occupational license. Here is a list of just a few of the most common ones:

- Barber
- Cosmetologist
- Security guard
- Child care worker or Family child care provider
- Teacher
- Contractor
- Real estate agent
- Pharmacist or Pharmacy technician
- Nurse or Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA)
- Home Health Aide (HHA) or Personal Care Aide (PCA)
- Dentist, Dental assistant, or Registered dental hygienist
- Physical therapist or Physical therapist assistant
- Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) or Paramedic

To find out whether the specific job you want requires a professional or occupational license, contact the Department of Consumer Affairs at (800) 952-5210. You can also ask the DCA for information on how to contact the specific licensing board that oversees that profession. To learn more about specific licensing requirements for the job you want, you will need to contact the licensing board that oversees that profession.

- For a list of licensing boards and their contact information, go to http://www.dca.ca.gov/publications/dca_booklet.pdf.
- For links to each of the licensing boards, go to http://www.dca.ca.gov/about_dca/entities.shtml.

CAN I GET A PROFESSIONAL OR OCCUPATIONAL LICENSE WITH MY CRIMINAL HISTORY?

It depends on what type of license you are trying to get, what kind of conviction(s) you have on your record, and what kind of rehabilitation efforts you have participated in.

Some types of professional/occupational licenses may have extremely strict rules about criminal records, while other types of licenses may be more lenient. It is best to check with the licensing board for the profession you want to enter to find out its most current criteria.

WHAT INFORMATION CAN THE LICENSING BOARD CONSIDER ABOUT MY CRIMINAL HISTORY?

When you apply for a license, the licensing board can see your entire record—including convictions that have been “expunged. (Note: Regular employers generally CANNOT see expunged convictions—but licensing boards are different.) However, the board cannot deny your licenses based ONLY on the fact that you have a conviction.

---

1831 CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 480(a)(1).
CAN THE LICENSING BOARD DENY ME A LICENSE BASED ON MY CRIMINAL HISTORY?

The licensing board can deny your application for a license based on a criminal conviction, but ONLY if your conviction is “substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of the business or profession” you are trying to get licensed for. This means that the type of conduct you were convicted for—for example, theft, selling drugs, violence, or fraud—creates a high risk of harm, or otherwise prevents you from safely completing the specific tasks and responsibilities of the job that you want a license for. For example, a conviction for drug distribution might be considered “substantially related” to a pharmacist license, since pharmacists have access to lots of drugs and are responsible for safely providing drugs to other people.

Even if the board determines that your conviction relates to the qualifications of your chosen profession, California law requires that the licensing board also consider any evidence of rehabilitation or other positive factors that you show. Each licensing board is also must create its own criteria to evaluate your rehabilitation efforts. Although they’re all slightly different, most boards focus on the amount of time that has passed since your conviction; whether you successfully completed parole or probation; whether you have shown remorse; your change in attitude; alcohol or drug counseling; your pursuit of education or vocational training; the stability of your family; and your community involvement.

If you have gotten a Certificate of Rehabilitation from the state of California, the law specifically prohibits a board from denying a professional license based solely on your criminal conviction.

In addition to actual convictions, a licensing board is also allowed to consider “any act involving dishonesty, fraud, or deceit” that you have done “with the intent to substantially benefit” yourself or someone else, or “substantially injure another.” However, as with convictions, the act must also be substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of the job.

HELPFUL HINT: Submit a Pre-Approval Application When Possible

The Board of Barbering & Cosmetology has a special early application process for people with criminal convictions who want to apply for a license. You can submit an initial application and find out ahead of time whether you will be able to get a license, before you go through any training or pay any fees.

Note: You will still have to complete all of the training and examination requirements, in order to get your actual license.

Therefore, for example, a statute constitutionally can prohibit an individual from practicing a lawful profession only for reasons related to his or her fitness or competence to practice that profession.”).

ROADMAP TO REENTRY

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

If you prepared for your license while incarcerated...

Many individuals are able to learn new job skills or complete professional license requirements while in prison or jail. In the past, licensing boards were allowed to delay or deny your license application just because you had completed the licensing requirements while incarcerated.

Now, a new California law makes it illegal for a licensing board to delay your application or deny your license based solely on the fact that you completed some or all of the licensure requirements while you were incarcerated. If you otherwise qualify for the license, it no longer matters that you were incarcerated when you prepared for it.

IMPORTANT: The new law does NOT change any other rules about whether you can get a license. This means that licensing boards CAN still deny your license based on your conviction, if they determine that the conviction is substantially related to the qualifications of the job. Also, the law does NOT change any rules about when you can apply for a license or whether you can apply while you’re still incarcerated.

CAN I APPLY FOR MY LICENSE WHILE I’M STILL INCARCERATED?

It depends. Each licensing board has different standards and requirements. Some may require you to wait a certain amount of time after your conviction or release, before you can be eligible. In addition, most licensing boards will consider the amount of time that has passed since your conviction, and may give more weight to time after you were released or once you were off supervision.

For this reason, even if you’re not specifically required to wait, you still may be more successful if you wait to apply until after you’re released.

WHAT CAN I DO IF THE BOARD DENIES MY APPLICATION FOR A LICENSE?

You can appeal your denial.

If the board denies your license, you generally have the right to appeal the board’s decision, and to have an appeal hearing. The licensing board must make a decision within a reasonable time after the appeal is filed. You have the right to request a hearing if you disagree with the decision of the licensing board.

SPECIAL PROGRAM FOR GETTING YOUR COSMETOLOGY LICENSE WHILE INCARCERATED

If you are incarcerated at Valley State Prison, California Women’s Institute, or Central California Women’s Facility (Chowchilla), there is a special program that can help you to get your cosmetology license while you’re incarcerated. You can complete your training school AND take the licensing exam in these facilities, meaning it is possible to already have your license in hand by the time you’re released.

IMPORTANT: This program does NOT stop the licensing board from considering your criminal conviction, and does NOT change any of the other qualifications to get your license. In other words, the licensing board can still deny you a license if the board decides that your conviction is substantially related to the duties and responsibilities of a cosmetologist.

1889 CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 480.5. Important exception: This new law does NOT cover chiropractic licenses, so if you apply for a chiropractic license and completed some of the requirements while incarcerated, the Board of Chiropractic Examiners CAN deny or delay your application for this reason.

1890 See, e.g., 10 CAL. CODE REGS. § 2911(a) (Department of Real Estate rehabilitation criteria requires “[t]he passage of not less than two years since the most recent criminal conviction or act of the applicant that is a basis to deny the departmental action sought. (A longer period will be required if there is a history of acts or conduct substantially related to the qualifications, functions or duties of a licensee of the department.).

1891 See Donley v. Davis, 180 Cal. App. 4th 447, 467, 469 (2009) (upholding licensing board determination that there was “not sufficient evidence of rehabilitation” where the applicant’s conviction was “relatively recent and he [had] just finished probation”).

administrative hearing before a neutral administrative law judge. At the hearing, you have the right to present evidence of your rehabilitation and argue your case for why you deserve a license. For a general overview of what the appeals process is like, see Appendix Q, PG. 743.

WHAT CAN I DO IF I USED TO HAVE A LICENSE, BUT LOST IT DUE TO A CRIMINAL CONVICTION?

If you previously had a professional license, your license may have been revoked (permanently taken away) or suspended (temporarily taken away) because of your criminal conviction. In this case, you generally have the right to ask the licensing board to reinstate (re-issue) your license to you, or to reduce your penalty and return your license sooner. To do this, you must first wait at least 1 year from the date your license was taken away, and then submit special forms (a petition) and other documents to the licensing board. Each licensing board may also have different or additional requirements, such as completing your term of probation or parole first, before you can ask for your license to be returned. (Note: Although you can apply to have your license reinstated while you are still incarcerated, you are unlikely to be successful if you apply while you’re still inside.)

The licensing board will give you a chance to present your reasons for why your license should be returned or reissued. This may be during a hearing, or by sending in a written statement. The Attorney General will also have a chance to argue for why your license should not be returned.

In order to get your license back, you will generally need to prove that you have been rehabilitated since your offense—particularly since you were released from prison or jail. This means showing that you have changed your life for the better, taken steps to improve yourself and correct previous bad habits, and successfully completed the requirements of your sentence. The board may also consider the nature and severity of the offense, how much time has passed since the conviction, whether the conviction has been dismissed, any other convictions on your record, and letters of recommendation or good character from people who know you.

WHO CAN HELP ME IF MY LICENSE HAS BEEN DENIED OR TAKEN AWAY DUE TO A CRIMINAL CONVICTION?

There are some non-profit organizations that may be able to help if your license has been denied or taken away due to a criminal conviction. These are just a few examples of organizations that can help, but there may be others in your area:

- Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights (LCCR)—San Francisco (Phone: (415) 814-7610; Website: http://www.lccr.com/programs/racial-justice/direct-services/second-chance-legal-clinic/)
- East Bay Community Law Center (EBCLC)—Alameda County (Phone: (510) 548-4040, Website: http://ebclc.org/documents/Clean_Slate_Flyer.2015.pdf)
- A New Way of Life (ANWOL) Reentry Project—Los Angeles (Phone: (323) 563-3575; Website: http://www.anewwayoflife.org/clean-slate/)
- For more information about finding a legal aid or employment attorney, or a non-profit advocacy organization, see PG. 672.

WHERE CAN I GO TO LEARN MORE ABOUT PROFESSIONAL LICENSES?

The California Department of Consumer Affairs oversees all of the different licensing boards and bureaus in California. For a list of licensing boards and links to more information about each board—including the specific licensing requirements and disciplinary rules for each board—visit the Department of Consumer Affairs website at http://www.dca.ca.gov/about_dca/entities.shtml. For a list of licensing boards and their contact information, go to http://www.dca.ca.gov/publications/dca_booklet.pdf. VI. ALTERNATIVES TO TRADITIONAL EMPLOYMENT

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• Other ways of working and earning an income that are different from traditional employment, including:
  o Self-employment or starting your own business o What an independent contractor is and how to become one o Joining a worker-run cooperative business o Applying through a temp agency
  o Taking short-term or temporary positions to get your foot in the door
• Where to look for more information about each of these options

Throughout your job search, keep in mind that traditional employment is NOT your only option. There are many other ways of working and earning legitimate income—like starting your own business, joining a worker-run cooperative business, or going through a temp agency—and you may decide that one of these is better for you.

This section will explain some of the alternatives to traditional employment that you may want to consider:

• Self-employment
• Starting your own business
• Becoming an independent contractor
• Joining a worker-run cooperative
• Applying through a temp agency
• Taking short-term jobs or temporary positions to get your foot in the door

HELPFUL HINT:
Talk to a trusted person, or someone from a local reentry or workforce development program, for other ideas about alternative work opportunities that may be available.

CONSIDER SELF-EMPLOYMENT OR START YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Some people find it more fulfilling and empowering to be their own boss. Self-employment can give you more control over the type of work you do, freedom and flexibility to make your own decisions, and greater responsibility within the workplace. It also gives you more legal and business responsibilities, such as managing money and product, paying taxes, marketing your business and supervising employees.
There are many resources available for people who want to start a business—good places to start are your local library, the Internet, or classes at a local community college or adult school. Also, many non-profit organizations and government agencies now offer assistance to people who want to start their own business. If you think that self-employment may be a good option for you, you’ll find a list of organizations and other resources for starting your own business in Appendix R, PG. 745.

BECOME AN INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR

Being an independent contractor is a form of self-employment somewhere between being an employee and running your own business. Employers usually hire independent contractors to do specific tasks or short-term jobs—like painting a house, installing plumbing, or doing landscaping work. The job usually ends automatically once the task is finished, although the employer can always hire the independent contractor again for another task.

The BIG difference between independent contractors and employees is that, under the law, independent contractors are considered to be self-employed. This means that independent contractors have more control over the work they choose to do. They also have legal responsibilities—like filing self-employment taxes and reporting certain business information to the government—and fewer legal rights in the workplace. On the other hand, employees have more legal rights and protections in the workplace, but the employer gets to control the work they do.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS: Am I an independent contractor or employee?

Important: In some cases, an employer may call you an independent contractor, even though you are ACTUALLY an employee. The difference between an employee and an independent contractor is important, because you have more rights (and the employer has more responsibilities) if you are an employee; and you have fewer rights (and the employer has fewer responsibilities) if you are an independent contractor.

Sometimes an employer will get this wrong by accident, but other times an employer may misclassify you on purpose in order to avoid fulfilling their duties under law. According to the law, whether you are an employee or an independent contractor depends on the specific details of your work situation—NOT on what the employer calls you. For this reason, it’s important that you know the difference so that you don’t get taken advantage of!

For more information on the difference between independent contractors and employees, and your rights and responsibilities in each situation, see the Appendix S, PG. 747.
 KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

What can I do if I think an employer has wrongly classified me as an independent contractor OR violated my rights as an employee?

The California Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE) is the state agency responsible for enforcing your rights in the workplace. If you think an employer has violated your rights as an employee, wrongly classified you as an independent contractor, and/or for more information, you can contact your local DLSE office and speak with Deputy Labor Commissioner. To find a local DLSE office near you, go to [link] or call 1-844-LABOR-DIR (1-844-522-6734) for assistance.

For more information about your rights in the workplace, contact The Legal Aid Society—Employment Law Center’s Workers Rights Clinic at 415-864-8208 (San Francisco Bay Area) or 866-864-8208 (toll free in CA). Or contact a local legal aid attorney in your area.

JOIN A WORKER-RUN COOPERATIVE BUSINESS

A worker cooperative is a business that is owned and controlled by its workers. In other words, the workers are both the employees AND the employer. Usually, workers run the day-to-day operations of the business—such as making business decisions, assigning tasks to each person, etc., as well as the business’s finances. Although each person has a different level of responsibility, all workers are considered to be equal members and have equal power within the business.

Any business can be a worker-owned and controlled cooperative. Worker co-ops have been successful in many different industries. Some examples are:

- Service—housecleaning, day labor, restaurants, taxis, childcare
- Farming and food production—urban or community farms, community-supported agriculture programs, bakeries, restaurants
- Retail—grocery stores, bookstores, bike shops
- Health care—nursing, home health care, clinics, bodywork
- Skilled trades—printing, plumbing, woodworking, contracting
- Manufacturing and engineering—machine parts, fabricating
- Technology—web hosting, networking, voice and data systems
• Education—charter schools, teacher/student/parent-run schools
• Media and the arts—designers, galleries, performers, publishers

APPLY TO WORK THROUGH A TEMP AGENCY

Temp agencies (also called staffing agencies) help match people who are looking for work with employers who want to hire them. Temp agencies can often help you to find a short-term job or part-time job quickly, which, in some cases, can get your foot in the door for a permanent position in the future. In addition, some temp agencies specifically focus on helping people with criminal records get jobs, and they work with employers who are open to hiring applicants with criminal records.

Another benefit of going through to a temp agency is that once you apply to the agency, they can place you in jobs with many different employers who want to hire. Applying to a temp agency is similar to applying for a job directly with the employer—it will likely include an interview, checking your references, and possibly even doing a background check. The temp agency may also have you take an assessment test to evaluate your work strengths and skills. It still can be easier to apply through a temp agency rather than an employer, because most agencies always want to increase their pool of employees to choose from, and employers often prefer to hire temp workers because it’s cheaper.

If you’re interested in applying to a temp agency, here are some things to keep in mind:

• Not all temp agencies are the same! Just like employers, some temp agencies are better to work for than others. Ask around to find a temp agency that treats employees well and has a good record of placing people in jobs. Some things to ask about are: how long people usually have to wait before getting placed with an employer; how long most jobs last; what employers the temp agency works with; whether the agency places many people with criminal records; and how the agency treats people.
• Different temp agencies may focus on different types of jobs or different industries. Each temp agency is different, so the application requirements and process may be different from one agency to another. If there are several different temp agencies available in your area, do your homework to find out which one is right for you.
• When you apply through a temp agency, you will have to sign a contract with the agency that makes you an employee. Any offers of work that you get, either temporary or permanent, must go through the agency. The contract may even prohibit you from looking for work on the side, outside of the agency. If you want to look for other work on your own, you may need to ask the agency to release you from your contract. Before you sign up with a temp agency, talk to someone from a local reentry or workforce development program for advice about finding a good temp agency and what to expect.
agency, it is recommended that you read all the fine print and ask questions about anything you don’t fully understand!

- The temp agency is responsible for paying the employees who they send to work for an employer. The employer will pay the temp agency—NOT the employee—for the work, and then the agency takes a cut of the money and gives the rest to the employee. For example, if the employer pays the temp agency $20/hour for each employee, the agency may keep $5/hour of pay and then pay the employee $15/hour.

- Beware of any temp agency that charges you a fee for job placement! Most agencies collect their fees from the employer—NOT from the job applicant or employee.

TAKE SHORT-TERM JOBS OR TEMPORARY POSITIONS TO GET YOUR FOOT IN THE DOOR

If an employer seems uncertain about hiring you, ask if they would give you the opportunity to prove yourself by starting work in a short-term, part-time, or temporary position, or for a test period. This gives you a chance to show the employer that you are a hard worker, and that you can work safely and responsibly. It can also help get your foot in the door for a long-term job afterward. If you do well during the testing period, you can ask the employer to consider hiring you for a permanent or full-time job, or at least to keep you in mind if a permanent job opens up in the future.

If you’re participating in a workforce development program or have enrolled at an America’s Job Center, you can also ask whether they have any special programs that let you get paid for doing on-the-job training or getting work experience with an employer. These programs are great because they help you to develop your job skills, get training, and practice working for an employer—and get paid at the same time! In addition, these programs can sometimes turn into longer-term employment afterward, because an employer may be more willing to hire you once you prove yourself in training.¹⁹⁰³

VII. HOW TO PROTECT YOUR RIGHTS IF YOU HAVE A DISABILITY

DISABILITY & REASONABLE ACCOMMODATIONS IN EMPLOYMENT

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• What is considered a disability under the law
• How your disability might affect your job search
• What a “reasonable accommodation” is, and what kinds of accommodations you can request
• How to request a “reasonable accommodation,” and what you will need to show
• When an employer is NOT required to provide a “reasonable accommodation” for your disability
• What to do if an employer refuses to provide a “reasonable accommodation”
• How to learn more about your employment rights and your disability

This section will explain the laws that protect workers (including job applicants and employees) with disabilities against employment discrimination. It will explain what types of disabilities are protected against discrimination, what your rights are if you have a disability, and what you can do if an employer violates your rights or discriminates against you based on your disability.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

General Overview of the Law & Your Rights

• Under state and federal law, past drug addiction, alcoholism, and mental illness are all considered disabilities
• Current drug use OR using drugs or alcohol at work are NOT considered disabilities
• An employer CANNOT discriminate against you based on a disability
• An employer MUST provide you with “reasonable accommodations” for your disability (with 3 exceptions)
• If your conviction was CAUSED by your disability, an employer MUST make a “reasonable accommodation” for your criminal record (with 3 exceptions)
• The federal EEOC and state DFEH are the government civil rights agencies that enforce your rights against discrimination based on your disability
EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION RESOURCES

Find an attorney or civil rights agency to help you

If you think an employer has illegally discriminated against you based on your disability, you may want to contact a lawyer who can help you decide what to do next. There are 3 types of resources that may be able help you:

(1) Legal aid or employment attorney

Legal aid attorneys provide FREE legal assistance to people who cannot afford to hire a lawyer (like a public defender, but for lawsuits and other civil legal cases). Many private employment attorneys only charge fees if you win or settle a case, so you may not have to pay anything out-of-pocket UNLESS you win money from the employer. To find a local legal aid attorney or employment attorney in your area:

• Call 211;
• Contact the local county bar association, or look on the State Bar website at http://lawhelpca.org/find-legal-help; or
• Visit the California Employment Lawyers Association website at http://www.cela.org/?page=4;
• For a list of legal aid offices throughout California, see PG. 1190.

(2) Government civil rights agencies

There are 2 government agencies responsible for enforcing your rights against illegal discrimination by employers. Because federal and state law are very similar, you can generally ask either agency to enforce your rights if you think an employer has illegally discriminated against you. For more information about how to report discrimination and file a complaint with the EEOC and DFEH, see PG. 707.

1. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) is the federal agency that enforces federal civil rights laws; and
2. The Department of Fair Employment & Housing (DFEH) is the California state agency that enforces your rights under state law.
3. Non-profit organizations

You can also contact a non-profit organization that helps people who have been discriminated against by employers based on their disability:

1. Disability Rights California—http://www.disabilityrightsca.org/
   o Offices in Oakland, Fresno, Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Diego—see PG. 1190 for local office contact information
2. Disability Rights Legal Center—http://www.disabilityrightslegalcenter.org/o Call (213) 736-1334 or (866) 999-DRLC (3752) for assistance
   o Call (510) 644-2555
4. For other local organizations or clinics in your area—see PG. 1190.
WHAT IS A DISABILITY UNDER LAW?

California law defines a disability as any physical or mental impairment that limits one or more of your major life activities (such as walking, talking, working, or taking care of yourself).

What counts as a physical disability in California?

A physical impairment is any disease, physical disorder, physical condition, or disfigurement that:

- Affects one or more of your body systems (i.e. your heart, your eyes) or functions (i.e. breathing, speaking); AND
- Limits a major life activity.

What counts as a mental impairment?

A mental impairment is any mental or psychological condition that limits a major life activity. Examples of mental impairments are:

- Intellectual disabilities
- Brain disease
- Emotional or mental illnesses (such as schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, or clinical depression)
- Learning disabilities
- Any other mental or psychological condition that requires special attention or services (such as autism, obsessive compulsive disorder, or PTSD).

IMPORTANT: Disabilities based on substance abuse

Under state and federal law, the following conditions are considered disabilities that are protected against discrimination:

- PAST drug addiction (NOT current drug use)
- Alcoholism (past or present)

If you were or currently are affected by either of these conditions, you are protected against discrimination based on your condition, and employers are required to make “reasonable accommodations” for your condition.

BUT it will NOT count as a protected disability IF:

- You are currently using illegal drugs; OR
- You use drugs or alcohol at work in violation of the employer’s rules or policies.

1908 42 U.S.C. § 12114(a),(c); 2 CAL. CODE RGS. § 7294.2(d)(2).
1909 42 U.S.C. § 12114(a),(b); 2 CAL. CODE RGS. § 7294.2(d)(2).
IF I HAVE A DISABILITY, HOW MIGHT THIS AFFECT MY JOB SEARCH?

State and federal laws provide special protections for job applicants and employees with disabilities. These laws require employers to make “reasonable accommodations” that allow someone with a disability to apply for and work in a job just like anyone else.

Remember, physical disabilities are not the only disabilities that are recognized. The following conditions are also considered disabilities—meaning employers are required to make “reasonable accommodations” for you if you have any of these:

- PAST drug addiction (NOT current drug use)
- Alcoholism (past or present)
- Mental illness

IMPORTANT: To be protected by state and federal disability laws, you must also be qualified for the job you seek.

WHAT DO I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN MY DISABILITIES AND MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

If you can show that your disability caused your conviction, you may be able to ask an employer to make “reasonable accommodations” for your situation—for example, by making an exception to a policy against hiring people with your type of conviction, or by considering your criminal record under an easier standard. At least 2 federal courts have agreed that employers can be required to provide reasonably accommodations for employees whose workplace violations were caused by prior substance abuse, after the employees had later completed rehab programs. See more examples of reasonable accommodations during the job search, and when you apply, on PG. 704.

If you have suffered from one of the conditions listed above, it is possible that your criminal conviction(s) may have been the result of your disability—in other words, you committed the offense because of your mental illness or past drug or alcohol addiction.

WHAT KINDS OF ACCOMMODATIONS CAN I REQUEST?

You can request any accommodation that is reasonable and necessary so that you can be considered for the job like any other applicant or perform the job like any other employee. Each situation is different, so the type of accommodation you request will depend on your particular circumstances and the type of work or employer involved. These are just a few examples of accommodations you may request:

- Making an exception to a hiring or employment policy that restricts applicants/employees with certain types of convictions;
- Disregarding a conviction caused by your disability;

HELPFUL HINT:
You can also have someone else talk to the employer for you, to ask for the accommodation you need. In this case, you may want to ask your case manager, social worker, legal aid attorney, or another trusted person who is helping you with your job search, to speak with the employer on your behalf.

---

1910 42 U.S.C. §§ 12114(a)-(b), 12210 (Americans with Disabilities Act); CAL. GOV’T CODE § 12926; 2 CAL. CODE REGS. § 7293.6.
• Considering your conviction under an easier standard;
• Giving you an opportunity to explain your conviction and provide additional (medical) evidence of your disability and rehabilitation;
• Giving you time off to attend treatment programs;
• Disregarding workplace violations caused by your disability.

The employer is not necessarily required to provide the exact accommodation that you ask for—but MUST provide an accommodation that has the same effect. For example, the employer might be allowed to rearrange your work schedule—rather than give you time off—so that you can attend treatment programs.

EXCEPTIONS: There are 3 situations where an employer is NOT required to provide a reasonable accommodation for your disability: 1) where the accommodation will cause the employer “Undue Hardship,” 2) where the reasonable accommodation would present a “Direct Threat” to the safety of others or property, or 3) where the employer shows that you CANNOT safely perform essential job functions. For more information about these exceptions, see Appendix U, PG. 751

After you request a reasonable accommodation, the employer has to genuinely consider your request, and talk to you about what types of accommodations could help your situation. The employer can also ask you for more information about your disability to help with the decision. An employer CANNOT simply ignore your request OR wait an unreasonable amount of time to respond, hoping that you give up.

If an employer decides NOT to hire you based on your disability, the employer MUST give you a chance to get a medical opinion about your condition from an independent doctor. If the employer refuses to let you get an independent opinion, it may be violating the law.

WHAT WILL I NEED TO SHOW TO GET A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION?

To get a reasonable accommodation for your conviction, you must show two things:

1) Your conviction was caused by your disability. This means a. Explaining to the employer that you have a disability and what the disability is; AND
   b. Providing any documents you have regarding your disability and treatment, including:
      i. Letters from doctors or service providers (a) saying that you experienced drug or alcohol addiction, mental illness, and/or some other disability at the time of the offense, and (b) describing how your disability affected you;
      ii. Letters from doctors or service providers showing that you successful completed a rehabilitation program or are

---

1912 For example, an employer could choose to provide a different type of accommodation that is less expensive or less burdensome, so long as the different accommodation is effective at removing the particular employment barriers you face. EEOC, Enforcement Guidance on Reasonable Accommodation and Undue Hardship Under the Americans with Disabilities Act, No. 915.002 (Oct. 17, 2002).
1914 See Cal. Dep’t of Fair Emp't & Hous., Fair Employment and Housing Act.
participating in effective ongoing treatment of your mental illness or other disability;

iii. Letters from doctors or service providers that show you are no longer using substances and/or you are receiving appropriate treatment to control the symptoms of your mental illness or other disability.

REMEMBER: It may be difficult to prove that your criminal conviction was caused by your drug or alcohol addiction, mental illness, or other disability. It is important that you submit as much evidence as possible! It’s best if you can have a doctor submit a letter confirming that you have a disability and how it affects you.

2) The accommodation that you’re asking for is “reasonable” and “necessary.” This means showing that—

a. The change is necessary for you to apply for or work at the job on an equal basis with other applicants or employees—for example, if the employer does not make an accommodation, your application would be rejected due to your conviction history;

b. It’s not too expensive or burdensome for the employer to make the change;

c. It doesn’t fundamentally change the employer’s business operations;

d. There is a relationship between your disability and the change you are requesting—in other words, you are only asking for an exception for the specific convictions that were caused by your disability, NOT other, unrelated convictions that you might have.\(^\text{1915}\)

For more information about requesting a reasonable accommodation, see Appendix U, PG. 751. To see a sample letter requesting a reasonable accommodation, see Appendix V, PG. 752.

BUT REMEMBER: Just because you committed a criminal offense when you were suffering from a mental illness or a past drug addiction does not mean you automatically have the right to a reasonable accommodation on your job application today. It can be very difficult to prove that your disability caused your criminal offense, AND that the disability is the type that qualifies you for a reasonable accommodation. Although these reasonable accommodation requests can be difficult, it can be worth asking for them!

Remember, just like with other discrimination complaints, you only have 300 days to file a complaint with the EEOC, or 1 year to file a complaint with the DFEH! For more information about finding a legal aid or employment attorney or non-profit organization, see PG. 672 above. For more information about filing a lawsuit, see PG. 707 below.

WHAT CAN I DO IF THE EMPLOYER REFUSES TO MAKE A REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION FOR ME? HOW CAN I CHALLENGE THE DECISION?

If you believe that an employer denied your request for a reasonable accommodation due to your disability and/or your past drug use, you can file a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (federal employment protection agency) or with California’s Department of Fair Employment and Housing (the state employment protection agency).\(^{1916}\)

The complaint process is the SAME for disability discrimination (an employer’s refusal to provide reasonable accommodations) as for other types of illegal discrimination based on your criminal record (e.g., discrimination based on your race, religion, sex, national origin, etc.). See PG. 682 for more information on filing a discrimination complaint with the EEOC or the DFEH and what to expect.

Even if you want to want to file a lawsuit against the employer, you will still have to file a complaint with the EEOC or DFEH first. (This is just like suing an employer for discrimination based on your criminal record—see PG. 686 above for more information.)

IF I TRY TO SUE THE EMPLOYER IN COURT, WHAT MUST I PROVE?

To sue an employer under the federal ADA (FHA), California’s Fair Housing and Employment Act (FEHA), or other state anti-discrimination laws (such as California’s Unruh Civil Rights Act),\(^{1917}\) you must show that your status as an individual with a disability was a motivating factor in the employer’s decision to deny your reasonable accommodation request.\(^{1918}\) You must also provide evidence that your disability substantially limited your ability to live a normal life,\(^{1919}\) that the requested accommodation is reasonable and necessary, and (for a disability related to substance abuse) that you are not currently using illegal drugs.\(^{1920}\)

Remember, you CANNOT sue an employer in court until AFTER you’ve filed a complaint with the EEOC or DFEH and received a Right-to-Sue notice.

NOTE: You should be prepared for the employer to argue that you do NOT have a protected disability because you are a “current user” of illegal drugs, or that you are not being treated for your mental illness.\(^{1921}\) You can support your request by providing treatment records showing that you have not used drugs for a significant period of time, or that you are receiving treatment for your mental illness.\(^{1922}\) You should also provide evidence of your participation in or

For example, you could testify (speak in court) or write an affidavit (legal letter) about how your own addiction, at one time, made you unable to care for yourself or your family, or substantially limited one or more major body functions. You could also provide affidavits or testimony of family members or others. It is not necessary to provide evidence from a treatment program, though that certainly can be helpful.

How to Present Your Best Self: Proof of Rehabilitation

EXPUNGE MENTS, PARDONS, AND CERTIFICATES OF REHABIL ITATION*

If you have had your conviction expunged or pardoned, or you received a Certificate of Rehabilitation, give the employer a copy! Give them to the employer along with your completed job application or during your interview. (Important: Make sure you only give the employer a photocopy and keep the original documents for yourself.)

OTHER REHABILITATION DOCUMENTS

These include any certificates, diplomas, letters of recommendation, or other documents that show your accomplishments since your conviction, and that you have turned your life around for the better. Here are just some examples of things you can bring:

• Certificates or diplomas for any programs that you completed while inside or after your release—e.g., vocational training and job skills, anger management, substance abuse, GED classes, etc.;

• Letters of support from people who know you and can speak to your good character or work ethic—e.g., a former employer, pastor at your church, case manager or social worker, volunteer coordinator, or personal friend.

• Certificates from any professional training or school courses you’ve completed;

• Proof of other jobs or volunteer work that you’ve done since your conviction; and/or

• Discharge papers from a rehabilitation facility.

• For more suggestions about how to get evidence of rehabilitation, this guide can help you: How to Gather Evidence of Rehabilitation (Legal Action Center), available online at: http://lac.org/wp-content/uploads/2014/12/How_to_Gather_Evidence_of_Rehabilitation_2013.pdf
APPENDIX D

How to Present Your Best Self:
Tips for Success in Job Interviews

These tips can help you succeed in job interviews, especially if you have to answer any difficult questions about your criminal record. Here are some suggested steps and tips:

STEP 1: Thoughtfully answer each interview question.

Here are some tips for addressing your criminal record and answering other tough questions during a job interview:

- Own it! Take responsibility for your actions. State the facts, but express regret for what happened. Don’t get defensive.
- Don’t go into details. Keep your answers short. Be honest, but only talk about necessary information based on the questions you are asked.
- Tell the employer how you have changed. Emphasize that the incident happened long ago and that you are a different person now. Explain what you learned while you were in prison/jail, and what you are doing differently now. Highlight any services that you’re getting to help you move on. Paint a picture of the person you are now.
- Emphasize your qualifications. Describe the things that will make you a good employee—such as previous work experience, job training programs, or classes that you’ve taken. Show the employer why you are qualified for the position and will be a benefit to the company.
- Describe your hopes and dreams. Show the employer than you are in control of your life and have short-term and long-term goals. Highlight any programs or services that you’re participating in to help you move on and achieve your goals. Emphasize that you would be very appreciative of the opportunity to work for them, and you will be the hardest worker they will ever have.

DON’T LIE! If the employer finds out the truth (though a background check, or later on after you’ve been hired), they can reject or fire you for lying—regardless of your record and qualifications for the job!

The most important question of all is “Why Should I Hire You?” Remember, the most important thing to show is that you are qualified for the position and that you will benefit the employer’s company if they hire you. You should also be ready to explain why you are interested in the job. Be sure you have all of these answers prepared and practice them beforehand.

IMPORTANT: What if the employer asks an illegal question or asks about something that should not have been included in your background check? See PG. 645 for more information about what you can do in this situation.

STEP 2: Ask your own questions.

Often, employers will give you a chance to ask them questions at the end of an interview, so it’s best to have several questions prepared beforehand. Here are some sample questions you can ask that demonstrate your interest in the position and the company—the answers will make you look better!

- What is most important for you (my boss) to be happy with me if I get this job?
• What would you like me to accomplish in the first couple of weeks on the job?
• Why did the person who had this job before leave?
• Any other questions showing that you’ve done your homework to research and learn about the company.
• DON’T just ask about wages, hours, or benefits!

STEP 3: Practice beforehand!

If possible, you should try to do a practice (“mock”) interview before the real thing with your case manager, social worker, counselor, or family or friends. Have the other person pretend they’re the employer and ask you interview questions, so that you can practice giving your answers. Remember, even if you have your answers prepared on paper or in your head, things will sound different when you try to say them out loud!

STEP 4: Be polite and confident during the interview.

Here are some things to keep in mind when it’s time for the interview:
• Dress up! Show the employer that you take yourself—and the job—seriously by presenting your most professional self. Dress like you were going to court, to church, or to some other important event.
• Be polite! Make sure to thank the employer for giving you the chance to interview for the job, and shake the interviewer’s hand. Do this BEFORE and AFTER the interview.
• Be positive and confident! Smile, make eye contact with the interviewer, and show that you are confident in your abilities to be a good employee. Go in with the mindset that you are the best applicant for the job and you will get hired.
• Take notes! Bring a pencil and paper so that you can write down any important information or questions during the interview. Always start by writing down the interviewer’s name so that you can follow up afterward!

STEP 5: Follow-up after the interview.

After the interview, it’s important to follow up—this will help to make sure the employer doesn’t forget about you and shows you’re still interested in the job.

• Send a thank you note. A thank-you note will help you stand out from other job applicants. It shows how professional and polite you are, and it gives you another opportunity to sell yourself or re-answer a question that you didn’t handle very well during the interview. Address the note to the person who interviewed you (this is why it’s important to write down their name during the interview).
• If you don’t get the job, you might consider calling the hiring manager to ask for feedback. You could say something along the lines of: “I know you decided to hire someone else, but I just wanted to find out why I didn’t get the job. I’d appreciate knowing the reason, because your feedback will help me in my job search.” You may get feedback that could actually influence the employer to reconsider your application. If not, you’ll at least receive some useful information that will help with future interviews.

Benefits for Employers: Federal Bonding Program

This section explains all the eligibility requirements of the Federal Bonding Program and how to apply for the program.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR THE FEDERAL BONDING PROGRAM?

In order to be eligible for the federal bonding program, you must meet the following requirements:

1. Have a firm job offer (or be already employed) at a job that is likely to be long-term or permanent. The EDD staff will need to verify that the employer is ready to hire you (or keep you on the job) once you have bonding insurance.
2. Be qualified for the job position being offered. In other words, the only thing preventing you from getting the job is the lack of insurance.
3. The position that you are being hired for requires you to be bonded, or you are required to be bonded to remain on the job.
4. You are not commercially bondable, or could be denied commercial bonding coverage because of an arrest record or imprisonment, history of drug or alcohol abuse, poor credit history, lack of employment history, dishonorable discharge from the military, or other “risk” factors.
5. You are 18 or older and legally eligible to work in the U.S. You will have to provide proof of your legal status or documentation for authorization to work in the United States.
6. Are not self-employed or an owner/operator.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR THE FEDERAL BONDING PROGRAM?

STEP 1: Visit your local EDD Workforce Services location or America’s Job Center of California (formerly One-Stop Career Center). The only document you need to bring is proof of legal status or eligibility to work in the U.S. (see list of employment verification documents, Appendix A, PG. 711)—you do NOT need to bring any other paperwork. The EDD staff will contact the employer and/or do other research to make sure that you meet all the other eligibility requirements;

STEP 2: The EDD staff person certifies (approves) the bond; and STEP 3: Your insurance coverage will begin as soon as you begin work.

Two important things about bonding:

• Your employer can only get free insurance coverage for the first 6 months that you work there; after that they will have to purchase insurance directly. If you lose your job after 6 months and you suspect that your employer dumped you so that it would not have to pay insurance, you may want to contact the EDD.

There is an EDD office locator available online. CALIF. EMPLOYMENT DEVELOPMENT DEPT., Office Locator, http://www.edd.ca.gov/office_locator/.
• If you switch to another job that also requires bonding, there is no guarantee that you will be able to get insurance with the new employer. The EDD will decide on a case-by-case basis whether or not to issue you another round of bonding. For this reason, we recommend that you only use the bonding program for jobs that are likely to be long-term or permanent—NOT for temporary positions.

The EDD is here to help you! The EDD wants to make sure that all bonding program participants are successful in their work and are treated equally by employers. If you have any questions or problems about getting bonded, contact the EDD State Bonding Coordinator at 916-654-9309.

For more information on the government bonding program:

• Visit any EDD America's Job Center of California or Workforce Services location

Local “Ban the Box” Laws in California

WHAT IS “BAN THE BOX”?

WHAT IS THE CALIFORNIA “BAN THE BOX” LAW ALL ABOUT?

As of July 1, 2014, state and local agencies can’t ask about your criminal history by any method—verbally (e.g., during an interview), in writing, or on a job application—until after it has decided that you meet the minimum qualifications for the job.\(^\text{1933}\)

WHO DOES THE STATEWIDE “BAN THE BOX” LAW APPLY TO?

The STATEWIDE law applies to public employers (meaning California state and local governments and agencies), but not private employers and not federal government agencies. However, LOCAL laws might provide more protection for applicants. See more below.

WHAT EXTRA PROTECTIONS EXIST IN CERTAIN COUNTIES AND CITIES?

Certain cities and counties throughout California have passed their own local “Ban the Box” laws. Some of these local laws give more protection to job applicants with criminal records than the state law does. These local laws only protect you if you are applying for a job within that city or county.

The following cities and counties have local “Ban the Box” laws that provide EXTRA protection for applicants with records:

- San Francisco City and County—(see PG. 724)
- Richmond—(see PG. 728)

The following cities and counties have local “Ban the Box” laws but they don’t provide extra protection for applicants with records:

- Alameda County
- Berkeley
- Carson
- Compton
- East Palo Alto
- Oakland
- Pasadena
- Santa Clara County.\(^\text{1934}\)

We will cover two current local laws in this Appendix: (1) the San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance (SFFCO) and (2) the Richmond Ordinance. These laws are changing quickly, though, so you should regularly check the status of “Ban the Box” laws in your city and county to be sure you are up-to-date on current law.

(Note: San Francisco has separate Ban-the-Box laws for public employers (city and county agencies) and private employers (SF Fair Chance Ordinance). The law for public employers only allows background checks for job position finalists, and requires individualized consideration using EEOC criteria. The law for private employers requires individualized consideration using EEOC criteria, requires employers to give you a copy of the background check report if they intend to take adverse action based on the results, and gives you the right to appeal any denial of employment.)

APPENDIX G

San Francisco Fair Chance Ordinance

If you are applying for a job with a company located in or doing business in the City or County of San Francisco, read this Appendix!

WHAT IS SAN FRANCISCO’S LOCAL “BAN THE BOX” LAW CALLED?

It is called San Francisco’s Fair Chance Ordinance (SFFCO). It went into effect on August 13, 2014. ¹³³⁶

WHO DOES SFFCO APPLY TO?

SFFCO applies to private employers with 20 or more employees ¹³³⁷ and city contractors and subcontractors ¹³³⁸ located or doing business in the City and County of San Francisco. It does not matter where the employees are physically located, as long as the employer is located in or doing business in San Francisco.

CAN PRIVATE EMPLOYERS IN SAN FRANCISCO HAVE “BLANKET BANS” AGAINST CRIMINAL RECORDS IN A JOB AD OR SOLICITATION?

No. Employers cannot put “blanket bans” (like “no felons” or “no convictions”) in any job ad or solicitation. Ads cannot directly or indirectly express that individuals with a conviction history will not be considered for employment or cannot apply for a position with that employer. The employer MUST:

• State in any job ads or solicitations that it will consider applicants with criminal histories;
• Post in any workplace a notice of your rights as a job applicant or employee under the SFFCO. (This notice must be in the language(s) that the majority of the employees speak.)

WHAT CAN’T A PRIVATE EMPLOYER IN SAN FRANCISCO ASK ME ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD UNDER SFFCO?

A private employer in San Francisco may never ask about or consider:

1. An arrest not leading to a conviction (except arrests that are still pending or unresolved).
2. Participation in a diversion or deferral of judgment program. A diversion program (such as a drug rehabilitation program) helps a person charged with certain crimes avoid criminal charges—and therefore a criminal record.
3. A conviction that has been sealed, dismissed, expunged, or made inoperative.
4. Juvenile records.*
5. A conviction more than 7 years old (based on the date of sentencing).*
6. A criminal offense other than a felony/misdemeanor (for example, an infraction, which is a petty offense that usually comes with a ticket and small fine). ¹³³⁹ *

NOTE: All records marked with a * indicate additions to the California state law protections described on PG. 633.

¹³³⁸ S.F. Admin. Code § 12T.
¹³³⁹ S.F. POLICE CODE, Art. 49, San Francisco's Fair Chance Ordinance.
WHAT CAN A PRIVATE EMPLOYER IN SAN FRANCISCO ASK ME ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

AFTER you are found to be qualified for the job, a live interview has been conducted, or a “conditional offer” of employment has been made, only then can a private employer in San Francisco ask about and consider information from your criminal record—it can only consider the following:

1. Your conviction history from the last 0-7 years (based on date of sentencing)—so long as it is not one of the 6 things a private employer in San Francisco can NEVER ask about (listed above) and is directly related to your ability to do the job.
2. Your pending or unresolved arrests—if directly related to your ability to do the job.

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENT: If a private employer in San Francisco decides to ask about and consider your conviction history from 0-7 years ago or any pending/unresolved arrests, then the employer must also consider:

1. Only “directly-related convictions”—those that directly and negatively relate to your ability to perform duties essential to the job. For example: Will the job give you an opportunity to commit the same crime? Are the factors that led to your crime likely to recur at this particular job? If not, then the employer cannot consider those convictions;
2. The time that has passed since your conviction; AND
3. Any evidence of errors in your record, your rehabilitation efforts, or other helpful information you offer. This would include things like:
   a) Completion of parole or probation;
   b) Recommendations from employers;
   c) Education or vocational training;
   d) Completion or active participation in rehabilitation programs;
   e) Letters of recommendation from organizations or individuals who have interacted with you since your conviction.

WHEN CAN A PRIVATE EMPLOYER IN SAN FRANCISCO ASK ABOUT MY CRIMINAL RECORD? WHAT DOES THE PROCESS LOOK LIKE?

PHASE 1: At the beginning of the hiring process, a private employer located or doing business in San Francisco cannot ask about:

1) Your conviction history — meaning the employer cannot ask about your criminal convictions on a job application form, during a job screening, in an informal conversation, or otherwise.
2) Your pending or unresolved arrests, whether in a job application form, during a job screening, in an informal conversation, or otherwise.

PHASE 2: The employer must decide that you meet the minimum qualifications for the job, conduct a live interview, or make a conditional offer of employment before asking about or considering certain information in your criminal record.

PHASE 3: Before a private employer in San Francisco can about your convictions from 0-7 years ago or any unresolved arrests that directly relate to your ability to do the job, it must:

1) Give you notice of the Fair Chance Ordinance; and
2) Give you notice that follows the requirements of California state and U.S. federal laws governing employment background checks.

---

\[1940\] S.F. POLICE CODE, Art. 49, San Francisco’s Fair Chance Ordinance.

\[1941\] S.F. POLICE CODE, Art. 49, San Francisco’s Fair Chance Ordinance.
PHASE 4: Only AFTER a private employer in San Francisco has conducted a live interview or made a conditional offer of employment AND has given you all the required notice under federal law, state law, and the SFFCO law, can the employer use information in a background check report, ask about, and consider:

1) Your conviction history from the last 0-7 years, if it is outside of the 6 things you can never ask about (discussed above) AND if it directly relates to your ability to do the job.
2) Your pending or unresolved arrests, if they directly relate to your ability to do the job.

PHASE 5: Before a private employer in San Francisco fires, refuses to hire, chooses not to promote, or takes other action that harms you based on a conviction history from 0-7 years ago or an unresolved arrest, the employer must give you an opportunity to present evidence that:

- The information is inaccurate;
- You have been rehabilitated, including letters of support and other evidence that you have:
  o Satisfied and completed the terms of parole/probation;
  o Received education and/or training;
  o Participated in alcohol or drug treatment programs;
  o Letters of recommendation;
  o Been free of criminal behavior for a sufficient time period to have changed, based on your age at the time of the conviction; and
- All other mitigating factors that led to the conviction and explain or reduce the severity of your criminal behavior, including evidence of:
  o Coercion (you were forced or threatened into doing the illegal act);
  o Physical or emotional abuse (you were experiencing physical or emotional violence that led him/her to do the illegal act); and/or o Untreated substance abuse/mental illness that contributed to the conviction (you were addicted to drugs or alcohol, or had a serious mental health issue, and had not received specialized health care treatment for one of those issues).

WHAT IF THE EMPLOYER STILL DECIDES TO NOT HIRE OR PROMOTE ME, FIRES ME, OR TAKES SOME OTHER NEGATIVE EMPLOYMENT ACTION AGAINST ME?

Before the employer makes a final decision about any negative action against you, it must:

1) Give you with a copy of the background check report that it based its decision on;
2) Notify you that it intends to take negative action against you;
3) Tell you why you were denied (what the exact issue was in your conviction history); and
4) Give you 7 days to provide information about any errors in your report or your rehabilitation efforts.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER THE 7 DAYS?

The employer may take a reasonable amount of time to reconsider your application in light of any additional information you have offered. It is recommended that you use that one-week period to be very proactive in clearing up information in your record, providing evidence of errors or rehabilitation, etc. If the employer still decides not to hire you based on your conviction history and all the information you have provided, it must give you final notice of its decision.

WHAT YOU CAN DO IF AN EMPLOYER VIOLATED THE SAN FRANCISCO FAIR CHANCE ORDINANCE (SFFCO):

WHAT CAN I DO IF I THINK A SAN FRANCISCO EMPLOYER HAS VIOLATED THE SFFCO?

You can report the violation to San Francisco’s Office of Labor Standards Enforcement (OSLE), and you have 60 days to do so. Call the OSLE office at (415) 554-5192. You can also email the office at fce@sfgov.org (see the OLSE website at: www.sfgov.org/olse/fco for more information).

CAN THE EMPLOYER RETALIATE AGAINST ME FOR REPORTING A VIOLATION TO THE OSLE?

No. An employer may not retaliate against you for exercising your legal rights or for cooperating with the Office of Labor Standards Enforcement (OSLE).

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN I REPORT A VIOLATION?

First, San Francisco’s OLSE will investigate the employer. Second, if the OLSE finds a violation, it may “order any appropriate relief.” This usually means that the OLSE will give a warning or fine the employer:

- If it is the employer’s first violation, or if it occurs before August 13, 2015 (any time in the first year that the SFFCO law is in effect), the OLSE will issue a warning and give the employer a chance to change its policies.
- If there are additional violations after the first warning, the OLSE will begin fining the employer for each violation.
- If the employer refuses to comply in a timely manner, OLSE may refer the case to the City Attorney to file a civil action against the employer for relief.

CAN OLSE FORCE THE EMPLOYER TO GIVE ME THE JOB?

Probably not. In general, OLSE will NOT force an employer to hire someone, even if the employer violated the law by rejecting you for the job. However, OLSE has been very successful at resolving violations informally, simply by talking with the employer and applicant. For example, OLSE might ask the employer to reconsider your application, give you the opportunity to apply for another job, or let you submit a new application without prejudice.

---

1944 Telephone call with Donna Mandel, Compliance Officer, SF Office of Labor Standards (Feb. 20, 2015). In addition, the law has an unfortunate loophole that allows employers to lawfully reject an applicant if the conviction is “directly-related” the position, and OLSE has NO authority to judge or enforce what qualifies as a “directly-related conviction.” S.F. Police Code §§ 4904(f), 4909(a)(1) (San Francisco’s Fair Chance Ordinance, effective Aug. 13, 2014).
APPENDIX H

City of Richmond, CA: “Ban the Box” Ordinance

If you are applying to a job with a company located or doing business in the City of Richmond, read this section!

WHAT IS THE CITY OF RICHMOND’S LOCAL “BAN THE BOX” ORDINANCE?

It is a law (a city ordinance) that prevents certain types of employers—all contractors and subcontractors getting money from the City of Richmond, with at 10 or more full-time employees—from asking about criminal convictions in the initial job application.

WHAT DOES THE ORDINANCE REQUIRE/PROHIBIT?

The Richmond “Ban the Box” law prohibits these types of employers (city-paid contractors and subcontractors) from asking any questions regarding prior criminal convictions on any printed or online employment application forms. The ordinance prohibits employers from making “any inquiry into an applicant’s conviction history.”

SO AN EMPLOYER IN RICHMOND CAN NEVER ASK ABOUT MY CONVICTION HISTORY?

Not exactly. There are exceptions:

Exception 1: The Richmond ordinance does not prohibit employers who are required by state or federal law to conduct background checks from looking into your conviction history.

Exception 2: The ordinance does not prohibit employers looking to fill “Sensitive Positions” from considering your conviction history. A “Sensitive” position is a position that has one or more of the following job characteristics:

• Regular unsupervised handling of large amounts of cash;
• Regular unsupervised handling of other people’s private, personal, and confidential information
• Regular unsupervised contact with children under 16;
• Regular unsupervised contact with the elderly or disabled;
• Regular unsupervised responsibility for operating a bus, taxi, or limousine used to transport the general public;
• Any position in a business that requires regular unsupervised entry into private premises;
• Any position in a business that involves unsupervised handling of hazardous substances.

WHEN CAN AN EMPLOYER ASK ABOUT MY CONVICTION HISTORY?

If the employer falls under one of the exceptions, the employer can only conduct a background check after determining you are otherwise qualified for the position AND after extending a conditional offer of employment to you.

1946 Municipal Code of the City of Richmond, Article II, Chapter 2.65.040.
1947 Municipal Code of the City of Richmond, Article II, Chapter 2.65.
HOW CAN AN EMPLOYER CONSIDER MY CONVICTION HISTORY?

An employer can only consider convictions that are “substantially job-related,” and must conduct an individualized assessment, considering: the amount of time that has elapsed since the conviction; and any evidence of rehabilitation or other mitigating circumstances.

WHAT IF THE EMPLOYER DENIES ME A JOB BECAUSE OF MY CONVICTION HISTORY?

If an employer denies you a job because of a substantially job-related conviction, it must: give you a written notice of rejection, including how the conviction is related to the job; and give you the opportunity to correct any mistakes in your record and offer evidence of rehabilitation or other mitigating circumstances.

WHAT CAN I DO IF AN EMPLOYER HAS VIOLATED THE RICHMOND ORDINANCE?

The most obvious violation of the ordinance is failure to remove all questions regarding criminal history on the initial job application. Although all employers must file a copy of their standard application with the city as part of the formal bidding process, mistakes can happen. If you think a covered employer in Richmond has violated the ordinance, contact the City Manager (Bill Lindsay at the time of publication):

450 Civic Center Plaza, Suite 300;
Richmond, CA 94804;
Phone: (510) 620-6512;
Fax: (510) 620-6542

WHAT HAPPENS TO AN EMPLOYER WHO VIOLATES THE RICHMOND ORDINANCE?

Employers have 30 days from receiving the notice of a violation to comply with the ordinance. The Richmond City Manager also has the legal authority to fine employers, to suspend or terminate their lease or contract with the city, to deny future leases or contracts, or to order any other legal remedy available.
APPENDIX I

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA)

Employers must give you this document with the Pre-Adverse Action letter before taking any adverse action against you based on the results of your background check.

See next page.
A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.ftc.gov/credit or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.

- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
  - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
  - you are the victim of identify theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
  - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
  - you are on public assistance;
  - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition, by September 2005 all consumers will be entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.ftc.gov/credit for additional information.

- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.

- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.ftc.gov/credit for an explanation of dispute procedures.

- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.

• Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.

• Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need -- usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.

• You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.ftc.gov/credit.

• You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited “prescreened” offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-5-OPTOUT (1-888-567-8688).

• You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.

• Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.ftc.gov/credit.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. Federal enforcers are:

APPENDIX J

Civil Rights Law that Governs Employers’ Hiring Decisions:
Title VII

This section will explain Title VII, which is the federal civil rights law that governs employers’ hiring and employment decisions related to your criminal record.

WHAT IS TITLE VII?

Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 is a federal law that prohibits discrimination in employment on the basis of a person’s race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Title VII protects the rights of employees AND job applicants against discrimination by employers.

WHAT EMPLOYERS HAVE TO FOLLOW TITLE VII RULES?

Title VII applies to all private and public employers with 15 or more employees. This includes federal, state, and local governments; private and public colleges and universities; employment agencies; and labor organizations (unions).

WHAT IS CONSIDERED A VIOLATION OF TITLE VII?

Title VII violations can occur in two situations: where there is disparate treatment (unequal treatment) OR where there is disparate impact (unequal impact).

Disparate Treatment Discrimination (Unequal Treatment):

An employer might be engaging in disparate treatment discrimination if they treat you and your criminal history differently than they treat other applicants with similar criminal records, because of your race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. For example, if an employer rejects a Black applicant based on his/her criminal record, but then hires a White applicant with similar qualifications and a similar criminal record, the employer is likely violating Title VII by illegally treating one person’s criminal history more negatively because of his/her race. Similarly, an employer may be violating Title VII if they only do background checks for Black or Latino applicants, but do not run background checks on White applicants for the same position.

Disparate Impact Discrimination (Unequal Impact):

An employer might be engaging in disparate impact discrimination if they have a policy of not hiring people with certain kinds of criminal histories, and that policy is more harmful to people of a certain race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. For example, employers who have a “blanket ban” policy that excludes all applicants with criminal records would cause greater harm to Black and Latino applicants, who are incarcerated at dramatically higher rates than people of other races in the United States. However, an employer may legally exclude certain job applicants based on their criminal history if the employer shows that doing so is necessary for the specific position and business.

Civil Rights Law that Governs Employers’ Hiring Decisions:
EEOC Enforcement Guidance

This section will explain the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) and the EEOC Enforcement Guidance. The EEOC is the federal government agency responsible for enforcing the civil rights of job applicants and employees. The EEOC Enforcement Guidance is a report that explains how and when employers can consider your criminal record when deciding whether to hire or fire you.

WHAT IS THE EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION (EEOC)?

The EEOC is a government agency that enforces Title VII and other civil rights laws that prohibit illegal discrimination against job applicants and employees. These laws protect you against unfair treatment based on your race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy), national origin, age (40 or older), disability, or genetic information. California law requires employers to fully follow all federal laws regarding how employers can consider your criminal history when hiring. This means that all employers must follow the EEOC guidelines, or else they have broken both federal and state law.

WHAT IS EEOC ENFORCEMENT GUIDANCE?

The EEOC investigates claims of discrimination by employers, and also issues special guidelines and “enforcement guidance” reports for employers to help them follow Title VII and other civil rights laws. The EEOC’s Enforcement Guidance is a report that describes how and when employers can use your criminal record to make employment decisions. The Enforcement Guidance says that—before making any negative decision based on your record, such as rejecting your job application—an employer must consider the nature of your conviction, the type of job you’ve applied for, and how much time has passed since the conviction. The employer should also consider your individual situation and give you a chance to explain yourself, including the circumstances of your conviction and why you would still be a good employee. However, the Enforcement Guidance does NOT have the same power as an actual law—it is basically a set of recommended rules for how employers should act and how courts should enforce the law. Courts should consider the Enforcement Guidance and may be persuaded to follow the EEOC’s recommendations, but they are not required to follow these rules.

To read the complete EEOC Enforcement Guidance, see http://www.eeoc.gov/laws/guidance/upload/arrest_conviction.pdf.

California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH):
“Pre-Complaint Inquiry” Form

To begin the process of filing a discrimination complaint with the California Department of Fair Employment & Housing (DFEH), you must fill out and return the DFEH “Pre-Complaint Inquiry” form to any DFEH office.

Get a copy of the “Pre-Complaint Inquiry” form in one of the following ways:

• By Telephone: Call the DFEH Communication Center at (800) 884-1684
• Online—http://houdiniesq.net/dfeh/intake/
• By Email—Email your Pre-Complaint Inquiry form to contact.center@dfeh.ca.gov.

Then send the completed “Pre-Complaint Inquiry” form to a DFEH office. There is a full list of DFEH offices in California in Appendix M, PG. 737.

NOTE: Please see Appendix P, PG. 741 for a complete explanation of the DFEH complaint process.
APPENDIX O

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) Complaint Process

This section will explain the process for filing a discrimination complaint with the federal EEOC (Equal Employment Opportunity Commission).

STEP 1: Filing a Complaint.

The process begins when you contact the EEOC and file a formal complaint, called a "Charge of Discrimination," following the steps described in the previous question. When you file your complaint, the EEOC will give you a copy of the complaint, along with your charge number (which is the number used to identify your case).

STEP 2: Notice to the Employer & Mediation.

Within 10 days, the EEOC will also send a notice and a copy of the charge to the employer. The EEOC may ask both you and the employer to agree to participate in mediation, which is an informal way of trying to resolve the problem instead of filing a lawsuit.

What happens in mediation? Mediation is an informal way for people to resolve problems with the help of a neutral person (a mediator) who is trained to help people discuss their differences. If you and the employer agree to mediation, the mediator will try to help you both reach a voluntary resolution (settlement agreement). The mediator does not decide who is right or wrong or make a decision about your complaint. Instead, the mediator helps you and the employer work out your own solution to the problem.

Everything that happens in mediation is confidential and free. Mediation can also be a faster way of resolving the dispute, since it usually takes less than 3 months to settle a complaint through mediation. If you and the employer cannot reach an agreement, the EEOC will continue to investigate your case just like any other.1956

STEP 3: Employer’s Response.

If your case is not sent to mediation, or if mediation doesn’t resolve the problem, the EEOC will ask the employer to respond (submit a written answer) to your complaint, and answer any questions that the EEOC has about your complaint. Then your complaint will be given to an EEOC investigator for investigation.1957

STEP 4: Investigation.

How the EEOC investigates a complaint depends on the specific facts of your case and the kinds of information that will be helpful. In some cases, an EEOC representative may visit the employer, interview other employees or witnesses, gather documents, and/or take other steps to find out whether the employer committed illegal discrimination. The EEOC may also interview you again, or ask you for other documents or information—so it’s very important to cooperate and keep in touch!

How long will the investigation take? How long the investigation takes depends on a lot of different things, including the amount of information that the EEOC needs.

needs to get and evaluate. It may take up to 6 months or longer to investigate a charge.

What if the employer refuses to cooperate with the investigation? If an employer refuses to cooperate with an EEOC investigation, the EEOC can issue a subpoena (legal order) that requires the employer to turn over documents and information and/or answer legal questions, and allows the EEOC to enter the employer’s facilities.

STEP 5: Decision.
After the investigation is completed, the EEOC will issue a decision, and let you and the employer know the results. The decision will say either:

- NO CAUSE—meaning the EEOC did NOT find any evidence that the employer illegally discriminated against you; or
- REASONABLE CAUSE—meaning the EEOC thinks the employer DID illegally discriminate against you.

STEP 6: Your Options After the EEOC Decision.
Depending on what the EEOC decision says, these are your options:

- NO CAUSE decision—If the EEOC does NOT find that the employer illegally discriminated against you, it will send you a Right-to-Sue notice. This notice allows you to file a lawsuit in court against the employer on your own.
(However, it may be difficult to win in court without the EEOC’s support.) You must file a lawsuit within 90 days (approximately 3 months) of receiving the Right-to-Sue Notice; otherwise it will be too late.

- REASONABLE CAUSE decision—If the EEOC finds that the employer DID illegally discriminate against you, it will first try to reach a voluntary settlement (called “conciliation”) with the employer. Conciliation usually means that the employer agrees to pay you to cover the harm from the discrimination.

If the EEOC can’t reach a settlement with the employer, the EEOC’s lawyers may decide to file a lawsuit against the employer on your behalf. If the EEOC decides not to file a lawsuit, it will give you a Right-to-Sue notice, which allows you to file a lawsuit against the employer on your own. You must file a lawsuit within 90 days (approximately 3 months) of receiving the Right-to-Sue Notice; otherwise it will be too late.

APPENDIX P

California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH) Complaint Process

This section will explain the process for filing a discrimination complaint with the California DFEH (Department of Fair Employment & Housing). The DFEH complaint process is very similar to the EEOC process, and can even happen at the same time.

STEP 1: Report Discrimination.

The DFEH process begins when you contact the DFEH to report the discrimination and file a “Pre-Complaint Inquiry.” You can do this by mail, by phone, or online:

- Mail: Fill out a Pre-Complaint Inquiry form and mail it to any local DFEH office. A list of local DFEH offices can be found in Appendix M, PG. 737.
- Phone: Call the DFEH Communication Center at (800) 884-1684. If you have a hearing impairment, call 800-884-1684 or TTY at (800) 700-2320 for service.
- Online: Use the DFEH’s online system (available at http://esq5.houdiniesq.com/dfeh/intake/), or email the Pre-Complaint Inquiry form to contact.center@dfeh.ca.gov.

STEP 2: Filing an Official Complaint.

Within 10 days, a DFEH investigator will contact you to conduct an intake interview, in order to learn more about your situation and the possible discrimination. The investigator will decide whether state and federal civil rights laws cover your situation.

If the DFEH accepts your complaint, the investigator will type up an official complaint for you to sign. If the DFEH does NOT accept your complaint, it does not mean that you weren’t treated unfairly—only that your situation is not covered by the civil rights laws that the DFEH enforces.

Can I go straight to court and file a lawsuit on my own?

Under California law (just like Title VII), you must first file a complaint with DFEH before you can go to court (this is called “exhausting your administrative remedies”). However, once you file your complaint, you can ask the DFEH for a Right-to-Sue notice right away, which allows you to file a lawsuit in court on your own. Once you receive a Right-to-Sue notice, you have only 1 year to file your lawsuit in court.

IMPORTANT: If you request a Right-to-Sue notice, the DFEH will close your case and will NOT investigate further (even if you later decide not to file a lawsuit). Therefore, it is recommended that you only request a Right-to-Sue notice if you have a lawyer to represent you in court.

1962 CAL. GOV’T CODE § 12965(b).

1963 You must file the lawsuit within one year from the date of the Right-to-Sue notice, NOT from when you actually receive the notice. See Hall v Goodwill Industries of Southern Cal., 193 Cal. App. 4th 718 (2011).

STEP 3: Employer’s Response.
The DFEH will give a copy of your complaint to the employer. The employer must respond to the complaint, and has the opportunity to voluntarily resolve the problem now or at any time during the rest of the case. The DFEH will also file a copy of your complaint with the EEOC if it looks like Title VII covers your complaint.

STEP 4: Investigation.
The DFEH will investigate your complaint. The investigation may include conducting interviews with people and gathering documents or other information. The DFEH must complete its investigation within 1 year from the date when you filed your official complaint. Before the DFEH notifies you of the results of the investigation, it will give you and the employer the chance to voluntarily resolve the problem by reaching an agreement through informal negotiations (“mediation” or “conciliation”).

STEP 5: After the Investigation.
Depending on what the DFEH finds during its investigation, this is what will happen next:

- If the investigation shows that the employer DID violate the law, the DFEH will try to resolve the complaint through “conciliation” (voluntary agreement) with the employer (see Step 6).
- If the investigation shows that the employer did NOT violate the law, the DFEH will close your case and give you a Right-to-Sue notice. The Right-to-Sue notice allows you to file a lawsuit in court against the employer on your own.

STEP 6: Conciliation.
During conciliation, the DFEH will attempt to resolve your complaint by reaching a voluntary settlement agreement with the employer. (This is just like what happens in the EEOC complaint process, after the EEOC makes a Reasonable Cause decision.)

STEP 7: Possible Litigation.
If the DFEH cannot reach an agreement with the employer, it may decide to file a lawsuit against the employer on your behalf. If the DFEH does not file a lawsuit against the employer, it will give you a Right-to-Sue notice that allows you to file a lawsuit in court on your own.

---

In most cases, state and federal civil rights laws are very similar, so any discrimination would violate both California state law and federal Title VII. In these situations, the DFEH will also file your complaint with the EEOC. However, there are some situations where California law provides MORE protection than federal law, so certain behavior by an employer would only violate state law but NOT Title VII. In these situations, the DFEH will investigate your complaint on its own, but will not file a copy of the complaint with the EEOC.

APPENDIX Q

Professional/Occupational Licensing—Appeals Process

This section will give you an overview of the appeals process if the licensing board denies your application for a professional or occupational license.

Note: Each licensing agency is different! This is just a general overview to prepare you for what the process is like, but it will be slightly different in every situation.

STEP 1: Notice.

If a licensing board decides to deny your license, it must notify you in one of the following ways:

• Statement of Issues: The board files and serves you with a formal written statement of the board’s decision to deny you a license. It must specify any rules or statutes that you are not in compliance with, and the facts that authorize the denial. The statement of issues initiates a formal hearing on the matter; or

• Informal notice of denial: The board serves you with a written notice of denial, but does not file the notice with the court. The notice must state: the reason for the denial and your right to request a hearing on the denial.

STEP 2: Notice of Defense or Request for a Hearing

• Notice of Defense: If the board files and serves you with a formal statement of issues, you have 15 days to file what is called a “Notice of Defense” with the board, which means you want a formal hearing on the matter. If you do not file a Notice of Defense (or file it late, past the 15 days allowed), you will give up your right to a hearing (called a “default”). The licensing board can take whatever action it pleases, which is usually the harshest, i.e. denial of your license, and you can’t challenge it. (Note: a licensing board has discretion to allow/honor late notices and to grant a hearing after a default, but chances are slim.) Typically a generic notice of default “postcard” is included with the statement. This is the easiest way to preserve your right. The notice of defense need only contain your address and signature to be sufficient.

• Written Request for a Hearing: If the board does not file a formal statement of issues, but instead sends you an informal notice of denial, you have 60 days to file a written request for a hearing with the board.

STEP 3: Stipulated Settlement.

In many cases, you can resolve your case before by agreeing to a voluntary settlement (called a “stipulated settlement”) with the licensing board. A stipulated settlement is sort of like a plea bargain—you admit to doing something wrong, and you agree to accept a certain amount of punishment from the board. Often this means that you will get your license on a conditional basis for a certain amount of time (a “probation” period).

---

1962 CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 485(a).
1964 CAL. GOV’T CODE § 11504.
1966 CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 485(b).
1968 CAL. GOV’T CODE § 11506(d).
You will have to meet certain requirements—such as participating in counseling or other behavioral programs, taking specific classes or exams, having your work monitored by a supervisor, getting drug tested, completing community service, and/or temporary suspension—during the probation period. If you complete all the requirements, you can get your full license back. If you do NOT complete the requirements, the board can revoke your license.

A stipulated settlement can be complicated, so it is recommended to have a lawyer represent you. You may be able to negotiate certain parts of the settlement agreement—such as what wrongdoing you will admit to; what conditions you will have to complete during the probation period; and how much you will have to pay in recovery costs to get your license. If you reach this point, you should think about what issues are most important to you—for example, whether you want the shortest possible probation, or to pay the smallest amount, or to avoid admitting certain wrongdoing.

STEP 4: The Formal Hearing.

If you don’t reach a stipulated settlement with the licensing board, you will have a formal administrative hearing. An administrative hearing is somewhat like a trial. There will be a judge and a court reporter. The board will be represented either by in-house counsel (its own attorney) or the California Attorney General (like a prosecutor for the entire state). You are allowed to have an attorney also, but you are not entitled to one, so you will have to pay for your attorney yourself. Both sides will present evidence, put on witnesses (if necessary), and make arguments.

STEP 5: The Decision.

After the case is presented, the administrative law judge (ALJ) will issue an advisory decision within about 30 days.

---

1972 You will have the right to notice and a hearing before the board revokes your license.

Getting Funding for a Small Business

Some organizations and government agencies provide money to small businesses and people trying to start their own business. Sometimes the funding is through grants—money that you do NOT have to repay, but generally must use in a certain way related to the business. More often, the funding is through loans—money that you DO have to repay (usually with interest) in the future.

Unfortunately, it can be difficult to get loans depending on your conviction record. One place to start is the U.S. Small Business Administration, which is planning to change its policy to allow people on probation or parole to be eligible for microloans of up to $50,000. However, you may still be denied if you’ve been convicted of a felony “crime of moral turpitude” (i.e., involving violence or dishonesty). For this reason, it may be helpful to contact one of the entrepreneurship programs listed to see if they have suggestions or resources to find funding.

APPENDIX S

Alternatives to Traditional Employment: Becoming an Independent Contractor

If you’re considering working as an independent contractor, or if you want to know more about the difference between an independent contractor and a traditional employee, you should read this section to understand your rights and responsibilities!

EMPLOYEES VS. INDEPENDENT CONTRACTORS—WHAT’S THE DIFFERENCE?

In some cases, an employer may claim that they are hiring you as an independent contractor—NOT as a regular employee. Employers like to do this because it means they have fewer responsibilities, and you have fewer rights, if you are an independent contractor—and often they will misclassify you in order to avoid following the law! For this reason, it’s important that you know the difference so that you don’t get exploited!

In general, you are an employee (NOT an independent contractor) if the following are true:

• The employer decides what tasks and assignments you do and directs your work;
• The employer controls how, where, and when you do your work;
• The employer supervises your work, and you’re required to follow their instructions;
• The employer trains you in how to do your work;
• The employer provides you with any necessary equipment, tools, and other materials;
• The work you do is a regular and necessary part of the employer’s business—not just a side activity;
• The employer sets your hours and pays you a set wage or salary;
• The employer has the right to fire you—and you have the right to quit—at any time.

In addition, the law generally presumes that you are an employee—and NOT an independent contractor—unless specific factors show otherwise.

Important: Whether you are an employee or an independent contractor depends on the specific details of your work situation and your relationship with the employer—NOT on what the employer calls you!

WHAT ARE MY RIGHTS AS AN EMPLOYEE (VS. AN INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR)?

As an employee, you have the right to be paid minimum wage and overtime, receive meal periods and rest breaks, and get reimbursed by the employer for any work-related expenses (such as purchasing a required uniform). You also have the right to receive workers compensation insurance, unemployment insurance, disability insurance, and social security, and the employer is required withhold payroll taxes (which are taken out of your paycheck) and send these payments to the government.

WHAT ARE MY RESPONSIBILITIES AS AN INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR (VS. AN EMPLOYEE)?

On the other hand, if you are an independent contractor, you are NOT protected by minimum wage, overtime, and other labor laws. In addition, you have certain responsibilities—like filing self-employment taxes and reporting certain business information to the government—that you must follow. For more information about the legal responsibilities of an independent contractor, visit the EDD website on independent contractor reporting at http://www.edd.ca.gov/payroll_taxes/faq_-_california_independent_contractor_reporting.htm#Whohastoreport.

WHAT CAN I DO IF I THINK AN EMPLOYER HAS VIOLATED MY RIGHTS AS AN EMPLOYEE OR WRONGLY CLASSIFIED ME AS AN INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR?

The California Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE) is the state agency responsible for enforcing your rights in the workplace. If you think an employer has violated your rights as an employee, wrongly classified you as an independent contractor, and/or for more information, you can contact your local DLSE office and speak with Deputy Labor Commissioner. To find a local DLSE office near you, go to http://www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/DistrictOffices.htm or call 1-844-LABOR-DIR (1-844-522-6734) for assistance.

For more information about your rights in the workplace, contact The Legal Aid Society—Employment Law Center’s Workers Rights Clinic at 415-864-8208 (San Francisco Bay Area) or 866-864-8208 (toll free in CA). Or contact a local legal aid or employment attorney in your area.

APPENDIX T

Employment Rights for People with Disabilities: Exceptions Where an Employer Does Not Have to Provide a Reasonable Accommodation to an Employee

There are 3 situations where an employer is NOT required to provide a reasonable accommodation for your disability: These are called the “Undue Hardship” exception, the “Direct Threat” exception, and the exception for when the employer shows that you CANNOT safely perform essential job functions. This section will explain each of these exceptions.

(1) UNDUE HARDSHIP

An employer does NOT have to provide a reasonable accommodation that would cause an "undue hardship" to the employer. There is no single definition of “undue hardship”—it is a case-by-case question that depends on the type of accommodation you're requesting and the employer’s particular situation—e.g., what type of business it is, how many employees, the employer’s financial situation, etc. In general, however, an undue hardship means that the accommodation you want would be too expensive or difficult for the employer to make, or would have a significant impact on the employer’s business, or would be too disruptive to the business or to the work of other employees.

However, an employer CANNOT claim undue hardship based on employees' (or customers') fears or prejudices about your disability (e.g., fears or prejudices about people with past addictions or mental health issues). Also, an employer CANNOT claim that other employees would be upset about giving you an accommodation. Finally, an employer CANNOT claim that making an accommodation—for example, hiring someone with a criminal conviction—would cause their insurance premiums to go up.

Important: Even if an employer can show that the particular accommodation you asked for would cause undue hardship, the employer may still have to provide a different accommodation if there is some other type of accommodation that would also be effective and would NOT cause a hardship.

(2) DIRECT THREAT

The law does not require that an employer give you reasonable accommodations for your disability if you would pose a significant danger to the health or safety of yourself or others AND there is NO possible reasonable accommodation that would remove or reduce the risk of harm.

---

1982 42 U.S.C. § 12111(3). See also Cal. Dep't of Fair Employment and Housing, Employment Discrimination Based on Disability, http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/res/docs/Publications/Brochures/2015/DFEH-184.pdf. The ADA permits employers to require, as a job qualification, that an individual not "pose a direct threat to the health or safety of other individuals in the workplace." Moreover, an employer may impose such a requirement even if an employer's reliance on such a qualification might "screen out or tend to screen out or otherwise deny a job or benefit to an individual with a disability." 42 U.S.C. § 12113(a)-(b).
There are some protections for you if an employer is arguing that you would be a direct threat to other employees, customers or property:

- First, an employer must first make an individualized assessment of you and whether you can safely perform the essential functions of the job. 1983
- Second, an employer can only reject you if you pose a significant risk of harm to others and there is a high likelihood that you will harm someone due to your condition. 1984
- Third, in deciding whether your conditions creates a significant risk of harm, the employer must consider your individual situation and history of substance/alcohol abuse—for example, whether you have a history of harmful behavior due to your addiction—and CANNOT simply go on assumptions or statistics about people who suffer from substance/alcohol addiction and their likelihood of relapse. 1985
- Fourth, the employer’s evaluation must rely on the most current medical knowledge and the best available objective evidence—NOT simply stereotypes, fears, or assumptions about people with mental illness, addiction, or other disabilities. 1986

(3) CANNOT SAFELY PERFORM ESSENTIAL JOB FUNCTIONS.

Finally, an employer is NOT required to provide reasonable accommodations if they can show that you are unable to safely perform essential job functions—in other words, you are not qualified for the job—even with a reasonable accommodation. 1987 However, an employer can only make this argument based on the specific requirements of the job position you are seeking (not general requirements for other types of jobs), and if there are NO reasonable accommodations that could enable you to do the work. 1988

1983 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(r). The employer must consider factors including: the duration of the risk; the nature and severity of the potential harm; the likelihood that the potential harm will occur; and the imminence of the potential harm.
1984 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(r). See also EEOC, EEOC Technical Assistance Manual on the ADA, § 8.7. An employer may not deny employment to someone with a disability “merely because of a slightly increased risk. The risk can only be considered when it poses a significant risk, i.e., high probability of substantial harm; a speculative or remote risk is insufficient.”
1985 See EEOC, EEOC Technical Assistance Manual on the ADA, § 8.7. “An employer cannot prove a ‘high probability’ of substantial harm simply by referring to statistics indicating the likelihood that addicts or alcoholics in general have a specific probability of suffering a relapse. A showing of ‘significant risk of substantial harm’ must be based upon an assessment of the particular individual and his/her history of substance abuse and the specific nature of the job to be performed.”
1986 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(r).
1987 CAL. GOV’T CODE § 12940(a)(1)-(2).
APPENDIX U

Employment Rights for People with Disabilities: Requesting a Reasonable Accommodation for Your Disability

If an employer’s hiring/employment policy causes your job application to be rejected (or causes other adverse action against you) based on a conviction that was caused by your disability, you have the right to request a “reasonable accommodation” so that you can be considered for the job just like other applicants.

To request an accommodation, the law only requires you to tell the employer that you need an accommodation for a reason related to a medical condition. You do NOT have to put your request in writing, and you do NOT have to use any special legal language—you can explain your request in normal words. You can request an accommodation at any time during the job application process or after you begin working.1989

HOWEVER, because it is generally believed that employers are less likely to be sympathetic and less willing to change policies regarding criminal convictions (even where the conviction was caused by your disability), it is recommended that you give the employer a WRITTEN LETTER requesting the reasonable accommodation. (Be sure to make a photocopy for yourself before sending the letter). This will make it more difficult for the employer to ignore your request, and you will have documentation in case the employer denies it.

It’s recommended that your letter clearly include ALL of the following:

1) Explain that you have a disability, and what that disability is.
2) Include any documentation of your disability and treatment.
3) Clearly state the accommodation you are requesting (for example, that you are asking the employer to make an exception to the hiring policy that would exclude you due to a criminal conviction that was caused by your disability, or you are asking for time off to attend treatment).
4) Explain the reason that you are requesting the accommodation:
   a. Here, you could say that an exception from criminal history policy is NECESSARY to give you an equal opportunity to participate in the job.
   b. Explain the connection (meaning the relationship or “nexus”) between the requested accommodation and your disability.
   c. Explain how your criminal conduct was the result of the mental illness and/or past substance abuse (for example, state that you were convicted of drug possession because you were addicted to drugs, but you have successfully completed rehab).
   d. It is helpful and more persuasive if you have a doctor or service provider submit a letter explaining why your disability requires a reasonable accommodation.

For a sample letter requesting reasonable accommodation for a disability, see Appendix U, PG. 752.

APPENDIX V

Employment Rights for People with Disabilities: Sample Letter Requesting Reasonable Accommodation

Here is a sample letter to request a reasonable accommodation for your disability. This particular letter shows an example of how to request a change in policy (for example, asking the employer to make an exception to their hiring policy regarding prior criminal convictions), for a job applicant whose conviction was caused by his/her disability (i.e., prior substance abuse that led to a drug conviction).

For sample letters to request other types of reasonable accommodations (including changes in work schedule, equipment and physical spaces, and time off from work), visit Legal Aid Society Employment Law Center at https://las- elc.org/sample-letters-and-forms.
SAMPLE REQUEST FOR ACCOMMODATION Modified Workplace Policy

MEMORANDUM

TO: [Name of Human Resources director, supervisor, or manager]
FROM: [Your name]
RE: Request for Reasonable Accommodation
DATE: [Today’s date]

Dear [Name]:

This is a request for reasonable accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and the California Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA). If you are not the appropriate person to receive this request, please notify me immediately, and forward this letter on to the person who handles requests for reasonable accommodation.

I am a person with a “disability” under state and federal laws. My condition is: [state the name or a description of your condition using language you feel comfortable with—see below for additional information]. Due to my disability, I am requesting the following modification of workplace policy: [describe what change in workplace policy or rule you want and how it relates to your disability—see examples below].

Please let me know if you require reasonable medical documentation of my condition, or if you wish to propose alternative accommodations to those I have requested. I am ready and willing to engage in the interactive process with you so that I may continue in my employment.

Thank you.
Sincerely
[Your signature]
[Your name]
ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ABOUT DESCRIBING YOUR DISABILITY:

If your disability is prior substance abuse, you should make clear that you are no longer using illegal drugs, and explain what rehabilitation or treatment you have received for your disability.

EXAMPLES OF CHANGES IN WORKPLACE POLICIES OR RULES, AND HOW THEY MAY RELATE TO A DISABILITY:

• “I am requesting an exception to your policy against hiring people with certain types of criminal convictions. Due to my prior drug addiction, I was convicted of drug possession several years ago. However, I have successfully completed rehabilitation and stayed clean and sober for 3 years.”
• “Due to my rehabilitation treatments, I need to constantly drink water. I would like to carry water on the floor.”
• “I would like to use a stool while working the checkout station because of my knee and ankle injury.”
• “Because of my disability, I have difficulty concentrating and can get startled by noises around me. I would like to listen to music on headphones at work.”
• “Because of my diabetes, I sometimes need to eat immediately. I would like to keep food at my desk.”
• “Because of my disability, I need unscheduled bathroom breaks—I cannot wait for my scheduled break.”
• “I need an extension of leave beyond what is provided in our employee handbook.”
The COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER gives a basic overview of court-ordered debt to help you understand the money you may owe because of your past court involvement. You will learn the different kinds of court-ordered debt, what happens to these debts while you are incarcerated, and how these debts can affect you when you return to the community.

DISCLAIMER – YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it. The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

I. INTRODUCTION

Many people coming home from prison or jail are surprised to find that they owe lots of money to various courts, agencies, and people. The money you owe can make it very hard to get back on your feet, which can leave you feeling frustrated and discouraged.

Unfortunately, this Chapter includes a lot of BAD NEWS about court-ordered debt because most of the laws that control court-ordered debt are NOT in your favor. However, reentry advocates—and even some politicians—who realize that this kind of debt harms not only formerly incarcerated people who are trying to start over, but also the communities they are returning to, are working to change these laws. In the meantime, this Chapter will give you some important information to help you better understand your rights, responsibilities, and opportunities when it comes to managing money that you owe due to your past court involvement (referred to in the rest of the Chapter as “court-ordered debt”).

WHAT IS COURT-ORDERED DEBT AND WHY DO I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT IT?

Court-ordered debt is money that you may owe because of some involvement you had with the criminal justice system—whether you were convicted, acquitted, your charges were dismissed, or you were only ever arrested. You may owe this money to the court itself, to the county or other government agency, to a victim of your crime, or even to a collection agency.

If you were convicted of a crime, you most likely owe court-related costs, or owed them at one point. But even if you were never convicted of anything, the court can still make you pay other fees, such as jail booking fees, public defender fees, and fees associated with minor offenses called infractions. It is important that you know about and understand any court-ordered debt you owe, because this debt can make it difficult for you to move forward with your life in many different ways.

I’VE NEVER RECEIVED ANYTHING TELLING ME THAT I OWE MONEY; SO I MUST NOT HAVE ANY COURT-ORDERED DEBT, RIGHT?

Absolutely not! People move; paperwork gets lost in the mail; and addresses get written down incorrectly all the time. Just because you haven’t heard anything, doesn’t mean that you’re in the clear. Remember, if you have had any involvement with the criminal justice system, especially if you have a conviction, you were most likely ordered to pay money of some kind at some point. If you don’t take steps to find out about and take care of your debt, there could be serious consequences.

Even if you are 100% positive that you have paid off your debt entirely, mistakes can be made. Your payments may not have been properly recorded, or your name could be attached to someone else’s debt! It is better to check and be safe than to assume and be sorry.
WHAT ARE THE DIFFERENT TYPES OF COURT ORDERED DEBT?

There are three main types of court-ordered debt: (1) restitution; (2) fines and penalties; and (3) administrative fees. (You may also have debt from unpaid traffic fines and tickets. These are discussed later in this Chapter, on PG. 771). It can be hard to keep track of the different types of debt; this chart gives an overview of the important information about each one.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT THE NAMES & PURPOSES OF THESE COURT-ORDERED DEBTS:

The names for different types of court-ordered debt can be confusing. The chart above tries to explain the four basic types of court-ordered debt, but the names you see on your actual court paperwork and “sentencing order” may be different. For example, sometimes the same word (for example, “fee” or “assessment”) is used to mean different things by different courts in different counties. If you have any questions about your court-ordered debts and what they mean, ask your public defender or the lawyer who represented you in your case.

Because each type of court-ordered debt has a different purpose, you will probably owe many different types of debt (restitution, fines, and fees) even if you have only one conviction. If you have more than one conviction, you will likely owe separate sets of court-ordered debt for each conviction.
II. A BASIC OVERVIEW OF COURT-ORDERED DEBT RESTITUTION

RESTITUTION

WHAT IS RESTITUTION?
Restitution is money that you are ordered to pay to victims and to the state if you are convicted of a crime. Restitution is intended to repay the victims for the harm they suffered, and to repay your debt to society. Judges are required to order restitution if you are convicted of a crime, regardless of whether you can afford to pay. Restitution is the most serious type of court-ordered debt and the hardest to get rid of.\(^{1996}\)

TYPES OF RESTITUTION:
To make things even more complicated, there are different types of restitution—each with a different purpose. The three main types of restitution are:

(1) VICTIM RESTITUTION (also called Direct Orders of Restitution): Victim restitution goes to the victim(s) of your crime to repay any harm caused or losses suffered because of your actions. If your crime involved injury to a person, property damage, or economic loss, you will have to pay victim restitution.\(^{1997}\)

Usually the court orders victim restitution at the time of sentencing, however, the court can order it at any time afterward, if needed.\(^{1998}\) This means that even if the judge did NOT order victim restitution when you were sentenced, he or she can still order it later—and you will still have to pay it!

(2) RESTITUTION FINES: Restitution fines go to the state to repay your debt to society. Everyone who is convicted of a crime MUST pay a restitution fine, so if you have a conviction—regardless of whether it was a misdemeanor or a felony—you have to pay a restitution fine.\(^{1999}\)

In some situations, even if you were never convicted, you may still have to pay a restitution fine. For example, if your case was dismissed because you successfully completed a diversion program (i.e. drug treatment or anger management) or you received a deferred entry of judgment (DEJ), you will still be ordered to pay a restitution fine.\(^{2000}\) Also, if some of your charges were dismissed as part of a plea bargain, you still may have to pay restitution on the dismissed charges!\(^{2001}\)

(3) REVOCATION RESTITUTION FINES: If you are sentenced to any type of supervision (parole, mandatory supervision, Post Release Community Supervision, or probation), the court will impose a revocation restitution fine. However, this fine is suspended unless you violate the conditions of your supervision and your supervision is revoked. This means you do not have to pay this fine unless your supervision is revoked.\(^{2002}\)

\(^{1996}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(b)-(g).
\(^{1997}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(a) & (f).
\(^{1998}\) CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 1202.4(f), 1202.46 (The court may order victim restitution at a later time if the victim’s losses are not yet determined at the time of sentencing).
\(^{1999}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1202.4(b).
\(^{2000}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1001.90.
\(^{2001}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1192.3; People v. Harvey, 25 Cal.3d 754 (1979).
\(^{2002}\) CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 1202.4, 1202.44, 1202.45.
IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT VICTIM RESTITUTION: Victim restitution never goes away. It is not discharged in bankruptcy, and you will continue to owe any unpaid victim restitution even after you have completed your sentence and term of supervision. The court will ALMOST NEVER waive or excuse your restitution, or let you do community service instead of paying. Unless the court finds “extraordinary and compelling reasons” to let you out of your restitution obligation, the only way to get rid of victim restitution is to pay it off. Unfortunately, the fact that you can’t afford to pay it off is not an “extraordinary and compelling reason!”

IS IT POSSIBLE TO OWE MORE THAN ONE TYPE OF RESTITUTION?

Yes. In fact, it is likely that you owe more than one type of restitution. Almost everyone with a conviction will owe victim restitution. Most people will owe BOTH victim restitution AND restitution fines. Anyone whose supervision was permanently revoked may owe all three types of restitution.

Also, if you have convictions from more than one case, the court can order all three types of restitution in each case.

WHO IS CONSIDERED A “VICTIM” TO RECOVER VICTIM RESTITUTION?

The law defines “victim” VERY broadly. Even if no one was physically hurt during the crime, the court can order you to pay for property damage or economic losses caused by the crime. You could be ordered to pay restitution to ANY of the following:

• A specific person (or people) who suffered physical or emotional harm, had property taken or damaged, or had to pay out-of-pocket expenses as a result of the crime;
• The family of the person harmed;
• The Victim Compensation & Government Claims Board (Restitution Fund);
• A business that was damaged or had money losses due to the crime; and/or
• A government agency that was damaged or had money losses, suffered vandalism damage, or had to clean or repair graffiti caused by the crime.

2004 CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 1202.4, 1214.
COURT FINES AND PENALTIES

WHAT ARE COURT FINES AND PENALTIES?
Court fines and penalties are money you must pay as part of your punishment for your conviction, in addition to the rest of your sentence. The amount you have to pay will depend on the specific offense(s) you were convicted of, and the total amount you owe for other fines.

IMPORTANT: You may be charged multiple sets of fines and penalties for the same conviction, because the state and county can each fine you separately for the offense.

WHAT SHOULD I KNOW ABOUT COURT FINES AND PENALTIES?

1) Some fines and penalties can be ordered as conditions of your probation. (See PG. 767 for fines and penalties that are conditions of your probation.)

2) Some fines and penalties are determined based on your ability to pay, which means the court must find that you can afford to pay the fine before imposing them. Others are imposed regardless of your ability to pay.

COURT ADMINISTRATIVE FEES

WHAT ARE COURT ADMINISTRATIVE FEES?
Administrative fees are money you pay to the courts, county, and other agencies to cover the day-to-day costs of running the courts and criminal justice system. Administrative fees are used to pay for things like court security, probation supervision, public defender fees, jail time, and debt collection. Some fees are imposed by the court; other fees are imposed by the county or other agencies.

WHAT SHOULD I KNOW ABOUT COURT ADMINISTRATIVE FEES?

1) Administrative fees generally CANNOT be conditions of probation, because they are NOT intended as punishment. One exception to this rule is the

---

Some fines and penalties are determined based on your offense. See § 1202.4(c) (court not required to consider inability to pay restitution fine unless fine is greater than the statutory minimum); see also People v. Long, 164 Cal. App. 3d 820 (1985) (providing that the trial court may order administrative fees for any crime committed without considering the defendant’s ability to pay).

WHAT HAPPENS TO MY COURT-ORDERED DEBT WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

Your debts CAN increase while you’re inside—but WHETHER they do and by HOW MUCH will depend on different things, such as: how old the debt is, whether it has been sent to collections, the amount of victim restitution you owe, and whether you’ve been making restitution payments.

Some reasons your debt may increase while you’re incarcerated are:

- You can be charged interest and administrative fees on your restitution debts.
  - NOTE: If you are paying restitution through your facility while incarcerated, you may be charged administrative fees for any payments you make. If CDCR or a county agency is automatically taking restitution payments directly from your prison or jail account, you may not even realize you’re being charged extra. (See PG. 784 for more information about paying restitution while you’re incarcerated.)
- If your debt is delinquent, you may be charged a $300 penalty (called a “civil assessment”) for late payments or non-payment.
  - NOTE: If you were unable to pay the debt because you were incarcerated, you may be able to ask the court to forgive (“vacate”) the penalty. (See PG. 787 for information on vacating civil assessment charges.)
- If your debt has been sent to “collections” (see explanation in side box) you may be charged an extra administrative fee to cover the costs of transferring your debt to the collection agency.
- You may be charged for failures to appear in court.
- You may be charged a fee if your driver license was suspended due to unpaid court debts.

WHAT IS “DELINQUENT DEBT”?

If you have missed one or more payments, your debt is "overdue" or "delinquent." Usually, you will get a letter notifying you that your debt has become delinquent, and you will have a limited time to make a payment or reestablish an installment plan before extra punishments and fines are imposed.

WHAT ARE "COLLECTION AGENCIES"?

When courts (or anyone else) can’t get a person to pay their debt on time, they often will hire a “collection agency” to try to get back the money owed. Collection agencies track down the person who owes (the "debtor"), and tries to get them to pay. If they are successful in collecting the debt, the collection agency receives a percentage of the payment.
WILL MY DEBTS BE SENT TO “COLLECTIONS”?

Maybe. The more delinquent your debt is, the more likely that it will be, or already has been, sent to collections.

Each court, county, and agency handles unpaid debts differently. The court may start by trying to collect the debt itself. Once the debt becomes overdue, courts often send unpaid debts to the county collection agency.\textsuperscript{2024} If the debt remains unpaid, the court or county collection agency may then send your debt to a private collection agency or to the California Franchise Tax Board (FTB), which acts as a collections agency for the state and for CDCR.\textsuperscript{2025}

For more information on tracking down your debt, see PG. 781.

For more information on what to do if your court-ordered debt HAS BEEN sent to collections, see PG. 781.

HOW CAN MY COURT-ORDERED DEBT AFFECT ME WHILE I AM ON A TERM OF SUPERVISION?

If you are under any type of supervision—parole, mandatory supervision, Post-Release Community Supervision, or probation—it is very important to know which debts are conditions of that supervision, and to pay them first, if possible.

In general, making restitution payments will ALWAYS be a condition of your supervision.\textsuperscript{2027} Other fines and fees can also be ordered as conditions of supervision.\textsuperscript{2027} You can find out exactly which payments the court considers conditions of your probation by asking your parole or probation officer for a copy of your supervision order. You (or your attorney) can also go to the court and ask the clerk for a copy of the records (the “minutes”) from your sentencing.

If you don’t pay the debts that are conditions of your supervision: (1) the court can extend the term of your supervision to the maximum time allowed;\textsuperscript{2028} or (2) the court may order you to do community service to satisfy your remaining fines and fees, or (3) the court may determine that you have violated your supervision and re-incarcerate you.

If you are on probation and you complete your probation term, but you haven’t paid off all the restitution and fines that are conditions of your probation, the court may find that you did NOT successfully complete probation. This can make it harder to get your conviction dismissed later under California’s expungement statute.\textsuperscript{2028}

Here are other ways that owing unpaid restitution and other fines can affect you while you are on supervision:

\begin{itemize}
  \item Telephone interview with Bonnie Sloan, Division Manager, Court Collections, Yuba County Superior Court (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with Genevieve Harrington, Supervisor, Central Collections, Butte County Superior Court (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with David (no last name given), Collector, Fresno County Revenue Collections Unit, (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with David, Collector, Fresno County Revenue Collections Unit, (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with Bonnie Sloan, Division Manager, Court Collections, Yuba County Superior Court (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with David (no last name given), Collector, Fresno County Revenue Collections Unit, (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with Genevieve Harrington, Supervisor, Central Collections, Butte County Superior Court (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with Bonnie Sloan, Division Manager, Court Collections, Yuba County Superior Court (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with David (no last name given), Collector, Fresno County Revenue Collections Unit, (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with David, Collector, Fresno County Revenue Collections Unit, (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with Genevieve Harrington, Supervisor, Central Collections, Butte County Superior Court (Feb. 23, 2015); Telephone interview with David, Collector, Fresno County Revenue Collections Unit, (Feb. 23, 2015);
\end{itemize}
• It can be harder to transfer to another county, and you will NOT be allowed to transfer out of state.\(^{2030}\)
• If you want to get discharged early, it is very important to make reasonable restitution payments.\(^{2031}\)
• Even if you successfully complete your supervision and are discharged, you will continue to owe any unpaid restitution (and all other debts that the court does not discharge).\(^{2032}\)

IMPORTANT!—IF YOU ARE UNDER ANY KIND OF SUPERVISION: It is very important to know which debts are conditions of that supervision—and to pay them first, if possible. In general, making restitution payments will ALWAYS be a condition of your supervision.\(^{2033}\) Other fines and fees can also be ordered as conditions of supervision.\(^{2034}\) You can find out exactly which payments the court considers conditions of your probation by asking your parole or probation officer for a copy of your supervision order. WHICH TYPES OF COURT-ORDERED DEBT ARE LIKELY TO BE CONDITIONS OF MY PROBATION?

Restitution—Making restitution payments will almost ALWAYS be a condition of your probation. 2037

Other Fines & Penalties—Some other fines and penalties may also be conditions of your probation. However, each type of fine and fee is different, so you will need to check your specific sentencing order to see which payments are conditions of your probation.

Fines and fees that are always (or almost always) conditions of your probation:
• Victim restitution +10% interest; 2038
• Restitution fine +10% administrative fee;
• Fine and penalty assessment (amount based on your conviction offense);
• Criminal Justice Administration Fee (jail booking fee). 2039

Fines that may be conditions of your probation, depending on your conviction offense:
• Domestic Violence Fund Payment; 2040
• Alcohol Abuse Education & Prevention Penalty Assessment; 2041
• Emergency Response Cost Restitution; 2042
• Hate Crime Restitution; 2043
• Abduction Restitution. 2044

Administrative Fees—In general, administrative fees CANNOT be conditions of probation. 2045 This includes things like court security fees, probation supervision costs, and attorney fees. 2046 However, one exception to this rule is the Criminal Justice Administration Fee (sometimes referred to as the jail booking fee), which CAN be a condition of probation. 2047

IMPORTANT: These are only some examples. YOU SHOULD CHECK YOUR SENTENCING ORDER TO SEE WHICH FINES AND FEES ARE CONDITIONS OF YOUR PROBATION.

WHat Happens If I don't Pay Off These Debts?

It depends. Different types of debts have different consequences if you don’t pay them off. The consequences are also affected by the amount of debt you owe, how old the debt is, and which agency is trying to collect from you (for example, whether your debt is still with the court, with county collections, with a private collection agency, or with the Franchise Tax Board).

In the previous section we explained what can happen if you don’t pay debts that are conditions of your supervision. This section will explain some of the other consequences you may face if you don’t pay off your court-ordered debts (whether you are on supervision or not).

DEBT COLLECTION:

If you owe unpaid restitution, fines, or court fees, the people or agencies that you owe (i.e. the victim, the victim’s family, the Victim Compensation Board, the Franchise Tax Board, private collection agencies) can try to collect the unpaid debt in the following ways:

- Wage garnishment—If you are employed, a portion of your wages (up to 25%) can be automatically taken out (withheld) from your paycheck to pay your court-ordered debt. Money can continue to be taken from your paycheck until you have paid off the full amount you owe.

- Property lien—If you own property (like a car or a house) a lien can be put on your property. A lien gives the person (or agency) that you owe the right to claim your property to satisfy the debt you owe them. If you have a lien on your property, you may not be able to sell that property until you have paid off the amount you owe. If you DO sell the property, you will have to give over the money from the sale to the person you owe.

- Lien on your bank account—If you have a bank account, a lien can be put on the account. You will not be able to access the money in your account, and any checks you write from the account will bounce until the lien is removed.

All of these actions can lower your credit score, which can make it harder to get a loan, rent an apartment, or find a job.

OTHER POSSIBLE CONSEQUENCES:

There are other possible consequences of unpaid or overdue debt, but everyone’s situation will be different. Some other ways that you may be negatively impacted by unpaid court-ordered debt are:

- Your driver license can be suspended due to unpaid court debts AND you can be charged extra fees. (Your driver license can also be suspended for other types of unpaid debt, such as child support or unpaid loans. See PG. 51 of the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER for more information about driver license suspensions.)

2052 If your debt has already been referred to the Franchise Tax Board for collection, there is a special payment process to expedite (speed up) the return of your driver license. For instructions, see https://www.ftb.ca.gov/online/Court_Ordered_Debt/payment.shtml.
• It can be harder to get a professional or occupational license, which is required for many types of jobs. For example, you need an occupational license to work as a barber, beautician, nurse, or contractor. (For more information on professional/occupational licenses, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, PG. 690.)

• The Franchise Tax Board can seize any state tax refunds, lottery winnings, or other income to pay off your restitution and fine obligations.

• If you are ordered to appear in court because you have not paid your court-ordered debt, and you do not go to court, you could be arrested and charged with a misdemeanor.
  o Important: If you have not made payments, you won’t be arrested simply for not paying. However, if a judge has ordered you to come to court and explain why you are not paying, you can be arrested for not going to court.
  o If you receive an “order to appear,” you MUST go to court on the day and time listed in the order. Even if you don’t have any money to make the payments, it is very important that you attend this court hearing.

• Unpaid restitution and/or other fines can make it harder, if not impossible, to get your conviction dismissed under California’s expungement statute. (For more information, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS CHAPTER, beginning on PG 1020).

What is a “credit score” and why does it matter?

A credit score is a record of how you have borrowed and repaid money in the past, and is considered a predictor of whether you are likely to repay your debts in the future. Your credit score is a number—usually between 300 and 850. The higher the number, the better your score. Your credit score is based on things like current debts you owe (including court-ordered debts), whether you’ve paid off previous debts in a timely manner, your income, etc.

Creditors, landlords, and some employers may look at your credit score when deciding whether to give you a loan, rent an apartment to you, or hire you for a job. (Note: In California, only certain people can legally see your credit score. For more information about what employers and landlords can see about you, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER (PG. 625) and HOUSING CHAPTER (PG. 369).

If you want to know what your credit score is, you will probably have to pay to get it from a commercial credit reporting agency. However, you are entitled to a FREE COPY of your credit report, which will let you see the information that is used to calculate your credit score.

You can request your free credit report by mail by submitting an Annual Credit Report Request Form. A sample form is included in Appendix A, PG. 796. For more information about getting your credit report, contact the Annual Credit Report Request Service at 1-877-322-8228.

Chandler, 203 Cal. App. 3d 762 (1988) (defendant who failed to pay off all restitution during term of probation was not entitled to mandatory dismissal).

WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS IF MY WAGES ARE GARNISHED OR THERE IS A LIEN ON MY PROPERTY?

If your wages are being garnished or there is a lien on your bank account or property, you may be able to request an exemption for money or property that you need to live on (such as your car or house). An exemption means that the portion of your wages or property that you need in order to support yourself and your family CANNOT be taken.2058

- For more information about requesting an exemption from wage garnishment, talk to your employer. You should have received a notice regarding your wage garnishment (called an “Earnings Withholding Order,” form WG-002) and instructions on how to request an exemption (Judicial Council form WG-003).2059 These forms are available in Appendix B, PG. 798, and Appendix C, PG. 801. They are also available online at http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/wg002.pdf and http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/wg003.pdf.

- To request an exemption from a property lien, you will need to file a Claim of Exemption (Judicial Council form EJ-160).2060 This form is provided in Appendix D, PG. 804 and is also available online at http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/ej160.pdf. For a list of the types of property that you can request an exemption for see Appendix E, PG. 806 (Judicial Council form EJ-155), or go to http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/ej155.pdf.

- If your wages are being garnished by the CA Franchise Tax Board (FTB), you can claim a financial hardship and ask them to reduce the amount taken out of each paycheck.2061 Call the FTB at (916) 845-4064 to ask for assistance. (Note: The Franchise Tax Board CANNOT change the total amount of debt you owe, only the amount being taken from each paycheck.)2062

Even if you don’t have enough money to pay off your debts, it’s important to show that you are making an effort and want to pay them off! The court and judge will often work with you if you can show that you are trying to take responsibility for your debt to the best of your ability. You can ask the judge to help you set up an installment plan, or request that he or she waive (forgive) some of fines and fees. Many courts will let you do community service to work off your debt—or you can even opt to spend time in jail to pay off or reduce what you owe.2063

If your debt has been sent to a private collection agency or the FTB, you can ask that agency to help you set up a payment plan. If the FTB is garnishing your wages, you can also ask them to change the amount that is being taken out of your paycheck (but they CANNOT change the total amount of debt you owe.) The FTB can be very helpful—so don’t be afraid to contact them for assistance!

The bottom line: Court-ordered debt can be a scary thing to deal with. But even if you can’t pay now, there are other things you can do to improve your situation. DON’T IGNORE YOUR DEBT or it will only get worse!

2063 Cal. PENAL CODE § 1205.
TRAFFIC FINES AND TICKETS

WHAT ARE TRAFFIC FINES AND TICKETS?

Traffic fines are penalties you are ordered to pay for driving-related or vehicle-related violations. Traffic tickets are the actual paper citations you get when you commit violations. There are three types of traffic tickets:

1. PARKING TICKETS—Parking tickets are for violations while your vehicle is parked (for example, if you park your car where you’re not allowed to, or don’t pay the parking meter).

2. INFRACTION TICKETS—Infraction tickets are for minor driving violations (such as running a stop sign or failing to use a turn signal), or often for mechanical problems with your car equipment (such as a broken tail-light), or for administrative violations related to your registration, insurance, or driver license (i.e. if one of them has expired).

3. MISDEMEANOR TICKETS—Misdemeanor tickets are issued for more serious driving violations (like a DUI or driving on a suspended license).

NOTE: Traffic fines are also called “bail.” The court may use this term when talking about your traffic fines and payments. Traffic “bail” is not the same thing as bail in a criminal case, but is sometimes used in a similar way. For example, if you are required to appear in court for a traffic ticket, you may need to “post bail” (pay some, or all, of your traffic fine) BEFORE your court date. You will then get this money back if the court dismisses your ticket or finds you not guilty of the traffic violation. This Chapter will use the term “fines” instead of “bail” to describe the money you owe for a traffic ticket.

HOW DO I KNOW WHICH TYPE OF TICKET I HAVE?

If you park or leave your car somewhere and there is a ticket on the windshield when you get back, this is probably a parking ticket (although some agencies will issue “fix-it” tickets for parked cars with visible mechanical issues or expired registration tags). Parking tickets are the least serious type of ticket and do NOT involve the courts.

If you get pulled over and get a ticket while driving, it is an infraction or a misdemeanor ticket. Usually you get these tickets from a law enforcement officer who pulls you over on the road for a violation you committed while driving.

- An infraction ticket will instruct you to either pay a fine, or appear in court on a particular date and time if you want to contest the ticket or you can’t pay the fine.
- For a misdemeanor ticket, you MUST appear in court on the date and time shown or a warrant will be issued for your arrest. (That’s why the ticket is also called a “Notice to Appear”).

WHAT IS "TRAFFIC COURT"?
Where all traffic-related issues are heard and addressed. Some counties have special traffic courts that deal exclusively with traffic-related issues. In others, the “traffic court” may just be a separate counter or department within the main courthouse. Traffic courts deal only with traffic infractions.

WHAT ARE “FIX-IT” TICKETS (CORRECTABLE VIOLATIONS)?
A correctible violation (“fix-it”) ticket is a ticket for a problem with your car that you must fix (for example, a broken tail light, expired registration. After you fix the problem, and show the court proof, your ticket will be dismissed.

---

2064 CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 463, 40200.
2065 CAL. VEH. CODE § 40610.
NOTE: For some misdemeanor violations (for example, a DUI), the police may arrest you on the spot and take you into custody. You may need to pay bail and/or sign a promise to appear in court before the police let you go. Afterward, you MUST appear in court on the date and time assigned to you in the promise to appear.

Tickets related to your car equipment, registration, insurance, or driver license are usually infraction tickets. Sometimes you can get the ticket dismissed if you correct the problem that you were cited for (also called a “fix-it” ticket or “correctable violation”).

IMPORTANT: When you sign any ticket, you are making a promise to do something—pay the fine, appear in court, and/or correct the problem as required by the ticket.

WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I GET A NEW TICKET?

It depends on the type of ticket you get.

Parking tickets: If you get a parking ticket, you just have to pay a fine. The ticket will have information about how much the fine is, what agency you owe it to (usually to the local city government or parking authority), and how to pay (by mail, in person, by phone, or online). If you disagree with the ticket, you can contact the parking agency and ask how to dispute it.2066 If you don’t pay the parking ticket on time, the amount of fines will increase. Eventually, if you haven’t paid the fine, you will not be able to renew your car registration. Parking tickets will NOT affect your ability to get a state ID or driver license because parking tickets attach to a vehicle, NOT a person.2067

Infraction tickets: If you get an infraction ticket, read the ticket carefully to see what to do. You may just need to pay a fine or you may have to fix whatever problem the ticket was issued for and then bring proof to the issuing agency. However, you may be required to appear in court on a particular date and time. You must act BEFORE the deadline on your ticket. Remember, by signing the ticket, you have promised to pay the fine, correct the problem, or appear in court.

You may have to:

1) Pay the fine, which means you plead guilty to the violation and the court will close the case. The infraction will appear as a conviction on your Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) record, but it will not be considered a criminal conviction.2068 It may add “points” to your driving record, which may have other consequences.2069

   a) NOTE: You may be eligible to go to “traffic school,” to keep the conviction points off your record.2070 (For more information about traffic school, see PG. 790.)

2066 See CAL. VEH. CODE § 40215.
2068 See CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 1808(b), 12810 (most minor traffic offenses will remain on your record for 3 years from the violation date and count as 1 point on your driving record. More serious convictions will remain on your record for longer periods (7 or 10 years) and add more points to your record; see also Dep’t of Motor Vehicles, Vehicle Code Violations used in Negligent Operator Counts, https://www.dmv.ca.gov/portal/dmv/detail/dl/viopctc.
2) Go to court on the day and time listed on the ticket. You can plead not guilty and ask for a trial to dispute the ticket, or plead guilty to the infraction and pay the fine.\footnote{CAL. VEH. CODE § 40901; see also JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CAL., Cal. Courts, Traffic Trial, http://www.courts.ca.gov/8450.htm.}

3) If you want to contest the ticket (plead not guilty) but were NOT required to appear in court, you can request a trial by written declaration. This means that instead of going to court to fight your case, you and the police officer give the judge statements and evidence in writing.\footnote{CAL. VEH. CODE § 40902-03; see also JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CAL., Cal. Courts, Traffic Trial, http://www.courts.ca.gov/8450.htm#tab9275.}

4) If you got a “fix-it” ticket, you can have your case dismissed by fixing the problem, showing proof that you have made the correction, and paying a fee. To get a proof of correction, you must get an “authorized person” to sign the “Certificate of Correction” line on your ticket. An “authorized person” is:
   - b) A DMV or court clerk—for driver license and car registration violations;
   - c) A police officer—for equipment violations;
   - d) A court clerk—for proof of car insurance.\footnote{CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 40150-53, 40610-18, 40303.5, 40522; see also JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CAL., Correctable Violations “Fix-it” Tickets, http://www.courts.ca.gov/9529.htm.}

If you are on probation, parole, or community supervision: In most cases, an infraction ticket won’t be considered a violation of your probation or parole because infractions are not criminal offenses. However, in some cases, an infraction ticket could be a violation of your supervision, depending on your underlying conviction, the specific conditions of your supervision, and the nature of the infraction. For example, if you are on probation for a DUI offense and have conditions related to alcohol and driving, a ticket for having an open container in your vehicle might be considered a violation of your supervision. If you have any questions or concerns about your terms of supervision, you should talk to your probation or parole officer (or better yet, an attorney). (You can also find more information in the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 130.)

Misdemeanor tickets: For a misdemeanor ticket, you must go to court on the date shown on your ticket. If you want to dispute (deny) the charges, you can plead not guilty and ask for a trial. You are entitled to have a lawyer represent you throughout the process. If you cannot afford a lawyer, the court will appoint a public defender to represent you. You may have to pay a fine (bail) in advance, but you will get the money back if you are found not guilty.\footnote{JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CAL., Traffic Trial, http://www.courts.ca.gov/8450.htm.} In some cases (for serious misdemeanors, like DUIs, or for repeat offenses), you may also face jail time and/or have your license suspended or revoked.

WARNING: If you are on probation, parole, or community supervision, a misdemeanor ticket could be a violation of your probation or parole conditions. You should contact a lawyer immediately, if you can. (For more information on how a new criminal offense may affect your community supervision, see the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 130.)
WHAT COULD HAPPEN IF I DON’T PAY MY TRAFFIC FINES OR IF I DON’T APPEAR FOR MY COURT DATE?

There are serious consequences if you don’t pay your traffic fines, or if you don’t show up for your court date.\(^{2075}\)

FAILURE TO PAY YOUR FINES:

- The amount you owe in traffic fines can increase by A LOT. You may be charged interest and additional fees as penalties for paying late or not paying at all.\(^{2076}\)
- If you agreed to make installment payments to the court for your traffic fines, and you do not make the required payments, the court can order you to pay a $300 civil assessment fine.\(^{2077}\)
- Your debt could be referred to a collection agency, which can affect your credit score and, in turn, your ability to get a loan, rent an apartment, or qualify for some jobs. (See PG. 768 for more information on “collections”).
- For infraction and misdemeanor tickets—Your driver license can be suspended if you don’t pay your fines on time. This means that you CANNOT legally drive a car, and you can be charged with other offenses if you drive while your license is suspended.\(^{2078}\) You will not get your license back until you pay off all fines and fees you owe—plus additional fees for having your license suspended and reissued.\(^{2079}\)
- For parking tickets—You will not be allowed to renew your car registration if you owe unpaid parking fines for that car (and you may be charged an extra fee for having your registration suspended).\(^{2080}\) Your car MUST be registered with the DMV in order for you or anyone else to drive it, but the DMV will NOT let you renew your registration until you pay off all fines and fees you owe. This means your car CANNOT legally be driven or sold during this time (and you can be charged with other offenses if you drive your car when it’s not registered).\(^{2081}\) But remember, parking tickets attach to specific CARS—not people—so you CAN still drive other cars during this time.
- If you have a correctable violation (“fix-it” ticket) and do not make the corrections required by the ticket OR do not provide proof of correction, you can be charged with a misdemeanor.\(^{2082}\)
- A Judge may order you to appear in court to explain why you have not paid your ticket.

FAILURE TO APPEAR IN COURT:

If a judge has ordered you to appear in court because of your unpaid ticket, you must appear. If you do not, the court can charge you with a misdemeanor for “failure to appear” or “contempt of court,” and issue a warrant for your arrest.\(^{2083}\)

I THINK I HAD AN OLD TRAFFIC TICKET, BUT I CAN’T REMEMBER OR CAN'T FIND IT. WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

Old traffic tickets can be difficult to track down! This is because cities, counties, the state, and even some colleges have the power to issue traffic tickets—and each agency may handle overdue tickets differently. This can make it hard to know whether you owe unpaid traffic fines, how much you owe, whom you owe fines to, and what to do next. The first step is to find out where your ticket is.

FOR PARKING TICKETS:

• If you CAN remember where you got the ticket, you can contact the city where you got the ticket and ask how to resolve a parking ticket. If the city has a separate department or agency that handles traffic tickets, you will need to speak with someone from that office directly.

• If you CAN’T remember where you got the ticket, you can contact the DMV and ask whether there are any holds on your car registration. (A hold means that you are not allowed to renew your registration because you didn’t pay a parking ticket). The DMV will be able to tell you which county, city, or parking agency put the hold on your registration—this is where you owe one or more outstanding parking tickets.

• You will also find out about any unpaid parking tickets when it’s time to renew your car registration (which you have to do every year). The DMV will send you an annual notice to renew your registration which will list any unpaid parking fines you owe and where you got each ticket. You will not be allowed to renew your registration until you pay all these fines and fees.

FOR INFRACTION AND MISDEMEANOR TICKETS:

• The easiest way to track down all of your old misdemeanor and infraction tickets is through the DMV. You can go to any DMV office and ask for a list of your warrants, which should be available for free. The list of warrants will show all outstanding traffic tickets where you failed to appear in court (FTAs) and/or failed to pay (FTPs), and will also show where you got the ticket.

• You can also ask the DMV whether there are any holds on your driver license due to outstanding traffic tickets. (A hold means that your license has been suspended and/or you cannot renew it because you didn’t pay a traffic ticket or you failed to appear in court.) The DMV will be able to tell you which court put the hold on your license—this is where you owe outstanding traffic tickets.

2084 CAL. VEH. CODE § 4760(a)(1) (although the DMV does not issue tickets itself, it may put a hold on your Vehicle Registration if you have outstanding unpaid parking tickets). A Vehicle Registration hold prevents you from renewing your license until you resolve the underlying ticket and get the hold removed.

2090 CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 40508 (a), (b), (c), 40509.5. Although the DMV does not issue tickets itself, other courts and agencies can ask the DMV to put a hold on your Driver License if you failed to pay your traffic tickets or to appear in court when you were supposed to.

2091 CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 40002, 40002.1.
WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS IF THE DMV TOLD ME I HAVE AN OUTSTANDING TRAFFIC TICKET?

FOR PARKING TICKETS:

• Once you know where you owe outstanding parking tickets, you should contact the local parking authority directly to find out how much you owe and what to do next.
• If the ticket is old enough, it may have been sent to collections. If this is the case, you will need to contact the collection agency (county collections, a private agency, or the Franchise Tax Board) to find out how to pay off your debt. (For more information on finding the collection agency that has your ticket, see PG. 782.)
• If you have multiple tickets, there may be more than one hold on your vehicle registration. It’s important to pay off any tickets with registration holds first, so that you can renew your registration!

FOR INFRACTION AND MISDEMEANOR TICKETS:
If you got an infraction or misdemeanor traffic ticket and you:

• Did not pay the ticket;
• Did not go to court on the date listed on the ticket;
• Went to court and were ordered to pay a fine by the judge, but did not pay the fine.

IMPORTANT: When you are charged with a “failure to appear” or “failure to pay,” the court may order a warrant for your arrest.2092 IF THERE IS ANY CHANCE THAT YOU HAVE AN ARREST WARRANT FOR ONE OF THESE REASONS, IT CAN BE VERY HELPFUL TO CONTACT A LAWYER AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. A lawyer may be able to get you a court date to try and resolve the situation.2093 It is very important to attend any court dates! Be aware that even if you go to court to get the warrant removed, you will likely still have to pay for the ticket and any additional fines and fees.

I HAD A TRAFFIC TICKET THAT WAS PENDING (UNRESOLVED) WHEN I WAS INCARCERATED. WHAT MIGHT HAVE HAPPENED TO IT?

If you were formerly incarcerated in California state prison: Under state law, the DMV must dismiss most non-felony traffic tickets that were pending when you went to prison. A ticket is “pending” when the court has not yet made a decision in the case (i.e. ordered you to pay the fine). Only tickets for misdemeanor traffic offenses and infractions can be dismissed under this law. Parking tickets CANNOT be dismissed this way.2094 PLEASE NOTE: this rule only applies to state prisons!

2092 CAL. VEH. CODE § 40508 (a); see also Failure to Appear, SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA COUNTY OF ORANGE, http://www.occourts.org/directory/traffic/general-information/appearances/failure-to-appear.html.
2094 CAL. VEH. CODE § 41500 (no prosecution for a non-felony violation of the Vehicle Code pending at the time of commitment to custody).
ADDITIONALLY, YOUR TRAFFIC TICKET CANNOT BE DISMISSED IF:

• You got the ticket while you were on parole;\(^{2095}\)
• The ticket is for an offense that would require the DMV to automatically revoke or suspend your driver license if you were convicted;\(^{2096}\)
• You are serving your sentence in county jail under Realignment.\(^{2097}\)

I THINK MY TRAFFIC TICKETQUALIFIES FOR DISMISSAL. HOW CAN I GET IT DISMISSED?

You must proactively request dismissal from the DMV directly. The court will not automatically do this on your behalf. You will need to send a letter to the DMV on official California Department of Corrections & Rehabilitation letterhead, and get it signed by an “Authorized Representative.”

• If you’re still incarcerated, you should ask your Correctional Counselor or other prison staff person to provide letterhead and sign off on your request.
• If you’re on parole, you will have to ask your parole or probation officer to provide letterhead and sign off on your request.\(^{2098}\)

The letter should say that you are requesting dismissal of your misdemeanor or infraction ticket under Vehicle Code Section 41500, and it must include the dates of your commitment and release (if you’re out). Send your request to:

Department of Motor Vehicles
Division of Drivers Safety and Licensing

HELPFUL HINT

Here are 3 options if you are struggling to pay your traffic fines:

1. Payment Plans—If you owe unpaid traffic fines, you can contact the court, parking authority, or collection agency that you owe money to and ask about setting up a payment or installment plan (where you pay off a little every month instead of everything all at once).
2. Amnesty Programs—Some counties have “amnesty” programs that allow you to pay off all of your delinquent traffic debt for a fraction of the price.\(^{2099}\) Contact the traffic court in the county where you owe money to find out whether it runs an amnesty program and whether you are eligible.
3. Specialty Courts—Some counties have special homeless courts, DUI courts, or other community courts that may be able to help you resolve your tickets and fines. Contact the local public defender in the county where you got the ticket to ask if there are any community courts available and whether you are eligible.

WHAT IF I OWE COURT-ORDERED DEBT FOR A FEDERAL OFFENSE?

Up to this point, this Chapter has only covered debts that were ordered by a California state court, NOT those ordered by a federal court.

If you have debts that stem from a federal offense, your court-ordered debt will look different, because federal courts have their own rules for restitution, fines, and fees. However, these 3 general types of debt are the same in the federal system:

1) Restitution: Repays any victims (people, organizations, government agencies, etc.) that suffered harm, property damage, or monetary losses caused by your actions. This is like victim restitution in state court.

2) Fines: Serve as additional punishment for your offense and are part of your criminal sentence. The amount of the fine will depend on the crime for which you were convicted. These are like fines and penalties in state court.

3) Special Assessments: Fees assigned for each separate offense you were convicted of. The amount of the Assessment depends on the seriousness of the offense. ALL of your federal Special Assessment debt will be forgiven 5 years after your conviction, after which you will no longer owe this debt.

WARNING: Just like for state court debt, you may also owe additional interest or other penalties on your federal court-ordered debt (for example, if you don’t make required payments on time).

FOR MORE INFORMATION ON FEDERAL COURT-ORDERED DEBT

If you have questions about your federal court-ordered debt, you should contact your federal public defender or the federal public defender office in your area.

- To find out how much you owe, contact the federal district court where you were convicted. You will need to speak with the Finance Department to find out your balance.
- To find out if you owe additional interest or penalties, you will need to contact the U.S. Attorney’s Financial Litigation (Collections) Unit to learn about these additional amounts.
- Your federal probation officer may also be able to answer questions about your court-ordered debt, such as how much you owe and/or how to make payments.

---

III. TAKING CONTROL OF YOUR COURT-ORDERED DEBT

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• How to take control of your court-ordered debt, including:
  o How find out how much you owe;
  o How to get your debt reduced or forgiven; and o Strategies for managing and paying off your debt.

Taking control of your court-ordered debt is done by knowing the type of debt you owe, the amount of debt you owe, and creating plan as to how to repay this debt while understanding whether this debt has impact on your terms of probation and/or employment. In Part III, we will answer the following questions for each type of debt:

• How do I find out how much I owe?
  o Restitution
  o Court fines & penalties and court administrative fees (generally handled the same way)
  o Traffic fines & fees
• How do I pay off or “satisfy” my court-ordered debt?
  o Restitution
  o Court fines & penalties and court administrative fees (generally handled the same way)
  o Traffic fines & fees
• Is there any way to reduce or forgive my court-ordered debt?
  o Restitution
  o Court fines & penalties and court administrative fees (generally handled the same way)
  o Traffic fines & fees

HOW DO I FIND OUT HOW MUCH COURT-ORDERED DEBT I OWE?

Since there are typically three types of debt: restitution, court fines and penalties, and court administrative fees, to find out how much you owe requires you to ask different questions to different people/agencies to make sure you know of all of your debt and to figure out how much you owe. Below three different debt types are discussed as well as debts you may owe if you received traffic tickets as part of your case or if you had tickets prior to being incarcerated.
If you are incarcerated, you should be able to get a copy of your restitution balance sheet from your facility (either a CDCR facility or county jail). Ask your Correctional Counselor if you have any questions about your restitution.2104

If you have just been released, your facility (or the agency it has chosen) will either continue to collect your debt itself or refer your debt out to a private collection agency or the Franchise Tax Board.2105 You should get a demand notice from whichever agency will continue collecting your restitution debt within 90 days of your release, although there is no set time for this.2106

If you are on parole, probation, or community supervision, talk to your parole agent or probation officer.2107 They can give you a copy of your balance sheet, which has information about how much you currently owe.

At any time, you can also find out how much you owe by contacting an Adult Restitution Agent at the CDCR Office of Victim & Survivor Rights & Services Restitution Unit at (877) 256-6877 (toll free). They will be able to tell you your restitution balance and can give you information about what to do while you wait for the collection agency to contact you.2108

I HAVEN’T EVER RECEIVED NOTICExE THAT I OWE ANY MONEY FOR RESTITUTION, SO I PROBABLY DON’T, RIGHT?

Not necessarily. While you should receive notice of your debt, it is possible that you won’t. As we said in the beginning of this Chapter, any number of things may have prevented the notice of your debt from getting to you. Even if you have received a demand notice, it is possible that the notice you received only covered some, but NOT all of your debts. Remember, your various debts may have been sent to different agencies. For this reason, it is possible that you owe money even if you did NOT receive a notice and it is possible that you owe more money than the notice stated. It is always better to check in order to be safe!

COURT FINES AND PENALTIES AND COURT ADMINISTRATIVE FEES

As discussed on PG. 763, court fines and penalties are debts you may incur as punishment or consequences for the crime you were charged with. Court administrative fees are the fees that are paid for the daily operation of the court. While these two debts are different, here these debts are discussed together because they are usually grouped together (totaled) when discussing how much you owe the court and require you to pay both fees together and to pay these fees to one office.

HOW DO I FIND OUT IF I HAVE ANY COURT FINES AND FEES?

STEP 1: Contact the court where you were convicted
To find out how much you owe in court fines and fees, you should start by contacting the court in the county where you were convicted. You should try to provide your case number, however you may be able to locate your case using your name, birth date, and/or other personal information. If you have any court papers from your case, they will list your case number and the county you were convicted in. If you don’t have any of your court papers, you may need to get a copy of your RAP sheet to figure out what court(s) you have convictions from.

STEP 2: Find out where your debt is now
When you contact the court, the clerk should be able to tell you what you were ordered to pay, whether your case has been sent to collections, and if so, which collection agency now has your debt. Remember, if you have convictions from multiple cases, even if they are all in the same county, you will need to ask about every case.

If you have convictions from different counties, you will need to contact the court in each county.

Make sure to ask the court for the contact information for each and every agency that will be collecting your debt. If some or all of your debt is still with the court, ask the clerk how to contact the court’s “collection” or “revenue” unit (the department that keeps track of court-ordered debts and payments). (For a list of California county court collection unit contact information, see Appendix G, PG. 814.)

STEP 3: Contact the collection agency in charge of your debt
Once you know which collection agency is collecting your debt, you can contact them directly to ask how much you owe and how to pay. Remember that your debts may be collected by several different collection agencies, so you may need to contact all the different agencies to find out how much you owe in total. You may get shuffled around to many different people, but this is important, so be patient!
TRAFFIC FINES & FEES

HOW DO I FIND OUT HOW MUCH I OWE IN TRAFFIC FINES?

FOR NEW TICKETS AND FINES:

- A parking ticket shows the amount you must pay on the ticket itself. The ticket will also say where to send your payment (usually to the local city government or parking agency), how to pay in person, and/or whether you can pay online. If you want to dispute the ticket itself or the amount that you owe, contact the parking agency on the ticket and ask the clerk what to do.2109
- An infraction ticket will show you either (1) the amount of the fine that you have to pay, or (2) when you have to appear in court. If you are required to go to court, the judge will tell you how much the fine is.2110
- For a misdemeanor ticket, you must go to court on the date stated on your ticket. The court will tell you how much you must pay if you are convicted. Your fines and fees may be as much as $5000, you may face jail time, and/or your driver license may be suspended.2111
- If you have questions or disagreements about your infraction or misdemeanor ticket, contact the court listed on your ticket. Contact information and/or links for all local traffic courts is also available online at http://www.ca.gov/Driving/LawsSafety/TrafficFines.html.

FOR OLD TICKETS AND FINES:

If you don’t have the paper ticket anymore, but you know WHERE you got it...

- For parking tickets, contact the parking authority in the city where you got the ticket and tell them you need information about an old parking ticket. This may be the Department of Parking and Traffic, the county sheriff’s department, or the local police department.
- For infraction and misdemeanor tickets, contact the traffic court in the county where the ticket was issued. The traffic court clerk will be able to tell you how much money you owe and explain the payment process.2112 The clerk will be able to tell you if you have multiple tickets for traffic-related infractions or misdemeanors in that county, but will not have information about non-traffic related offenses. The clerk also will not be able to tell you if you have unpaid traffic tickets in other counties.

If you don’t know WHERE you got the ticket or if the ticket is OUTSTANDING...

- See PG. 775 to find out how to find your old traffic tickets.
- Follow steps 1 and/or 2 above once you know where you have unpaid traffic tickets.

If your traffic fines have been referred to collections, you will need to contact the collection agency to find out how much you owe and how to pay off your fines. Ask the court or agency that issued the ticket which collection agency they send your debt to, and be sure to get the collection agency’s phone number and contact information.

2112 Telephone interview with Carrie (last name unknown), Traffic Court Clerk, Superior Court of the County of Alameda (Feb. 10, 2015).
GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT TRAFFIC FINES:

An important thing to know about traffic fines is that there are lots of additional fees and penalties that can get added to your initial fine. These extra fees and penalties are added automatically—regardless of whether it’s a new or old ticket, and even if you pay everything on time! Your fines may also increase if you have prior traffic violations or points on your driving record. Depending on what your original ticket was for, the additional fees and penalties can sometimes add up to several hundred dollars for an infraction ticket (and much more for a misdemeanor ticket).
IV. PAYING OFF OR “SATISFYING” MY COURT-ORDERED DEBT

How you pay your fines, fees, and restitution will vary, because each court and agency handles unpaid debts slightly differently. Depending on where you were convicted, the type(s) of debt(s) you owe, how much you owe, how old your debt is, and whether you are currently incarcerated or on supervision, your debt may be collected by any one of these departments or agencies:

• Court Collections
• CDCR
• Local jail or juvenile hall
• Parole officer
• Probation Department
• Victim Compensation & Government Claims Board
• Franchise Tax Board
• County collection agency
• Private collection agencies

RESTITUTION

HOW DO I PAY RESTITUTION WHILE INCARCERATED?

CDCR (or the county jail) will automatically deduct victim restitution, and, if possible, restitution fine payments from deposits in your trust account and any wages you earn. You can also make voluntary payments whenever you like.

HOW DO I PAY RESTITUTION WHILE ON A STATE PAROL?

CDCR has most likely sent your victim restitution debt to the Franchise Tax Board for collection. The FTB will send you a demand notice with contact information and instructions on how to set up a payment plan. You can also contact the FTB directly to make payment arrangements. (See PG. 786 for FTB contact information.) If you also want to pay off your restitution fines (or parole revocation fines) voluntarily while you are on parole, you can send these payments directly to CDCR. Your parole agent can tell you how much you owe and/or answer other questions about your payments.

CAL. PENAL CODE § 2085.5 (money collected will be used to pay off direct orders (victim restitution) first, and then restitution fines). The law also authorizes CDCR and/or the county collection agency to deduct a 10% administrative fee, in addition to the restitution payments collected.

Make sure you include your name and CDCR number with your payment, and send to:

CDCR—Office of Trust Accounting
P.O. Box 276088
Sacramento, CA 95827

HOW DO I PAY RESTITUTION WHILE ON PROBATION, PRCS, OR MANDATORY SUPERVISION IN CALIFORNIA?

You should ask your probation officer about making payments. You can also call the CDCR Office of Victim & Survivor Rights & Services Restitution Unit at (877) 256-6877 (toll free) to discuss your restitution balance and arrange your payments.

IMPORTANT: PAY OFF RESTITUTION AND CONDITION-OF-PROBATION DEBTS FIRST!

Always try to pay off your restitution and any other debts that are conditions of your probation first, as these can affect the length of your probation and your ability to have your conviction dismissed under California’s expungement statute. (Payments are supposed to go to these debts first automatically, but this doesn’t always happen.)

- When you make a payment in person, ask the clerk (or collections representative) who receives your payment to put it toward your restitution and any other fines imposed as conditions of your probation first.
- If you make payments online, you can select which fines or fees your payment will go toward. Make sure you select the ones that are conditions of your probation first.
- If send your payment by mail, write on your check or money order in the memo line—or include a note—that indicates which fine or fee the payment is specifically meant for.

After you are off state parole, CDCR will refer the remainder of your debt (unpaid restitution fines, parole revocation restitution, court fines and fees, administrative fees) to the California Franchise Tax Board.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN IF I CAN’T PAY THE RESTITUTION?

It depends who you owe the restitution to.

If the California Franchise Tax Board (FTB) is in charge of collecting your restitution debt, here are some steps you can take to possibly make your financial situation easier:

1) Set Up a Payment Plan: Contact the FTB to discuss your options for paying your debt in installments instead of all at once;

2) Manage Your Payments Online: Set up an online account to instantly view your current balance, make payments, and keep records of the debt you have already paid.

3) Get Your Payments Reduced: If the FTB is taking too much money out of your paycheck (called “wage garnishment”) and you don’t have enough to live on, you can claim financial hardship and ask the FTB to reduce the amount being taken out of each paycheck. 2120 (Note: The FTB can only lower the amount taken from each payment, but cannot reduce the total amount of debt that you owe.) (See PG. 768 for more information on wage garnishment.)

4) Dispute the Amount You Owe: If you disagree with the AMOUNT of debt you owe, you will need to contact the local court or county collection agency listed on your demand notice (the document notifying you that you owe money) directly. The FTB can help you lower the amount you pay each month, but it CANNOT answer questions or make changes to your total debt orders.

The California FTB employs representatives to help you. You can call the FTB at (916) 845-4064 during normal weekday hours (Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. – 5 p.m.) or visit the FTB’s website at:

https://www.ftb.ca.gov/online/Court_Ordered_Debt/index.asp.

COURT FINES, PENALTIES, ADMINISTRATIVE FEES

HOW DO I PAY OFF THE COURT FINES, PENALTIES, AND ADMINISTRATIVE FEES?

As discussed on PG. 763, court fines and penalties are debts you may incur as punishment or consequences for the crime you were charged with. Court administrative fees are the fees that are paid for the daily operation of the court. While these two debts are different, here these debts are discussed together because they are usually grouped together (totaled) when discussing how much you owe the court and require you to pay both fees together and to pay these fees to one office.

The process for collecting court fines and fees is complicated and may be different from county to county. In general, you can follow these instructions:2121

STEP 1: Contact the court(s) where you were convicted

See PG. 781 (Step 1 on how to find out how much you owe in court fines and administrative fees) for instructions on how to identify and contact the court(s) where you were convicted.

STEP 2: Find out who is in charge of collecting your debt and contact them

Different counties have different methods for collecting court fines and fees. Depending on where you are located, collection may be handled by different agencies, including the court itself, a county agency, a private collection agency, or the Franchise Tax Board. See PG. 781 above (Steps 2-3 on how to find out how much you owe in court fines and administrative fees) for instructions on how to identify and contact the agency(ies) in charge of collecting your debt.

Remember that your debts may be collected by several different collection agencies, so you may need to contact each of these different agencies about making payments.

STEP 3: Discuss your payment options.

When you contact the collection agency or court that’s in charge of your debt, a representative can help you design a payment plan that works best for your situation. The goal is to create a plan that will prevent you from facing extra fees or other penalties (like a hold on your DMV record) that can result from late or insufficient payments.

It is important to be open and honest about your current financial situation, including whether or not you have a job, pay child support, or owe any other debts or payments. Most of the time, the collection representative will take these things into account and work with you to create a plan that you can realistically stick to.

Depending on your individual situation and the amount of money you owe, the collection agency may ask you to pay everything off right away. In other situations, they may allow you to set up a payment plan so that you make smaller payments over time. Remember that the agency or court might charge a fee to cover the costs of managing your payment plan, and might charge additional fees for each payment you make.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 1205(e) (mandating payment of administrative fees for court installment plans on fines and fees).} Collection agencies can also charge BIG penalty fees for any late payments (or even demand that you pay off the entire remaining amount due). Make sure you ask about fees and penalties and/or read the fine print before you agree to a payment plan!

WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN IF I CAN’T PAY MY DEBT?

If you don’t keep up with your payments, your debt becomes delinquent (overdue). The agency in charge of collecting your debt will send a notice letter to your last known address explaining that your payment is overdue.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203(j); CAL. GOV’T CODE § 27755.} After 10 days, the court or agency may order you to pay extra fees on top of what you already owe, or they may put a hold on your DMV record.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203(d).} The amount of late fees you may owe will depend on many factors, including what county your debt is in, what agency is in charge of collection, and the amount of debt you owe. (For more information on fair debt collection practices, see Appendix F, PG. 809.)

• If you are on parole, talk to your parole agent and explain that you are having a hard time making payments. He or she may be able to work with you to help you manage this debt.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 1205(e); CAL. VEH. CODE § 40509.5.}

• If you are on probation, talk to your probation officer and explain that you are having a hard time making payments. The probation department or the court may do a financial evaluation (meaning a consideration of your income, other debts, etc.), and will decide whether to reduce your payment amounts based on your inability to pay.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 1214.1; CAL. VEH. CODE § 40509.5.} You also have the right to ask to court to reduce some or all of your fines and fees.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203(j); CAL. GOV’T CODE § 27755.} Keep in mind, however, that the judge can also order you to look for work as a condition of your probation, and may require you to bring in proof that you’re applying for jobs every week.\footnote{CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203(d).}

IN GENERAL, YOUR INABILITY TO PAY WILL NOT BE CONSIDERED A VIOLATION IF IT IS DUE TO CIRCUMSTANCES BEYOND YOUR CONTROL. However, in more serious cases, you could have your probation extended or even revoked if:

1) you’re not paying debts that are a condition of your probation AND you are also violating other probation conditions (such as reporting requirements), OR

2) the court thinks that you are willfully refusing to pay.

For this reason, it is very important that you speak with your probation officer and make it clear that you are not avoiding payments on purpose. If you are able to make even very small payments, this will help show the court and your probation officer that you are making an effort.

• If you are not on any form of supervision, contact the agency in charge of collecting your debt and ask to set a new payment plan. (See PG. 781 for information on how to find and contact the agency in charge of your debt to set up a payment plan.)

- If you are re-incarcerated, the debt associated with your prior conviction will not go away. You will still be responsible for paying it off. However, you should not face any extra fees or interest charges for failing to pay while you are inside. If for some reason you are charged a fee for missing a payment while incarcerated, you should contact the court or collection agency when you are released and provide them with proof that you were incarcerated during that time period to have the fee waived.

TRAFFIC FINES AND FEES

HOW DO I PAY MY TRAFFIC FINES?

For parking tickets, send your payment to the parking agency listed on the ticket.

For infraction tickets: Read the ticket carefully—it will tell you whether to pay a fine or appear in court.

If you are paying a fine, you will make payments to the court in the county where you received the ticket. Check the ticket for specific information about how and where to send your payment. You may also get a letter from the court—most counties will send you information about how to pay or contest (challenge) your ticket, and whether you have the option of attending traffic school instead. You can also contact the court right away to set up a payment plan.

The ticket will also indicate whether you have a "correctable violation." If so, you can have your ticket AND traffic fine dismissed by fixing the problem, showing proof that you have made the correction, and paying a dismissal fee. To get proof that you have corrected the problem, you must get an authorized person to sign the "Certificate of Correction" line on your ticket. Bring the signed ticket and your dismissal fee payment to the court clerk BEFORE the deadline on the ticket. (In some cases, you may also be able to send your proof of correction and payment by mail—check your ticket or contact the court to find out.) The court will then dismiss your case and it will not go on your record.

1) For driver license and car registration violations, get your ticket signed by the DMV or a court clerk.
2) For equipment violations, get your ticket signed by a police officer.
3) For proof of car insurance at the time of the citation, get your ticket signed by a court clerk.

In some cases, you may be able to attend traffic school for your ticket. Traffic school is a driver training class that you can take to make sure that your ticket does not show on your driving record. Tickets can impact your driving record by adding "points" to it. Points on your record can cause your insurance rate to increase and can even result in the suspension or revocation of your license.

2129 Not paying a fee or missing a payment because you were incarcerated and receiving a Failure to Appear citation as a result, is considered a "valid excuse" meaning you do not have to pay this fee. See Superior Court of Cal., Frequently Asked Questions, https://www.saccourt.ca.gov/traffic/faq.aspx.

2132 CAL. VEH. CODE § 40510-10.5.

2134 CAL. VEH. CODE §§ 41501, 42005.
You may get a letter from the court telling you if traffic school is an option, but you can also contact the court directly to ask. If the court lets you go to traffic school, you will need to complete the course by a specific deadline and provide a certificate of completion to prove that you have completed it. Make sure you attend a traffic school that is approved by the court, otherwise you will not receive credit for completing the course. The court can provide you with a list of approved schools.

If you successfully complete traffic school, your ticket will still go on your driving record, but it will be made confidential (hidden). Also, you will still have to pay all of your traffic fines, AND you will also have to pay additional enrollment fees to the court and to the traffic school. However, you will NOT get any points added to your driving record, which means your insurance rates won’t go up and your license will not be in danger of suspension or revocation. So, even though traffic school can cost you MORE money in the SHORT term, it can SAVE you a lot of money and trouble in the LONG run.

For more information on traffic school, ask the traffic court clerk or visit the Judicial Council website at http://www.courts.ca.gov/9410.htm.

ACTION ITEM: CAN I GO TO TRAFFIC SCHOOL?

Generally, you can go to traffic school if:

- You have a valid, regular (not commercial) driver license,
- Your ticket is for a moving violation that is an infraction (not a misdemeanor), and
- You were driving a regular (non-commercial) vehicle when you got the ticket.

Some reasons why you may NOT be eligible for traffic school:

- You have a parking ticket or misdemeanor ticket;
- Your ticket was for a serious moving violation—including speeding more than 25mph over the speed limit;
- Your ticket was for a DUI or other drug/alcohol-related violation;
- You’ve gone to traffic school for another ticket within the past 18 months; or
- You were driving a commercial vehicle when you got the ticket.

For OLD infraction tickets, you will need to find out which court or agency is in charge of collecting your fines (see PG. 775) and how much you owe (see PG. 782). Then contact that agency to find out how to pay off your fines.

For misdemeanor tickets: You will need to go to court in the county where you got the ticket, on the day and time listed on your ticket. The court will tell you how much you owe, and you will make payments to the court.

For OLD misdemeanor tickets, you will need to find out which court or agency is in charge of collecting your fines (see PG. 775) and how much you owe (see PG. 782). Then contact that agency to find out how to pay off your fines.

2135 CAL. VEH. CODE § 40512.6.
2137 CAL. VEH. CODE § 42007–07.1.
2138 CAL. VEH. CODE § 1608.7; but see § 1808.10 (conviction not confidential for holder of commercial driver license).
WHAT OPTIONS DO I HAVE IF I CANNOT PAY MY TRAFFIC FINES?

It depends on the type of traffic fine.

FOR PARKING TICKETS

Talk to the parking agency (or collection agency, if your parking fines were sent to collections) about setting up a payment plan. Keep in mind that the payment plan may charge additional fees, as well as big penalties for missed payments—so make sure to ask about any fees and penalties before you sign up!

FOR MISDEMEANOR AND INFRACTION TICKETS

- Talk to the traffic court clerk (or collection agency, if your traffic fines were sent to collections) about setting up a payment plan. Keep in mind that the payment plan may charge additional fees, as well as big penalties for missed payments—so make sure to ask about any fees and penalties before you sign up!²¹⁴²
- You can go back to court and ask the judge to reduce or forgive your traffic fines based on your inability to pay. (You can also do this at the time when the judge first orders you to pay the fines.) Either the judge or another county official will do an evaluation of your financial situation. Based on this evaluation, the judge will decide how much of your fines—if any—you will have to pay, and will set up a payment plan for you.²¹⁴²
- Some counties have amnesty programs that can reduce the amount of debt you owe for overdue infraction and misdemeanor tickets.²¹⁴³ Contact the local traffic court to find out whether the county has an amnesty program and whether you are eligible.

WHAT OPTIONS DO I HAVE TO REDUCE OR FORGIVE MY COURT-ORDERED DEBT?

It depends on the type of court-ordered debt.

RESTITUTION

As we have stated, restitution is mandatory and stays with you for life. However, a judge may order you to do community service instead of paying restitution if he or she finds “compelling and extraordinary reasons” for doing so. Again, your inability to pay is not a compelling or extraordinary reason.²¹⁴⁴
COURT FINES & PENALTIES AND COURT ADMINISTRATIVE FEES:

It is often possible to get your fines and fees reduced or forgiven (“vacated”) by the court. However, it depends heavily on what county your debt is from, and which judge is considering your case.

In general, judges are more likely to reduce or waive fines and fees if you can show that:

• You’re making an effort to pay your debts (for example, you’re paying restitution, even though you can’t afford to pay the other fines and fees);
• You’re taking steps toward rehabilitation (for example, you’re in drug treatment or anger management counseling; you’re enrolled in school; you’ve reunited with your family); and
• You’re following all other conditions of your supervision.

Here are some ways that you may be able to reduce, forgive, or otherwise satisfy your fines and fees:

• Some courts may allow you to do community service instead of paying your fines and fees. However, there is a lot of variation from county to county, and many counties may not offer community service at all. If the judge did not give you the option of community service at sentencing, you should contact the court or local public defender to ask if the county runs a community service program.
• The court may allow you to voluntarily choose to do jail time instead of paying your court-ordered fines. You can get your debt reduced by $30/day spent in custody.
• You can go to the court directly and ask the judge to forgive (“vacate” or “dismiss”) or reduce your debts.
• If you get your conviction dismissed, the court can forgive any remaining fines and fees you owe, including restitution fines (but the court CANNOT forgive your victim restitution).

Research Bureau, Who Pays for Penalty Assessment Programs in California? 19-26 (Feb. 2006), http://www.library.ca.gov/crb/06/03/06-009.pdf (judges can impose community service in place of fines and fees); Brennan Center, Criminal Justice Debt: A Barrier to Reentry at 42 n.75 (describing county-level variations); Interview with Buffy Hutchinson, Criminal Defense Attorney, San Francisco, Dec. 18, 2014.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT PAYING YOUR COURT-ORDERED DEBT:

- If you owe payments on more than one case, make sure you specify which case AND which fine or fee within that case your payment is for—otherwise the payments may automatically go to your oldest case first. Remember, you want to pay off the debts that are conditions of probation, BEFORE paying off any other debts.
- Try to make small, consistent payments to the court. This shows that you are aware of your debts and are doing your best to pay them off. It may also keep the court from sending your case to collections.
- If you sign up for a payment plan, make sure to ask about the interest rate, any additional fees, and penalties for missed payments. Collection agencies often add extra fees and interest to your account, which could increase the total amount you have to pay.
- Keep a list of all payments you make, including the date and time, and who you gave the payment to (the court, county collection agency, FTB, or private collection agency). When you make a payment, always ask for a receipt for the current payment and a print-out of the amount you still owe.

TRAFFIC FINES & FEES

Expenses from traffic fines and fees may seem unimportant if you do not have a car and/or you do not drive frequently. However, remember that these fees (like the other fees discussed in this Chapter) may have a significant impact on your parole or probation conditions and/or finding employment. Because of their impact, it can help to find out if you have any tickets and if you owe any fees, so you can make informed future decisions about how to resolve your debt.

2149 Interview with Michele Vela-Payne, Supervising Probation Officer, Sacramento Cnty. Prob. Dep’t, Nov. 5, 2014.
2150 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.1d (allocation of partial payments). The older case may not be the most important one to pay off, for example, if you owe administrative fees on the older case, but you owe restitution or other fines that are conditions of probation on a newer case, making payments on the newer case is more important.
V. CONCLUSION

Many people struggle with different types of debt, but it can be particularly difficult if you are trying to rebuild your life after incarceration. If you have court-ordered debt, the bottom line is, you will likely have to figure out a way to pay it off at some point. Hopefully this Chapter gave you some useful information to help you not only minimize the debt itself, but also its impact on your life.

1. A judgment creditor has obtained this order to collect a court judgment against your employee. You are directed to withhold part of the earnings of the employee (see instructions on reverse of this form). Pay the withheld sums to the levying officer (name and address above).

   If the employee works for you now, you must give the employee a copy of this order and the Employee Instructions (form WG-003) within 10 days after receiving this order.

   Complete both copies of the form Employer's Return (form WG-005) and mail them to the levying officer within 15 days after receiving this order, whether or not the employee works for you.

2. The total amount due is: $

   Count 10 calendar days from the date when you received this order. If your employee's pay period ends before the 10th day, do not withhold earnings payable for that pay period. Do withhold from earnings that are payable for any pay period ending on or after that 10th day.

   Continue withholding for all pay periods until you withhold the amount due. The levying officer will notify you of an assessment you should withhold in addition to the amount due. Do not withhold more than the total of these amounts. Never withhold any earnings payable before the beginning of the earnings withholding period.

3. The judgment was entered in the court on (date):

   The judgment creditor (if different from the plaintiff) is (name):

4. The INSTRUCTIONS TO EMPLOYER on the reverse tell you how much of the employee's earnings to withhold each payday and answer other questions you may have.

Judicial Council of California
WG-002 [Rev. July 1, 2014]
INSTRUCTIONS TO EMPLOYER ON EARNINGS WITHHOLDING ORDERS

THE CHART BELOW AND THESE INSTRUCTIONS APPLY UNDER NORMAL CIRCUMSTANCES. THEY DO NOT APPLY TO ORDERS FOR THE SUPPORT OF A SPOUSE, FORMER SPOUSE, OR CHILD.

The chart below shows HOW MUCH TO WITHHOLD when the state minimum wage is $9.00 per hour, for different amounts of disposable earnings (as described in the Computation Instructions) and different pay periods. If the minimum wage changes in the future, the levy officer will provide a chart showing the new withholding rates.

COMPUTATION INSTRUCTIONS

State and federal law limits the amount of earnings that can be withheld. The limitations are based on the employee's disposable earnings, which are different from gross pay or take-home pay.

To determine the CORRECT AMOUNT OF EARNINGS TO BE WITHHELD (if any), compute the employee's disposable earnings.

- (A) Earnings include any money (whether called wages, salary, commissions, bonuses, or anything else) that is paid by an employer to an employee for personal services. Vacation or sick pay is subject to withholding as it is received by the employee. Tips are generally not included as earnings since they are not paid by the employer.

- (B) Disposable earnings are the earnings left after subtracting the part of the earnings a state or federal law requires an employer to withhold. Generally these required deductions are (1) federal income tax, (2) federal social security, (3) state income tax, (4) state disability insurance, and (5) payments to public employee retirement systems. Disposable earnings will change when the required deductions change.

After the employee's disposable earnings are known, use the chart below to determine what amount should be withheld. In the column listed under the employee's pay period, find the employee's disposable earnings. The amount shown below that is the amount to be withheld. For example, if the employee is paid disposable earnings of $1000 twice a month (semi-monthly), the correct amount to withhold is 25 percent each payday, or $250.

The chart below is based on the state minimum wage that is in effect on July 1, 2014. It will change when the minimum wage changes. Restrictions are based on the minimum wage effective at the time the earnings are payable.

Occasionally, the employee's earnings will also be subject to a Wage and Earnings Assignment Order, an order available from family law courts for child, spousal, or family support. The amount required to be withheld for that order should be deducted from the amount to be withheld for this order.

IMPORTANT WARNINGS

1. IT IS AGAINST THE LAW TO FIRE THE EMPLOYEE BECAUSE OF EARNINGS WITHHOLDING ORDERS FOR THE PAYMENT OF ONLY ONE INDEBTEDNESS. No matter how many orders you receive, as long as they all relate to a single indebtedness (no matter how many debts are represented in that judgment), the employee may not be fired.

2. IT IS ILLEGAL TO AVOID AN EARNINGS WITHHOLDING ORDER BY POSTPONING OR ADVANCING THE PAYMENT OF EARNINGS. The employee's pay period must not be changed to prevent the order from taking effect.

It is illegal not to pay amounts withheld for the earnings withholding order to the levy officer. Your duty is to pay the money to the levy officer who will pay the money in accordance with the law that applies to this case.

IF YOU VIOLATE ANY OF THESE LAWS YOU MAY BE HELD LIABLE TO PAY CIVIL DAMAGES AND YOU MAY BE SUBJECT TO CRIMINAL PROSECUTION!
APPENDIX C

Employee Instructions
(Wage Garnishment)
(Judicial Council Form WG-003)

EMPLOYEE INSTRUCTIONS

-NOTICE-

IMPORTANT LEGAL NOTICE TO EMPLOYEE
ABOUT EARNINGS WITHHOLDING ORDERS
(Wage Garnishment)

The Earnings Withholding Order requires your employer to pay part of your earnings to the sheriff or other levying officer. The levying officer will pay the money to a creditor who has a court judgment against you. The information below may help you protect the money you earn.

CAN YOU BE FIRED BECAUSE OF THIS?

NO. You cannot be fired unless your earnings have been withheld before for a different court judgment. If this is the first judgment for which your wages will be withheld and your employer fires you because of this, the California Labor Commissioner, listed in the phone book of larger cities, can help you get your job back.

HOW MUCH OF YOUR PAY WILL BE WITHHELD?

The reverse of the Earnings Withholding Order (abbreviated in this notice as EWO) that applies to you contains Employer Instructions. These explain how much of your earnings can be withheld. Generally, the amount is about 25% of your take home pay until the amount due has been withheld. The levying officer will notify the employee of an additional assessment charged for paying out money collected under this order and that amount will also be withheld.

If you have trouble figuring this out, ask your employer for help.

IS THERE ANYTHING YOU CAN DO?

YES. There are several possibilities.

1. See an attorney. If you do not know an attorney, check with the lawyer referral service or the legal aid office in your county (both are listed in the yellow pages under "Attorneys").

   An attorney may be able to help you make an agreement with your creditor, or may be able to help you stop your earnings from being withheld. You may wish to consider bankruptcy or asking the bankruptcy court to help you pay your creditors. These possibilities may stop your wages from being withheld.

   An attorney can help you decide what is best for you. Take your EWO to the attorney to help you get the best advice and the fastest help.

2. Try to work out an agreement yourself with your creditor. Call the creditor or the creditor's attorney, listed on the EWO. If you make an agreement, the withholding of your wages will stop or be changed to a smaller amount you agree on. (See item 4 on the reverse for another way to make an offer to your creditor.)

3. You can ask for an EXEMPTION. An exemption will protect more, or maybe even all of your earnings. You can get an exemption if you need your earnings to support yourself or your family, but you cannot get an exemption if:

   a. You use some of your earnings for luxuries and they aren't really necessary for support; OR
   b. You owe money to an attorney because of a court order in a family law case; OR
   c. You owe the debt for past due child support of spousal support (alimony); OR
   d. You owe the debt to a former employee for wages.

HOW DO YOU ASK FOR AN EXEMPTION?

(See the other side of this form for instructions about claiming an exemption.)
HOW DO YOU ASK FOR AN EXEMPTION?

1. Call or write the levying officer for three (3) copies each of the forms called "Claim of Exemption" and "Financial Statement." These forms are free. The name and address of the levying officer are in the big box on the right at the top of the EWO.

2. Fill out both forms. On the forms are some sentences or words which have boxes in front of them. The box means the words which follow may not apply to your case. If the words do apply, put a check in the box.

   Remember, it is your job to prove with the Financial Statement form that your earnings are needed for support. Write down the details about your needs.

3. For example, if your child has special medical expenses, tell which child, what illnesses, who is the doctor, how often the doctor must be visited, the cost per visit, and the costs of medicines. These details should be listed in item 6. If you need more space, put "See attachment 6" and attach a typed 8½ by 11 sheet of paper on which you have explained your expenses in detail.

4. You can use the Claim of Exemption form to make an offer to the judgment creditor to have a specified amount withheld each pay period. Complete item 3 on the form to indicate the amount you agree to have withheld each pay day during the withholding period. (Be sure it's less than the amount to be withheld otherwise.) If your creditor accepts your offer, he will not oppose your claim of exemption. (See 1 below.)

5. Sign the Claim of Exemption and Financial Statement forms. Be sure the Claim of Exemption form shows the address where you receive mail.

   ONE OF TWO THINGS WILL HAPPEN NEXT

   (1) The judgment creditor will not oppose (object to) your claim of exemption. If this happens, after 10 days the levying officer will tell your employer to stop withholding or withhold less from your earnings. The part (or all) of your earnings needed for support will be paid to you or paid as you direct. And you will get back earnings the levying officer or your employer were holding when you asked for the exemption.

   —OR—

   (2) The creditor will oppose (object to) your claim of exemption. If this happens, you will receive a Notice of Opposition and Notice of Hearing on Claim of Exemption, in which the creditor states why your exemption should not be allowed. A box in the middle of the Notice of Hearing tells you the time and place of the court hearing which will be in about ten days. Be sure to go to the hearing if you can.

   If the judgment creditor has checked the box in item 3 on the Notice of Hearing on Claim of Exemption, the creditor will not be in court. If you are willing to have the court make its decision based on your Financial Statement and the creditor's Notice of Opposition, you need not go to the hearing.

   The Notice of Opposition to Claim of Exemption will tell you why the creditor thinks your claim should not be allowed. If you go to the hearing, take any bills, paycheck stubs, cancelled checks, or other evidence (including witnesses) that will help you prove your Claim of Exemption and Financial Statement are correct and your earnings are needed to support yourself or your family.

   Perhaps you can even prove the Notice of Opposition is wrong. For example, perhaps the Notice of Opposition states that the judgment was for wages for a past employee. You may be able to provide evidence that the person was not an employee or that the debt was not for wages.

   If the judge at the hearing agrees with you, your employer will be ordered to stop withholding your earnings or withhold less money. The judge can even order that the EWO end before the hearing (so you would get some earnings back).

   If the judge does not agree with you, the withholding will continue unless you appeal to a higher court. The rules for appeals are complex so you should see an attorney if you want to appeal.

   If you have one court hearing, you should not file another Claim of Exemption about the same EWO unless your finances have gotten worse in an important way.

   If your EWO is to be changed or ended, the levying officer must sign the notice to your employer of the change. He may give you permission to deliver it to the employer, or it can be mailed.

WHAT HAPPENS TO YOUR EARNINGS IF YOU FILE A CLAIM OF EXEMPTION?

Your employer must continue to hold back part of your earnings for the EWO until he receives a notice signed by the levying officer to change the order or end it early.

REGARDING CHILD SUPPORT

If you are obligated to make child support payments, the local child support agency may help you to have an Order Assigning Salary or Wages entered. This order has the top priority claim on your earnings. When it is in effect, little or no money may be available to be withheld for an EWO. And, if the local child support agency is involved in collecting this support from you, it may agree to accept less money if this special order is entered.

WHAT IF YOU STILL HAVE QUESTIONS?

If you cannot see an attorney, or don't want to see an attorney, you might be able to answer some of your questions by reading the law in a law library. Ask the law librarian to help you find sections 706.050 and 706.105 of the California Code of Civil Procedure. Other sections of the code, beginning with section 706.010 may also answer some of your questions.

Also, the office of the Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Department of Labor may be able to answer some of your questions. Offices are listed in the telephone directory under the U.S. Department of Labor in the U.S. Government listing.

Exemptions from the Enforcement of Judgments
(Judicial Council Form EJ-155)

See next page.
The following is a list of assets that may be exempt from levy on a judgment.

Exemptions are found in the United States Code (USC) and in the California codes, primarily the Code of Civil Procedure (CCP).

Because of periodic changes in the law, the list may not include all exemptions that apply in your case. The exemptions may not apply in full or under all circumstances. Some are not available after a certain period of time. You or your attorney should read the statutes.

If you believe the assets that are being levied on are exempt, file a claim of exemption form, which you can get from the levying officer.

AMOUNT OF EXEMPTIONS: A list of the amounts of exemptions from a judgment under CCP § 703.150 starting on April 1, 2004, is available from the clerk of the court and on the California Courts Web site at www.courtsinfo.ca.gov. Except as otherwise provided, the dollar amounts of the exemptions will be adjusted thereafter at three-year intervals on April 1, and the adjusted amounts will become effective immediately on that date.

APPENDIX F

Fair Debt Collection Practices &
A Sample Letter to Debt Collection Agency

The Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA) is a federal law that prohibits debt collectors from using abusive, unfair, dishonest, or misleading practices to collect money from you. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) is the federal government’s agency that enforces your rights under the FDCPA.¹⁷⁵¹

Under the FDCPA, a debt collector is someone who regularly collects debts owed to others. This includes collection agencies, lawyers who collect debts on a regular basis, and companies that buy overdue debts and then try to collect them.

Here are some questions and answers about your rights under the Act.

CAN A DEBT COLLECTOR CONTACT ME ANY TIME OR ANY PLACE?

No. A debt collector may not contact you at inconvenient times or places, such as before 8 AM or after 9 PM, unless you agree to it. And collectors may not contact you at work if they’re told (orally or in writing) that you’re not allowed to get calls there.

HOW CAN I STOP A DEBT COLLECTOR FROM CONTACTING ME?

If a collector contacts you about a debt, you may want to talk to them at least once to see if you can resolve the matter – even if you don’t think you owe the debt, can’t repay it immediately, or think that the collector is contacting you by mistake. If you decide after contacting the debt collector that you don’t want the collector to contact you again, tell the collector – in writing – to stop contacting you. Here’s how to do that:

Write a letter to the debt collector and make a copy of the letter (see PG. 813 below for a sample letter). Send the original by certified mail, and pay for a “return receipt” so you’ll be able to prove that the collector received the letter. Once the collector receives your letter, they may not contact you again, with two exceptions: A collector can contact you to (1) tell you there will be no further contact, or (2) let you know that they or the creditor intend to take a specific action, like filing a lawsuit. Sending such a letter to a debt collector to whom you owe money will NOT get rid of the debt, but it should stop the contact. The creditor or the debt collector still can sue you in court to collect the debt.

CAN A DEBT COLLECTOR CONTACT ANYONE ELSE ABOUT MY DEBT?

If an attorney is representing you about the debt, the debt collector must contact the attorney, rather than you. If you don’t have an attorney, a collector may contact other people – but only to find out your address, your home phone number, and where you work. Collectors usually are prohibited from contacting third parties more than once. Other than to obtain this location information about you, a debt collector generally is not permitted to discuss your debt with anyone other than you, your spouse, or your attorney.

WHAT DOES THE DEBT COLLECTOR HAVE TO TELL ME ABOUT THE DEBT?

Every collector must send you a written “validation notice” telling you how much money you owe within five days after they first contact you. This notice also must include the name of the creditor to whom you owe the money, and how to proceed if you don’t think you owe the money.

CAN A DEBT COLLECTOR KEEP CONTACTING ME IF I DON’T THINK I OWE ANY MONEY?

If you send the debt collector a letter stating that you don’t owe any or all of the money, or asking for verification (proof) of the debt, that collector must stop contacting you. You have to send that letter within 30 days after you receive the validation notice. But a collector can begin contacting you again if it sends you written proof of the debt, like a copy of a bill for the amount you owe.

WHAT PRACTICES ARE OFF LIMITS FOR DEBT COLLECTORS?

Harassment: Debt collectors may not harass, oppress, or abuse you or any third parties they contact. For example, they may not:

- use threats of violence or harm;
- publish a list of names of people who refuse to pay their debts (but they can give this information to the credit reporting companies);
- use obscene or profane language; or
- repeatedly use the phone to annoy someone.

False statements: Debt collectors may not lie when they are trying to collect a debt. For example, they may not:

- falsely claim that they are attorneys or government representatives;
- falsely claim that you have committed a crime;
- falsely represent that they operate or work for a credit reporting company;
- misrepresent the amount you owe;
- indicate that papers they send you are legal forms if they aren’t; or
- indicate that papers they send to you aren’t legal forms if they are.

> Debt collectors also are prohibited from saying that:

- you will be arrested if you don’t pay your debt;
- they’ll seize, garnish, attach, or sell your property or wages unless they are permitted by law to take the action and intend to do so; or
- legal action will be taken against you, if doing so would be illegal or if they don’t intend to take the action.

> Debt collectors may not:

- give false credit information about you to anyone, including a credit reporting company;
- send you anything that looks like an official document from a court or government agency if it isn’t; or
- use a false company name.

Unfair practices: Debt collectors may not engage in unfair practices when they try to collect a debt. For example, they may not:
• try to collect any interest, fee, or other charge on top of the amount you owe unless the contract that created your debt – or your state law – allows the charge;
• deposit a post-dated check early;
• take or threaten to take your property unless it can be done legally; or
• contact you by postcard.

CAN I CONTROL WHICH DEBTS MY PAYMENTS APPLY TO?

Yes. If a debt collector is trying to collect more than one debt from you, the collector must apply any payment you make to the debt you select. Equally important, a debt collector may not apply a payment to a debt you don’t think you owe.

CAN A DEBT COLLECTOR GARNISH MY BANK ACCOUNT OR MY WAGES?

If you don’t pay a debt, a creditor or its debt collector generally can sue you to collect. If they win, the court will enter a judgment against you. The judgment states the amount of money you owe, and allows the creditor or collector to get a garnishment order against you, directing a third party, like your bank, to turn over funds from your account to pay the debt.

Wage garnishment happens when your employer withholds part of your compensation to pay your debts. Your wages usually can be garnished only as the result of a court order. Don’t ignore a lawsuit summons. If you do, you lose the opportunity to fight a wage garnishment.

CAN MY FEDERAL BENEFITS BE GARNISHED?

Many federal benefits are exempt from garnishment (meaning they cannot be taken to pay certain debts), including:

• Social Security Benefits
• Supplemental Security Income (SSI) Benefits
• Veterans’ Benefits
• Civil Service and Federal Retirement and Disability Benefits
• Military Annuities and Survivors’ Benefits
• Federal Emergency Management Agency Federal Disaster Assistance

BUT federal benefits may be garnished under certain circumstances, including to pay delinquent taxes, alimony, child support, or student loans.

WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS IF I THINK A DEBT COLLECTOR HAS VIOLATED THE LAW?

You have the right to sue a collector in a state or federal court within one year from the date the law was violated. If you win, the judge can require the collector to pay you for any damages you can prove you suffered because of the illegal collection practices, like lost wages and medical bills. The judge can require the debt collector to pay you up to $1,000, even if you can’t prove that you suffered actual damages. You also can be reimbursed for your attorney’s fees and court costs. A group of people also may sue a debt collector as part of a class action lawsuit and recover money for damages up to $500,000, or one percent of the collector’s net worth, whichever amount is lower. Even if a debt collector violates the FDCPA in trying to collect a debt, the debt does not go away if you owe it.
WHAT SHOULD I DO IF A DEBT COLLECTOR SUES ME?

If a debt collector files a lawsuit against you to collect a debt, respond to the lawsuit, either personally or through your lawyer, by the date specified in the court papers to preserve your rights.

WHERE DO I REPORT A DEBT COLLECTOR FOR AN ALLEGED VIOLATION?

Report any problems you have with a debt collector to the California Attorney General’s office, the Federal Trade Commission, and the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. California has its own debt collection laws that may give you more rights and protections than the federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act.

RE: Notice to Cease Contact: Case # ________

[Note: If the collection agency has sent written notice, your case number is likely in the letter. If you have not received a written notice from the collection agency, you can put other information to identify your case. For example, show the date you were contacted by the collection agency.]

To [person whose name appears on agency’s notice to you]:

On [date], I was contacted by [name of person who called you] from your agency, who informed me that [name of collection agency] is attempting to collect [amount of claimed debt].

[OR]

On [date] I received a written notice of the claimed debt, a copy of which is attached.

This is to give you notice to cease all contact with me or anyone else except the creditor about this claimed debt. If you must contact me, please do so in writing and not by telephone. I look forward to your acknowledgement that you have received this notice by [put date that is two weeks after the date of your letter].

CIVIL ASSESSMENT PETITION AND ORDER
Defendant’s Request and Declaration to Vacate Civil Assessment

Rev. 7/2/2010
APPENDIX I

Steps To Get & Keep a Good Credit Score
(Consumer Financial Protection Bureau)

See next page.
To get and keep a good credit score, pay attention to your credit report.

Your credit report shows information about how you have used credit, such as how much credit you have, how much of your available credit you are using, whether you have made your payments on time, and whether anyone has sent a loan you owe to a debt collector.

A credit score is a number that is used to predict how likely you are to pay back a loan. Your credit score starts with the information about you from your credit report. A mathematical prediction formula is applied to this information about you from your credit report. That prediction formula, which is called a scoring model, creates a number which is your credit score. You probably have numerous credit scores.

Credit scores are used by companies to make decisions such as whether to approve a mortgage at a certain rate or issue a credit card. Different lenders use different scoring formulas so your score can vary from lender to lender. Usually a higher score makes it easier to qualify for a loan and means a better rate of interest. Most scores range from 300-850, although there is one scoring method that uses a range from 501-990.

To get and keep a good credit score –

• Pay all your loans on time.
• Make sure information in your credit report is correct.
• Don’t use too much of the credit that is available to you.

STEPS TO GET AND KEEP A GOOD CREDIT SCORE

PAY YOUR BILLS ON TIME

Pay your bills on time, every time. One way to make sure your payments are on time is to set up automatic payments at the creditor's website or from your bank’s online site. But, you have to watch your bank balance to make sure you have enough money in your account to cover the payments. Also, don’t just pay the minimum amount if you can afford to pay more, because it will take you much longer to pay off the debt if you only pay the minimum amount.

Tip: People with the best credit scores usually are those who pay off their credit cards in full every month.

DON’T GET CLOSE TO YOUR CREDIT LIMIT

Credit scoring models look at how close you are to being “maxed out,” because the formulas predict that people who are using too much of their available credit may have future troubles with repayment. If you use too much of your total credit lines, you can hurt your credit score. Experts advise keeping your use of credit at no more than 30% or less of your total credit limit.

Tip: If you close some credit card accounts and put most or all of your credit card balances onto one card, it may hurt your credit score. That’s because it will probably mean that you are using a high percentage of your total credit limit.

DON’T APPLY FOR A LOT OF NEW CREDIT IN A SHORT TIME, ESPECIALLY IF YOU ARE GETTING READY TO GET A MORTGAGE OR A CAR LOAN

Your credit score may decline if you have too many credit accounts, and if you apply for or open a lot of new accounts, such as several credit cards, in a short time. If you are planning to take out a big loan for a car or a house, be particularly careful not to apply for or open many new credit accounts within a short period before applying for the loan because doing so may affect your score. However when you request your own credit report, or when your creditors check your credit report, those requests to see your credit report should not hurt your score.

Tip: Opening new credit card accounts frequently to get the promotional rate or store discount will show up on your credit report as lots of new credit accounts, which is likely to hurt your credit score.
THE LONGER YOUR CREDIT HISTORY, THE BETTER

Credit scores are based on experience over time. The more experience you have with getting and paying for your credit, the more information there is to determine whether you are a good credit risk.

GET YOUR FREE CREDIT REPORT EVERY YEAR

Get free copies of your credit report from each of the big three consumer reporting agencies every year. If the information about you in the credit reports of the three large consumer reporting agencies is different, your credit score from each of the agencies will be different.

Online: You can order your credit report at www.annualcreditreport.com. Beware - some other sites that use the word “free” may charge you for another service in order to get your credit report. www.annualcreditreport.com really is free.

By phone: You can also order your free credit report by calling 877-322-8228.

By mail: To order free reports by mail, get the Annual Credit Report Request Form at www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/resources/forms/requestformfinal.pdf and mail it to: Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA 30348-5281.

Tip: You don’t have to buy your credit score. The information you receive from the agencies is adequate. If you do buy a score, it is likely that the score the lender buys will be different from the score that you buy.

READ YOUR CREDIT REPORT AND DISPUTE ANY ERRORS

If you find something wrong with your credit report, write to both the consumer reporting agency and the creditor that provided the information, if applicable, to tell them what you think is wrong and why. Include copies of any documents that support your position. When a consumer disputes credit report information, the agency and the creditor generally have to investigate the dispute and correct inaccurate information. For more information, please visit the FTC site www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/consumer/credit/cre03.shtm.

AVOID PAYING UPFRONT FEES TO “REPAIR” YOUR NEGATIVE CREDIT HISTORY

There are a lot of places that promise to “repair” or “fix” your credit for an upfront fee but no one can remove negative information, such as late payments, from a credit report if it is accurate. You can only get your credit report fixed if it contains errors and you can do that on your own (see #6). According to the Federal Trade Commission, some companies who claim they can help you may get you in trouble by telling you to do something that could be illegal, such as setting up a false identity to hide your credit history from your creditors.

BE PROACTIVE IN DEALING WITH CREDIT

If you are having trouble paying creditors on time, the sooner you talk to your creditors the more likely it is you can work something out with them, such as a temporary payment plan. If you need help, look locally for a credit counselor but check to make sure they are trustworthy. If you are having trouble with your mortgage, there is help available through the government's Making Home Affordable program, www.mha.gov, or the HOPE Hotline – 888-995-HOPE. If you start to get debt collection mail or calls from someone you’ve never heard of, it could be that one of your debts was sold to a debt collector, or it could be a case of identity theft. Ignoring the problem usually makes it worse.

The Federal Trade Commission’s “Building a Better Credit Report” (www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/consumer/credit/cre03.shtm) has information on correcting errors in your report, tips on dealing with debt and avoiding scams—and more.
Basic Overview:

FAMILY & CHILDREN:
Reunification & Other Issues

The FAMILY & CHILDREN CHAPTER will give you an overview of the issues that parents and caregivers experience when trying to reconnect with and care for their children. This Chapter will teach you how to establish or re-establish your rights, responsibilities, and relationship with your child(ren), and how to navigate the family court systems so that you can best handle any issues related to custody, guardianship, juvenile dependency/CPS cases, visitation, and child support.

DISCLAIMER – YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it. The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

FAMILY & CHILDREN APPENDIX ............................................................................ 886
WHAT WILL I LEARN IN THE FAMILY & CHILDREN CHAPTER?

• Key terms and concepts that you will frequently come across when you are navigating family law issues
• How to locate and reconnect with your child; how your incarceration, parole/probation, and any court orders (such as protective orders) could affect your rights and responsibilities as a parent
• What are the three different Courts that handle family law cases in California and how to best navigate each court system
• What are the rights and responsibilities of a parent or caregiver to care for a child and how to make decisions for him/her
• What your rights are to see and spend time with your child.
• What happens when a judge appoints a legal guardian to care for a child, and what your rights and responsibilities are as a guardian or parent
• What to do if you are a parent and CPS or the judge removes your child from your home. This section also explains how to become a guardian for a child in a dependency court case
• How to get custody or visitation if your case involves your child’s other parent
• Child support payments and other child support issues, including what to do if you owe past, overdue child support payments when you return to the community from prison or jail
I. INTRODUCTION

Family law issues can be very confusing and complicated, especially since they can involve several different court systems. If you have further questions after reading this Chapter, we recommend that you contact a lawyer, a case manager, or a trusted friend in the community to help you work through this material. You can also contact Root & Rebound and we will try to provide further assistance or referrals (call us at 510-279-4662, or write to us at Root & Rebound, 1730 Franklin St., Suite 300, Oakland, CA 94612). You may also want to contact a local legal aid organization for assistance with your case. You can find a list of legal aid organizations across California on PG. 1190.

KEY TERMS IN THE FAMILY & CHILDREN CHAPTER

If you are a parent in reentry, you may want to have a bigger role in your child’s life when you are released from prison or jail. If so, you’ll need to know some basics like: What is a guardian? What is custody and visitation? Here, we explain some of the terms that will appear again & again in this Chapter, so you can always refer back to these definitions if they are helpful.

Adoption: Adoption means giving complete parental rights and responsibilities to someone who is not the child’s biological parent. Once the adoption is final, the adoptive parents are considered to be the child’s new legal parents, and the child’s birth parents no longer have any rights to the child. Adoption is permanent, meaning it generally can’t be changed afterward. An adoptive parent can be a stepparent or domestic partner of one of the child’s birth parents, a relative who has been caring for the child, or someone not related to the child by blood.

Arrears: Arrears are unpaid, overdue child support payments (i.e., child support debt). In other words, arrears are money you owe from past child support payments that you did not make. Arrears are different from current child support payments that you have to make now, which cover the cost of caring for your child today. Often, there are different rules for arrears versus current child support payments, so it’s important to know the difference. In addition, the state will charge you interest (10%) on your arrears, so the amount you owe will continue to increase—even if you’re already paying your current child support payments.

“Best Interest of the Child”: In all child custody and visitation cases, the judge will make decisions about your child according to what is in the “best interest of the child.” When deciding what is in your child’s best interest, the judge will consider things like: your child’s health and safety, and whether your child will be raised in a stable and loving environment.

Case Plan: If CPS has removed your child from your home, you should get a copy of your case plan from your CPS social worker or the juvenile dependency court. A case plan sets out the rules for what you need to do to get your child back—for example, attending parenting or counseling classes, participating in substance abuse treatment, and/or visiting with your child. The programs and services that you need to complete your case plan should be given to you for a limited amount of time upon reentry.
Caregiver: In this manual, we use the term "caregiver" to describe the person who is responsible for your child's care and supervision from day to day. The caregiver may or may not be the child's biological parent OR the child's guardian. In some cases, when the caregiver is a close blood relative of the child, that relationship might give the caregiver more rights in the situation than a non-relative caregiver.

Child Support Payment: A judge may order the parent who does not have custody of the child to pay child support to the parent who does have custody of the child. The payment is to help cover the cost of caring for your child.

Child Protective Services (CPS): CPS is the part of the Department of Social Services (DSS) that responds to reports of child abuse or neglect. Every county in California has a CPS office.

Court Order: A court order is a decision by a judge in court. A court order will tell you whether you currently have custody and/or visitation with your child; who else has custody and/or visitation with your child; and which court is involved in your family’s case. Court orders can also require or restrict your conduct—such as requiring you to attend a parenting class or restricting you from contacting a person. It is important to know about any court order(s) in your child’s case, because a court order may restrict how and when you can contact your child OR contact your child’s caregiver—and will help you understand what steps to take next.

Custodial Parent: The parent who has physical custody of his or her child, meaning the child lives with this parent.

Custody: Custody is the legal rights and responsibilities to live with and care for your child. While you were in prison/jail, you were unable to have custody of your child. Once you’re released, if you want to communicate with, visit, or get custody of your child, you will need to find out who has custody of your child now.

Declaration of Paternity: A legal document that says the man is the “natural father” (the biological father) of the child. The Declaration of Paternity must be signed by both of the child’s biological parents (father and mother).

Family Law Facilitator (sometimes called the Self-Help Facilitator): Every family court should have a Family Law Facilitator, which is someone who can help you with court forms, answer questions, provide general information about family law issues, and walk you through the steps of your case if you do not have a lawyer. However, the Family Law Facilitator cannot give you legal advice or answer questions about your specific case. To find your local Family Law Facilitator, see Appendix A, PG. 887, or go to http://www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-facilitators.htm.

Family Reunification Services: CPS must provide you with services and programs to help you complete your case plan and court requirements and reunite with your child.

Foster Care: Sometimes when the child is removed from his/her parents' home, the judge will put the child in foster care. This means the child will live with foster parents who have been trained and approved by the state to care for children in their home. However, foster parents have fewer rights than guardians or biological parents, so the judge and CPS will continue to be responsible for making decisions about the child.
Guardian: A guardian is an adult (not the child’s parent), such as a relative or family friend, who has legal and physical custody of the child. A guardianship does not terminate the parental rights of the child’s legal or biological parents; it only puts their parental rights on hold while the guardian has physical and legal custody. Learn more on PG. 844.

Lien: A lien is the right to take (and sell) property belonging to another person until that person pays off a debt s/he owes. For more information about liens, read the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 755.

Local Child Support Agency (LCSA): LCSAs are county-run offices that collect and enforce child support payments by making sure that custodial parents and guardians receive the payments from non-custodial parents.

Non-Custodial Parent: The parent who does not have physical custody of his or her child.

Notice: As a parent, you have certain legal rights with your children (these are your parental rights). Before a judge or any government department does anything that affects or changes your parental rights, you are legally required to receive “notice” (in other words, you must be informed of the action). This “notice” could be a letter mailed to you, paperwork given to you in court, or an announcement made by the judge. This “notice” serves as a notification or warning that your parental rights are or may be affected.

Parent: We use the term “parent” to describe the child’s legal or biological mother or father, with the understanding that the child’s parent(s) may or may not be caring for the child from day to day.

Parental Rights: Under California law and the California and U.S. Constitutions, parents have lots of rights with their children, including the right to live with, care for, and make decisions for their children. In some situations, a parent’s rights can be temporarily put on hold and/or given to someone else (such as a legal guardian). In extreme situations, a parent’s rights may be taken away permanently (such as adoption). However, parents are entitled to special legal protections before their rights can be changed or taken away without their permission.

Petition/Petitioner: A petition is a legal document that asks a judge to do or not do something. A petitioner is the person (or people) who asks the judge to do this, by filing the petition in court.

Restraining Order (Protective Order): A restraining order is a court order from a judge that can protect someone from being physically harmed, threatened, stalked, or harassed. The person who asks for and is protected by the restraining order is called the “protected person” (or protected party). The person whom the restraining order is against is called the “restrained person” (or restrained party). There are several types of restraining orders:

- Domestic violence restraining order: if someone is the victim of domestic violence, they can request a domestic violence restraining order.

Personal conduct order: This type of order prohibits (stops) the restrained person from doing specific acts towards the protected person. For example, the... order may prohibit the restrained person from contacting, stalking, sexually assaulting, or destroying property of the protected person.

Stay-away order: This type of order requires the restrained person to stay a certain distance away from the protected person and/or from a specific place (such as the protected person’s house or workplace).

Residence exclusion order: This type of order requires the restrained person to move out from where the protected person lives, and to take only their own clothing or personal belongings until there is a court hearing.

Reunification: Reunification can mean 2 things: In the real world (i.e., outside of court), reunification can mean reuniting with your child and (re)developing a relationship with him/her. In court, reunification means getting back your legal right to care for your child, after s/he has been removed by CPS.

Removal: When CPS or a judge takes a child away from his/her parent’s custody.

Visitation: Visitation is the legal right to spend time with your child.254 When a judge makes a custody order, he/she must give visitation rights to the parent who does not have custody of the child, unless granting visitation is not in the child’s best interest.255

Now that you’ve learned some of the basics, keep reading to learn more about child custody, guardianship, visitation, and child support.

254 See, e.g., In re Marriage of Gayden, 229 Cal. App. 3d 1510, 1517 (1991) (noting that visitation is a limited form of custody during the time visitation rights are being exercised).

II. SOME BASICS ABOUT RECONNECTING WITH YOUR CHILD

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- How to locate and reconnect with your child
- How your incarceration, parole/probation, and any court orders (such as protective orders) could affect your rights and responsibilities as a parent

GENERAL QUESTIONS ABOUT RECONNECTING WITH YOUR CHILD

I AM OUT OR GETTING OUT OF PRISON OR JAIL, AND I WANT TO RECONNECT WITH MY CHILD. WHERE CAN I START?

STEP 1: Find out where your child is.

First, you will need to find out where your child is, who is currently taking care of your child, and if there are any court orders in place that affect you and/or your child. This information is important because you may want to informally (i.e., outside of court) ask the person currently taking care of your child (i.e., your child’s caregiver) to let you see your child. You may also need this information so that you can notify the caregiver if you end up going to court.

GENERAL TIPS

If you don't know where your child is or who is taking care of him/her, here are some tips for locating your child:

1. IF CPS IS INVOLVED IN YOUR CHILD’S CASE, you can contact CPS to help you locate your child and current caregiver.
2. IF CPS IS NOT INVOLVED, you can call family members, friends, maybe the other parent, or the other parent’s family or friends, etc.

IF YOU STILL CAN’T FIGURE OUT WHERE YOUR CHILD IS, you may try using social media (such as Facebook or Twitter) to ask if any friends or family of the other parent might know where your child is or who is taking care of him/her. Remember to always be safe and careful—only reach out to people you trust!

IMPORTANT! Remember to be especially careful if you have any protective orders against you. Always follow the conditions of any Criminal Protective Orders or No-Contact Orders that you have against you. These orders may prevent you from contacting the other parent or from asking a third person (such as a relative of the other parent) to contact the other parent.
STEP 2: Find out if there is a case involving your child, and if there are any court orders that affect you.

Second, you will need to know if there’s already a case involving your child, and you need to know about any current court orders in place. Court orders are very important! This is because when the judge makes a court order, the judge is making a decision about who gets to care for the child, where the child will live, and who can or cannot have contact with the child. See the definition on PG. 829 to learn more about court orders.

If you were served with court papers while you were in prison or jail for a court case involving your child, those papers should tell you: (1) the case number, and (2) which court the case was in.

IF YOU DON'T KNOW if there is a case involving your child, or if you have lost the court papers you once had, here are some tips to help you find out:

• IF YOU KNOW WHERE YOUR CHILD IS LIVING, you can ask your child’s caregiver about any case(s) involving your child. It can help to ask which court the case is (or was) in; the case number (if the caregiver can find it); copies of any court or legal papers from your child’s case; and any other information that you can find out.

• IF YOU DON’T KNOW WHERE YOUR CHILD IS LIVING (OR IF THE CAREGIVER WON’T GIVE YOU ANY INFORMATION), you will need to contact all 3 courts in the county where your child lives (or where your child was living when you last knew about him/her)—family court, probate court, and juvenile dependency court. Be prepared to provide as much information as you can about your child and yourself, such as your full name, your date of birth, your child’s full name, your child’s date of birth, etc.

To find the phone numbers and addresses of these 3 courts in the county where you child lives, check the local Yellow Pages for that county, or call 2-1-1 or 4-1-1 “Information” to ask (note: 4-1-1 usually costs $1.99 per call). You can also find a list of all California courts for every county by visiting http://www.courts.ca.gov/find-my-court.htm (click on “Contact” to get the contact information for the courts in the county where your child lives).

STEP 3: Get copies of any court orders from a current or past case involving your child.

If there is a case involving your child, it’s best to contact the court clerk to request a copy of any court orders or other documents. The court order will explain your current rights and responsibilities with your child—including when and how you are allowed to visit and contact the child. If you want more custody or visitation, you may need to ask the judge to change this order. To find any existing court orders, contact the clerk in the local county court where your child’s case is. You can contact the clerk by phone or in person when the clerk’s office is open, and ask for copies of all the court orders in the case.

If there is a CPS case involving your child, ask the juvenile dependency court clerk for any court orders. You can also ask your CPS social worker and/or the judge for (1) a copy of your case plan, which explains what you need to do to get your child back; AND (2) family reunification services, which are classes and programs to help you get your child back. (Learn more about these topics on PG. 853 and PG. 856.) ALWAYS GET A COPY OF THE COURT ORDER, even if the case has been closed!

2156 By law, when a court case is filed on a child, both parents should receive a legal notice, copies of court documents, and a chance to respond. However, mistakes can occur with the filing and mailing processes—so if you’re a parent, there’s a chance that you didn’t get the papers that you should have.

2157 If your parental rights have been terminated, it means that you are no longer considered to be the parent of your child, and you no longer have any right to see, care for or make decisions for your child. For more information on termination of parental rights, read the section on juvenile dependency court, starting on PG. 26 below.

Get Up-To-Date Court Papers!

Even if you were served with court papers while in prison/jail, it is best to get a new copy of the court order once you get out to make sure that you have all the most up-to-date papers.

IF THERE IS NO COURT CASE OR NO COURT ORDER INVOLVING YOUR CHILD:

If there is no court case involving your child OR no court order in your child’s case, you likely need to file a petition to ask the judge for more rights and responsibilities as a parent (or caregiver). Depending on what rights you want to get (for example, custody, visitation, guardianship, etc.), you may need to go to one of the courts discussed on PG. 838.

STEP 4: Start a new case by filing a petition in court, OR get involved in an existing case involving your child.

Start a new court case, or get involved in any existing, ongoing case involving your child. You may need to file a petition in court to ask the judge for more rights and responsibilities as a parent (or caregiver). Once you file a petition in the proper court, you will have to prepare to go to court for a hearing or other procedures. Each of the 3 types of courts has different powers, different rules, and different procedures that you need to be aware of before going to court.

• For probate court rules and procedures, see PG. 844.
• For juvenile dependency court rules and procedures, see PG. 852.
• For family court rules and procedures, see PG. 862.

IMPORTANT: When following these 4 steps, always remember to keep track of any court orders, such as Criminal Protective Orders or No-Contact Orders. If you are on parole, probation, or some other type of community supervision, remember to follow the conditions of your supervision once you are released. This includes following any travel restrictions—but you should ask your parole/probation officer for a travel pass if you need to travel to the court or visit with family members or friends for your case. For more information about travel restrictions and other conditions of supervision, see PG. 835. For more information about protective, no-contact, and restraining orders, see PG. 835.

HOW YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD COULD AFFECT RECONNECTING WITH YOUR CHILD

HOW COULD MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY ABILITY TO RECONNECT WITH MY CHILD?

Each type of court has different rules about criminal convictions and how they may affect your custody and visitation rights. The situation will be different depending on where your child is living currently, whether there is a current court order, and in which court (probate, family, or juvenile dependency) your child’s case is heard.
IF I AM COMING OUT OF PRISON OR JAIL AND I AM THE CHILD’S BIOLOGICAL PARENT, WHAT ARE MY CHANCES OF GETTING CUSTODY OR VISITATION WITH MY CHILD?

It depends entirely on the specific details of your situation. Every case is different. In general, if you are the child’s biological parent, it will be easier to get visitation rights with your child at first, rather than full custody. California has a strong public policy of supporting parent-child relationships and allowing visits unless they will be harmful to the child.2158 Asking the judge for and getting visitation rights with your child can be a great first step to getting custody. Once you start with visitation, you can use this to show the judge that you are responsible and have a good relationship with your child, and to request greater custody rights.

I AM ON PAROLE, PROBATION, OR SOME OTHER TYPE OF COMMUNITY SUPERVISION. HOW COULD THIS LIMIT MY RIGHTS AS A PARENT OR MY ABILITY TO SEE AND RECONNECT WITH MY CHILD?

Being on state parole, county probation, federal probation/parole, or any other type of community supervision does not make you less of a parent. You can and absolutely should make every effort to reestablish your parental rights and relationship with your child, if that is what you want. However, it is important to remember that you may have special conditions of your supervision that limit what you can do.

First, there may be travel restrictions in place that make it difficult for you to visit your child, especially if he or she lives in another county. If you have limits on where or how far you can travel, you should talk to your parole agent or probation officer and apply for a travel pass—and make sure you get approval in writing! Alternatively, you can arrange with family, friends, a case manager or mentor, parole officer, or through the court (by requesting a change in the conditions of your supervision) for your child to come visit you. If you would like to change or challenge any condition of your supervision, read the section of the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 130, that applies to you.

Second, there may also be conditions of your supervision that prevent you from contacting your child OR your child’s caregiver. See the next question for more information about what to do in this situation.

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED AND WANT TO SEE MY CHILD, BUT I BELIEVE THERE IS A RESTRAINING ORDER, PROTECTIVE ORDER, OR STAY-AWAY ORDER AGAINST ME. WHAT CAN I DO?

There are two different types of protective orders that could be in place against you: (1) the order could actually be a condition of your supervision (if you are on parole, probation, or some other type of community supervision), AND/OR (2) the order could be required by a court (criminal court or civil court). In either case, it’s recommended that you follow the protective order—otherwise you could be fined up to $5,000, and/or re-incarcerated for violating the court order or the conditions of your supervision.2159

2158 See, e.g., CAL. FAM. CODE §§ 3020(b), 3100(a); CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 362.1(a).
2159 Intentionally violating a protective order is a misdemeanor offense. CAL. PENAL CODE § 166(c).
It is important to know the specifics of any protective orders against you, especially since it can sometimes be hard to understand the exact requirements of a protective order. For example, a protective order may prohibit you from contacting the caregiver or other parent of your child; but this protective order may not apply to your child, unless it specifically says that it does. This can create a situation where, for example, you are allowed to contact your child, but you cannot arrange for a visit with your child because you are not allowed to contact your child’s caregiver or the other parent. If this situation happens to you, you may be able to ask the judge for a “limited contact exception” that allows you to contact the protected person (caregiver or other parent) only for the purpose of arranging visits with your child.

IMPORTANT: If your criminal case involved domestic violence or child abuse, then it is possible that the judge gave your child a protective order against you. If your child has a protective order against you, do not contact your child.

It is also important to know about any conditions or orders against you, because when you go to court to ask for custody and visitation, the judge will consider any protective or restraining orders against you.2160

Here is more information on both situations:

(1) The protective/restraining order may be a condition of your parole, probation or community supervision. In this case, it may be possible to get the condition removed or changed if you don’t have a history of domestic violence or abuse.2161

• If it is a state parole condition, the court cannot do anything to change the condition. Instead, you have to follow the procedures for challenging a parole condition by filing a 602 administrative appeal with the Parole Department. Read the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER at PG. 178 to learn about changing a condition of state parole.
• If it is a condition of your probation or mandatory supervision, you must go back to the criminal court that sentenced you to probation or supervision, and ask the judge to remove or change the condition. Read the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER at PG. 200 (misdemeanor probation) and PG. 205 (felony probation) to learn about changing a probation condition.
• If it is a condition of your Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS), read the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER at PG. 211 to learn about changing a condition of PRCS.
• If it is a condition of your federal probation or federal parole, begin reading the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER at PG. 229 to learn about changing a condition of federal probation or federal parole.

(2) The protective/restraining order may have been ordered by a court (criminal or civil) based on a history (or allegations) of domestic violence, neglect, abuse, stalking, or threats.2162 If you want to change a court-ordered protective order, you must go back to the same court and ask the judge to change or cancel the order.2163

2161 But see, e.g., CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.097(a)(2) (criminal court protective order is mandatory probation condition for domestic violence offenses).
2162 CAL. FAM. CODE §§ 6250 et seq. (emergency protective order), 6320-22 (protective orders); CAL. PENAL CODE § 136.2 (criminal protective order).
2163 You can also try to appeal the order to a higher court.
• If you need assistance changing a criminal court-ordered protective order, contact a public defender or your lawyer from your trial.
• If you need assistance in changing a civil court-ordered protective order, you can ask the Family Law Facilitator at your county court (see Appendix A, PG. 887 to find your local Family Law Facilitator).

IMPORTANT: You might have protective and restraining orders from both criminal and civil courts, with different conditions. So what rules should you follow? Answer: The criminal court order.

A protective order from criminal court is stronger than a restraining order from family, probate, juvenile dependency, or another civil court. If you have several orders from different courts, you must follow the criminal protective order (even if the requirements are different from the other orders).264

III. THE THREE DIFFERENT COURTS YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• About the three different courts that might make decisions about your child.
• How and what you can do in each of these courts to restore or establish your rights and responsibilities as a parent, caregiver, or guardian.

WHAT ARE THE DIFFERENT COURTS IN CALIFORNIA THAT MIGHT MAKE DECISIONS ABOUT MY CHILD?

There are 3 different courts in California that make decisions about children: probate court, juvenile dependency court, and family court. Any of these courts could have cases involving your child. You need to know about all 3 courts because you need to know the best place to go to restore your rights as a parent, caregiver, or guardian. You also must understand the difference between these 3 courts if your child already has an ongoing case, because you will have to go to the court where the case happened or is happening to tell the judge what you want to happen.

On the next page is a chart that summarizes the 3 main courts that make decisions about children—including where the child will live and who will care for him/her. Each of the 3 courts has very different powers and rules. If you’re unsure about which court your case is in or should be in, use the chart below to figure out which court is best for you as you work towards restoring your rights and responsibilities as a parent, caretaker, or guardian.

<tr>
<td>When would my child or I need to go to this court?</td>
<td>You would want to go to Probate Court in 2 main situations:</td>
<td>You and your child might go to Juvenile Dependency Court if the child’s parent(s) are suspected of abuse or neglect and Child Protective Services (CPS) has become involved in the child’s case. As a result, the child might then have a guardian appointed, go into foster care, go back to his/her parents under the court’s supervision, or be adopted.</td>
<td>You would want to go to Family Court to ask for custody or visitation if you are the child’s parent and you have an issue with the other parent. The court will award custody or visitation only if it is “in the child’s best interest.” When deciding what is in the child’s best interest, the judge will consider things like: the health and safety of the child and whether the child is going to be raised in stable and loving environment. Usually this means having both parents involved in child’s life, but if one or both parents can’t provide care and stability—or would harm a child—then the judge will limit contact.</td>

<tr>
<td>Who starts the case?</td>
<td>(1) Normally, a person who wants to become the guardian of someone else’s child. (This could be a relative or family friend.) This person might be living with the child already, but want more rights and responsibilities; OR</td>

<td>The family court also hears cases that don’t involve custody or visitation, like divorce, child support, and paternity cases.</td>

* A note about Juvenile Delinquency Court: There is a 4th type of court called juvenile delinquency court, which hears cases when a child has been arrested for breaking a law. This Chapter does not go into details about juvenile delinquency court or issues of children in the criminal justice system. For more information on that issue, visit the California Courts’ website at http://www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-delinquency.htm.

2165 See Cal. Fam. Code §§ 3020(b), 3100(a) (“the court shall grant reasonable visitation rights to a parent unless it is shown that the visitation would be detrimental to the best interest of the child.”) (emphasis added). See also, e.g., Punsly v. Ho, 87 Cal. App. 4th 1099, 1109 (2001) (“[In determining the child’s best interest,] a presumption exists that fit parents act in the best interests of their children.”).

2166 Specifically: The family court hears those custody and visitation cases that don’t involve child abuse or neglect, and that don’t involve guardianships. This section will explain each of these issues and kinds of cases, one by one.

If You Know The Court Your Child’s Case Is In

If you already know which of the 3 courts your case (or your child’s case) is in, you can skip directly to the section of this Chapter that discusses that specific court system. But if you don’t know this information, it’s best to try to find out which court your case is in before you keep reading.

WHERE DO I FIND THE COURT FORMS I NEED?

California court forms are available online from the California Courts’ website at http://www.courts.ca.gov/forms/forms.htm. You can also ask the court’s Family Law Facilitator to help you get and fill out the court forms you need for your case. Finally, your local law library may also help you get court forms, legal research materials, and information about other legal resources you may need.

Every court form has letters and numbers to identify it. Please note the following about the 3 courts that may make decisions about your child:

- Probate court forms start with GC
- Juvenile dependency court forms start with JV
- Family court forms start with FC
IV. CUSTODY

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• About custody, the legal rights and responsibilities to live with and care for your child.
• How to find out who has custody of your child once you are released from prison.

WHAT ARE THE DIFFERENT TYPES OF CUSTODY?

There are 2 types of custody: physical custody and legal custody. Within these types of custody, someone can have sole custody or joint custody.

• Physical custody means that your child lives with you (at least some of the time), and you are responsible for your child’s day-to-day care and supervision. Within physical custody, you can have sole physical custody (meaning you are the only person with physical custody), or joint physical custody (meaning you share physical custody with someone else, such as the child’s other parent or caregiver).

• Legal custody means you have the right to make major decisions about your child’s health, education, and well-being—like where s/he goes to school and what kind of medical care s/he gets. Within legal custody, you can have sole legal custody (meaning you are the only person with legal custody), or joint legal custody (meaning you share legal custody with someone else, such as the child’s other parent or caregiver).

A parent or caregiver can have both physical custody AND legal custody (as most parents do), or just one form of custody.

THIS CHART EXPLAINS THE DIFFERENT TYPES OF CUSTODY ARRANGEMENTS THAT A PERSON CAN HAVE THROUGH A COURT:

<td>JOINT PHYSICAL CUSTODY: Your child lives with you part of the time, and with the other parent (or caregiver) part of the time. You are responsible for your child’s care and supervision when s/he is with you, and someone else is responsible for your child’s care when the child is with him/her. Joint physical custody does not necessarily mean there is an equal 50/50 split in time between parents (or caregivers); it could be that the child spends more time with one parent than the other. This is still joint custody.</td>
<td>JOINT LEGAL CUSTODY: You and the other parent (or caregiver) share the right to make important decisions about your child. It is possible for the judge to give the parents joint legal custody, but still give one parent complete power to make certain types of decisions alone, and have both parents share responsibilities for other types of decisions. An important note: Even when both parents have the right to make decisions about the child, they do not have to agree on every decision. Either parent can make the decision alone, and they have an independent right to do so.</td>

2164 CAL. FAM. CODE § 3083.
ROADMAP TO REENTRY

WHO DECIDES WHO HAS CUSTODY OF A CHILD?

When a child’s parents separate and there is a disagreement about custody, the judge will make a decision about it. When the judge makes a decision about child custody issues, s/he will make a court order stating who has physical custody, who has legal custody, and whether each type of custody is joint or shared. This court order sets rules for how you and the other parent (or caregiver) will share the care, control over, and time with your child. The court order may also give a parent or caregiver visitation rights (see more about visitation on PG. 843). Neither the child’s mother nor father automatically gets custody of the child. In the past, a mother would automatically get custody—but this is no longer the case. Instead, the judge will give custody based on what is in the child’s best interest (see PG. 862 to learn more about the “best interest of the child” test).

The judge cannot deny you custody or visitation just because you were never married to the child’s other parent. But if you are not the child’s legal parent, it can be difficult to get custody of the child unless (1) the child’s legal parents agree (or don’t oppose) that you should have custody, or (2) the child’s legal parents are unable to safely and properly care for the child. The judge must also find that giving you custody is in the child’s best interest. (For more information about what it means to be the child’s legal parent and other questions about paternity, see PG. 869).

WHAT DO LEGAL AND PHYSICAL CUSTODY ARRANGEMENTS LOOK LIKE IN THE REAL WORLD?

There are SO MANY different possible arrangements and combinations of legal and physical custody (sole and joint). Here are some examples that show these concepts IN REAL LIFE. Remember, these are just examples—no two situations are exactly the same. There is no such thing as a “normal custody arrangement,” so it is okay if your situation is different than in these three stories.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COMMON EXAMPLES OF CUSTODY ARRANGEMENTS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>STORY #1: Jessica is an 8-year-old girl. The judge gave her mother, Maria, sole physical custody, meaning that Jessica lives with Maria full time. Jessica’s father, John, recently returned home from prison and asked the court for visitation. The court gave him weekend visitation with Jessica, but not any physical custody. However, the court gave both Maria and John joint legal custody over Jessica, which means they both get to make important decisions for her—like medical decisions and where to go to school, etc. But only Maria has physical custody, meaning that only Maria is responsible for Jessica’s day-to-day care. To change this arrangement, John would need to go to court to ask for joint physical custody.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>STORY #2: David’s parents, Carlos and Rashida, are separated, but the judge gave them joint physical custody and joint legal custody of their son. David lives with Rashida during most of the week (Monday-Thursday), and with Carlos on weekends (Friday-Sunday). Rashida and Carlos live in the same school district, so David can attend school normally during the week. Rashida and Carlos also share joint legal custody, which means they both get to make important decisions for their child—like medical decisions, where to go to school, etc.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>STORY #3: Kerry’s grandmother, Mary, was appointed as Kerry’s legal guardian by the judge, because both of Kerry’s parents were unable to care for her because of their drug addiction. This means that Mary has sole physical and legal custody of Kerry. Kerry lives with Mary (physical custody), and Mary gets to make all important decisions for Kerry (legal custody)—like medical decisions, where to go to school, etc. Kerry’s parents do NOT have physical or legal custody of their child, but her father, Joseph, asked the judge and got supervised visitation with her. Kerry’s mother, Janet, is currently incarcerated and does not have visitation (but she can ask the judge for visitation rights while she’s in prison or after she gets out).</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

216 CAL. FAM. CODE § 3041 (before granting custody to someone other than the child’s parent over parent’s objection, the judge must find that granting custody to parent would be detrimental to the child and that granting custody to nonparent is necessary in the best interest of the child). See also CAL. PROB. CODE § 1514(b) (same standards apply to guardianship of the person).

217 You can ask the judge for child support or custody and visitation orders as part of a case that establishes the child’s parentage. If a person does not admit that he or she is the parent, the judge may order the alleged parent to submit genetic testing.
V. VISITATION

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• What visitation is
• How the judge can make different kinds of visitation orders depending on each parent’s (or caregiver’s) situation and what is in the child’s best interest.

WHAT ARE THE DIFFERENT TYPES OF VISITATION PLANS THAT A JUDGE CAN ORDER?

This chart explains the 4 types of visitation plans a court could order:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>4 TYPES OF VISITATION PLANS:</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SCHEDULED VISITATION—a detailed plan with exact dates and times for the parent to visit the child.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>REASONABLE VISITATION—a flexible plan that allows the parent to work out the details of visits with the child’s other parent (or caregiver)—such as when, where, how often, and for how long the visits will take place.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUPERVISED VISITATION—a plan that allows the parent to visit their child regularly but also requires someone else to be present whenever the parent visits, to make sure that the child is safe and that parent and child get along well.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NO VISITATION—the judge may decide to not give the parent any visitation at all. This happens if the judge is concerned that a parent will harm a child and thinks it’s best for the child not to have contact with that parent.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

271 The judge may grant supervised visitation if it thinks that your child should see you regularly, but (1) has concerns about the child’s safety, or (2) you haven’t seen your child in a long time and need time to be (re)introduced. The judge’s supervised visitation order will state when you can visit your child, and may also state where and who the supervisor will be. A non-professional supervisor can be a family member or friend who cares about the child and wants to help. A professional supervisor is someone trained and experienced in providing supervision services, and will charge a fee for his/her services. All supervisors are legally required to report suspected child abuse. Cal. Fam. Code § 3500 et seq.; Cal. Rules of Court § 5.20.
VI. GUARDIANSHIP & PROBATE COURT

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• What a guardianship is
• Who can be a guardian
• The rights and responsibilities of a guardian
• What your rights are as a parent if a guardian has been appointed for your child
• How to become the guardian of someone else’s child
• How your criminal record will affect your chances of becoming a guardian

BASIC INTRODUCTION TO GUARDIANSHIP

WHAT IS A GUARDIANSHIP?

A guardianship occurs if a judge appoints you to take care of and be responsible for someone else’s child, or if someone else has been appointed to take care of and be responsible for your child. Although a guardianship does not terminate (end) the rights of the child’s parents, a guardian has the same rights and responsibilities as a parent. A guardian has full legal and physical custody of the child and can make any decision that a parent would be allowed to make. A guardian can be almost any adult—a relative, a friend of the family, or someone else whom the judge decides is able to care and make decisions for the child.272

WHAT ARE THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF A GUARDIAN?

As a legal guardian, you are responsible for caring and making decisions for the child in the following areas:

• Where the child lives;
• Education;
• Health care;
• Social services;
• Financial support and/or public benefits;
• Supervision and misconduct;
• Driver license; military service; and marriage;
• Any other responsibilities that the judge orders.

HOW DOES A GUARDIAN GET APPOINTED (CHOSEN) FOR A CHILD IN PROBATE COURT?

A guardian can be appointed in one of two ways. The probate court judge will decide whether a guardian should be appointed for the child and who should be appointed as the guardian.

(1) The parents of the child can go to probate court to nominate (choose) the person they want to be the guardian of their child. See PG. 846 for more information on the parents’ options in a guardianship.

(2) In other cases, the person who wants to become the child’s guardian, like a relative or family friend, may petition (ask) the judge directly to appoint him/her as the child’s guardian. See PG. 849 for more information on this process.

HOW DOES THE JUDGE DECIDE WHETHER TO GIVE SOMEONE GUARDIANSHIP OF A CHILD? WHAT STANDARD DOES THE JUDGE USE TO DECIDE?

The judge asks: “What is in the best interest of the child?” In all child custody and visitation cases, including for guardianship, the judge will make his/her decisions according to what is in the “best interest of the child.” When deciding what is in the child’s best interest, the judge will consider things such as: the health and safety of the child, and whether the child will be raised in a stable and loving environment. The judge will use the “best interest of the child” standard to decide who will be a good guardian for the child. The goal is to make sure the child is raised in a safe, stable, and loving environment.

WHEN WOULD A JUDGE DECIDE THAT GUARDIANSHIP SHOULD BE GIVEN TO SOMEONE OTHER THAN THE CHILD’S PARENT?

Guardianship may be necessary when, no matter how much the parents love their child, they are unable to take care of him/her. Some examples of situations when guardianship might be necessary are when both parents have a severe substance abuse problem or anger management problem, or if one or both parents are going into the military, to a rehab program, or to prison. A guardian must be at least 18 years old. In most cases, a guardian is someone whom the child knows well, such as a relative or a family friend.

IS GUARDIANSHIP THE SAME THING AS ADOPTION?

No. Guardianship is NOT the same as adoption. Guardianship doesn’t take a child away from the parents forever—it just gives custody to the guardian for a period of time. In a guardianship, the child is still (legally) related to his/her parents, and the judge can let the parents or other family members visit with the children. In a guardianship, parents still have legal responsibilities to support their child, and the child can still inherit money or get social security benefits from his/her parents.\textsuperscript{216}

In contrast, adoption does permanently take away (terminate) the parental rights of the child’s parents. Adoption is generally permanent and irreversible, which means the parents no longer have any rights to their child and cannot get their child back.\textsuperscript{217} Whereas guardianship can be temporary, adoption is permanent.

| If you want custody back... | To get custody back, go to the same county probate court that appointed your child’s guardian, find out what is happening in your case, and file a petition to terminate (end) the current guardianship and ask for custody back, if appropriate. | - You will need to show that ending the guardianship and giving you custody is in your child’s best interest.
- You will need to show that you are able to care for your child and provide a safe home for him/her (i.e., you have a stable place to live, a source of income, and you are ready to be a good parent). | Go to your county probate court and ask the Family Law Facilitator to help you get and fill out the court forms. File your court forms with the court clerk in the same probate court that appointed your child’s guardian. See Appendix B, PG. 888, for sample court forms. |
| If you want to keep the current guardianship in place, but you want to visit your child (and you want a court order demanding it)... | To keep the current guardianship in place, but you want to visit your child (and you want a court order demanding it), you should file a petition for visitation rights in the same county probate court that appointed your child’s guardian. | You will need to show that visitation is in your child’s best interest (i.e., you have a positive relationship with your child, you can provide stable and loving visits with your child, and you are ready to be a good parent). | Go to your county probate court and ask the Family Law Facilitator to help you get and fill out the court forms. File your court forms with the court clerk in the same probate court that appointed your child’s guardian. (Note: If your child lives in a different county, you may need to get special court forms for visitation from the probate court that appointed your child’s current guardian.) |
| If you want to change the child’s guardian to someone else (not you)... | To change the child’s guardian to someone else (but not you), you should file a petition to terminate the current guardianship and a petition asking to appoint a new guardian in the same county probate court that appointed your child’s guardian. | - You will need to show that ending the guardianship and giving a different person guardianship is in your child’s best interest.
- You will need to show that the new guardian can care for your child and provide a safe home for him/her (i.e., the new guardian has a stable place to live, a source of income, and can provide a good caregiver, and can provide a good home). | Go to your county probate court and ask the Family Law Facilitator to help you get and fill out the court forms. File your court forms with the court clerk in the same probate court that appointed your child’s guardian. See Appendix C, PG. 889 and Appendix D, PG. 890 for sample court forms. |

IMPORTANT! A NOTE ON FEES: Filing court papers in probate court can be expensive. If you can’t afford to pay the fees, you can ask for a fee waiver from the court clerk when you file your papers. If you receive certain public benefits, you are automatically entitled to a fee waiver.\textsuperscript{233}

IMPORTANT INFORMATION IF SOMEONE ELSE WAS APPOINTED THE GUARDIAN OF YOUR CHILD & YOU ARE TRYING TO RECONNECT

IF SOMEONE ELSE BECOMES THE GUARDIAN OF MY CHILD, DO I LOSE MY RIGHTS AS A PARENT?

NO, not at all. Guardianship does not end the parental rights of the child’s legal or biological parents; it only puts their parental rights on hold while the guardian has physical and legal custody of the child. This allows the guardian(s) to make all the decisions about caring for the child that a parent would make, without cutting off the parents’ rights to get back legal and physical custody of their child in the future.

Also, the child’s legal or biological parents still have certain responsibilities for their child during the guardianship:

- Parents must continue to financially support their children in a guardianship (including paying child support). And children in a guardianship can inherit money or get social security benefits from their parents.
- The children in a guardianship are still related to their parents.
- The court can let the parents or relatives visit with the children in a guardianship.

IF SOMEONE ELSE BECOMES THE GUARDIAN OF MY CHILD, CAN I STILL VISIT WITH MY CHILD? CAN HIS/HER SIBLINGS VISIT?

Yes, so long as the judge decides it is okay to visit. When the judge appoints a guardian to have custody of a child, the judge may also grant visitation rights to the child’s parent(s) and/or sibling(s). If the judge orders visitation, the child’s guardian must allow these visits to take place. If there is no court order for visitation, the guardian has the right to decide whether the child may visit with his/her parent(s) or other relatives. So if you don’t have a court order and the guardian is not letting you see your child, you might need to go to probate court to ask the judge for visitation. See the chart below (Summary of Your Options if a Guardian Has Been Appointed for Your Child) for more information.

(Note: If your child lives in a different county from you, you will need to ask for visitation from the same probate court that appointed your child’s current guardian, which may be in a different county from where you live. Every probate court has its own special forms to request visitation, so you may need to get these forms from the probate court that appointed your child’s current guardian.)

2184 By contrast, adoption does terminate the parental rights of the child’s legal or biological parents, and also creates a permanent parent/child relationship between the child and his/her adoptive parent. See CAL. FAM. CODE § 7505(a) (cessation of parental authority upon appointment of guardian); CAL. PROB. CODE § 2351(a) (custody rights of guardian); CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 366.26 (distinguishing between termination of parental rights and guardianship proceedings; contrast adoption, which terminates parental rights, with guardianship, which does not); In re Guardianship of Ann S., 45 Cal. 4th 1110, 1124 (2009) (probate guardianship suspends parental rights).

2185 By contrast, adoption does terminate the parental rights of the child’s legal or biological parents, and also creates a permanent parent/child relationship between the child and his/her adoptive parent. See CAL. FAM. CODE § 7505(a) (cessation of parental authority upon appointment of guardian); CAL. PROB. CODE § 2351(a) (custody rights of guardian); CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 366.26 (distinguishing between termination of parental rights and guardianship proceedings; contrast adoption, which terminates parental rights, with guardianship, which does not); In re Guardianship of Ann S., 45 Cal. 4th 1110, 1124 (2009) (probate guardianship suspends parental rights).
IMPORTANT INFORMATION IF YOU WANT TO BECOME THE GUARDIAN OF SOMEONE ELSE’S CHILD

WILL MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY CHANCES OF BEING APPOINTED AS A GUARDIAN FOR SOMEONE ELSE’S CHILD?

The judge can consider all of your convictions when deciding whether to appoint you as a guardian. But certain types of convictions are more likely than others to affect your chances of being appointed as a guardian. Although the judge will consider all of your convictions, the convictions that are viewed most negatively are child abuse and/or domestic violence; registered sex offenses where the victim was a child; and rape or murder of the child’s other parent.2186 The judge will also consider any restraining or protective orders against you.2187

If you have struggled with drugs or alcohol (whether or not you have any related convictions), the judge will also consider this when deciding whether it is in the child’s best interest to appoint you as his/her guardian. The judge may require you to do drug or alcohol tests, or even order you not to use any drugs or alcohol. However, the judge cannot deny your guardianship petition based solely on the results of a positive drug/alcohol test—a dirty test is only one factor when deciding whether the guardianship would be in the child’s best interest.2188

If you have already been appointed as the child’s legal guardian, the judge can remove you as guardian (i.e., end your guardianship rights) if you are convicted of a felony, regardless of whether the conviction occurred before or after you became the child’s guardian.2189

What are recommended ways to present myself to the judge if I have a criminal record and want to get guardianship or visitation?

It can help to clearly explain the things that make you a positive person in the child’s life. You should emphasize your ability to care for the child, the strength of your relationship with the child, the stability you can bring to the child’s life, and tell the judge why it is best for the child to live or visit with you. You should also talk to a lawyer. To find a free legal aid organization in your area, visit http://lawhelpca.org/find-legal-help?topic=families-and-kids&subtopic=custodyvisitation or see PG. 1190 for a list of legal aid organizations around the state.

2186 Guardianship cases in probate court are governed by the same rules as custody cases in Family Court. CAL. PROB. CODE § 1514(b) (appointment of guardian governed by standards of Family Code §§ 3020 et seq. and 3040 et seq.); CAL. FAM. CODE §§ 3044 (presumption against persons perpetrating domestic violence); 3030 (sexual offenses against a minor; rape from which child was conceived; first degree murder of child’s other parent).
2187 CAL. FAM. CODE § 3031.
2188 CAL. PROB. CODE § 1514(b); CAL. FAM. CODE § 3041.5. The results of the drug/alcohol test will only be used when considering whether you should be the child’s guardian (i.e., whether the guardianship is in the child’s best interest), and cannot be used for any other purpose, such as criminal prosecution, parole violation, or civil penalties. Moreover, you may request a hearing to challenge the results of a positive test.
2189 CAL. PROB. CODE § 2650(d).
WHAT STEPS CAN I TAKE TO BECOME THE LEGAL GUARDIAN FOR SOMEONE ELSE’S CHILD?

If you are not the child’s legal or biological parent, but you are a relative or family friend (or you have some other relationship with the child), you can ask to become the child’s guardian by filing a petition for guardianship in probate court. Ask the court Family Law Facilitator to help you fill out and file the court forms. This is what to expect:

- The court (or social service agency) will conduct an investigation—including a background check on you and other adults in your home—to make sure that living with you will be best for the child and not put the child at risk of harm.
- There will be a hearing in court, when the judge may ask questions to you, the child, and/or any other relative who attends.
- The judge will approve the guardianship if it is necessary or convenient for the child—in other words, if it is best for the child—such as when the child’s parents are unable to care for him/her directly.
- The judge is more likely to grant your petition for guardianship if the child’s parents agree to the guardianship, particularly if they sign onto your petition.
- If one or both parents objects to the guardianship, you will need to show that allowing the child to stay with his/her parents (or current caregiver) will be detrimental to the child (meaning it will cause harm to the child) AND that appointing you as guardian will be in the best interest of the child.

See Appendix C, PG. 889, for sample court forms.

NOTE: You may also have a “co-petitioner” for guardianship, where two people ask to share the guardianship of a child. This person can be your spouse (husband or wife), or any other relative or non-relative who will help you care for the child.

---

2190 Keep in mind that a guardianship will give you legal custody of the child—the right to care and make decisions for the child—but will not create a permanent parent/child relationship, and will not terminate the parental rights of the child’s parents. There are also short term and/or informal alternatives to guardianship, such as an informal arrangement with the child’s parent(s) or a Caregiver’s Authorization Affidavit, which gives you the right to enroll the child in school and make certain medical decisions for the child. Cal. Fam. Code § 6550. However, these informal options generally do not protect your right to care or make decisions for the child if the legal parent (or other legal caregiver) disagrees with you.

2191 Cal. Prob. Code § 1513(a). The investigator will visit your home; interview you, the child (depending on age), anyone else living in the home, and possibly the child’s parents; review the child’s school and medical references; and may ask for personal references. The investigator will write up a report and make a recommendation to the judge about whether you should be appointed as guardian. You have the right to get a copy of the investigator’s report, although you may have to request it from the judge.

2193 Cal. Prob. Code § 1500 (parents’ nomination of guardian); Cal. Fam. Code § 3043. The judge will also consider whether other family members agree that you should be the child’s guardian, and where the child wants to live (if s/he is old enough to decide). Cal. Fam. Code § 3042. It may be good to show that if you are appointed as guardian, you will help child to stay in contact with his/her parents and extended family (but only if this would be safe and appropriate for the child).

IMPORTANT: DECISIONS THAT THE JUDGE HAS THE DISCRETION TO MAKE DURING A PROBATE GUARDIANSHIP HEARING:

The judge may decide to appoint a lawyer for the child, if the judge thinks that it’s necessary to protect the child. If you make accusations that the child’s parents (or caregivers) have abused, neglected, or mistreated the child, the judge can also involve CPS in the case. If CPS gets involved in the case, it can take longer and/or be much more difficult for you to become the child’s guardian, for two reasons:

- First, your guardianship case in probate court will be put on hold (delayed) because CPS will open a new case in juvenile dependency court. In the meantime, the child may be returned to his/her parent(s) or placed with another caregiver.
- Second, if you want to become the child’s guardian or caregiver in the juvenile dependency case AND you have a criminal record, there are many more criminal record-related barriers in juvenile dependency court (whereas there are fewer barriers in probate court). (See PG. 860 to learn how a criminal record will affect your chances of being a guardian in juvenile dependency court.)

When deciding whether to involve CPS, the judge will look at the current conditions in the child’s parents’ (or caregivers’) home. When you are filling out your petition for guardianship and/or going to probate court, you do not have to go into detail about major issues with the child’s parents. If you do, the judge may be more likely to appoint a lawyer for the child or involve CPS (which may cause it to take longer or make it more difficult for you to become the guardian).

The child’s parents or caregivers do not have to go to court with you. Instead, you can go to court and just focus on explaining to the judge why it is in the child’s best interest to live with you. Keep it positive—tell the judge why you are the right person to care for and be responsible for the child (i.e., you have a good relationship with the child, you have a stable place to live and source of income, and you will be a loving and supportive guardian). This is often the best solution to this complicated situation. On the other hand, you may decide that it is better for CPS to get involved in the case.

WHAT KIND OF SUPPORT CAN A GUARDIAN GET FROM THE GOVERNMENT FOR THE CHILD AND ONE’S SELF?

Depending on your relationship to the child and your financial situation, you can get certain public benefits for the child and/or yourself. These may include:

- CalWORKS (sometimes called “welfare”):
  - If you’re related to the child, you can get CalWORKS even if you don’t need the money. This is called a monthly “non-needy caregiver” payment.
  - If you’re not related to the child (also called a non-relative guardian), you cannot get CalWORKS simply for being the child’s guardian, but you can still get CalWORKS if you can show that you need financial help to care for the child.
- Foster Care Payments: Some guardians can get these payments, and the amount of money may be more than CalWORKS.

276th CAL. PROB. CODE § 1513(b), (c); In re Guardianship of Christian G., 195 Cal. App. 4th 581 (2011), as modified (May 31, 2011). The judge must refer the case to CPS if you, the investigator, or anyone else involved in the case indicates that the child has been abused or neglected by his/her parent(s) or current guardian.
• Kin-GAP (Kinship Guardianship Assistance Payment Program): If you are related to the child, you can (but are not guaranteed to) get these payments.
• SSI (Supplemental Security Income): If the child has a disability, s/he may be able to get SSI or state disability benefits. You can use this money to take care of the child.
• Medi-Cal: You can get Medi-Cal for the child, and get Medi-Cal for yourself if you’re related to the child and financially eligible. For more information on all of these benefits and more, read the PUBLIC BENEFITS CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 504.

WHAT STEPS CAN I TAKE TO BECOME SOMEONE ELSE’S TEMPORARY GUARDIAN IN AN EMERGENCY?

In an emergency, you can ask the judge to appoint you as a temporary guardian. You must show “good cause,” which means there is a really good reason to ask for a temporary guardianship. See Appendix D, PG. 890, for sample court forms.

IMPORTANT: You cannot request temporary guardianship by itself—you must also file the regular guardianship papers at the same time as you file the papers to request temporary guardianship. The temporary guardianship gives you custody only until the court holds a permanent guardianship hearing.

WHEN WOULD MY CHILD HAVE A CASE IN JUVENILE DEPENDENCY COURT?

A case is opened in juvenile dependency court when a child’s parent(s) are suspected of abuse or neglect. For example, if a parent has been violent, has abused or neglected the child, or if the child tests positive for drugs at birth, a case may be opened in juvenile dependency court. In general, the parent(s) will have the opportunity to get their child back (i.e., “reunite” or “reunify” with their child) if they meet certain requirements.

This might also be when Child Protective Services (CPS) removes a child from the home.

CAN CPS REMOVE MY CHILD JUST BECAUSE I HAVE A CRIMINAL RECORD?

No. Just having a criminal record is not enough for CPS or a judge to take your child away—there has to be some connection between your conviction and a risk of harm to your child. For example, a conviction for child abuse, certain 2201 The law’s definition of “abuse and neglect” includes physical abuse, sexual abuse, causing the child to have emotional distress, and leaving your child unattended. Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code § 300(a)-(j).

---

2202 When someone makes a report about your child’s safety to the police or welfare department, the police or a social worker must investigate to decide whether the dependency court should get involved to protect your child. This might happen because someone suspected that your child wasn’t well taken care of, was abused or neglected, or was left with someone who didn’t take good care of him/her. Under the law, “child abuse” includes: physical harm done on purpose to a child; sexual abuse of a child, including assault and exploitation; cruel or unreasonable punishment of a child; and/or neglect of a child—failure to provide necessary care, food, shelter, etc. Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code § 300 (“dependent child” defined).
violent felonies, or using drug or alcohol in a way that put your child at risk could cause CPS or the judge to remove your child from your care.2203

WHAT COULD HAPPEN TO MY RIGHTS AS A PARENT IF CPS OPENS A CASE ON MY CHILD IN JUVENILE DEPENDENCY COURT?

If your child is part of a juvenile dependency court case, the judge may make orders to:

- Place your child with relatives, foster parents, or a court-appointed guardian; and/or
- Give you visitation rights; and/or
- Give you a case plan that requires you to attending parenting classes, counseling, or other programs.

To learn more about each of these specific situations, see the questions below:

IF CPS HAS TAKEN MY CHILD FROM MY HOME, WHAT ARE MY RIGHTS IN DEPENDENCY COURT?

If CPS has taken your child from your home, you have the right to receive a NOTICE, a HEARING, a LAWYER, and CHILD REUNIFICATION SERVICES.2204

- A notice is a document that makes you aware of the CPS case and explains why your child has been taken from your home. Either CPS or the judge must give you a copy of the notice so that you understand why your child was removed.2205

- Hearings happen in court, when the judge gathers information and makes decisions about your child’s case. You have the right to 5 different types of hearings, and you have the right to be present in court at these hearings. To learn more about the 5 different hearings and what happens at each hearing, see PG. 854 (Juvenile Dependency Court Hearings) and the chart on PG. 855 (Juvenile Dependency Proceedings).

- Lawyer—You have the right to a lawyer to represent you for free in these hearings. If you cannot afford a lawyer, the judge must appoint one for you.2206

- Family reunification services—CPS must provide you with services and programs to help you meet the all of the requirements of your case plan and reunite with your child.2207 If you aren’t getting these reunification services, 2207 Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 361.5, 16500.5 et seq. There are only limited circumstances when the judge can deny you reunification services, such as if you caused serious harm to your child or a sibling; have been convicted of a violent felony under Cal. Penal Code § 667.5(e); have a history of serious drug and alcohol use and refused court-ordered treatment; are required to register as a sex offender; or have told the judge that you do not want to reunite with your child. § 361.5(b), (c). talk to your lawyer, social worker, and/or the judge. You only have a limited amount of time to receive reunification services and meet all the requirements of your case plan, so you should speak up right away if you’re not getting the services you need.

JUVENILE DEPENDENCY COURT HEARINGS

You have the right to 5 different types of hearings in juvenile dependency court:

1. Detention hearing—At the detention hearing, the judge will (1) tell you why CPS removed your child; (2) decide whether it is safe for your child to stay with you until the next hearing; and (3) appoint a lawyer to represent you (if you cannot afford to hire your own lawyer).

2. Jurisdictional hearing—At the jurisdictional hearing, the judge will decide whether CPS’s accusations against you are true. If the judge decides they are true, the judge will declare your child to be a “dependent of the court” and will make orders to protect your child’s safety.

3. Dispositional hearing—At the dispositional hearing, the judge will give you a case plan, decide where your child should live, and decide what you need to do to get your child back (if your child is sent to live with someone else) or to better care for him/her (if your child is allowed to live with you). Sometimes this happens at the same time as the jurisdictional hearing.

4. Status review hearing(s)—At the status review hearing(s), the judge will follow up to see whether you are making progress with your case plan, and to find out what is happening with you, your child, and CPS. The status review hearings are generally held every 6 months so the judge can check on your case.

5. Permanent plan hearing (also called a 26 hearing)—This is a hearing that happens if the court decides to end your reunification services and NOT give your child back to you. At this hearing, the judge will decide where your child should live permanently. The court may terminate (permanently end) your parental rights and put your child up for adoption, appoint a legal guardian to have custody of your child, or put your child in long-term foster care.

Normally you only have 6 months of reunification time if your child is younger than 3 years old, or 1 year of reunification time if your child is 3 years or older. Sometimes the judge may extend this time up to a total of 18 or 24 months—but only if the judge believes that you will be able to meet all the reunification requirements and get your child back by the end of the extension. To extend reunification services, you will need to show all of the following: (1) you’ve consistently contacted and with your child; (2) you’ve made significant progress in resolving the problems that caused your child to be removed; and/or (3) you are able to complete your case plan requirements and provide for your child’s needs. Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 361.5, 366.22(b). After this time, the judge may terminate your reunification services—and can later terminate your parental rights.

Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 315 et seq.; see also § 300 (“dependent child” defined).

Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code § 361.2 et seq.

Juvenile Dependency Proceedings
(Welfare & Institutions Code Section 300 et seq.)

1 If a child is under the age of three at the time of removal, court ordered services shall not exceed six months. (See W & I Code section 361.5(a)(2) for exceptions.) When calculating the 6-month period, the time shall begin either 60 days after the child was placed in protective custody or from the date of the jurisdiction hearing, whichever is earlier.

2 If a child is three years of age or older at the time of removal, court ordered services shall not exceed 12 months. (See W & I Code section 361.5(a)(2) for exceptions.) The twelve month time period is calculated the same as in footnote #1.

3 Judicial Days/Hours

4 When a minor is a dependent child of the court and remains in the home and there is a reasonable cause to believe that the minor is a person described in subdivision (a), (d) or (e) of section 300 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, court proceedings shall commence and the minor shall be committed to the care, custody and control of the probation officer.

WHAT IS A CASE PLAN AND WHY IS IT IMPORTANT?

If CPS has removed your child from your home, you should get a copy of your case plan from your CPS social worker or the dependency court judge. Your case plan sets out the rules and requirements for what you need to do to get your child back—for example, attending parenting or counseling classes, participating in substance abuse treatment, and/or visiting with your child. The services and programs that you need for your case plan should be given to you for a limited amount of time.

You must follow your case plan and try to visit your child as often as you are allowed and as often as is possible for you. If you don’t meet the requirements of your case plan in the time the judge sets for you, the judge may end the reunification services that were helping you to get your child back. But even if the judge ends your reunification services, you should still keep following the requirement of your case plan and visiting your child as often as possible, so long as the judge has not ended (terminated) your parental rights.2215

IMPORTANT: While your child’s juvenile dependency case is going on, you only have a limited period of time to meet the requirements of your case plan and reunite with your child. If your child’s case started or was going on while you were incarcerated, the clock may have started to run already during your time inside. This means you will have to work extra hard to meet all of your reunification requirements once you get out, before your time runs out.2216

If being in prison or jail made it difficult for you to complete your reunification requirements and/or other court-ordered services, or to stay in touch with your child, the judge must take into account the barriers you faced due to your incarceration. However, the judge will still want to see that you made an effort (i.e., you tried) to complete your requirements and stay in touch with your child, even if you were unable to do so.2217

HELPFUL HINT

A Note About Missing Visits

If the judge gives you visitation rights with your child, you must attend every visit—do not miss a visit! The judge will consider any missed visits with your child when deciding whether you have met the requirements to get your child back.2218 If something happens that prevents you from attending a visit (for example, if you are sick), make sure you call the social worker and your child’s current caregiver beforehand (at least 1 day before, if possible) to let them know.

2215 Termination of parental rights is a very serious decision; in general, the judge can only do this after giving you notice, a hearing, an opportunity to participate in reunification services with your child, and must find that it would be “detrimental” (harmful) to your child to be returned to your care. You have the right to a lawyer during this process, and the judge will appoint a lawyer if you cannot afford to pay for one. CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE §§ 317, 353, 366.26.

2216 Remember, you have the right to reasonable reunification services even while you are incarcerated (with certain exceptions). You should take advantage of any services and/or other programming that are available, and make every effort to stay in touch with your child, during your sentence. CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 361.5(e). See also, e.g., V.C. v. Sup. Ct., 188 Cal. App. 4th 521 (2010) (holding that father’s failure to participate in available reunification services while incarcerated justified trial court’s decision to terminate reunification services and provided evidence that returning child to father’s custody would be detrimental).

2217 CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE §§ 366.21(e), 366.215, 366.22(a).

2218 CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 361.5(a)(2)(B) (court may terminate reunification services upon finding that parent has failed to contact and visit child).
WHAT CAN I DO IF THE JUDGE ENDED MY REUNIFICATION SERVICES AND I WANT TO TRY AGAIN TO REUNITE WITH MY CHILD?

If the judge ended your reunification services (for example, because you did not meet the requirements of your case plan in time), and placed your child in long-term foster care or with a legal guardian, or closed your child’s case, you may be able to file papers in dependency court (called a 388 petition) asking the judge to change the current court order and give you visitation, custody, and/or end a legal guardianship of your child.

BUT if several years have passed since your child’s dependency case was closed, it may be too late to go back to dependency court and ask to change the court order. Instead, you can file new papers in family court and ask to change the dependency court order. We briefly explain both processes below.

POSSIBILITY #1: If your reunification services ended recently (for example, in the past year):

You can file a 388 petition in the same juvenile dependency court where your child’s case took place. In your 388 petition, you will need to explain AND prove to the judge (with documents, actions, and evidence) that:

• There has been a significant change in circumstances or new evidence in your child’s case since the judge made the current court order (see the Helpful Hint box below for more information and examples of significant changes in circumstances); AND

• Giving you visitation, custody, or ending the guardianship is in your child’s best interest.

See Appendix E, PG. 891, for a sample court form.

HELPFUL HINT

Significant Change in Circumstances

The change in circumstances must generally be major and long-term; the judge will want to see that you are committed to the change and won’t go back to your previous situation—for example, you completed your prison or jail sentence; you successfully completed your parole, probation, or community supervision; and/or you have resolved whatever issues caused CPS and/or the court to get involved in the first place. Other examples of changes in circumstances might include completing an anger management or domestic violence program and taking steps to remedy any previous harm you caused; completing rehab and staying sober for a year or more; and/or avoiding any criminal activity or arrest for several years.

Writing a Dependency Court 388 Petition

You should ask the lawyer who represented you in dependency court (or someone else who is familiar with your case) to help you write the 388 petition, since it must be very precise. (The court’s Family Law Facilitator may also help explain the 388 petition process.)

POSSIBILITY #2: If it has been several years since your reunification services ended:

You must go to family court and file papers asking to change the juvenile dependency court order. To be successful, you will have to show:

• A significant change in circumstances since the juvenile dependency court judge made the current court order, AND
• Giving you custody or visitation would be in your child’s best interest.

NOTE: These are the same things you have to prove for a 388 petition (described immediately above). For more information about changing court orders in family court, see PG. 866.

HOW COULD MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY ABILITY TO REUNITE WITH MY CHILD IN JUVENILE DEPENDENCY COURT?

If you are the child’s parent and want to reunite with your child, AND your parental rights have not been terminated, you generally have the right to reunite with your child even if you have a criminal record and even while you are incarcerated.

Regardless of your criminal record, you will need to show that reuniting with your child will be in your child’s best interest and will not put your child at risk of harm. This means you should visit your child as much as you can, AND work to address the issues that caused CPS and/or the court to get involved in the first place (for example, substance abuse, anger management, etc.). By doing these things, you will show the judge that you are serious about reuniting with your child and are ready to have greater rights and responsibilities with him/her.

In addition, you are more likely to be successful in reuniting with your child if you can show the judge evidence of rehabilitation (especially drug or alcohol treatment, parenting and behavioral classes, counseling, and other programs that will help you to be a good parent); letters of support from family or friends, your case manager, teachers, or other people who know you and your child; that

CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 352(d) (stating that a final custody or visitation order from juvenile dependency court may be modified in family court only if “the court finds that there has been a significant change of circumstances since the juvenile court issued the order and modification of the order is in the best interests of the child.”). For example, if you have already tried to change custody or visitation through a 388 petition in juvenile dependency court, and the judge denied your petition, then you may go to family court to request changes in custody or visitation.

If your child’s juvenile dependency case is still going on, CPS is supposed to make “reasonable efforts” to reunite you with your child, and the judge must offer you reunification services. CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE §§ 361.5(a) (general right to reunification services), 361.5(e) (right to reasonable reunification services while incarcerated).
you have safe, stable housing and a source of income to support your child; and that you are successfully complying with all conditions of your probation, parole, or community supervision.\footnote{2228 See, e.g., Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code § 366.22(a) (return of child to parent or guardian at permanency review hearing).}

Finally, the judge is more likely to grant you visitation rights, regardless of your criminal record. Under California law, allowing a child to visit with his/her parent(s) is generally assumed to be in the child’s best interest, and judges are encouraged to grant visitation rights to the parent(s), so long as the visits will not be harmful to the child.\footnote{2227 In re Emmanuel R., 94 Cal. App. 4th 452, 464 (2001) (upholding trial court’s finding that dependent child’s visitation with father was in child’s best interest, notwithstanding father’s “extensive” criminal record).} To decide whether visitation is in your child’s best interest, the judge will look at things like your relationship with your child, whether your child’s other parent (or caregiver) is in favor of the visits, whether your child wants to visit with you, and how well you and your child get along during visits—not just whether you have a criminal record.\footnote{2228 Remember, you have the right to reasonable reunification services even while you are incarcerated (with certain exceptions). You should take advantage of any services and/or other programing that are available, and make every effort to stay in touch with your child, during your sentence. Cal. Welf. & Inst. \section*{I HAVE A CRIMINAL RECORD AND WANT TO BE THE LEGAL GUARDIAN FOR A CHILD IN JUVENILE DEPENDENCY COURT. WHAT STEPS CAN I TAKE?}

If you want to become the legal guardian of a child in juvenile dependency court, it’s recommended that you talk to the social worker involved in the child’s case OR write a letter to the judge explaining why you want to be the child’s guardian. You will have to show that the guardianship is in the child’s best interest.\footnote{2230 Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code § 362.1. The judge may order you to have supervised visits if it has concerns about your child’s wellbeing during the visits. See PG. 23 for more information about supervised visitation.} A guardian does not have to be related to the child—a guardian can be a relative (such as a grandparent, aunt or uncle, brother or sister, or other relatives), a family friend, or someone else who knows the child.\footnote{2231 Remember, you have the right to reasonable reunification services even while you are incarcerated (with certain exceptions). You should take advantage of any services and/or other programing that are available, and make every effort to stay in touch with your child, during your sentence. Cal. Welf. & Inst. Code § 361.3(e); see also, e.g., V.C. v. Sup. Ct., 188 Cal. App. 4th 521 (2010) (holding that father’s failure to participate in available reunification services while incarcerated justified trial court’s decision to terminate reunification services and provided evidence that returning child to father’s custody would be detrimental).} To learn more about the responsibilities of a guardian and what public benefits you can apply for to support the child, see PG. 844 and 850. If the judge appoints you as the child’s guardian, you will get Letters of Guardianship, which is a legal document from the dependency court that proves you are the child’s guardian. To see a sample Letters of Guardianship, see Appendix F, PG. 892.
HOW COULD MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY ABILITY TO BE APPOINTED AS THE CHILD’S GUARDIAN IN DEPENDENCY COURT?

First, the bad news: If the child is NOT living with you right now, before the judge can allow the child to live with you, the court (or a social worker) must conduct background checks on you and any other adults who live in your home or who will spend significant time with the child.\textsuperscript{2232} If you (or any other adult checked) have a criminal record, the judge will not allow the child to live with you UNLESS you get a criminal record exemption from the county social service agency.\textsuperscript{2233} (In other words, you must get the social service agency to excuse your conviction and not hold it against you.)

Unfortunately, many convictions are considered NON-exemptible, which means that you cannot get a criminal record exemption for the conviction. If you or anyone in your home has a non-exemptible conviction on your criminal record, the judge will not allow the child to live with you even if living with you would otherwise be good for the child.\textsuperscript{2234} Non-exemptible convictions include: child abuse, child neglect, other crimes against children, child pornography, spousal abuse, and crimes involving violence (rape, sexual assault, homicide, felony assault, felony battery, drug and/or alcohol related offenses).

BUT—and this is a big BUT—if the child is already living in your home, the judge may allow the child to continue living with you (even if you or someone else in the home has a criminal record), particularly if the child is doing well there!\textsuperscript{2235}

\textbf{HELPFUL HINT}

\textbf{Clean Up Your Criminal Record & Get Convictions Expunged}

If possible, it is recommended that you get your conviction expunged (“dismissed”) under California Penal Code Section 1203.4—or that you clean up your criminal record in other ways—before trying to get custody of a child in dependency court.

Expungement does NOT remove the conviction from your criminal record, but it has many benefits. For example, cleaning up your record and getting convictions expunged can only help you in trying to get custody, guardianship, or reunite with your child, because it will demonstrate to the judge that you are committed to making changes in your life and are ready to take on greater responsibilities as a parent or guardian.\textsuperscript{2236} Some judges (but not all) will even treat an expunged conviction the same as a criminal record exemption.\textsuperscript{2237} For more information about expungement and other ways to clean up your criminal record, read the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020.

However, certain offenses are “non-exemptible only under specified circumstances,” and the Director of Social Services may have discretion to grant an exemption for an offense that otherwise would be non-exemptible. See \textit{In re Esperanza C.}, 165 Cal. App. 4th 1042, 1057 (2008). In addition, some counties may not have authority to issue an exemption, which means the judge cannot place a child in a home where any person has been convicted of a crime other than a minor traffic violation. \textit{CAL. CAN I BE INCLUDED IN THE JUVENILE DEPENDENCY COURT DECISION-MAKING PROCESS IF I HAVE BEEN TAKING CARE OF THE CHILD EVERY DAY?

Yes—if you are caring and providing for a child who is part of a juvenile dependency case and you want to be more involved in his or her case, you may be able to become a de facto parent. A de facto parent has the right to participate in the child’s case (including the right to attend and participate in hearings, present evidence to the judge, ask questions, and be represented by a lawyer) and to help the judge decide what is best for the child. For more information on becoming a de facto parent, visit the Judicial Council website at http://www.courts.ca.gov/1207.htm, or find sample court forms in Appendix G, PG. 893. Even if you do not become a de facto parent, you can also fill out a “Caregiver Information Form” to give the judge more information about the child and help the judge make decisions about what will be best for him or her. See Appendix G, PG. 893, for a sample “Caregiver Information Form” and more information.

VIII. FAMILY COURT

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• How to ask for custody or visitation in family court
• How to change an existing court order about custody and visitation
• How the judge makes custody and visitation decisions about your child
• How your criminal record could affect your ability to get custody and visitation in family court
• How a history of substance abuse could affect you in family court

WHEN WOULD I GO TO FAMILY COURT?

The family court hears custody and visitation cases involving the child’s legal or biological parents. If you are the child’s legal or biological parent and you want to get custody or visitation from the other parent, you would file a petition for custody or visitation in family court.

CUSTODY & VISITATION

WHAT CAN I EXPECT WHEN ASKING FOR CUSTODY OR VISITATION IN FAMILY COURT?

Before granting or changing custody or visitation for your child, the judge will hold a hearing. The judge may require you and the other parent to attend mediation. In some cases, the judge may also order a custody evaluation, which is an investigation of your child’s living situation to help the judge understand what will be best for him/her.

WHAT DOES THE JUDGE LOOK AT TO DECIDE WHETHER TO GRANT CUSTODY OR VISITATION?

Under California state law, the judge must make decisions about custody and visitation based on what is in the child’s best interest. To decide what is in your child’s best interest, the judge will look at things like your child’s age, health, and school needs; his/her relationship with each parent (or caregiver); and his/her connections at home, school, and in the community. The judge will... also consider each parent’s (or caregiver’s) ability to care for the child, and any history of family violence or substance abuse by either parent (or caregiver).

In most cases, judges assume that it’s in the child’s best interest to have a stable, consistent relationship with both parents through custody and/or visitation. But if it’s clear that one or both parents can’t provide the care and stability that your child needs—or if there is a specific reason to believe that having contact with the parent(s) would be harmful to your child—then the judge will consider other options or even limit contact between the parent(s) and child.2243

WHAT TYPES OF CONVICTIONS ARE MOST LIKELY TO AFFECT MY CHANCES OF GETTING CUSTODY OR VISITATION?

Certain types of convictions are more likely to affect your chances of getting custody or visitation with your child. And if the judge does give you visitation, s/he must also consider your criminal record when deciding whether you should have supervised or unsupervised visitation with your child.2246 (See PG. 843 for more information about the different types of visitation you can have.)

2243 See CAL. FAM. CODE §§ 3020(b), 3100(a) (“The court shall grant reasonable visitation rights to a parent unless it is shown that the visitation would be detrimental to the best interest of the child.”) (emphasis added). See also, e.g., Pundy v. Ho, 87 Cal. App. 4th 1099, 1109 (2001) (“In determining the child’s best interest[,] a presumption exists that fit parents act in the best interests of their children.”).
2244 The judge must consider your criminal record to ensure that your child is not at risk of being kidnapped. The judge may order supervised visitation or other protective measures if he/she finds them necessary to prevent kidnapping. CAL. FAM. CODE § 3048.
2245 CAL. FAM. CODE §§ 3011(b), 3020(a), 3031, 3044. The judge will also consider any restraining or protective orders against you. Nonetheless, you may still be able to get custody by showing that you have completed all court-ordered treatment and/or behavioral programs (e.g., batterer’s treatment program, parenting classes, anger management, drug or alcohol treatment, or conditions of probation or parole); complied with all parole/probation/supervision requirements; complied with any restraining or protective orders against you; have not committed any further domestic violence; and that custody would be in your child’s best interest. CAL. FAM. CODE § 3044(b).
2246 CAL. FAM. CODE § 3030(b). The law is very strict in this instance and does not permit even supervised or conditional visitation.
2247 This applies to child abuse convictions under CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 273a, 273d, or 647.
2248 CAL. FAM. CODE § 3030; see also CAL. PENAL CODE § 290. For child abuse convictions and registered sex offender registrants, the judge must find that there is "no significant risk to the child." § 3030(a). For first-degree murder of the other parent, the judge must find that there is "no risk to the child’s health, safety and welfare." § 3030(c).
HOW MIGHT MY CRIMINAL RECORD AFFECT MY RIGHTS AS A PARENT IN FAMILY COURT?

It depends. The law assumes that it’s best for a child to have a relationship with both parents, unless there’s a specific reason to believe that contact with one or both parents will harm the child. Therefore, if you have been incarcerated but are genuinely ready to play a positive role in your child’s life, the law says your child should be able to reconnect with you in a safe and healthy manner. A judge is more likely to give you custody or visitation rights if you show that: (1) You’ve had a smooth transition back to the community, and (2) you’ve made reasonable efforts to stay in touch with your child.

In addition to your criminal record, the judge will also consider how much contact you currently have (and/or previously had) with your child. The judge may consider how much time you were away from your child while in prison or jail, especially if you were unable to stay in touch with him/her during this period. It is very important to show the judge that you have a relationship with your child, and/or that you tried to stay in touch with him/her. You can do this by keeping notes on all of your phone calls, letters, and visits with your child—both while you’re incarcerated and after getting out—and also by keeping track of any time you tried to call, write, or visit with your child, even if you were not actually able to get in touch.

If you haven’t had much contact with your child, the judge will probably give you less visitation time at first (and/or may require you to have supervised visits), so that you can start to develop a relationship with your child. If you don’t get as much visitation time as you would like at the beginning, don’t give up! Be patient and do your best to spend quality time with your child during each visit. After you have had successful visits over time, you can go back to court and ask the judge to give you more visitation time.

CAN I GO TO FAMILY COURT IF I AM THE CHILD’S GRANDPARENT?

If you are the child’s grandparent and there is already an existing case in family court, you can ask the family court judge for reasonable visitation with your grandchild. To get visitation, you will have to show the judge that you and your grandchild already have a strong relationship (“a bond”), so that visitation will be in your grandchild’s best interest. The judge will balance this against the parental rights of the child’s parents, and then decide whether to give you visitation. However, if your grandchild’s parents object to giving you visitation, or if the parents are still married and living together with your grandchild, the judge will probably deny your request for visitation. See Appendix H, PG. 894, for sample court forms to use.

Both cases, the judge must state his/her reasons in writing or on the record. However, the judge may still permit supervised visitation in these cases.

2241 The judge will grant reasonable visitation rights to a parent unless it is shown that the visitation would be detrimental to the best interest of the child. CAL. FAM. CODE § 3100(a).
2242 The judge will consider how long you were away, your child’s age during this time, and how strong your relationship with your child is. Telephone call with Eleanor Miller, reentry attorney, Pepperdine Legal Aid Clinic, Jan. 6, 2015.
2243 The judge will not consider your absence or relocation if it was only for a short period of time, and if the judge finds that you demonstrated an interest in maintaining custody or visitation of your child, made reasonable efforts to stay in contact with your child, and your behavior did not indicate that you intended to abandon your child. CAL. FAM. CODE § 3046.
2244 Telephone call with Eleanor Miller, reentry attorney, Pepperdine Legal Aid Clinic, Jan. 6, 2015.
2245 CAL. FAM. CODE § 3103.04.
I HAVE A HISTORY OF SUBSTANCE ABUSE. HOW COULD THIS AFFECT ME IN FAMILY COURT?

If you have struggled with drugs or alcohol (whether or not you have any related convictions), the judge will also consider this when deciding whether custody or visitation is in your child’s best interest. The judge may require you to do drug or alcohol tests, or—if you are granted custody or visitation—may even order you not to use any drugs or alcohol. However, the judge cannot deny you custody based ONLY on the results of a positive drug test—a dirty test is only one factor when deciding whether custody would be in your child’s best interest. 2255

WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR REQUESTING CUSTODY OR VISITATION IN FAMILY COURT?

It depends on whether there is an existing family court case or a court order from family court involving your child, or whether you need to start a new family court case. For ALL family court related issues, the Family Law Facilitator who works at your county family court can help you fill out and file your papers. See Appendix A, PG. 887, to find your local Family Law Facilitator. See Appendix H, PG. 894, for sample court forms to use when asking for custody or visitation in family court. (Note: You will generally use the same court forms to request custody or visitation in family court, regardless of whether you are starting a new case or changing an existing court order.)

If you are starting a new case in family court (meaning there is NOT an existing family court case or court order): The type of case you start will depend on whether you are married to (or registered domestic partners with) the child’s other parent.

(1) If you are married to or registered domestic partners with the child’s other parent, you can ask for custody or visitation through one of the following cases:
   • Divorce, legal separation, or annulment;
   • Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children;
   • Local Child Support Agency (LCSA) child support case; OR
   • Domestic violence restraining order.

(2) If you are NOT married to or registered domestic partners with the child’s other parent, you can ask for custody or visitation through one of the following cases:
   • Paternity (parentage)—if paternity is in dispute (see PG. 869 for more information about paternity);
   • Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children—if paternity is NOT in dispute;
   • LCSA child support case; OR
   • Domestic violence restraining order.

Choose the type of case that is best for you, depending on your situation. Once you have an open case, you can file papers in family court to ask for custody and/or visitation (see Appendix H, PG. 894, for sample court forms). Again, ask the court’s Family Law Facilitator to help you fill out and file your court forms!

2255 CAL. FAM. CODE § 3041.5. The results of the drug/alcohol test will only be used when considering whether custody or visitation is in your child’s best interest, and cannot be used for any other purpose, such as criminal prosecution, parole violation, or civil penalties. Moreover, you may request a hearing to challenge the results of a positive test.
WHAT CAN I DO IF THERE IS ALREADY A COURT ORDER FROM FAMILY COURT, OR IF I WANT TO CHANGE A JUVENILE DEPENDENCY COURT ORDER AFTER MY CHILD’S DEPENDENCY CASE HAS BEEN CLOSED?

You can file court papers in family court, asking the judge to modify (change) the current court order and give you greater custody or visitation rights. If there is already a court order from family court, you will file papers as part of the same family court case. If you are trying to change a juvenile dependency court order after your child’s dependency case has been closed, you will file new papers in family court. See Appendix H, PG. 894, for sample court forms.

IF YOU ARE ONLY REQUESTING A CHANGE IN VISITATION: Under law, you must show that the visits will be in your child’s best interest.

IF YOU ARE REQUESTING A CHANGE IN CUSTODY: Under law, you must show two things:

(1) A significant change in circumstances since the judge issued the current order. Some examples are:

• You completed your sentence (in prison, jail, or on supervision), so that you are now available to spend time with or care for your child;
• You obtained permanent housing and/or a steady job, so that you can now offer your child a safe and stable environment; AND/OR
• You completed a treatment or behavioral training program and have stayed clean for 6 months or more.

AND

(2) Because of these changes in circumstances, giving you greater custody would be in your child’s best interest.

Assistance, Forms, & Fees in Family Court

• Family court forms for requesting custody and visitation are available on the California Courts' website at http://www.courts.ca.gov/1192.htm.
• If you have general questions or need assistance filling out your court forms, ask the court Family Law Facilitator to help you. If you have questions about your specific case or circumstances, you should talk to a lawyer.
• Filing the court papers to request custody or visitation can be very expensive ($400-$500). If you cannot afford to pay this, you can request a fee waiver from the court clerk when you file your papers.

2256 In re Marriage of Lucio, 161 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1079 (2008) (holding that parent requesting modification of visitation order does not need to demonstrate changed circumstances, regardless of his/her custodial rights).
2257 See CAL. FAM. CODE § 3040. There is no strict definition of what counts as a “change in circumstances.” However, the change must be so significant that changing the current court order is essential for your child’s well-being, and must also have occurred after the current court order was issued. Think broadly about what has changed in your life, in your child’s life, and/or in the other parent’s (or caregiver’s) life since your last custody and visitation order. You should also think about what type of new parenting plan would be best for your child. In re Marriage of Burgess, 913 P.2d 473, 482 (1996).
IMPORTANT THINGS TO REMEMBER ABOUT CUSTODY & VISITATION:

- If you get visitation rights, make sure to attend every visit and take every opportunity to reconnect with your child. Keep track of all your visits, calls, and letters to your child, so that you have a record of your efforts. Later, after you’ve spent time reconnecting with your child and rebuilding your life (for example, finding stable work and housing, staying sober, etc.) you can go back to court and ask the judge to increase your visitation and/or custody rights.

- Follow all court orders. Whenever a court issues a custody or visitation order (or any other type of court order), it has the force of law. If you take your child without the other parent’s (or caregiver’s) permission, or fail to return your child when required, or violate the court order in any other way, you may face criminal charges and/or revocation of your probation, parole, or supervision.

- If the other parent (or caregiver) is not following the court order, you can always go back to court and ask the judge to enforce the order. If the other parent (or caregiver) doesn’t follow the court order, you can ask the judge to enforce the order, change the order, or hold the other parent in contempt. Do NOT take matters into your own hands, and do NOT take your child without permission.

IX. CHILD SUPPORT

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- What child support is and who has to pay child support
- The difference between current child support payments and past, overdue child support debts
- How much child support costs (how your child support payments are calculated)
- What happens to your child support payments while you’re incarcerated
- How to change (reduce) your current child support payments while you’re incarcerated and/or after you are released
- How owing child support will affect your reentry
- What to do if you owe past, overdue child support payments
- How to pay off your child support obligations
- What to do if your driver license or passport has been suspended or there is a levy on your bank account due to unpaid child support

WHAT IS CHILD SUPPORT?

Child support is a monthly payment that a judge can order a parent to make to cover the child’s care and living expenses. California law says that every parent has a duty to financially support his/her child. Usually, the parent who does not have custody of the child (or who has custody some of the time and earns more money) pays child support to the parent (or caregiver) who has custody of the child most or all of the time. 2258

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CURRENT CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS AND PAST, OVERDUE CHILD SUPPORT (“ARREARS”)?

Current child support payments: Monthly child support payments are intended to cover the costs of your child’s care and living expenses for the month ahead. In general, you must keep making monthly child support payments until the child support order ends (see PG. 874 and PG. 878 to learn about stopping and/or changing your child support payments).

Past, overdue child support payments (called “arrears”): If you don’t make your child support payments on time, these overdue payments become child support debt that you owe (called “arrears”). In addition, 10% interest is added to your overdue child support payments. In other words, if you don’t make your child support payments on time, you will have to pay 10% interest in addition to the... amount of unpaid support you owe. For more information about arrears, see the definition on PG. 828.

WHO HAS TO PAY CHILD SUPPORT?

A court can only order you to pay child support if you are legally considered to be the child’s mother or father. In general, your child support payments go to the child’s other parent (or caregiver) who has custody of the child, or to the state if your child receives public benefits or CPS is involved in the case. See PG. 876 to learn more about whom you may owe child support to.

QUESTIONS ABOUT PATERNITY & CHILD SUPPORT

HOW IS PATERNITY (FATHERHOOD) ESTABLISHED?

It’s important to keep in mind that paternity is a legal concept—not a biological one! This means that you can be the child’s biological father but not the legal father, OR you can be the child’s legal father even if you are not the biological father. There are specific legal rules for deciding whom the child’s legal father is—in other words, rules for establishing paternity. (These rules are also called legal “presumptions”—described below.)

When a child is born, the woman who gives birth to the child (the child’s biological or “natural mother”) is automatically the child’s legal mother. But the child does not have a legal father until paternity is established according to these legal rules. Even if the man is the child’s biological father (and can prove it), if he was never married to the mother, he is not considered the child’s legal father and does not have any legal rights or responsibilities for the child UNLESS paternity is legally established according to these rules.

LEGAL RULES (“PRESUMPTIONS”) FOR ESTABLISHING PATERNITY

When a child is born, there is a legal “presumption” about whom the child’s father is. This means that a man is believed to be the father of the child UNLESS there is specific evidence showing otherwise.

A man is presumed to be the father of a child if:

1. The man and the child’s natural mother are married to each other or registered domestic partners when the child is born;
2. The man and the child’s natural mother used to be married or registered domestic partners, and the child is born within 300 days (about 9 months) after the marriage or partnership ends (either by divorce, separation, or death);
3. The man takes the child in and acts like the child is his own, by caring for the child and telling other people that it is his child; OR
4. The man signs a Declaration of Paternity stating that he is the father. The child’s natural mother must also sign the Declaration.

IMPORTANT: The man presumed to be the father is not always the child’s biological father. In some cases, a paternity (DNA) test can be used to prove that the man presumed to be the child’s father is not actually the father.

NOTE: The rules for establishing paternity can be very complicated, so you may want to talk to a lawyer if you are unsure or have questions about your situation! See the list of legal aid providers on PG. 1190.

2261 For more information about paternity disputes, visit http://www.courts.ca.gov/1202.htm.
I DO NOT BELIEVE I AM THE CHILD’S FATHER, BUT THE CHILD’S MOTHER THINKS I AM. WHAT CAN I DO AND HOW DO I ASK FOR A PATERNITY TEST?

If paternity has not been established and you do not believe you are the child’s father, you can ask the judge for a paternity test. However, you must do this at the very beginning of your child support case—within 30 days of receiving child support papers from the other parent or LCSA. For more information on paternity, talk to the court Family Law Facilitator or visit the California Courts’ website on Parentage/Paternity at http://www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-parentage.htm.

WHEN DO I HAVE TO PAY CHILD SUPPORT?

You have to pay child support when a family court judge makes a child support order, which says how much each parent is required to pay. A family court judge can make a child support order in any of the following cases. (Note: Either parent can ask the judge for a child support order in any of these cases):

- Divorce, legal separation, or annulment—for parents who are married to each other and want to end their relationship;
- Paternity (parentage)—for parents who are NOT married to each other;
- Petition for Custody and Support of Minor Children—for parents who have signed a voluntary Declaration of Paternity, OR who are married and want to stay married;
- Domestic violence restraining order—for married OR unmarried parents; OR
- In some situations, the Local Child Support Agency (LCSA) may also start a child support case in court against one or both parents (see next question for more information about LCSA child support cases).

In general, you must continue to make child support payments until your child turns 18, or until the judge or LCSA agrees to change the order. Child support also ends if your parental rights are terminated.

HOW WILL I KNOW IF THE LOCAL CHILD SUPPORT AGENCY (LCSA) IS INVOLVED IN MY CASE?

LCSA is involved in your case if:

- You or the other parent receives public benefits (such as CalWORKS or CalFresh) for your children;
- You or the other parent asked the LCSA for help in getting or enforcing a child support order; OR
- You have received paperwork or letters from the LCSA saying that they are involved.

2265 CAL. FAM. CODE § 3901(a). However, if your child is still in high school and lives with a parent, then child support continues until s/he graduates OR turns 19—whichever happens first. Alternatively, child support can end earlier if/when your child (1) gets married, (2) joins the military, (3) is emancipated, or (4) dies. Or child support may continue for longer if (1) the parents agree to a longer arrangement, or (2) the judge orders both parents to keep supporting a disabled adult child.

HOW MUCH IS CHILD SUPPORT?

California has a guideline (a set of rules) for calculating how much child support should be paid. If the parents can’t agree on the amount of child support, the judge will use the guideline to decide the amount.\footnote{CAL. FAM. CODE § 4052 et seq. The judge can order an amount different from the guideline in only a few situations.}

The guideline for calculating the amount of child support depends on several factors, including:

- How much income each parent earns (including work-related benefits, such as disability, unemployment, workers compensation, and Social Security);
- Certain expenses (such as property taxes, union dues, job-related expenses, etc.);
- How much time each parent spends with your child(ren);
- If either parent supports other children from other relationships (and how much);
- How much taxes each parent pays; AND
- Each parent’s health insurance payments.\footnote{CAL. FAM. CODE § 4055. See also CAL. DEP’T OF CHILD SUPPORT SVCS., California Guideline Child Support Calculator: User Guide, 5, 27-31 (rev’d June 2014), available at http://www.childsup.ca.gov/portals/0/resources/docs/gdlncalculator.pdf. If the judge thinks you have the ability and opportunity to work (or earn income some other way), but choose not to work, the judge may consider your earning capacity (i.e., how much money you could be making, also called your “imputed income”) instead of your actual income when deciding your child support payments. CAL. FAM. CODE § 4058(b).}

The child support order may also require the parents to share special costs, such as:

- Child care, so that the custodial parent can work or get work-related training/schooling;
- Your child’s reasonable health care expenses;
- Your child’s travel expenses when travelling between parents for visits; AND
- Your child’s education or other special needs.\footnote{CAL. FAM. CODE § 4061 et seq.}

Note: Public benefits such as CalWORKS, General Assistance/General Relief (GA/GR), and SSI are NOT counted as income when deciding your child support payments. In addition, if you are receiving child support payments for another child from another relationship, these payments will NOT count as income.\footnote{CAL. FAM. CODE § 4058(c).}

To estimate how much child support the judge may order in your case, you can use the California Guideline Child Support Calculator, available online at http://www.childsup.ca.gov/Resources/CalculateChildSupport.aspx.
HELPFUL HINT

Your Income & Child Support Payments

Before the judge orders you to pay any child support (or makes any other orders that affect your rights as a parent), you have the right to receive notice. This notice is usually mailed to you. If you don’t respond to the notice within 30 days, then the judge is allowed to use your “presumed income” when deciding how much your child support payments should be. (In other words, the judge will assume that you earn a certain amount of income, regardless of how much money you actually earn.) In most cases, the judge will assume that you’re working full time (40 hours/week) and making minimum wage, and will order you to pay child support based on this “presumed” amount of income.

If your actual income is different than the amount of “presumed income” used by the judge (for example, if you work less than 40 hours/week or earn less than minimum wage), you can ask the judge to change the child support order so that your payment are based on your actual income. You only have 1 year to do this, starting from the day that your first child support payment was due. You will need to fill out a Motion to Cancel (Set Aside) Support Order Based on Presumed Income (Form FL-640) and file it with the family court clerk. The form is available online at http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/fl640.pdf. Ask the Family Law Facilitator to help you get and fill out your form.

WILL I HAVE TO PAY INTEREST ON MY CHILD SUPPORT?

Yes, if you owe past, overdue child support payments (called “arrears”). If you are late or overdue on your child support payments, you will have to pay interest—usually 10%—in addition to the amount of unpaid child support you owe. Interest will continue to grow on your overdue child support debt until the entire overdue amount is paid off—meaning the amount of interest will increase even if you are also paying child support little-by-little in installments.

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED. HOW CAN I FIND OUT WHETHER I OWE CHILD SUPPORT AND HOW MUCH I OWE?

If you were ordered to pay child support, you should have received papers from the LCSA or the other parent. If you can’t remember whether you received papers (or you don’t have them anymore), you should contact the LCSA to find out how much you owe. To find the LCSA in your county, call 1-866-901-3212 or visit http://www.childsup.ca.gov/home/lcsaoffices.aspx. You can also contact the family court clerk to get a copy of your child support order and other court papers.

If you disagree with the amount of overdue child support you (or the other parent) owe, you can ask the LCSA for a review of your account, and/or you can ask the judge to determine exactly how much child support and interest you owe. § 17524(c).
I AM CURRENTLY INCARCERATED. DO MY CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS AUTOMATICALLY STOP WHEN I AM IN PRISON OR JAIL?

It depends on the date when your most recent child support order was issued by the judge AND how long you were incarcerated for. For most people, though, the answer is NO—child support generally does NOT stop automatically while you’re incarcerated.

| YES, your payments SHOULD stop automatically if your child support order was issued between July 1, 2011 and July 1, 2015, and you are incarcerated for 90 days or more. |
| 1. If your current child support order was issued between July 1, 2011 and July 1, 2015, and you are incarcerated for 90 days or more, your child support payments will be automatically paused (suspended) while you are incarcerated. |
| 2. This means that you will not owe any child support during the time you are incarcerated, and you will not have to do anything to make this happen. But your child support payments will automatically continue again after you are released. |
| 3. This special law applies to child support orders issued (i.e., made and/or changed) on or after July 1, 2011 and before July 1, 2015, for parents who are incarcerated for 90 days or more. However, it may not apply if you are incarcerated for domestic violence, harassment, or for violating a previous child support order, OR if you have outside income and can afford to make payments while you’re incarcerated. |

In sum— if your most recent child support order was issued by the judge (i.e., made or changed) between July 1, 2011 and July 1, 2015, AND you are/were incarcerated for 90 days or more, your payments should automatically stop while you are incarcerated.

If your child support order was NOT made between July 1, 2011 and July 1, 2015, your payments will NOT automatically stop while you’re incarcerated (but you can ask the judge to reduce your payments to $0 while you're incarcerated—see PG. 874 to learn how).

I AM CURRENTLY INCARCERATED. HOW CAN I CHANGE/ADJUST MY CHILD SUPPORT ORDER WHILE I'M IN PRISON OR JAIL?

To ask for a change in your child support payments while incarcerated, fill out the “Incarcerated Parent’s Request to Review Child Support” form and send it to your local child support agency (LCSA).2286 You can ask the prison or jail for a copy of this form, or see Appendix K, PG. 899, for a sample form. If the form is not available, you should contact the LCSA immediately by phone or letter, and explain that you are incarcerated and need to change your child support payments.2285 See Appendix I, PG. 895, to find a listing of LCSAs in California.

IMPORTANT: In general, the judge can only change the amount of child support you owe for future payments (starting from the day you file papers asking for the change). The judge cannot reduce the amount of past child support that you owe. Therefore, you should contact the LCSA and/or file your court papers as soon as you are incarcerated, if possible, to request a change in your payments.

If you are served with new child support papers while in prison or jail, you should contact the LCSA listed on the paperwork right away. It is best to contact the LCSA in writing, by filling out and sending back the blank Response form that you receive with the court papers.2286 You only have 30 days (starting from the day you receive the papers) to respond to the LCSA and/or the court.2287 You must notify the LCSA again once you are released.2288

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED AND JUST DISCOVERED THAT I OWE A LOT OF MONEY FOR PAST, OVERDUE CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS (“ARREARS”). HOW CAN I CHANGE THESE ARREARS?

It depends on the date when your most recent child support order was issued by the judge AND how long you were incarcerated for.

POSSIBILITY #1: If your current child support order was issued between July 1, 2011 and July 1, 2015, AND you were incarcerated for 90 days or more:

Your payments should have automatically stopped while you are incarcerated (see PG. 873 for more information about automatically stopping your child support payments while incarcerated). After you are released, if you discover

---

2288 When you receive your court papers, they should include a blank Response form for you to complete and send back. This form may be called Form FL-685 (if the LCSA has started a child support case for your child), or Form FL-270 or Form FL-320 (if the other parent or caregiver is asking you to pay child support). You will also need to complete forms with your income and financial information. If the LCSA has asked the judge to establish paternity (i.e., find that you are the child’s parent), you will need to return Form FL-610.
2289 CAL. DEPT. OF CHILD SUPPORT SVCS., Pub. 248: Child Support Information for the Parent in Jail or Prison (Nov. 2012). If you don’t think that you’re the child’s parent, you can have a parentage (paternity) test done while you’re in prison or jail. that your child support payments were not automatically stopped—i.e., if you find that you owe child support from while you were incarcerated—you can ask the judge to “adjust” your child support arrears (i.e., reduce your debt to $0) for the time you were incarcerated.

To do this, fill out the Request for Judicial Determination of Support Arrearages or Adjustment of Arrearages Due to Incarceration or Involuntary Institutionalization (Form FL-676, available online at http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/fl676.pdf or in the Appendix J, PG. 896), and file it with the family court where your child support order is from. You will need to prove: (1) the dates when you were incarcerated, and (2) that you could not afford to pay child support while you were incarcerated (i.e., that you had no income or other money during that time.) However, if you were incarcerated for a domestic violence or harassment offense, or for violating a previous child support order, OR if you had outside income or assets and could afford to make child support payments while you were incarcerated, the judge may refuse to reduce your debt. \[2289\] BUT remember—this ONLY applies if your child support order was between July 1, 2011 and July 1, 2015, AND you are incarcerated for 90 days or more.

POSSIBILITY #2: If your current child support order was NOT issued between July 1, 2011 and July 1, 2015, or you were incarcerated for less than 90 days:

Your payments do NOT stop during your incarceration, so you will continue to owe child support payments for this time (unless you asked the LCSA or judge to change your payments while incarcerated—see PG. 874 for more information about how to do this). Unfortunately, the judge cannot go back and change your overdue payments in this case, but you can ask the LCSA or other parent to forgive some of your overdue payments (see next question), and you can ask the judge to change your current child support payments going forward (see PG. 878 for how to do this).

CAN I GET RID OF MY PAST, OVERDUE CHILD SUPPORT DEBT?

It depends, but probably not entirely.

IMPORTANT: The process for changing or lowering your PAST, OVERDUE child support debt (“arrears”) is different than the process for changing your CURRENT child support payment amount. This question will explain how to change your past, overdue child support debt. To learn about changing your current child support payments, see PG. 878.

This question will explain how to change your past, overdue child support debt.

STEP 1: First, figure out whether you owe overdue child support payments to the other parent (or caregiver) or to the state.

To find out, you can contact the LCSA and ask for a breakdown (detailed list) of your arrears. This will show how much you owe to the other parent and/or to the state. The chart below can also help you figure out whom you owe child support to—but it’s always best to get a breakdown from the LCSA to be sure!

STEP 2: Once you know whom you owe money to, use the following chart to figure out your next steps:

<td>Apply for the Compromise of Arrears Program (COAP) (see PG. 876 for more information). If you qualify, the COAP program will reduce (but not completely eliminate) the amount of child support debt that you owe to the State, so you will not have to pay as much. To qualify for a reduction of your child support debt, you must meet the requirements below (PG. 877).</td>
<td>Try to work out an agreement (called a “settlement”) with the other parent (or caregiver). You may be able to work out an agreement to forgive some or all of the overdue child support, in exchange for your paying off the remaining amount right away. For example, you could offer to make—and the other parent (or caregiver) could agree to accept—a single lump sum payment all at once, rather than making many smaller payments over time and having the debt drag out.</td>

Important Information to Know:

| If you miss any of your current child support or COAP payments, your COAP agreement will be cancelled AND you will owe all the debt that was previously reduced. You may not receive a refund for any of the COAP payments that you’ve already made, and you will be unable to reapply to the COAP program for 2 years. | If you reach an agreement with the other parent, you should make sure to put it in writing for the LCSA and the judge. |

WHAT IS THE COMPROMISE OF ARREARS PROGRAM (COAP)?

The Compromise of Arrears Program (COAP) is a program to helps parents who owe past, overdue child support payments (arrears and interest) to the state.

The COAP program allows eligible, noncustodial parents (meaning parents who do not live with their child) to reduce the past, overdue child support payments that they owe to the state. (Note: If your child lives with you now, see PG. 877 to learn about Family Reunification COAP.) The COAP program allows you to pay an amount that is less than the full amount you owe, in exchange for making your payments at a specific time (either in a single lump-sum payment or through an installment plan. The amount that your payments will be reduced depends on your income and ability to pay. You can apply for COAP even if you have a criminal record.

HOW DO I QUALIFY FOR COAP?

To qualify for the COAP program, you must meet the following requirements:

- Provide all requested information and documents. You will need to provide information such as proof of your income, expenses (rent, utilities), taxes, and any assets (such as property, bank account, vehicles).

- Make all current and future child support payments required by your current child support order. Some counties may require you to have made consistent, on-time child support payments over the past 6 months to be eligible for COAP.

- Continue to make all child support payments while you are applying for COAP. If you stop making payments, you will be disqualified from participating in COAP and must wait 1 year before reapplying.

- Make all COAP payments required by your COAP agreement, once you are approved for the program.

- Some counties may also require that you owe a certain amount of child support debt (for example, a minimum of $5,000) to qualify for COAP.

- Each county may have different or additional requirements (and some counties may not have a COAP program at all).

See the chart above (PG. 878) for more information about the COAP program and payment requirements. If you have questions or want more information about the COAP program, contact the COAP coordinator or LCSA in your county, or visit the State’s website at: http://www.childsup.ca.gov/payments/compromiseofarrearsprogram.aspx

WHAT IF MY CHILD IS LIVING WITH ME NOW, BUT I OWE PAST CHILD SUPPORT FROM WHEN MY CHILD WAS PREVIOUSLY LIVING WITH ANOTHER CAREGIVER?

If your child is living with you now, but you owe past, overdue child support to the State from a time when your child was previously living with another caregiver, you may be eligible for the “Family Reunification COAP” program. The requirements are:

1) Your child is living with you now AND one of the following is true:

   a. Your child was previously part of a juvenile dependency court case, and the judge has now reunited you with your child (i.e., there is an official court order that returns your child to your care), OR

I AM FORMERLY INCARCERATED, AND I WANT TO CHANGE THE AMOUNT OF CHILD SUPPORT I HAVE TO PAY EVERY MONTH (MY CURRENT AND FUTURE CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS). HOW CAN I CHANGE MY CHILD SUPPORT ORDER?

To change in your current and future child support payments, you must ask the judge or LCSA (if involved in your case) to change your child support order.

IMPORTANT: The process for changing or lowering your CURRENT and FUTURE child support payments is different than the process for changing your PAST, OVERTUE child support debt. This question will explain how to change your current child support payments. To learn about changing your past, overdue child support debt, see PG. 875.

HOW WILL OWING CHILD SUPPORT AFFECT MY REENTRY?

First the bad news: In general, you CANNOT go back and change the amount of past, overdue child support payments and interest that you owe. (The only exception is for child support orders issued between July 1, 2011, and July 1, 2015—see PG. 874, or if you agree to settle your past debts owed the other parent or the state—see PG. 875.2303)

But you CAN ask the judge to change the amount of child support that you have to pay in the future, starting from the date when you file your court papers. You CAN also ask the judge to set up a monthly payment plan so you can repay what you owe in installments.2304 (See PG. 878 for more information on changing your current and future child support payments.)

If you do not make child support payments, you can face serious consequences:

• If you are employed, your employer will automatically deduct (take away) a portion of your wages to pay your current and/or overdue child support obligations (called a wage assignment or wage garnishment); 2305
• Your child support payments can be automatically deducted (taken away) from other income and benefits you earn, including state or federal income tax refunds, workers’ compensation benefits, unemployment and state disability benefits, retirement benefits, and lottery winnings; 2306
• Liens can be placed on your property and bank accounts to pay overdue child support (see PG. 830 for more information about liens); 2307
• Your driver’s license, occupational license, and commercial or recreational licenses may be suspended, revoked, or denied; 2308
• Your passport may be revoked or denied; 2309
• Unpaid child support will be reported to credit bureaus, which can hurt your credit rating and make it harder to get a loan, rent an apartment, or find a job; 2310 AND/OR
• The amount of interest that you owe will continue to increase. 2311
• If you are unemployed and do not pay your child support obligations, the judge may order you to get a job (or at least to try). For example, the judge may order you to apply for a certain number of jobs every week until you get hired, and may require you to bring in proof of every job application you do. 2312
• Finally, if the judge finds that you are able to make child support payments and are willfully failing to pay, the judge can find you “in contempt of court” and have you arrested or put in jail.2313 However, the judge usually only does this as a last resort, if all other enforcement efforts have failed.
HELPFUL HINTS

What can I do if...?

• If your driver’s license has been suspended due to unpaid child support... First, contact the LCSA to see if they can help make arrangements to have your license released. If you cannot pay the amount required by the LCSA, you can ask the judge to reinstate (give back) your license by filing a Notice of Motion for Judicial Review of License Denial (Form FL-670) with the family court that issued your child support order (see Appendix M, PG. 903, for sample form). 2314

• If there is a levy on your bank account... Contact the LCSA or call 1-866-901-3212 for any questions.

• If your passport has a hold on it... Federal law requires that anyone who owes more than $2,500 in overdue child support cannot get a passport. 2315 In California, you must pay off ALL of your overdue child support or have your child support case closed in order to get your passport released. Contact your LCSA for questions or assistance. 2316

HOW CAN I PAY OFF MY CHILD SUPPORT OBLIGATIONS?

If you are employed, a portion of your wages will be automatically taken out to pay your current and/or overdue child support (called a wage assignment or wage garnishment). 2317 This will happen even if you only owe current child support payments, without any overdue payments or interest. If your child support payments are being taken directly from your wages, you should not need to make other payments. 2318

If you are not employed, or if your child support is not being taken from your wages, you must make child support payments directly.

• If the LCSA is involved in your case, you must make payments to the California State Disbursement Unit (SDU). You can make payments by mail, telephone, online, or in person (see the Helpful Hint box below for where to make or send your payments). If you have any questions, contact the LCSA for your case, or visit the SDU website for Frequently Asked Questions at http://www.childsup.ca.gov/noncustodialparent/faqs.aspx.

• If the LCSA is not involved in your case, you must make payments directly to the other parent (or caregiver) (unless you hear otherwise). 2319

2314 The form is available online at http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/fl670.pdf. The judge will make the final decision about whether to give back your license. JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CAL., Child Support FAQs, http://www.courts.ca.gov/1200.htm.

2315 22 C.F.R. § 51.48(p).

2316 CAL. FAM. CODE § 3048(f).

2317 CAL. FAM. CODE §§ 17420 (earnings assignment order for current child support payments), 17522 (earnings withholding for delinquent child support); CAL. REV. & T. CODE § 19271(b)(1)(A) (delinquent child support); CAL. CODE CV. PROCS. § 706.030 (delinquent child support).

2318 The judge is required to make an earning assignment order (also called income withholding or wage garnishment) any time there is an order to pay child support. CAL. FAM. CODE § 5230. If you want to make payments directly to the other parent (or caregiver) and NOT through wage assignment, you may be able to work out a different payment arrangement with him/her. If the LCSA is NOT involved in your case, you and the other parent (or caregiver) can agree to make child support payments in some other way, and can ask the judge to “stay” (put on hold) the wage assignment. In this situation, both parents (or caregiver) work out how child support will be paid and handle it between them. If the LCSA is involved in your case, the LCSA will have to agree to have the wage assignment put on hold. This may be difficult, however, because LCSAs usually prefer you to make child support payments through a wage assignment with your employer, and want all child support payments to go through the state payment system (called the State Disbursement Unit), NOT to the other parent directly. Keep Records of Your Payments!

IMPORTANT! Whether you are making your payments to the California SDU or directly to the other parent, it’s a good idea to always keep a record of every payment you make. You can keep a separate notebook where you write down the date and amount of each payment, or make notes on a calendar every time you make a payment (including the date and amount).
HELPFUL HINT

I lost my job or went to jail and cannot afford my child support payments!

IMPORTANT! If you cannot pay or are falling behind on your child support payments because you lost your job, went to jail, or some other important changes have happened, it’s recommended that you immediately contact the LCSA and/or family court and ask to change your child support amount. Don’t wait! You are responsible for paying the full amount of child support until the LCSA or judge changes the child support order. For more information about changing your child support order, see PG. 878.

WHAT IF I AM RECEIVING BENEFITS? CAN A PORTION OF MY PUBLIC BENEFITS BE TAKEN TO PAY FOR CHILD SUPPORT?

If you owe any child support payments (current and/or past, overdue payments), a portion of your benefits payments can be automatically taken out to pay off your child support obligations. Your child support payments can be taken out of any benefits you receive except for General Assistance/General Relief (GA/GR) and SSI. That means your payments can be taken out of your unemployment, disability, workers compensation, veteran’s benefits, or any other benefits you earn.

However, if you are already receiving public assistance, the judge may decide that your income is too low to owe current child support payments. BUT—this only applies to current payments. Even if the judge decides that your income is too low for current payments, you will still owe any past, overdue child support payments that were due in the past. You should ask the judge for a payment plan that lets you to make small payments over time.

(Remember: The only way you can avoid paying past, overdue child support payments is (1) if your child support order was issued between July 1, 2011, and July 1, 2015, and the payments were due while you were incarcerated for 90 days or more (see PG. 874 and PG. 874); OR (2) if you get a settlement agreement with the COAP program or other parent (see PG. 875).

For more information on paying child support, you can talk to the court Family Law Facilitator, contact the LCSA, or visit the California Courts’ website on Paying a Child Support Order at http://www.courts.ca.gov/1197.htm.

I RECEIVED A CHILD SUPPORT WARNING NOTICE (CSWN)? WHAT IS IT?

The Department of Child Support Services (DCSS) will send you this notice if you owe past, overdue child support (arrears). The CSWN gives you information about how much you owe, and how to pay off your arrears.

What can I do if the LCSA isn’t handling my case well?

If you don’t think the LCSA is handling your case well or you are having other problems with the LCSA, contact the LCSA Ombudsperson for your county, whose job is to help you resolve problems with your case. Find contact information for your county Ombudsperson in Appendix N, PG. 904.

If the Ombudsperson doesn’t resolve your problem, you can also file a complaint with the LCSA. The LCSA has a system to address complaints about customer service, timeliness of service, payment and billing issues, and decisions to close a child support case. To get a complaint form or for any other questions, contact your county LCSA or call 1-866-901-3212. To find your local LCSA, see Appendix I, PG. 895, or go to http://www.childsup.ca.gov/home/lcsaoffices.aspx.

INFORMATION SHEET FOR REQUEST FOR JUDICIAL DETERMINATION OF SUPPORT ARREARAGES OR ADJUSTMENT OF ARREARAGES DUE TO INCARCERATION OR INVOLUNTARY INSTITUTIONALIZATION

Please follow these instructions to complete a Request for Judicial Determination of Support Arrearages or Adjustment of Arrearages Due to Incarceration or Involuntary Institutionalization (form FL-676) if you do not have an attorney to represent you. If you have an attorney, he or she should complete form FL-676. If you need free help completing form FL-676, you can contact the Family Law Facilitator's Office in your county. For more information on finding a family law facilitator, see the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp.

Form FL-676 should be used only if you disagree with the support arrearages that the local child support agency says that you owe or you need an adjustment due to incarceration or institutionalization and you cannot reach an agreement with the local child support agency. Form FL-676 cannot be used if you want to change your child support order.

When you have completed this form FL-676, file the original and attachments with the court clerk. The court clerk’s address is listed in the telephone directory under “County Government Offices” or online at www.courts.ca.gov/courts/find.htm. Keep three copies of the filed form and its attachments. Serve one copy on the local child support agency, one copy on the other parent, and keep the other for your records. (See Information Sheet for Service of Process (form FL-611).)

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING THE REQUEST FOR JUDICIAL DETERMINATION OF SUPPORT ARREARAGES OR ADJUSTMENT OF ARREARAGES DUE TO INCARCERATION OR INVOLUNTARY INSTITUTIONALIZATION (FORM FL-676) (TYPE OR PRINT IN BLACK INK):

Front page, first box, top of form, left side: Print your name, address, and telephone number in this box if it is not already there.

Front page, second box, left side: Print your county’s name and the court’s address in the box. Use the same address for the court that is on your most recent support order or judgment. If you do not have a copy of your most recent support order or judgment, you can get one from either the court clerk or the local child support agency.

Front page, third box, left side: Print the names of the Petitioner/Plaintiff, Respondent/Defendant, and Other Parent in this box. Use the same names listed in your most recent support order or judgment. If no name is listed for the Other Parent leave that line blank.

Front page, first box, top of form, right side: Leave this box blank for the court’s use.

Front page, second box, right side: Print your case number in this box. This number is also listed on your most recent support order or judgment.

Front page, fourth box, left side: Check the box to indicate whether you are asking for a judicial determination of support arrearages or adjustment of arrearages due to incarceration or involuntary institutionalization. Check both boxes if you are asking for both a determination of arrears and an adjustment of arrears.

1.a.–b. You must contact the court clerk’s office and ask that a hearing date be set for this motion. The court clerk will give you the information you need to complete this section.

2. This section states that the local child support agency is handling your support case.

3a. This section requires you to attach the statement or other document from the local child support agency that tells the amount of your support arrearages.

3b. This section requires you to attach your own statement of the amount of your support arrearages. Your statement must show a monthly breakdown of the amount of support ordered and the amount you paid each month. You may use Declaration of Payment History (form FL-420) and Payment History Attachment (form FL-421) to complete your statement of arrearages.

4. Complete all that apply. If you check the box in item 4a, attach or bring to the court hearing proof of the dates of incarceration or involuntary institutionalization. If you have any evidence or documentation that you had no income or assets, in addition to your sworn statement on the form, please bring that to court with you.

You must date the request, print your name, and sign the form under penalty of perjury. When you sign the form, you are stating that the information you have provided is true and correct.

Top of second page, box on left side: Print the names of Petitioner/Plaintiff, Respondent/Defendant, and Other Parent in this box. Use the same names listed on the front page.

Top of second page, box on right side: Print your case number in this box. Use the same number as the one on the front page. Instructions for how to complete the Proof of Service section of the Request form are in the Information Sheet for Service of Process (form FL-611). The person who serves the request a.

Privacy Statement
The Information Practices Act of 1977 (Civil Code Section 1798.17) and the Federal Privacy Act of 1974 (Public Law 93 579) requires that this notice be provided when collecting personal information from individuals. Information requested on this form, including your Social Security Number, is used by the Department of Child Support Services (DCSS) for purposes of identification and communication with you. The DCSS is required, under Section 460(a)(13) of the Social Security Act, to collect the Social Security Number of any individual who is subject to a divorce decree, support order, or paternity determination or acknowledgement. Social Security Number information is mandatory and will be kept on file at the local child support agency to locate and identify individuals and assets for the purpose of establishing, modifying, and enforcing child support obligations. Enrolling a child in health insurance may require the release of the child’s Social Security Number and mailing address to the other parent’s employer or the release of the child’s Social Security Number to the other parent. The information in your case may be discussed with or given to the State, other public agencies that can legally receive such information, and to the other parent or his/her attorney to the extent required by law.

I understand that if the order is changed while I am incarcerated the order may be changed again when I am released and that I should contact my local child support agency upon my release. I declare under penalty of perjury that I have no income or assets and have no way of paying child support.

Declaración de Privacidad

La Ley de las Prácticas de la Información (Information Practices Act) de 1977 (Sección 1798.17 del Código Civil) y la Ley Federal de Privacidad (Federal Privacy Act) de 1974 (Ley Pública 93 579) exigen que se dé a conocer este aviso cuando se reúna información personal de los individuos. La información que se pide en este formulario, incluido su Número de Seguro Social, es usada por el Departamento de Servicios de Mantención de Menores (Department of Child Support Services, DCSS) con el fin de identificarlo y poder comunicarse con usted. Según la Sección 466(a)(13) de la Ley del Seguro Social (Social Security Act), el DCSS debe obtener el Número del Seguro Social de todo individuo que se someta a una sentencia de divorcio, una orden de mantenimiento o la determinación de la paternidad. La información sobre el Número del Seguro Social es obligatoria y se guardará en un archivo en la agencia local de mantenimiento de hijos para localizar e identificar a los individuos y sus activos con el fin de establecer, modificar y hacer cumplir las obligaciones del mantenimiento de hijos. Para inscribir a un/a hijo/a en un seguro médico, es posible que sea necesario proporcionar el Número del Seguro Social del/de la niño/a y el domicilio al empleador del otro padre o proporcionar el Número del Seguro Social del/de la niño/a al otro padre. Es posible que la información de su caso se discuta o se proporcione al Estado, u otras agencias públicas con autorización legal para recibir dicha información, o al otro padre o su abogado/a según lo exija la ley.

Tengo claro que, si se cambia la orden mientras me encuentro en prisión, es posible que la orden se cambie de nuevo cuando me pongan en libertad y que debo ponerme en contacto con la agencia local de mantenimiento de hijos en cuando me pongan en libertad. Yo declaro bajo pena de perjurio que no tengo los ingresos ni las ventajas o manera de pagar mantenimiento de hijos.

This EDUCATION CHAPTER explains the different options available for pursuing your education whether you are currently incarcerated, preparing for your release or are formerly incarcerated. It also explains the options of student aid and funding in order to pursue your educational goals.

DISCLAIMER – YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it. The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

EDUCATION APPENDIX ................................................................ 984

WHAT WILL I LEARN IN THE EDUCATION CHAPTER?

- The different educational options
- How to set up your educational goals
- How to assess your current educational level
- The different educational levels/programs and what you need to pursue them
- How your incarceration and criminal record might affect your educational goals
- Options to pay for your education
I. INTRODUCTION

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• A basic overview of your educational options
• What you need to get started in pursuing your education

Getting an education is one of the most important steps you can take in re-entry if it feels right to you. Education can open doors, create opportunities, and lead to better and more stable employment.

This Chapter is a roadmap to help you start (or continue) planning so that you can reach your educational goals. It discusses what programs, schools, and financial aid opportunities are available, and it takes you through the process of deciding what is right for you. The advice here is intended to be practical both for people who are currently incarcerated, as well as for people who were formerly incarcerated and have returned to the community.

DID YOU KNOW?

Studies show that formerly incarcerated people who receive general education or vocational training are much less likely to return to prison and much more likely to find employment after their release. In fact, people who participate in correctional education programs while incarcerated have a 43 percent lower chance of returning to prison, and a 13 percent higher chance of finding employment, than people who do not do educational programs while incarcerated.\footnote{Allie Bidwell, Report: Prison Education Programs Could Save Money, U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT (Aug. 22, 2013) available at http://www.usnews.com/news/articles/2013/08/22/report-prison-education-programs-could-save-money; see also CTR. FOR CMTY, ALT., The Use of Criminal History Records in College Admissions Reconsidered (2010) (“Post-secondary educational programs have been shown to reduce recidivism by approximately 40 percent. A research brief . . . reported on a Texas study in which participation in higher education lowered recidivism to 15 percent, 13 percent and under 1 percent for people who earned an associate’s, bachelors, and master’s degree, respectively. In contrast, the general recidivism rate hovers around 63 percent nationally. A study of recidivism rates among women showed that only 7.7 percent of those who took college courses in prison returned to prison after release, compared to 29.9 percent of those who did not participate in the college program. State-level studies in Texas, California, Alabama, and Maryland have, over the course of many years, shown significant reductions in recidivism associated with higher education in correctional settings.” (internal quotation marks omitted)).}

NOTE: Throughout this guide, we will often suggest that you “call” the resource that you need. We understand that it might not be possible for you to make these phone calls yourself while you are incarcerated, however we offer it as general information for you, your family, and your advocates to use for your benefit.
QUESTIONS TO START WITH

Thinking through the following questions will help you set your educational goals and decide which path is best for you.

WHAT ARE MY EDUCATIONAL OPTIONS?

Your decision about which school or program you enroll in will depend on many factors: your personal and career goals, your finances, your educational background and current skills, and your ability to overcome any barriers that may arise because of your criminal history. Your decision may also depend on day-to-day needs—such as your health, family responsibilities, access to transportation, and parole or probation conditions.

To start, here is an overview of the educational options this Chapter will cover:

• Adult Basic Education (ABE) classes (PG. 938) improve your basic math, reading, writing, and life skills; and these classes can help you get ready for high school-level work.

• High school credentials (diploma or GED) (PG. 940) are a minimum requirement for many jobs, and are a necessary step before you can continue your education through a Career Technical Education program or a college or university degree. You can earn a high school credential by completing a high school diploma program or passing the GED test.

• Career Technical Education (CTE) programs (PG. 950) train you for specific kinds of jobs, and sometimes lead to certificates or professional/occupational licenses that you need for those jobs. Different programs take different lengths of time, but they’re often designed so that you can complete them in 1 year.

• College Degree: Two-year and four-year colleges and universities award college degrees (also called academic degrees) for completing a program of academic study. College degree programs usually do not train you for a specific type of job, but give you a wide variety of general skills that are useful for many different professions. The different types of college (academic) degrees are: associate, and bachelor’s.
  - Two-year college (associate degree) programs (PG. 956) allow you to earn an associate degree, which can be a stepping-stone to entry-level jobs or to a four-year college program. Note: Part-time students will take longer than 2 years.
  - Four-year college and university programs (PG. 954) allow you to earn a bachelor’s degree, which can be a stepping-stone to higher-level jobs or to graduate or professional school. Note: Part-time students will take longer than 4 years.

• Graduate or professional schools allow you to earn advanced degrees after you’ve earned a bachelor’s degree. Earning a professional degree allows you to become licensed to work in professions like law or medicine; the kinds of jobs it can lead to depends on your field of study. Earning a master’s degree generally takes 2 years, and a doctorate degree can take 3 years or more.

---

HERE ARE SUGGESTED STEPS AS YOU PLAN YOUR EDUCATIONAL PATH:

1. SET YOUR EDUCATIONAL GOALS.
   What do you want to achieve in pursuing your education? What subjects interest you? What skills do you want to improve? What job(s) do you want? What training or skills are required for the job(s)?

2. ASSESS YOUR SKILL LEVEL.
   Take a placement test and/or work with an educational counselor to see if you should start with Adult Basic Education (ABE) or if you are ready for High School or Higher Education.

3. KNOW POTENTIAL LIMITATIONS & BARRIERS
   Do your family obligations, finances, or criminal history present barriers that may limit your educational options? If so, just being aware will help you decide what the best option will be for you.

4. CHOOSE AN EDUCATIONAL PATH
   Based on your needs, choose a program or school that’s right for you:
   - Adult Basic Education
     - Literacy, ESL, and/or Pre-GED Preparation
   - High School Education
     - GED Preparation or High School Diploma Program
   - Higher Education
     - CTE Program (Certificate)
     - 2-Year College (Associate's Degree)
     - 4-Year College (Bachelor's Degree)
     - Graduate or Professional School
WHAT EDUCATIONAL OPTIONS DO I HAVE WHILE I’M ON PROBATION OR PAROLE?

It depends. Once you are released, you will have access to free resources available in the community—including the Internet, public libraries, and community service organizations—that can help you do research, apply to schools and programs, and get financial assistance (“financial aid”) to help pay for your education. You may also become eligible (qualify) for more types of financial aid once you are released, which can allow you to consider schools or programs that you otherwise might not be able to afford.

However, the educational options available to you will ultimately depend on the community you live in (urban areas tend to have more opportunities), your life circumstances (such as family responsibilities), and any probation or parole conditions that might affect your access to educational programs and services (such as travel restrictions).

NOTE: Your parole agent or probation officer should be supportive and encourage you to pursue your educational goals as part of your successful reintegration. If you find that s/he is not supportive, or that your parole/probation conditions make it difficult or impossible for you to get an education, there are steps you can take!

A Few Great Resources:

Public Libraries

The local public library is an important gateway to other services and resources in your community. In addition to offering free access to computers and the Internet, libraries often have adult education classes, community calendars (support group meetings, free clinics, etc.), and some government forms that you might need. Librarians are also available to help you find whatever information you need. To find the public library closest to you:

- Check under “library” or “public library” in the city government section of your local phone book;
- Search the Internet for “library” or “public library” along with the name of your city or county; and/or
- You can also search the national database of public libraries provided by the Institute of Museum & Library Services at: http://www.imls.gov/research/public_libraries_in_the_united_states_survey.aspx.

America’s Job Centers of California (formerly called EDD One-Stop)

America’s Job Centers of California (formerly called EDD One-Stop Centers), offer many resources, all in one place, for people seeking a job or more education. Most services are free, but there may be a fee for some specialized education and training programs. Some of the services provided by America’s Job Centers include:

- Skills assessment. Staff can help you identify the skills you have and the skills you need to be ready for education, training, and/or employment.
- Career counseling. Counselors can help you identify jobs and professions that you might be interested in based on your skills, interests, and experience. They also can tell you about the job market in your local area.

---

• Training or referrals to training programs. Staff may provide direct training or refer you to training programs that can help you prepare to continue your education or enter the workforce.

• Referrals to other resources or services. Staff can direct you to organizations that can help you with other needs, such as transportation, child care, welfare assistance, unemployment insurance, and veterans’ services.

You can find an America’s Job Center of California in your area by:

• Calling the CareerOneStop helpline at 1-877-348-0502 or the U.S. Department of Labor’s National Helpline at: 1-877-872-5627; or by

• Searching the CareerOneStop Service Locator website at: http://www.serviceLocator.org, or the America’s Job Center of California website at: http://americasjobcenter.ca.gov/.

• For more information about using America’s Job Centers of California (EDD One-Stop Centers) to prepare for or find a job, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 625, with more details on America’s Job Centers on PG. 635.

Community Organizations

Community organizations provide many kinds of services. Most are free, but some may charge a fee. These organizations can help with employment, education, health care, counseling, housing, substance abuse treatment, transportation, and childcare. They also can provide referrals to other agencies. There are different ways you can find community organizations:

• 2-1-1: A community information service that connects you to local agencies, services, and organizations that can help you with a variety of needs. To contact 2-1-1:

  o Call 2-1-1 from any phone (note: phone service may not be available in all communities yet);

  o Visit the 2-1-1 Information & Referral Search website at http://www.211.org;

  o Some communities also publish a paper copy of the 2-1-1 guide. Check your local public library to see if the paper guide is available in your community.

• Local Public Library: Often there will be a community message board with contact information for local organizations, or you can ask the librarian to recommend local resources (see above).

TIP: Make a list ready of the resources that you want to research before you go to the library. This will save you a lot of time and help you better organize your search. This is especially important if you are under time limitations because of curfews or restrictions imposed by your parole agent or probation officer.

WHAT EDUCATIONAL OPTIONS DO I HAVE WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

You have options, but unfortunately your options and the quality of the programs will depend on where you’re incarcerated. The programs and resources available to you will be different based on whether you’re 2329 For example, in Alameda County, “The Big Blue Book” is a comprehensive guide to Alameda County health and human services agencies and organizations. Although the book is not free, it is sold to hundreds of non-profits, government agencies, faith-based organizations, and community organizations. To purchase, visit Big Blue Book, Eden I&R Inc., http://www.edenie.org/BigBlueBook.html.

---

incarcerated in a federal prison, state prison, or county jail. In addition, the availability of programs and resources will be different across different facilities.

In general, the following programs will be available to you:

- If you’re in a federal prison, you should have free access to assessment testing, ABE classes (including literacy and ESL), GED programs, CTE and job readiness programs, as well as a College Coordinator who can help you enroll in and complete correspondence (mail) courses.

- If you’re in a California state prison, the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation provides free access to assessment testing, ABE classes (including literacy and ESL), GED programs, high school diploma programs, CTE and job readiness programs, occupational licensing, library services, and tutoring support programs.

- If you’re incarcerated in a California county jail, California law gives individuals counties permission (and resources) to establish education programs in all adult county correctional facilities and to award diplomas and certificates for completion of study in these programs. However, the law does not require that the counties do so, or control how those programs are to be structured. Therefore, the availability and quality of educational programs varies from county to county. If you are incarcerated in county jail, you will need to check with your facility to see what educational programs are available to you.

For details about the different programs that might be available while you are incarcerated, read the section on Learning the Educational Landscape, starting on PG. 938. Even if you don’t have access to programs or classes that are right for you while you’re incarcerated, there are programs you can complete on your own through correspondence courses or self-study. There are also practical steps you can take while incarcerated to prepare for your education after release.

→ For information about correspondence and self-study courses, see PG. 969.

→ For information on preparing for your post-release education while you are still incarcerated, see PG. 929.

PRACTICAL TIPS

The process of pursuing your education—not to mention the larger process of transitioning back into your community—can be rewarding, but also challenging.
and stressful at times. You’ll be dealing with a lot of forms, applications, and procedures and this may feel overwhelming. Here are some tips for staying on track throughout this process:

• Gather and organize all the documents you will need for applying to schools and programs, financial aid, and employment (see list of documents below PG. 917). Keep all your important documents together, and use a large envelope or folder to store them. Keeping these papers clean, safe, and organized will save you lots of time and frustration. Getting some of these documents may require lots of paperwork, a long application process, or lots of follow-up efforts, so if you are able to gather these documents as soon as possible, take advantage of this and gather them to save you time. (For details about these documents—what they are and how to get them—see the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 13.)

• Take the time to make informed decisions. Before committing to any school or program, get as much information as possible and consider your options carefully. Do background research at the library or on the Internet, ask questions to people who have been through the program or know of its reputation, beware of scams and bogus credentials, and investigate ways to save time and money.

• Ask for help! Get advice from the people who are there to help you. If you are currently incarcerated, talk to the education staff, counselors, and program directors at your facility. Ask friends and family members to do research and gather information for you. If you're in the community, visit your local public library and look for reentry programs, social service organizations, career centers, and community colleges in your area.

WHAT IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS WILL I NEED TO CONTINUE MY EDUCATION?

In general, these are the documents you’ll need to have ready as you apply for schools, programs, and financial aid. You may not need all of these, and/or may need others that are not on this list. Check the requirements listed on the school, program, or aid application to be absolutely sure. (NOTE: You can start the process of getting some of these documents while you are still incarcerated):

• High school credential and/or transcripts (see PG. 940)
• College credential and/or transcripts (see PG. 954)
• Immunization/Vaccination Records (see PG. 918)
• Letters of Recommendation (see PG. 964);
• List of References (people who can speak positively of you to schools or programs where you apply); 2338
• Social Security Number/Card (see BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, PG. 32)
• Authorized birth certificate (see BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, PG. 22)
• California State ID or Driver License (see BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, on PG. 39)
• Criminal record or RAP sheet (see UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1020)

2337 See Anna Crayton & Nicole Lindahl, BACK TO SCHOOL: A GUIDE TO CONTINUING YOUR EDUCATION AFTER PRISON, PRISONER REENTRY INSTITUTE, JOHN JAY COLLEGE OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE (2010).
• For males only: Selective Service registration \(^\text{2339}\) (see BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, PG. 77)

WHAT ARE “IMMUNIZATION/VACCINATION RECORDS” AND WHY DO I NEED THEM?

Your immunization record (also called your vaccination record) is a list of all the vaccines (medicines) you received as a child and as an adult that prevent common diseases like polio, chicken pox and tuberculosis. It is required to register for school, for certain jobs, and/or to travel abroad.

HOW TO LOCATE YOUR IMMUNIZATION/VACCINATION RECORDS

Unfortunately, there is no national database of immunization/vaccination records. The only records that exist are the documents you or your parents were given when you were vaccinated, and the medical records kept by the doctor or clinic where you were vaccinated. \(^\text{2340}\)

If you need official copies of your immunization/vaccination records, there are several places you can look: \(^\text{2341}\)

• Ask a parent or guardian if they kept the records of your childhood immunizations/vaccinations;
• Check with your elementary school, high school and/or college for records of any immunizations (generally, records are kept only for 1-2 years after students leave the school system);
• Check with your correctional facility’s health care services department to see if it has kept records of your immunizations/vaccinations;
• Check with previous employers (including the military) that may have required immunizations/vaccinations;
• Check with your doctor (immunization/vaccination records are maintained at doctors’ offices for a limited number of years);
• Contact your state’s health department. Some states have registries that include adult immunizations/vaccinations.

\(^{2339}\) CAL. VEH. CODE § 69400 (“No person subject to the federal Military Selective Service Act (50 U.S.C. App. 451 et seq.) shall receive any financial aid pursuant to this part if that person has not registered in accordance with that act.”).

\(^{2340}\) CTRS. FOR DISEASE CONTROL & PREVENTION, Vaccine Information for Adults: Keeping Your Vaccine Records Up to Date, http://www.cdc.gov/vaccines/adults/vaccination-records.html#record-vacc.

NOTE: California does have a registry, but it is relatively new (within the last 10 years only), and it is not used by all doctors’ offices. For more information, visit:

- The California Department of Health at: http://www.cdph.ca.gov/programs/immunize/PG.s/FindingOldImmunizationRecords.aspx; or

WHAT SHOULD I DO IF I CAN'T FIND MY IMMUNIZATION/VACCINATION RECORDS?

If you can’t find your immunization/vaccination records, you may need to get vaccinated again. While this is not ideal, it is safe to repeat vaccines. Your doctor may also be able to do blood tests to see if you are already immune to certain diseases, so you do not have to repeat those vaccinations.

II. SETTING YOUR EDUCATIONAL GOALS

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- How to think about and decide what you want from your education
- How to research jobs and careers to help you choose your educational path
- What resources will help you make important decisions about your education

Setting your educational goals involves asking yourself some important questions about your future. What purpose do you want your education to serve? Is it a way to achieve a specific goal – for example, a way to get a better job? Is it an opportunity for personal growth? Or both?

Going through some of the questions below may make it easier to make a decision and help you get a clear idea of the goals you want to reach. Often there are several answers to a question, so making lists can help you organize your thoughts and priorities.

SOME QUESTIONS FOR YOU TO THINK ABOUT ON YOUR PERSONAL EDUCATIONAL JOURNEY

WHAT ARE YOUR SHORT-TERM AND LONG-TERM EDUCATIONAL GOALS?

- What are your immediate educational needs?
  - Your immediate needs may affect which avenue of education you choose to take.
    - Do you need to improve your basic literacy level? See PG. 938
    - Do you want to get a high school equivalency (GED) certificate by the time you are released? See PG. 945
    - Do you want to go to vocational school to learn a specific trade or skill, or are you interested in pursuing an advanced professional degree? See PG. 950

- Where would you like to see yourself in the future?
  - The length of time you have to pursue your education may also affect which educational program you may want to enroll in.
    - In one year?
    - In five years?
    - In ten years?
WHAT PRACTICAL CONSIDERATIONS DO YOU NEED TO TAKE INTO ACCOUNT?

Outside factors and life circumstances can have a huge impact on your educational goals. As an adult student, you may have work and family obligations to juggle. If you’re incarcerated or on parole/probation, you may have to work around special restrictions in order to pursue your education.

In light of all this, you’ll want to pick an education program that you can balance with your other responsibilities, and that fits your current situation as well as your future goals. For example, you may ask yourself:

• How much time do you have to devote to your education?
• Do you have a family to support and take care of?
• Will you need to work to support yourself while in school?
• Are your options limited because you are still incarcerated or on parole or probation? See PG. 926

WHAT TYPE OF JOB DO YOU WANT?

The type of Job you may want will also influence the type of educational program you want to participate in.

• Do you want to work in an office or out in the field?
• Are you a creative and artistic person, or are you more practical and task-oriented?
• Do you prefer to work alone or as part of a team?

WHEN YOU ARE EXPLORING YOUR JOB OR CAREER OPTIONS, CONSIDER THESE RESOURCES.

• Your correctional facility’s library or your local public library—Look for career planning guides and vocational handbooks.

• California Career Planning Guide—A career guide published by the California Career Resource Network (CalCRN). You can request the guide in writing from: CalCRN—Order Processing, 1430 N. Street, Suite 4503, Sacramento, CA 95814, or by calling (916) 323-6544. If you have Internet access, the guide is available to read or download for free online at: http://www.californiacareers.info/ccPG.aspx.

• America’s Job Centers of California offer “interest inventory” tools that can help you explore what kinds of jobs might be right for you.

• CareerOneStop website (http://www.careerinfonet.org/)—Under the “Explore Careers” feature, you can take a self-assessment to learn more about your interests and jobs that might be a good fit. You also can browse jobs in different fields and find out what jobs are more available right now.

• California Career Resource Network website (http://www.californiacareers.info/index.aspx)—Provides links to several California-focused career-planning resources.

WHAT SKILLS, TRAINING, AND JOB EXPERIENCE DO YOU ALREADY HAVE?

Your job experience or training may influence any decisions regarding your education.

• What jobs have you had in the past?
• Do you have any special or unique skills?
• What activities do you participate in?
• What projects have you completed?
• Have you worked with anyone who could talk about your job experience in a positive way?

WHAT ARE YOUR INTERESTS?

Your interests may influence what type of job and/or education you wish to pursue.

• Are you a sports fan?
• Do you like animals?
• Do you have any hobbies like photography or cooking?
• Do you play a musical instrument? Are you an avid reader?

WHAT NATURAL TALENTS DO YOU HAVE? WHAT ARE YOU GOOD AT?

• Are you comfortable speaking in front of groups of people?
• Are you good at working with your hands?
• Do you find yourself negotiating or debating issues with others?
• Do you prefer to be the team leader?
• Are you particularly neat or organized?

THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT YOUR RECORD

Once you have a list of potential jobs and careers that you are interested in, you will need to start narrowing it down. You should start by considering your lifestyle and identifying any factors or circumstances that might conflict with a job you are interested in. For example, criminal convictions, family responsibilities, and travel or mobility restrictions can affect whether a particular job or career is a good fit for you.

DOES THE JOB OR CAREER YOU ARE INTERESTED IN HAVE RESTRICTIONS AGAINST PEOPLE WITH CRIMINAL RECORDS?

Some jobs or career fields are prohibited or have limited opportunities for people with certain criminal convictions—called legal job restrictions. Additionally, many jobs in California require you to get a professional/occupational license in order to work in this job, and many licensing boards have restrictions about issuing licenses to people with certain convictions (see next question for more information). So even though this information can be difficult and frustrating to learn, it will help you to design the best path for yourself—one that you are passionate about but that is also realistic. Given the laws and barriers in place regarding certain professions and license, this information may be useful to consider when making decisions regarding your educational path. For more information about legal and professional/occupational licensing restrictions, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, PG. 690.
WHAT ARE THE JOBS THAT HAVE LEGAL RESTRICTIONS FOR PEOPLE WITH CRIMINAL RECORDS?

Although this list is incomplete, below are some examples of jobs that have legal restrictions for people with certain criminal convictions. In general, these are jobs where employees have access to private or sensitive information (like financial records), vulnerable people (like children or the elderly), or high-security places (such as airports) where there is a greater risk of harm to the public.

- Airport security screeners (or anyone with unsupervised access to secure airport areas); 2343
- Federal law enforcement officers; 2344
- Defense contractors; 2345
- Prisoner transportation workers; 2346
- Port workers; 2347
- Bank employees; 2348
- Insurance employees; 2349
- Jobs that manage employee benefits plan; 2350
- Childcare workers in federal facilities or agencies; 2351
- Working for a school district in a position that requires certification or in a supervisory capacity (if you have been convicted of a felony defined as serious or violent under law). 2352

WHAT IS A PROFESSIONAL/OCCUPATIONAL LICENSE AND WHAT DOES IT REQUIRE?

In California, people who work in certain jobs are required to get a license from the state to do so. There are over 200 professions in California that require a professional/occupational license—ranging from barbers and cosmetologists, to security guards, to nurses and nursing assistants, to teachers, doctors, and lawyers. These professional/occupational licenses are issued and regulated by over 40 different licensing boards under the control of the California Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA). 2353

Applying for a professional/occupational license generally requires submitting your fingerprints, paying various application fees, and proving that you meet certain educational and/or work experience requirements, which are set by the particular licensing board that you’re applying to. 2354

2343 49 U.S.C § 44935(e)(2)(B).
2344 5 U.S.C. § 7371(b).
2347 46 U.S.C. § 70105(c).
2352 CAL. VEH. CODE § 44830.1(a).
2353 Professional/occupational licensure is governed by CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 475-99.
2354 See, e.g., CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 478.
WHAT KINDS OF JOBS REQUIRE A PROFESSIONAL/OCCUPATIONAL LICENSE?

There are over 200 jobs in California that require a professional/occupational license. Here is a list of a few of the most common jobs that require a license:

• Barber
• Cosmetologist
• Security guard
• Child care worker or Family child care provider
• Teacher
• Contractor
• Real estate agent
• Pharmacist or Pharmacy technician
• Nurse or Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA)
• Home health aid (HHA) or Personal care aid (PCA)
• Dentist, Dental assistant, or Registered dental hygienist
• Physical therapist or Physical therapist assistant
• Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) or Paramedic

To find out whether the specific job you want requires a professional/occupational license, contact the Department of Consumer Affairs at (800) 952-5210. You can also ask the DCA for information to contact the specific licensing board that oversees that type of work.

To learn more about specific licensing requirements for the job you want, you will need to contact the specific licensing board that oversees that type of work.

• For a list of licensing boards and their contact information, go to http://www.dca.ca.gov/publications/dca_booklet.pdf.
• For links to each of the licensing boards, go to http://www.dca.ca.gov/about_dca/entities.shtml.

To learn more about legal restrictions and professional/occupational licensing restrictions for people with criminal records, and ways you may be able to get a license, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, PG. 688.

WHAT TYPE OF SKILLS OR EDUCATION COULD HELP YOU GET THE JOB YOU WANT?

Next, you should research the specific requirements of the jobs on your list. Find out what training, experience, or other credentials you’ll need. (These requirements can change over time, so make sure you get current information.) Here are some resources to help your research:

• Job and career guides such as the Occupational Outlook Handbook and the Career Guide to Industries published by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (USBLS) have information about the nature of the work, working conditions, training and education requirements, earnings, and job prospects for hundreds of different jobs. These guides are available on the USBLS website at: www.bls.gov/ooh, and these guides and others may also be available from your facility’s library or your local public library.

• CareerOneStop (www.careeronestop.org) is a website with many tools to help you research the jobs you’re interested in, such as:
  o “Explore Careers”—has descriptions of different careers, including what skills and training you need, what level of education most workers typically have, and the types of tasks and equipment for each job; and will let you to compare different occupations.

- “License Finder” — allows you to look up state licensing requirements for any specific job, as well as the name and contact information of any state licensing board for that job.
- “Certification Finder” — tells you if a job requires certification, as well as the steps to get certified and the names and websites of certifying organizations.
- “Job Search Help for Ex-Offenders” — is a special section of the CareerOneStop website with information, advice, and tools tailored for people in reentry.

- America’s Service Locator (www.servicelocator.org) helps you find employment and training centers near you where you can get free and low-cost employment services. You can also use the locator by calling 1-877-348-0502.
- America’s Job Center of California (AJCC) (http://americasjobcenter.ca.gov/) California’s one-stop access point to employment-related services, including skills assessment. The website offers a finder to locate the AJCC office nearest you and also has links to most of the websites and services listed above.
- National College Transition Network (www.collegeforadults.org) has an “Occupational Exploration” page with resources for adults pursuing new career paths and tips for people in reentry.
- Local job postings can help you see exactly what qualifications employers look for when hiring. Try checking the job board at your local public library or employment center. You can also search online job postings on websites such as Craigslist (http://www.craigslist.org/about/sites), Monster (www.monster.com), and indeed (www.indeed.com).
- Industry magazines can be a good source of information on current events, trends, and new developments in your field of interest.
- People who have the job you want, as well as employers in the field, can answer questions about what training or credentials are required to be successful in the field.
- State licensing boards and professional associations can give you a list of requirements for the particular job or career that they oversee. Their contact information is available on the CareerOneStop website (see PG. 924 above) as well as from the California Department of Consumer Affairs (see PG. 924 above).
TIP: RESEARCH THE JOB MARKET

Know what the job market is like in your desired field, in the region where you live, and for workers with different skill levels and education levels.

QUESTIONS TO ASK:

• How hard is it to get a job in the field with or without an educational degree?
• What do employers look for when hiring?
• Are there many job openings in the field, or is it very difficult to get hired?
• Is the field growing and expanding?

RESOURCES TO USE:

Talk to people in your field of interest, and browse job-search and career guides such as the Occupational Outlook Handbook.

Look online: The California Employment & Development Department (EDD) offers an interactive online job guide, which provides information on hundreds of jobs, available at http://www.labormarketinfo.edd.ca.gov/OccGuides/.

You can also use the tools on the CareerOneStop website (see PG. 924 above), and contact professional associations in your fields of interest.

HOW YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD AND INCARCERATION MAY AFFECT YOUR EDUCATIONAL GOALS

IF I AM STILL INCARCERATED. WHAT BARRIERS MIGHT I FACE IN PURSUEING MY EDUCATION?

Thankfully, the Federal Bureau of Prisons, the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, and the California Department of Education have all recognized that providing educational opportunities to people who are incarcerated is critical to rehabilitation and reducing recidivism. However, the systems are far from perfect, and it is important for you to be aware of the obstacles you may face when you are pursuing an education while incarcerated. Be patient though! There is almost always a way to make it work if you are dedicated to reaching your educational goals.

Here are some of the common issues that you might face when pursuing your education while you are still incarcerated, followed by suggestions that can help you achieve your goals in spite of the challenges:

2361 See FED. BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS, CERTIFICATES: A FAST TRACK TO CAREER, OCCUPATIONAL OUTLOOK QUARTERLY (WINTER 2012-13), at 16-17.
2362 The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics releases the Occupational Outlook Handbook and the Career Guide to Industries every two years. These resources offer information about the nature of work, working conditions, training and education, earnings, and job outlook for hundreds of different occupations.
2363 FED. BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS, CERTIFICATES: A FAST TRACK TO CAREER, OCCUPATIONAL OUTLOOK QUARTERLY (WINTER 2012-13), at 16-17.
The programs I need are just not available.

The quality and availability of programs for different educational needs varies greatly from facility to facility. Additionally, even if your facility offers the program you want, there are often long waitlists to get enrolled.

Suggestion: Try supplementing your coursework with a correspondence course or related self-study. If you are waiting to get into a class, find out what the students are learning about—maybe you can get a head start!

The prison mail system is getting in the way.

If you decide to pursue your education through a correspondence course, or if you want to create your own self-study program, you may find that the prison mail system is frustrating your efforts. Materials and assignments may be slow in getting to you, and some items may not get to you at all because they are not allowed by your facility. All of this could mean significant delays in your studies or prevent you from completing them at all.

Suggestion: Be patient. There is no time limit on most correspondence courses—you can take as long as you need to complete the coursework. The goal is to learn the materials and pass the class, no matter how long it takes. Slow progress is still progress! If you find that your facility is overly-restrictive in what materials it will allow in, try writing to the correspondence course administrator to explain your situation. See if he or she can put the materials into a format that your facility will be less likely to object to. (For a list of schools with a history of successfully offering correspondence courses to incarcerated people, see Appendix D, PG. 995.)

I can’t afford the cost of programs and/or materials.

For any program or course that is not offered by the facility directly, you will be responsible for the cost of any necessary books, materials, or course fees. If you cannot afford these expenses, you may be prevented from participating in the program or taking the course.

Suggestion: Try to find someone else at your facility who is taking or has taken the course. See if that person is willing to share materials with you or donate them to you when he or she is done. Look into financial aid options to help with your costs. Some forms of financial aid are available while you are incarcerated, and there are even special scholarships to help incarcerated people afford textbooks and materials. (See Paying for Your Education, PG. 974 for more information about these programs.)

I have limited access to technologies.

Distance Education courses commonly require that you have access to certain technologies (audio/video equipment, computers, the Internet) in order to participate in the program (except for traditional mail-only correspondence courses). If you don’t have a way to use the media that contains the course content, you won’t be able to take the course.

Suggestion: Shop around for a course that doesn’t require the use of equipment that you don’t have. Try signing up for a program or activity in your facility that will give you access to the technology you need and will allow you to use it in your spare time (make sure you are authorized to do so!).

I am not eligible for financial aid.

Certain types of financial aid are not available to you while you are incarcerated, and other types are not available if you have certain types of convictions.
Suggestion: Apply for the types of financial aid that are available to you while you are incarcerated. Plus, while you are incarcerated, you can apply for financial aid that you will become eligible for once you are released, so the money will be ready for you when you get out. (For more information about financial aid, see Paying for your Education, PG. 974.)

IF I AM UNDER FEDERAL, STATE, OR COUNTY SUPERVISION, WHAT BARRIERS MIGHT I FACE?

While you are under supervision, your parole or probation officer should fully support your efforts to pursue your education. However, sometimes even the normal conditions of supervision can get in the way, and make it difficult for you to reach your educational goals. Fortunately, there are ways to work around your restrictions and steps you can take to stay on track even while they are in place.

IMPORTANT: If you find that your parole or probation officer is not supportive of your efforts to get an education, or that the conditions of your supervision are so restrictive that they make it impossible for you to pursue your education, this might be a violation of your rights. You should contact an attorney who can advise you and look into getting your restrictive conditions lifted. (For more information, see the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 130.)

Here are some of the common barriers that you might face when trying to pursue your education while you are under supervision, followed by suggestions that can help you achieve your goals in spite of the challenges:

I can't get to school because I have travel limitations.

While you are on supervision you may have restrictions on how far you can travel, or you may not have reliable transportation, or you may have to rely on public transportation. All of these factors may limit where you can go to school.

Suggestion: Look into local schools and programs that are easily accessible for you and do not involve a long commute. You can also explore Distance Education and correspondence course options. You may even be able to use the computers at your local public library to take these courses. (For information on Distance Education see PG. 965 or for correspondence courses, see PG. 969. For information on resources at your local public library, see PG. 914.)

I can't go to the school I want because I can't move out of the area.

Similar to travel restrictions, while you are under supervision, you probably will not be allowed to move outside of the county or the state. If the school you want to go to is in another county or state, you may not be able to attend it.

Suggestion: Again, local schools and programs are your best bet. If you are located in a rural area where your options are severely limited, get started earning credits through Distance Education and correspondence courses. Once you've completed your term of supervision, you can transfer to the school you want to attend and bring your earned credits with you. (For information on Distance Education see PG. 965 or for correspondence courses, see PG. 969. For information on transferring credits, see PG. 964.)

I can’t fit school into my schedule because of restrictions on my time (“passes,” curfews, work requirements).

While you are under supervision, you may be restricted in the amount of time you can spend attending classes, or by the hours of the day that you are allowed to be away from home to attend. You may have a curfew imposed on you or you may be required to get a “pass” that is only good for a short period of time in order to leave your residence. You may also be required to work a certain number of hours a day which leaves little time for school.

Solution: If you only have a limited amount of time to attend school each day, consider starting part time instead of full time. Take a class or two, and then build your schedule up when you are able. Also, Distance Education programs and correspondence courses are more flexible and can generally be worked around any schedule.

I am required to register as a sex offender.

If you are required to register as a sex offender, you should still be able to attend the school or program of your choice, but you will need to comply with sex-offender residency restrictions. This means that you cannot live in on-campus housing, and you must live at least 2000 yards from the school campus. [Cal. Pen. Code § 3003.5; But see In re Taylor, 343 P.3d 867 (2015); see also Matthias Gafni, California Sex Offenders Targeting Adults Could be Allowed to Live Near Schools, Parks, SAN JOSE MERCURY NEWS (Mar. 27, 2015), http://www.mercurynews.com/my-town/ci_27794212/half-states-sex-offenders-will-be-allowed-live.]

IF I HAVE COMPLETED MY SENTENCE, AND I’M OFF SUPERVISION, WHAT BARRIERS MIGHT I STILL FACE?

Once you have completed your sentence, including any term of supervision, most of the barriers that we have discussed so far will no longer exist for you. Unfortunately, your criminal record may still inhibit or interfere with your educational plans. See PG. 932

HOW TO CHOOSE THE EDUCATIONAL PATH THAT MEETS YOUR SPECIFIC EDUCATIONAL GOALS

ONCE EVERYTHING IS CONSIDERED, HOW DO I START FINDING THE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM THAT IS RIGHT FOR ME?

Whatever education level you are currently at and whatever your future education plans are, the general steps you should follow when deciding on a program are the same. Use these steps to help guide you through your decision-making process. Along the way, you can talk to people around you who can help. Your Correctional Counselor, the staff in the Education Department, a school or career center counselor, and family and friends can provide advice and support throughout this process.

STEP 1: FIND PROGRAMS THAT FIT YOUR NEEDS

Obviously, you want to find a program that meets the interests that you identified in the very beginning of this chapter (see “Setting Your Educational Goals,” PG. 920), but in order to find a program that truly fits your needs, must consider the practical factors that will impact your educational experience. You should think through the following questions to help you guide your decision:

• Do you want to study full or part-time?
• Is it more important for you to finish the program quickly or do you need to split your class time with other responsibilities?
• Would you prefer to go to a large school or a smaller school?
• Do you need to be in a classroom at all, or is distance learning a better option for you?
• Do you want to go to a public (state-funded) or private (privately owned) school?

STEP 2: RESEARCH SCHOOL/PROGRAM QUALITY

Evaluate the quality of each school or program by following these steps:

• Check for “accreditation” and other approval.
  - Find out if the school or program is accredited. Accredited schools have been reviewed by an accrediting organization recognized by the U.S. Dep’t of Educ. (USDE) and meet established USDE requirements.
  - If working in the field requires a license and certification, find out if the school or program is approved by the proper state licensing agency and the professional organization that grants certifications.
  - Search for a school in the Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions & Programs (www.ope.ed.gov/accreditation). If a school is accredited, it will show up in the database.

• Find data on how well the school’s graduates are doing. Find out if the school has a Gainful Employment Disclosure, which should provide information about overall costs for students, average debt, graduation and job placement rates, and which occupations students are prepared for.

• Talk to people in the school or program. Ask current students, alumni (former students), and teachers how well the school or program prepares students for their field, and whether it helps students find jobs.

• Ask employers what they think of the program. Find employers in the field that you would want to work for and ask them to rate the program.

WARNING: BE CAREFUL OF SCHOOLS OR PROGRAMS THAT ARE SCAMS:

- Beware of for-profit schools that are out to take your money -- not to give you a quality education. These schools spend lots of money on recruiting, and little on teaching or career services for students. They also tend to charge higher tuition than public community colleges and are likely to leave you with high debt, poor training, and slim chances of finding a job. Following the research steps above will help you avoid these schools.

- Similarly, beware of “schools” or “programs” that aren’t real schools or programs, but instead are diploma mills — companies selling diplomas. These companies promise to give you a certificate, diploma, or degree for very little work in a very short time. The credentials they offer have little or no value in the job market.

- Here are some warning signs that a “school” or “program” may be a scam or a diploma mill:
  - It is not accredited, or it is accredited by an agency that is not nationally recognized;
  - It requires little or no academic work, and involves minimal interaction with teachers;
  - It allows you to earn a certificate in an unusually short period of time;
  - It requires that you pay a flat fee for the credential;
  - Its mailing address is a post office box or suite number;
  - Its website ends in “.com” instead of “.edu.”

WHY ACCREDITATION IS IMPORTANT:

- Employers generally respect credentials from an accredited institution with a good reputation, and view job-seekers with such credentials more favorably.
- Credits from a non-accredited school, generally cannot be transferred to an accredited school.
- You must attend an accredited school to be eligible for government financial aid.

STEP 3: APPLY!

CAN I BE DENIED ACCEPTANCE TO AN EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM OR INSTITUTION BECAUSE OF MY CRIMINAL HISTORY?

Sadly, yes. Over the last decade, more and more colleges and universities across the country have begun to look into applicants’ criminal histories as part of the admissions process. In a recent study, two-thirds of the responding institutions reported collecting criminal history information on prospective students. Most commonly, institutions ask applicants to self-report their criminal history (answer “yes” and then explain). Some schools do conduct full criminal background checks on prospective students and then use the information to deny admission to people with criminal records, or give them conditional admission with added requirements and restrictions—kind of like “admission on probation.”

Unfortunately, there is nothing illegal about what they’re doing, and no real legal way to stop them from doing it. The best defense, however, is a good offense— in other words, be proactive! Take steps to clean up your criminal record, participate in rehabilitation programs, and be prepared with answers to questions about your criminal history. (See the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020 for information and details on how to “clean up” your record.)

The Good News...

Many colleges and universities will let you appeal a denial based on your criminal record, and will work with you to help you get in. Reach out to the Admissions Office staff and to school advisors to show them that you are serious and dedicated to your future. Take advantage of any opportunity to show that your criminal history is just that—history. You can use your personal essay (part of your application), in—person interview, letters of recommendation, and any other supporting documents to show the admissions committee that you are more than just your record.

Here are some other facts to keep in mind that work in your favor:

- There are no educational opportunities that you are legally banned from because of your criminal record—no matter what is in it;
- California public community colleges, state colleges, and state universities do not ask prospective students about their criminal history (as a policy);
- California public community colleges, state colleges, and state universities do not ask prospective students about their criminal history (as a policy);
- California public community colleges, state colleges, and state universities do not ask prospective students about their criminal history (as a policy);
- California public community colleges, state colleges, and state universities do not ask prospective students about their criminal history (as a policy);
• Educational institutions are not authorized under California law to request background checks on people, 2381 (however, there is nothing to stop them from asking self-reporting questions on applications).

• Distance Education programs are not likely to ask about your criminal history because they do not have to worry about campus safety (Although there is no evidence that a student with a criminal history poses an increased safety risk, 2382 this is the main reason schools care about your criminal history).

• Many schools will look at your criminal history only to flag you if you are applying to a program in a career field that you’re not allowed to work in anyway because of your criminal history (common in medical schools). 2383 (For more information on licensing and employment restrictions, see EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, PG. 690.)

• Some colleges collect criminal history information, but never actually use it. 2384

DO I NEED TO DISCLOSE MY JUVENILE RECORD WHEN APPLYING TO DIFFERENT EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS?

Maybe. Technically, a juvenile “adjudication” is not a criminal conviction. If your case was heard in a juvenile court, and you received a juvenile adjudication, then you were not “convicted” of a crime. So, if the application asks if you were “convicted of a crime” or if you have any “criminal convictions,” and you only have a juvenile adjudication, you can truthfully answer “no.” You do not have to disclose your juvenile adjudication. 2385 However, some applications ask if you have ever been “arrested” or “adjudicated guilty,” in which case, your juvenile arrest and adjudication count, and need to be reported. Remember, if you were tried as an adult, even if you were under 18, and you pleaded or were found guilty, then you do have a criminal conviction.

IMPORTANT: Even if you are not directly asked to disclose your juvenile record on an application, you may want to anyway. There is always a chance that the admissions committee will find out about a juvenile arrest or adjudication somehow, and think you were being dishonest in not reporting it. 2387 HOWEVER, when you get your juvenile record sealed in California, it’s as if it never existed: 2388 So, if you got your juvenile record sealed, you do not need to disclose anything in it. (For information on sealing your juvenile record, see the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, PG. 1089.)

III. FIGURING OUT YOUR CURRENT EDUCATIONAL LEVEL

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• What an educational assessment is and how to get one
• What learning challenges are and how to get tested for them

WHAT IS AN “EDUCATIONAL ASSESSMENT”? WHY DO I NEED ONE?

If you're not sure how far you got in school, or it's been so long that you're not sure what your current education level is, your first step is to get an “educational assessment.” An educational assessment is simply a way to find out what your current ability level is in English, reading, writing and math.

It is important to get an educational assessment before you start any educational program so that you don't waste time re-learning things you already know or taking classes for which you are not prepared.

HOW DO I GET AN EDUCATIONAL ASSESSMENT?

The easiest way to assess your education level is to take an assessment test (also called a placement test). There are two assessment tests that are often used for adults who wish to continue their education: the TABE and the CASAS.

Don’t worry, these are not the kind of tests you need to study for! These tests measure what academic skills you’re already good at and which ones you need to work on. They help you determine what classes will be the right fit for your current education level.

WHERE DO I GO FOR A PLACEMENT TEST?

If you’re currently incarcerated:

• In a federal prison: When you get to the federal facility, the staff will review the information from your county jail assessment to determine your needs. If you do not have an educational assessment on file and you have not earned a high school diploma or GED, the facility’s education department should give you an assessment test. If you did not receive an educational assessment and you think you need one, or if you have any questions about the process, talk to your case manager or your facility’s education department staff.

- In a California state prison: When you get to the state facility, CDCR staff will review your file from county jail to determine if you need an educational assessment. CDCR requires that you have a TABE score on file. If the county jail that did your assessment did not give you a TABE assessment, you will be required to do one when you get to a state facility (even if the jail gave you an assessment using a different test). If this doesn’t happen, ask your correctional counselor to arrange for you to take the TABE, or submit a request to the Testing Coordinator in your facility’s education department. Based on your TABE results, staff will recommend classes that are appropriate for you. If you already have a high school diploma or GED, CDCR will not do a TABE assessment for you.

- In a California county jail—Any county jail that offers educational programs will also offer educational assessments. If you feel that you need an educational assessment, or have questions about your education level, contact the facility’s education staff.

NOTE: When you first got to county jail while your case was pending, you likely were given a comprehensive evaluation, which included an assessment of your physical and mental health, your drug history, and your education history. Based on your answers to questions about your education history, facility staff decided whether or not to do a full educational assessment on you. If you reported that you already have a high school diploma or GED, the staff may have decided not to give you a full educational assessment because you already meet the minimum education-level requirement. Information from your county jail assessment will be sent to any facility that you are transferred to in the future.

IMPORTANT: If you are about to be released, talk to your counselor to make sure that you get all of your educational assessment information and any other paperwork relating to any educational courses you completed while you were incarcerated.

If you’re formerly incarcerated:

- If you have returned to the community after a period of incarceration, it’s likely that you had an educational assessment done while you were inside (see above). If you CAN get this information from your facility, you will NOT need to get another assessment once you are out. Contact the last facility that you were in and ask to have all of your assessment and placement information sent to you.

- If you cannot get your assessment information from your facility, or if it has been a very long time since your last assessment or since you last attended school, you may want to get reassessed.

LEARNING CHALLENGES AND SPECIAL NEEDS

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO HAVE A LEARNING CHALLENGE OR SPECIAL NEED?

Each of us learns in our own way and at our own speed. However, for many people, their brains have particular trouble receiving, storing, processing, retrieving, or communicating information. The brain’s trouble with these things is called a learning challenge (often called a “learning disability”). Unfortunately, many people have struggled in school their whole lives, but do not realize that their difficulties stem from learning challenges that can be overcome. Many people with learning challenges are able to prosper in school if they get the proper guidance, support, and instruction. The most common learning challenges are:

- Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD)—inability to control behavior or pay attention, often accompanied by hyperactivity.
- Dyslexia—difficulty reading, understanding, and processing written words.
- Dyscalculia—difficulty with number values, calculations, and math concepts.

There are many other types of learning challenges, including those related to writing, processing visual or sound information, memory, organization, and attention to detail. If certain subjects—or school in general—always seemed difficult for you, you may suffer from a learning challenge that was not discovered. For more information about learning challenges, visit the Learning Disabilities Association of America at http://ldaamerica.org/adult-learning-disability-assessment-process/, or the National Association for Adults with Learning Disabilities at http://naasln.org/.

HOW DO I FIND OUT IF I HAVE A LEARNING CHALLENGE?

If you think you may have a learning challenge, the first step is to get a professional assessment. A qualified professional can determine the source of your difficulty, and work with you to figure out what special learning tools may help you overcome it. Additionally, if you are diagnosed with a learning disability, schools and programs are required by law to give you special treatment to allow for your special learning needs. This is called giving you an “accommodation.”

Accommodations can include:
• Giving you extra time to take tests;
• Letting you use a calculator; OR
• Providing you with reading or writing assistance.

If you are currently incarcerated:
• In a federal prison: Federal law requires that if you do not have a high school diploma or GED, you must try to get one while you are incarcerated. Federal facilities will test you for any learning disabilities that might affect your ability to successfully complete a high school degree program.
• In a California state prison: CDCR does not specifically test for learning disabilities. However, CDCR assumes that you have a learning disability if you get below a certain score on your TABE test (4.0 or below), or if you tell them that you have a learning disability.
• In a California county jail: Generally, if you get an educational assessment, your facility’s staff will review your results and should be able to determine if you might need a learning disability assessment also.

If you are formerly incarcerated:

To find a qualified professional in your area who can assess you for a learning disability, check the following resources:
• Learning Disabilities Association of California (http://www.ldaca.org/)
• California’s Department of Rehabilitation (the state vocational rehabilitation office: http://www.rehab.cahwnet.gov/)
• Your local Community Mental Health Office (find an office through the National Mental Health Locator: http://mentalhealth.samhsa.gov)
• The student services division of your local community college. A list of community colleges can be found through the American Association of Community Colleges (http://www.aacc.nche.edu)
• Adult literacy and/or education programs at your local public library
• A local private psychologist or psychology clinic
• Community service organizations such as the Service League of San Mateo (http://serviceleague.org/home.html). (For a list of community service organizations around California, see Appendix A, PG. 985.)

IV. LEARNING THE EDUCATIONAL LANDSCAPE

The results of your educational assessment will tell you what educational level you are currently at. Based on that information, you must choose what the right next step is for you. Depending on what your education level is, the next step may be clear, or you may have to decide between several different possible paths. Here are the different types of educational programs you may encounter.

ADULT BASIC EDUCATION (ABE)

If you never went to high school or took any high school-level classes, you will need to start with Adult Basic Education (ABE) classes.

WHAT IS ABE? HOW CAN IT HELP ME?

- Adult Basic Education (ABE) is for adults who want to gain the basic skills and knowledge needed for school, work, and everyday life. You can find free or low-cost ABE classes at adult schools (also called “adult education programs”) across the country. ABE programs often offer the following kinds of classes:
  - Basic literacy classes help you learn to read and write for the first time.
  - Reading, writing, and math classes help you improve your English language skills and math skills.
  - Life skills classes build your skills in money management, communication, computer use, etc.
  - Pre-GED classes help you get prepared to pass the General Education Development exam.
  - English as a Second Language (ESL) classes improve your fluency in English, if it isn’t your native language.
- Your assessment test (see PG. 934) will tell you what skills you need to improve, and therefore which ABE classes are right for you.

HOW MUCH DO ABE CLASSES COST?

If you're incarcerated

In a federal prison, a California state prison, or a California county jail, ABE classes (including necessary books and study materials) are offered at no cost to you.

If you’re formerly incarcerated

Free or low-cost ABE classes may be available in adult schools or community colleges near you. Many schools provide ABE classes for free, and provide books and materials for free as well. Others may charge registration and tuition fees (up to $25-50 per semester or per class) and/or require you to buy your own books and materials. Some schools that charge fees may also offer financial aid to low-income students. You will need to check with the individual school or program about fees and financial aid. If you’re not enrolled in these classes for some reason, but you want to be, ask your education advisor about getting placed into these classes.

HOW DO I GET INTO ABE CLASSES?

If you’re currently incarcerated:

- In a federal prison: Soon after you enter prison, your unit team and education department staff should give you an assessment test and recommend classes for you. You should then have access to ABE classes. (In federal facilities, ABE is part of a broader program called Adult Continuing Education or ACE). If your assessment shows that you’re not fluent in English, you must be enrolled in ESL, and if you don’t have a high school degree, you must be enrolled in classes designed to lead to a GED or high school diploma. If you’re not enrolled in these classes for some reason, but you want to be, ask your education advisor about getting placed into these classes.

- In a California state prison: To enroll in any education program, you must have a TABE score on file. (To learn how to sign up for TABE, see PG. 934.). Once you’ve done the TABE assessment, you should be able to attend ABE classes that are right for your level. For example, if you’re not fluent in English, you must be enrolled in ESL, and if you’re reading below a 6th grade level, you must be enrolled in basic literacy classes. You may also be able to get extra tutoring support through the Voluntary Education Program (VEP). If you’re not enrolled in these programs, but you want to be, ask your correctional counselor or education department staff.

- In a California county jail: Although educational programs vary by county, if your facility offers educational programming, Adult Basic Education will most likely be part of it.

HIGH SCHOOL CREDENTIALS

If you are ready for (or already taking) high school-level classes, your next step is to earn your high school degree. As an adult student, your high school degree can be a stepping-stone to a "higher education" degree (see PG. 949) or a better job, or simply an important personal achievement. This chapter will explain how you can earn your high school degree.

I'M READY FOR HIGH SCHOOL-LEVEL WORK. WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

There are two ways you can earn your high school degree:

1) Take a General Educational Development test to get your GED, OR
2) Complete a high school diploma program.
   a) If you have already completed several high school courses, you might want to earn the rest of the credits in a high school diploma program.
   b) If you have not completed many (or any) high school courses, getting a GED may be an easier option.
   c) NOTE: Both adult high school programs and GED classes are offered for free in federal prisons, California state prisons, and California county jails; and for low or cost

GED VS. HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMA

A GED is a high school proficiency test, which may allow you to earn a high school equivalency certificate in a more expedited manner or at your own pace. The test requires you to pass 4 parts in different subjects matters at your own pace. However, An adult high school diploma requires more coursework prior to obtaining your diploma. An Adult High School Diploma requires certain coursework to be completed at your own pace. After all the coursework is completed, you will be required to pass an exit exam called California High School Exit Examination. It is important to note that if you have already completed many high school courses required for a diploma program and have only a few left to take, a high school diploma program may be a faster route than a GED.

2426 28 C.F.R. §§ 544.70 (federal inmates who do not have a GED or high school diploma are required to take adult literacy classes), 544.81 (warden shall ensure every inmate with the need, capacity, and time has the opportunity to complete and adult literacy program leading toward a GED or high school diploma).
2427 CAL. DEPT'Y CORR. & REHAB., OPERATIONS MANUAL §§ 101010.1–101010.3.1, 101010.5.1, 101010.5.4 (2015); see also Office of Correctional Education, CAL. DEPT’Y CORR. & REHAB., http://www.cdc.gov/Correctional_Education/index.html.
free in adult school programs across the state. You will need to decide which pathway to a high school degree is best for you.

GENERAL EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT (GED) TESTS

WHAT ARE GED TESTS? HOW CAN THEY HELP ME?

A General Educational Development (GED) test is a high school proficiency test for adults who never completed high school and want to earn a high school equivalency (GED) certificate. These tests are administered nationally, but three have been specifically approved by the California Department of Education:

- GED® (GED Testing Service);
- HiSET® (ETS); AND

If you pass a GED test in California, you’ll receive a California High School Equivalency Certificate (CAHSEC) (this is the official name for a GED in California). This certificate is your official proof that you have high school level academic skills. Once you have this certificate, you can apply to colleges and jobs that require a high school credential.

AM I ELIGIBLE TO TAKE A GED TEST TO EARN MY CALIFORNIA HIGH SCHOOL EQUIVALENCY CERTIFICATE (CAHSEC)?

In order to take a GED test to get your California High School Equivalency Certificate, you must:

- Not have completed high school;
- Be a resident of California; AND
- Be 18 years or older (or 17 in very special circumstances).

HOW LONG WILL IT TAKE TO EARN MY CAHSEC?

It depends. Specifically, it will depend on your current skills, pace of study, and individual circumstances. You may choose to study on your own, at your own pace; or you may take one or more GED test preparation classes, which may be designed to get you ready by a specific date.
Compared to a high school diploma program, which may require a longer list of classes, the GED can be a “fast track” to a high school credential (for more information on high school diploma programs, see PG. 946). However, this may or may not be the best fit for you, depending on your needs and learning preferences.

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST TO EARN MY CAHSEC?

If you're currently incarcerated in a federal prison, a California state prison, or a California county jail, you should be able to register for a GED test, take GED preparation classes, and get your CAHSEC at no cost to you.

NOTE: While GED programs and testing are generally offered at no cost, if you have a high balance in your trust account, your facility may decide to deduct some or all of the costs for certain programs or testing from your account.

If you're formerly incarcerated:

• When you sign up for a GED test, you must pay a $35 fee for each module (subject-matter tests) you're scheduling. That adds up to a $140 fee if you register for all 4 modules at once.
• When you pass the test (all 4 modules), you'll get your certificate and official test results by mail at no cost.
• Studying for the GED might require paying for classes and books, but this could cost little or nothing.

NOTE: Many adult schools and community colleges provide GED classes for free, and provide study materials for free as well. Others may charge registration and tuition fees (up to $25-50 per semester or class). Some schools that charge fees offer financial aid to low-income students. Check with each school about fees and financial aid.

HOW DO I PREPARE FOR THE GED TEST?

FIRST: Learn as much as you can about the GED test. You should know: What subjects and skills does the test cover? How long does the test take? What do the questions look like? You can get information by contacting the GED Testing Service (see PG. 945 for contact information), by asking teachers or tutors in a GED program, and by looking at GED practice tests and study materials (see below for tips on finding GED programs and study materials). Here is some general information to start with:

- The GED test has 4 modules (subject-matter tests): language arts, math, social studies, and science. You can take all 4 modules on the same day, which takes 7+ hours; or you can schedule them for separate dates.
- As of January 1, 2014, the GED test is computer-based; but if you’re in a prison or jail that doesn’t have computers set up, you might be taking the test with a pencil and paper. To find out which version of the test you’ll take, ask your facility’s education department staff.

SECOND: Learn as much as possible about your readiness for the test. You should know:

- Which subjects or skills do you feel confident about, and which ones should you focus on improving?
- How comfortable do you feel with the test format?
- Do you need to practice answering test questions more quickly?
- What study methods are best for your current skills and learning style?
- You can get a sense of how ready you are by taking practice GED tests on your own, and/or by working with teachers or tutors in a GED program who can give you feedback about your skills (see below for tips on finding GED programs and study materials, including practice tests).

THIRD: Make use of teaching, tutoring, and study materials that are available to you. Below is general information about potential resources that you may be able to use:

If you’re currently incarcerated:

- In a federal prison: When you get to your federal facility, staff will review your county jail assessment information. If you don’t have a high school degree, you will be enrolled in classes designed to lead up to a GED or a high school diploma (unless they decide that you must take Adult Basic Education classes first). Ask your education advisor if you have questions about enrollment.
- In a California state prison: If you don’t have a high school credential, you can enroll in GED classes if your TABE scores qualify you. You may also be able to get extra tutoring support through the Voluntary Education Program (VEP). Ask your correctional counselor or education department staff about enrolling in GED classes or VEP. (Remember, before you enroll in GED or VEP, you must have a TABE score on file.) See PG. 934 for information about the TABE and getting an educational assessment.

---

2435 If you do not have a high school credential, you will be required enroll in adult literacy classes (up to 240 hours, or until you earn a GED, whichever comes first). See U.S. DEP’T OF JUSTICE, BUREAU OF PRISONS, PROGRAM STATEMENT 5350.28 LITERACY PROGRAM (GED STANDARD) (Feb. 1, 2003); U.S. DEP’T OF JUSTICE, FED. BUREAU OF PRISONS, PROGRAM STATEMENT 5300.21 EDUCATION TRAINING & LEISURE TIME (Feb. 18, 2001); U.S. DEP’T OF JUSTICE, FED. BUREAU OF PRISONS, A DIRECTORY OF FEDERAL INSTITUTIONS’ NATIONAL PROGRAMS (May 21, 2014) at 1–3.
When preparing for both the GED Exam and Release:

If you are preparing for a GED test while incarcerated and find out that you will be released before you finish your class or program, ask your GED teacher for a "progress report." This report will show exactly where you are in the process, so that you can pick up your studies in the same place after your release.

If you're formerly incarcerated:

- Visit your local America's Job Center of California (formerly Career One-Stop Centers) for information on GED programs in your area (see PG. 914 for information on finding your local America's Job Center of California).
- Contact your local public library, adult school, or community college to ask about free or low-cost GED classes near you.
- If you have Internet access, search online for GED programs near you. Try these resources to start:
  - California Adult Schools: www.californiaadultschools.org/cas/

Important: If you are in county jail awaiting transfer to a federal or state facility, you will NOT be allowed to take anything with you, including any books or other materials related to your educational programming, when you are transferred. You will need to gather all of your materials ahead of time and mail them to someone on the outside before you are transferred. That person can then mail your materials back to you at your new facility.

Note: Even though most facilities in California at the federal, state, and county level offer GED classes, often there are long waiting lists to get in, or they are offered in "cycles" (which means that if you miss the beginning of the cycle, you cannot enroll until the next one). If you cannot enroll in a GED class for any reason, you should try to begin studying on your own. Check your facility’s library for GED "prep" books and materials. These resources will walk you through lesson plans, and usually contain sample questions and practice tests. They can also be ordered through most book distributors. Check with your facility for a list of book distributors that are approved to send materials to inmates. There are also a number of community adult literacy programs and other service organizations that will send books and materials to incarcerated people for free. You can contact these organizations to request the study materials you need. For a list of organizations that provide books and materials to incarcerated people, visit Urbana Campaign to Prisoners at http://www.books2prisoners.org/partnerships.php or see Appendix B, PG. 987.

Roadmap to Reentry

- In a California county jail: If your educational assessment scores qualify you for GED courses, your facility should enroll you if they offer these courses. If not, you can contact community service organizations to request materials. See Appendix B, PG. 987 for a list or organizations that provide GED materials.
I'M READY TO TAKE A GED TEST, HOW DO I SIGN UP?

If you're currently incarcerated:

- In a federal prison: Ask your education advisor to sign you up. You should be able to take the test if the education staff thinks you’re ready based on your most recent assessment and/or your current work in class.

- In a California state prison: First, sign up with your facility’s testing coordinator to take a GED predictor test. Depending on your score, you may be scheduled for the next available GED test date at your facility, or you may be enrolled in a GED preparation program for further study. Ask your correctional counselor or education department staff if you have questions about GED classes, VEP, or the GED predictor test.

- In a California county jail: Ask the education staff at your facility to sign you up to take the test the next time it is offered (if it is offered at your facility).

If you’re formerly incarcerated:

- Create an online account at www.ged.com, and then sign up for a specific test date at a specific GED test center. To complete your registration, you must pay the fee ($35 per test module) using a credit card.

- To find out what GED test centers are near you, call the GED Testing Service at 1-800-626-9433. If you have Internet access, you can also use the search tool on the GED Testing Service website, or visit the GED test center directory on the California Department of Education website at http://www.cde.ca.gov/ta/tg/gd/gedtestcntrs.asp.

---

2445 If you don’t have a high school credential, you must be enrolled in a literacy class; and you must participate until you’ve spent 240 hours in class or until you earn your GED, whichever comes first. 28 C.F.R. § 544.70-75; see U.S. DEP’T JUSTICE FED. BUREAU OF PRISONS, PROGRAM STATEMENT 5360.28 LITERACY PROGRAM (GED STANDARD) (Feb. 1, 2003); U.S. DEP’T JUSTICE FED. BUREAU OF PRISONS, PROGRAM STATEMENT 5300.21 EDUCATION TRAINING & LEISURE TIME (Feb. 18, 2001); U.S. DEP’T JUSTICE FED. BUREAU OF PRISONS, A DIRECTORY OF BUREAU OF PRISONS’ NATIONAL PROGRAMS (May 21, 2014) at 1-3.

GENERAL TIPS

- You may want to register for just 1 or 2 test modules at a time if you can’t afford the full fee or if you want to give yourself time off between studying for the different subjects.
- To take the test in California, you must provide state-issued ID and proof of California residency. Before registering, ensure that you will have these documents on your test date. (You do not have to be a U.S. citizen or have a SSN to take the GED.)
- If you have more questions, contact the GED office at (916) 445-9438 or gedoffice@cde.ca.gov. If you have Internet access, you can also find information posted online by the California Department of Education and the GED Testing Service.

ADULT HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMA PROGRAMS

This section will help you decide whether an adult high school diploma program is a good option for you. You’ll also learn how to locate and sign up for an adult high school diploma program that meets your needs.

WHAT IS AN ADULT HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMA PROGRAM? HOW CAN IT HELP ME?

These diploma programs are for adults who didn’t finish high school, and who want to complete the courses normally required for high school graduation (instead of taking a GED or high school equivalency test). High school diploma programs are offered in most jails and prisons, and in adult schools and community colleges throughout California.

In most adult high school diploma programs, you can choose to enroll in traditional classes, or you can choose to complete courses at your own pace through individual study and regular check-ins with teachers. In addition, some programs also allow you to complete correspondence courses through mail or email with teachers (for details on distance learning, see PG. 965; for correspondence programs, see PG. 969). After completing all of the required courses, you will have to pass an “exit” exam, called the California High School Exit Examination (CAHSEE) to receive your high school diploma.

GED VS. HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMA

Compared to a GED program, which may focus on preparing you to answer test questions quickly, a high school diploma program requires you to complete many classes that are part of a high school education. Required course subjects include: English (reading, writing, literature); math (algebra, geometry); natural science (biology, ecology, physics); social science (history, civics, economics); humanities (art, religion); and electives (health, media literacy).

---

2450 Note: If you took any parts of the old paper-based GED before January 1, 2014, those scores no longer count.
You must now take all four modules in the new computer-based format to earn your GED. See GED Testing Service: On the Record (June 25 - 26, 2012), www.gedtesting.com/PDFs/QuestionsfromCorrectionsWebinarsFINAL.pdf
2451 Acceptable forms of ID include: California driver license or ID card, passport, employment or work visa, green card, military or other government ID card, college ID card. See GED Eligibility, City Coll. of San Francisco, www.ccsf.edu/en/student-services/matriculation_services/ged_center/ged_eligibility.html.
2452 Required course subjects include: California driver license or ID card, birth certificate, tax returns, marriage license, car registration, utility bill, voter registration, bank statement, or apartment lease. 2014 California, GED Testing Serv., www.gedtestingservice.com/testers/policy_ca
2457 Adult schools are funded by state funds; receives 75% of per pupil funding from the state. Educators have credentials for teaching adult students.
2458 Adult Education Programs, CAL. ADULT SCHS., www.californiaadultschools.org/cas/programs#core5.
All students in California public schools must pass the CAHSEE before they are awarded a high school diploma. This includes people who earn their diploma while incarcerated.

HOW MUCH TIME WILL IT TAKE TO EARN MY HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMA?

It depends. Specifically, it will depend on your current skills, pace of study, life circumstances, and learning preferences. Depending on the program you enroll in, you might work toward your diploma individually, at your own pace; or you might work with a teacher who creates assignment deadlines and a long-term schedule for you.

GENERAL TIPS

If you’ve already completed many of the courses required for a diploma program and have only a few left to take, an adult high school diploma program is likely a faster route for you than the GED.

If you haven’t completed many high school courses, the GED will probably be a faster path to your high school equivalency certificate.

But consider, if you have not taken many high school courses yet, and you have some time to spend on your high school education, you might prefer a diploma program because it can be an opportunity to explore new subjects and skills that you won’t learn in a GED program.

HOW MUCH MONEY WILL IT COST TO EARN MY HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMA THROUGH A PROGRAM?

If you’re currently incarcerated

- In a federal prison: As part of the Literacy Program, high school level classes should be available at no cost to you. However, not all facilities offer a high school diploma program; some offer GED study courses instead.
- In a California state prison: A high school diploma program should be available at no cost to you.
- In a California county jail: If your facility offers a high school diploma program, it should be available at no cost to you.

NOTE: While high school diploma programs are generally offered at no cost, if you have a high balance in your trust account, your facility may decide to deduct some or all of the cost for some programs from your account.

2461 See Adult Education Programs, CAL. ADULT SCHS., www.californiaadultschools.org/cas/programs#core6.
2462 28 C.F.R. §§ 544.70 (federal inmates who do not have a GED or high school diploma are required to take adult literacy classes), §544.81 (warden shall ensure every inmate with the need, capacity, and time has the opportunity to complete and adult literacy program leading toward a GED or high school diploma).
2465 Interview with Carmen Garcia, Legal Administrative Assistant, Root & Rebound (April 15, 2015).
If you’re formerly incarcerated:

Adult high school diploma programs may be available in adult schools or community colleges near you for free or at low cost. Many schools provide adult high school classes for free, and provide books and materials for free as well. Others may charge registration and tuition fees. (However, schools that charge fees may also offer financial aid to low-income students. Check with each school about fees and financial aid.) 2466 Also, community adult literacy programs may offer high school diploma courses and tutoring for free. (For a list of organizations that may offer this service, see Appendix A, PG. 985.)

If you choose a distance learning or correspondence program, regardless of whether you’re incarcerated or in the community, you may need to pay program fees and buy your own materials (for details about distance learning programs in general, see PG. 965).

HOW DO I FIND AND ENROLL IN A HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMA PROGRAM?

If you’re currently incarcerated:

• In a federal prison: Soon after you enter prison, your Unit Team or Education Staff should review your assessment (from county jail, see PG. 934) and recommend classes for you. If you don’t have a high school credential, the facility will enroll you in literacy classes designed to lead up to a high school diploma (or a GED, if your facility offers a GED program). 2467 Ask your Education Advisor if you have questions about enrolling in classes.

• In a California state prison: If you’ve completed some high school in the past, and if your current skills are at a high school grade level (9-12), you should be enrolled in the high school diploma program at your facility. Education Department staff will review your high school transcript (if you have one) and TABE scores and decide whether you can enroll. 2468

• In a California county jail: Check with your facility’s education staff to find out whether high school diploma courses are offered and how to enroll in them. 2469

If you’re formerly incarcerated:

• Visit any public library or community bookstore to find free or low-cost high school level study materials, including books you may need for classes, as well as lessons you can work through on your own.

• Contact any public library, adult school, or community college to ask about free or low-cost adult high school diploma programs near you. 2470

---

• If you have Internet access, search online for high school diploma programs near you:
  o America’s Literacy Directory: www.literacydirectory.org
  o National Literacy Directory: www.nationalliteracydirectory.org/
  o California Adult Schools: www.californiaadultschools.org/cas/
  o California Adult Education Provider Directory: www.otan.us/caaeproviders/
  o California Community College Finder at www.californiacommunitycolleges.cccco.edu/maps/map.asp

  TIP: Many community colleges offer dual enrollment programs or continuing education programs, which allow you to earn an adult high school diploma or equivalency certificate AND get started on earning college credits at the same time.2471

  GENERAL TIP: If you have meaningful school, work, or life experience, find out if you can make it count toward your diploma. Some adult schools or programs might give you credit for past high school work, job training, work experience, community service, military service, or self-study. Ask the individual school or program if it will do this.2472

HIGHER EDUCATION OVERVIEW

Once you’ve earned your high school credential, what’s next? It’s time to revisit your long-term educational and career goals. Do you need a certain skill-set or type of training for your desired career field? Do you have to earn a specific degree to practice in your chosen profession? If so, “higher education” might be right for you.

WHAT IS HIGHER EDUCATION?

“Higher education” refers to additional schooling that you take beyond the high school-level, that leads to a professional certification or academic degree, such as a Career and Technical Education (CTE) certificate, associate degree, bachelor’s degree, or graduate or professional degree. If you plan on continuing your education beyond the high school-level, you will need to determine which higher education path fits your needs and goals.

CAREER & TECHNICAL EDUCATION (CTE) PROGRAMS

WHAT IS CAREER AND TECHNICAL EDUCATION?

If you want a skills-based job in a particular career field, you may want to enroll in a CTE program where you focus on learning to do a specific type of work in that field. CTE programs are also called “certificate” or “vocational training” programs. This chapter will help you think about whether a CTE program is a good choice for you; and, if so, what type of CTE program might be right for you.

NOTE: Most CTE programs lead to a certificate, but some lead to a college degree. This section focuses on CTE programs that lead to a certificate. If you’re interested in enrolling in a CTE program that leads to a college degree, you will find more helpful information in the following section on college degrees (PG. 954).

HOW CAN A CTE PROGRAM HELP ME?

In California, CTE programs are offered at community colleges, technical colleges, trade schools, vocational schools, at some 4-year colleges—and in many CDCR facilities and county jails. A CTE certification program can be a good path for you if the occupation you want requires a certificate, or if you want to gain practical skills and get into the workforce more quickly. Most CTE certificate programs are designed to get you certified, licensed, and hired in your chosen field directly and efficiently. A certificate can also be a stepping-stone toward a college degree, as some colleges accept certificate program credits and count them as progress toward a college degree.2474

IMPORTANT: A certificate is NOT a degree. It’s an award that shows you completed an educational or training program after high school. A certificate is also NOT an occupational license or certification, which you may need to do your job, depending on what your field is and where you live.

The cost of earning a certificate through a CTE program may not be worth it in certain fields where jobs are low-wage, unstable, and difficult to get. Also, if employers in your desired field don’t always require a certificate, you might consider going straight into the workforce. If employers in your field like to see qualifications other than a certificate, such as hands-on experience or some kind of degree, you might want to pursue those qualifications instead.2475 For more information on researching the job market in your career field, see EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 906.

NOTE: Usually, community or technical colleges require that you have a high school credential before you begin a CTE program. However, even if you don’t have one, you still may be able to enroll. Most community and technical colleges will have classes and support to help you earn your high school credential as well as your CTE certificate. If the CTE program you are interested in is offered at a four-year college or university, you will need to have a high school credential to apply.

HOW MUCH TIME WILL IT TAKE TO EARN A CTE CERTIFICATE?

Many certificate programs can take less than a year to complete, and most are designed to take less than 2 years. However, your total time in a program will depend on the specific program and school you choose and whether you enroll part-time or full time.

CERTIFICATES, LICENSES, AND CERTIFICATIONS

A certificate is not the same as an occupational license or a professional certification. A certificate shows that you have completed a course of study and training in a particular field. Certificates are awarded by CTE programs and many certificate programs can take less than a year to complete, and most are designed to take less than 2 years. However, your total time in a program will depend on the specific program and school you choose and whether you enroll part-time or full time in school. After earning a certificate, you may also need to get a license from the state or a certification from the professional organization that regulates your job field.

A license shows that you have the government’s permission to practice your occupation. State and local boards and agencies issue licenses.

A certification means that you have demonstrated that you’re skilled enough to practice your occupation, usually by passing evaluations and/or documenting a certain amount of work experience. Professional or industry organizations issue certifications.

HOW MUCH MONEY WILL IT COST TO EARN A CTE CERTIFICATE?

If you’re currently incarcerated:

In a federal prison, California state prison, or California county jail, any CTE programs available should be provided at no cost to you (including necessary materials and credentialing fees).

NOTE: While CTE programs are generally offered at no cost, if you have a high balance in your trust account, your facility may decide to deduct some or all of the cost of the program from your account. 2481

If you’re formerly incarcerated:

Your costs will vary based on your school, program, and course load. If you’re a resident of the state where you enroll, the cheapest options will likely be programs offered at community colleges or technical colleges, which are public schools. Average tuition and fees per year are about $4,000 for in-state students at public 2-year colleges, compared to about $15,000 at private 2-year colleges. 2482 (See PG. 929 for tips on avoiding private schools that may be scams.)

NOTE: Some schools and programs offer financial aid for low-income students. Check with each school and program about overall costs, fee waivers, and financial aid. 2483 For more information on fee waivers and financial aid, see Paying for Your Education, starting on PG. 974.

HOW DO I FIND CTE PROGRAMS?

If you’re currently incarcerated...

In a federal prison: Every federal prison offers a different range of Occupational Education (OE) programs, which may include certificate programs as well as programs leading to associate’s degrees. 2484 Soon after you enter prison, your Unit Team and Education Staff should give you an assessment and recommend programs for you. If you have no stable work history or training record, you may be assigned to an OE program. 2485 If you haven’t been assigned to an OE program and would like to be, ask your Unit Team to place you in one. Your Unit Team will decide what OE course(s) may be right for you.

Notes on eligibility & timing: Certain OE programs may be open to you only if you have a high school credential or are working toward one. 2487 Also, if you need job training but spaces are limited, you might not be placed in an OE program until the last several months of your sentence, to ensure that your training is current when you’re released. 2488

In a California state prison: Every CDRC facility provides a different range of CTE programs, all accredited by a nationally recognized agency. (For information on accreditation, see PG. 929.) Since these CTE programs are properly accredited, you should be able to transfer credits from these programs to a college degree program. (For information on transferring credits, see PG. 964.)

---

2481 Interview with Carmen Garcia, Legal Administrative Assistant, Root & Rebound (April 15, 2015).
There are no eligibility or testing requirements for CTE programs in CDCR facilities, but you will be limited by what programs your facility has available. Ask your Correctional Counselor about what CTE programs are offered and how you can sign up.

NOTE ON THE TRANSITIONS PROGRAM: Some CDCR facilities offer the Transitions Program, which is a 4-5 week program that provides job readiness and money management skills, information about community programs, and connections to social services in the county where you’ll be living. If your facility has this program and you’re eligible, you may be assigned to participate at some point during the last 6 months before your release.

In a California county jail: Because programs vary greatly across county facilities, you will need to check with your facility’s education department to see if CTE programs are available.

If you’re formerly incarcerated

CTE programs are offered at community and technical colleges as well as four-year colleges. To find CTE programs in your area:

• Check your local public library for information about CTE programs, adult schools, and colleges in your area.

• Search on the Internet for nearby schools and programs. The following websites are good starting points:
  o California Community College Finder: www.californiacccommunitycolleges.cccco.edu/maps/map.asp;
  o California Adult Schools: www.californiaadultschools.org/cas/;
  o California Adult Education Provider Directory: www.otan.us/aaeproviders/.

HOW DO I CHOOSE A CTE PROGRAM?

If you want to make an informed decision, it’s important to research the qualifications required for the jobs you want, the quality of the schools you’re considering, and the current state of the job market. (For tips on researching the qualifications you need for the specific job(s) you want, see Setting Your Goals, PG. 920.) When you know what skills and training you need, you can begin evaluating individual CTE programs to find the one that is right for you. If you have decided that a CTE program is the best path for you, see Choosing Your Education Path, PG. 929, for tips on evaluating and choosing a program.

2489 CDCR CTE programs are accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC). Programs focus on 6 career fields: building and construction; energy and utilities; finance and business; public service; manufacturing and product development; and transportation. Some facilities offer programs in basic employment skills, while others offer more advanced programs that can lead to a certificate, license, and/or certification. See Office of Correctional Education, CAL DEPT OF CORR & REHAB, DIV OF REHABILITATIVE PROGRAMS, www.cdcr.ca.gov/rehabilitation/ocz.html; CAL DEPT OF CORR & REHAB, OPERATIONS MANUAL 101010.3.4-101010.5.4 (2015), CTE PROGRAMS, CAL DEPT OF CORR & REHAB, DIV OF REHABILITATIVE PROGRAMS, www.cdcr.ca.gov/rehabilitation/career-technical-education.html.

2490 Facilities offering the Transitions Program include: Avenal State Prison, Central California Women’s Facility, California Institution for Men, California Institution for Women, California Men’s Colony, Correctional Training Facility, Chuckawalla Valley State Prison, Folsom Women’s Facility, High Desert State Prison, Ironwood State Prison, California State Prison—Los Angeles County, Substance Abuse Treatment Facility, and Valley State Prison. For a current list of facilities that offer the Transition Program, see Transitions Programs, CAL DEPT OF CORR & REHAB, DIV OF REHABILITATIVE PROGRAMS, www.cdcr.ca.gov/rehabilitation/transitions-program.html.

2491 FED. BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS, CERTIFICATES: A FAST TRACK TO CAREER, OCCUPATIONAL OUTLOOK QUARTERLY (WINTER 2012-13).
HOW DO I ENROLL IN A CTE PROGRAM?

Generally, to enroll in a CTE program at a community or technical college, you just need to fill out the paperwork and register for classes. Most programs have “open admissions,” meaning that if you meet the educational requirements, you will be admitted automatically, if space is available. For programs that are very popular, you may have to submit an application and be accepted to the program before you can enroll (admission is not automatic). To learn more about program requirements and enrollment policies, you can call the admissions office of the school you are interested in. This information is also usually available on the school’s website.

Four-year colleges generally require you to submit an application for admission and be accepted to the school before you can enroll and register for classes. Applications often are available online (and can be submitted online), or you can call the school’s admissions office and ask them to send you an application by regular mail or email. There is usually a nonrefundable fee for applying, but you may be able to get the fee waived.

OTHER OPTIONS FOR CAREER AND TECHNICAL TRAINING

Apprenticeships: These are usually offered through trade unions that pay you a salary while you learn a specific trade or profession. Apprenticeships allow you to gain knowledge and hands-on experience in your chosen field, under the guidance of more experienced employees. Many federal and state facilities offer apprenticeships through contracts with colleges and technical schools, and many are registered through the Department of Labor’s Office of Apprenticeship. For more information on apprenticeship programs, check these resources:

Job Corps: Job Corps offers young people aged 16–24 the chance to get a free education and skills training while being paid a monthly allowance. Usually Job Corps participants live at a Job Corps residence while getting their training. To learn more about Job Corps and find the Job Corps center near you, call 1 (800) 733-5627 or go to http://www.jobcorps.dol.gov.

COLLEGE & UNIVERSITY ACADEMIC DEGREES

If you have the desire, time, and financial resources to explore a wider range of academic subjects and skills, you may want to pursue a college degree. In college you can study a diverse range of topics, instead of focusing only on the skills you need for one type of job; and you can develop a broad foundation of writing and critical thinking skills to sharpen your mind and prepare you for a wide variety of careers. A college degree also may help you qualify for more secure, higher-status, and better-paying jobs.

---

2494 In addition, attending college can allow you develop social connections with peers and teachers, which can be personally enriching and professionally useful. See Why Go to College? SCHOLARSHIPS.COM, www.scholarships.com/resources/college-prep/preparing-for-college/why-go-to-college/.
If you're currently incarcerated

You likely do not have access to in-person college programs, but you may be able to pursue a college degree through Distance Education. (See PG. 965 for information on Distance Education programs.)

If you're formerly incarcerated

You can pursue a college degree at a community or junior college, a technical school, or 4-year college or university. While college can be expensive, there are ways to reduce and supplement the expense (see Paying for College, PG. 974).

Depending on your career goals, your life situation, and your access to resources like financial aid, college may or may not be the best option for you now. The following sections of this chapter will provide details about the different types of college degree programs so that you can make an informed decision.

WHAT ARE THE DIFFERENT KINDS OF ACADEMIC DEGREES?

There are three main categories of college degrees:

• Associate degrees
• Bachelor’s degrees
• Graduate Academic and Professional degrees.

2497 See FED. BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS, PAYING FOR COLLEGE: STRATEGIES TO AFFORD HIGHER EDUCATION TODAY,
Different degrees are awarded in different subject and career areas, and they all have different requirements. For some degrees you have to earn another degree first, before you can pursue them. The various degrees are discussed in detail below.

ASSOCIATE DEGREE PROGRAMS

WHAT IS AN ASSOCIATE DEGREE?

An associate degree (sometimes called a “two-year” degree) is an undergraduate college degree that is awarded by community and junior colleges (sometimes called “two-year colleges”), technical schools, and some four-year colleges and universities. Associate degree programs are designed to take two years of full-time study to complete (but part-time students may take longer), and generally require students to take various general education courses like English, math, and science. An associate degree can be a stepping-stone toward earning a bachelor’s degree or can prepare you to enter the workforce directly.

WHAT ARE SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES OF PURSUING AN ASSOCIATE DEGREE?

An Associate Degree is a great option for many people because:

- It can be earned in only 2 years;
- It costs less than a 4-year degree;
- It gets you into the workforce faster;
- The programs are more flexible, and can be scheduled around work or other obligations;
- It can be a low-cost stepping stone to a 4-year college or university, if you transfer credits (see PG. 964 for more information on transferring credits).

WHAT TYPES OF ASSOCIATE DEGREES ARE THERE?

There are two categories of associate degrees:

- Associate of Arts (AA)/Associate of Science (AS)
- Associate of Applied Arts (AAA)/Associate of Applied Science (AAS).

AA and AS degree programs tend to be designed for students who eventually want to earn a bachelor’s degree at a four-year college or university. Therefore, these programs focus more on preparing students for higher levels of academic study. The courses offered and credits earned in an AA or AS program are meant to be easily transferred to a four-year college. (See PG. 964 for information on transferring credits.)

The “Applied” degrees (AAA and AAS), on the other hand, are more geared toward preparing students for a particular career. Therefore, these programs emphasize more technical and vocational skills. AAAs and AASs are the college degree equivalent of CTE certificates.

---

HOW CAN I DECIDE IF AN ASSOCIATE DEGREE IS RIGHT FOR ME, AND WHICH TYPE I SHOULD GET?

An AA or AS degree may be a good choice if your main priority is not just to gain practical job skills, but also to sharpen your academic skills, explore diverse areas of study, and engage in critical analysis. They may also be a good choice if you intend to continue on to get your bachelor’s degree, but you want to save on costs. When you transfer your AA or AS credits to a four-year college, you can get up to half of the required credits for your bachelor’s degree at a fraction of the cost.\textsuperscript{2501}

An AAA or AAS degree may be a good choice for you if you want to learn technical skills for a specific occupation, but you also want to have a college degree (not just a certificate). These degrees are also good for you if you want the technical, practical skills to work now, but you think that you might eventually want to get a higher college degree.\textsuperscript{2502}

\textbf{NOTE:} In California, all public (state-funded) universities are required to guarantee a number of openings for students transferring from California Community Colleges (one transfer student for every two freshman admitted).
This means that you have a good chance of getting into a California State University or a University of California school if you transfer in from a community college.\textsuperscript{2503}

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST TO EARN AN ASSOCIATE DEGREE?

The cost of earning an Associate degree varies greatly depending on the institution that you enroll in.

\begin{itemize}
\item In California, public community colleges are among the most economical choices for earning a college degree. Technically, there is no tuition, however, there are enrollment fees that are charged per credit-unit that you take.

\end{itemize}
At the time of publication, the enrollment fee for California residents is $46 per credit-unit. This per-unit enrollment fee is for California residents and is the same for all public community colleges across the state.

* Full-time enrollment is generally 12 credit-units per week (1 credit-unit = 1 hour of class time), but you can take more or less if you like. (You may be eligible for a waiver of this fee, see PG. 979 for information on waiving community college enrollment fees.)

Private community colleges and four-year colleges are the most expensive options (costs vary greatly, but may be several thousands of dollars).

IMPORTANT: Tuition or per-unit fees do not include other costs associated with enrolling in a college program such as books, school supplies, and transportation.

HOW DO I FIND AN ASSOCIATE DEGREE PROGRAM?

If you're currently incarcerated:

In a federal prison: Federal correctional facilities offer Associate degrees through the Occupational Education Program. Programs vary by facility, so check your Unit Team to find out what Associate degree programs are available in your facility.

In a California state prison: Currently, San Quentin State Prison is the only CDCR facility that offers an in-facility Associate degree program. If you are housed in any other facility, your only options may be Distance Education (see PG. 965 for more information) or correspondence courses (see PG. 969 for more information).

In a California county jail: Education programs vary greatly across county facilities. You will need to check with your facility's education department to see if any Associate degree programs are offered. (Note: Because of the time commitment required by college degree programs, many county jail facilities, which generally house people only for limited periods of time, may not offer them. However, this may be changing as people who are sentenced under realignment find themselves serving more extended county jail sentences.)

If you're formerly incarcerated:

- Research schools and programs at your local public library
- Visit an America’s Job Center of California (see PG. 914 for information on America’s Job Centers).
- Search for your local community college on the Internet:
  - California Community Colleges Chancellor’s Office at http://www.cccco.edu/.

BACHELOR’S DEGREE PROGRAMS

WHAT IS A BACHELOR’S DEGREE? HOW CAN IT HELP ME?

Bachelor’s degrees are offered by four-year colleges and universities. Bachelor’s degree programs are designed to take four years of full-time study to complete, however, many students choose to complete them in five years, and part-time students may take even longer. Students are required to take a variety of general education courses, plus several courses in a specific area of study called a major, that the student chooses. A bachelor’s degree can be a stepping-stone toward earning a graduate or professional degree, and is required for many high-salary, high-status jobs.2508

<td>• Courses are academically rigorous, and may be difficult for people who have been out of school for a long time</td>
</tr>
<tr>

<td>• Class schedules tend to be less flexible, making it harder to juggle other obligations</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• Makes you eligible for more scholarships and grants</td>
<td>• Programs can be expensive—higher tuition and fees can lead to more student debt</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

WHAT TYPES OF BACHELOR’S DEGREES ARE THERE?

There are two main kinds of Bachelor’s degrees: Bachelor of Arts (BA) degrees and Bachelor of Science (BS) degrees.2509 BAs are awarded for programs of study that focus on areas within the liberal arts, humanities, or social studies (such as English, Psychology, or History). BSs are awarded for programs of study that focus on areas within the “hard” sciences, such as Math, Biology, Chemistry, or Physics.2510

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST TO EARN A BACHELOR’S DEGREE?

Bachelor’s degrees from four-year colleges and universities are expensive. They can cost in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Most people require financial assistance from federal or state student aid programs, or from private organizations to pay their tuition. (For information on Paying for College, see PG. 974.)
NOTE ON PUBLIC VS. PRIVATE SCHOOLS

Both public and private colleges and universities offer Bachelor’s degree programs. Public schools are partially funded by government taxes and usually charge lower tuition (especially for in-state residents). They tend to have a larger student population and larger class sizes. Private schools are generally more expensive, and tend to focus on keeping classes small and exposing students to many different subjects.

NOTE: Most schools require that you have lived in California for a certain period of time in order to get the discounted “resident” or “in-state” tuition rate. Some schools will consider time that you spent incarcerated in California towards this requirement. Check with your school’s admissions and financial aid offices to find out if your period of incarceration qualifies you as a California resident under that school’s policy.

HOW DO I FIND A BACHELOR’S DEGREE PROGRAM?

If you’re currently incarcerated

- Earn college credits. Unfortunately, at the time of this publication, there currently are no four-year Bachelor’s degree programs offered in federal, state, or county correctional facilities in California, and correspondence courses that advertise four-year degrees should not be trusted. However, you can earn college credits while you are incarcerated which can be applied toward a four-year degree after you are released. (For information on how to earn college credits while you are incarcerated, see Associate Degree Programs, PG. 956, and Distance Education, PG. 965.](#)
  (For information on how to transfer college credits that you earn while you are incarcerated, see PG. 929.)

- Plan and Prepare. There is plenty you can do to plan and prepare for your post-release education while you are still incarcerated. You can research schools (see PG. 949), complete applications (see PG. 938), take placement tests (see PG. 934), and apply for financial aid (see PG. 974).

If you’re formerly incarcerated

- Visit your public library and ask the librarian to show you to the section on college guides.
- Search colleges and universities on the Internet. You can search based on location, cost, program or degree options, or rankings.

APPLYING TO COLLEGE

If you have decided that you want to apply to a four-year college or university, there are several documents you will need to gather or prepare, as well as other tasks you will need to complete before you apply.

WHAT WILL I NEED TO APPLY FOR COLLEGE?

You will need the following important documents:

- The Application (see PG. 962)
- Fee Payment or Fee Waiver Form (see PG. 962)
- High School Credential (see PG. 940)
- Transcripts for any high school or college coursework you’ve done (see PG. 940)
- Letters of Recommendation and personal references (see PG. 964)
- College Admissions Test Scores (see PG. 962)
- Immunization/Vaccination Records (see PG. 918)

The Application

Depending on the program and the school you are applying to, there may be a formal school-specific application you must complete or there may be a general application that is good for several schools. This will depend on the school you are applying to, so be sure to ask whether there is a specific application you must complete or if there is a general application available.

Fee Payment or Fee Waiver

Almost all schools require a payment in order to process your application. This fee may range anywhere from $20—80. But don’t be discouraged! Many schools also offer fee waivers. To see whether or not you qualify for a fee waiver, first look at the school’s website and see if you can find information as to how to apply for a fee waiver. You may also call the school’s admission office and ask for one directly. But be sure to do this EARLY as many schools may run out of the number of fee waivers they can provide to students. If you receive a fee waiver, you do not have to pay this application fee but instead will include proof of the waiver with your application.

College Admissions Tests

SAT & ACT. The SAT and ACT are standardized college admissions tests. Almost everyone who applies to a four-year college or university must take one of these tests. Schools use applicants’ scores on these exams to make admissions decisions. The SAT covers math, reading, and writing, and focuses more on vocabulary and how well you can reason. It’s more popular with private schools, and with schools on the East and West coasts. The ACT covers math, English, science, and reading, and focuses more on how much you know about the subjects being tested. It’s more popular with public schools, and with schools in the South and the Midwest. (See Appendix C, PG. 990, for more details on ACT policies.)

Tips for Students to Consider Before Enrolling at a Private Postsecondary School, CAL. DEP’T OF CONSUMER AFFAIRS BUREAU FOR PRIVATE POSTSECONDARY EDUC., www.bppe.ca.gov/students/tips.shtml.

WHAT IF I CAN'T TAKE IT BECAUSE I AM INCARCERATED?

If you are unable to take the SAT or ACT while you are incarcerated, you can still study and prepare for either test so that you are ready to be tested as soon as you are released.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST TO TAKE THESE TESTS?

The registration fee for the 2015-2016 SAT is $54.50 for the full test, and $43.00 if you do not take the essay portion. The registration fee for the ACT is $54.50 for the full test, and $38 if you do not take the writing portion. Before you sign up for either test, confirm which test the school you are applying to accepts, and whether it requires you to take the full test.

HOW DO I SIGN UP FOR THESE TESTS?

If you're currently incarcerated:

- The SAT has no established procedure for allowing people who are incarcerated to take the test. You should check with your facility's Education Department to see if you can arrange to take the SAT. On the other hand, the ACT specifically allows people who are incarcerated to register for and take the test. This is called “arranged testing.” To ask for arranged testing, you will need to get and submit ACT’s “Request for Arranged Testing” form. You can get a copy of this form by calling the ACT Arranged Testing Line at 319-337-1510 or by writing to: ACT Arranged Testing, 301 ACT Drive, P.O. Box 168, Iowa City, IA 52243-0168.
- This form is also available online at http://www.actstudent.org/faq/confined.html (if you have someone who can download it for you).

If you're formerly incarcerated:

- SAT—You can register online at http://sat.collegeboard.org/register/. You can also request a paper registration form by writing to: College Board SAT Program P.O. Box 025505 Miami, FL 33102, or by calling (866) 756-7346.
- ACT—You can register online at http://www.actstudent.org/register/. You can also request a Register-By-Mail packet by writing to: ACT Student Services, 2727 Scott Blvd., minizip 46, P.O. Box 414, Iowa City, IA 52243-0414 or by calling (319) 337-1270 (See Appendix C, PG. 990, for more details on ACT policies).

HOW DO I PREPARE FOR THE SAT OR THE ACT?

If you're currently incarcerated...

- Check your facility's library for SAT and ACT test preparation guides and materials.
- The College Board (the company that makes the SAT) offers free sample tests and questions for study preparation. You can request these materials by writing to: College Board SAT Program, P.O. Box 025505, Miami, FL 33102 or by calling SAT Program Customer Service at (866) 756-7346.

ACT offers a free guide for preparing for the test. You can request a copy by writing to: ACT Student Services, 2727 Scott Blvd., minizip 46, P.O. Box 414, Iowa City, IA 52243-0414 or by calling ACT at (319) 337-1270.

You can purchase test preparation guides and materials for both tests from approved online vendors such as amazon.com and Barnes & Noble.

If you’re formerly incarcerated:

- Check your local library for SAT and ACT test preparation guides and materials.
- You can also buy these guides at almost any bookstore and from online retailers such as amazon.com. You can also check used bookstores which may sell previous versions of these guides at a discount. (NOTE: These tests are constantly changed and updated. To make sure that you’re studying the right material, do not buy guides that are more than a couple of years out of date.)
- Free SAT resources, including practice tests and questions, are available online at www.sat.collegeboard.org/practice/.
- ACT’s free test preparation guide is available online at http://www.actstudent.org/testprep/.

LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION

Letters of recommendation positively describe your character traits, accomplishments, and qualifications, and recommend that you be accepted to a program, school, or job. They can be written by past employers, case managers, supervisors, community leaders, or teachers (but not your family members). They should include each person’s relationship to you, company name and job title, and contact information.

EARNING & TRANSFERRING COLLEGE CREDITS—GOOD OPTIONS IF YOU ARE INCARCERATED

If you completed any Career & Technical Education (CTE) or college-level courses, whether before, during or after your incarceration, you may be able to apply the credit you earned from those courses toward a CTE certificate or a college degree. This is called “transferring” credits. The new school you enroll in recognizes the work you did previously (either while incarcerated or at your previous school), and does not make you retake those classes in order to earn your degree.

Generally, CTE programs and community colleges will accept credit from correspondence courses or other programs you completed while incarcerated. Four-year colleges and universities may accept some of these credits, depending on the program. Four-year colleges generally accept transfer credits earned at community colleges. Each school will have a different policy for applying transfer credits toward a certificate or degree program.

---

NOTE: Generally, you must have completed the course within the last 10 years and earned a C or better for a school to give you credit for it. Also, you cannot transfer credits from a non-accredited program to an accredited program. (See PG. 938 for information on “accreditation.”)

HOW CAN I FIND OUT IF MY CREDITS WILL TRANSFER?

The best way to make sure that your credits will transfer to your new school is to call or write to the new school’s Registrar Office directly and ask. There are also online resources that may help you find out if and where you can transfer your credits. These include:

- ASSIST (http://www.assist.org/)—shows how credits earned at one public California college can be applied when transferred to another.
- CollegeTransfer.net (https://www.collegetransfer.net/)—walks you through transfer options at all education levels.

HOW DO I TRANSFER MY CREDITS?

Once you make sure that your credits will transfer to the school you want to attend, the transfer process is simple. When you are applying to your new school, you will need to request your official transcripts from any college or program that you attended in the past, and have them sent to your new school. You must request your official transcripts—the official record of your grades from the school’s administration records. To find out how to request your official transcripts, contact the admissions and records office of the school you attended.

NOTE: If you earned college credit while incarcerated, you will need to contact the school that provided the course or program to request a copy of your official transcripts. You do not get them from the facility where you were incarcerated.

DISTANCE EDUCATION

WHAT IS DISTANCE EDUCATION?

Distance Education (also called Distance Learning) is an education program that uses various technologies to deliver instruction to students who are separated from the teacher. It is a way for students to take a formal course of study (high school, vocational, or college-level) without having to travel to the classroom. Although the students and the teachers are separated, the hallmark of Distance Education is regular and substantial interaction between them. Distance Education courses usually incorporate multiple forms of media, including printed materials, CDs or DVDs, audio recordings, telephone communication, audio or 2531 ANNA CRAYTON & NICOLE LINDAHL, BACK TO SCHOOL: A GUIDE TO CONTINUING YOUR EDUCATION AFTER PRISON, PRISONER REENTRY INSTITUTE, JOHN JAY COLLEGE OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE (2010).

video conferencing, email, and Web-casts and Internet streaming. There are two types of Distance Education interaction modes: “synchronous” and “asynchronous” instruction.\(^{2533}\)

HOW DO THE TWO TYPES OF DISTANCE EDUCATION WORK?

Synchronous instruction means that all of the students and the instructor(s) participate in the class at the same time, even though they are not in the same place. This is usually done through “live” teleconferencing, video conferencing, web conferencing, or Internet chats. The class is given at a set time, and everyone calls or logs in at that time to participate. Synchronous courses can offer a level of interactivity similar to that of a traditional face-to-face class.\(^{2534}\)

Asynchronous instruction does not require that the student(s) and the instructor(s) participate at the same time. Students choose when they want to study the course materials or interact with the instructor(s). Asynchronous instruction is more flexible than synchronous instruction, but offers less interactivity because it is not “live.” In asynchronous instruction, course materials and communications are often delivered via CDs or DVDs, by traditional mail correspondence, or through e-mails, listservs and Internet downloads.\(^{2535}\)

BEWARE: Distance Education programs can vary in quality and legitimacy (quality of instruction can be low, credits/degrees may not be recognized by other schools or programs). Some programs are outright scams. (For information on how to tell if a program is a scam, see Choosing Your Educational Path, PG. 929).\(^{2537}\)

WHAT CREDENTIALS CAN I EARN THROUGH DISTANCE EDUCATION?

Thanks to the Internet, you can earn pretty much any credential through a Distance Education program that you can earn through a traditional educational program.\textsuperscript{2537} This includes high school degrees and equivalency certificates, CTE certificates and degrees, associate and bachelor’s degrees, and even graduate academic and professional degrees. Distance Education programs are offered in most major CTE and college degree program areas. Program quality does vary greatly, however.

\textbf{WARNING:} While many accredited, reputable schools offer credential programs through Distance education, there are also plenty of scam programs that will take your money and leave you with a useless piece of paper. \end{center}

HOW DO I FIND AND ENROLL IN A DISTANCE EDUCATION PROGRAM?

If you're currently incarcerated:

- Ask your Correctional Counselor, or the staff of your facility’s education department for information on available programs (Note: Because of the technology requirements of Distance Education programs, they may not be available at your facility);
- Request information on accredited Distance Education programs that may be available to people incarcerated in California facilities by writing to the California Department of Education, Adult Education Office, 1430 N Street, Suite 4202, Sacramento, CA 95814 or by calling (916) 322-2175.

If you’re formerly incarcerated:

- Check your local public library for information on schools that offer Distance Education programs (these programs have become very popular and are offered to some extent at most schools).
- Check with local community colleges to see if they offer courses through Distance Education.
- Visit your local America’s Job Centers of California for information on Distance Education programs and the institutions that offer them.
- Check these online resources:
  - California Virtual Campus (http://www.cvc.edu/students/)—offers a step-by-step guide to Distance Education in California;
  - California Department of Education, Adult Education (http://www.cde.ca.gov/sp/ae/)
  - The Distance Education Accrediting Commission, Directory of Accredited Institutions at: www.deac.org.

ACCREDITATION OF DISTANCE EDUCATION PROGRAMS

There are numerous commercial websites that advertise hundreds of Distance Education programs and schools in the U.S. and abroad. However, keep in mind that schools and programs pay to be listed on these websites. This means that when you search these sites, only those that have paid will come up—you will not see the rest of the schools and programs out there, so the results of your search will be limited. Also, many of these websites claim that they only list “accredited” schools and programs, however, you should always do your own research to make sure that a school or Distance Education program is 1) legitimate and 2) recognized by an approved accrediting agency. (For more information on accreditation and scam programs, see Choosing Your Educational Path, PG. 929.)

HOW MUCH DO DISTANCE EDUCATION PROGRAMS COST?

The cost of Distance Education programs varies based on the type of program, the delivery media, and the institution that it is offered through. Programs offered through four-year colleges and more prestigious schools will be more expensive than those offered through local community colleges.

---

2538 See DISTANCE LEARNING PORTAL, http://www.distancelearningportal.com; see also ONLINE DEGREES PROGRAM, http://www.onlinedegreeprograms.com, see also ALLONLINESCHOOLS, http://www.allonlineschools.com.
TWO IMPORTANT THINGS TO NOTE ABOUT PAYING FOR DISTANCE EDUCATION:

1) Distance Education and Fee Waivers

Distance Education programs offered through California community colleges may qualify for an enrollment fee waiver through the California Community Colleges Board of Governor’s Fee Waiver program. (For more information on this program and how to qualify, see Paying For Your Education, PG. 974.)

2) Distance Education and Financial Aid

You may be able to get financial aid to help you pay for your Distance Education courses. Only accredited Distance Education institutions are allowed to participate in federal financial aid programs. Even if a school or program is eligible to participate, it must choose to do so. To find out if financial aid is available for a particular school or program, check with that institution’s financial aid office (For more information on financial aid, see Paying For Your Education, PG. 974).

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

A correspondence course is a course offered by a school or program, where the student is separated from the teacher and course materials are provided through the mail or over the Internet. There is very little interaction between the student and the teacher; communication is usually initiated by the student (whenever the student wants), and students work at their own pace. Although there are some similarities, correspondence courses are not considered a type of distance education under federal law (see the table below for key differences).

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN DISTANCE EDUCATION AND CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

Although these two terms seem similar and are often confused, they refer to two different learning situations. Distance Education is generally an option that requires Internet access. Although Distance Education is one option to earn credit, due to the need of media/Internet access, it may not be a possible option for an individual who is currently incarcerated.

2539 34 C.F.R. § 600.2.
WHAT CREDENTIALS CAN I EARN THROUGH CORRESPONDENCE COURSES?

Like with Distance Education programs, you can earn pretty much any credential that you can earn through traditional schooling through a correspondence course. This includes high school degrees and equivalency certificates, CTE certificates and degrees, associate and bachelor’s degrees, and even graduate academic and professional degrees.

Program quality does vary greatly, however. While many accredited schools offer credential programs through correspondence courses, this is where you are most likely to see scam programs offering bogus higher education degrees. (For more information on spotting correspondence course scams, see Choosing Your Educational Path, PG. 929).

HOW DO I FIND AND ENROLL IN A CORRESPONDENCE PROGRAM?

If you’re currently incarcerated:

If you are interested in taking a correspondence course while you are incarcerated, your facility’s education department should be able to provide information and guidance.

A great and well-known resource for researching correspondence programs from inside is the Prisoners’ Guerrilla Handbook to Correspondence Programs in the United States and Canada by Jon Marc Taylor. It is a comprehensive guide to correspondence courses available to incarcerated people, providing detailed program overviews and contact information. At the time of this publication, the handbook is in its 3rd edition, published in 2009 (International Standard Book Number (ISBN): 978-0981938509). Check your facility’s library or education department. It is also available from http://www.amazon.com and Barnes & Noble (both are CDCR approved vendors). You can also write to the publisher for information on ordering the book: Biddle Publishing Company and Audenreed Press, P.B.M. 103, Box 1305, Brunswick, ME 04011.

Also, see Appendix D, PG. 995 for a listing of schools that have a history of successfully offering correspondence courses to incarcerated individuals (working within correctional facility restrictions).

Student Responsibilities for Correspondence Courses

If you enroll in a correspondence course while you are incarcerated, you will be responsible for getting all of the required textbooks and materials yourself. You may also be responsible for finding a “proctor” at your institution to administer any midterm or final exams. A proctor is someone who watches over you while you take your exam to make sure that you are the one actually taking the exam, and that you do not cheat.

If you’re formerly incarcerated:

• See Appendix D, PG. 995 for a list of schools known to offer correspondence courses;
• Check your local public library for information on schools that offer correspondence courses;
• Visit your local America’s Job Centers of California and ask about correspondence programs.

NOTE: Once you have returned to the community, you will have access to more resources, including the Internet, than when you were incarcerated. We recommend that you take advantage of interactive Distance Education programs or traditional face-to-face programs, as these tend to offer a richer and more integrated educational experience than correspondence courses.

Paying for Correspondence Course

You may be eligible to receive financial aid to pay for your correspondence study, but it depends on the school you are taking courses through. Because of federal regulations, schools that offer primarily correspondence courses are not eligible to participate in federal financial aid programs. If more than 50% of the courses the institution offers are correspondence courses, or more than 50% of the students enrolled are taking correspondence courses, then the school is not eligible for federal financial aid. Additionally, a school is not eligible if more than 25% of its students are incarcerated.\(^\text{2541}\) (For more information on financial aid, see Paying For Your Education, PG. 974.)

GRADUATE ACADEMIC AND PROFESSIONAL DEGREE PROGRAMS

These degrees are offered at four-year colleges and universities and at graduate academic and professional schools. You must have a Bachelor’s degree before you can move on to pursue a graduate academic or professional degree. Students studying to earn one of these degrees must take highly advanced and specialized courses in a specific academic or professional field. It generally takes two years of full-time study for a master’s degree, and three to four years of full-time study for a doctorate degree.

• Graduate academic degree programs require advanced study in an academic field. They emphasize theory, as opposed to practical application, with the goal of contributing to the body of knowledge on a subject. Master of Arts

\(^\text{2541}\) 34 C.F.R. § 600.2.
(M.A.) and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) are examples of graduate academic degrees.

- Graduate professional degree programs require advanced study in a professional or vocational field. They emphasize the practical application of knowledge to a professional practice, and are usually required in order to get a license to work in that profession. Master of Engineering (M.E.) and Doctor of Medicine (M.D.) are examples of graduate professional degrees.

WHERE CAN I FIND INFORMATION ABOUT GRADUATE PROGRAMS?

Your local public library should have various books and guides about graduate academic and professional schools and the programs they offer. These are also available from most book-sellers. You can also contact the alumni services center of the college where you got your undergraduate degree for information and help on searching for and applying to graduate academic and professional schools.
V. PAYING FOR YOUR EDUCATION

HOW WILL I PAY FOR MY EDUCATION?

THINGS TO CONSIDER:

• How much money will it take to reach your goals?
• What are the various costs involved, and how can you reduce them?
• What extra challenges might you face because of your criminal history, and how can you address them?
• This chapter will help you think practically about these questions. As the following sections explain, even if you have limited resources, there are ways you can reduce your costs and get help covering your educational expenses.

WHAT IS FINANCIAL AID?

“Financial aid” is the general term for any type of funding intended to help students pay for educational expenses. This is the most common way that people fund their education.

WHAT KINDS OF FINANCIAL AID ARE THERE?

There are many different types of financial aid available from a variety of resources. The basic categories are:

• Borrowed aid—federal government and private loans;
• Gift aid—federal and state grants, waivers and scholarships;
• Self-help aid—federal work study, earned service benefits, other work during school;
• Specialty aid programs—military & veteran programs, tax benefits, community service awards, foster care youth aid, etc.

WHERE DOES FINANCIAL AID COME FROM?

The federal government, state governments, organizations, businesses, and agencies offer financial aid of one or more types. Generally, financial aid providers fall into the following broad categories:

• The Federal Government—Grants, loans, work-study;
• The State (California)—Grants, loans and loan forgiveness for residents’ in-state education expenses;
• Individual Schools or Programs—Grants, loans, & Scholarships from the educational institution itself;

• Nonprofit or Private Organizations—Scholarships & awards based on many factors, such as merit, achievements, or membership to the group or organization.

These categories of aid are discussed in detail below.

FEDERAL STUDENT AID

WHAT KINDS OF FEDERAL STUDENT AID MIGHT BE AVAILABLE TO ME?

Federal student aid is probably the most common type of financial aid that people rely on to help them pay for school. Most federal student aid is offered through the Department of Education. (For detailed information on federal student aid, visit the Federal Student Aid website at: https://studentaid.ed.gov/) Federal student aid includes:

- Federal Grants—Grants do not have to be repaid unless 1) you drop out of school, or 2) your GPA falls below a certain minimum (usually specified in the grant).

  - Federal Pell Grant—This is the largest grant program available in the United States. Grants are awarded based on financial need.

  - Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG)—This grant is a supplement to the Pell Grant. It is reserved only for those students who already received a Pell Grant, but need more aid. The government gives a set amount of money to the schools that want to participate in the program, and the schools then give this grant to the students who have the most financial need. You must have been offered a Pell Grant to be eligible for this grant.

- Federal Loans—These are loans made to you by the federal government. They usually have lower interest rates and more flexible repayment options than regular loans. The amount you are allowed to borrow depends on the cost of the school you want to go to, your financial need, and what other aid you get. Since these are loans, you will have to pay the money back!

  - Direct Loan—The U.S. Dep’t of Educ. lends you the money directly.

  - Federal Perkins Loan—A school-based loan program where the school lends you money if you show exceptional financial need.

- Federal Work-Study—Work-study allows you to earn money through part-time employment (on or off campus) while you are in school. If you are awarded work-study aid, you are guaranteed to earn a certain amount of work-study funds as long as you have a work-study approved job (however, you cannot earn more than that amount).

Other federal student aid programs outside of the Department of Education include:

- Aid for serving in the military or for being the spouse or child of a veteran;
- Tax benefits for education;

---

• Education Award for community service with Americorps;
• Education and Training Vouchers for current and former foster care youth;
• Scholarships and loan repayment through the Department of Health and Human Services;
• Indian Health Service;
• National Institutes of Health;
• National Health Services Corp.

WILL MY CRIMINAL HISTORY AFFECT MY ABILITY TO GET FEDERAL STUDENT AID?

Maybe. It depends on the circumstances of your offense, the type of aid you are applying for, and your incarceration status. The following is a summary of the possible implications of a criminal record on your federal student aid eligibility.

Drug Convictions:
If you were convicted of possession or sale of a controlled substance (felony or misdemeanor) while you were already receiving federal student aid, you will be ineligible to receive federal student aid funds for a specified period of time. The length of time you are ineligible depends on the type and number these convictions you have, and whether or not you have fulfilled any rehabilitation requirements. (For detailed information on federal student aid and drug convictions, see Appendix E, PG. 997.)

Sex Offense Convictions:
If you have been convicted of a forcible or non-forcible sex offense and you are subject to an involuntary civil commitment after your incarceration for that offense, you are ineligible to receive a Federal Pell Grant. However, you are still eligible for other types of federal student aid.

Currently Incarcerated:
Unfortunately, while you are incarcerated, you are directly prohibited from getting certain kinds of federal aid (by law), and indirectly banned from some of the others (by logistics). However, once you are released, most of these restrictions are lifted and you become eligible to receive all forms of federal aid. You can even apply before your release so that your aid will be ready by the time you start school.

IMPORTANT: If you’re incarcerated, do not fill out the FAFSA unless you know you are going to be released in time to attend school that same year. FAFSA information is only good for one year. (Everyone who applies for federal student aid must complete a new FAFSA every year.)

On Parole or Probation

You are free to apply for all forms of federal student aid, including those you couldn’t get while you were incarcerated. However, the drug and sex offense restrictions still apply (see above).2556

CAN I GET FEDERAL STUDENT AID WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

While you are confined to an adult correctional facility or juvenile justice facility, your eligibility for federal student aid is limited, depending on what type of aid you are seeking and where you are incarcerated.2557 However, this is not as bad as it sounds, since most of the programs available to you while you are incarcerated are either free, or do not qualify for financial aid in the first place. And remember, while you cannot receive most financial aid while you are incarcerated, you can still apply for financial aid so that the money is waiting for you when you get out.2558

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR FEDERAL GRANTS WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

Maybe, it depends on where you are confined.2559

• If you’re in federal or state penal institution, you CANNOT receive Federal Pell Grants.
• If you are in a local, municipal, or county correctional facility (i.e. jail), you MAY be eligible for a Federal Pell Grant (if you meet the other requirements).
• If you are committed to a juvenile justice facility and you otherwise meet the requirements, you ARE eligible for a Pell Grant.

NOTE: In order to be eligible for the Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG) you must have already received a Pell Grant. Therefore, if you are not eligible for a Pell Grant because you are incarcerated, then by default, you are also not eligible for a FSEOG.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR FEDERAL STUDENT LOANS WHILE I AM INCARCERATED?

No. Anyone who is considered “incarcerated” cannot receive federal student loans.2560

Unfortunately, for this purpose, you are considered incarcerated if you are serving a sentence in a penitentiary, prison, jail, reformatory, work farm, or similar correctional institution, whether it is operated by the government or a private contractor. You are also considered to be incarcerated if you have been committed to a juvenile justice facility.

2556 Federal Student Aid; Students With Criminal Convictions, U.S. Dept’ of Educ.

You are not considered to be incarcerated if you are in a halfway house, on home detention, sentenced to serve only on weekends, or if you are confined while your case is still pending (such as while you are awaiting trial).

REMEMBER: Even though you are not eligible to receive federal student loans while you are incarcerated, you can still apply for them so that your application can be processed and they will be available in time for you to start school once you are released.1977 (For information on applying for federal student aid, see Pg. 977. The application process is the same whether you are incarcerated or not.)

IMPORTANT: If you’re incarcerated, you should not fill out the FAFSA unless you know you are going to be released in time to attend school that year. FAFSA information is only good for one year. (Everyone who applies for federal student aid must complete a new FAFSA every year.)

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR FEDERAL WORK-STUDY (FWS) WHILE I AM INCARCERATED?

Technically, yes, but in reality, no. While you are not ineligible for FWS because you are incarcerated, logistics alone will likely prevent you from being awarded this type of aid. It is difficult, if not impossible, for you to perform a FWS job while incarcerated.2562

CAN I GET FEDERAL STUDENT AID WHILE I AM ON PAROLE OR PROBATION?

Once you are released, you become fully eligible for federal student aid again. Your status on parole, probation, or under any other type of supervision does not affect your eligibility. However, any general restrictions based on your conviction history (drug/sex offenses) still apply.2563

HOW DO I APPLY FOR FEDERAL STUDENT AID?

Everyone who applies for federal student financial aid must start by filling out the Free Application for Student Aid (FAFSA). Not only does the FAFSA give you access to federal student aid (the largest source of financial aid), but most states and individual schools also use the FAFSA to determine what state or school-based financial aid you may be eligible for.

- If you have internet access, you can fill out the FAFSA online at: https://studentaid.ed.gov/;
If you want to fill out the paper version, you can get the form from most local public libraries or from the financial aid office of the school you want to attend. (There is a sample version of the 2015-2016 FAFSA provided in Appendix F, PG. 999);

You can also call the Federal Student Aid Information Center (FSAIC): 1 (800) 4-FED-AID (1-800-433-3243) to request a copy.

WHAT INFORMATION WILL I NEED TO FILL OUT THE FAFSA?

The FAFSA asks you for basic personal identifying information such as your name, date of birth, and address, as well as for information about your financial situation. Some of the information and documents you may need are:

• Your social security number;
• Your driver license number (if you have one);
• Your Alien Registration number if you are not a U.S. citizen (For a full list of eligible noncitizens, visit https://fafsa.ed.gov/help/fotw15a.htm, or see Appendix G, PG. 1010);
• Federal tax information or tax returns including IRS W-2 information;
• Records of any untaxed income, such as child support received, interest income, and veterans non-education benefits that you received in the last year;
• Information on cash; savings and checking account balances; investments, including stocks and bonds and real estate (but not the home you live in); and business and farm assets.

WHEN SHOULD I APPLY FOR FEDERAL FINANCIAL AID?

The FAFSA must be filled out at the beginning of the year in which you intend to start school. It becomes available on January 1, and although technically there is no deadline, try to fill it out as soon as possible after that date. Each state and every individual school has its own deadline by which it must receive FAFSA information in order to include federal funds in the financial aid package that it offers you.

IMPORTANT: If you're incarcerated, you should not fill out the FAFSA unless you know you are going to be released in time to attend school that year. FAFSA information is only good for one year. (Everyone who applies for federal student aid must complete a new FAFSA every year.)

CALIFORNIA STATE STUDENT AID

WHAT KINDS OF STATE-BASED STUDENT AID MIGHT BE AVAILABLE TO ME?

• Cal Grant—This is a group of several grants awarded by the California Student Aid Commission. They are based on financial need, GPA, and educational objectives. Cal Grants are the largest source of California state funded student financial aid.2565

---

• California Community Colleges Board of Governor's Fee Waiver—This program waives the $46-per-credit-unit enrollment fee that all California community colleges charge.

• Chafee Grant—This is a special financial aid grant for people who are or were in foster care. For more information on this grant, visit the California Student Aid Commission website at: https://www.chafee.csac.ca.gov/default.aspx.

• California Dream Act—This allows eligible undocumented and nonresident documented students apply for and receive private scholarships funded through public universities, state-administered financial aid, university grants, community college fee waivers, and Cal Grants. For more information, visit the California Student Aid Commission website at: http://www.csac.ca.gov/dream_act.asp.

CAL GRANTS

The Cal Grant program is the largest source of student financial aid in California. If you are a California graduating high school student, a recent graduate, or you just got your GED, and you meet academic, financial and eligibility requirements, then you may qualify for a Cal Grant for college or career/technical school.

AM I ELIGIBLE FOR A CAL GRANT?

There are several grants offered within the Cal Grant program, and each has its own specific requirements, but there are some general requirements that they all share. For example, you must:

• Submit the FAFSA or California Dream Act Application at http://www.csac.ca.gov/dream_act.asp and your current GPA;

• Be a U.S. citizen or eligible non-citizen or meet California Dream Act criteria;

• Be a California resident or meet California Dream Act criteria;

• Attend a qualifying California college and be enrolled at least half time;

• Have financial need based on your income and college costs;

• Maintain a minimum GPA.2566

NOTE: If you don't have a GPA to submit, the California Student Aid Commission will use your GED, ACT or SAT test scores instead to determine if you qualify for a Cal Grant.2567

For more information on Cal Grants, visit the California Student Aid Commission’s special Cal Grants website at: http://www.calgrants.org/ or Appendix H, PG. 1011. You can also call the Commission at (888) 224-7268 or write to:

California Student Aid Commission
Attn: Cal Grants
P.O. Box 419026
Rancho Cordova, CA 95741-9026

BOARD OF GOVERNOR’S FEE WAIVER (BOGFW): WAIVING ENROLLMENT FEES FOR CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY COLLEGES FOR LOW INCOME STUDENTS

The Board of Governor’s Fee Waiver program waives enrollment fees for California Community Colleges for qualified low-income students. If you qualify for this waiver, you can go to community college for free (NOTE: you will still have to pay for other education expenses, such as course materials and supplies).

HOW DO I KNOW IF I QUALIFY FOR BOGFW?2568

First, to qualify for the Board of Governors Fee Waiver, you must be a California resident. If you are a California resident, you must also qualify based on one of several other criteria, for example, if you receive government benefits or fall into an eligible income bracket. (For a full list of BOGFW qualifications, see Appendix I, PG. 1012; for a 2015-16 BOGFW Application, see Appendix J, PG. 1015.)

WILL MY CRIMINAL HISTORY DISQUALIFY ME FROM STATE-BASED STUDENT AID?

Maybe. If you are still incarcerated, you are disqualified from receiving any type of Cal Grant financial aid.2569 Additionally, certain drug convictions may make you ineligible for a Board of Governor’s Fee Waiver.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR STATE-BASED STUDENT AID?

In order to apply for California-based financial aid, you will need to fill out either the FAFSA (see above) or the California Dream Act application, and submit your certified GPA to the Student Aid Commission. For detailed instructions on how to apply for state-based financial aid in California, visit the California Student Aid Commission website at: http://consumerfinance.gov/, or speak to a counselor in your school’s financial aid office.

SCHOOL-BASED FINANCIAL AID

WHAT KINDS OF SCHOOL-BASED AID MIGHT BE AVAILABLE TO ME?

Many colleges and universities have their own financial aid programs and may offer scholarships, grants, loans, or work-study programs directly. Eligibility for school-based aid programs can be based on financial need, merit, or a variety of other qualifications. You should contact the financial aid offices of the schools you are interested in to find out what financial aid might be available from the individual schools. Some schools have more financial aid funding available and may be able to offer you a more substantial award. This may be an important factor in your decision about which school you want to attend.

WILL MY CRIMINAL HISTORY DISQUALIFY ME FROM SCHOOL-BASED FINANCIAL AID?

Again, this varies by school. Each school will have its own guidelines and qualifications for the various types of financial aid it offers. Remember, even if your criminal history disqualifies you for some types of aid, you may still be eligible for others, so it is important to ask.

SCHOLARSHIPS

WHAT KINDS OF SCHOLARSHIPS MIGHT BE AVAILABLE TO ME?

Many private organizations and agencies offer scholarships, usually to students meeting certain qualifications or having certain characteristics. These scholarships may be need-based or merit-based (if you have a high GPA or test scores). They may also be based on cultural, religious, ethnic, racial, national identity, political, religious, or ideological beliefs, or based on your chosen academic or career field.

HOW DO I FIND AND APPLY FOR SCHOLARSHIPS?

The best place to start is the financial aid office at the school you plan on attending. The financial aid counselors on staff can help you search for scholarships that you may qualify for.

Other resources for information on scholarships include:

- Catalogs, such as Scholarships, Fellowships, and Loans and Peterson’s Scholarships and Loans for Adult Learners, which can be found at your public library.
- The following websites offer information on many types of scholarships:
  - U.S. DEP’T OF EDUC.: https://studentaid.ed.gov
  - College Board: https://bigfuture.collegeboard.org
  - CollegeNet: http://www.collegenet.com
  - CollegeToolkit.com: http://www.collegenet.com
  - Fastweb: http://www.fastweb.com
  - FinAid: http://www.finaid.org
  - Go College: http://www.gocollege.com
  - Sallie Mae Scholarship Service: http://www.salliemae.com
  - Scholarships.com: https://www.scholarships.com
A Note on Scholarships: Be creative when you search for scholarships. They are awarded for all kinds of reasons and can be based on almost any criteria. Often funders do not even advertise that they offer them. You may even find scholarships specifically targeted at helping currently and formerly incarcerated people pursue higher education.

WILL MY CRIMINAL HISTORY DISQUALIFY ME FROM SCHOLARSHIPS?

Not necessarily. Most scholarship applications do not ask for criminal history information. So, as long as you qualify for the scholarship otherwise, your criminal record should not be a factor in whether or not you can get it. If a scholarship application does ask for your criminal history, there’s usually no harm in applying anyway, and it won’t affect any other scholarships you apply for.

For example, an organization called the Transcending Through Education Foundation (TTF) in Rhode Island offers $1,000 scholarships for people who are currently incarcerated or recently released from Rhode Island DEPT of Corrections facilities to pursue a higher education degree. See TRANSCENDING THROUGH EDUC., Incarcerated Students Encouraged to Apply for TTF’s College Scholarship, http://transcendingthrougheducation.wordpress.com.
VI. CONCLUSION

Getting an education is probably the single most important gift you can give yourself. It will open doors for you and help secure a future that is stable, fulfilling, and rewarding—both financially and personally. In this chapter, we aimed to show you some practical steps that should help you along your educational path. We hope that we have inspired you to step onto that path with confidence and enthusiasm!

Policies for ACT Testing

See next page.
Eligibility Policy
ACT reviews requests for Arranged Testing for examinees who qualify under the following conditions:

- Religious faith prohibits Saturday Testing AND a non-Saturday test center is not scheduled within 75 miles of the home for ANY test date.
- Lives in a country where ACT does not have a test center scheduled for ANY test date.
- Note: Examinees are encouraged to travel to a test center in a nearby country if there is a center scheduled within reasonable traveling distance.
- Examinees in the US, US territories, Puerto Rico, and Canada who do not have a test center scheduled within 75 miles of their home for ANY test date.
- Examinees confined to a hospital or the home due to medical reasons, or to a correctional institution, on ALL test dates.

ACT will NOT consider Arranged Testing for any other reason or if any of the above conditions are not met.

Test Options
- The ACT (No Writing) is made up of four multiple-choice tests in English, mathematics, reading, and science.
- The ACT Plus Writing includes the four multiple-choice tests plus a 30-minute Writing Test.
- Taking the Writing Test does not affect the subject area scores or the Composite scores. For more information about the ACT Writing Test, visit www.actstudent.org.

Fees
- The basic test fee covers one report to your high school and up to four college choices at the time of registration.
- Payments must be in the form of a check* or money order payable to ACT in US dollars and drawn on a US bank.
- If eligible, examinees may pay with a fee waiver

*This is notification that when you pay by check you are authorizing ACT, Inc., to convert your check to an electronic entry. When we use this information from your check to make an electronic funds transfer, funds may be withdrawn from your account as soon as the same day you make your payment, and you will not receive your check back from your financial institution. If your check is returned to us due to insufficient or uncollected funds, it may be re-presented electronically and your account will be debited.

If a Request is postmarked after the regular deadline but received before the late deadline it will be processed for the preferred test date IF the Late Registration fee is included.

Testing for Students with Disabilities
ACT does not provide any test accommodations through Arranged Testing. Review Students with Disabilities at www.actstudent.org for eligibility requirements and instructions for requesting accommodations through National or Special Testing.

Deadlines
Submit the Request for ACT Arranged Testing as early as possible to provide ample time for review and follow-up correspondence. The request and payment must be postmarked (received, if outside the US or Canada) no later than the deadline listed for the preferred testing window on the request form.

Response from ACT
- If the request form is missing any information, signatures, or full payment, the request will not be processed.
- If Arranged Testing is approved by ACT, test materials will be shipped to arrive no later than one week prior to the first day of the testing window.
- The examinee will not receive an admission ticket.

If an Approved Examinee Does Not Test
- The test for the ACT is nonrefundable once the examinee is approved, even if he or she does not test.
- An examinee is considered “tested” if they break the seal on their test booklet or open the booklet.
- Examinees who do not test may request the following:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Test Date Change</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The examinee and test coordinator must sign a written request specifying the new testing window and submit it with payment of the Test Date Change fee.</td>

<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Test Date Change requests will not be considered until after ACT receives the unused test materials.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Refund for Optional Services
- An examinee who registered and paid for the ACT Plus Writing who does not take the Writing Test may request a refund of the Writing Test fee by writing to Arranged Testing.
- Refunds are not issued until after ACT received the unused test materials. Refund requests for the 2014-2015 testing year received after July 31, 2015 will not be honored.

Retesting
Each time an examinee wishes to test through Arranged Testing, a new request form must be submitted with full payment for the preferred test option and any required supporting documentation.

Arranged Testing Coordinator

- It is the examinee’s responsibility to ask a teacher or counselor at the high school, college, or university he or she is currently attending to serve as the test supervisor. (If the examinee is not currently attending school, ACT recommends contacting the testing department at a nearby college or university.)
- The test coordinator must meet all of the following criteria:
  1. Be proficient in English.
  2. Be experienced.
  3. Be a staff member of the institution where testing takes place.
  4. Have control over locked, limited-access storage at the institution to secure the test materials.
  5. Agree to administer the tests according to policies and procedures in this manual.
- To protect both the examinee and the test coordinator from questions of possible conflict of interest, the following conditions must also be met. The test coordinator must:
  6. Not be a relative or guardian of the examinee.
  7. Not be a private consultant or individual tutor whose fees are paid by the examinee or examinee’s family.
  8. Not be engaged in test preparation activities for ACT during the current academic year.
  9. Not be involved in coaching high school or college athletics (required only if the examinee participates in athletics).
  10. Not receive any compensation outside of ACT for administering the test.
- Test scores achieved under the supervision of an individual who does not satisfy ALL requirements listed above will be cancelled automatically without refund.

Compensation

- Only the person who administers the tests will be compensated.
- ACT will notify the test coordinator of the compensation amount after Arranged Testing is approved.
- ACT treats all testing staff as independent contractors. Therefore, wages are not subject to income tax withholding and Social Security deductions.
- ACT reports the income to the IRS only if payments to an individual exceed $600 in a given year.
- A payment report form will be sent with the test materials.

Assignment of Test Materials

- Test materials may be used only for the examinee(s) listed on the Test Materials Distribution List and may not be transferred to any other location or examinee.
- If the examinee(s) does (do) not test, the test materials must be returned to ACT immediately with an explanation as to why the materials were unused.

Answer Folder(s)

- A Universal Answer Folder for each examinee will be shipped to the test coordinator.
- Identifying information (required), responses to the ACT Interest Inventory and Student Profile Section (optional sections), and college choices (up to six) must be recorded on this folder prior to test day.
- Answers to the multiple-choice tests will be recorded on this answer folder on test day.
- If the examinee is taking the ACT Plus Writing, a Universal Plus Writing Answer Folder will also be included.

Scheduling the Administration

- Testing Windows.
  Arranged Testing must be administered in a single session on one day during one of the designated windows listed on the request form.
- Testing Time.
  - Schedule testing at a time mutually agreeable to the examinee and test coordinator.
  - Allows an uninterrupted session of approximately 3 ½ hours for the ACT (No Writing) or 4 hours for the ACT Plus Writing.
  - ACT prefers that testing be scheduled as the first activity of the morning.
- Breaks.
  - Testing procedures allow a short break after the second test.
  - Examinees taking the ACT Plus Writing will have time to relax and sharpen their pencils before the Writing Test.
  - The test session may NOT be interrupted by longer breaks for meals or other activities. If it is, the answer document will not be scored or scores will be cancelled.
- Test Location.
  - If the examinee is taking the ACT Plus Writing, a Universal Plus Writing Answer Folder will also be included.
  - Score Reports
    - Reports for the ACT (No Writing) are normally mailed within 2-8 weeks after ACT receives the answer folders.
    - Reports for the ACT Plus Writing are normally mailed within 5-8 weeks.
    - The Test Location is reported as “School”.

- Test Location.
  - If the student is confined to the home or another location, request authorization from ACT to administer the tests at that location. Attach a statement to the request form explaining why the alternate location is necessary and document your plans for securely transporting the test materials and ensuring standardized testing conditions at the proposed location.

Score Reports

- Reports for the ACT (No Writing) are normally mailed within 2-8 weeks after ACT receives the answer folders.
- Reports for the ACT Plus Writing are normally mailed within 5-8 weeks.
- The Test Location is reported as “School”.

FINANCIAL AID INQUIRIES

Financial Aid Past Default on Loans should be directed to 1-800-433-3243 or 1-800-621-3115. Students should ask what their standing is and nothing more.

STATE LICENSURE AND REGISTRATION WITH THE STATE FOR CAREERS IN MEDICAL FIELD AND CLEARANCE FOR INTERNSHIPS/APPRENTICESHIPS

Many students have questioned the potential to be able to advance a career in specific fields/majors that require state licensure, registration with the state, or internships for units that necessitate clearance/background checks. We have found that each student should understand the "concern" when using ones criminal history against them. Depending on the type of credentials one is trying to pursue, each entity will look at the relevance of the crime in lieu of the career/licensure, (e.g. if you were convicted of manufacturing methamphetamine, applying for pharmacy school or becoming a pharmacy technician may not be the route to take), however we have come across state entities that have utilized one's juvenile record and were attempting to reject state licensure based on moral turpitude for having a criminal history in general. In order to combat this each student must be proactive in developing a healthy source of documentation on the contrary in order to detract from the legal distractions that do not have any relevance to the path contemplated and are used solely for the purposes of discouraging students from applying for a specific cause. We have successfully assisted students in receiving such state licensure but it indeed can be a battle, which can be overcome.
SCHOOLS THAT ACCEPT THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS FEE WAIVER:

- Coastline Community College offers distance-learning courses leading to an associate’s degree. Contact: Distance Learning Dept. APPENDIX E

More Information about Eligibility for Federal Student Aid and Drug Convictions

If you were convicted of possession or sale of a controlled substance while you were already receiving federal student aid, you will be ineligible to receive federal student aid for a specified period of time. This is true whether your conviction was a felony or a misdemeanor. The length of time you are ineligible depends on the type and number of convictions you have had for these offenses committed while you were receiving aid. The law differentiates between “possession of illegal drugs” and “sale of illegal drugs.” The table below lists the period of ineligibility by type of conviction, either possession or sale of a controlled substance and number of offenses:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>OFFENSE</th>
<th>POSSESSION OF ILLEGAL DRUGS</th>
<th>SALE OF ILLEGAL DRUGS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>FIRST</td>
<td>1 year of ineligibility from date of conviction</td>
<td>2 years of ineligibility from date of conviction</td>

<td>Indefinite period of ineligibility*</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THREE OR MORE</td>
<td>Indefinite period of ineligibility*</td>
<td>Indefinite period of ineligibility*</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*An indefinite period of ineligibility continues unless your conviction is overturned or otherwise rendered invalid, or you meet one of the two early reinstatement requirements (see below).

YOU CAN SHORTEN YOUR PERIOD OF INELIGIBILITY BY:
  • Successfully completing an approved drug rehabilitation program that includes passing two unannounced drug tests; or
  • Passing two unannounced drug tests administered by an approved drug rehabilitation program; or
  • Having the conviction expunged, reversed, set aside, or otherwise rendered invalid (learn more about expungement in the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 1020).

HOW ELIGIBILITY IS DETERMINED...

There is a question on the application for federal student aid that asks whether you have been convicted of possession or sale of a controlled substance while receiving federal student aid. If you answer yes, or leave this question blank, you will be sent an additional worksheet that you must fill out in order to...

---

2574 See Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).
determine if you are eligible for federal student aid. This worksheet will yield one of three results:

1) You are currently eligible for federal student aid;
2) You are not eligible for federal student aid for part of the current school year; OR
3) You are not eligible for federal student aid for the entire current school year.

REMEMBER: Even if you are not currently eligible for student aid (either for part or all of the current school year), you can become eligible if you complete an acceptable drug rehabilitation program OR pass two random (unannounced) drug tests administered by an acceptable drug rehabilitation program.
APPENDIX F

Sample version of the 2015-2016 Free Application for Student Aid (FAFSA)

See next page.
Use this form to apply free for federal and state student grants, work-study, and loans. Or apply free online at www.fafsa.gov.

Applying by the Deadlines
For federal aid, submit your application as early as possible, but no earlier than January 1, 2015. We must receive your application no later than June 30, 2016. Your college must have your correct, complete information by your last day of enrollment in the 2015-2016 school year. For state or college aid, the deadline may be as early as January 2015. See the table to the right for state deadlines. You may also need to complete additional forms. Check with your high school guidance counselor or a financial aid administrator at your college about state and college sources of student aid and deadlines.

If you are filing close to one of these deadlines, we recommend you file your FAFSA online at www.fafsa.gov. This is the fastest and easiest way to apply for aid.

Using Your Tax Return
We recommend that you complete and submit your FAFSA as soon as possible on or after January 1, 2015. If you (or your parents) need to file a 2014 income tax return with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), and have not done so yet, you can submit your FAFSA now using estimated tax information, and then you must correct that information after you file your return.

The easiest way to complete or correct your FAFSA with accurate tax information is by using the IRS Data Retrieval Tool through www.fafsa.gov. In a few simple steps, most students and parents who filed a 2014 tax return can view and transfer their tax return information directly into their FAFSA.

Note: Both parents or both the student and spouse may need to report income information on the FAFSA if they did not file a joint tax return for 2014. For assistance with answering the income information questions in this situation, call 1-800-4-FED-AID (1-800-433-3243).

Filling Out the FAFSA
If you or your family experienced significant changes to your financial situation (such as loss of employment), complete this form to the extent you can and submit it as instructed. Consult with the financial aid office at the college(s) you applied to or plan to attend. For help in filling out the FAFSA, go to www.studentaid.gov/completefafsa or call 1-800-433-3243. TTY users (for the hearing impaired) may call 1-800-730-8913.

Fill the answer fields directly on your screen or print the form and complete it by hand. Your answers will be read electronically; therefore if you complete the form by hand:

- use black ink and fill in circles completely.
- print clearly in CAPITAL letters and skip a box between words.
- report dollar amounts (such as $12,356.41) like this: $12,356.41

Yellow is for student information and purple is for parent information.

Mailing Your FAFSA
After you complete this application, make a copy of pages 3 through 8 for your records. Then mail the original of pages 3 through 8 to:

Federal Student Aid Programs, P.O. Box 7002, Mt. Vernon, IL 62864-0072.

After your application is processed, you will receive a summary of your information in your Student Aid Report (SAR). If you provide an e-mail address, your SAR will be sent by e-mail within three to five days. If you do not provide an e-mail address, your SAR will be mailed to you within three weeks. If you would like to check the status of your FAFSA, go to www.fafsa.gov or call 1-800-433-3243.

Let’s Get Started:
Now go to page 3 of the application form and begin filling it out. Refer to the notes as instructed.
Notes for question 8 (page 3)
Enter your Social Security Number (SSN) as it appears on your Social Security card. If you are a resident of the Freely Associated States (i.e., the Republic of Palau, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, or the Federated States of Micronesia) and were issued an identification number beginning with “666” when submitting a FAFSA previously, enter that number here. If you are a first-time applicant from the Freely Associated States, enter “666” in the first three boxes of the SSN field and leave the remaining six positions blank and we will create an identification number to be used for federal student aid purposes.

Notes for questions 14 and 15 (page 3)
If you are an eligible noncitizen, write in your eight- or nine-digit Alien Registration Number. Generally, you are an eligible noncitizen if you are (1) a permanent U.S. resident with a Permanent Resident Card (I-551), (2) a conditional permanent resident with a Conditional Green Card (I-515), (3) the holder of an Arrival-Departure Record (I-94) from the Department of Homeland Security showing any one of the following designations: “Refugee,” “Asylum Granted,” “Parolee” (I-94 confirms that you were paroled for a minimum of one year and status has not expired), T-Visa holder (T-1, T-2, T-3, etc.), or “Cuban-Haitian Entrant”; or (4) the holder of a valid certification or eligibility letter from the Department of Health and Human Services showing a designation of “Victim of human trafficking.”

If you are in the U.S. and have been granted Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA), an F1 or F2 student visa, a J1 or J2 exchange visitor visa, or a G series visa (pertaining to international organizations), select “No, I am not a citizen or eligible noncitizen.” You will not be eligible for federal student aid if you have a Social Security Number but are not a citizen or an eligible noncitizen, including if you have been granted DACA, you should still complete the FAFSA because you may be eligible for state or college aid.

Notes for questions 16 and 17 (page 3)
Report your marital status as of the date you sign your FAFSA. If your marital status changes after you sign your FAFSA, check with the financial aid office at the college. Consistent with the Supreme Court decision holding Section 3 of the Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA) unconstitutional, same-sex couples must report their marital status as married if they were legally married in a state or other jurisdiction (foreign country) that permits same-sex marriage, without regard to where the couple resides.

Notes for questions 21 and 22 (page 3)
To be eligible for federal student aid, male citizens and male immigrants residing in the U.S. aged 18 through 25 are required to register with the Selective Service System, with limited exceptions. This requirement applies to any person assigned the sex of male at birth. The Selective Service System and the registration requirement for males preserve America’s ability to provide resources in an emergency to the U.S. Armed Forces (Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, or Coast Guard). For more information about the Selective Service System, visit www.sss.gov. Forms are available at your local U.S. Post Office.

and 81 (page 6)
If youfiled or will file a foreign tax return, a tax return with Puerto Rico, another U.S. territory (e.g., Guam, American Samoa, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Swain’s Island or the Northern Marianas Islands) or one of the Freely Associated States, use the information from that return to fill out this form. If you filed a foreign return, convert all monetary units to U.S. dollars, using the exchange rate that is in effect today. To view the daily exchange rate, go to www.federalreserve.gov/releases/h10/current.

In general, a person is eligible to file a 1040A or 1040EZ if he or she makes less than $100,000, does not itemize deductions, does not receive alimony. A person is not eligible to file a 1040A or 1040EZ if he or she makes $100,000 or more, itemizes deductions, receives income from his or her own business or farm, is self-employed, receives alimony or is required to file Schedule D for capital gains. If you filed a 1040 only to claim the American Opportunity Tax Credit or Lifetime Learning Tax Credit, and you would have otherwise been eligible to file a 1040A or 1040EZ, answer “Yes” to this question. If you filed a 1040 and were not required to file a tax return, answer “Yes” to this question.

Notes for questions 38 (page 4) and 87 (page 7) — Notes for those who filed a 1040EZ
On the 1040EZ, if a person didn’t check either box on line 5, enter 01 if he or she is single or has never been married, or 02 if he or she is married. If a person checked either the “you” or “spouse” box on line 5, use 1040EZ worksheet line F to determine the number of exemptions ($3,950 equals one exemption).

Notes for questions 42 and 43 (page 4), 45 (page 5), and 91 and 92 (page 7)
Net worth means current value minus debt. If net worth is negative, enter 0.

Investments include real estate (do not include the home in which you live), rental property (includes a unit within a family home that has its own entrance, kitchen, and bath rented to someone other than a family member), trust funds, UGMA and UTMA accounts, money market funds, mutual funds, certificates of deposit, stocks, stock options, bonds, other securities, installment and land sale contracts (including mortgages held), commodities, etc.

Investments also include qualified educational benefits or education savings accounts (e.g., Coverdell savings accounts, 529 college savings plans and the refund value of 529 prepaid tuition plans). For a student who does not report parental information, the accounts owned by the student (and/or the student’s spouse) are reported as student investments in question 42. For a student who must report parental information, the accounts are reported as parental investments in question 91, including all accounts owned by the student and all accounts owned by the parents for any member of the household.

Money received, or paid on your behalf, also includes distributions to you (the student beneficiary) from a 529 plan that is owned by someone other than you or your parents (such as your grandparents, aunts, uncles, and non-custodial parents). You must include these distribution amounts in question 45.

Investments do not include the home you live in, the value of life insurance, retirement plans (401[k] plans, pension funds, annuities, non-education IRAs, Keogh plans, etc.) or cash, savings and checking accounts already reported in questions 41 and 90.

Investments also do not include UGMA and UTMA accounts for which you are the custodian, but not the owner. Investment value means the current balance or market value of these investments as of today. Investment debt means only those debts that are related to the investments.

Business and/or investment farm value includes the market value of land, buildings, machinery, equipment, inventory, etc. Business and/or investment farm debt means only those debts for which the business or investment farm was used as collateral.

Business value does not include the value of a small business if your farmmothers and controls more than 50 percent of the business and the business has 100 or fewer full-time or full-time equivalent employees. For small business value, your family includes (1) persons directly related to you, such as a parent, sister or cousin, or (2) persons who are or were related to you by marriage, such as a spouse, stepparent or sister-in-law.

Investment farm value does not include the value of a family farm that you (your spouse and/or your parents) live on and operate.

Notes for question 49 (page 5)
Answer “Yes” if you are currently serving in the U.S. Armed Forces or are a National Guard or Reserves enlistee who is on active duty for other than state or training purposes.
Answer “No” if you are a National Guard or Reserves enlistee who is on active duty for state or training purposes.

Answer “Yes” (you are a veteran) if you (1) have engaged in active duty (including basic training) in the U.S. Armed Forces, or are a National Guard or Reserves enlistee who was called to active duty for other than state or training purposes, or were a cadet or midshipman at one of the service academies, and (2) were released under a condition other than dishonorable. Also answer “Yes” if you are not a veteran now but will be one by June 30, 2016.
Answer “No” (you are not a veteran) if you (1) have never engaged in active duty (including basic training) in the U.S. Armed Forces, (2) are currently an ROTC student or a cadet or midshipman at a service academy, (3) are a National Guard or Reserves enlistee activated only for state or training purposes, or (4) were engaged in active duty in the U.S. Armed Forces but released under dishonorable conditions.
Also answer “No” if you are currently serving in the U.S. Armed Forces and will continue to serve through June 30, 2016.

Notes continued on page 9.
Step One (Student): For questions 1-31, leave any questions that do not apply to you (the student) blank.

1. Last name

2. First name

3. Middle initial

Your permanent mailing address

4. Number and street (include apt. number)

5. City (and country if not U.S.)

6. State

7. ZIP code

8. Your Social Security Number

9. Your date of birth

10. Your telephone number

Your driver’s license number and driver’s license state (if you have one)

11. Driver’s license number

12. Driver’s license state

13. Your e-mail address. If you provide your e-mail address, we will communicate with you electronically. For example, when your FAFSA has been processed, you will be notified by e-mail. Your e-mail address will also be shared with your state and the colleges listed on your FAFSA to allow them to communicate with you. If you do not have an e-mail address, leave this field blank.

15. Alien Registration Number

16. What is your marital status as of today? See Notes page 2.

17. Month and year you were married, remarried, separated, divorced or widowed. See Notes page 2.

18. What is your state of legal residence?

19. Did you become a legal resident of this state before January 1, 2010?

20. If the answer to question 19 is “No,” give month and year you became a legal resident of that state.

22. If female, skip to question 23. Most male students must register with the Selective Service System to receive federal aid. If you are male, age 18-25 and not registered, fill in the circle and we will register you. See Notes page 2.

23. Have you been convicted for the possession or sale of illegal drugs for an offense that occurred while you were receiving federal student aid (such as grants, loans or work-study)? Answer “No” if you have never received federal student aid or if you have never had a drug conviction for an offense that occurred while receiving federal student aid. If you have a drug conviction for an offense that occurred while you were receiving federal student aid, answer “Yes,” but complete and submit this application, and we will mail you a worksheet to help you determine if your conviction affects your eligibility for aid. If you are unsure how to answer this question, call 1-800-433-3243 for help.

24. Highest school completed by Parent 1

25. Highest school completed by Parent 2

For questions 36–45, if the answer is zero or the question does not apply to you, enter 0. Report whole dollar amounts with no cents.

36. What was your (and spouse's) adjusted gross income for 2014? Adjusted gross income is on IRS Form 1040—line 37; 1040A—line 21; or 1040EZ—line 4.

37. Enter your (and spouse's) income tax for 2014. Income tax amount is on IRS Form 1040—line 56; 1040A—line 3; or 1040EZ—line 10.

38. Enter your (and spouse's) exemptions for 2014. Exemptions are on IRS Form 1040—line 6d or Form 1040A—line 6d. For Form 1040EZ, see Notes page 2.

Questions 39 and 40 ask about earnings (wages, salaries, tips, etc.) in 2014. Answer the questions whether or not a tax return was filed. This information may be on the W-2 forms, or on IRS Form 1040—lines 7 + 12 + 18 + Box 14 (Code A) of IRS Schedule K-1 (Form 1065); on 1040A—line 7; or on 1040EZ—line 1. If any individual earning item is negative, do not include that item in your calculation.

39. How much did you earn from working in 2014?

40. How much did your spouse earn from working in 2014?

41. As of today, what is your (and spouse's) total current balance of cash, savings and checking accounts? Don't include student financial aid.

42. As of today, what is the net worth of your (and spouse's) investments, including real estate? Don't include the home you live in. Net worth means current value minus debt. See Notes page 2.

43. As of today, what is the net worth of your (and spouse's) current businesses and/or investment farms? Don't include a family farm or family business with 100 or fewer full-time or full-time equivalent employees. See Notes page 2.
Step Two CONTINUED from page 4

44. Student’s 2014 Additional Financial Information (Enter the combined amounts for you and your spouse.)
   a. Education credits (American Opportunity Tax Credit and Lifetime Learning Tax Credit) from IRS Form 1040—line 50 or 1040A—line 33.
   b. Child support paid because of divorce or separation or as a result of a legal requirement. Don’t include support for children in your household, as reported in question 95.
   c. Taxable earnings from need-based employment programs, such as Federal Work-Study and need-based employment portions of fellowships and assistantships.
   d. Taxable student grant and scholarship aid reported to the IRS in your adjusted gross income. Includes AmeriCorps benefits (awards, living allowances and interest accrual payments), as well as grant and scholarship portions of fellowships and assistantships.
   e. Combat pay or special combat pay. Only enter the amount that was taxable and included in your adjusted gross income. Don’t include untaxed combat pay.
   f. Earnings from work under a cooperative education program offered by a college.

45. Student’s 2014 Untaxed Income (Enter the combined amounts for you and your spouse.)
   a. Payments to tax-deferred pension and retirement savings plans (paid directly or withheld from earnings), including, but not limited to, amounts reported on the W-2 forms in Boxes 12a through 12d, codes D, E, F, G, H and S. Don’t include amounts reported in code DD (employer contributions toward employee health benefits).
   b. IRA deductions and payments to self-employed SEP, SIMPLE, Keogh and other qualified plans from IRS Form 1040—line 28 + line 32 or 1040A—line 17.
   c. Child support received for any of your children. Don’t include foster care or adoption payments.
   d. Tax exempt interest income from IRS Form 1040—line 8b or 1040A—line 8b.
   e. Untaxed portions of IRA distributions from IRS Form 1040—lines (15a minus 15b) or 1040A—lines (11a minus 12b). Exclude rollovers. If negative, enter a zero here.
   f. Untaxed portions of pensions from IRS Form 1040—lines (16a minus 16b) or 1040A—lines (12a minus 12b). Exclude rollovers. If negative, enter a zero here.
   g. Housing, food and other living allowances paid to members of the military, clergy and others (including cash payments and cash value of benefits). Don’t include the value of on-base military housing or the value of a basic military allowance for housing.
   h. Veterans noneducation benefits, such as Disability, Death Pension, or Dependency & Indemnity Compensation (DIC) and/or VA Educational Work-Study allowances.
   i. Other untaxed income not reported in items 45a through 45h, such as workers’ compensation, disability, etc. Also include the untaxed portions of health savings accounts from IRS Form 1040—line 25. Don’t include extended foster care benefits, student aid, earned income credit, additional child tax credit, welfare payments, untaxed Social Security benefits, Supplemental Security Income, Workforce Investment Act educational benefits, on-base military housing or a military housing allowance, combat pay, benefits from flexible spending arrangements (e.g., cafeteria plans), foreign income exclusion or credit for federal tax on special fuels.
   j. Money received, or paid on your behalf (e.g., bills), not reported elsewhere on this form. This includes money that you received from a parent whose financial information is not reported on this form and that is not part of a legal child support agreement. See Notes page 2.

Step Three (Student): Answer the questions in this step to determine if you will need to provide parental information. Once you answer “Yes” to any of the questions in this step, skip Step Four and go to Step Five on page 8.

46. Were you born before January 1, 1992? ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

47. As of today, are you married? (Also answer “Yes” if you are separated but not divorced.) ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

48. At the beginning of the 2015-2016 school year, will you be working on a master’s or doctorate program (such as an MA, MBA, MD, JD, PhD, EdD, graduate certificate, etc.)? ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

49. Are you currently serving on active duty in the U.S. Armed Forces for purposes other than training? See Notes page 2. ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

50. Are you a veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces? See Notes page 2. ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

51. Do you now have or will you have children who will receive more than half of their support from you between July 1, 2015 and June 30, 2016? ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

52. Do you have dependents (other than your children or spouse) who live with you and who receive more than half of their support from you, now and through June 30, 2016? ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

53. At any time since you turned age 13, were both your parents deceased, were you in foster care or were you a dependent or ward of the court? See Notes page 9. ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

54. As determined by a court in your state of legal residence, are you or were you an emancipated minor? See Notes page 9. ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

See Notes page 9. ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

57. At any time on or after July 1, 2014, did the director of an emergency shelter or transitional housing program funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development determine that you were an unaccompanied youth who was homeless or were self-supporting and at risk of being homeless? See Notes page 9. ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐

58. At any time on or after July 1, 2014, did the director of a runaway or homeless youth basic center or transitional living program determine that you were an unaccompanied youth who was homeless or were self-supporting and at risk of being homeless? See Notes page 9. ................................................................. Yes ☐ No ☐
Step Four (Parent): Complete this step if you (the student) answered “No” to all questions in Step Three.

Answer all the questions in Step Four even if you do not live with your legal parents (biological, adoptive, or as determined by the state [for example, if the parent is listed on the birth certificate]). Grandparents, foster parents, legal guardians, widowed stepparents, aunts and uncles are not considered parents on this form unless they have legally adopted you. If your legal parents are married to each other, or are not married to each other and live together, answer the questions about both of them. If your parent was never married or is remarried, divorced, separated or widowed, see Notes page 9 for additional instructions.

69. Your parents’ e-mail address. If you provide your parents’ e-mail address, we will let them know your FAFSA has been processed. This e-mail address will also be shared with your state and the colleges listed on your FAFSA to allow them to electronically communicate with your parents.

70. What is your parents’ state of legal residence?

71. Did your parents become legal residents of this state before January 1, 2016?

72. If the answer to question 71 is “No,” give the month and year legal residency began for the parent who has lived in the state the longest.

73. How many people are in your parents’ household?

Include:
- yourself, even if you do not live with your parents,
- your parents,
- your parents’ other children if (a) your parents will provide more than half of their support between July 1, 2015 and June 30, 2016, or (b) the children could answer “No” to every question in Step Three on page 5 of this form, and
- other people if they now live with your parents, your parents provide more than half of their support and your parents will continue to provide more than half of their support between July 1, 2015 and June 30, 2016.

74. How many people in your parents’ household (from question 73) will be college students between July 1, 2015 and June 30, 2016?

Always count yourself as a college student. Do not include your parents. Do not include siblings who are in U.S. military service academies. You may include others only if they will attend, at least half-time in 2015-2016, a program that leads to a college degree or certificate.

In 2013 or 2014, did you, your parents or anyone in your parents’ household (from question 73) receive benefits from any of the federal programs listed? Mark all that apply. Answering these questions will not reduce eligibility for student aid or these programs. TANF may have a different name in your parents’ state. Call 1-800-433-3243 to find out the name of the state’s program.

| 75. Supplemental Security Income (SSI) | 76. Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) | 77. Free or Reduced Price Lunch | 78. Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) | 79. Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) |

If your answer to question 59 was “Unmarried and both parents living together,” contact 1-800-433-3243 for assistance with answering questions 80-94.

80. For 2014, have your parents completed their IRS income tax return or another tax return listed in question 81?

- My parents have already completed their return.
- My parents will file but have not yet completed their return.
- My parents are not going to file. Skip to question 88.

81. What income tax return did your parents file or will they file for 2014?

- IRS 1040
- IRS 1040A or 1040EZ
- A foreign tax return. See Notes page 2.
- A tax return with Puerto Rico, another U.S. territory or Federally Associated State. See Notes page 2.

82. For 2014, what is or will be your parents’ tax filing status according to their tax return?

- Single
- Head of household
- Married—filed joint return
- Married—filed separate return
- Qualifying widow(er). See Notes page 2
- Don’t know

83. If your parents have filed or will file a 1040, were they eligible to file a 1040A or 1040EZ?

- Yes
- No
- Don’t know

84. As of today, is either of your parents a dislocated worker?

- Yes
- No
- Don’t know

Questions 88 and 89

Questions 88 and 89 ask about earnings (wages, salaries, tips, etc.) in 2014. Answer the questions whether or not a tax return was filed. This information may be on the W-2 forms, or on IRS Form 1040—lines 7 + 12 + 18 + Box 14 (Code A) of IRS Schedule K-1 (Form 1065); on 1040A—line 7; or on 1040EZ—line 1. If any individual earning item is negative, do not include that item in your calculation.

Step Five (Student): Complete this step only if you (the student) answered “Yes” to any questions in Step Three.

95. How many people are in your household?
Include:
• yourself (and your spouse);
• your children, if you will provide more than half of their support between July 1, 2015 and June 30, 2016, and
• other people if they now live with you, you provide more than half of their support and you will continue to provide more than half of their support between July 1, 2015 and June 30, 2016.

96. How many people in your (and your spouse’s) household (from question 95) will be college students between July 1, 2015 and June 30, 2016? Always count yourself as a college student. Include others only if they will attend, at least half-time in 2015-2016, a program that leads to a college degree or certificate.

In 2013 or 2014, did you (or your spouse) or anyone in your household (from question 95) receive benefits from any of the federal programs listed? Mark all that apply. Answering these questions will not reduce eligibility for student aid or these programs. TANF may have a different name in your state. Call 1-800-433-3243 to find out the name of the state’s program.

97. Supplemental Security Income (SSI)
98. Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)
99. Free or Reduced Price Lunch
100. Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF)
101. Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC)

102. As of today, are you (or your spouse) a dislocated worker? See Notes page 9.

Step Six (Student): Indicate which colleges you want to receive your FAFSA information.
Enter the six-digit federal school code and your housing plans. You can find the school codes at www.fafsa.gov or by calling 1-800-433-3243. If you cannot obtain the code, write in the complete name, address, city and state of the college. The information you report on the FAFSA is sent to each college listed, including the names of the other colleges listed. If you do not want this information sent to a particular college, do not list that school. For federal student aid purposes, it does not matter in what order you list your preferred colleges. For state aid, you may want to list your preferred college first. To find out how to have more colleges receive your FAFSA information, read What is the FAFSA? on page 10.

Step Seven (Student and Parent): Read, sign and date.

If you are the student, by signing this application you certify that you (1) will use federal and/or state student financial aid only to pay the cost of attending an institution of higher education, (2) are not in default on a federal student loan or have made satisfactory arrangements to repay it, (3) do not owe money back on a federal student grant or have made satisfactory arrangements to repay it, (4) will notify your college if you default on a federal student loan and (5) will not receive a Federal Pell Grant from more than one college for the same period of time.

If you are the parent or the student, by signing this application you certify that all of the information you provided is true and complete to the best of your knowledge and you agree, if asked, to provide information that will verify the accuracy of your completed form. This information may include U.S. or state income tax forms that you filed or are required to file. Also, you certify that you understand that the Secretary of Education has the authority to verify information reported on this application with the Internal Revenue Service and other federal agencies. If you sign any document related to the federal student aid programs electronically using a personal identification number (PIN), username and password, and/or any other credential, you certify that you are the person identified by that PIN, username and password, and/or other credential, and have not disclosed that PIN, username and password, and/or other credential to anyone else. If you purposely give false or misleading information, you may be fined up to $20,000, sent to prison, or both.

If you or your family paid a fee for someone to fill out this form or to advise you on how to fill it out, that person must complete this part.

Notes for question 53 (page 5)

Answer “Yes” if at any time since you turned age 13:

- You had no living parent, even if you are now adopted; or
- You were in foster care, even if you are no longer in foster care today; or
- You were a dependent or ward of the court, even if you are no longer a dependent or ward of the court today. For federal student aid purposes, someone who is incarcerated is not considered a ward of the court.

The financial aid administrator at your school may require you to provide proof that you were in foster care or a dependent or ward of the court.

Notes for questions 54 and 55 (page 5)

The definition of legal guardianship does not include your parents, even if they were appointed by a court to be your guardians. You are also not considered a legal guardian of yourself.

Answer “Yes” if you can provide a copy of a court’s decision that as of today you are an emancipated minor or are in legal guardianship. Also answer “Yes” if you can provide a copy of a court’s decision that you were an emancipated minor or were in legal guardianship immediately before you reached the age of being an adult in your state. The court must be located in your state of legal residence at the time the court’s decision was issued.

Answer “No” if you are still a minor and the court decision is no longer in effect or the court decision was not in effect at the time you became an adult.

The financial aid administrator at your college may require you to provide proof that you were an emancipated minor or in legal guardianship.

Notes for questions 56–58 (page 5)

Answer “Yes” if you received a determination at any time on or after July 1, 2014, that you were an unaccompanied youth who was homeless or at risk of being homeless.

- “Homeless” means lacking fixed, regular and adequate housing. You may be homeless if you are living in shelters, parks, motels or cars, or are temporarily living with other people because you have nowhere else to go. Also, if you are living in any of these situations and fleeing an abusive parent you may be considered homeless even if your parent would provide support and a place to live.

- “Unaccompanied” means you are not living in the physical custody of your parent or guardian.

- “Youth” means you are 21 years of age or younger or you are still enrolled in high school as of the day you sign this application.

Answer “No” if you are not homeless or at risk of being homeless, or do not have a determination. You should contact your financial aid office for assistance if you do not have a determination but believe you are an unaccompanied youth who is homeless or are an unaccompanied youth providing for your own living expenses who is at risk of being homeless.

The financial aid administrator at your college may require you to provide a copy of the determination if you answered “Yes” to any of these questions.

Notes for students unable to provide parental information on pages 6 and 7

Under very limited circumstances (for example, your parents are incarcerated; you have left home due to an abusive family environment; or you do not know where your parents are and are unable to contact them), you may be able to submit your FAFSA without parental information. If you are unable to provide parental information, skip Steps Four and Five, and go to Step Six. Once you submit your FAFSA without parental data, you must follow up with the financial aid office at the college you plan to attend, in order to complete your FAFSA.

Notes for Step Four, questions 59–94 (pages 6 and 7)

Review all instructions below to determine who is considered a parent on this form:

- If your parent was never married and does not live with your other legal parent, or if your parent is widowed or not remarried, answer the questions about that parent.
- If your legal parents (biological, adoptive, or as determined by the state [for example, if the parent is listed on the birth certificate]) are not married to each other and live together, select “Unmarried and both parents living together” and provide information about both of them regardless of their gender. Do not include any person who is not married to your parent and who is not a legal or biological parent.
  - Contact 1-800-433-3243 for assistance in completing questions 80-94.
- If your legal parents are married, select “Married or remarried.” Consistent with the Supreme Court decision holding Section 3 of the Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA) unconstitutional, same-sex couples must be reported as married if they were legally married in a state or other jurisdiction (foreign country) that permits same-sex marriage, without regard to where the couple resides. If your legal parents are divorced but living together, select “Unmarried and both parents living together.” If your legal parents are separated but living together, select “Married or remarried,” not “Divorced or separated.”
- If your parents are divorced or separated, answer the questions about the parent you lived with more during the past 12 months. (If you did not live with one parent more than the other, give answers about the parent who provided more financial support during the past 12 months or during the most recent year that you actually received support from a parent.) If this parent is remarried as of today, answer the questions about that parent and your stepparent.
- If your widowed parent is remarried as of today, answer the questions about that parent and your stepparent.

Notes for questions 84 (page 6) and 102 (page 8)

In general, a person may be considered a dislocated worker if he or she:

- is receiving unemployment benefits due to being laid off or losing a job and is unlikely to return to a previous occupation;
- has been laid off or received a lay-off notice from a job;
- was self-employed but is now unemployed due to economic conditions or natural disaster;
- is the spouse of an active duty member of the Armed Forces and has experienced a loss of employment because of relocating due to permanent change in duty station; or
- is the spouse of an active duty member of the Armed Forces and is a displaced homemaker (as described below); or
- is a displaced homemaker. A displaced homemaker is generally a person who previously provided unpaid services to the family (e.g., a stay-at-home mom or dad), is no longer supported by the spouse, is unemployed or underemployed, and is having trouble finding or upgrading employment.

Except for the spouse of an active duty member of the Armed Forces, if a person quits work, generally he or she is not considered a dislocated worker even if, for example, the person is receiving unemployment benefits.

Answer “Yes” to question 84 if your parent is a dislocated worker. Answer “Yes” to question 102 if you or your spouse is a dislocated worker.

Answer “No” to question 84 if your parent is not a dislocated worker. Answer “No” to question 102 if neither you nor your spouse is a dislocated worker.

Answer “Don’t know” to question 84 if you are not sure whether your parent is a dislocated worker. Answer “Don’t know” to question 102 if you are not sure whether you or your spouse is a dislocated worker. You can contact your financial aid office for assistance in answering these questions.

The financial aid administrator at your college may require you to provide proof that your parent is a dislocated worker, if you answered “Yes” to question 84, or that you or your spouse is a dislocated worker, if you answered “Yes” to question 102.
What is the FAFSA®?

Why fill out a FAFSA?

The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is the first step in the financial aid process. You use the FAFSA to apply for federal student aid, such as grants, work-study, and loans. In addition, most states and colleges use information from the FAFSA to award nonfederal aid.

Why all the questions?

The questions on the FAFSA are required to calculate your Expected Family Contribution (EFC). The EFC measures your family’s financial strength and is used to determine your eligibility for federal student aid. Your state and the colleges you list may also use some of your responses. They will determine if you may be eligible for school or state aid, in addition to federal aid.

How do I find out what my Expected Family Contribution (EFC) is?

Your EFC will be listed on your Student Aid Report (SAR). Your SAR summarizes the information you submitted on your FAFSA. It is important to review your SAR to make sure all of your information is correct and complete. Make corrections or provide additional information, as necessary.

How much aid will I receive?

Using the information on your FAFSA and your EFC, the financial aid office at your college will determine the amount of aid you will receive. The college will use your EFC to prepare a financial aid package to help you meet your financial need. Financial need is the difference between your EFC and your college’s cost of attendance (which can include living expenses), as determined by the college. If you or your family have unusual circumstances that should be taken into account, contact your college’s financial aid office. Some examples of unusual circumstances are: unusual medical or dental expenses or a large change in income from last year to this year.

When will I receive the aid?

Any financial aid you are eligible to receive will be paid to you through your college. Typically, your college will first use the aid to pay tuition, fees and room and board (if provided by the college). Any remaining aid is paid to you for your other educational expenses. If you are eligible for a Federal Pell Grant, you may receive it from only one college for the same period of enrollment.

How can I have more colleges receive my FAFSA information?

If you are completing a paper FAFSA, you can only list four colleges in the school code step. You may add more colleges by doing one of the following:

1. After your FAFSA has been processed, go to FAFSA on the Web at www.fafsa.gov. Click the “Login” button on the home page to log in to FAFSA on the Web, then click “Make FAFSA Corrections.”

2. Use the Student Aid Report (SAR), which you will receive after your FAFSA is processed. Your Data Release Number (DRN) verifies your identity and will be listed on the first page of your SAR. You can call 1-800-433-3243 and provide your DRN to a customer service representative, who will add more school codes for you.

3. Provide your DRN to the financial aid administrator at the college you want added, and he or she can add their school code to your FAFSA.

Note: Your FAFSA record can only list up to ten school codes. If there are ten school codes on your record, any new school codes that you add will replace one or more of the school codes listed.

Where can I receive more information on student aid?

The best place for information about student financial aid is the financial aid office at the college you plan to attend. The financial aid administrator can tell you about student aid available from your state, the college itself and other sources.

- You can also visit our web site StudentAid.gov.
- For information by phone you can call our Federal Student Aid Information Center at 1-800-433-3243. TTY users (for the hearing impaired) may call 1-800-730-8913.
- You can also check with your high school counselor, your state aid agency or your local library’s reference section.

Information about other nonfederal assistance may be available from foundations, religious organizations, community organizations and civic groups, as well as organizations related to your field of interest, such as the American Medical Association or American Bar Association. Check with your parents’ employers or unions to see if they award scholarships or have tuition payment plans.

Information on the Privacy Act and use of your Social Security Number

We use the information that you provide on this form to determine if you are eligible to receive federal student financial aid and the amount that you are eligible to receive. Sections 483 and 484 of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended, give us the authority to ask you and your parents these questions, and to collect the Social Security Numbers of you and your parents. We use your Social Security Number to verify your identity and retrieve your records, and we may request your Social Security Number again for those purposes.

State and institutional student financial aid programs may also use the information that you provide on this form to determine if you are eligible to receive state and institutional aid and the need that you have for such aid. Therefore, we will disclose the information that you provide on this form to each institution you list in questions 103a - 103h, state agencies in your state of legal residence and the state agencies of the states in which the colleges that you list in questions 103a - 103h are located.

If you are applying solely for federal aid, you must answer all of the following questions that apply to you: 1-9, 14-16, 18, 21-23, 26, 28-29, 32-37, 39-59, 61-68, 70, 73-86, 88-102, 104-105. If you do not answer these questions, you will not receive federal aid.

Without your consent, we may disclose information that you provide to entities under a published “routine use.” Under such a routine use, we may disclose information to third parties that we have authorized to assist us in administering the above programs; to other federal agencies under computer matching programs, such as those with the Internal Revenue Service, Social Security Administration, Selective Service System, Department of Homeland Security, Department of Justice and Veterans Affairs; to your parents or spouse; and to members of Congress if you ask them to help you with student aid questions.

If the federal government, the U.S. Department of Education, or an employee of the U.S. Department of Education is involved in litigation, we may send information to the Department of Justice, or a court or adjudicative body, if the disclosure is related to financial aid and certain conditions are met. In addition, we may send your information to a foreign, federal, state, or local enforcement agency if the information that you submitted indicates a violation or potential violation of law, for which that agency has jurisdiction for investigation or prosecution. Finally, we may send information regarding a claim that is determined to be valid and overdue to a consumer reporting agency. This information includes identifiers from the record; the amount, status and history of the claim; and the program under which the claim arose.

State Certification

By submitting this application, you are giving your state financial aid agency permission to verify any statement on this form and to obtain income tax information for all persons required to report income on this form.

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

According to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, no persons are required to respond to a collection of information unless such collection displays a valid OMB control number. The valid OMB control number for this information collection is 1845-0001. Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average two hours per response, including time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collection of information. The obligation to respond to this collection is voluntary. If you have comments or concerns regarding the status of your individual submission of this form, please contact the Federal Student Aid Information Center, P.O. Box 84, Washington, D.C. 20004 directly. [Note: Please do not return the completed form to this address.]

We may request additional information from you to process your application more efficiently. We will collect this additional information only as needed and on a voluntary basis.
APPENDIX G

Non-U.S. Citizens Eligible For Federal Financial Aid

If you fall in one of the categories below, you are considered an “eligible noncitizen.”

1) You are a:
   a. U.S. national (includes natives of American Samoa or Swains Island)
      or
   b. U.S. permanent resident with a Form I-551, I-151, or I-551C
      (Permanent Resident Card, Resident Alien Card, or Alien Registration Receipt Card), also known as a green card.

2) You have an Arrival-Departure Record (I-94) from U.S. Citizen and Immigration Services (USCIS) showing a. “Refugee,”
   b. “Asylum Granted,”
   c. “Cuban-Haitian Entrant (Status Pending),”
   d. “Conditional Entrant” (valid only if issued before April 1, 1980), or
   e. “Parolee” (you must be paroled for at least one year, and you must be able to provide evidence from the USCIS that you are not in the United States for a temporary purpose and that you intend to become a U.S. citizen or permanent resident).

3) You hold a T-visa (for victims of human trafficking) or your parent holds a T-1 visa. Your college or career school’s financial aid office will ask to see your visa and/or certification letter from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

4) You are a “battered immigrant-qualified alien” who is a victim of abuse by your citizen or permanent resident spouse, or you are the child of a person designated as such under the Violence Against Women Act.

5) You are a citizen of the Federated States of Micronesia, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, or the Republic of Palau. If this is the case, you may be eligible for only certain types of federal aid.
   a. Citizens of the Republic of Palau are eligible for Federal Pell Grants, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, and Federal Work-Study.
   b. Citizens of the Federal States of Micronesia and the Republic of the Marshall Islands are eligible for Federal Pell Grants only.
APPENDIX H

Cal Grant Eligibility

Cal Grant A Eligibility - Cal. Education Code § 69433.8

An award under this chapter does not guarantee admission to an institution of higher education or admission to a specific campus or program. 69433.9. To be eligible to receive a Cal Grant award under this chapter, a student shall be all of the following:

(a) A citizen of the United States, or an eligible noncitizen, as defined for purposes of financial aid programs under Title IV of the federal Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. Secs. 1070 et seq., as from time to time amended).

(b) In compliance with all applicable Selective Service registration requirements.

(c) Not incarcerated.

(d) Not in default on any student loan within the meaning of Section 69507.5.

(1) For purposes of Article 2 (commencing with Section 69434), Article 3 (commencing with Section 69435), and Article 4 (commencing with Section 69436), except as provided in subdivision (d) of Section 69436, at the time of high school graduation or its equivalent, be a resident of California.

(2) A student who does not meet the requirements for a high school diploma or its equivalent in the academic year immediately preceding the award year, but who meets the requirements for a high school diploma or its equivalent by December 31 of the academic year immediately following the date of application, satisfies any requirement for obtaining high school graduation or its equivalent for the purposes of this chapter as of the first day of the academic term immediately following the term in which the requirements for the high school diploma or its equivalent are met.

(3) No student shall receive an award for a term that begins prior to satisfying any requirement for obtaining high school graduation or its equivalent.
Who qualifies for BOGFW?

The Board of Governors Fee Waiver (BOGFW) waives your course enrollment fee if you are a California resident, and if one of the following conditions applies to you when you enroll:

• You are qualified for federal student financial aid during the same academic year for which you are seeking a BOGFW and have a need of $1,104.
  OR
• You or your parents are receiving TANF/Cal WORKS benefits, SSI or General Assistance at the time that you apply for the BOGFW. You will be required to provide documentation to show participation in one of these programs.
  OR
• You fall into the qualifying income bracket as determined by filling out a BOGFW B application. The Financial Aid Office will process your application and notify you if you qualify.
  OR
• You qualify according to one of these groups:
  o Certification from the CA Department of Veterans Affairs that you are eligible for a dependent's fee waiver?
  o Certification from the National Guard Adjutant General that you are eligible for a dependent's fee waiver?
  o Certification from the Department of Veterans Affairs that you are eligible as a recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor or as a child of a recipient?
  o Certification from the CA Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board that you are eligible as a dependent of a victim of the September 11, 2001, terrorist attack?
  o Certification from a public agency employer that you are eligible as a dependent of a deceased law enforcement/fire suppression personnel killed in the line of duty?

5 CCR § 58620

§ 58620. Student Eligibility: Board of Governors Grant.

To be eligible for a Board of Governors grant, a student must:

(a) Be a California resident; so long as a person qualifies for a military exception pursuant to Education Code section 68074 or section 68075, he or she shall be deemed a California resident for purposes of this section.

(b) Meet one of the following criteria:

(1) Income Standards.

  (A) Be a single and independent student having no other dependents and whose total income in the prior year was equal to or less than 150% of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Poverty Guidelines for a family of one; or be a married, independent student having no dependents other than a spouse, whose total income of both student and spouse in the prior year was equal to or less than 150% of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Poverty Guidelines for a family of two.

(B) Be a student who is dependent in a family having a total income in the prior year equal to or less than 150% of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Poverty Guidelines for a family of that size, not including the student's income, but including the student in the family size.

(C) Provide documentation of taxable or untaxed income.

(D) Be a student who is married or a single head of household in a family having a total income in the prior year equal to or less than 150% of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Poverty Guidelines for a family of that size.

(E) Be an independent student whose Estimated Family Contribution as determined by federal methodology is equal to zero or a dependent student for whom the parent portion of the Estimated Family Contribution as determined by federal methodology is equal to or less than zero.

(F) For purposes of this subdivision, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Poverty Guidelines used each year shall be the most recently published guidelines immediately preceding the academic year for which a fee waiver is requested.

(2) Current recipient of benefits described in Education Code section 76300(g).

(A) At the time of enrollment be a recipient of benefits under the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program. A dependent student whose parent(s) or guardian(s) are recipients of TANF shall be eligible if the TANF program grant includes a grant for the student or if the TANF grant is the sole source of income for the parent or guardian.

(B) At the time of enrollment be a recipient of benefits under the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program. A dependent student whose parent(s) or guardian(s) are recipients of SSI shall be eligible if the SSI program grant is the sole source of income for the parent(s) or guardian(s).

(C) At the time of enrollment be a recipient of benefits under the General Assistance program.

(D) Provide documentation that the student if a recipient of benefits under one of the programs identified in Education Code section 76300(g) and (h) at the time of enrollment. Documentation sufficient to meet the requirements of this subdivision shall provide official evidence of these benefits.

(3) Need-Based Financial Aid Eligibility. Any student who has been determined financially eligible for federal and/or state needed-based financial aid.

Board of Governors Fee Waiver Application

See next page.
This is an application to have your ENROLLMENT FEES WAIVED. If you need money to help with books, supplies, food, rent, transportation and other costs, please complete a FREE APPLICATION FOR FEDERAL STUDENT AID (FAFSA) or the California Dream Application (for eligible AB 540 students) immediately. The FAFSA is available at www.fafsa.gov and the Dream Application is available at https://dream.csac.ca.gov. Contact the Financial Aid Office for more information.

IMPLEMENTATION OF Assembly Bill 1899: Victims of Trafficking, Domestic Violence and other Serious Crimes

AB 1899, chaptered in September of 2012, provides for a non-resident enrollment fee exemption for “Victims of trafficking, domestic violence and other serious crimes”. In addition, the legislation allows these students to apply for and, if eligible, receive financial aid from programs administered by public postsecondary institutions or the state of California. Finally, the legislation provides that enrollment fees shall be waived for these students who apply for and are eligible to receive Board of Governor enrollment fee waivers.

This FEE WAIVER application is for California residents, eligible AB 540 students, and eligible AB 1899 students, as determined by the Admissions or Registrar’s Office. If you have not had your California residency or eligibility status determined by the Admissions or the Registrar, please see one of those offices to obtain the valid determination. Fee waiver eligibility cannot be determined until your status has been verified.

Has the Admissions or Registrar’s Office determined that you are a California resident? ☐ Yes ☐ No

If no, has the Admissions or Registrar's Office determined that you are eligible for a non-resident tuition exemption as an AB 540 student? ☐ Yes ☐ No

If yes, has the Admissions or Registrar’s Office determined that you are eligible for a non-resident tuition exemption granted as a result of you residing in the United States with a "T" or "U" visa (immigration status under Section 1101(a)(15)(T)(i) or (ii), or Section 1101(a)(15)(U)(i) or (ii), of Title 8 of the United States Code)? ☐ Yes ☐ No

IMPLEMENTATION OF THE CALIFORNIA DOMESTIC PARTNER RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES ACT

The California Domestic Partner Rights and Responsibilities Act extends rights, benefits, responsibilities and obligations to individuals in domestic partnerships registered with the California Secretary of State under Section 297 of the Family Code. If you are in a Registered Domestic Partnership (RDP), or legal same sex marriage, you will be treated as an Independent married student to determine eligibility for this Enrollment Fee Waiver and will need to provide income and household information for your domestic partner. If you are a dependent student and your parent is in a Registered Domestic Partnership, or legal same sex marriage, you will be treated the same as a student with married parents and income and household information will be required for the parent’s domestic partner.

Note: These provisions apply to state student financial aid ONLY, and not to federal student financial aid.

Are you or your parent in a Registered Domestic Partnership with the California Secretary of State under Section 297 of the Family Code? (Answer “Yes” if you or your parent are separated from a Registered Domestic Partner but have NOT FILED a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership with the California Secretary of State’s Office.) ☐ Yes ☐ No

If you answered “Yes” to the question above, treat the Registered Domestic Partner as a spouse. You are required to include your domestic partner’s income and household information or your parent’s domestic partner’s income and household information in Questions 4, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17.

UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD

In the UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER, you will first learn the importance of understanding your records—where that information exists in the world, and how to fix mistakes in your record early on in your reentry.

In the second half of the Chapter, you will learn you may be able to “clean up” your criminal record through different kinds of “expungement” in California. Expungement helps to protect your criminal history information, and keep it out of sight for certain people. You will learn that in most cases, “cleaning up” your criminal record WON’T completely erase the record, but it CAN make past convictions and other criminal history less visible to many, which has many benefits in different areas of your life, including applying to housing, jobs, and more.

DISCLAIMER – YOUR RESPONSIBILITY WHEN USING THIS GUIDE: When putting together the Roadmap to Reentry: A California Legal Guide, we did our best to give you useful and accurate information because we know that people who are currently or formerly incarcerated often have difficulty getting legal information, and we cannot provide specific advice to every person who requests it. The laws change frequently and are subject to differing interpretations. We do not always have the resources to make changes to this informational material every time the law changes. If you use information from the Roadmap to Reentry legal guide, it is your responsibility to make sure that the law has not changed and applies to your particular situation. If you are incarcerated, most of the materials you need should be available in your institution’s law library. The Roadmap to Reentry guide is not intending to give legal advice, but rather legal information. No attorney-client relationship is created by using any information in this guide. You should always consult your own attorney if you need legal advice specific to your situation.

WHAT WILL I LEARN IN THE UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD CHAPTER?

- The different types of criminal records
- What information can and cannot be in your criminal record
- Who sees your criminal record
- How to get copies of your criminal record
- The various ways to “clean up” your criminal record if/when possible, including:
  - California expungement (also called a dismissal)
  - Reducing a felony to a misdemeanor
  - Reclassifying or resentencing a felony
  - Certificates of Rehabilitation
  - Governor pardons
  - Sealing adult arrest records
  - Sealing juvenile records
  - Federal expungements, dismissals, and pardons
  - DNA expungement
I. INTRODUCTION:

This UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR RECORD CHAPTER is broken up into the following subjects:

• Key Concepts For Understanding Your Criminal Record & Fixing Errors (PG. 1026), which explains the different types of criminal records that you may have, what information can (and can’t) be included in your criminal records and on background checks, and why it’s important to review and understand your own criminal records.

• Who Can See Your Criminal Record (PG. 1039), which gives you the different rules for who CAN and CAN’T see your criminal records and/or run a background check on you (like employers, law enforcement agencies, licensing agencies, and landlords), and how they can use the information they get about you.

• How to Get Your Criminal Records (PG. 1041), which tells you how to get copies of the different types of criminal records you may have. You will need these in order to decide the best way to clean up your record.

• How to Clean Up Your Record (PG. 1044), which explains the different options, or “remedies,” available for cleaning up your record. It helps you figure out whether you and your offense are eligible for them, and walks you through how to do each one.

If you are recently released from prison or jail, or earlier in the reentry journey, the sections about key concepts in understanding your record and fixing errors, learning who can and cannot see your criminal record information, and how you can get copies are the most important early on.

If you are later in your reentry journey, cleaning up your record will become more important to you over time, as many of these “expungement” options are only available to people off supervision or those who are able under law to ask to get off supervision early.

If you are just coming to this Chapter, we suggest focusing on Parts II, III, and IV earlier on, which will empower you to understand your criminal records, what people can see, and how to fix errors, so you can put your best foot forward. Later, when you are further along in your reentry process, we suggest focusing on Part V, which explains the many ways you can “clean up” your record to make certain convictions less visible (but only in certain contexts). Keep reading this Chapter to learn more!
II. KEY CONCEPTS FOR UNDERSTANDING YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD & FIXING ERRORS EARLY IN REENTRY

This is one of the most important sections for people early in the reentry journey—to better understand your criminal record, learn how to fix errors, and be prepared for what others can and cannot find out about you and your record.

WHAT IS A CRIMINAL RECORD?

Your “criminal record” is the broad term we use to include ALL of the information created about any contact you’ve had with law enforcement, the courts, or another part of the criminal justice system. Your “criminal record” includes arrests, charges filed against you, convictions, pleas, acquittals, dismissals, sentences, and any other contact you have had with law enforcement and/or the criminal justice system that was documented (written down).

Here are some examples of how your contact with law enforcement or the criminal justice system can get documented. All of this information is considered part of your criminal record (but note that much of it may be PROTECTED from being seen):

• You were pulled over while driving and arrested for a DUI;
• You received a citation for public disorderliness or having an open container in public;
• You were arrested, and the police wrote up an arrest record;
• You were taken to jail, booked into the system, and fingerprinted;
• You were charged with a crime;
• You were arraigned (appeared before a judge) in court and pleaded guilty or not guilty;
• You were convicted of a crime and sentenced to prison or jail, and the judge wrote a sentencing order;
• You were acquitted of the charges after a trial;
• You agreed to a plea bargain with the prosecutor. In exchange, the prosecutor dismissed some of the charges against you;
• You violated your probation or parole and had your supervision revoked;
• You had your conviction dismissed or expunged

IMPORTANT PROTECTIONS TO KNOW ABOUT: A lot of this information CANNOT be included in a regular background check. For more information about what information can and can’t be included in your background check, see PG. 1034.
WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO UNDERSTAND MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

It’s important to know what will show up in your criminal records so that you can make sure it’s accurate, that information that shouldn’t be disclosed stays protected, and so that you can better prepare to deal with your record coming up when you’re trying to get a job, find housing, reunite with your family, apply for public benefits, or go back to school. Furthermore, California has laws that allow you to “clean up” some of your record LATER in the reentry process.

TYPES OF CRIMINAL RECORDS

RAP SHEETS

WHAT IS A RAP SHEET AND WHY IS IT IMPORTANT?

A RAP sheet (Record of Arrest and Prosecution) is the government’s official version of your criminal history, as recorded by local, state, and federal government agencies (such as courts, law enforcement, FBI, and other criminal justice agencies). It contains a list of every contact you have had with the criminal justice system, including: arrests, charges, convictions, acquittals, dismissals, pleas, sentences, and open warrants.

Your RAP sheet includes important information like the date of each arrest, which law enforcement agency arrested you, what offense(s) you were charged with, your case number (docket or indictment number), and—most important—the final outcome (disposition) of each case (for example, acquittal, conviction, plea bargain, sentence, or dismissal). It’s also important to look out for errors (learn about common errors in RAP sheets on PG. 1029).

HOW MANY RAP SHEETS DO I HAVE?

If you’ve been arrested or convicted of a crime in California, you potentially have three different RAP sheets.

• Your county (local) RAP sheet lists your criminal history in that specific county only. If you have convictions in multiple counties, you will have a RAP sheet for each county.

• Your DOJ (state) RAP sheet lists your criminal history in all of California, but only California. This RAP sheet is kept by the California Department of Justice (DOJ). Unless you are 100% positive that all of your arrests and convictions were in just one county, it’s a safer bet to get a copy of your DOJ (state) RAP sheet to make sure you know of everything recorded about you in California.

• Your FBI (federal) RAP sheet lists any and all criminal justice involvement you’ve had in any state in the U.S., or with the federal government. This RAP sheet is produced by the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI). Your FBI (federal) RAP sheet is also called an Identity History Summary.

See APPENDIX AA, on PG. 1167 for a sample RAP sheet.

2576 CAL. PENAL CODE § 11105.
2577 28 C.F.R. § 16.31.
IMPORTANT: Your RAP sheet is confidential!

Unlike a background check, your official government RAP sheets are confidential. This means that most people—most employers, private landlords, and average Joes—CANNOT see your RAP sheets. Only certain people under certain circumstances can see your RAP sheet—this includes courts, law enforcement, government agencies, and special employers. Of course, YOU always have a right to see your own RAP sheet. (For a complete list of who can see your RAP sheet, see PG. 1039.)

BUT: Although RAP sheets are confidential, some of the information in them will likely show up in other types of background checks. That’s why it’s important to know what information is in your RAP sheet, and to correct any errors in this information. For more information about correcting mistakes in your RAP sheet, see PG. 1036. For more information on background checks and what information can and can’t show up in them, see PGs. 1032-1033.

WHY IS IT HELPFUL FOR ME TO SEE MY RAP SHEET?

There are 4 main reasons why it’s important to see your RAP sheet and know exactly what it says:

• RAP sheets often contain mistakes, such as incomplete or incorrect information. It’s important to find and correct any errors BEFORE the wrong information has a chance to harm you.

• You will have an accurate record of your criminal history, so that you know what information certain employers, professional licensing agencies, landlords, banks, or others might see about you. To learn more about what information employers and licensing agencies CAN and CAN’T consider, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 625. To learn more about what information private landlords, Public Housing Authorities (PHAs) and owners of government-assisted housing CAN and CANNOT consider, see the HOUSING CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 369.

• You will be better prepared to answer questions about your criminal history. If you know what is in your record, you can plan ahead and figure out how to talk about it in a more positive light. For more information about how to talk about your criminal history in a job interview, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 625.

• It’s necessary for cleaning up your record! Your RAP sheet will help you figure out which remedies you qualify for and which are the best options for you. In addition, you will need the details from your RAP sheet to fill out forms and complete the process of cleaning up your record.

For more information on how to get a copy of your RAP sheet, see PG. 1041.
ROADMAP TO REENTRY

WHAT WILL MY RAP SHEET LOOK LIKE?

Looking at a RAP sheet can be confusing! RAP sheets have lots of numbers and abbreviations, so it’s not always clear what information it actually contains or if it is correct. To learn how to read and understand the information in your California RAP sheet, and to see a sample California RAP sheet, see APPENDIX AA, on PG. 1167. You can also ask a lawyer or a public defender to help you read and understand your RAP sheet.

WHAT ARE COMMON ERRORS IN RAP SHEETS?

- Someone else’s information. Your RAP sheet may contain criminal history information about someone else with the same (or a similar) name as you.
- Leaving out important information about a case. Your RAP sheet may leave out important information about the final outcome of your case. For example, your RAP sheet may still say “case pending” even AFTER you were acquitted or the charges were dropped.
- Including sealed information. Your RAP may contain records that should have been destroyed or can only be released by special court order, such as sealed arrests or juvenile offenses.
- Misleading information. It is possible that a single charge may appear multiple times on your RAP, making it look like you have multiple offenses when you only have one.
- Misclassifying your offense. If a misdemeanor conviction shows up as a felony on your RAP sheet, this is a serious problem!

HOW COULD THESE MISTAKES END UP IN MY RAP SHEET?

- Human error. The people who manage the various records can make mistakes. They may confuse you with someone who has a similar name, enter your information wrong, or include information that should NOT be included (for example, a sealed juvenile offense).
- Failure to confirm information: Although government agencies are supposed to confirm that the information that they have about you is correct and up-to-date, a lot of times they don’t. As a result, they may not report changes in the status of your case or the final outcome of the case, even if you were acquitted or the case was dismissed!
- Identity theft. Someone else may open an account using your personal information or commit a crime and pretend to be you by giving your name or identification. These activities may then go in your record as your actions!

WHEN CAN I FIX THE ERRORS?

You can start to fix the errors right away! If you find incorrect or missing information in your criminal records, you can follow these steps to fix the errors! Don’t let errors stay on your record — they can hurt your chances of getting a job, a place to live, or government benefits, and they can disrupt many other areas of your life as well! And don’t wait until the errors show up on a background check that is seen by an employer, private landlord, creditor, or government agency—it’s much easier to clean up errors BEFORE they cause you any problems! Make sure your criminal record contains only correct and up-to-date information, so that wrong information does NOT get used against you.

HOW CAN I FIX ERRORS IN MY CALIFORNIA STATE (DOJ) RAP SHEET?

Even though your DOJ RAP sheet is supposed to be the official record of your criminal history from California law enforcement agencies and the courts, it is likely to still contain errors. If you think that any piece of information contained in your state RAP sheet is incorrect, you must submit a formal challenge to the Department of Justice in order to dispute the information. However, you can only submit this formal challenge after you have requested and received a copy of your RAP sheet from the DOJ. Once the DOJ receives your challenge, it will review your claim and decide whether or not to correct the information in your RAP sheet.

For detailed instructions on each step of the process for correcting errors in your DOJ RAP sheet, see APPENDIX F, on PG. 1116. If you have any other questions about getting or correcting your California RAP sheet, call the DOJ’s Record Review Unit at (916) 227-3835. (NOTE: This is an automated phone system that lists many DOJ-related issues. Follow the prompts that ask if you if you want to “verify or challenge the accuracy of your criminal history.”)

HOW CAN I FIX ERRORS IN MY FEDERAL (FBI) RAP SHEET?

Your FBI (federal) RAP sheet (also called your Identity History Summary) is the federal government’s official record of all of your interactions with law enforcement and the criminal justice system from anywhere in the United States, including any federal cases or convictions. The FBI gets your fingerprints and criminal history information from other criminal justice organizations throughout the U.S. This includes local police, county sheriff, and state highway patrol departments, statewide criminal justice agencies (such as the California Department of Justice), federal law enforcement agencies (such as the Drug Enforcement Administration and the FBI itself), and state and federal courts. In general, when you have any interaction with one of these agencies, they send your information to the FBI’s Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division.

The FBI can only change your information if the original agency or court (i.e., the one that sent the information to the FBI in the first place) tells the FBI to change it. If you think your FBI RAP sheet is inaccurate or incomplete, there are 2 ways to correct the information:

OPTION 1: Contact the court or agency that sent your information to the FBI.

NOTE: Each entry on your FBI RAP sheet should list the specific

---

CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 1120-1127.

agent that provided the information. This is how you can tell which agency sent the FBI the incorrect or incomplete information on your RAP sheet.

> IF THE INCORRECT OR MISSING INFORMATION IS FROM A CALIFORNIA
STATE AGENCY OR COURT:

Contact the California DOJ’s Bureau of Criminal Information and Analysis, and ask them to send the FBI corrected or updated information. 2586

> IF THE INCORRECT OR MISSING INFORMATION IS FROM AN AGENCY OR COURT IN ANOTHER STATE:

Contact the state Identification Bureau of the state where the agency or court is located, and ask them to send the FBI corrected or updated information. Contact information for the Identification Bureau of every U.S. state is available on the FBI's website at: http://www.fbi.gov/aboutus/cjis/identity-history-summary-checks/state-identification-bureau-listing.

> IF THE INCORRECT OR MISSING INFORMATION IS FROM A FEDERAL AGENCY OR COURT:

Contact the specific federal agency that sent your information to the FBI, and ask them to send corrected or updated information.

See APPENDIX G, on PG. 1118 for additional details about each of these steps.

OPTION 2: Go through the FBI directly. 2587

If you don’t know where the incomplete or incorrect information on your RAP sheet came from, you can contact the FBI directly to challenge it, and ask them to correct it. You will need to write a “challenge letter” explaining exactly what information is wrong and why, and send it to the FBI along with any proof you have to support your claim. (For a list of common RAP sheet errors, see PG. 1029.)

The FBI will then investigate your claim. If the FBI decides that the information in your RAP sheet was wrong or incomplete, it will correct your RAP sheet and let you know. For a detailed explanation of both Option 1 and Option 2, see APPENDIX G, on PG. 1118.

IMPORTANT: IT IS EXTREMELY IMPORTANT TO REVIEW YOUR RAP SHEETS — both State and Federal-level — to make sure that all the information contained in them is ACCURATE, COMPLETE, AND UP-TO-DATE.
Any errors on your RAP sheet can cause you serious problems in the future when you apply for a job, a professional license, housing, or a loan, or if you try to reconnect with your family, or if you get arrested or charged with a crime in the future. (To find out how to get a copy of your RAP sheet, see PG. 1041. For more information on what to do if there are errors in your RAP sheet, see PG. 1029.)
BACKGROUND CHECKS

WHAT IS A BACKGROUND CHECK?

You've probably heard of someone running a “background check” on someone else. A background check is the process of looking up non-confidential information about someone's past activities, including their criminal history, work experience, education, debts, etc. When someone runs a background check on you, they may research your history by looking up public records about you, running an internet search on you, and even interviewing people you know!

Most commonly, background checks are done by private companies that specialize in investigating people and compiling information about them. Employers, private landlords, creditors, and other people often hire these companies to run a background check on you when you apply for a job, rent an apartment, apply for a loan, or volunteer at your child's school! (For more information about background checks in these different situations, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER (PG. 625), HOUSING CHAPTER (PG. 369), and FAMILY & CHILDREN CHAPTER (PG. 823).

REMEmBER: Your RAP sheet itself is confidential and CANNOT be included in most background checks. BUT some of the information in your RAP sheet—like the record of certain criminal convictions—may be public information, so the information can show up on a regular background check. For example, court records are public information, so a background check company can go to the courthouse and look up your records to find out about convictions.

DEFINITIONS: Background Checks & Private Background Check Companies

• A “background check report” is the document that an employer, landlord, or other person sees when he/she hires a private background check company to run a background check on you.
• A “background check company” is a private company that specialize in doing background checks (and selling the information they gather).
WHAT INFORMATION CANNOT SHOW UP IN A BACKGROUND CHECK?

Background check laws protect you by making it illegal for private background check companies to include certain types of information in your background check, and by creating penalties for if they do.

INFORMATION THAT CANNOT BE IN YOUR BACKGROUND CHECK IN CALIFORNIA:

- Criminal convictions that have been fully pardoned;
- Criminal convictions that have been expunged (for employment background checks);
- Criminal convictions from more than 7 years ago (except as required by law for certain jobs);
- Any information about arrests or charges that did not result in a conviction, no matter how recent (unless your judgment is still pending);
- Any information about arrests or charges from more than 7 years ago;
- Any information about referrals to, or participation in, any pre-trial or post-trial diversion programs (usually drug treatment programs that you are ordered to do instead of going to jail);
- Lawsuits and judgments from more than 7 years ago;
- Paid tax liens from more than 7 years ago;
- Accounts placed in collections from more than 7 years ago;
- Bankruptcies from more than 10 years ago;
- Unlawful detainers (evictions) that you won or resolved with a settlement agreement;
- Any other negative information like repossessions, foreclosures, check verification reports, motor vehicle reports, or drug test results from more than 7 years ago;
- Background check companies cannot include any public information unless it has been double-checked for accuracy in the past 30 days. Public record information includes arrests, convictions, civil actions, tax liens, and outstanding judgments.

ADDITIONALLY... BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANIES MUST FOLLOW RULES.

Background check companies must follow specific rules when they include ANY negative or harmful information—including criminal history information—in a background check on you. Negative or harmful information is any information that may hurt your chances of getting a job, housing, insurance, or benefits; or that could cause you to have to pay a higher rate for housing, insurance, or benefits; or that could have any other negative impact on you in whatever situation your background check is used.

Public Records Information—A background check company CANNOT include any “public record” information in your background check UNLESS it confirms that the information is correct within the last 30 days before the report is

---

2588 EXCEPTIONS: An agency can report these kinds of arrests or charges (1) if they are part of a case that hasn’t yet gone to trial or been resolved, meaning a “judgment is pending,” or (2) if you are applying to work at a health care facility and would have access to patients, drugs or medication.

2589 Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18(a).

2592 Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18(c).

2593 Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18(d).
CONFIRMING THAT PUBLIC RECORDS ARE ACCURATE

A background check company must confirm that public information about arrests, indictments, convictions, and other judgments is correct within the last 30 days before the report is issued. This means the company should check with the court, police, or other agency to find out the current status of any arrests, charges, indictments, convictions, judgments, etc. For example, if you were arrested but never charged, if your charges were dismissed or reduced, if you were acquitted (or convicted), or if there were any other changes to your case, the company must report the updated information.

Testimonial Information—a background check company CANNOT include negative information from personal interviews with people who know you—such as neighbors, landlords, employers, etc.—in your background check UNLESS the agency either confirms the information with another person (who would know whether the information is true or not) OR the person who gave negative information in the first place is the best (or only) possible source of the information.

WHAT INFORMATION CAN SHOW UP IN A BACKGROUND CHECK?

In the Internet Age, there is a lot of different information that could show up in your background check. For example, a background check may contain information about:

- Criminal convictions;
- Other court cases you were involved in (for example, lawsuits, small claims court cases, money judgments against you, etc.)
- Your driving record;
- Previous employment;
- Education records;
- Property ownership records;
- Bankruptcies and tax liens;
- Professional licensing records;
- Previous addresses;
- Past evictions; AND
- Personal references from people who know you (such as past employers, private landlords, neighbors, etc.).

Although anyone can look up public records or information on the internet about you, there are special laws that limit WHO and WHEN someone can run a background check on you if they use a private background check company. In general, the people who can do this kind of background check on you include: employers, private landlords, insurance companies, professional licensing agencies, creditors, anyone with a court order or subpoena, or anyone seeking child support payments from you. (For a list of who can legally run a background check on you, see PG. 1040.)

---

2594 Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18(c).
2595 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.28.
2596 Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act, CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.18(c).
2597 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.19(d).
In addition, these laws protect your rights by LIMITING the information that can be included in your private background check report, and by giving you the chance to CORRECT any errors that show up. For a list of what information CAN and CANNOT be included in your private background check, see PG. 1034 & 1033.

WHY IS IT HELPFUL FOR ME TO SEE WHAT’S IN MY BACKGROUND CHECK?

There are several reasons why it's important to find out what’s likely to come up in your background check:

- Background checks often contain mistakes—such as incomplete, incorrect, or forbidden information. It’s important to find and correct any errors BEFORE the information shows up in a background check and causes you problems.
  - You will know what other people are likely to see about you, in case your criminal history comes up on an application for employment, professional licensing, housing, or a loan, or in any other situation. To learn more about what information employers and licensing agencies CAN and CAN’T consider, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER (PG. 625). For more information about what landlords and housing authorities can consider, see the HOUSING CHAPTER (PG. 369).

- You will be better prepared to answer questions about your criminal history during job interviews, on job and housing applications, and in other situations. For more information about what employers CAN and CAN’T ask you about or see in your record, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, (PG. 625).

- You can protect your rights and maximize your chances of success! Remember, there are laws that protect your rights when someone runs a background check on you. But you need to know what information will show up in your background check in order to protect those rights!

!REMINDER

REMEMBER, cleaning up your criminal record will reduce the information that most people can see about you when they run a background check!

FIXING ERRORS IN BACKGROUND CHECKS

HOW CAN I FIX ERRORS IN MY BACKGROUND CHECK?

Even though background check companies are limited by law on what information they can report about you, and are REQUIRED to CONFIRM that the information is true and correct, it is still very common for background checks to contain errors.

WHAT ARE COMMON ERRORS IN A BACKGROUND CHECK?

• Information that should NOT be included—such as convictions more than 7 years old, arrests that did not lead to a conviction (unless charges are still pending), participation in court-ordered drug treatment, or convictions that have been dismissed;
• Information that is wrong (for example, reporting that you were convicted of robbery instead of petty theft);
• Information that belongs to someone else with the same (or a similar) name as you;
• Report of an arrest or charges filed but not the final outcome of the case (for example, you were never charged, charges were dismissed, you were acquitted, or you plead guilty to a lesser offense);
• Information from public records or personal interviews that has not been confirmed;
• Any negative information about you that is more than 7 years old (or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old).

You have the right to challenge ANY information in your background check, and to view the background check company’s files containing any information that was used to prepare your background check.

WHAT ARE SOME SUGGESTED STEPS I CAN TAKE TO FIX ERRORS IN MY BACKGROUND CHECK?

• First, you can NOTIFY the background check company that the information is wrong and include proof (documents or evidence) of the correct information.
• Second, the background check company MUST INVESTIGATE the information that you challenged, and MUST inform you of the results within 30 days.
• Third, the background check company MUST REMOVE or CORRECT any information that is wrong, incomplete, or cannot be confirmed as true.
• Finally, if the background check company does not remove the information from your background check, you can add your own STATEMENT OF DISPUTE to the company’s file stating that you disagree with the information.

For a complete step-by-step explanation of this process, see APPENDIX H, on PG. 1120.

2598 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.26(c); CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.24; Fair Credit Reporting Act § 611, 15 U.S.C. § 1681(i).
HOW DO I KNOW WHICH BACKGROUND CHECK COMPANY DID MY BACKGROUND CHECK?

There are two ways to find out which background check company did your background check and how to contact them:

- BEFORE someone runs a background check on you (such as an employer, private landlord, or creditor), they are supposed to tell you that they are going to get a background check on you and get your PERMISSION. They must also give you the name, address, phone number, and website of the background check company that they are going to use.

- If someone takes any negative action against you (such as refusing to hire you, rent an apartment to you, or give you benefits) based on information in your background check, they must give you an “ADVERSE ACTION LETTER” that also includes the name, address, and phone number of the background check company that did the background check.

You have the right to know what internal procedures the background company uses to investigate your claim. You can ask the company for this information and they MUST provide it to you.

NOTE: Under the law, you have the right to challenge any information in your background check, and there is a specific process for doing it. However, in practice, it might not be as easy or straightforward, especially if the background check company is uncooperative or unresponsive. If you have trouble getting the company to review or change the wrong information in your file, it is recommended that you contact a lawyer for help.

CREDIT REPORTS

WHAT IS A CREDIT REPORT? AND WHAT’S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A RAP SHEET AND A CREDIT REPORT?

In California, a credit report is different from a background check and is covered by a different set of laws. A credit report contains information about your money and finances—including debts you owe (such as unpaid bills, loans, or leases), your payment history for past bills and debts, and the status of your credit accounts. Your credit report does NOT include your criminal history or other personal information about you. For this reason, this legal guide does not go into detail about the laws governing credit reports.

WILL MY CREDIT REPORT BE INCLUDED IN MY BACKGROUND CHECK?

Generally, no. Background check companies are NOT allowed to include your credit report in your regular background check, because not everyone who is allowed to see your background check is also allowed to see your credit report. When companies run your credit report, they must follow a separate set of rules.

2603 Consumer Credit Reporting Agencies Act, CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1785.1-1785.36.
that are specific to credit reports, which are not covered here. The only time that your credit report and background check will be together is when someone who is allowed to see both requests them both together (for example, a housing provider can request both at the same time, but most employers cannot—your credit report, only your criminal background check report).

NOTE: This manual does NOT cover credit reports. When the manual refers to background checks or background check reports, it means information about your criminal history (and certain other personal information)—NOT your credit report. III. WHO HAS ACCESS TO YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD AND WHAT THEY CAN SEE

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- Who CAN and CAN’T see your RAP sheet;
- Who CAN and CAN’T run a background check on you;
- Other ways that people may see your criminal history.

There are laws about who can and can’t get your RAP sheet or run a background check on you. This section will explain the different rules for accessing each type of criminal record.

WHO IS LEGALLY ALLOWED TO SEE MY RAP SHEET?

MOST PEOPLE CANNOT SEE YOUR RAP SHEET. Your RAP sheet is protected and confidential because it is kept by law enforcement agencies. The only people who can see your RAP sheet are:

- Criminal justice and law enforcement agencies have full access to your RAP sheet, including juvenile adjudications, expunged/dismissed cases, and sometimes even sealed records.
- State occupational licensing agencies can review your RAP when considering whether or not to issue you a professional license. Some may ban you from getting a license if you have a criminal record. (For more information see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, on PG. 690)
- State and local welfare agencies including child welfare agencies, child support agencies, and humane societies can see your RAP sheet.
- Most public employers can see your RAP sheet when you apply for a job with them. These include all federal, state and local government agencies—including police and fire departments, the California Department of Corrections (CDCR), local Boards of Education, and the U.S. Postal Service.
- Certain private employers can see your RAP sheet if you are applying for a job that involves access to sensitive information (e.g., nuclear power plants, public utilities, private security companies, and financial institutions like...
WHO IS LEGALLY ALLOWED TO RUN A BACKGROUND CHECK ON ME?

Unlike a RAP sheet, many more people (for housing, employments, bank loans, public benefits, etc.) can run a private background check on you, but it is still protected from showing everything in most cases. In California, state and federal laws allow background check companies to run background checks and send the information...

- To anyone making decisions about you for: employment, renting a house/apartment, professional licensing, government benefits, credit obligations, court-ordered child support or alimony, or insurance;
- To establish child support requirements;
- In response to a court order or subpoena;
- To anyone with a legitimate business need for the report (for example, a bank, creditor, or someone you have a business relationship with); or
- To the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or National Credit Union Administration.

Basically, the main people who can—and are likely to—run a background check on you are employers, private landlords, insurance companies, licensing boards and agencies, and financial institutions.

REMEMBER, there are LIMITS on what information can be included in your background check. In general, cleaning up your record means that the information may no longer show up in the background checks that most people—like ordinary employers and private landlords—can get.

IS THERE ANY OTHER WAY THAT SOMEONE CAN SEE MY CRIMINAL HISTORY?

Yes. Because most criminal records and criminal case information is technically public, people in the general public could access on their own most legal paperwork filed in court or with a government agency. For example, anyone can go to the local courthouse, look up your criminal case and make copies of the documents in the court file.

But it is very unlikely that most people would go down to the courthouse to look you up for an apartment or job! Keep in mind that the information is likely scattered across hundreds of locations, so someone would really have to know exactly what they are looking for to actually find it. That’s why most people use professional background check companies to do the investigating for them—and that’s why these companies and the background checks they create are regulated by state and federal laws to protect you!

609 These employers include: nuclear power plants; public utilities; agencies directly responsible for the care of children, the elderly, or the mentally or physically disabled; youth organizations; in-home supportive care agencies; security organizations; financial institutions; private schools. See CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 11105(c)(1); 11105.3, 11105.4; CAL. FIN. CODE § 777.5; CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE § 1596.871; CAL. VEH. CODE § 44237. However, private employers must still get authorization from the DOJ in order to view RAP sheets.
612 FCRA, 15 U.S.C. § 1681b(a)(3)(F). A “legitimate business need” includes anything related to a business relationship you started, or a need to review an existing account or ensure that you meet the terms of the account.
IV. GETTING COPIES OF YOUR CRIMINAL RECORDS

This section explains how you can get copies of your various types of criminal records. You will need the information from your criminal record(s) to figure out which options are best for cleaning them up, and to complete the steps to do so.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

• Why it’s important to get a copy of your RAP sheet and background check;
• How to get your state, federal, and county RAP sheets;
• How to get a copy of your background check.

IMPORTANT: If there’s ANY possibility that you might have an outstanding warrant for your arrest—for ANY reason (including new charges against you or a failure to appear in court) from ANY county—it is recommended that you call the public defender or a private lawyer to check on your warrant status first, before trying to get your RAP sheet.

HOW DO I GET MY CALIFORNIA STATE (DOJ) RAP SHEET?

If you have arrests or convictions in California only, this is the only RAP sheet you will need. In order for the DOJ to release your RAP sheet, you are required to submit your fingerprints. Your fingerprints must be taken by a company called “Live Scan” (which has been specially approved by the DOJ and has locations all around California). You will also need to pay a $25 processing fee to the DOJ.

For a step-by-step explanation of how to get your DOJ RAP sheet, see APPENDIX A, on PG. 1106.

Note: It can take up to 2 months (anywhere from 2 to 8 weeks) to get a copy of your DOJ RAP sheet, depending on how long your RAP sheet is (i.e., how much information it contains).2613

For more information, visit the Frequently Asked Questions section of the DOJ website at http://oag.ca.gov/fingerprints/security_faq.

REMINDER: WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO GET MY RAP SHEET?

• To correct any errors, such as incomplete or incorrect information;
• To have an accurate record of your conviction history;
• To be better prepared to answer questions about your criminal history; AND
• You will need it to clean up your record!

2613 Telephone Interview with clerk, Cal. Dep’t of Justice Record Review Unit (Mar. 26, 2015).
HOW DO I GET MY FEDERAL (FBI) RAP SHEET?

If you have ever been arrested or had a conviction in another state, or for a federal offense, you will want to get a copy of your FBI (federal) RAP sheet (also called your “Identity History Summary.”)

There are two ways to get a copy of your FBI RAP sheet:

• You can request your RAP sheet directly from the FBI; OR
• You can use a special private company, called a “Channeler,” that has contracted with the FBI to perform this service.

NOTE: It is generally faster to go through an FBI Channeler, but it is likely to be more expensive because these companies usually charge extra fees.

Whether you request your RAP sheet directly from the FBI or go through a channeler, you will need to fill out the FBI’s “Applicant Information Form” and get fingerprinted by a Live Scan service provider.

For a step-by-step explanation of how to get your FBI RAP sheet, see APPENDIX D, on PG. 1113.

For more information about getting your RAP directly from the FBI, visit the FBI’s website at: http://www.fbi.gov/about-us/cjis/identity-history-summary-checks/faqs

For more information about getting your FBI RAP sheet through an FBI-approved channeler, see http://www.fbi.gov/about-us/cjis/identity-history-summary-checks/fbi-approved-channelers

HOW DO I GET MY LOCAL (COUNTY) RAP SHEET AND CRIMINAL HISTORY INFORMATION?

The process for getting your local RAP sheet is different in each county. In some counties, you can get a complete RAP sheet that has ALL of your criminal history information from that county in one place, including all of your convictions, arrests, and any open warrants. In other counties, these records are kept separately (by different agencies), so you will need to go to several places and get separate records for all of your court cases (convictions), arrest records, and warrants.

You will need to contact the police department, sheriff’s department, courthouse, or Public Defender’s Office of the county where you were convicted for information on how to get your local RAP sheet.

Remember, your county RAP sheet and other records will ONLY show information for that county. If you’ve had any interaction with the police, courts, highway patrol, or any other law enforcement or criminal justice agencies in other counties, you should get your California (DOJ) RAP sheet to see all of your criminal history information.
HOW DO I GET A COPY OF MY BACKGROUND CHECK?

The best way to find out what information might show up in your background check is to get your own background check done on yourself.

There are 2 ways to do this:

OPTION 1: Pay a reputable background check company to run a report on you.

There are MANY private background check companies out there—you can search online for “background checks” or check your local Yellow Pages under “Investigators.” Beware, however, some background check companies are scams. Look up or call a few different companies to see what they offer and how much they charge. Avoid companies that seem to charge much more or much less than others.

OPTION 2: Request a background check report.

Under federal and state law, you are entitled to get a FREE copy of your background check once every 12 months from any background check company. To get a copy of your background check for free, you must confirm in writing that 1 of the following is true:

- you are unemployed and intend to look for work within the next 60 days;
- you receive public benefits (government assistance such as CalFresh or General Assistance); or
- you believe there may be errors in your report because you have been the victim of fraud or identity theft.

Send a letter to whichever background check company you choose stating that you fall into one of the above categories (and list which category), and that you would like to request your free background check.

Legitimate agencies should not hesitate when you ask for your free report and should offer to run it right away.

REMEMBER, your background check is different from your credit report, but you are entitled to both for free once every 12 months.

V. CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD—LATER IN REENTRY

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

- If/when possible, the different ways to clean up your criminal record in California
- The rules and requirements for each remedy
- What effect each of these remedies has on your criminal record
- What effect each of these remedies has on your other legal rights
- When to apply for each of these remedies
- Which remedies you qualify for and which are best for you!

There are MANY different ways to clean up your criminal record. This section will explain all of the different options in California, along with the rules and process for each one.

WHY COULD IT BE HELPFUL TO “CLEAN UP” MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

In general, cleaning up your criminal record can reduce many of the damaging effects associated with having a criminal history:

- Cleaning up your record can hide criminal records from certain people who run background checks on you—meaning most private employers, private landlords, and other private individuals or companies will NOT be able to see much of the information in your record.
- Cleaning up your record may allow you to say that you were never convicted of a particular offense; and/or may restore many of the rights that you lost because of a conviction (for example, voting rights, right to sit on a jury service, gun rights, etc.)
- Cleaning up your record can reduce or remove the legal restrictions that prevent you from getting certain jobs and professional licenses.

Cleaning up your record will make it easier to rebuild your life, move forward, and maximize your opportunities for success in the future. The first step toward cleaning up your criminal record is understanding the different types of records you may have and the information that may be in them.
IF I AM REQUIRED TO REGISTER WITH LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT BECAUSE OF A SEX, ARSON, OR DRUG CONVICTION, HOW WILL CLEANING UP MY RECORD AFFECT MY REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT?

Like most other questions about cleaning your record, this will depend on the specific details of your situation, including the type of registration requirement you have, your conviction offense, and which of these “remedies” you use to clean up your record. Certain remedies can remove your registration requirement, while others will NOT affect your registration requirement at all, so you will still have to register. For more information about which “cleaning remedies” DO and DON’T affect your registration requirements, see PG. 1097.

CALIFORNIA OFFERS THESE REMEDIES TO HELP YOU CLEAN UP YOUR RECORD...

• You can correct errors, fill in incomplete information, or add missing information in your record (see PG. Error! Bookmark not defined.);
• You may be able to get your conviction(s) expunged (see PG. 1050);
• You may be able to get your felony conviction reduced (see PG. 1065), or reclassified or resentenced as a misdemeanor (see PG. 1069);
• You may be eligible for a Certificate of Rehabilitation (see PG. 1075);
• You may be able to get a pardon from the governor (see PG. 1079);
• You may be able to get your adult arrest record(s) sealed (see PG. 1086) or get your juvenile criminal records sealed (see PG. 1089);
• You may be able to get your federal conviction expunged (see PG. 1092) or get a Presidential Pardon (see PG. 1095).
HERE IS A BASIC OVERVIEW OF THE DIFFERENT REMEDIES AVAILABLE FOR CLEANING UP YOUR RECORD, AND THE RULES FOR EACH TYPE OF REMEDY. FOR MORE INFORMATION ABOUT EACH OF THESE REMEDIES, TURN TO THE PAGE NUMBER LISTED IN THE CHART.

Sealing adult arrest records (PG. 1086) You may be eligible if > You were arrested as adult; > Your arrest did NOT lead to a conviction; > You have NO other convictions connected to the arrest; AND > You are found factually innocent of the charges. You must apply within 2 years after you are arrest or charged. [Note: You may apply later, but you must show good reason for not applying earlier.] > May restore your gun rights. > Restores your right to vote and sit on a jury. > Removes sex offender registration requirement. > Allows you to work as parole agent or probation officer. > Restores your right to hold public office. > All records related to arrest and criminal proceedings are sealed and destroyed. > It’s as if the arrest and prosecution never occurred.

Sealing juvenile records (PG. 1089) You may be eligible if > You are over 18, OR it has been 5 years since your last arrest or probation discharge; > No adult convictions for felony or misdemeanor of “moral turpitude”; > Case started and ended in juvenile court; AND > NO open civil lawsuit from juvenile offense. [Note: You are NOT eligible if juvenile adjudication was for certain violent offenses AND you were over 14 at time of offense.] > As soon as you are over 18; OR >5 years after your last arrest or discharge from probation. > All court, law enforcement, and other records are sealed and destroyed. > It’s as if the juvenile case never occurred.
Federal expungement or dismissal (PG. 1092)

You may be eligible if
> You were convicted of “simple” possession of drugs under federal law;
> You were in possession of a drug covered by the statute;
> You were only convicted of one drug-related offense (state or federal);
> You successfully completed probation with NO violations.

As soon as you complete probation.

> Under 21 at time of offense - ALL records of conviction, arrest, and criminal proceedings are destroyed as if it never happened;
> Over 21 at time of offense – All records of conviction, arrest, and criminal proceedings are sealed (but not destroyed).

Presidential pardon (PG. 1095)

> You were convicted of a federal offense;
> You have completed your sentence (including any parole or probation term).

5 years from the date of your release (or from the date of your conviction if you were never incarcerated).

> Restores any civil rights lost due to federal conviction, including gun rights;
> Does not restore rights lost due to state convictions.

Be prepared to show support for your clean record!

For almost every type of “cleaning” remedy, you will need to convince a judge (or sometimes the Governor or President) of why you deserve the remedy you are asking for. When you ask to have your record cleaned up (usually by filing papers in court or with the government), you will want to make sure that the judge (or Governor) has all possible materials that support your request, such as letters of support, school transcripts, awards, certificates of achievement, and diplomas.

WHAT INFORMATION WILL I NEED TO CLEAN UP MY RECORD?

This is a general list of the information you will need to have for EVERY entry in your criminal record:

1) Your case number (sometimes called “docket number”);
2) The dates associated with your offense, including the dates of arrest, conviction, sentencing, release, and completion of any term of supervision;
3) The name of the code (for example, Penal Code, Health & Safety Code, etc.) and section number of the code that you were accused or convicted of violating;
4) Whether you were ordered to serve time on probation (formal and informal probation are treated the same in your record);
   a. If so, for how long?
5) Whether you were ordered to pay any restitution, court fines or penalties, or administrative fees, and how much (learn more about these in the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 755); and
6) Whether you were sentenced to state prison.

WHY DO I NEED THIS INFORMATION FOR EXPUNGEMENT?

You will need this information for two reasons:

1) The information in your record will help you (and your lawyer, if you have one) decide which remedies you are eligible for (allowed to get), based on your criminal history (such as expungement, reclassification, dismissal, Certificate of Rehabilitation, or pardon); AND

2) To request the remedy you want, you (or your lawyer) will need to fill out forms for the court or agency. You will need detailed information from your criminal record in order to fill out these forms.

WHERE DO I GET THIS INFORMATION FOR EXPUNGEMENT?

The best way to get this information is from your RAP sheet. You will need the RAP sheet that has information on ALL of your convictions.

Choose the RAP sheet that has information on ALL of your cases:

• Your local (county) RAP sheet will list only your cases in that county, so only use this if ALL of your cases are from the SAME COUNTY (or if you only have 1 case). For information on getting your local county RAP sheet, see PG. 1042.

• Your California (DOJ) RAP sheet will list all of your cases in California, so use this if ALL of your cases are from the state of CALIFORNIA only. For instructions on how to get your DOJ RAP sheet, see APPENDIX A, on PG. 1106.

• Your FBI (federal) RAP sheet will list all of your cases from EVERY STATE as well as FEDERAL offenses. Use this if you have cases from more than one state or any federal convictions. For instructions on how to get your FBI RAP sheet, see APPENDIX D, on PG. 1113.

You may also be able to obtain information on a case from the following sources:

• Your court papers from your case.
  o BUT court papers will only contain information about that particular case. If you have multiple cases, especially if they are from different counties, it may be easier to get a copy of your full California RAP sheet (or FBI RAP sheet, if you also have federal or out-of-state cases).

• Your lawyer, parole agent, probation officer, or other people at the courts or law enforcement agencies.
  o BUT these people may only have limited information about your case, or may have information about 1 case but NOT others, so it's better to go through the formal channels of getting your full RAP sheet.

• The criminal court where your case was decided.
  o BUT the court will only have information for cases from that county and NOT other counties. If you only have cases from 1 county, make sure you get copies of ALL of your court papers for ALL of your cases in that county.

Now that you have your criminal records and you know what's in them, you are ready to begin cleaning them up!

CALIFORNIA “EXPUNGEMENT” OF STATE CRIMINAL RECORDS

EXPUNGEMENT—GENERAL OVERVIEW

An expungement (also called a “dismissal”) is a way of cleaning up your record that limits the information that shows up in a background check and can relieve you of some of the consequences associated with your conviction.

WHAT EXPUNGEMENT DOES:

• Prohibits information about the conviction from being included in some background checks;
• Releases you from most of the “penalties and disabilities” resulting from the conviction;
• Changes your record to show that the conviction was dismissed (but does NOT remove the offense from your official criminal record (RAP) entirely).

WHAT CONVICTIONS CAN BE EXPUNGED?

• A conviction may qualify for expungement if:
  • You did NOT spend any time in prison for the offense; AND
  • You completed any term of supervision for the offense; AND
  • You are NOT currently charged with, serving a sentence for, or on a term of supervision for another offense.
• Note: Certain convictions are NEVER eligible for expungement.

HOW DO I GET AN EXPUNGEMENT?

• You must file a petition with the court;
• You may have a hearing where you will have to persuade a judge that you deserve an expungement;
• You may have to give the court documents that support your request, such as letters of support, school transcripts, and diplomas or certificates.

WHAT IS “EXPUNGEMENT” IN CALIFORNIA?

Expungement (also called dismissal) is a way to clean up your record, by limiting the criminal history information that certain people can see in your background check and relieves you of some of the consequences associated with your conviction.

An expungement is also called a “dismissal” because your case is actually reopened by the court, the “finding of guilt” (your guilty or no contest plea, or guilty verdict) is withdrawn, and a plea of not guilty is entered. The court will then dismiss your case, and your record will be changed to show a dismissal (under Cal. Penal Code § 1203.4) rather than a conviction.

Getting your conviction expunged hides the conviction from certain people when they run a background check on you. For example, most private employers are NOT allowed to see a conviction that has been expunged. Additionally, most private employers CANNOT ask you about, or even consider, a conviction that has been expunged when you apply for a job. For information on how to get a conviction expunged, see PG. 1061.

IMPORTANT: Expungement does NOT erase the offense from your criminal record or RAP sheet. But it DOES change your record to show that the conviction was dismissed.

WHAT DOES EXPUNGEMENT DO?

• An expungement makes it so that most private employers CANNOT see the expunged conviction when they run a background check on you.
• On job applications for (most) private employers, if you are asked if you have any convictions, you can answer NO. O o NOTE: On applications for certain jobs, you MUST report convictions even if they have been expunged. (For more information about who can still see or ask about expunged convictions, see PG. 1052.
  o Several California cities and counties have passed “Ban the Box” laws that prohibit employers from asking about convictions on a job application. If you are applying for a job in a location where a Ban the Box law is in effect, the application should not ask about any convictions. For more information on Ban the Box laws, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, on PG. 643.
• Anyone else who does see the expungement will see it as a dismissal instead of a conviction, which is less alarming.
• If you apply for a professional or occupational license or certification, an expungement can help your chances because it is seen as evidence of rehabilitation. (Although the licensing board will still be able to see that there was a conviction that was dismissed.) For more information on licensing and certification, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, on PG. 643.
• An expungement may also be seen as evidence of rehabilitation when you apply for housing. Learn more in the HOUSING CHAPTER, PG. 417.
• If you were denied federal student loans because of a drug conviction, you will become eligible again after an expungement. For more information about regaining eligibility for federal aid after a drug conviction, see the EDUCATION CHAPTER, on PG. 975, and EDUCATION CHAPTER: Appendix B, on PG. 997).

WHAT DOES EXPUNGEMENT NOT DO?

- Expungement \textit{DOES NOT} remove the offense from your criminal history—it will still show up on your RAP sheets, but it will show that the conviction was dismissed.\textsuperscript{2627}

- Expungement \textit{DOES NOT} seal the court file from public access, so someone can still see the conviction if they look up court records from your case.\textsuperscript{2628}

- If you face criminal charges in the future, the expunged conviction still counts as a prior conviction;\textsuperscript{2629}

- Under California’s 3 Strikes law, the expunged conviction still counts as a “strike” if the underlying offense was a “strike.” This means the expunged conviction can still count against you if you have a new criminal case under the 3 Strikes law.\textsuperscript{2630}

- Expungement does \textit{NOT} restore your right to possess a firearm if you lost this right due to your conviction. This means you can still be charged with “felon in possession” offenses if the conviction caused you to lose your gun rights.\textsuperscript{2631}

- If your conviction required you to register as a sex offender, you will still have to register after the conviction is expunged.\textsuperscript{2632}

- Expungement \textit{WILL NOT} prevent the DMV from suspending or revoking your driver license based on the underlying offense.\textsuperscript{2633}

- You will still have to disclose your conviction when applying for certain types of jobs, such as a law enforcement or working with children, and employers in these areas can still consider your expunged conviction when deciding whether to hire you. (For more information, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, on PG. 643.)

- You will still have to disclose your conviction when applying for government-issued licenses (such as professional or occupational licenses or certificates), and licensing agencies can still consider an expunged conviction when deciding whether to issue you a license.\textsuperscript{2634} However a professional or occupational licensing board CANNOT deny your license based \textit{solely} on a conviction that was expunged. (For more information, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, on PG. 690.)

- Expungement does NOT restore your right to hold public office if you lost this right due to your conviction.

- Expungement does NOT remove the immigration consequences of your conviction, so Immigration & Customs Enforcement (ICE) can still use the expunged conviction for removal or exclusion. Talk to an immigration attorney for help if you have this issue!

WHO CAN SEE MY RECORD—EVEN IF IT IS EXPUNGED?

Anyone with access to your RAP sheet will still see your expunged convictions (see SIDE BOX). This includes law enforcement agencies, courts, licensing boards, and certain employers. You must disclose expunged convictions if you are applying for a job in certain fields such as law enforcement, healthcare, or banking, or if you want to apply for a professional or occupational license of any kind. Public Housing Authorities (PHAs), which run many government-assisted housing programs can also consider convictions that have been expunged.

2 THINGS TO KNOW:

- Certain employers and most licensing agencies are required to ask about expunged convictions—and you MUST disclose this information if they do. However, these groups will also understand what an expungement means—they will know that you are making an effort to clean up your record by having the original conviction expunged.

- Although it is illegal for most private employers to ask about or consider expunged convictions when making hiring decisions, be prepared for unethical or uninformed employers to access and use this information anyway. For more information about what to do in this situation, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, on PG. 643.

2638 Cal. Lab. Code § 432.7(b).
2639 Cal. Lab. Code § 432.7(c).
CAN A PRIVATE EMPLOYER FIND OUT ABOUT MY EXPUNGED CONVICTION?

Maybe. There are two ways that a private employer might find out about your expunged conviction:

- Even though background check companies are NOT allowed to report expunged convictions to employers, it is possible that a company might include this information in your background check anyway;
- If an employer does its own “in-house” background check on you, they may find the information in (public) court records about your case. Remember, expungement does NOT seal the court records from your case, so someone could still look up the original conviction in your files. However, it is still illegal for most private employers to consider an expunged conviction, even if they learn about it through public records.

WHAT TYPES OF CONVICTIONS CAN BE EXPUNGED?

Under the law, only certain types of convictions can be expunged. Generally, the following types of convictions qualify for expungement:

1) the CONVICTION is for:
   a. An Infraction,
   b. A Misdemeanor, or
   c. A Felony “wobbler” (with NO prison time);

AND

2) the SENTENCE imposed was:
   a. County jail time,
   b. Probation,
   c. A fine, or
   d. A combination of these.

This means that as long as you were sentenced only to pay a fine, serve a term of probation, or serve time in county jail—even for a felony “wobbler”—your conviction may be eligible for expungement.

In addition, YOU must meet certain requirements for your conviction to be eligible for expungement. In general, your conviction qualifies for expungement if:

- You did NOT spend any time in prison for the offense; AND
- You are OFF probation or other type of supervision; AND
- You are NOT currently charged with, serving a sentence for, or on a term of supervision for another offense.

Note: Certain convictions are NEVER eligible for expungement.

For information about the two types of California expungement and the specific requirements for each one, see PG. 1057.

IMPORTANT: You must be OFF PROBATION or any other form of supervision to be eligible for expungement.

2643 CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 1203.4, 1203.4a.
2644 CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 1203.4(a)(1), 1203.4a.
If you are still on probation and want to get your conviction expunged, you must first ask a judge to grant you early release (“early discharge”) from probation BEFORE requesting an expungement. For more information on requesting early release from probation, see PG. 1062.

IMPORTANT! Some convictions are NEVER ELIGIBLE for expungement. They are:

- Any conviction where you SERVED a prison term (or any other facility run by CDCR, including prison camps and prison hospitals)—no matter what your conviction was for!
- Violations of the following code sections:
  - Any infraction under California Vehicle Code section 42001 (violations of any local ordinance, minor traffic tickets, pedestrian and bicycle offenses);
  - Any misdemeanor under California Vehicle Code section 42002.1 (failing to stop and submit to vehicle inspection, refusing to comply with orders from law enforcement officer or firefighter, unsafe condition that endangers a person);
  - Any conviction (felony or misdemeanor) under California Penal Code sections 286(c), 288, 288a(c), 288.5, 289(j), 311.1, 311.2, 311.3, 311.11; or a felony conviction under California Penal Code sections 261.5(d).

BECAUSE I HAVE A FELONY CONVICTION, BUT NEVER WENT TO PRISON FOR IT, CAN I GET IT EXPUNGED?

Maybe. If you were convicted of a felony, but you were NOT sentenced to serve a state prison term, your offense is called a “wobbler.” A wobbler is an offense that can be charged as either a misdemeanor or a felony, so the offense “wobbles” between the two offense categories. If you were convicted of a felony wobbler AND you were NOT sentenced to a state prison term, your offense is probably eligible for expungement.

Wobblers are eligible for expungement if:

- You were NOT sentenced to a state prison term for the offense;
- You were NOT sent to prison for a violation while on probation for the offense;
- You were NOT convicted of an offense that is NEVER eligible for expungement (see PG. 1055); AND
- You otherwise meet the requirements for expungement (for information on the two types of expungement and their requirements, see PG. 1057).

If you meet the above requirements, your felony should be eligible for expungement.

2645 CAL PENAL CODE § 1203.4.
2646 CAL PENAL CODE § 1203.4.
BECAUSE I HAVE A FELONY CONVICTION THAT WAS SENTENCED TO COUNTY JAIL UNDER CALIFORNIA’S REALIGNMENT ACT INSTEAD OF STATE PRISON, CAN I GET IT EXPUNGED?

Maybe. If you were convicted of a felony and sentenced to county jail instead of state prison (called a “County Jail Felony”) under California's Realignment Act, you may be eligible for expungement under California’s newest expungement law. This law is specifically intended for people who were sentenced under Realignment.

To be eligible for expungement of your Realignment felony, you must:

• Have served your entire sentence in county jail—NOT state prison;
• Have completed your entire sentence—including any probation or community supervision;
• Paid all of your fines and fees; AND
• Not have any new charges pending, not be serving a sentence on a new case, and not be on probation for another case.

What is a SPLIT sentence vs. a STRAIGHT sentence?

Under California's Realignment Act, people who are sentenced to county jail instead of prison for felony convictions, can be sentenced in two ways:

• Straight sentence—a person is sentenced to serve their entire sentence in custody. When they are released, they have completed their entire sentence and are not required to serve any term of supervision.
• Split sentence—a person is sentenced to spend a portion of their time in custody and the remainder under community supervision (mandatory supervision).

Additionally, BEFORE you can get your conviction expunged, you must wait a certain amount of time after completing your sentence:

• If you had a split sentence, you must wait 1 year after the completion of your sentence.
• If you had a straight sentence, you must wait 2 years after the completion of your sentence.

Finally, expungement under this statute is entirely discretionary, meaning it is up to the judge to decide whether or not your conviction should be expunged. For this reason, you should be prepared to bring any evidence you can to show the judge that you deserve to have your conviction expunged. (For more information on discretionary expungements, see PG. 1058.)

2648 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.41.
2649 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.41(a)(2).
IMPORTANT: What an expungement will NOT do.

Even if you have your Realignment felony expunged:

• It will still count as a “prior” conviction in a future prosecution;\(^{2650}\)
• You still have to report it as a conviction to licensing agencies and on applications for positions in public office;\(^{2651}\)
• It does NOT restore your gun rights, so you can still be charged under “felon in possession” laws;\(^{2652}\)
• It does NOT restore your right to hold public office (if you lost this right due to your conviction).\(^{2653}\)

WHAT ARE THE DIFFERENT TYPES OF EXPUNGEMENT AND WHAT DO THEY REQUIRE?

There are 2 types of expungements: Mandatory and Discretionary.

• Mandatory expungement is automatic, meaning the judge MUST expunge your conviction if you meet all the requirements.
• Discretionary expungement means that it is up to the judge whether or not you deserve to have your conviction expunged. You still have to meet certain requirements, but you do NOT have to meet all of the requirements like you do for mandatory dismissal.

MANDATORY EXPUNGEMENT

If your conviction is eligible for expungement AND you meet certain additional requirements, the law says that the judge MUST dismiss your conviction. There are 2 situations where you can get MANDATORY expungement of your conviction:\(^{2654}\)

SITUATION #1—If you received PROBATION...

Your conviction MUST be expunged if ALL of the following apply to you:\(^{2655}\)

• Your conviction was for a misdemeanor or felony “wobbler”; AND
• You received probation as part of your sentence, AND:
  o You successfully completed probation AND paid all the fines, restitution, and reimbursements ordered by the court as part of your sentence, OR o You received early release from probation:\(^{2656}\) AND

---

\(^{2650}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.41(b)(1).
\(^{2651}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.41(b)(2). You must also report the conviction on applications for contracting with the California State Lottery Commission.
\(^{2652}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.41(b)(3).
\(^{2653}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.41(b)(4).
\(^{2654}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.4(a). (“In any case in which the defendant has fulfilled the conditions of probation for the entire period of probation, or has been discharged prior to the termination of the period of probation, or in any other case in which a court, in its discretion and the interests of justice, determines that a defendant should be granted relief available under this section, the defendant shall, at any time after the termination of the period of probation, if he or she is not then serving a sentence for any offense, on probation for any offense, or charged with the commission of any offense, be permitted by the court to withdraw his or her plea of guilty or plea of nolo contendre and enter a plea of not guilty.”).
\(^{2655}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.4(a).
\(^{2656}\) People v. Butler, 105 Cal. App. 3d 585 (Ct. App. 1980) (defendant discharged early from probation was entitled to mandatory dismissal of conviction, despite owing unpaid restitution).
• You are NOT currently serving another sentence or under supervision for another offense; AND
• You are NOT currently charged with another offense.

SITUATION #2—If you did NOT receive PROBATION...

Your conviction MUST be expunged if ALL of the following apply to you:

• Your conviction was for an infraction or misdemeanor; AND
• You did NOT receive probation as part of your sentence, AND
• You have fully complied with the requirements of your sentence (including paying all restitution, fines, and reimbursements that were part of your sentence); AND
• One year has passed since the date of your conviction; AND
• You are NOT currently serving another sentence or under supervision for another offense; AND
• You are NOT currently charged with another offense.

If you are in either of the situations above, you are eligible for MANDATORY expungement.

DISCRETIONARY EXPUNGEMENT

If your conviction is eligible for expungement, but you do NOT meet the requirements for mandatory expungement, you may still get a DISCRETIONARY expungement for your conviction—but it will be up to the judge to decide.

The judge MAY expunge your conviction if:

(1) You were convicted of an infraction, misdemeanor, or felony “wobbler”; AND

(2a) You received probation AND
  ▪ You did NOT complete all the conditions of probation (including paying off your restitution obligations, or you violated other conditions of your probation); AND ▪ You did NOT get an early release from probation;

OR

(2b) You received probation for a conviction of any offense listed in California Vehicle Code sections 12810(a) to (e) (certain serious traffic violations); OR

OR

(2c) You did NOT receive probation AND
  ▪ You did NOT complete all the requirements of your sentence; AND ▪ One year has passed since your conviction.

AND

(3) You are NOT currently charged with, under supervision for, or serving a sentence for any other offense.

IMPORTANT: Restitution Payments & Discretionary Expungement.

Although the judge is allowed to grant you a discretionary expungement if you still owe restitution, fines, or other payments ordered by the court, it can be much more difficult to get your conviction expunged if you have not made these payments (especially victim restitution). The judge will probably want to see that at least you have been making efforts to pay your debts, even if you still owe money. For more information on paying restitution, fines, and other fees, see the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, beginning on PG. 755. It’s also good to contact lawyer to get advice on your individual case, since restitution is different for every case. See the list of legal aid providers to find a lawyer who may be able to assist you on PG. 1190.

In order to grant a discretionary dismissal, the judge must find that is “in the interests of justice” to do so. This means you will need to show a very convincing reason why you deserve to have your conviction expunged. You should give the court as much helpful information as possible (including evidence of rehabilitation) to persuade the judge to decide in your favor!

AUTOMATIC “EXPUNGEMENTS”

In a handful of limited cases involving certain types of drug convictions, your record will be cleared automatically, and you will not have to go through any special court process to get an expungement. This happens in 2 situations:

- If the judge suspended your sentence (called deferred entry of judgment) and ordered you to do a drug-treatment program (drug diversion) instead, and you successfully completed the program.
- If you have a minor marijuana conviction for simple possession, and your conviction is more than 2 years old.

For more information about automatically cleaning your record in these 2 situations, see PG. 1061.

GETTING YOUR CONVICTION EXPUNGED

The following information will guide you through the general process of requesting an expungement in California, but it is always a good idea to get a lawyer's help to make sure you get the best results. There are many expungement clinics across the state that offer free services and advice. For a list of expungement clinics and legal aid organizations that offer expungement services, see PG. 1190.

A NOTE ABOUT COURT FEES: Be aware that the court will charge you fees for filing documents with the court. The amount of the fees will vary by county. If you cannot afford to pay the fees, you can request a fee waiver (meaning you may not have to pay the fees). Ask the clerk how much the fees are and how to request a fee waiver.

I BELIEVE I AM ELIGIBLE FOR A MANDATORY OR DISCRETIONARY EXPUNGEMENT. HOW DO I GET ONE?

In most cases, you will need to file papers in court and ask a judge to expunge your conviction. This process is called filing a Petition for Dismissal, and is basically the same for both mandatory and discretionary expungements, with a few small differences. You will need to file the proper forms in the court where you were convicted, and you may have a hearing in front of a judge (especially if you are requesting a discretionary expungement).

For a detailed explanation of each step, see APPENDIX K, on PG. 1125.

IMPORTANT: If you have convictions from multiple cases, you will need to file a separate petition for each case.

IF MY CONVICTION IS ELIGIBLE TO BE EXPUNGED AUTOMATICALLY, HOW DOES THIS HAPPEN?

Under the law, certain drug convictions will be expunged from your record automatically, without you having to file a petition in court. This happens in the following 2 situations:

1) Successful completion of a drug diversion program:
   a. In some cases, if you were charged with a drug offense, the judge will suspend your sentence so that you can complete drug treatment instead of going to jail.
   b. If the judge suspended your sentence and ordered you to do a drug-treatment program (drug diversion), and you successfully completed the program, your records will be automatically expunged.
   c. NOTE: This remedy is available ONLY if you were given drug diversion by the court AND you successfully completed all court-ordered requirements. If you did NOT complete your requirements, or you were NOT actually given diversion by the court, then the conviction will still be on your record (even if you completed a drug treatment program on your own).

2) Minor Marijuana Convictions:

---

\(^{2664}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 1000 et seq.
a. If you have a minor marijuana conviction on your record, your record will be cleaned automatically if:
   i. Your conviction was for "simple possession" of marijuana; AND
   ii. The conviction occurred after January 1, 1976; AND
   iii. The conviction is more than 2 years old.

b. After 2 years, all records relating to your arrest and conviction will be destroyed. You will be able to say that you have NO arrests or convictions for this case.

c. NOTE: This automatic erasure of minor marijuana convictions is ONLY for convictions related to possession of less than 1 ounce (28.5 grams) of marijuana for personal use. If your conviction was for cultivation, sales, or transportation of marijuana, it will NOT be erased automatically.

---

NOTE: As of January 1, 2011, simple possession of marijuana is no longer a misdemeanor offense; it is now only an infraction. Although minor marijuana infractions are supposed to be erased automatically just like other minor marijuana (misdemeanor) convictions, in practice, this doesn't always happen! If you find that your marijuana infraction has NOT been erased from your record, you will need to contact the court clerk at the court that handled your case and ask him or her to (1) correct your criminal record and (2) destroy all arrest and conviction records from your case.

BECAUSE I AM STILL ON PROBATION AND NEED TO BE OFF TO HAVE MY CONVICTION EXPUNGED, IS THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO TO GET OFF EARLY?

Yes. Under California law, you can ask the judge to release you early from your probation term (called “early discharge”). Although courts often sentence people to several years on probation (for example, 3-4 years for a misdemeanor), many people are able to complete all of their probation requirements (all of the things the court has ordered them to do—such as attend counseling or pay restitution) long before their time is up. For this reason, courts are often willing to release people early from their probation. For more information about probation terms and conditions, see the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, on PG. 130.

You can request early release from probation whether you are on informal probation (also called court probation), formal probation, or mandatory supervision. The process is the same for all three. However, early release from supervision in order to get your conviction expunged ONLY applies if you are on informal or formal PROBATION or Mandatory Supervision. It does NOT apply if you are on parole or PRCS. Although you CAN get off parole and PRCS early, you still CANNOT get your conviction expunged because you will have served a prison sentence for it.

2666 CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE §§ 11361.5, 11361.7. Note: Even if the records are not physically destroyed, they will no longer have any legal effect after 2 years.
2667 CAL. HEALTH & SAFETY CODE § 11357(b).
2668 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.3(a) (“The court may at any time when the ends of justice will be served thereby, and when the good conduct and reform of the person so held on probation shall warrant it, terminate the period of probation, and discharge the person so held.”).
2669 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.3(a).
WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR REQUESTING AN EARLY RELEASE FROM PROBATION SO THAT I CAN PURSUE EXPUNGEMENT?

To request early release from probation, you will need to file a Motion for Early Termination of Probation in the court where you were convicted. Because this process requires drafting a formal court pleading with accompanying documents, we recommend that you ask a lawyer for help. Ideally, you should contact the lawyer who represented you when you were sentenced, but any private criminal defense lawyer or Public Defender should be able to help you.

Requesting an early release from probation will involve filing a Motion for Early Termination of Probation. You will have a hearing where you will need to convince the judge that you deserve to be discharged from your probation term early.

For complete details on each step of the process for requesting an early release from probation, see APPENDIX P, on PG. 1135.

You will have the best chance of getting released early from probation early if:

- You have not violated your probation in any way;\(^\text{2669}\)
- You have completed the requirements of your probation (finished all classes, paid all restitution and fines, etc.);\(^\text{2670}\) AND
- You are at least halfway through your probationary period (i.e. 1 ½ years of a 3-year probation).\(^\text{2671}\)

For more information about probation conditions and requirements, see the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, on PG. 130. For more information about paying court-ordered restitution and fines, see the COURT-ORDERED DEBT CHAPTER, on PG. 755.

Courts also often consider other positive efforts that you have made in your life, such as:\(^\text{2672}\)

- Employment or efforts to find a job;\(^\text{2673}\)
- Community service or volunteer work;\(^\text{2674}\) and
- Educational pursuits and school accomplishments.\(^\text{2675}\)

For this reason, you should make every effort to look for a job, volunteer, or go back to school, and you should emphasize these efforts and accomplishments in your Motion for Early Termination. For more information on finding work and getting a job, see the EMPLOYMENT CHAPTER, on PG. 625. For more information on educational opportunities, see the EDUCATION CHAPTER, on PG. 906.

Finally, the judge may consider:

1) The severity of your conviction and conduct;
2) Your complete criminal history (i.e., other convictions on your record);
3) the prosecutor’s opinion; and
4) how much hardship it will cause you to remain on probation (for example, whether being on probation is making it difficult for you to find work, reconnect with your family, apply for loans, or go back to school).

BECAUSE I AM STILL ON POST-RELEASE COMMUNITY SUPERVISION (PRCS), AND NEED TO BE OFF TO HAVE MY CONVICTION EXPUNGED, IS THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO TO GET OFF EARLY?

Yes. Under the Realignment law, the maximum amount of time that you can be on Post-Release Community Supervision is 3 years (not including any time that your PRCS was revoked or suspended). However, you can be released early in 2 situations:

1) Six months/No violations—If you have been on PRCS for 6 straight months with no violations, you may ask for an early release. The process for requesting early release from PRCS is very similar to the process for requesting early release from regular probation (see APPENDIX P, on PG. 1135):
   a. You will need to write a motion requesting an early release from PRCS, and file it in court in the county where you are on PRCS.
   b. The main difference when you request an early release from PRCS is that the court will ask your probation officer for a probation report and use it to decide whether or not to release you early. If you have been on PRCS for less than one year, it is entirely up to the judge whether or not to release you early, based on your motion and on what is in your probation report.

2) One year/No violations—If you have been on PRCS continuously for 1 year with no violations, you will automatically be discharged early, within 30 days after your 1-year anniversary.
   a. The probation department does NOT discharge you automatically after this time, you may need to file a motion in court asking the judge to discharge you. Ask a lawyer for help if you are in this situation. For a list of legal aid organizations that may be able to help, see PG. 1190.

A Note About Early Release From Probation & Getting a Conviction Expunged in Court at The Same Time:

Generally, early release from probation and expungement of the underlying conviction go hand in hand. They usually happen at the same court appearance, one right after the other. You will file both a Motion for Early Termination of Probation (see APPENDIX P, on PG. 1135) and a Petition for Dismissal (see APPENDIX K, on PG. 1125). If the judge grants your Early Release from Probation motion, he or she will probably grant your Dismissal Petition also (as long as you meet all the other expungement requirements), so you could be off probation AND have your conviction expunged by the end of the day!

REDDUCING FELONIES TO MISDEMEANORS

Certain felony convictions can be reduced to misdemeanors on your record. You can do this as part of getting the conviction expunged, or you may be able to do it separately, even if you DON'T get the conviction expunged.

Whether or not you get the conviction expunged, reducing your felony to a misdemeanor will help you to clean up your record, and has other benefits, including:

• making the conviction look less serious on your criminal record;
• allowing you to say that you've never been convicted of a felony on certain job, housing, and other applications; AND
• restoring some of the rights you may have lost due to your conviction—such as the right to possess a gun and the right to serve on a jury.

This section explains the benefits of having your felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor, what penalties may still affect you afterward, and the steps for getting your felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor.

WHICH FELONY CONVICTIONS CAN BE REDUCED TO MISDEMEANORS?

If you were convicted of a felony, your conviction can be reduced to a misdemeanor if ALL of the following apply:

1) You were NOT sentenced to state prison OR county jail instead of state prison under California’s Realignment Act (in other words, your felony was a “wobbler” offense); AND
2) You were sentenced to PROBATION.

NOTE THAT CERTAIN OFFENSES, referred to as “straight felonies,” can NEVER be reduced to misdemeanors. These “straight felonies” can only ever be charged and sentenced as felonies.

2686 CAL. PENAL CODE § 17(b)(3).
WHAT IS A “WOBBLER” AND WHY IS IT IMPORTANT FOR EXPUNGEMENT?

If you were convicted of a felony, but were NOT sentenced to a state prison term (or county jail under California’s Realignment Act), your offense is called a “wobbler.” A wobbler is an offense that can be charged as either a misdemeanor or a felony, so the offense “wobbles” between the two offense categories. You can find out if your conviction is a wobbler by reading the California Penal Code section that is listed on your RAP sheet. If it says that the offense is punishable by a fine or time in the county jail (misdemeanor sentences) OR time in state prison or “imprisonment pursuant to subdivision (h) of Section 1170” (felony sentence), your offense is considered a wobbler.

Remember, felony “wobblers” are eligible for reduction and ultimately expungement if:

- You were NOT sentenced to prison time for the offense;
- You were NOT sentenced to county jail instead of prison;
- under Realignment;
- You were NOT sent to prison for a violation while on probation for the offense;
- You were NOT convicted of an offense that is NEVER eligible for expungement (see PG. 1055); AND
- You otherwise meet the requirements for expungement (for more information on these requirements, see PG. 1054).

For more information on expunging a felony “wobbler” conviction, see PG. 1055.

Although the law does not require you to be off probation, you will have a better chance of getting your conviction reduced if you have successfully completed probation first. For information on how to get off probation early, see PG. 1063.

IMPORTANT: Felonies that CANNOT be reduced to misdemeanors. If you were sentenced to state prison OR sentenced to county jail for a straight felony under Realignment—even if the judge suspended your sentence so you never spent any time in custody—your conviction is NOT eligible to be reduced to a misdemeanor.

However, if you never spent any time in prison and you were not sentenced to county jail instead of prison because of Realignment, you may still qualify to have your felony conviction expunged (see PG. 1055).

2688 People v. Mauch, 163 Cal. App. 4th 669, 675 (Ct. App. 2008); (There are a small number of felonies where the legislature has prescribed a fine as an alternative to state prison. For these crimes, CAL. PENAL CODE section 18 permits the court to sentence a person to county jail, thus making the conviction a misdemeanor although the legislature in the original writing of the statute, did not permit this alternative. According to the court in People v. Mauch, “By providing for incarceration in the county jail instead of prison, section 18 authorizes a reduction to a misdemeanor for certain felonies even though the Legislature did not provide for misdemeanor treatment in the statutory provisions defining those particular crimes. Because the Legislature has not elsewhere expressly declared any of these particular felonies may qualify as misdemeanors, section 18 creates, to coin a phrase, “stealth wobblers.” Section 18’s misdemeanor option, however, is limited to felonies the Legislature has specified are punishable by imposition of a fine as an alternative to state prison. People v. Isaia (1999) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1558, 1564.
2690 People v. Moomy, 194 Cal. App. 4th 850, 857 (Ct. App. 2011) (citing to authorities stating that “the commission of a wobbler is a felony at the time it is committed and remains a felony unless and until the principal is convicted and sentenced to something less than imprisonment in state prison (or the crime is otherwise characterized as a misdemeanor).”
I WANT TO GET MY FELONY “WOBLER” EXPUNGED. WHAT ARE THE STEPS TO GETTING IT REDUCED TO A MISDEMEANOR SO THAT IT IS THEN ELIGIBLE FOR EXPUNGEMENT?

Having a felony conviction on your record (even after the conviction has been expunged) can be much more damaging than having only a misdemeanor. Reducing your felony “wobbler” conviction to a misdemeanor, whether or not you have it expunged, changes your criminal record so that—going forward—you no longer have a felony conviction on your record.2695

Here are the benefits of reducing your felony “wobbler” to a misdemeanor:

- You can say that you were never convicted of a felony when applying for most jobs, housing, public benefits, loans, etc.;2694
- You will no longer be disqualified from getting most professional and occupational licenses because of a felony conviction;2695
- You may get back your state gun rights back;2696 AND
- You will get back your right to serve on a jury.2697

IMPORTANT: Felony Reductions and Immigration Issues

As of January 1, 2015, the maximum jail time that a person can be sentenced to for a misdemeanor is 364 days—one day short of a full year. This could have significant meaning for you if you are at risk of being deported because of a felony conviction, and your conviction can be reduced to a misdemeanor under Penal Code section 17(b). When you get your felony conviction reduced, it is suggested that you ask the judge to say on the record that the maximum sentence for your conviction is now 364 days. This could possibly help you avoid certain negative immigration consequences that are tied to a sentence of 365 days or more.2698 It is recommended that you contact a lawyer immediately for help in this situation. The Immigration Post-Conviction Relief Project, run by the Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights, offers free help to people with immigration issues related to their criminal convictions. Contact the Lawyer’s Committee by phone at (415) 543-9444 or email at info@lccr.com.

ARE THERE PENALTIES THAT WILL STILL AFFECT ME EVEN IF MY FELONY IS REDUCED TO A MISDEMEANOR?

Yes. Unfortunately, reducing your felony conviction to a misdemeanor doesn’t get you completely off the felony hook. Some penalties will carry over and 2693 People v. Gilbreth (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 53, 57. (“[O]nce a court has reduced a wobbler to a misdemeanor pursuant to . . . [CAL. PENAL CODE] section 17, the crime is thereafter regarded as a misdemeanor ‘for all purposes.’ This unambiguous language means what it says, and unless the Legislature states otherwise, a person such as [defendant] stands convicted of a misdemeanor, not a felony, for all purposes upon the court so declaring.”) 2694 A few licensing boards/agencies can still consider a conviction as a felony, even after the conviction has been reduced to misdemeanor under 17(b). For example: Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 6102 (Cal. State Bar—licensing of attorneys) and Cal. Govt. Code § 1029(a)(3) (disqualification from employment as peace officer).

2695 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1203.4; see, e.g., 10 CAL. CODE REGS. § 3723(a)(3) (discipline of real estate appraisers—criteria of rehabilitation includes, “[j]udicial relief from the consequences of criminal conviction”).

2696 CAL. PENAL CODE § 29800 imposes a lifetime ban on owning or acquiring a firearm for individuals with felony convictions. It also imposes a 10-year firearm ban for certain misdemeanor convictions. If your conviction is reduced to a misdemeanor that does not carry the 10-year ban, your firearm ban will be automatically lifted. If your conviction is reduced to a misdemeanor that carries a 10-year ban, your prohibition will be lifted after the 10-year period. See People v. Gilbreth, 156 Cal. App. 4th 53, 57 (2007) (a reduction of a felony offense to a misdemeanor precludes its use as a predicate offense under the felon-in-possession statutes).

2697 CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 203(a)(5).

2698 Telephone interview with Rose Cahn, Project Leader, Immigrant Post-Conviction Relief Project, Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights in the San Francisco Bay Area. continue to affect you, even after your felony conviction is reduced to a misdemeanor. These include:

- If your conviction was for a serious or violent felony, it will still count as a prior “strike” under California’s Three Strikes Law;²⁶⁹⁹
- If your conviction requires you to register as a sex offender under Penal Code section 290, you will still have to register after your felony is reduced;²⁷⁰⁰
- You may still be subject to federal firearms restrictions;²⁷⁰¹
- Some state licensing agencies may still consider your conviction a felony.²⁷⁰²

Also, please note that getting your felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor under Penal Code section 17(b) does NOT give you any legal rights to be compensated for any time that you served that is more than what you could have been sentenced to if you had been convicted of a misdemeanor originally.

WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR GETTING A FELONY “WOBLER” CONVICTION REDUCED TO A MISDEMEANOR, AND THEN EXPUNGED?

If you want to reduce your felony conviction to a misdemeanor AND get your conviction expunged, it is generally very easy to do both at the same time! In fact, the Petition for Dismissal (Form CR—180) that you must file to get your conviction expunged has a box that you can check to say that your conviction is also eligible to be reduced and to request it.

Then, when you have your court hearing for your expungement, the judge will consider both requests—first your request to reduce the conviction to a misdemeanor, and then your request to have it expunged. If you meet all the requirements, the judge usually will grant both of your requests together. (For a list of the requirements for reducing a felony to a misdemeanor, see PG. 1065. For a list of requirements to get your conviction expunged, see PG. 1054.)

For more details on how to get your felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor, see APPENDIX R, on PG. 1144.

If the judge does NOT reduce your felony to a misdemeanor, or if your felony is only eligible for reduction but not expungement, you may need to file a separate petition to get it reduced. It is recommended that you ask a lawyer to help you with this. For more information about filing a separate petition to ask for your felony conviction to be reduced, see APPENDIX R, on PG. 1144.

²⁶⁹⁹ Gebremicael v. Cal. Com’n on Teacher Credentialing (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1477, 1486 (“Similarly, for purposes of the “Three Strikes law”, the Legislature has declared a prior felony conviction proven by the prosecution as a prior strike retains its status as a felony even if it had been reduced after initial sentencing to a misdemeanor under Penal Code section 17. Cal. Penal Code, § 667, subd. (d)(1), 1170.12, subd. (b)(1).”). However, a reduced felony cannot act as a “prior” crime for a future offense that requires a predicate (that is, preexisting) felony conviction. See People v. Gilbreth 156 Cal. App. 4th 53, 57 (2007).
²⁷⁰⁰ CAL. PENAL CODE § 17(e).
²⁷⁰¹ 18 U.S.C. § 921-930. Under federal law, most domestic violence convictions trigger a lifetime firearms ban, regardless of what state you were convicted in. Most people convicted of a crime of domestic violence in California will never be able to own a gun legally anywhere in the United States.
²⁷⁰² See, for example, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6100, 6102 (for purposes of attorney discipline or disbarment, a felony conviction remains a felony regardless of post-conviction proceedings under CAL. PENAL CODE § 17(b)).
MY CONVICTION WAS FOR A FELONY AND I WAS SENTENCED TO STATE PRISON. WHAT, IF ANYTHING, COULD I DO TO GET IT EXPUNGED?

Unfortunately, if you were sentenced to state prison, or spent any time in a CDCR facility (including a prison camp or hospital) for your conviction (for any reason), your conviction does NOT qualify for expungement OR for reduction to a misdemeanor.

BUT, your conviction may still be eligible for Reclassification or Resentencing under Proposition 47, or you may be eligible for a Certificate of Rehabilitation and/or a Governor’s Pardon. (For information on Reclassification and Resentencing under Proposition 47, see PG. 1069. For information on Certificates of Rehabilitation, see PG. 1075. For information on Governor’s Pardons, see PG. 1079.)

PROPOSITION 47: RECLASSIFICATION AND RESENTENCING UNDER THE NEW LAW

WHAT IS PROPOSITION 47 AND HOW COULD IT HELP ME?

Proposition 47 (Prop 47) is a new law that was passed by voters in California and took effect in November of 2014. Prop 47 changed the law so that certain non-violent offenses that previously could be charged as “wobblers” or straight felonies now can only be charged as straight misdemeanors. Prop 47 also applies to past convictions, which means that you might be able to get your past felony convictions changed to misdemeanors if they meet the requirements under the new law. If you are still serving a sentence for a conviction that qualifies for Prop 47, you may be able to get your sentence reduced.

WHAT CONVICTIONS DOES PROP 47 HELP TO REDUCE?

In general, Prop 47 applies to the following offenses:

- Second Degree Burglary—Penal Code Section 459
- Forgery—Penal Code Sections 470, 475, 476
- Forgery, writing bad checks—Penal Code Section 476a
- Grand Theft—Penal Code Section 487
- Receiving Stolen Property—Penal Code Section 496(a)
- Petty Theft with a Prior—Penal Code Section 666
- Possession of Drugs for Personal Use—Health & Safety Code Section 11350
- Possession of Concentrated Cannabis—Health & Safety Code Section 11357(a)
- Possession of Meth—Health & Safety Code Section 11377

As of November 2014, anyone charged with one of these offenses can only be charged with a misdemeanor—NOT a felony. If you have a felony conviction for... any of these offenses from before November of 2014, you may be able to get it changed to a misdemeanor under Prop 47 (called "reclassification"). If you are currently serving a felony sentence for a conviction of any of these offenses from before November 2014, you may be able to get your sentence reduced to a misdemeanor sentence (called "resentencing"). (For more information about how Prop 47 changes each of these offenses, see PG. 1071.)

IMPORTANT: Your conviction will NOT qualify for Prop 47 if you also have a conviction for certain serious felony offenses. Below is a list of offenses that will disqualify you from using Prop 47 to get your felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor.

WHO CANNOT GET PROP 47 REMEDIES?

Unfortunately, you CANNOT use Prop 47 to clean up your record if you have also been convicted of any of the following offenses:

1) A “serious” or “violent” felony that qualifies as a “super strike” under California Penal Code section 667(e)(2)(i)(iv):
   a. A “sexually violent offense” under the Sexually Violent Predator Law;
   b. Oral copulation, sodomy, or sexual penetration with a person under 14 and more than 10 years younger;
   c. A lewd or lascivious act involving a person under 14;
   d. Any homicide offense, including attempted homicide;
   e. Solicitation to commit murder;
   f. Assault with a machine gun on a peace officer or firefighter;
   g. Possession of a weapon of mass destruction;
   h. Any serious or violent felony punishable in California by life imprisonment or death;

2) Any offense that requires you to register as a sex offender under California Penal Code section 290.

WHAT CAN GET PROP 47 REMEDIES?

Prop 47 can reduce prior felony convictions to misdemeanors (reclassification) AND can reduce any felony sentence that you’re currently serving to a misdemeanor sentence (resentencing).

If you were convicted of one of the offenses covered by Prop 47 (see PG. 1069), and you don’t have any of the disqualifying convictions on your record, here’s what the new law could do for you:

• If you are currently incarcerated or on parole, you may be immediately resentenced to a misdemeanor sentence.

2707 As defined in CAL. PENAL CODE § 289.
2708 As defined in CAL. PENAL CODE § 288.
2709 As defined in CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 187-191.5.
2710 As defined in CAL. PENAL CODE § 653a.
2711 As defined in CAL. PENAL CODE § 245(d)(3).
2712 As defined in CAL. PENAL CODE § 11418(a)(1).
• If you are incarcerated, you could be immediately released based on time served;
• If you are on parole or PRCS, you could be immediately discharged, or your parole could be reduced to probation;274
• If you have already completed your sentence and are off parole, you may be able to have your prior conviction reclassified as a misdemeanor.
• If you are currently on felony probation, it is unclear whether you can be resentenced immediately or whether you must wait until the end of your probation term and have your conviction reclassified.

IMPORTANT: Felony Reductions and Immigration Issues

As of January 1, 2015, the maximum jail time that a person can be sentenced to for a misdemeanor is 364 days—one day short of a full year. This could have significant meaning for you if you are at risk of being deported because of a felony conviction, and your conviction can be reclassified or resentenced as a misdemeanor under Prop 47. When you get your felony conviction reclassified or resentenced, it is suggested that you ask the judge to say on the record that the maximum sentence for your conviction is now 364 days. This could possibly help you avoid certain negative immigration consequences that are tied to a sentence of 365 days or more.275 It is recommended that you contact a lawyer immediately for help in this situation. The Immigrant Post-Conviction Relief Project, run by the Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights, offers free help to people with immigration issues related to their criminal convictions. Contact the Lawyer’s Committee by phone at (415) 543-9444 or email at info@lccr.com.

WHAT DOES PROP 47 NOT DO?

The main limitation of Prop 47 is that it WILL NOT give you back your gun rights if you lost these rights due to your conviction.276 Prop 47 also does not remove the conviction from your record, it simply reduces it to a lesser offense.

Also, please note that getting your felony conviction reclassified or resentenced as a misdemeanor under Prop 47 does NOT give you any legal rights to be compensated for any time that you served that is more than what you could have been sentenced to if you had been convicted of a misdemeanor originally.

HOW DOES PROP 47 CHANGE A CONVICTION ON MY CRIMINAL RECORD?

Prop 47 affects eligible offenses in the following ways:

Shoplifting (Penal Code section 459.5)—Prop 47 adds a new offense, misdemeanor shoplifting. If you enter a business, during regular business hours and steal something worth less than $950, it is now shoplifting instead of second-degree burglary. If you are charged with shoplifting, now you cannot also be charged with petty theft or burglary. If you have a conviction for felony second-degree burglary (California Penal Code section 459), you may be able to get it reduced to misdemeanor shoplifting.

275 Telephone interview with Rose Cahn, Project Leader, Immigrant Post-Conviction Relief Project, Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights in the San Francisco Bay Area.
276 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1170.18(k).
Forgery (Penal Code sections 470, 471, 472, 475)—Prop 47 changes the laws for several forgery offenses that previously could be charged as either misdemeanors or felonies. Now, all of these offenses are straight misdemeanors only. However, Prop 47 does NOT apply if you are convicted of both forgery and identity theft (CAL. PENAL CODE section 530.5). If you have a felony conviction for an eligible forgery offense, you may be able to get it reduced to a misdemeanor.

Forgery/Writing Bad Checks (Penal Code section 476a)—Prop 47 changes this offense from a “wobbler” to a straight misdemeanor if the amount of the check is less than $950. Beware, however, that Prop 47 does not apply if you have three or more prior forgery convictions. If you have a felony conviction for writing a bad check, you may be able to get it reduced to a misdemeanor.

Theft (Penal Code section 490.2)—Before Prop 47, an offense was classified as either GRAND THEFT (a felony) or PETTY THEFT (a misdemeanor) based on (1) the value of the property stolen, (2) the type of property stolen (i.e. guns or cars), OR (3) the manner in which the property was stolen (for example, from someone’s immediate possession). After Prop 47, the offense is classified based ONLY on whether the value of the property is more or less than $950. So, now if you steal something that is worth less than $950, you can only be charged with misdemeanor petty theft, regardless of what type of property you took or how you took it. If you have a felony grand theft conviction, you may be able to get it reduced to misdemeanor petty theft.

Receiving Stolen Property (Penal Code Section 496)—Prop 47 changes this offense to a straight misdemeanor if the value of the stolen property is under $950. If you have a felony conviction for receiving stolen property, you may be able to get it reduced to a misdemeanor.

Petty Theft with a Prior (Penal Code Section 666)—Before Prop 47, if you were charged with petty theft and had three or more previous theft convictions, you could have been charged with a felony. Now, for most people, you cannot be charged with a felony for petty theft, no matter how many prior petty theft convictions you have. The only way that you can be charged with felony petty theft under section 666 now is if you are already excluded from Prop 47 (see above for convictions that can exclude you), and you also have a previous conviction for petty theft, grand theft, elder financial abuse, joyriding, burglary, carjacking, robbery or felony receiving stolen property, OR you are required to register as a sex offender. If you have a felony conviction for petty theft based on prior theft convictions, you may be able to get it reduced to a misdemeanor.

Simple Drug Possession (Health & Safety Code Sections 11350, 11357, & 11377)—Under Prop 47, simple possession of pretty much any controlled substance is a straight misdemeanor. If you have a felony conviction for simple drug possession, you may be able to get it reduced to a misdemeanor.

HOW DO I GET MY CONVICTION REDUCED UNDER PROP 47?

The process for getting a felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor under Prop 47 depends on whether you are currently still serving your sentence (“under sentence”) for the conviction, or if you have already completed your sentence.

2718 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1170.18.
• If you are currently still serving your sentence (meaning you are incarcerated OR on parole or PRCS for the qualifying conviction—also called being “under sentence”), you must ask to be “resentenced.” (See PG. 1073 for information on resentencing.)

• If you have already completed your sentence, you must ask to have your conviction “reclassified.” (See PG. 1074 for information on reclassification.)

• If you are currently on felony probation for the qualifying offense, the courts are still figuring out whether you must ask for resentencing or reclassification. Some lawyers have been successful in convincing judges that you qualify for resentencing, which would could mean that you would be released from probation, so it is worthwhile to first ask to be resentenced if you’re still on felony probation.

HELPFUL HINT—TALK TO A LAWYER! If you think you qualify for resentencing or reclassification, it is recommended that you talk to a lawyer for help. You can start with the lawyer who represented you in your case or your local Public Defender. See also the list of expungement legal aid providers on PG. 1190.

IMPORTANT: In general, you must apply for resentencing or reclassification before November 2017 (within 3 years of when the new law was passed), but this time limit can be waived (excused) if you have a good reason for not applying sooner.

RESENTENCING:

If you are currently serving your sentence (“under sentence”) for an offense that qualifies under Prop 47, and you are NOT excluded by one of the disqualifying convictions, you may be eligible for RESENTENCING.

You will need to fill out and file a Petition for Resentencing, and you may need to request a hearing to convince the judge that you qualify for resentencing under Prop 47. If you qualify, the judge MUST resentence you unless s/he thinks you pose an “unreasonable risk to public safety.” If you have already served the amount of time that you would have served if you were originally convicted of a misdemeanor, you will be released or discharged from supervision.

For information and instructions on how to petition for resentencing, including what “unreasonable risk to public safety” means, see APPENDIX T, on PG. 1152. Each local court has created its own version of this petition, so it’s recommended that you go to the court where you were convicted to request one.

Richard Couzens & Tricia Bigelow, Proposition 47, The Safe Neighborhoods and Schools Act, (Dec. 2014); Orange County Superior Court Form L-0929, Petition/Application to Have Felony Violation(s) Designated as Misdemeanor(s) and Resentencing, Information and Instructions, Nov. 5, 2014.

2722 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1170.18 (a).
RECLASSIFICATION:
If you already completed your sentence (including any parole or probation term) for an offense that qualifies under Prop 47, and you are NOT excluded by one of the disqualifying convictions, you may be eligible to have your felony RECLASSIFIED as a misdemeanor. Unfortunately, you cannot get back the time that you served for the felony, but you can change your criminal record to show a misdemeanor conviction instead of a felony conviction. (For information on the benefits of reducing a felony conviction to a misdemeanor, see PG. 1067.)

Just as for resentencing, you will need to fill out and file a Petition for Reclassification (in most courts this is the same form as for resentencing). The judge will then review your petition to make sure that you qualify for reclassification. Generally, you will not need to request a hearing for a reclassification, however, in some circumstances you may need to.

If you meet the requirements, the judge MUST reclassify your conviction as a misdemeanor.

For information and instructions on how to petition for reclassification, including when you might need to request a hearing, see APPENDIX T, on PG. 1152.

IF I GET MY FELONY REDUCED UNDER PROP 47, HOW DO I THEN GET IT EXPUNGED?
Possibly. Generally, if you served any time in state prison for a felony conviction, you are not eligible to get your conviction expunged. However, many lawyers believe that this is an oversight by the drafters of Prop 47, and feel that if your felony conviction is eligible to be reduced to a misdemeanor under Prop 47, it should be eligible for expungement (like most misdemeanors) as well. Some lawyers have had success getting discretionary expungements for Prop 47 convictions under California Penal Code section 1203.4a (which allows expungement of misdemeanor convictions with sentences other than probation).

PROP 47 AND FEDERAL SENTENCES
Even though Prop 47 only applies to state convictions, it may still help you if you are serving time for a federal conviction. If your federal sentence was increased because you had a prior state conviction, and that state conviction can be reduced to a misdemeanor under Prop 47, that conviction should no longer have as much impact on your federal sentence, which may mean that your total federal sentence can be reduced.

If you are serving a federal sentence and you have prior state convictions, it is recommended that you contact the federal lawyer who represented you, the federal public defender, or the county public defender where you were convicted immediately.

CERTIFICATES OF REHABILITATION

A Certificate of Rehabilitation (COR) is another way to clean up your criminal record. Although it does NOT remove anything from your record, it can restore certain rights that you may have lost, and can help improve your chances of success when you’re applying for work, housing, and professional or occupational licenses.

IMPORTANT: If you have a felony or misdemeanor sex conviction that is eligible for expungement (meaning you were not sent to prison), under law you must get the conviction expunged first, BEFORE you will be eligible to apply for a Certificate of Rehabilitation (COR).

WHAT IS A CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION AND HOW COULD IT HELP ME?

A Certificate of Rehabilitation (COR) is a court order saying that someone who was previously convicted of a crime is now officially rehabilitated. A COR can restore some of the rights you lost as a result of your conviction. A COR may help you in the following ways:

- When you apply for a job or housing, a COR serves as official proof of your rehabilitation;
- If you apply for a professional or occupational license, a COR improves your chances of getting approved;
- If you were required to register as a “sex offender” under California Penal Code section 290, a COR may eliminate your registration requirement;
- A COR serves as an automatic application and recommendation for a full pardon from the Governor.

However, there are many things that a COR does NOT do—for example, it does NOT erase or seal your conviction; it does NOT restore all of the rights you may have lost due to your conviction; and you will still have to disclose the conviction when you apply for jobs, housing, and professional licenses. (For more information on what a COR does NOT do, see PG. 1077.)

WHO CAN GET A CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION?

You may be eligible to apply for a Certificate of Rehabilitation if you fall into any of the following 3 categories:

1) CATEGORY ONE: Felony, Released Before 1943—You are in Category One if all of the following are true:

ROADMAP TO REENTRY

1. You were convicted of a felony;
2. You served your sentence in a California state prison (or some other CDCR facility, such as a prison camp or hospital);
3. You completed your sentence and were released from prison or you were released on parole before May 13, 1943;
4. You have NOT been incarcerated in any California state prison (or other CDCR facility) since your release; AND
5. You have lived in California for the last 3 years.

2) CATEGORY TWO: 1203.4 Dismissals—You are in Category Two if all of the following are true:
   a. You were convicted of a felony OR convicted of a misdemeanor sex offense;
   b. Your conviction was expunged under California Penal Code section 1203.4 (see PG. 1050);
   c. You have NOT been incarcerated ANYWHERE (in ANY prison, jail, or correctional institution) since getting your conviction expunged;
   d. You are NOT on probation for any other felony; AND
   e. You have lived in California for the last 5 years.

3) CATEGORY THREE: Felony, Released After 1943—You are in Category Three if all of the following are true:
   a. You were convicted of a felony;
   b. You were sent to state prison (or some other CDCR facility) for this conviction, or you already were in state prison on May 13, 1943 for the conviction; AND
   c. You have lived in California for the last 5 years.

You will also need to complete a waiting period BEFORE you can apply for a COR, which will be based on your conviction offense. To figure out how long you must wait before applying for a Certificate of Rehabilitation, see APPENDIX U, on PG. 1155.

WHO CANNOT GET A CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION?

Unfortunately, people in certain situations and with certain convictions are NEVER eligible for a Certificate of Rehabilitation.

You are NEVER eligible for a COR if:

• You were convicted of certain serious sex offenses (listed in California Penal Code sections 269, 286c, 288, 288ac, 288.5, 288.7, or 289(j));
• You are on mandatory lifetime parole (for more information on the length of state parole and who must serve mandatory lifetime parole, see the PAROLE & PROBATION CHAPTER, PG. 154);
• You have been sentenced to the death penalty (and your sentence has not been overturned);
• You are serving in the military; or
• You no longer live in California.

2733 CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.
IF YOU NO LONGER LIVE IN CALIFORNIA...

This manual focuses on how to clean up your criminal record if you live in California. If you have a California conviction but no longer live in California, you may be eligible for a Governor’s Pardon (see PG. 1079).

If your conviction is from another state, you will not be eligible to clean up your record using the California remedies described in this chapter. However, many other states provide similar remedies, so you should find out what “cleaning” remedies are available in the state where your conviction is from.

If you have a federal conviction, possible remedies for cleaning up federal criminal records start on PG. 1092.

NOTE: If you ONLY have misdemeanor convictions on your criminal record, you are NOT eligible for a Certificate of Rehabilitation. Instead, it is recommended that you try to get your conviction(s) dismissed under California’s expungement statute (see PG. 1050).

BUT there is one exception—if you were convicted of a misdemeanor sex offense (listed in California Penal Code Section 290), then you may be eligible for a Certificate of Rehabilitation AFTER you get your conviction expunged. (You must also meet the expungement requirements to be eligible, see PG. 1054.)

WHAT CAN’T A CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION DO FOR ME?

Although there are many benefits to obtaining a COR, it is a limited remedy. Here are some of the things that a COR does NOT do for you:

- It does NOT erase a felony conviction or seal your criminal record; 2735
- It does NOT prevent your conviction from being considered a “prior” if you are later convicted of a new offense; 2736
- It will NOT necessarily eliminate your registration requirement, if you are required to register as a “sex offender” under California Penal Code section 290; 2737
- It does NOT allow you to say that you’ve never been convicted of a felony—in other words, you must still disclose your conviction on job and professional licensing applications. 2738

2737 Cal. Penal Code § 290.5.

CERTIFICATES OF REHABILITATION & VOTING RIGHTS

A COR does NOT restore your right to vote if you lost this right due to your conviction. However, you will get your voting rights back automatically once you are out of prison and OFF parole, so you do not need a COR to get your voting rights back. (For more information about voting rights, see the BUILDING BLOCKS OF REENTRY: ID & VOTING CHAPTER, on PG. 68).

WHEN CAN I GET A CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION?

Before you can apply for a Certificate of Rehabilitation, you must complete a “period of rehabilitation”\(^{(2735)}\) to show that you have improved your life and avoided involvement in any more criminal activity since your release from prison or jail. In general, you must wait a minimum of five years before you can apply for a COR. In addition, you will have to wait an extra period of time after the initial five years (the amount of time will depend on what your conviction was for). You must also have completed your parole or probation term, but your period of rehabilitation starts running as soon as you are released from prison or jail and includes any time you spent on supervision.

IMPORTANT: Even if you have not completed your entire period of rehabilitation, you are allowed to request a COR early (as long as you are NOT required to register as a sex offender under California Penal Code Section 290). The judge may grant you a COR early, if s/he finds that it is “in the interests of justice” to do so.\(^{(2740)}\) The judge will consider your good conduct, rehabilitation efforts, and how important getting a COR is to your success in the future.

The process for requesting a Certificate of Rehabilitation is the same, regardless of whether you are requesting it early or at the end of your period of rehabilitation.

I’VE HAD A NEW CONVICTION SINCE MY ORIGINAL OFFENSE?
CAN I STILL APPLY FOR A CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION FOR THE ORIGINAL OFFENSE?

You are allowed to apply for a COR if you have a new conviction during your period of rehabilitation. However, the judge can (and likely will) use the new conviction as a reason to deny your COR, and can require you to complete a new period of rehabilitation starting from when your first COR is denied.\(^{(2742)}\) In addition, even if you get the new conviction expunged, the judge can still consider the conduct that led to the conviction when deciding whether to grant your COR.

HOW DO I GET A CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION?

If you meet all of the eligibility requirements for a Certificate of Rehabilitation (see PG. 1075) AND you have completed your period of rehabilitation (or you want to request a COR early), you will need to file papers (called a Petition for Certificate of Rehabilitation) in the court in the county where you currently live. Your petition will explain why you deserve a COR, and should include letters of support and proof of your accomplishments. The judge may ask the DA to do an investigation and prepare a report on your life since your release.

\(^{(2735)}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 4852.03.
\(^{(2740)}\) CAL. PENAL CODE § 4852.22.
Then you will have a hearing where you will have to convince the judge that you are rehabilitated and ready to be a responsible member of society.

NOTE: You must request a Certificate of Rehabilitation from the court in the county where you currently live. This is different from most other remedies (such as expungement, reducing your felony to a misdemeanor, and Prop 47), which require you to request them from the court where you were convicted.

IMPORTANT: You have the right to a lawyer to help you with your request for a COR. You can hire a lawyer of your choice, or if you cannot afford a lawyer, the court will assign a public defender or another lawyer to help you. If you are just getting started and don’t yet have a lawyer, you should start by contacting the Public Defender’s Office in the county where you live, or look for a local expungement clinic in your area.

You also have the right to get help with your request from the county probation department, state parole officers, the California Youth Authority (if you are under 30 years old), and any other rehabilitative agency.

For complete information and instructions on how to request a Certificate of Rehabilitation, including a sample application, see APPENDIX V, on PG. 1156.

GOVERNOR’S PARDON

WHAT IS A GOVERNOR’S PARDON?

A governor’s pardon is an official forgiveness for your conviction, granted by the Governor of California. A pardon can potentially restore all of the rights you lost due to your conviction—including your gun rights and your right to serve on a jury—as well as eliminate your requirement to register as a sex offender. It is the best thing you can do to reduce the impact of your criminal record on your life, but it is still not a complete remedy because it does not make it as if the conviction never happened. (For more information on what a pardon does and does NOT do for you, see PG. 1081.)

A California Governor’s pardon is an honor traditionally granted only to individuals who have demonstrated exemplary behavior following conviction for a felony. A pardon by the Governor is an official acknowledgement of your rehabilitation, by the state’s highest elected official. A Governor’s pardon provides significant relief from the collateral civil consequences of a criminal conviction. Both the California Penal Code and the California Constitution give

---

2743 CAL. PENAL CODE § 4852.08.
the Governor the authority to grant a pardon, and that authority is entirely discretionary.\textsuperscript{2746}

Unfortunately, Governor’s pardons are difficult to get and are NOT granted very often, so you should try to clean up your record using other remedies first—such as an expungement or a Certificate of Rehabilitation.

\begin{center}
\textbf{Pardons vs. Reclassification, Resentencing, and Reducing a Felony to a Misdemeanor}
\end{center}

In most cases, you are NOT eligible for a Governor’s pardon if you ONLY have misdemeanor convictions on your criminal record. (In other words, you must have a felony conviction to get a pardon.) If you reduce your felony conviction to a misdemeanor under California Penal Code section 17(b) (see PG. 1065), or have it reclassified or resentenced as a misdemeanor under Prop 47 (see PG. 1069), you could become ineligible for a Governor’s pardon (unless you also have other felony convictions on your record).

However, in most cases it’s still better to have your felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor—even if that makes you ineligible for a Governor’s pardon—for these reasons:

\begin{itemize}
\item It is MUCH easier to get your felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor than it is to get a Governor’s pardon. Governor’s pardons are very rare, and you should not count on getting one.
\item Getting your felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor removes the felony from your criminal record and allows you to say that you were never convicted of a felony for that offense. But a Governor’s pardon does NOT remove, erase, or seal the conviction on your record, so you will still have to disclose that you have a felony conviction even if you have been pardoned.
\end{itemize}

IMPORTANT: If your conviction is eligible for a Certificate of Rehabilitation, you should absolutely apply for a Certificate of Rehabilitation first, BEFORE seeking a pardon. Getting a Certificate of Rehabilitation almost ensures your chance of getting a pardon AND will automatically serve as your application for one (so you will not have to do anything else to apply!)

\begin{center}
\textbf{WHO CAN GET A GOVERNOR’S PARDON?}
\end{center}

Anyone who has been convicted of a felony OR certain misdemeanor sex offenses is eligible for a pardon.\textsuperscript{2747} Your conviction must be from California—you cannot get a Governor’s pardon for a conviction from another state, or for a federal conviction.\textsuperscript{2748}

WHO CANNOT GET A GOVERNOR’S PARDON?

You are NOT eligible for a pardon if you ONLY have misdemeanor convictions (that are NOT sex offenses) on your California criminal record.

Note: If you have a felony conviction from another state or for a federal conviction, you still do NOT qualify for a California Governor’s pardon. Your felony or misdemeanor sex offense conviction must be from California to qualify.

HOW COULD A GOVERNOR’S PARDON HELP ME?

A Governor’s Pardon can restore many of the rights and benefits that you lost because of your conviction. A pardon MAY:

1) Restore your right to serve on a jury;2749
2) Restore your California gun rights (UNLESS you were convicted of a felony involving the use of a dangerous weapon);2750
3) Permit you to work as a county probation officer or state parole agent;2751
4) Relieve certain people of their duty to register as “sex offenders,” who would otherwise still be required to register after getting a Certificate of Rehabilitation (see PG. 1077).2752

HOW CAN’T A GOVERNOR’S PARDON HELP ME?

Like a Certificate of Rehabilitation, a pardon is still a limited remedy. There are certain things that a pardon does NOT do for you:

• A pardon does NOT seal or erase the record of your conviction2753
  o (But you may still get the conviction expunged, if you meet all the other requirements— see PG. 1054);
• A Pardon does NOT allow you to say that you’ve never been convicted of a felony on applications for employment, housing, or professional licenses—you must still disclose the conviction2754
  o (But you may still get the felony reduced to a misdemeanor or reclassified under Prop 47, if you meet all the other requirements for these remedies—see PG. 1069);
• A Pardon does NOT prevent your conviction from being considered a “prior” if you are convicted of a new offense in the future;2755
• A Pardon does NOT restore your gun rights if you were convicted of a felony involving the use of a dangerous weapon;2756
• A Pardon is NOT a remedy for any convictions from another state or for federal convictions;2757
• A Pardon does NOT prevent you from being deported.2758

2749 CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 203(a)(5).
2750 CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 4852.17, 4854. A pardon by the Governor may restore your California firearm privileges, however, it will not necessarily restore your federal firearm privileges, which contain stricter prohibitions.
2751 CAL. GOV’T CODE § 1203. However, you will still be eligible for any other peace officer positions.
2752 CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.5.
2756 CAL. PENAL CODE §§ 4852.17, 4854.
IF I AM ELIGIBLE, HOW COULD I GET A PARDON?

There are 3 different ways to get a pardon:

- Certificate of Rehabilitation—By getting a Certificate of Rehabilitation first, a request for your pardon is automatically sent to the Governor. This is the best way to get a pardon, if your conviction is eligible for a COR. (For more information about getting a Certificate of Rehabilitation, see PG. 1075.)

  Remember, once you receive your COR, it automatically becomes your application for a pardon also. The COR also serves as the judge’s official recommendation that the Governor should grant your pardon.

- Traditional Pardon—A traditional pardon is when you submit your request for a pardon directly to the Governor (also called a direct pardon). This is the best way to get a pardon if you are NOT eligible for a Certificate of Rehabilitation. You must also apply for a traditional pardon directly from the Governor if any of the following apply to you:
  - Your conviction is from California but you do NOT currently live in California;
  - You were released from prison or onto parole before May 13, 1943; OR
  - You are serving a life sentence without the possibility of parole, and you have more than 1 felony conviction.²⁷⁵⁹

- Board of Parole Hearings Recommendation—If the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) recommends you for a pardon while you’re still in prison, based on your good conduct, unusual sentence, or another good reasons (for example, you committed your offense because you were a victim of domestic violence).²⁷⁶⁰

IF I AM ELIGIBLE, WHEN COULD I APPLY FOR A PARDON?

When you can/should apply for a pardon depends on the type of pardon you are seeking.

1. Pardon with Certificate of Rehabilitation

   Since a Certificate of Rehabilitation acts as an automatic application for a pardon, as soon as you are granted your COR, it will be forwarded straight to the Governor as a pardon request—and you don’t need to do anything else! If you do NOT have a Certificate of Rehabilitation yet, but your conviction is eligible for one, you can apply for a COR as soon as you’ve completed your period of rehabilitation. (For more information on getting a Certificate of Rehabilitation, see PG. 1075.)

2. Traditional or Direct Pardon (without Certificate of Rehabilitation)

   You can apply for a pardon directly from the Governor after you have been off probation or parole for 10 years, with NO criminal activity during that period.²⁷⁶¹ The 10 year requirement will only be waived (excused) in very rare situations (under “extraordinary and compelling circumstances”).

²⁷⁶¹ How to Apply for a Pardon, STATE OF CAL. OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR (Sept. 5, 2013), http://gov.ca.gov/docs/How_To_Apply_for_a_Pardon.pdf.
3. BPH-Recommended Pardon

The BPH can only recommend you for a pardon while you are still incarcerated. There is no specific time frame for when the BPH can recommend you for a pardon, but it would likely be after the BPH has a chance to consider information about your case (for example, after you’ve had at least one BPH hearing).

- If (or when) you have a BPH hearing, you can bring any evidence showing why you deserve to receive a pardon, based on your good conduct, accomplishments, the circumstances of your conviction, or your sentence.
- If you are no longer in prison, you are not eligible for a BPH recommendation for a pardon.

WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR GETTING A PARDON?

How you go about getting a pardon depends on the type of pardon you are seeking.

1. Pardon With Certificate of Rehabilitation

You DO NOT have to do anything once you have your Certificate of Rehabilitation! When the judge grants your COR, he will also send a copy of your COR directly to the Governor’s Office. This will serve as your automatic application for a pardon AND as an official recommendation from the judge that the Governor should grant your pardon. You will not need to do anything else to apply. \(^{2762}\) Once the Governor receives a copy of your COR, s/he can do any of the following:

- Grant your pardon immediately (if you have no more than 1 felony conviction); \(^{2763}\)
- Do an investigation and review your case to decide whether to grant your pardon; OR
- Ask the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) to investigate your case and make a recommendation about whether you should receive a pardon (see below under “Traditional or Direct Pardon”). \(^{2764}\)

2. Traditional or Direct Pardon (without a Certificate of Rehabilitation)

You need to complete a formal application for a pardon –called an “Application for Gubernatorial Pardon.” If you are not eligible for a Certificate of Rehabilitation, or if any of the following apply to you, this is the only way to apply for a pardon from the Governor:

- Your conviction is from California but you do NOT currently live in California;
- You were released from prison or onto parole before May 13, 1943; OR
- You are serving a life sentencing without the possibility of parole, and you have 2 or more felony convictions. \(^{2765}\)

For instructions on how to complete a formal application for a traditional or direct pardon, see APPENDIX W, on PG. 1159.

3. BPH-Recommended Pardon

You cannot apply for a BPH-recommended pardon yourself—the BPH must recommend you to the Governor on its own.\textsuperscript{2766} However, you may be able to show the BPH that you deserve to be recommended for a pardon. If you have a BPH hearing, it’s recommended that you bring evidence (such as documents, certificates, or letters) showing:

- That you were a victim of domestic violence and it led to your offense;
- Your extraordinarily good conduct or amazing accomplishments while incarcerated; or
- Other special and unusual circumstances surrounding your conviction or sentence.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR A TRADITIONAL PARDON DIRECTLY FROM THE GOVERNOR (WITHOUT A CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION)?

Here is a summary of the steps to apply for a Traditional Pardon directly from the Governor. For a more detailed explanation of each step, see APPENDIX W, PG. 1159.

STEP 1: The Application

You will need to fill out the “Application for Gubernatorial Pardon” with information about the conviction you want pardoned, any other convictions on your record, and why you deserve a pardon.

- You can get the application online at: http://gov.ca.gov/s_pardonsandcommutations.php, or request an application by mail from the Governor’s office:

  Governor’s Office
  State Capitol
  ATTN: Legal Affairs
  Sacramento, CA 95814

STEP 2: Notice to the District Attorney

- Before sending your application to the Governor, you must notify the District Attorney in the county where your conviction is from that you intend to request a pardon.\textsuperscript{2767} There is a special form to use for this, which is included in the Application for Gubernatorial Pardon.
- You must deliver your notice for to the DA(s) at least 10 days before you submit your application to the Governor.\textsuperscript{2768}

STEP 3: Submitting your Application to the Governor’s Office

- At least 10 days after sending your notice to the DA(s), you can mail your completed Application for Gubernatorial Pardon to the Governor’s Office:

  Governor’s Office
  State Capitol

ONCE I HAVE APPLIED FOR A PARDON, WHAT HAPPENS?

What happens next will be different, depending on how you applied for a Pardon:

1. Pardon With Certificate of Rehabilitation

   When the judge grants your COR, he will also send a copy of your COR directly to the Governor’s Office.\(^{2770}\) Once the Governor receives your COR, s/he can do any of the following:

   • Grant your pardon immediately (if you have only 1 felony conviction),\(^{2771}\)
   • Do an investigation and review your case to decide whether to grant your pardon; OR
   • Ask the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) to investigate your case and make a recommendation about whether you should receive a pardon (see below under “Traditional or Direct Pardon”).\(^{2772}\)

2. Traditional Or Direct Pardon (without Certificate of Rehabilitation)

   If you applied directly to the Governor for a Traditional Pardon, the Governor will review of your case to decide whether you deserve a pardon. The Governor may ask the judge of the court where you were convicted and the DA who prosecuted you for information about your case and recommendations about whether you should get a pardon.\(^{2773}\)

   In most cases, the Governor will also send your application to the Board of Parole Hearings for its recommendation about whether you deserve a pardon.\(^{2774}\) The BPH may investigate your application by looking at documents and transcripts from your case, talking to witnesses, or doing anything else to evaluate your application. The BPH will then make a recommendation to the Governor about whether you should get a pardon.\(^{2775}\)

   REMEMBER: If you were convicted of 2 or more felonies, the Governor MUST send your application to the Board of Parole Hearings for review, AND also CANNOT grant your pardon without a recommendation from the California Supreme Court. (However, the Governor does not have to send your application to the Supreme Court for review.)\(^{2776}\)

3. BPH-Recommended Pardon

   If the BPH recommends you for a pardon, it will conduct its own investigation of your case first, before making its recommendation to the Governor. If the BPH investigates your case, but decides NOT to recommend you for a pardon, it must tell you its reasons for not recommending you.

WHAT HAPPENS IF MY PARDON IS GRANTED?

What happens when the Governor grants your pardon is the same regardless of whether you received the pardon based on your Certificate of Rehabilitation, applied for a Traditional Pardon directly from the Governor, or were recommended for a pardon by the BPH. Here is the process:

1) The Governor’s Office will notify the CA Department of Justice (DOJ) and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) to update their records.
2) The Governor will file your pardon with the CA Secretary of State and report it to the CA State Legislature.
3) The pardon will become a public record, along with your Certificate of Rehabilitation (if you received one) or your direct Application for Gubernatorial Pardon. (However, any sensitive personal information will remain confidential and hidden from the public.)

WHAT CAN I DO IF MY PARDON IS DENIED?

If your pardon is denied, the only thing you can do is start over and file a new application. However, just as with a Certificate of Rehabilitation, you should not file a new application until AFTER you fix or improve whatever problems caused your first application to be denied.

SEALING CALIFORNIA STATE ADULT
ARREST RECORDS

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO HAVE AN ARREST RECORD
“SEALED” IN CALIFORNIA?

Although California law limits who can consider your arrest record and for what purposes, it is always a good idea to have an arrest cleared from your record, if possible. This process is called “sealing” the arrest record. It means that ALL documents related to your arrest—including your fingerprints—are confidentially sealed for 3 years, and then destroyed.

The benefit of having your arrest record sealed is that it deletes the information from your RAP sheet (your official criminal record), meaning NOT even law enforcement officers will see the information in most cases. Once your arrest record is sealed, it is as

WHAT HAPPENS TO MY RAP SHEET IF MY ARREST RECORD IS SEALED?

If your arrest record is sealed, all information about the arrest is deleted from your RAP sheet, and a new RAP sheet is issued without any information about the arrest. ALL records from the arrest are destroyed, including your fingerprint card.

When your arrest record is sealed, the arrest (and anything associated with it) is considered NEVER to have happened.

WHAT IS "FACTUAL INNOCENCE"?

"Factual innocence" means that "no reasonable cause exists" for a judge to think that you did what you were arrested for. It is a very high and difficult standard to meet. In most cases, even if your case was dismissed or you were acquitted by a jury, a judge is still not likely to find you "factually innocent." Examples of factual innocence include:

- the police arrested you because they thought you were someone else;
- what you did was not actually illegal;
- or your arrest was the result of police misconduct.

ARE THERE OTHER LEGAL REQUIREMENTS FOR GETTING AN ARREST RECORD SEALED?

Yes. In order to have your arrest record sealed, you must fit into one of the following situations:

- You are found to be Factually Innocent
  - If you were arrested but:
    - You were never charged;
    - Your charges were dismissed;
    - You were acquitted at trial; OR
    - You were convicted, but your conviction was set aside.
  - And you meet the following requirements:
    - A judge finds you “factually innocent” of the charges for which you were arrested. A person is considered “factually innocent” when a court finds that “no reasonable cause exists to believe that the person committed the offense for which the arrest was made;”
    - You were an adult when you were arrested. (If you were a juvenile when you were arrested, see PG. 1089 for information on cleaning up juvenile records);
    - The arrest was for a misdemeanor or felony (NOT an infraction); AND

ROADMAP TO REENTRY

- You were not convicted of any other crime connected to that same arrest.

- You were Ordered to do a Diversion Program
  - If you were arrested and
    - The DA offered you a diversion program instead of charging you; OR
    - You were charged, but the judge sent you to a diversion program.

WHEN COULD I GET MY ARREST RECORD SEALED?

Generally, you must file a request to have your arrest record sealed within 2 years after the date of your arrest OR the date that charges were filed against you (whichever is later). However, the judge can waive (excuse) the 2-year time limit if you can show “good cause”—meaning you can give the judge a really good reason why you could not or did not file your petition within the 2-year limit.

Since many people will be beyond the 2-year time limit, these are some examples of reasons that may qualify as “good cause:”

- If the charges are dismissed or you are acquitted more than 2 years after the date of your arrest or charging;
- If the DA waited more than 2 years after the arrest, and then decided not to file charges;
- In some cases, if you were trying to resolve your case informally, but were unsuccessful (but don’t wait too long afterward!).

Keep in mind, however, that it will be up to the judge to decide whether your reason is good enough to waive the 2-year limit.

WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR GETTING MY ARREST RECORD SEALED?

The process for getting your arrest record sealed varies slightly, depending on your situation:

1) If you were arrested but never charged, you will need to start with the law enforcement agency that arrested you, and ask to have your records sealed. If the law enforcement agency refuses to seal your records (or doesn’t respond), you can file your request in court; OR

2) If you were arrested and charges were filed, you should take your request straight to the court first.

Either way, your claim will be reviewed, and you may have a hearing to convince the judge that you are factually innocent. If you are found factually innocent by either the law enforcement agency or the court, the records of your arrest will be sealed and eventually destroyed.

For information and instructions for each step of this process, see APPENDIX X, on PG. 1161.

SEALING CALIFORNIA STATE JUVENILE RECORDS

It is a common misperception that juvenile criminal records are automatically sealed when you turn 18. Unfortunately, this is not the case. If you have a juvenile record in California, you must ask the court to have it sealed, otherwise this information may find its way into your background check.

NOTE: This section refers only to sealing juvenile records from California. Every state has different laws for handling juvenile records. If you have a juvenile record from another state, you will need to find out what remedies are available in that state. Additionally, federal juvenile records can be sealed only under the very limited circumstances (the same as federal adult convictions). If you have a federal juvenile record, it is recommended that you speak to a Federal Public Defender. (For information on sealing federal adult records, see PG. 1092.)

WHAT COULD SHOW UP IN MY JUVENILE RECORD?

Your juvenile record is made up of all documents, exhibits, judge’s rulings, orders, and reports associated with any trouble you got into before you turned 18. These are mostly contained in your juvenile court file, but may also be kept by other agencies such as the Department of Justice (DOJ), the county Probation Department, police, sheriff, or other law enforcement agencies, and the District Attorney. Your record also includes any documents or records made by these other agencies.

WHO CAN SEE MY JUVENILE RECORD?

Under the law, juvenile court and police records are generally confidential and NOT visible to the public or other people except in certain cases. Also, juvenile cases are considered “adjudications”—NOT “convictions”—so legally, you can say that you have NO convictions from your juvenile cases.

However, juvenile records sometimes DO show up on background checks, and certain employers such as law enforcement and health care agencies are allowed to ask about unsealed juvenile records.

Once your juvenile record is sealed however, NO one can see it. All records kept by the court, DOJ, probation department, and other law enforcement agencies are sealed, and it’s as if your case never happened.

2800 CAL. WELF. & INST. CODE § 781.
WHO CAN GET THEIR JUVENILE RECORDS SEALED?

Like everything else, it depends. You must meet 5 basic criteria in order to get your juvenile record sealed:

1) You are over 18 years old, OR it has been 5 years since you were last arrested or completed your juvenile probation (whichever is later);

2) You do NOT have any convictions as an adult for a felony OR for a misdemeanor involving “moral turpitude.” (“Moral turpitude” means the offense involved dishonest or immoral behavior, such as theft, fraud, certain sex and drug offenses, and offenses causing significant bodily injury);

3) Your case started and ended in juvenile court (not in some other court, such as probate court or adult criminal court);

4) You can demonstrate (and convince the judge) that you have been rehabilitated; AND

5) There is NO open civil lawsuit based on your juvenile offense.

If you do not meet ALL of the above requirements, you will not be able to get your juvenile record sealed.

WHO CANNOT GET THEIR JUVENILE RECORD SEALED?

You CANNOT get your juvenile record sealed if you committed any of the following offenses AND you were 14 or older at the time:

- Murder, attempted murder, or voluntary manslaughter.
- Assault with a firearm, other weapons, or any means of force likely to produce great bodily injury.
- Rape, sodomy, or other sexual offenses, while using force, violence, or threat of great bodily harm.
- Using a firearm while committing a felony (or attempted felony)
- Arson.
- Robbery.
- Various kidnapping offenses.
- Any other serious or violent offense listed in California Welfare & Institutions Code section 707(b).

WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR GETTING MY JUVENILE RECORD SEALED?

To get your juvenile record sealed, you will need to file a request (called a Petition to Seal Juvenile Records) in the juvenile court where your case was adjudicated. You will have a hearing where the judge will review your petition and ask for a recommendation from the probation department. You will need to answer any questions the judge has, and you can bring people to testify on your behalf. The judge will then decide whether or not to grant your request. If the judge decides to seal your record, s/he will also order all other agencies that have juvenile records on you to seal their records as well. If the judge does not decide to seal your record, you are allowed to refile your petition (the judge will tell you when).

For more information and instructions on how to seal your juvenile record, see APPENDIX Y, on PG. 1163.)

IMPORTANT: As of January 1, 2015, California Welfare & Institutions Code section 786 changed so that juveniles who successfully complete probation, and otherwise qualify to have their record sealed, will have their juvenile record automatically sealed by the judge, without having to file a petition in court or do anything else.

However, this DOES NOT apply to juveniles who completed their probation BEFORE January 1, 2015. If you completed your juvenile probation BEFORE January 1, 2015, you will still need to file a petition in court to have your juvenile record sealed.
FEDERAL EXPUNGEMENTS & DISMISSALS

WHAT TYPES OF FEDERAL EXPUNGEMENT ARE AVAILABLE, AND HOW COULD THEY HELP ME?

Convictions for federal offenses (meaning violations of U.S. law) often have broader consequences beyond California law. Federal convictions can cause some people to become ineligible for government-assisted housing, federal student loans, and prohibit you from participating in foster care or adoption programs; so getting them expunged can benefit you in reapplying to these programs.

Unfortunately, most federal convictions cannot be expunged or dismissed. Unlike in California (and most other states), there is NO general federal law that offers expungements for federal convictions. However, there are a few federal laws that offer expungements and dismissals in certain limited situations.

There are only a few options for cleaning up federal convictions on your criminal record:

- If your federal conviction is for certain drug offenses and you were UNDER 21 when you committed the offense, you may be eligible for a federal expungement. (See Situation 1, below.)
- If your federal conviction is for certain drug offenses and you were OVER 21 when you committed the offense, you may be eligible for a federal dismissal, but not an expungement. (See Situation 2, below.)
- It is possible but very difficult to get your conviction expunged by a federal judge (this is called a judicial expungement). However, this is very rare, and depends on which federal court you were convicted in. (See Situation 3, below.)

WHO CAN GET A FEDERAL EXPUNGEMENT OR DISMISSAL?

If you have a federal drug conviction (Situation 1 or 2, below), you may qualify for an expungement or dismissal of your conviction if ALL of the following are true:

- You were convicted of only one drug-related offense.
  - You are NOT eligible if you have any other drug-related convictions (state or federal), OR if you have had any previous drug convictions expunged under the statute.
- You were in possession of only certain types of drugs.
  - The federal expungement statute ONLY covers convictions for marijuana, cocaine and cocaine-based substances, heroine, and methamphetamines (along with a few other less common drugs). To be eligible, your conviction must have involved one of these drugs (NOT any other drug).

- You were convicted of “simple possession” only.
  - You are NOT eligible if your conviction was for any other offense besides possession of a small amount of drugs consistent with personal use. This means no sales, transportation, or distribution offenses will qualify.
  - The judge “suspended” entry of judgment of conviction for the offense.
    - This means that you were found guilty of the offense, but the judge basically put your conviction on hold, and did not enter it into the official record. (This is to give you a chance to complete probation or a treatment program instead of going to prison);
    - The judge put you on probation for no more than 1 year; AND
    - You successfully completed probation with NO violations.

I MEET ALL OF THE REQUIREMENTS FOR FEDERAL EXPUNGEMENT. WHAT ARE MY NEXT STEPS FOR PURSUING THE EXPUNGEMENT?

SITUATION 1: IF YOU WERE UNDER 21 AT THE TIME OF THE DRUG OFFENSE.

When your probation term ends, you can ask the judge to expunge your conviction. If you have successfully completed your probation with NO violations, and you meet all the other requirements, the judge is required to grant your expungement. This means that ALL official records of your conviction, all references to your arrest, and the results of any criminal proceedings against you will be destroyed. You will get back any rights that you lost because of your conviction, and you can say that you have never been arrested, prosecuted, or convicted of the offense.

SITUATION 2: IF YOU WERE OVER 21 AT THE TIME OF THE DRUG OFFENSE.

If you were over the age of 21 at the time of your offense, your conviction will not be completely expunged (i.e. erased). However, if you successfully complete your probation with NO violations, and you meet all the other requirements described above, the judge is required to dismiss your conviction at the end of your probation term. You can also ask the judge to dismiss your conviction and release you from probation early (before the end of your probation), but it will be up to the judge whether or not to grant this early.

Once your conviction is dismissed, the record will be sealed—meaning the record will still exist, but it will NOT be public, and it will NOT show on your criminal record that you were ever convicted of the offense. You will also get back any rights that you lost because of your conviction.

NOTE: If your conviction is expunged (Situation 1) or dismissed (Situation 2), the U.S. Department of Justice will keep a confidential, non-public record of your conviction in case you try to get another conviction expunged or dismissed in the future. Remember: You can only get a federal expungement once in a lifetime!

IS THERE ANY OTHER WAY TO GET MY FEDERAL CONVICTION EXPUNGED?
(SITUATION 3)

Maybe. It is sometimes possible to convince a federal judge to ORDER that your conviction be expunged. This is called a “judicial expungement.” However, judicial expungements are VERY, VERY rare—and some courts won’t do them at all. Many federal courts only grant judicial expungements when it is necessary to correct an error in a criminal case that amounts to a violation of your basic rights (i.e. a “miscarriage of justice”). In these courts your only chance of being granted a judicial expungement is if your conviction was the result of illegal or invalid conduct by the government, such as an unlawful arrest, an unconstitutional law, or a gross administrative error.

• The federal courts in California follow this rule—so if your federal conviction happened in California, you will need to show that your conviction was caused by a “miscarriage of justice,” otherwise the judge will NOT grant you a judicial expungement.

Other federal courts will grant a judicial expungement only under specific and extraordinary circumstances, when they determine that it is necessary in all fairness. These courts balance the harm that you suffer because of your criminal record (for example, if you are denied public housing or benefits, you cannot be with your family, or you are disqualified from certain jobs), against the public’s interest in preserving the record of your conviction.

• If your federal conviction is from a state where the federal courts allow the judge to balance the factors of your situation, you will still have to convince the judge that the expungement is necessary to preserve your basic rights.

THE BOTTOM LINE:

The only circumstances under which you are likely to get a judicial expungement of your federal conviction are:

1) When your conviction is based on a law that was later found to be unconstitutional; or
2) If a judge finds that your conviction was the result of police or government misconduct.

If you want to request a judicial expungement of your federal conviction, it is recommended that you talk to a lawyer. You can contact the lawyer who represented you in your criminal case or a federal public defender.

2814 Federal courts are divided into thirteen “circuits” across the country, comprised of district trial courts and circuit courts of appeals. Each of these circuit courts decides how the law should be interpreted within that circuit, which the district courts below must follow. This means that there are often discrepancies in the law at the federal circuit level—in other words, the same law can mean different things depending on where you live. These differences persist until the Supreme Court rules on which interpretation is correct. This is the current state of federal expungement law. Several federal circuit courts have ruled that the courts should be allowed to order expungements based on their inherent equitable powers—their duty to make things fair. Others have decided that expungements are beyond the scope of the court’s duties and that they infringe on the powers allocated to the other branches of government. The Supreme Court has not resolved the dispute. See U.S. v. Mitchell, 683 F. Supp. 2d 427 (2010).

2815 Courts of Appeal in the First, Third, Sixth, Eighth, and Ninth Circuits, as well as some district courts in the Eleventh Circuit, do not allow expungements based on equitable grounds (i.e. to reward rehabilitation) and will not even hear these motions. See U.S. v. Meyer, 439 F.3d 855 (8th Cir. 2006); U.S. v. Colojano, 480 F.3d 47 (1st Cir. 2007); U.S. v. Sumner, 226 F.3d 1005 (9th Cir. 2000).

U.S. PRESIDENTIAL PARDONS

WHO CAN GET A PRESIDENTIAL PARDON OF A FEDERAL CONVICTION?

It depends. Presidential pardons are even more difficult to get than federal judicial expungements (see PG. 1094). U.S. Presidential Pardons are generally only given in high-profile, highly public cases—for example, to certain public figures or politicians, or to friends and relatives of the President.

Technically, any federal conviction is eligible for a presidential pardon, but you must first complete your sentence (including any parole or probation term) AND a 5-year waiting period before you can request a Pardon. The 5-year waiting period starts when you are released from custody, or from the date of your conviction if you were never incarcerated (whichever is later).2820 During this time, you will need to show that you have led a responsible and productive life, made significant efforts toward rehabilitation, and taken responsibility for your offense.

In deciding whether to grant your pardon, the President will consider the following factors, so you should emphasize your efforts and accomplishments in these areas:

• Employment, including stable work and financial situation;
• Family responsibility;
• Community service, volunteer work, or other charitable activities;
• Reputation in the community;
• Military service (if applicable);
• Any other accomplishments; AND
• Your efforts to take responsibility for your offense and make restitution to any victims.2821

Here are some other things you should include or mention:

• Letters of support, reports, and recommendations—particularly official reports or recommendations from people involved in your criminal case, such as the judge, the prosecutor, or your federal probation officer.
• Any hardships caused by your conviction—for example, if your conviction is preventing you from getting certain jobs or professional licenses; or making it difficult for you to reunite with your children and family; or if you cannot get certain public benefits, public housing, loans, or other services because of your conviction.
• The amount of time that has passed since your conviction—The more serious your offense, the more time you will need to put between your conviction and your request in order to demonstrate your rehabilitation and convince the president that you deserve a pardon.2822

WHO GETS PRESIDENTIAL PARDONS?

Here are some examples of people who have received a Presidential Pardon:

• Former President Richard Nixon
• George Steinbrenner (former owner of the New York Yankees)
• Roger Clinton, Jr. (half-brother of former President Bill Clinton)
• Marc Richard (billionaire businessman)
• Jimmy Hoffa (former union leader)
• Patty Hearst

2820 28 C.F.R. § 1.2.
HOW DO I GO ABOUT APPLYING FOR A PRESIDENTIAL PARDON?

To apply for a presidential pardon, you must complete a “Petition for Executive Clemency” and file it with the Office of the Pardon Lawyer within the U.S. Department of Justice. Application forms and instructions can be found on the U.S. Department of Justice website at: http://www.justice.gov/pardon/.

For more information on requesting a Presidential Pardon, see http://www.justice.gov/pardon/rules-governing-petitions-executive-clemency.

REMEmBER: You must complete your sentence (including any probation, parole, or supervision) AND a 5-year waiting period before you can request a pardon.

For most people, a presidential pardon is NOT a realistic solution for cleaning up your criminal record.
VI. REGISTRATION REQUIREMENTS—SEX, ARSON, DRUGS

HOW WILL CLEANING UP MY RECORD AFFECT MY REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT?

Like with most other questions about cleaning up your record, the answer will depend on the type of registration requirement you have, your conviction offense, and which remedy(ies) you use to clean up your record. For specific answers, it is recommended that you discuss your individual situation with a lawyer.

SEX REGISTRATION

Registration as a sex offender under California Penal Code section 290 is the most severe and permanent type of registration. However, under limited circumstances, cleaning up your record can remove your registration requirement.

WILL THE REMEDY REMOVE MY REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT?

• Expungement—NO, an expungement alone does NOT remove your sex registration requirement.
  - However, if you also get a Certificate of Rehabilitation AND
  - You qualify for relief from registration under California Penal Code section 290.5 (which has additional requirements and restrictions), you may no longer have to register.

• Certificate of Rehabilitation (COR)—Maybe, but it will depend on what offense you were convicted of.
  - A COR WILL remove your sex registration requirement if you were not convicted of one of the disqualifying offenses under Penal Code section 290.5(2).
  - For the serious (felony) sex offenses listed in Penal Code section 290.5(2), a COR will NOT remove your sex registration requirement (unless you also get a pardon).
  - Remember, a COR is available for misdemeanor sex offense convictions that are expunged under California’s expungement statute (Penal Code section 1203.4).

2823 CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.007, 1203.4; see also CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.5.
2824 Remember, misdemeanor sex offense convictions are eligible for Certificates of Rehabilitation. See CAL. PENAL CODE § 4852.01.

2826 CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.5(a).
2827 CAL. PENAL CODE § 290.5(b).
2828 CAL. PENAL CODE § 4852.01
If your conviction was for certain sex offenses involving children (Cal. Penal § 288 or 288.5 ONLY), you received probation, AND you received a COR before 1998, a judge may remove your sex registration requirement after 10 years with no new felony convictions.2829

• Pardon—YES, this will remove your sex registration requirement.

  o A full pardon from the governor will remove your sex registration requirement, BUT a pardon is VERY difficult to get and granted only in “extraordinary circumstances.”2830

Sex Registration & Megan’s Law

Under “Megan’s Law,” the California Department of Justice is required to keep a public website with personal and criminal history information about anyone who is required to register as a sex offender under California Penal Section 290. The website is available to the public, and includes information about your conviction offense, certain other information about your criminal history, a photograph and description of what you look like, and other personal information (name, date of birth, the community and zip code or county where you live, and in some cases even your address).2831

IMPORTANT: In some cases, you may be able to get your information removed from the Megan’s Law website. If your conviction was for a less serious sex offense, AND you do NOT have any other convictions for more serious sex offenses, you can ask the DOJ to remove (“exclude”) your information from the public website. If you meet all of the other requirements (listed in Cal. Penal 290.46(e)), the DOJ is required to remove your information.2832 BUT even if your information is removed from the DOJ website, you are still required to register under section 290 (unless you get your registration requirement legally lifted).

ARSON REGISTRATION

WILL THE REMEDY REMOVE MY REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT?

• Expungement—YES, an expungement will remove your arson registration requirement if:

  o Your conviction was for a misdemeanor arson offense AND you get the conviction dismissed under California’s expungement statute.2833

• Certificate of Rehabilitation—YES, this will remove your arson registration requirement, even if you had a lifetime registration requirement!2834

• Pardon—YES, this will remove your arson registration requirement.2835

  o BUT remember, a pardon is very difficult to get and granted only in “extraordinary circumstances.”

DRUG REGISTRATION

WILL THE REMEDY REMOVE MY REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT?

Your drug registration requirement will end automatically after 5 years.\(^{2836}\) (The 5-year period starts when you are released from prison or jail, or when you are discharged from probation or parole.) In many cases, your registration requirement will end on its own, even before you clean up your record.

- Expungement—YES, this will remove your drug registration requirement.\(^{2837}\)
  - Getting your conviction expunged under California’s expungement statute will remove your requirement to register as a drug offender.
- Certificate of Rehabilitation—YES, this will remove your drug registration requirement.
  - If you get a Certificate of Rehabilitation, you no longer have to register as a drug offender.\(^{2838}\) However, most people have to wait more than 5 years before applying for a COR. By this time you will no longer have to register anyway.
- Pardon—YES, this will remove your drug registration requirement.

VII. DNA EXPUNGEMENT

WHAT IS A DNA EXPUNGEMENT?

In California, anyone convicted of a felony, anyone convicted of a misdemeanor with a prior felony conviction, anyone on probation, parole, or supervision for a felony or with a prior felony conviction, and anyone required to register under California Penal Code sections 290 (sex offense) or 457.1 (arson), is required to give a DNA sample.\textsuperscript{2840} Previously, DNA samples were also collected from anyone who was even arrested for certain felonies—but the California courts are still working out whether or not it is constitutional to take DNA samples from someone who has only been arrested and not convicted.\textsuperscript{2841} These DNA samples are kept in a state and national database, and then used by law enforcement agencies to identify suspects involved in other crimes.

Usually when a sample of your DNA is taken, it will be kept in the California state database (CAL-DNA program), and the information may be shared with the national database (kept by the FBI), which can be searched by law enforcement agencies around the country.\textsuperscript{2842}

If you had to give a DNA sample because of your arrest or conviction, you may want to consider getting your DNA expunged from the state and/or national databases. As long as your DNA remains in the database, law enforcement agencies can use your DNA to try to connect you (even incorrectly) to other crimes. Getting your DNA expunged from a database means that your DNA sample will be destroyed and all related information (your DNA profile) will be completely removed from that database.\textsuperscript{2843}

CALIFORNIA DNA EXPUNGEMENT

WHO CAN GET THEIR DNA EXPUNGED FROM THE CALIFORNIA DATABASE?

You may qualify to have your DNA expunged from the California database if you meet the following requirements:

1) Your DNA was collected after you were arrested BUT NO charges were ever filed against you; OR
2) Your DNA was collected after you were arrested and charges were filed against you, but the charges were dismissed, or you were acquitted; OR
3) Your DNA was collected after you were arrested and criminal charges were filed against you, BUT your conviction was overturned;

AND

4) You have NO felony convictions (or juvenile felony adjudications) on your criminal record. (NOTE: Even if you get your felony conviction expunged or reduced to a misdemeanor, it will still count as a felony for purposes of DNA

5) You are NOT required to register as a sex or arson offender.\textsuperscript{2845}

If you meet all of the legal requirements, your DNA MUST be expunged from the database once you submit your request for expungement.

HOW CAN I GET MY DNA EXPUNGED FROM THE CALIFORNIA DATABASE?

You can request to have your DNA expunged from the California database directly from the DOJ, or you can file a petition in court asking for a court order to expunge it. It is easier and faster to request expungement directly from the DOJ because, if you meet the requirements, the DOJ is required to expunge your DNA records. If you are denied by the DOJ, and have to file in court, this generally means you do not meet one of the requirements. If you file in court, you will have to convince a judge to order expungement of your DNA.

For more details on both processes for requesting expungement of your DNA from the California database, APPENDIX Z, on PG. 1165.

For more information about DNA expungement in California in general, see Getting Expunged or Removed from the CAL-DNA Data Bank on the California DOJ’s website at: https://oag.ca.gov/bfs/prop69/faqs.

FBI (NATIONAL) DNA EXPUNGEMENT

WHO CAN GET THEIR DNA EXPUNGED FROM THE NATIONAL DATABASE?

If your DNA sample was taken for a federal arrest or conviction, you may qualify to have your DNA expunged from the FBI’s national database if:

1) Your federal arrest did NOT result in a conviction, because NO charges were filed against you, or the charges were dismissed, or you were acquitted;

OR

2) Your federal conviction has been overturned.

In order to get your DNA expunged, you will need to provide an official court order showing the final outcome of your arrest, case, or overturned conviction.\textsuperscript{2846}

For details on how to get your DNA expunged from the federal database, see APPENDIX Z, on PG. 1165.

\textsuperscript{2845} CAL PENAL CODE § 299.
\textsuperscript{2846} 42 U.S.C. § 14132(g)(1).
NOTE: If you want to get your California DNA sample expunged from the national database, you will need to contact the California DOJ and follow the instructions in APPENDIX Z, on PG. 1165 for expungement from the California DNA database.

For more information on expungement of DNA from the national database, visit the FBI's website on CODIS—Expungement Policy, available at http://www.fbi.gov/about-us/lab/biometric-analysis/codis/codis_expungement.

VIII. CONCLUSION

Hopefully this Chapter has given you a better understanding of your criminal records, how to correct errors early in your reentry.

Later in reentry, if you become eligible, we hope this Chapter has also shown you the many options that are available to help you “clean up” your record and minimize its impact on your life.

Getting Your California (DOJ) RAP sheet

STEP 1: Get and Fill out the “Request for Live Scan Service” (Form BCIA 8016).

This form can be downloaded from the DOJ website at:
http://oag.ca.gov/fingerprints/security. The form should also be available at any public Live Scan Site. For a listing of public Live Scan Sites throughout California, visit the DOJ’s website at: https://oag.ca.gov/fingerprints/locations.

(See APPENDIX B, on PG. 1106 for a sample Request for Live Scan Services form and instructions for filling it out.)

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT FILLING OUT THE REQUEST FOR LIVE SCAN SERVICES FORM:

• The DOJ is very particular about how this form is filled out. When you’re filling out the form, make sure you:
  • Where the form says “Type of Application,” check the box for “Record Review.”
  • Where the form says “Reason for Application,” write “Record Review” on the line.

STEP 2: Find a Live Scan Site near you.

Live Scan services are available at most local police departments and sheriff’s offices. There are also hundreds of Public Live Scan sites around the state. To find a public Live Scan location near you, check your local yellow pages, or visit the DOJ website at: https://oag.ca.gov/fingerprints/locations. The fees and hours vary from site to site (and change often), and some sites require appointments whereas others allow walk-ins. For this reason, it is always recommended that you call the site you want to visit beforehand to make sure they’re open and know how much it costs. (Note: Most Live Scan sites charge between $20-40 for fingerprinting, but there is a lot of variation from one location to another.)

STEP 3: Get Fingerprinted.

Take your completed “Request for Live Scan Service” with you to the Live Scan site when you go to get fingerprinted.

STEP 4: Mail your Live Scan fingerprints, along with a $25 fee, to:

California Department of Justice: Record Review Unit
P.O. Box 903417
Sacramento, CA
94203-4170.
Fee waivers: If you cannot afford the $25 fee...

If you cannot afford the $25 fee, you can request a “fee waiver”—meaning you will NOT have to pay to get your RAP sheet. To request a fee waiver, you can fill out an “Application for Fee Waiver” form or attach a separate letter that requests a waiver of the fee (see a sample fee waiver letter in Appendix C, on PG. 1111). You will need to give a reason why you can’t afford the fee—for example, you receive public benefits (such as CalWORKS, CalFRESH (food stamps), MediCal, or unemployment insurance); or your expenses (such as rent, utilities, food and medicine, child support, and other bills) are more than you earn. If possible, you may want to send copies (not the originals!) of your pay stubs, bank account records, or other documents showing your income and expenses.

How long will I have to wait for my California RAP sheet?

Once you send in your forms, it can take up to 2 months (anywhere from 1—8 weeks) to get a copy of your California (DOJ) RAP sheet, depending on how long your RAP sheet is (i.e., how much information it contains). If your RAP sheet is fairly long (in other words, if you have had many encounters with law enforcement and/or the criminal justice system), it takes longer for the DOJ to process your request, because they have to research and verify all of the information.

Getting Your FBI (Federal) RAP Sheet

There are two ways to get a copy of your FBI (federal) RAP sheet:

OPTION 1: Request your “Identity History Summary” (RAP sheet) from the FBI directly.

STEP 1: Fill out BOTH the FBI’s “Applicant Information Form” (see APPENDIX BB, on PG. 1168) AND the “Request for Live Scan Service” (Form BCIA 8016RR) (See APPENDIX B, on PG. 1108).

- Print the forms and fill them out by hand, OR fill out the forms online and then print them.
- Where the form says: “Type of Application,” check the box for “Record Review.”
- Where the form says: “Reason for Application,” write “Record Review” on the line.
- Review the Identity History Summary checklist (see APPENDIX E, on PG. 1106) to make sure you don’t miss any of the steps.

STEP 2: Take the completed “Request for Live Service Scan” form to a Public Live Scan Site to get fingerprinted.

- Live Scan services are available at most local police departments and sheriff’s offices. There are also hundreds of Public Live Scan sites around the state. To find a public Live Scan location near you, check your local yellow pages, or visit the DOJ website at: https://oag.ca.gov/fingerprints/locations.

STEP 3: Make your payment to the FBI.

- The charge is $18 per copy of your Identity History Summary.
- You can pay by credit card, money order, or certified check made out to the “Treasury of the United States.”

STEP 4: Mail all forms and your $18 payment to:

FBI CJIS Division—Record Request;
1000 Custer Hollow Road
Clarksburg, West Virginia
26306

Note: It can take up to 3 months (or more) to get a copy of your FBI RAP sheet once you send in your forms and payment.

OPTION 2: Ask an FBI-approved “Channeler”

Note: This is a faster process, but may include extra fees.

An FBI-approved “Channeler” is a private business that has contracted with the FBI to be the “middle-man” when you request a copy of your FBI RAP sheet. The Channeler will collect your all of your fingerprints, personal data, and fee(s), and then send everything to the FBI for you. Afterward, the FBI will send your RAP sheet to the Channeler, and the Channeler will forward the RAP sheet to you. This is a faster process than requesting your RAP sheet from the FBI directly, but channelers generally charge extra fees. Contact each Channeler to learn more about their specific procedures and instructions, processing times, and costs.

STEP 1: Find an FBI-approved Channeler.

- A list of FBI-approved Channelers is provided in APPENDIX CC, on PG. 1170.

STEP 2: Contact the Channeler directly for specific instructions, fees, and processing times.

APPENDIX E

FBI RAP Sheet Request Checklist

Please check the boxes below to ensure that you have included everything needed to process your request.

☐ Include a completed application form.

☐ Sign your application. Note: If for a couple, family, etc., all must sign the application.

☐ Include a completed fingerprint card. A completed fingerprint card includes the following:

☐ 1. Name
☐ 2. Date of Birth
☐ 3. Descriptive Data
☐ 4. All 10 rolled fingerprint impressions.
☐ 5. The plain impressions including thumbs of both hands.

☐ Include a credit card payment form, certified check*, or money order for $18.00 per request.

Note: This amount must be exact.

If using a credit card, please ensure the credit card payment form is filled out completely.

Don’t forget to include the expiration date of the credit card that you are using.

☐ If paying with a certified check or money order, make it payable to the Treasury of the United States.

CASH OR PERSONAL/BUSINESS CHECKS ARE NOT AN ACCEPTED FORM OF PAYMENT.

☐ Include a form of contact information (i.e., e-mail, telephone number) in case we need to contact you.

*To issue a certified check, the bank verifies that sufficient funds exist in the requestor’s account to cover the check and so certifies payment at the time the check is written. Those funds are then set aside in the bank’s internal account until the check is cashed or returned to the payee.
APPENDIX F

Fixing Errors in Your California (DOJ) RAP Sheet

STEP 1: Get the form to request a RAP sheet correction.
When you received your RAP sheet, you should have also received a form called a “Claim of Alleged Inaccuracy or Incompleteness” (DOJ form BCIA 8706). This is the form you must fill out to challenge information in your state RAP sheet. If you do not have this form for any reason, you must contact the Department of Justice to request another copy. This form is not available online, or from any source other than the DOJ. If you cannot get the form, you can send a letter to the DOJ instead.2859

STEP 2: Fill out your claim.
Fill out the “Claim of Alleged Inaccuracy or Incompleteness” form, or write your letter. Whether you are filling out the form or writing a letter, you need to explain, as specifically as possible, what the error is—why and how your record is inaccurate or incomplete. Examples of common errors include:2860

1) Mismatched names. If your RAP sheet contains arrests, convictions, or other information that is unrelated to your past, your name may have been confused with another person’s name.
2) Leaving out important information about a case. Sometimes, even if a case against you has been resolved, your RAP sheet may not reflect the updated information. For example, if you were found innocent of the charges, but your RAP still says, “case pending.”
3) Revealing sealed information. Your RAP may contain records that should have been destroyed or can only be released by special court order, such as sealed arrests or juvenile offenses.
4) Providing misleading information. It is possible that a single charge may appear multiple times on your RAP, making it look like you are a multiple offender.
5) Misclassifying your offenses. If a misdemeanor conviction shows up as a felony on your RAP sheet, this is a serious problem!

IMPORTANT! Make sure to fill out all of your personal information clearly and accurately, so the DOJ properly identifies you and investigates the right record!

STEP 3: Include proof of your claim.
You should give the DOJ any proof you have that the information in your RAP sheet is wrong, such as court records, transcripts, court orders, court minutes, a copy of the plea agreement, police records, or other paperwork or evidence that supports your claim.2861

2861 CAL. PENAL CODE § 11126(a).
IMPORTANT: Sending court records and documents. The Department of Justice does NOT have access to your court documents. If you need copies of court documents to give to the DOJ in order to prove your claim, you must get them from the court where your case was heard and send them to the DOJ yourself.

NOTE: The DOJ assumes that its records are correct. When the DOJ looks into a challenge like this, it often simply checks its version of your record against the copy of your RAP sheet that it sent you. If there is no difference between the two, the DOJ will assume that your RAP sheet is accurate. This is why you must provide proof that the DOJ’s version of your record is wrong!

STEP 4: Mail in your claim and proof.
Send the following documents to the DOJ: Your completed “Claim of Alleged Inaccuracy or Incompleteness” form or letter; a copy of your RAP sheet (keep a copy for yourself!); and any documents or other evidence to prove your claim. You should use the address on the claim form, as it will be the most current address. As of publication of this manual, your claim and supporting documents should be sent to:

Department of Justice
Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification Record Review Unit
P.O. Box 903417
Sacramento, CA 94203-4170

STEP 5: Wait for the DOJ’s Review.
After the DOJ has received your paperwork, it will review your claim and decide whether it agrees that your RAP sheet is wrong. If the DOJ agrees that the information in your record is wrong, it will make the changes and send you a new, corrected copy of your RAP sheet. It can take 2-4 weeks (or sometimes longer) for the DOJ to review all of your paperwork and get back to you with its decision.

STEP 6: Appeal the DOJ’s Decision.
If the DOJ does not agree that your record is wrong, you have the right to request an administrative hearing to challenge the decision. You should talk to a lawyer if you want to take the next step and request a hearing to challenge the DOJ.

If you have any additional questions about fixing errors in your RAP sheet, you can call the DOJ’s Record Review Unit at (916) 227-3835.

APPENDIX G

Fixing Errors in Your FBI (Federal) RAP Sheet

The FBI gets all of its criminal history information from other law enforcement and criminal justice agencies as well as courts throughout the U.S. The FBI can only change your information if the original agency or court (i.e., the one that sent the information to the FBI in the first place) tells the FBI to change it. If you think your FBI RAP sheet is inaccurate or incomplete, there are 2 ways to correct the information:

OPTION 1: Contact the court or agency that sent your information to the FBI

Note: Each entry on your FBI RAP sheet should list the specific agency that provided the information. This is how you can tell which agency sent the incorrect or incomplete information on your RAP sheet.

- If the incorrect or missing information is from a CALIFORNIA agency or court:

  If the incorrect or missing information is from a CALIFORNIA law enforcement agency or court (for example, a local police department, county sheriff, California state agency, or California state court), contact the California Bureau of Criminal Information and Analysis, and ask them to send the FBI corrected or updated information for your Identity History Summary.

  How to contact the California Bureau of Criminal Information and Analysis:

  * By mail: Bureau of Criminal History Information & Analysis
    California Department of Justice, Room G-118
    4949 Broadway; Sacramento, CA 95820-1528
  * By phone: (916) 227-3849
  * By email: appagencyquestions@doj.ca.gov

- If the incorrect or missing information is from an agency or court in ANOTHER STATE:

  If the incorrect or missing information is from a law enforcement agency, court, or criminal justice agency in ANOTHER STATE (for example, a local police department, county sheriff, court, or state agency in another state), you will need to contact the state Identification Bureau for that state, and ask them to send the FBI corrected or updated information for your Identity History Summary.

• If the incorrect or missing information is from a FEDERAL agency or court:

If the incorrect or missing information is from a FEDERAL law enforcement agency, court, or criminal justice agency, you will need to contact the specific agency that sent in your information—for example, the federal agency that arrested you, the federal prosecutor’s office that charged you, or the federal court that processed your case—and ask them to send the FBI corrected or updated information for your Identity History Summary.

The easiest way to find contact information for federal agencies and courts is to search on the Internet using search engines like Google.com or Yahoo.com.

OPTION 2: Go through the FBI directly.

If you don’t know where the incomplete or incorrect information on your RAP sheet came from, you can contact the FBI directly to challenge it, and ask them to correct it.

STEP 1: Write your challenge letter.

In your letter, you should: (1) clearly state that you think there is inaccurate or missing information in your Identity History Summary; (2) clearly identify what information you think is wrong; and (3) clearly explain why the information is wrong. (For a list of common RAP sheet errors, see APPENDIX F, on PG. 1116.)

STEP 2: Include proof of the correct information.

You should also send the FBI any proof you have that the particular information in your RAP sheet is wrong—such as court records, transcripts, court orders, court minutes, copy of a plea agreement, police records, or other paperwork or evidence that support your claim. For example, if your RAP sheet is missing information about the final outcome of a case, you should send court documents showing the final disposition.

STEP 3: Mail your written challenge request.

Send your challenge letter and all your proof (supporting documents and evidence) to:

FBI Criminal Justice Information Services Division
Attention: Criminal History Analysis Tad
Clarksburg, WV 26306

STEP 4: Wait for the FBI’s review.

The FBI will investigate whether the information in your RAP sheet is incomplete or incorrect by contacting the agencies that supplied it as well as other agencies that might have additional information about your case. If the FBI decides that your RAP sheet is wrong or incomplete, it will correct the mistake(s) and let you know.

APPENDIX H

Fixing Errors in Your Background Check

In California, if you want to challenge information found in your background check, these are the steps you will need to take:

STEP 1: CHALLENGE the background check company’s incorrect information.

You must notify the background check company that ran your background check that there was a mistake in the information included in your background check report.

- Send the background check company a letter to notify them in writing that you are disputing (challenging) the information in your background check. (A sample challenge letter is included in APPENDIX I, on PG. 1123.)
- You should explain why the information is incorrect, and include any proof (documents, facts, and other evidence) to support your claim. Make copies of important documents and include them with your letter.
- You can find the name and address of the background check company in 2 places:
  o BEFORE someone runs a background check on you (such as an employer, private landlord, or creditor), they are supposed to tell you and get your PERMISSION. They must also give you the name, address, phone number, and website of the background check company that they are going to use.
  o If someone takes any negative action against you (such as refusing to hire you, rent an apartment to you, or give you benefits) based on information in your background check, they must give you an “ADVERSE ACTION LETTER” that also includes the name, address, and phone number of the background check company that did the background check.

STEP 2: The background check company INVESTIGATES your claim.

Once the company receives your letter, it MUST investigate your claim free of charge.

- During the investigation, the company MUST review ALL the evidence you sent in and consider any relevant information.
- The company must notify whoever provided the information that you are challenging it.
- Based on its investigation, the company MUST update, confirm, or remove the challenged within 30 days (see Step 3 for more information).

STEP 3: AFTER the background check company finishes its investigation...

The background check company will make a decision about the information you challenged, and must respond to you within 30 days. If you give the company more information that affects the investigation during the 30-day period, the agency can extend the investigation for an extra 15 days. Based on its investigation, the company MUST:

- Correct or remove any information that is inaccurate, incomplete, or can’t be confirmed as true;
- Notify the person or agency that provided the information that it has been corrected or removed from your background check;
- Keep in any information that the company confirms is complete and accurate;
- End the investigation (without making any changes) if the company finds that your claim is “frivolous” or “irrelevant.” This usually means that you have not provided enough information for the company to investigate your claim.
  - If the company ends the investigation, it must notify you, explain the reasons for its decision, AND tell you what information it needs in order to continue the investigation.
- Notify you when the investigation is complete, tell you the results of the investigation, AND send you a new copy of your background check.

STEP 4: FOLLOW UP after the background check company’s decision!

- If the background check company DOESN’T remove the information, or if there is still information in your background check that you think is incorrect or incomplete, you can add a STATEMENT OF DISPUTE saying that you disagree with the information in your file. Mail this statement to the background check company, and tell them to include it in your file. (See APPENDIX J, on PG. 1124 for a sample statement of dispute.)
- The company MUST include your statement of dispute in any future background checks it runs AND clearly state that the information is “in dispute” (being challenged as incorrect).

STEP 5: NOTIFY anyone who has received a copy of your background check.

If the agency corrects or removes any information in your background check, or if you add a statement of dispute to your file, you should ask the background check company to send a notice of the change to ANYONE who received your background check in the last 2 years.

STEP 6: If the background check company later puts information BACK into your background check that it previously removed...

If a background check company REMOVES challenged information from your background check, it can REINSERT (put back) the information if the company later finds that the information is true.

- If this happens, the background check company MUST:
  - Notify you the information has been put back in your file;

CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.24(g).
CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.24.
CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.24(i).
CAL. CIV. CODE § 1786.24(j). o Give you the name, address, and phone number of anyone the company talked to when deciding to put the information back in; AND o Give you the phone number of the person or agency that provided the information that the company put back in.2877

• You also have the right to challenge any information the company puts back into your background check.
  o You have can ask the background check company to RE-investigate any information that it has put back in your background check. The company must conduct another investigation of the information, tell you the results, make any corrections, and give you a new copy of your background check report (just like in Steps 2-3).

Why would a background check company PUT BACK information that it previously removed?

Sometimes a background check company will REMOVE information from your background check—for example, because it could not confirm whether or not the information was true—but later, the company will found out that the information was true. It will want to PUT the information back into you background check to make the report complete.

APPENDIX K

Petition for Dismissal (California Expungement)

In most cases, you will need to file papers in court and ask a judge to expunge your conviction. This process is called a Petition for Dismissal. The process is almost the same for requesting mandatory or discretionary dismissal, but there are a few small differences. Remember, it is always good to ask a lawyer for assistance, especially if you are requesting discretionary dismissal.

STEP 1: Get the court forms you will need to request an expungement from the court: the Petition for Dismissal (form CR-180) and the Order for Dismissal (form CR-181)

- The “Petition for Dismissal” (form CR-180) is the formal document you use to ask the court to expunge your conviction.
- If the judge approves your expungement, s/he will sign the “Order for Dismissal” (form CR-181) to make your expungement an official court order.
- You can get these forms from several places, including:
  - The Clerk of the court where you were convicted;
  - The California Courts’ official website (http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/cr180.pdf); or
  - From your lawyer.
  - A sample form CR-180 and form CR-181 are included in APPENDIX DD, on PG. 1171 for reference. BUT it is always better to get the most current version from an official source, in case there have been any recent changes to the form.

IMPORTANT: If you have convictions from multiple cases, you will need to file a separate petition for each case.

STEP 2: Fill out your court forms (Petition AND Order)

Here are some tips for filling out the forms:

- Petition—Fill in ALL the information that the forms ask for. You will need the information from your RAP sheet (or court records from all of your cases) in order to fill out the forms.
- Petition question #1—If you are filing a petition to have a felony “wobbler” expunged, you will need to mark “Yes” in the box that asks if the felony is eligible for reduction to a misdemeanor under Penal Code Section 17(b). (See PG. 1068 for more information about expungement of felony “wobblers.”)
- Bottom of Petition—If your sentence included probation, check the box for “1203.4.” If your sentence did NOT include probation, check the box for “1203.4a.” If you were convicted of a felony under California’s Realignment Act, check the box for “1203.4i.” (See PG. 1056 for more information about expungement of felonies that were sentenced under Realignment.)

---

• Bottom of Petition—Don’t forget to sign the form and put the date!

• Order—Only fill out the top boxes (for “Lawyer or Party Without Lawyer,” “People of the State of California v. Defendant,” and “Case Number”), and leave the rest of the form blank (all of the numbered questions). Make sure the information is the same as the top boxes on the Petition form! The judge will fill in all the other information after deciding whether or not to grant your expungement.

• Petition AND Order—If you are filling out the forms for yourself, you are BOTH the “petitioner” AND the “defendant,” so you should fill in your information wherever you see these terms.

• If your conviction qualifies for mandatory dismissal, you only need to fill out the Petition (CR-180) and Order (CR-181) forms. However, if your conviction only qualifies for discretionary dismissal, you will need to include a few more documents in addition to your petition. (See PG. 1057 for more information on the difference between mandatory and discretionary expungement, and to figure out which type of expungement you qualify for.)

FOR DISCRETIONARY EXPUNGEMENT, GO TO STEP 3. FOR MANDATORY EXPUNGEMENT, SKIP TO STEP 4.

STEP 3: (FOR DISCRETIONARY PETITIONS ONLY) Gather additional supporting documents to include with your Petition.

If you are requesting a discretionary dismissal, you will also need to include the following documents. (Note: Make a photocopy of any documents you send with your petition, and keep the original for yourself!)

1) A Declaration. A declaration is a statement that you write under penalty of perjury, that explains why expungement of your conviction is “in the interests of justice.” Your declaration should say why you deserve to get an expungement, and how it will help you succeed in the future.2879
   a. How have you changed since your conviction? What was going on in your life at the time of the conviction? What has changed in your life since then?
   b. What efforts have you made toward rehabilitation? What are you doing to improve yourself and your situation (such as treatment programs, work or school, connecting with family, finding religion)?
   c. What are your goals for the future (for example, getting a job or promotion, getting your GED or a college degree, connecting with family, starting a business)?
   d. How will getting an expungement help you to achieve your goals?
   e. You can use the official Declaration form (MC-031) published by the Judicial Council of California which is available from the court clerk, or on the California Courts website at:
   f. For tips for what to write in your Declaration, see APPENDIX L, on PG. 1130. For a sample Declaration, see APPENDIX M, on PG. 1131.

2) Letters of Support. Letters of support serve as character references and emphasize the positive impact that granting your dismissal will have. You should ask for letters from people who know you well, and who can talk about your positive qualities, your accomplishments, and your rehabilitation efforts. These can be from your rabbi, priest, or pastor; your employer (current or previous); your teachers; your sponsor or mentor; your counselor or case manager; community leaders and other members of community organizations that you are involved in; and your friends, family, and neighbors. When you ask someone for a letter of support, you can remind them of your accomplishments and explain what you would like them to write about (for example, how you have changed since your conviction, your efforts at rehabilitation, your good character, your efforts to improve yourself and help others around you, and why you deserve to have your conviction expunged). For more information on how to write a Letter of Support and tips for what to write, see APPENDIX N, on PG. 1132. A sample Letter of Support is included in APPENDIX O, on PG. 1134.

3) Proof of Accomplishments. If you have completed any classes or training programs since your conviction (such as vocational training or job readiness programs; GED classes, or other schooling; mentorship courses, reentry programs, restorative justice workshops, or any other treatment programs), or if you have earned any certificates, awards, or degrees, or if there are any other accomplishments that you’re proud of, you should make sure to include this information with your petition! This can be anything you accomplished while you were incarcerated or since you’ve been released. (Note: Make a photocopy of any documents you send with your petition, and keep the originals for yourself!)

4) Letter to Request a Hearing. If you are asking for a discretionary expungement, you should ALWAYS ask for a hearing in front of a judge, so that you have the best chance to convince him/her to grant your request. To ask for a hearing, write a very brief letter saying that you would like to request a hearing on your Petition for Dismissal. Make sure to include your name and case number, and address your letter to “The Honorable Judge” (with the judge’s name, if you know it). Turn in this letter with your Petition and other documents.

5) Other Documents: Each court may have local rules about what additional documents you can include with your petition and what documents you should bring to the hearing. Check with the court clerk about what to do with any other documents that you would like the judge to consider.

STEP 4: Make copies of your petition and supporting documents.

After you have filled out your petition and attached your supporting documents, you will need to make several copies of everything. Ask the court clerk how many copies are required by the court in your county. If you can’t talk to the clerk, make at least five copies to be safe.

Generally, the original petition goes in the court’s file (the “docket”), one copy goes to the District Attorney, one copy goes to the probation department, and one “courtesy” copy is saved for the judge (if he or she wants one). But these procedures may vary by county, so it’s important to ask the clerk how many copies you need to make.

STEP 5: “Serve” the Court Papers

What is “service” and how do I do it?

Service is the formal process of giving copies of the documents in a court case to the other people connected with the case. It is a very important step because it lets the other people know 1) that your court case exists, and 2) what actions have been taken in the case so far. A case CANNOT go forward until the court documents are properly served (delivered). The most common methods of service are in person or by mail, although in some situations, service can be by fax or email also.

In general, for an expungement petition, your papers have to be served on the District Attorney and the county probation department. Ask the court clerk whether there is anyone else who needs to get the papers also.

STEP 6: File Your Petition and “Proof of Service” with the Court Clerk.

- After your papers have been “served” on all of the other parties, bring the following documents to the court clerk: Your original Petition; your additional supporting documents (if you are requesting a discretionary dismissal); one set of copies for your records; AND the Proof of Service for your Petition. The clerk will stamp your papers with the date and give you a stamped copy.
  - Remember, the court clerk will usually have an office or counter at the courthouse, so that’s where you will need to go to file your papers.
- The clerk may or may not give you a court date for a hearing before a judge.
  - FOR MANDATORY EXPUNGEMENTS: In some counties, mandatory expungements are granted without any hearing on your Petition. Other counties require a formal hearing before an expungement is granted.
  - FOR DISCRETIONARY EXPUNGEMENTS: If you are requesting a discretionary expungement, you should ALWAYS ask for a hearing before a judge, so that you have the best chance to convince him/her to grant your expungement. Tell the court clerk that you would like to request a hearing and show him/her your letter requesting a hearing, which you should include with your other documents.

STEP 7: Go to Your Court Date/Hearing

- If you are given a hearing date to have your petition heard by a judge, you or your lawyer MUST go to court for the hearing.
- FOR MANDATORY EXPUNGEMENTS: If you qualify for a mandatory expungement, the judge will grant your petition, and dismiss your case. You should not have to do anything if there is a hearing. You should receive something in the mail from the court within a few weeks confirming that your record has been officially changed.
- FOR DISCRETIONARY EXPUNGEMENTS: If you are requesting a discretionary dismissal, the hearing is your chance to explain your case to the judge and persuade him or her that dismissing your conviction is “in the interests of justice.” You will need to show the judge why you deserve to have your conviction expunged, and how an expungement will help you succeed and achieve your goals. You should be prepared to explain the information in your Declaration and in any supporting documents that you included with your Petition. Make sure you bring extra copies of these documents to the hearing! In general, the judge will tell you right there at the hearing whether or not your expungement is granted.

STEP 8: Follow up!

- After the judge grants your expungement and signs the Order making it official, the court will send the information to the Department of Justice and other law enforcement agencies. It may take a few months for these agencies to correct your official criminal record (RAP sheet) to show that your conviction was expunged. You should follow up with the Department of Justice in 3-4 months to confirm that the changes were made.

Remember, expungement does NOT erase the conviction from your criminal record. Instead, your RAP sheet will state that your case has been “dismissed [in] furtherance of justice (DISM, FURTH OF JUST)” OR “dismissed pursuant to PC 1203.4.”

If the DOJ has NOT corrected your record after several months, you may need to ask them to do so by filing a “Claim of Alleged Inaccuracy or Incompleteness” (form BCIA 8706). The process for challenging and correcting information in your RAP sheet is detailed in APPENDIX F, on PG. 1116.

STEP 9: If your petition is denied, re-file it

If your petition for expungement is denied, you are allowed to file it again (“re-file”). At the end of your hearing, ask the judge to explain the reason why s/he did not grant your request for an expungement, so that you can take steps to fix the problem before you re-file your Petition. If you forget to ask or cannot get this information from the judge for some reason, try calling the court clerk to see if he or she can help you figure out what to do to make sure your Petition is granted the next time.

Tips for Writing a Declaration

The declaration is your chance to present evidence to convince the judge that you deserve an expungement. Here are some tips for writing your declaration:

1) First, explain the basic information about your conviction and sentence. Tell the judge why your conviction meets the requirements for discretionary expungement (see PG. 1058 for a list of requirements).

2) Next, explain why granting your expungement would be “in the interest of justice”—meaning why you deserve to have your conviction expunged, and how the expungement will help you succeed in the future.

3) Here are some examples of things you may want to talk about (but only if they are true for your situation!):
   a. If there were circumstances that made your life especially difficult at the time of your conviction;
   b. How you are turning your life around;
   c. Your work and/or school history (including any vocational training, GED or other classes, and other programs you’ve participated in);
   d. Current opportunities for work, school, and other activities to enrich your life, and how expungement will help you take advantage of these opportunities;
   e. Your family situation and needs, and how an expungement will help you reconnect with, support, or otherwise benefit your family; and
   f. Any problems you have had completing probation, and what you are doing to address those problems.

4) You should be specific and honest, and include as many details as possible to give the judge a concrete picture of what happened. But you should not include irrelevant or unnecessary information that might distract him/her.

5) Finally, it is recommended that you ask a lawyer to look over your declaration before you turn it in, if possible.

SAMPLE DECLARATION IN SUPPORT OF 1203.4 PETITION

NAME ADDRESS

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA
COUNTY OF ______

PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA,  Case No.: Plaintiff

VS.
   Defendant

I, NAME, declare:

I believe the following facts justify my petition for expungement:

1. I was convicted of violating California Penal Code, (describe offense), committed on DATE. (Briefly describe circumstances of cases)

2. (Describe life circumstances at time of conviction, e.g.: In 1997, after this conviction for possession of methamphetamines, I was literally “scared straight. I realized that I needed to change my life entirely; I decided to get clean. Although it was difficult, I stopped doing drugs on my own.)

3. (Describe life circumstances since incident/conviction, e.g.: I have not had alcohol for over 10 years. I have not done any drugs for five years. Over the past year, I have participated in Alcoholics Anonymous to get support for staying “clean and sober,” and in order to get my drivers license back to help with finding and retaining a job. I am in the process of joining a labor union of cement masons in order to find work. I am living at a shelter until I can find employment.)

4. (Describe/explain any other contacts with law enforcement since the incident/conviction, e.g. since the 1997 convictions, I have had one contact with law enforcement. I was cited and released for driving on a suspended license. Currently, I am working with the DMV and the courts to get my drivers license back and clear this violation from my record.)

5. (Describe why you need an expungement, e.g., my prior conviction is greatly limiting my job opportunities and an expungement would allow me to work and achieve my goal of self-sufficiency and continued sobriety. I respectfully request that the court use its discretion to expunge my misdemeanor conviction and grant me a second chance to work and support myself. I declare under penalty of perjury of the laws of the State of California that the above is true and correct to the best of my knowledge.

Tips for Gathering Letters of Support

WHO SHOULD I ASK?

- Current and previous employer(s)
- Friends and family
- Mentors or sponsors
- Faith-based leaders
- Teachers
- Counselors
- Community leaders and members of community organizations
- Anyone else who can speak to your character and rehabilitation efforts, and will be seen as credible by the court

WHAT SHOULD MY REFERENCES WRITE IN THE LETTER?

- For a Character Letter from an Employer or Previous Employer the person should:
  o Define their relationship with you. Give specific details about who they are, how they know you, and how long they have known you.
  o Give the reader a reason to respect their letter of support (through their career, community involvement, education, etc.). They need to establish their own credibility.
  o Give specific information and details about your employment (wages, length of time employed, responsibilities, manner of performance, etc.).
  o Provide how they will continue or increase their support for you.
  o Thank the reader for consideration of their letter. They may also want to mention that they are available to provide further information, and provide their phone number or other contact information.

- For a Character Letter from anyone else they should:
  o Define their relationship with you. Give specific details about who they are, how they know you, and how long they have known you.
  o Give the reader a reason to respect their letter of support (through their career, community involvement, education, etc.). They need to establish their own credibility.
  o Give specific information and details about you, focusing on how they have experienced your positive personal assets.
  o Provide how they will continue or increase their support of you.
  o Thank the reader for consideration of their letter. They may also want to mention that they are available to provide further information, and provide their phone number or other contact information.

HERE ARE SOME GENERAL GUIDELINES ON ASKING FOR LETTERS OF SUPPORT.

General Reminders:

- Make it as easy for people as possible! People are busy and letters of support can take time to write. Some ways you can make it easier for the people you are asking to help you are:
o Give them plenty of time. Don’t ask them 2 days before you need to turn in the letter. Give them plenty of time to work on it so they don’t feel rushed and can put thought into what they’re writing.

o Give them plenty of information. Make sure to remind them of things they can write about, such as your accomplishments or your positive impact on them.

o Give them friendly reminders. If someone hasn’t responded to you or hasn’t given you a letter by the date you asked to have it done by, try writing them a quick email or calling them. Be polite and not demanding. Your message should be along the lines of “I know you are busy, but I was curious if you will have any time to work on that letter of support I asked you about?”

• Have a variety of people write letters for you. You should have letters from people who know as many different aspects of you as possible. Don’t get all of your letters from people who all know you from the same activity or area of your life.

• Keep it Short. It is best to keep the letters short, about 1–2 pages. This will make them easier to read and also less time consuming to write.

Motion for Early Termination of Probation

To request early release from probation, you will need to file a Motion for Early Termination of Probation in the court where you were convicted. Because this process requires drafting a formal court pleading with accompanying documents, it is recommended that you ask a lawyer for help. Ideally, you should contact the lawyer who represented you when you were sentenced, but any private criminal defense lawyer or Public Defender should be able to help you.

The process for filing a Motion for Early Termination of Probation is as follows:

STEP 1: Write your Motion and Supporting Documents.

There is no official court form for this motion, so you or your lawyer will have to write your own motion. Your motion will consist of these 5 parts:

1) Notice of Motion—This tells the judge what you want him or her to do. In other words, it tells the judge that you want to be released early from probation.

2) Memorandum of Points and Authorities—This section explains the law (California Penal Code section 1203.3(a)), the facts about your individual situation, and the evidence you have to justify your request for early release.

3) Declaration—This is your sworn statement that all the facts about your individual situation are true. Your Declaration must include ALL of the facts that you use to make your points in your Memorandum and all the information that you want to tell the judge to convince him or her to grant your request.

4) Proposed Order—This is the document the judge signs if s/he grants your early discharge and terminates your probation.

5) Proof of Service—You will need to give copies of your court papers to the other people involved in your case (generally the District Attorney and the probation department—ask the court clerk if there is anyone else). The Proof of Service proves that you gave copies to everyone who was supposed to get them.

STEP 2: Make Copies & File your Motion

1) Once your motion and other papers are all ready, make copies for everyone who will receive it. Check with the court clerk to see how many copies you will need. Generally, you will need one copy for the DA, one for the Probation Department, and one for your own records, but you should ask the clerk if there is anyone else. You may also want to make a courtesy copy for the judge.

2) Bring the original motion and all copies to file with the clerk in the court where you were convicted. The clerk will file your Motion, keep the original copy for the court file, and give you back the copies you need for yourself and the other parties (DA, probation department, etc).

3) After you file your motion, the clerk will give you a court date for a hearing before a judge. Ask the clerk what room your hearing will be in.

---

COURT FEES:

Be aware that the clerk will charge you fees for filing documents with the court. The amount of the fees will vary by county. If you cannot afford to pay the fees, you can request a fee waiver (meaning you do not have to pay the fees). Ask the clerk how much the fees are and how to request a fee waiver.

NEED HELP WITH YOUR COURT FORMS?

Remember, it is recommended that you ask a lawyer to help you with your Motion for Early Termination of Probation. But if you cannot get a lawyer or want to do it on your own, you can find helpful information on the California Courts website:

- Cleaning up your record http://www.courts.ca.gov/1070.htm
- Understanding the basics of court forms http://www.courts.ca.gov/1078.htm

---

284 CAL. R. OF COURT, Rule 3.1112.
STEP 3: Serve your court papers on the other parties

1) Service is the official process of giving copies of your court documents to other people connected with the case.

2) Ask the court clerk whether you are responsible for serving your court papers, or whether the clerk will do it directly. If the clerk gives you back more than 1 copy when you file your court papers (see Step 3), this most likely means that you are responsible for service!

3) If the clerk says that you are responsible for service, this means that you must make sure that all necessary parties (DA, probation department, and anyone else the clerk tells you) get a copy of your papers motion in the proper manner.

4) If you are responsible for service, make sure to have your papers served on (delivered to) the DA at least 2 days before the court date for your hearing! The law requires you to give the DA at least 2 days notice of your Motion so he or she can prepare for the hearing as well.

STEP 4: Attend The Hearing

1) When you file your Motion for Early Termination of Probation, the clerk will give you a court date for your motion to be heard by a judge. You MUST go to court for the hearing on that date and time!

2) At the hearing, you will explain to the judge all the reasons why releasing you from probation early is “in the interests of justice”—in other words, why you deserve to be released early from probation, and why being off probation will help you to achieve your goals and avoid further hardships. You should talk about all of the factors discussed above, including (1) your successful fulfillment of your probation requirements and satisfaction of all conditions; (2) your good conduct, efforts at rehabilitation, and other accomplishments (work, school, volunteer efforts, family responsibilities, etc.); (3) what you have learned and how you have changed since your offense; and (4) why staying on probation will cause you hardship (for example, preventing you from finding work, attending school, traveling to see your family, etc.).

3) If the judge grants you early release from probation or changes your probation in any other way, he or she must explain the reasons for doing so. Also, before the judge signs the Order to officially end your probation, s/he must first notify your probation officer.

STEP 5: Re-filing Your Motion

1) Remember, a decision to terminate your probation early is entirely up to the judge to decide. However, if the judge denies your motion, you can re-file it. Make sure you find out why the judge denied your request so that you can fix the problem before you re-file. If there is something the judge wants you to include with your motion next time, make sure you include it. If there is something the judge wants you to do before he or she is willing to grant your request, make sure you do it!

2) Finally, although there is no limit to how often or how many times you can re-file, do not be a nuisance! The last thing you want to do is put the decision in the hands of an annoyed judge!

Judge of the Superior Court
How to Reduce Your Felony Conviction to a Misdemeanor

As Part of Your Expungement Petition:

If you want to reduce your felony conviction to a misdemeanor AND get your conviction expunged, it is very easy to do both at the same time. When you have your court hearing for your expungement, the judge will consider both requests—first your request to reduce the conviction to a misdemeanor, and then your request to have it expunged. If you meet all the requirements, usually the judge will grant both of your requests together. (For a list of the requirements for reducing a felony to a misdemeanor, see PG. 1065. For expungement requirements, see PG. 1054.)

There are two main steps to this process:

• File Your Petition for Dismissal:
  o The Petition for Dismissal (form CR-180) that you must file to get your conviction expunged has a box to check if your conviction is also eligible to be reduced. When you are filling out your Petition for Dismissal, mark the box on question # 1 to show that the conviction is eligible for reduction under California Penal Code section 17(b). (For more information on getting and filling out form CR-180, see APPENDIX K, on PG. 1125.)
  o File the petition in the county where you were convicted. The same petition now serves as both your request to have your conviction expunged AND your request to have it reduced to a misdemeanor. (For details on how to file a Petition for Dismissal, see APPENDIX K, on PG. 1125.)

• Go to Your Court Hearing: When you have your court hearing, the judge will usually consider both requests at the same hearing—first your request to reduce the conviction to a misdemeanor, and then your request to have it expunged. At the hearing, the judge will consider the following:
  o The nature of the offense;
  o The facts of the case;
  o Whether you fulfilled the conditions of your probation;
  o Your full criminal record and personal conduct record;
  o Any objections from the district attorney.

Again, usually the judge will make a decision on both of your requests together.

As a Separate Petition:

If the judge does NOT reduce your felony conviction to a misdemeanor, or if your felony is eligible for reduction but not expungement, you may need to file a separate petition to get it reduced. Your petition will need to show the judge that your felony conviction meets all the requirements to be reduced to a misdemeanor (see PG. 1065 for a list of these requirements), and explain why you deserve to have your conviction reduced. It will be entirely up to the judge to decide whether your conviction should be reduced.
NOTE: This is a formal court document, not just a form you fill out, so it is recommended that you ask a lawyer to help you.

Your petition will have of 3 parts:

1) The Petition—This is your formal request to the court explaining that you are asking to have your felony conviction reduced to a misdemeanor.

2) The Memorandum of Points and Authorities—This is where you state that your felony conviction meets all the requirements to be reduced to a misdemeanor under the law (California Penal Code section 17(b)(3)), and explain why you deserve to have your conviction reduced to a misdemeanor (based on the factors that the judge will consider, listed below).

3) The Declaration—Here, you state all the important facts about your situation and swear that they are true. Your Declaration must include ANY and ALL of the facts that you have included in the Petition and Memorandum sections.

Factors the Judge May Consider:

When the judge decides whether or not to reduce your felony to a misdemeanor, here are some of the things s/he will consider. You should emphasize these in your petition:

- The nature and circumstances of your offense (for example, how old you were at the time; your role in the offense; the specific details of the offense);
- Whether you have taken responsibility for your conviction and learned from it;
- Your attitude in court;
- Your efforts at rehabilitation;
- Your ability to successfully complete your parole;
- Your individual situation—why you deserve to have your conviction reduced to a misdemeanor (for example, your work, school, and/or family situation; your accomplishments since your conviction; how you have changed since your conviction; and why reducing your felony to a misdemeanor is necessary in order for you to succeed).

As we said, you should ask a lawyer to help you prepare your petition, however, we have included an example in this appendix for your reference.

PETITION FOR REDUCTION OF FELONY TO MISDEMEANOR PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS OF PENAL CODE SECTION 17

I, the undersigned petitioner, am the defendant in the above-entitled action. I was convicted for violating Section(s) of the _____ Code, on ___. The Court placed me on probation on the terms and conditions set forth in the docket of the above-named Court. I have fulfilled the terms and conditions of probation, except as may be testified by myself upon the hearing of this petition. Probation was granted for a period of ________ years and ________ months.

WHEREFORE, I request that the felony be reduced to a misdemeanor.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Defendant. (Pen C §17(b)(3)) __[If desired, identify other attached papers]___

TO THE ABOVE-ENTITLED COURT, AND TO THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY AND THE PROBATION OFFICER OF __________ COUNTY, STATE OF CALIFORNIA:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE, that on __[date]___, in Department __[number]___, at __[time]___, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, the defendant will move the Court to declare the offense in this case to be a misdemeanor.

The ground for this motion is that declaring this offense to be a misdemeanor is in the interest of justice.

This motion is based on the attached declaration of defendant, all papers filed and records in this action, evidence taken at the hearing on this motion, and argument at that hearing.

WHEREFORE, the defendant respectfully requests this Court to grant this motion, and to notify the California Department of Justice, under Penal Code section 13151.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO DECLARE THIS OFFENSE TO BE A MISDEMEANOR

AUTHORITY TO DECLARE AN OFFENSE TO BE A MISDEMEANOR

Penal Code section 17(b) provides:

When a crime is punishable, in the discretion of the court, by imprisonment in the state prison or by fine or imprisonment in the county jail, it is a misdemeanor for all purposes under the following circumstances:...

(3) When the court grants probation to a defendant without imposition of sentence and ... on application of the defendant or probation officer thereafter, the court declares the offense to be a misdemeanor.

The offense in this case, violation of ____[code section]____, is an alternate felony/misdemeanor, so it fits within the ambit of Penal Code section 17(b).

In People v Superior Court (Alvarez) (1997) 14 C4th 968, 978, 60 CR2d 93, the California Supreme Court addressed the criteria to be applied in exercising discretion to grant a misdemeanor reduction under Penal Code section 17(b). Among relevant factors are the nature and circumstances of the offense, the defendant’s appreciation of and attitude toward the offense, or his or her character traits as evidenced by trial behavior and demeanor. When it is appropriate, the court should consider general sentencing objectives, such as those set forth in Cal Rules of Ct 4.410.

The supreme court indicated that the trial court must focus on the individual defendant as well as the public interest:

(1) “[A] determination made outside the perimeters drawn by individualized consideration of the offense, the offender, and the public interest ‘exceeds the bounds of reason.’” 14 C4th at 978.

(2) The court should weigh “the various sentencing considerations commensurate with the individual circumstances.” 14 C4th at 979.
(3) "The record should reflect a thoughtful and conscientious assessment of all relevant factors including the defendant's criminal history." 14 C4th at 979.

(4) The sentencing court must focus "on considerations that are pertinent to the specific defendant being sentenced." 14 C4th at 980.

_ _[Tell what facts concerning defendant's case fit within the above Standards, and argue in favor of reducing the offense to a misdemeanor]_.

THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE MUST BE NOTIFIED IF THIS MOTION IS GRANTED

Penal Code section 13151 states that, when the Court orders any action subsequent to the initial disposition of a case, the Court shall report this to the California Department of Justice. The report is necessary to ensure that defendant obtains full benefit if the Court grants this motion.

CONCLUSION

For the above reasons, defendant asks this Court to reduce _ _[describe offense]_ _ from a felony to a misdemeanor.

DECLARATION OF DEFENDANT IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO DECLARE THIS OFFENSE TO BE A MISDEMEANOR

[This declaration assumes defendant is seeking reduction under Pen C §17(b)(3).]

I, __[name]__, declare:

1. I am the defendant in this action.

2. On __[date]__, I was convicted __[by a plea of guilty or no contest by a jury or court verdict after trial]__ of violation of __[specify code section and offense]__.

3. On __[date]__ the Court suspended imposition of sentence and granted probation.

4. Probation expired on __[date]__. I have successfully completed all of the terms of probation. I am not now serving a sentence for, and am not on probation for, and am not charged with the commission of any other offense.

5. If there are any particularly compelling reasons why this relief should be granted, they can be listed here. For example, if defendant wishes to join the military, or enroll in professional school, or was young and immature at the time of the offense, or has led a particularly upstanding life since conviction. __

[Add if appropriate]

I am not a party to any civil lawsuit, or facing deportation proceedings, or currently applying for any license. I am not making this motion to gain unfair advantage in any matter.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

PARTS OF MOTION
- Notice of motion, notice of motion and motion, or motion (see §24.1)
- Memorandum of points and authorities (see §24.2)
- Declaration of defendant—(see §24.3)
- Proof of service
There is no universal statewide petition for resentencing and reclassification under Prop 47. Each local court has created its own version of the petition, so you will have to get the local form from the clerk of the court where you were convicted.

Most courts have created a single form that covers both resentencing and reclassification.

APPENDIX T

Resentencing & Reclassification Under Prop 47

RESENTENCING:

If you are currently serving your sentence (“under sentence”) for an offense that qualifies under Prop 47, and you are NOT excluded by one of the disqualifying convictions, you may be eligible for resentencing.2889

STEP 1: Obtain and fill out a Prop 47 petition

You will need to get the court forms from the clerk at the court where you were convicted. These forms are straightforward and simple to fill out—you just need to fill in information about your conviction (date of conviction, penal code section, and sentence), and check the box indicating that you are currently “under sentence” and requesting to be resentenced. (Sample petitions from SF, LA, and Sacramento Counties are included in APPENDIX EE, on PG. 1175.)

STEP 2: File your Petition and Serve your Court Papers

You will need to file your petition with the court clerk of the court where you were convicted, and then serve (deliver) copies of your court papers on the District Attorney and any other people who are part of the case. (Ask the court clerk who you need to serve with your court papers).

STEP 3: The Judge Reviews Your Petition to See if You are Eligible

After you file your petition, a judge will review it to make sure you are eligible (qualify) for resentencing.2890 Remember, in order to qualify for resentencing, you must meet all of the following requirements:

- Your conviction must be for one of the qualifying convictions under Prop 47 (see PG. 1069); AND
- You must NOT have any of the disqualifying convictions (see PG. 1070);2891 AND
- You are currently “under sentence” for the qualifying conviction (incarcerated OR on parole or PRCS).

STEP 4: Qualification Hearing—if Requested

1) When you petition for resentencing under Prop 47, you do not automatically get a hearing in front of a judge, but you may request one. If your conviction was for shoplifting, theft, receiving stolen property, or forgery/bad checks, you may want to request a hearing so you can prove to the judge that the value of property involved in your crime was under $950—and therefore qualifies under Prop 47.

2) The DA can also request a hearing to contest (challenge) your petition.

---

2889 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1170.18(a).
2890 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1170.18.
2891 CAL. PENAL CODE § 1170.18.
3) If there is a hearing on your petition, you should attend if you can. Whether or not you are able to attend, make sure that the judge has as much evidence as you can find to support your request for resentencing, including evidence of rehabilitation, proof of your accomplishments since your conviction, and letters of support. (See APPENDIX N, on PG. 1132 for tips on how to write a letter of support. See APPENDIX O, on PG. 1134 for a sample Letter of Support.)

4) If you meet all of the requirements for resentencing, you are entitled to be resentenced UNLESS the judge decides that you pose an “unreasonable risk to public safety.” This means that the judge specifically thinks that if you are released, you will commit one of the violent “super strike” felonies listed in California Penal Code section 667(e)(2)(c(iv)). In making this decision, the judge will consider:
   a. your complete conviction history including:
      i. the type of crime(s) you committed in the past;
      ii. the amount of injury to your victim(s);
      iii. the length of time you spent in prison in the past; and
      iv. how long ago you committed the crime(s).
   b. your disciplinary record and record of rehabilitation while you were in prison;
   c. anything else the judge thinks is relevant.
   d. You should provide as much evidence as possible that you do not pose any risk to society.

STEP 5: Resentencing
If your conviction is eligible, your criminal history does not disqualify you, and the judge does not think you pose an unreasonable risk to public safety, you are entitled to be resentenced to a misdemeanor sentence. This means that your felony sentence will be reduced to a misdemeanor sentence instead! You will get credit for the time you’ve already served, so if you have already served the equivalent of a misdemeanor sentence, you can be released from custody right away.

• If you were still in prison at the time of resentencing, the judge will likely put you on parole for one year. However, depending on the facts of your situation, you may be able to convince the judge not to give you parole at all.

• If you were on parole or PRCS at the time of resentencing, you could be discharged right away (if you have already completed the equivalent of a misdemeanor sentence), or the judge may reduce your supervision to probation.

RECLASSIFICATION:
If you already completed your sentence (including any parole or probation term) for an offense that qualifies under Prop 47, and you are NOT excluded by one of the disqualifying convictions, you may be eligible to have your felony RECLASSIFIED as a misdemeanor. Unfortunately, you cannot get back the time that you served for the felony, but you can change your criminal record to show a misdemeanor conviction instead of a felony conviction.

STEP 1: Obtain and fill out your Petition for Reclassification

Just as for resentencing, you will need to fill out and file a petition for reclassification. Most courts use a single form for resentencing and reclassification, which you should get from the clerk at the court where you were convicted. When you fill out the form, you will need to fill in basic information about your conviction (such as the date of conviction, penal code section, and your sentence), and then check the box indicating that you are requesting reclassification.

STEP 2: File your petition and Serve your court papers

File your petition with the clerk of the court where you were convicted, and then serve (deliver) copies of your court papers on the District Attorney and any other people who are part of the case. Ask the court clerk who else you need to serve with your court papers.

STEP 3: Eligibility Determination

Once your petition is filed, a judge will review it to make sure you qualify for reclassification. The judge will check to see whether your conviction offense qualifies under Prop 47 (see PG. 1069) and whether you have any prior convictions that disqualify you (see PG. 1070). Generally, you will not need to request a hearing for reclassification, however, it is possible that you will need one if you have to prove the value of the property involved in your offense to make sure it qualifies.

If you meet the requirements, the judge MUST reclassify your conviction as a misdemeanor.
APPENDIX U

Certificates Of Rehabilitation—Period Of Rehabilitation

To figure out your period of rehabilitation, you add the base term of 5 years plus an additional amount of time based on your conviction offense:

- Base 5 years + 2 years = 7 years if your conviction was for:
  - California Penal Code sections 311.2(b), (c), or (d), 311.3, 311.10, or 314;
  - Any offense not listed here that does NOT carry a life sentence.

- Base 5 years + 4 years = 9 years if your conviction was for:
  - California Penal Code sections 187, 209, 219, 4500, or 18755;
  - Military & Veterans Code section 1672(a); or
  - Any other offense that carries a life sentence;

- Base 5 + 5 years = 10 years if your conviction was for:
  - Any offense that requires you to register as a Sex Offender under California Penal Code section 290 (including any conviction for an attempted offense);
  - Exception: If your conviction was for sections 311.2(b), (c), or (d), 311.3, 311.10, 314, you only need to wait 7 years (see above).

In addition to the above requirements, you must have completed any term of probation or parole that was part of your sentence or was a condition of your release. HOWEVER, the time you spend on probation or parole counts toward your total “period of rehabilitation.”

NOTE: If you served consecutive prison terms, the judge may think that you should wait for a longer period of rehabilitation. If this happens, the judge will deny your COR the first time you apply, and will tell you how much additional time you must wait before you can re-apply.

NOTE: It is possible to apply for a Certificate of Rehabilitation before the end of your period of rehabilitation. You must convince the judge that granting your Certificate of Rehabilitation early serves the “interests of justice.” In other words, you’d better have a really good reason why you should get a COR early. The judge may consider your good conduct, rehabilitation efforts, and how important getting a COR is to your success in the future. (This option is not available to you if you are required to register as a sex offender under California Penal Code section 290.)

APPENDIX V

Certificate Of Rehabilitation—Petition For Certificate Of Rehabilitation

If you meet all of the eligibility requirements for a Certificate of Rehabilitation (see PG. 1075) AND you have completed the period of rehabilitation (see APPENDIX U, on PG. 1155) (or you want to request a COR early), you will need to file papers (called a Petition for Certificate of Rehabilitation) in the criminal court in the county where you currently live. Just like in your criminal case, you have the right to a lawyer to help you with the process of requesting a COR.

NOTE: You must request a Certificate of Rehabilitation from the court in the county where you currently live.

STEP 1: Get and Fill out the Court forms

• You will need to get and fill out 2 forms for your petition (together, they are called an Application for Certificate of Rehabilitation & Pardon):
  ○ Notice of Filing for Certificate of Rehabilitation; and ○ Petition for Certificate of Rehabilitation.
  ○ You will also need to get a Proof of Service form—but don’t fill it out yet.

• You can get these forms (and instructions for how to fill them out) from:
  ○ The court clerk;
  ○ The county Probation Department, or
  ○ The Public Defender’s Office.
  ○ You may also be able to download them from the website of your county court (or the court any other county, since the forms are the same statewide).

WHAT SHOULD I SAY IN MY PETITION?

The judge wants to know that you are truly rehabilitated. You will need to show that since your release from prison or jail:

1) You have lived “an honest and upright life,”
2) You have behaved with “sobriety and industry,”
3) You have shown “good moral character,” AND
4) You have obeyed all laws.

The judge will consider all of these factors when deciding whether or not to grant your COR. Your petition should:

• Emphasize all of the positive things that you’ve done since your conviction (both while you were incarcerated and since your release), such as:
  ○ your efforts at rehabilitation (treatment or behavioral programs, period of sobriety, etc.)
  ○ what you’ve learned and how you’ve changed since your conviction;
  ○ successful completion of your sentencing and supervision (parole or probation) requirements; AND ○ any other accomplishments since your conviction, such as employment, school achievements (including any classes, GED, or a degree that you’ve completed), volunteer work, community involvement (church, youth groups, mentoring), and family life.

2901 Cal. Penal Code § 4852.05.

- If you are requesting a COR to help improve your employment opportunities or for getting a professional or occupational license, make sure you say this in your petition!
- If you have had any new convictions or violations while on supervision, make sure you explain them—why the conviction happened, what you are doing differently now, and why you will not have the same problems again in the future.
- If you are currently required to register as a sex offender for your conviction, you must also convince the judge that you do not pose any threat of committing any sex offenses against children.2902
- You should include as many letters of support and proof of your accomplishments as possible. (See APPENDIX N, on PG. 1132 for tips on getting letters of support).

STEP 2: File Your Petition with the Court clerk

- Once you have filled out your court forms, make at least 5 copies and take everything to the court clerk to be filed. Remember, you will need to file your forms with the criminal court in the county where you currently live.
- When you file your forms, the clerk will stamp them, give you back the copies, and give you a court date for your hearing. Make sure the date is at least 30 days away.

STEP 3: Serve your Papers on the other parties

- You will need to serve your court papers on all of the following people:
  - The District Attorney in the county where you live;
  - The District Attorney(s) in every county(s) where you were convicted (if you have convictions in counties other than the one you live in now);
  - The Governor’s Office.
- You can serve your papers in person or by mail.
- You must make sure that all of your papers are served on everyone at least 30 days before your hearing (or 35 days if you are sending them by mail). If you do not serve your papers in time, your petition will be dismissed.2903
- After you have served all your court papers, fill out the Proof of Service and file it with the court clerk in the county where you live (the same place you filed your Notice and Petition papers in Step 2).

STEP 4: Investigation by DA

- After you file your petition, the judge may ask the DA to do an investigation of your life, conduct, and rehabilitation since your release.
- As part of the investigation, the DA may contact you directly; may talk to your family, employer, and neighbors; and may also get any records or reports related to your conviction, including trial documents, prison records, and probation/parole reports.
- Afterward, the DA will prepare a report for the judge, which will help the judge decide whether to grant your COR.

---

2902 CAL. PENAL CODE § 4852.13.
2903 CAL. PENAL CODE § 4852.07.
STEP 5: The Court Hearing

- Make sure you attend your court hearing on the date and time the clerk gave you! Remember, the hearing is your chance to make a good impression on the judge!
- During the hearing, the judge will consider your criminal history, your behavior in custody, and your conduct since your release. The judge will look at any reports or records from the District Attorney’s investigation, and may also ask you or other people to answer questions. You should be prepared to answer any questions from the judge about your conviction, your life and conduct since then, and any information in your petition. Just like in a criminal case, make sure to stay calm and respectful no matter what is said about you or your past.
- In order to grant your COR, the court must find that you are rehabilitated and ready to be a responsible member of society—in other words, that you are ready to have all the civil and political rights of citizenship. If you are required to register as a sex offender due to your conviction, the judge must also find that you do not pose any threat of committing any sex offenses against children.

STEP 6: Success!

If the judge grants your request for a Certificate of Rehabilitation, s/he will give you your certificate, and will also send a copy to the Governor’s Office. The COR serves as an official recommendation from the judge that the Governor grant you a full pardon. The COR also automatically serves as your application to the Governor for a pardon, so you will not have to do anything more to apply for one. (For information about Governor’s pardons, see PG. 1079, and APPENDIX W, on PG. 1159.)

STEP 7: If Denied, The Appeal

- If the judge decides not to grant your Certificate of Rehabilitation, you can re-apply for a COR any time in the future. However, pay attention to the judge’s reasons for denying your request so that you can fix or improve them before you re-file. This will increase your chances of being granted a COR the next time.
- If the judge set a new period of rehabilitation for you (because you served consecutive prison terms, or you have a new conviction), you will need to wait out this additional period before you can re-apply for a COR.

APPENDIX W

Governor’s Pardon—Application For Traditional Pardon Directly From Governor (Without Certificate Of Rehabilitation)

STEP 1: The Application

You will need to fill out the “Application for Gubernatorial Pardon” with information about the conviction you want pardoned, any other convictions on your record, and why you deserve a pardon.

You can get the application online at: http://gov.ca.gov/s_pardonsandcommutations.php, or request an application by mail from the Governor’s office:

Governor’s Office
State Capitol
ATTN: Legal Affairs
Sacramento, CA 95814

(There is a sample application included in APPENDIX FF, on PG. 1183, however, you should try to get a new copy from the Governor’s Office or online, in case there are recent changes).

To complete the application, you will need to the following information:

• Your personal information (name, date of birth, address, etc);
• Information about all of your prior convictions, including those in other states/countries;
• The circumstances of the crime you are requesting a pardon for;
• Why you are requesting the pardon;
• Why you think you should be granted a pardon (such as your excellent conduct, accomplishments, responsibilities, and rehabilitation since your conviction);
• The names of anyone you paid or gave a gift to for helping you with the application.

STEP 2: Notice to the District Attorney

• After you fill out your application, you must notify the District Attorney in the county where your conviction is from that you intend to request a pardon. If you are requesting a pardon for several convictions, you must notify the DAs in every county where you have a conviction 2908
• You must use a special form to notify the DAs. The form is included in the Application for Gubernatorial Pardon, along with instructions on how to complete the form and deliver it to the DA(s).

2908 CAL. PENAL CODE § 4802.
ROADMAP TO REENTRY

• You must deliver your notice for to the DA(s) at least 10 days before you submit your application to the Governor.2909
• Once the DA has received your notice, he/she will complete the bottom section of the form to confirm that he/she received the notice, and then return it directly to the Governor’s Office.

STEP 3: Submitting your Application to the Governor’s Office
At least 10 days after you have sent your notice to the DA(s) in every county where you have convictions to be pardoned, you will mail your completed Application for Governorial Pardon to the Governor’s Office:

Governor’s Office
State Capitol
ATTN: Legal Affairs
Sacramento, CA 95814

STEP 4: The Review
After you have submitted your application, the Governor will begin a review of your case. S/he may request that the judge of the court in which you were convicted, or the DA who prosecuted you, provide a summary of the facts of your case as well as a recommendation on whether or not your pardon should be granted.2911 The Governor will also typically forward your application to the Board of Parole Hearings for its opinion.2912 The BPH may then investigate your application by reviewing transcripts and documents from your trial (or any other proceedings in our case), examining witnesses, taking testimony, or whatever else it finds necessary to evaluate your application. The BPH will then make a recommendation to the Governor.2913 Remember, if you were convicted of more than one felony, the Governor MUST forward your application to the BPH for review.2914

IMPORTANT: If you were convicted of more than one felony, the Governor CANNOT grant your pardon without a recommendation from the California Supreme Court.2915 However, the Governor does not have to send your application to the Supreme Court to get its recommendation in the first place!

How to Seal Your Adult Arrest Record
(California State Records)

To get your arrest record sealed, you will need to go through the law enforcement agency and/or court in the county where you were arrested, depending on your situation.

STEP 1: Get and Fill Out the Forms

You will first need to get and fill a “Petition and Order to Seal and Destroy Adult Arrest Records.” Some counties have their own local forms to use for this, but you can always use the standard Department of Justice form.

To find your county’s local forms (if your county has them), you can check with the county court or on the court’s website, or contact the law enforcement agency that arrested you.

You can find the standard Department of Justice form on the DOJ website at: http://ag.ca.gov/idtheft/forms/bcii_8270.pdf.

To complete the petition, you will need the following information:

- The exact date you were arrested;
- The name of the law enforcement agency that arrested you (for example, the city police department, county sheriff, California Highway Patrol, or other law enforcement agency);
- The case number or booking number that the arresting law enforcement agency assigned to your case;
- What offense or charges you were arrested for; AND
- The outcome (disposition) of those charges (i.e. what happened in your case).

You will also need to get copies of any documents or other evidence in support of your petition. This may include declarations, affidavits, police reports, or anything else that you can use to prove your factual innocence. These will become part of your petition.

Make extra copies of your Petition and all supporting documents (at least 4 copies)

A sample petition is available in APPENDIX GG, on PG. 1187.

STEP 2: File the Petition and Order (plus Supporting Documents)

After you have completed the forms, you will need to file your petition and any supporting documents, with the correct agency. Where you file your petition depends on your situation:

- OPTION 1: If NO charges (complaint) were ever filed against you—in other words, if you never had to appear in court after your arrest—you will give your petition directly to the law enforcement agency that arrested you.

---

CAL PENAL CODE § 851.8(g); see Form BCII-8270, STATE OF CAL. DEPT OF JUSTICE RECORD MANAGEMENT/RECORD SEALING UNIT, http://ag.ca.gov/idtheft/forms/bcii_8270.pdf
You will also need to serve a copy of the petition on the District Attorney of the county in which you were arrested.

- OPTION 2: If charges (a complaint) were filed against you, and you appeared in court, you must file your petition with the clerk of the court where you appeared for the case. (If possible, it is recommended that you ask a lawyer to help you with your case.
  - When you file your petition with the court clerk, the clerk will set a hearing date for your petition.
  - You will also need to serve copies of your petition on the law enforcement agency that arrested you AND the District Attorney of the county in which you were arrested. You must serve your petition on the DA at least 10 days before your hearing date.

STEP 3: Review/Court Hearing

- OPTION 1: If you gave your petition directly to the law enforcement agency that arrested you, the law enforcement agency has 60 days to review and respond to your petition. If neither the law enforcement agency nor the District Attorney responds to your petition within the 60 days, the petition is considered denied.
  - If your petition is denied—either because the law enforcement agency tells you they are denying your petition, OR because they failed to respond—you can then file your petition with the court and request that the court order your record sealed (follow steps for OPTION 2 above).
  - NOTE: You MUST file your original petition with the court. This means that you will have to get your original petition back from the law enforcement agency that you gave it to, and then file it with the court.

- OPTION 2: If you filed your petition with the court (either first, or after it was denied by the law enforcement agency), there will be a hearing in front of a judge who will decide whether or not to grant your petition. At the hearing, you (or your lawyer) will present evidence of your factual innocence, and try to convince the court to grant your petition to have your arrest record sealed. The District Attorney may present evidence and argument against you.

STEP 4: The Decision

If the court finds that you are factually innocent, the judge will grant your petition and order that your arrest record and all related information be sealed for three years and then destroyed. If the judge does not find you factually innocent (denies your petition), you can appeal the decision.
APPENDIX Y

How to Seal Juvenile Records

STEP 1: Get a copy of your Juvenile Records

It is very important that you get a copy of your juvenile record and know exactly what is in it, because you will need this information to fill out your court forms properly. You can get a copy of your juvenile from the Clerk’s Office of the Juvenile Court where your case was adjudicated. Make sure you bring a photo ID with you, or you will not be able to get your record.

STEP 2: Get and Fill out a Petition to Seal Juvenile Records

When you go to the clerk’s office to get a copy of your juvenile record, you should also ask the clerk for a copy of the proper form, called a Petition to Seal Juvenile Records, and any instructions that go with it. Follow the instructions carefully, especially when you are asked to list the arrests or charges that you want sealed. ONLY THE ONES YOU LIST WILL BE SEALED! This is why it is important to have a copy of your juvenile record with you so you do not miss anything.

STEP 3: File your Petition

- Take your completed petition back to the Clerk’s Office of the juvenile court you were adjudicated in and file it with the clerk.
- Ask the clerk if the petition needs to be served on any other parties (such as the District Attorney or the Probation Department). If it does, be sure to ask the clerk if the clerk’s office will serve it, or if you have to serve the papers yourself.
- After you have filed your petition, you will get a court date for a hearing. The clerk may set the hearing date when you file your petition, or you may receive a Notice of Hearing in the mail (it can take several weeks to get your Notice of Hearing by mail).

STEP 4: The Hearing

- At the hearing, the judge will consider your petition AND get a recommendation from the probation department about whether your record should be sealed.
- You are not required to attend the hearing, but it is a good idea to go so that you can answer any questions that the judge might have. You are also allowed to bring witnesses to testify on your behalf (such as a pastor, teacher, employer, counselor, or other people who know you and can speak positively about you).
- After the hearing, the judge will rule on (decide) whether or not to seal your records. If the judge grants your petition and seals your records, s/he will also order all other agencies that have juvenile records on you (such as the police, probation department, DOJ, and DA) to seal their records also.

STEP 5: Appeal

If the judge denies your petition, ask the judge if and when you will be able to re-file your petition. You should also ask the judge for the reasons why s/he denied your petition, so that you can fix or address any problems before you re-file.

IMPORTANT: As of January 1, 2015, California Welfare & Institutions Code Section 786 changed so that juveniles who successfully complete probation, and otherwise qualify to have their record sealed, will have their juvenile record automatically sealed by the judge, without having to file a petition in court or do anything else.2924

However, this DOES NOT apply to juveniles who completed their probation BEFORE January 1, 2015. If you completed your juvenile probation BEFORE January 1, 2015, you will still need to file a petition in court to have your juvenile record sealed.

How to Get DNA Expungement

CALIFORNIA

STEP 1: Request expungement directly from the California DOJ
(Note: this is the fastest and easiest way to get your DNA expunged)

If you meet all of the requirements for California DNA expungement, you should:

• Get and fill out the California DOJ’s Streamlined DNA Expungement Application form;
• Include the required documents to prove that you qualify for DNA expungement (the Application form will tell you which documents to include, since it will be different depending on your specific situation); AND
• Mail your completed Application form and all documents to the following address:

  California Department of Justice
  CAL-DNA Data Bank Program
  Attn: Expungement Requests
  1001 W. Cutting Blvd., Suite 110
  Richmond, CA 94804

If you meet all of the requirements and have included all required documents, your DNA MUST be expunged from the California database. The process usually takes about 2-4 weeks for your DNA to be removed.

If your request for DNA expungement is denied, you can still file a new request for DNA expungement in court. (However, if your first request is denied, you may want to talk to a lawyer before filing a new request in court, since this may mean that you have another conviction on your record that disqualifies you from DNA expungement.)

STEP 2: Requesting DNA expungement in court
(Note: You can do this if your direct request to the DOJ was denied)

To request DNA expungement in court, you will need to:

• Get and complete the Petition for Expungement of DNA Samples & Profiles (form CR-185/JV-796);
  • The form is available online at http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/cr185.pdf, or ask the court clerk for a copy (or where to get a copy) of the form.
• File your form with the court clerk in the county where you were arrested or where your case was held;

---

2925 CAL. PENAL CODE § 299(c)(2).
• Serve copies of your Petition on the DOJ’s DNA Lab (CAL-DNA Program) and District Attorney in the county where you were arrested or where your case was held; AND

• Have a hearing before a judge. You will need to show that you meet all of the legal requirements for DNA expungement (described above), and it will be up to the judge to decide whether to grant your DNA expungement.²⁹²⁷

For more information about DNA expungement in California in general, see Getting Expunged or Removed from the CAL-DNA Data Bank on the California DOJ’s website at: https://oag.ca.gov/bfs/prop69/faqs.

➢ FEDERAL:

If you meet all of the requirements to expunge your DNA from a federal arrest or conviction (PG. 1101), you must:

• Get a certified copy of the final court order from your case, with the following information:
  o If you were arrested—The court order must show that NO charges were filed against you, or the charges were dismissed, or you were acquitted of the charges.
  o If you were convicted—The court order must show that your conviction was overturned.

• Send a written letter to the FBI to ask that your DNA be expunged from the National DNA Index System.
  o Include all of your personal information (including your full name, social security number, and/or date of birth).
  o Include as much information as possible about your arrest or conviction (date or arrest or conviction; case or docket number; date of dismissal, acquittal, or overturning of conviction).

• Most importantly: Include the certified court order from Step 1!

• Mail your letter and the certified court order to:
  Federal Bureau of Investigation
  Laboratory Division
  2501 Investigation Parkway
  Quantico, VA 22135
  Attention: Federal Convicted Offender Program Manager

• The FBI is required to expunge your DNA from the national database if you meet all the requirements and include the proper court order.²⁹²⁸

For more information on expungement of DNA from the national database, visit the FBI’s website on CODIS—Expungement Policy, available at http://www.fbi.gov/about-us/lab/biometric-analysis/codis/codis_expungement.

2. ☐ Felony or misdemeanor with probation granted (Pen. Code, § 1203.4)

Probation was granted on the terms and conditions set forth in the docket of the above-entitled court; the petitioner is not serving a sentence for any offense, nor on probation for any offense, nor under charge of commission of any crime, and the petitioner (check all that apply):

a. ☐ has fulfilled the conditions of probation for the entire period thereof;

b. ☐ has been discharged from probation prior to the termination of the period thereof;

c. ☐ should be granted relief in the interests of justice. (Please note: You must explain why granting a dismissal would be in the interests of justice. You may complete and attach the Attached Declaration (form MC-031) or submit other relevant documents.)

3. ☐ Misdemeanor or infraction with sentence other than probation (Pen. Code, § 1203.4a)

Probation was not granted; more than one year has elapsed since the date of pronouncement of judgment. The petitioner has complied with the sentence of the court and is not serving a sentence for any offense or under charge of commission of any crime; and the petitioner (check one):

a. ☐ has lived an honest and upright life since pronouncement of judgment and conformed to and obeyed the laws of the land; or

b. ☐ should be granted relief in the interests of justice. (Please note: You must explain why granting a dismissal would be in the interests of justice. You may complete and attach the Attached Declaration (form MC-031) or submit other relevant documents.)
PETITION FOR DISMISSAL

PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA v. DEFENDANT:

CASE NUMBER:

1. The court GRANTS the petition for reduction of a felony to a misdemeanor under Penal Code section 17(b) and reduces the following felony convictions to misdemeanors:

   The court finds from the records on file in this case, and from the foregoing petition, that the petitioner (the defendant in the above-entitled criminal action) is eligible for the following requested relief:

   ALL FELONY CONVICTIONS in the above-entitled action; or

   Only the following felony convictions in the above-entitled action (specify charges and date of conviction):

2. The court DENIES the petition for reduction of a felony to a misdemeanor under Penal Code section 17(b) for:

   ALL FELONY CONVICTIONS in the above-entitled action; or

   Only the following felony convictions in the above-entitled action (specify charges and date of conviction):

3. The court GRANTS the petition for dismissal regarding the following convictions under Penal Code , and it is ordered that the pleas, verdicts, or findings of guilt be set aside and vacated and a plea of not guilty be entered and that the complaint be, and is hereby, dismissed for:

   ALL CONVICTIONS in the above-entitled action; or

   Only the following convictions in the above-entitled action (specify charges and date of conviction):

4. The petitioner is not under supervision under Penal Code section 1170(h)(5)(B) and is not serving a sentence for, on probation for, or charged with the commission of any offense, and should be granted relief in the interests of justice, and (check one):

   a. more than one year has elapsed since petitioner completed the felony county jail sentence with a period of mandatory supervision imposed under Penal Code section 1170(h)(5)(B); or

   b. more than two years have elapsed since petitioner completed the felony county jail sentence without a period of mandatory supervision imposed under Penal Code section 1170(h)(5)(A).

   (Please note: You must explain why granting a dismissal would be in the interests of justice. You may complete and attach the Attached Declaration (form MC-031) or submit other relevant documents.)

Petitioner requests that the eligible felony offenses listed above be reduced to misdemeanors under Penal Code section 17(b).

Petitioner requests that he/she be permitted to withdraw the plea of guilty, or that the verdict or finding of guilt be set aside and a plea of not guilty be entered and the court dismiss this action under section 1203.4, 1203.4a, or 1203.41 of the Penal Code.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

6. If the order is granted under the provisions of either Penal Code section 1203.4, 1203.4a, or 1203.41, the petitioner is released from all penalties and disabilities resulting from the offense except as provided in Penal Code sections 29800 and 29900 (formerly sections 12021 and 12021.1) and Vehicle Code section 13555. In any subsequent prosecution of the petitioner for any other offense, the prior conviction may be pleaded and proved and shall have the same effect as if probation had not been granted or the accusation or information dismissed. The dismissal does not permit a person to own, possess, or have in his or her control a firearm if prevented by Penal Code sections 29800 or 29900 (formerly sections 12021 and 12021.1). Dismissal of a conviction does not permit a person prohibited from holding public office as a result of that conviction to hold public office.

7. In addition, as required by Penal Code section 299(f), relief under Penal Code sections 17(b), 1203.4, 1203.4a, or 1203.41 does not release petitioner from the separate administrative duty to provide specimens, samples, or print impressions under the DNA and Forensic Identification Database and Data Bank Act (Pen. Code, § 295 et seq.) if petitioner was found guilty by a trier of fact, not guilty by reason of insanity, or pled no contest to a qualifying offense as defined in Penal Code section 296(a).

- [ ] Defendant requests that the felony sentence be recalled and that he/she be resentenced to a misdemeanor pursuant to Penal Code § 1170.18(a)-(e).

- [ ] Defendant is still on supervision even though he/she has completed the jail or prison term.
- [ ] Defendant requests that he/she be released from parole per Penal Code § 1170.18(d).
  OR
  [ ] Defendant is currently serving a sentence for the offense in __________________________________________________________ (name of jail or prison)

- [ ] Resentencing the defendant would not pose an unreasonable risk of danger to public safety, as defined in Penal Code § 1170.18(c).

---

DISTRICT ATTORNEY’S RESPONSE

- [ ] People do not oppose. Defendant has completed his/her sentence and is eligible to have the felony conviction designated as a misdemeanor conviction.
- [ ] People do not oppose. Defendant is still serving his/her sentence and is eligible and suitable for resentencing. The People recommend the following sentence: __________________________________________________________
- [ ] People waive presence at resentencing.
- [ ] People oppose. Defendant is ineligible for the relief requested:
  - [ ] Defendant’s current conviction for __________________________________________________________ does not qualify for Proposition 47 relief.
  - [ ] Defendant is required to register pursuant to Penal Code § 290(c), or pursuant to Penal Code §§ 290 to 290.024 if the conviction is for Penal Code § 666.
  - [ ] Defendant has a prior conviction for an offense listed in Penal Code § 667(e)(2)(C)(iv):
- [ ] People oppose. Defendant is eligible, but unsuitable for resentencing because resentencing the defendant poses an unreasonable risk of danger to public safety pursuant to Penal Code § 1170.18(c). People request that a suitability hearing be set.

(SEE REVERSE SIDE FOR MORE INFORMATION ON PENAL CODE § 851.8)
PETITION TO SEAL AND DESTROY ADULT ARREST RECORDS – 851.8 PC

PETITIONER:

Penal Code section 851.8 PC provides that a person who has been arrested or detained and is determined to be factually innocent may petition the law enforcement agency or the court having jurisdiction over the matter to provide for the sealing and destruction of the record of that arrest. Petitions concerning arrests occurring on or after January 1, 1981, or accusatory pleadings filed on after January 1, 1981, may be filed for up to two years following the arrest filing date. Until January 1, 1983, petitions can be filed for arrests which occurred or accusatory pleadings which were filed up to five years prior to the statute’s effective date of September 29, 1980.

PETITION THE ARRESTING AGENCY (851.8(a) PC

Penal Code section 851.81(a) PC provides in part: “In any case where a person has been arrested and no accusatory pleadings has been filed, the person arrested may petition the law enforcement agency having jurisdiction over the offense to destroy its record of the arrest. A copy of such petition shall be served upon the district attorney of the county having jurisdiction over the offense.”

PETITION DENIED OR NO RESPONSE TO PETITION (851.8(b) PC

Penal Code section 851.8(b) PC provides in part: “If, after receipt by both the law enforcement agency and the district of a petition for relief under subdivision (a), the law enforcement agency and district attorney do not respond to the petition by accepting or denying such petition within 60 days after the running of the relevant statute of limitations or within 60 days after receipt of the petition in cases where the statute of limitations has previously lapsed, then the petition shall be deemed to be denied. In any case where the petition of an arrestee to the law enforcement agency to have an arrest record destroyed is denied, petition may be made to the municipal or justice court. A copy such petition shall be served on the district attorney of the county having jurisdiction over the offense at least 10 days prior to the hearing.” Note: the petitioner shall be responsible for obtaining the original petition from the law enforcement agency and submission to the court of jurisdiction.

PETITION TO THE COURT OF JURISDICTION (851.8(C)

Penal Code section 851.8(c) provide in part: “In any case where a person has been arrested, and an accusatory pleading has been filed, but where no conviction has occurred, the defendant, may, at any time after dismissal of the action, petition the court which dismissed the action for a finding that the defendant is factually innocent of the charges for which the arrest was made. A copy of such petition shall be served on the district attorney of the county in which the accusatory pleading was filed at least 10 days prior to the hearing on the petitioner’s factual innocence.”

It is the responsibility of the petitioner to submit any declarations, affidavits, police reports or other evidence, which may exist to support the petition to appropriate the arresting agency or court and to serve a copy of the petition and supporting papers on the district attorney.
LEGAL AID PROVIDERS IN CALIFORNIA (by Chapter)

This is a list of legal aid providers across the state of California (and even a few national organizations that may be able to help you with your legal issue).

- The list is organized first by Chapter (and note that we have added a couple of additional issue areas that many people need legal help in, even though not covered in The Roadmap to Reentry in detail: prison conditions, immigration and disability rights).
- Within each Chapter/issue area, the legal aid organizations are further broken up by region of California.

PLEASE FIND LISTED CALIFORNIA LEGAL AID ORGANIZATIONS THAT PROVIDE SERVICES AND COUNSEL IN THE FOLLOWING AREAS:

1. Getting Identification & Key Documents, Voting Rights
2. Parole & Probation
3. Housing
4. Public Benefits
5. Employment
6. Court-ordered Debt
7. Family & Children
8. Education
9. Expungement & Cleaning Up Your Record
   + 10. Prison Conditions
   + 11. Immigration Consequences

To find a legal aid organization near you, you can also try the following resources:

7 | LEGAL AID FOR FAMILY & CHILDREN ISSUES

A Resource in You'll Find in Almost Every County in California:

- Family Law Facilitator in Your County! NOTE: Every family court should have a Family Law Facilitator, which is someone who can help you with court forms, answer questions, provide general information about family law issues, and walk you through the steps of your case if you do not have a lawyer. (However, the Family Law Facilitator cannot give you legal advice or answer questions about your specific case. To find your local Family Law Facilitator go to http://www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-facilitators.htm.

CHAPTER 1- UPDATE 2. PROGRAM UPDATE: New Traffic Amnesty Program for Suspended CA Driver Licenses (Update to pgs. 51-55, Building Blocks of Reentry Chapter)

CHAPTER 1- UPDATE 1:
PROGRAM UPDATE: Cal-ID Program Expanded to All 36 California State Prisons (update to pg. 41, Building Blocks of Reentry Chapter)

As of July 2015, the Cal-ID program has now been expanded to all 36 state prison facilities. However, CDCR staff has informed us that the Cal-ID Program is NOT available at CDCR’s contracted facilities (called “Community Correctional Facilities”), which include Golden State Modified Community Correctional Facility (GSMCCF), Desert View Modified Community Correctional Facility (DVMCCF), Central Valley Modified Community Correctional Facility (CVMCCF), Shafter Modified Community Correctional Facility (SMCCF), Taft Modified Community Correctional Facility (TMCCF), Delano Modified Community Correctional Facility (DMCCF), Female Community Reentry Facility (FCRF). The Cal-ID program is also NOT available at CDCR’s conservation camps (also known as “fire camps”). This is because CDCR and the California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) do not consider contracted facilities and fire camps to be “state prisons.”¹ This interpretation has not yet been challenged.

¹ See Cal. Penal Code § 3007.05 ("CDCR and DMV shall ensure that all eligible inmates released from state prisons have valid identification cards").
CHAPTER 1-UPDATE 2:

PROGRAM UPDATE: New Traffic Amnesty Program for Suspended CA Driver Licenses and Traffic Court Fines (update to pgs. 51-55, Building Blocks Chapter)

Introduction to the new Traffic Amnesty Program:
On pg. 52 of the Roadmap to Reentry (2015), we discuss what people can do if their California Driver License was suspended. Now, if you are in this situation, you may qualify for the brand new Traffic Amnesty Program—to reduce the fines owed on traffic court debts and/or get your Driver License reinstated. If you want to understand more about the program, read the questions and answers below.

What is California’s new Traffic Amnesty Program?
The Traffic Amnesty Program is a one-time opportunity to reduce overall fines on old traffic tickets that are eligible for the program. It applies to not just driving tickets, but any tickets or fines handled in traffic court. This can help you get your California Driver License back if it was suspended for failure to appear in court (called “FTA”), OR for failure to pay traffic tickets/traffic fines (called “FTP”).

Each county is handling the program slightly differently. It is best to check with the local traffic court in your county for details.

Where do I file for relief under the Traffic Amnesty Program?
You file for relief for EACH ticket in the traffic court in the county in which your ticket was given. To find contact information for your local court to see what tickets might qualify, visit: http://www.courts.ca.gov/find-my-court.htm.

How long will the Traffic Amnesty Program last?
The program began on October 1, 2015, and ends on March 31, 2017 (as of now). You may choose to participate in the program during that period of time.

What types of tickets qualify for the Traffic Amnesty Program?
The Traffic Amnesty Program applies to all adult and juvenile vehicle code infractions (minor driving violations) due to be paid on or before January 1, 2013, as long as they were handled by a traffic court.

ANY person who is eligible to have a CA Driver License, including undocumented persons who are eligible for an “AB 60 Driver License,” can apply for and get relief under the law (so long as the ticket qualifies).

8 See TRAFFIC TICKETS / INFRINGEMENTS AMNESTY PROGRAM, http://www.courts.ca.gov/trafficamnesty.htm.
Other non-traffic infractions that were unrelated to driving could also qualify (like tickets for sleeping on the sidewalk, jaywalking, loitering, or turnstile jumping) but this all depends on the county. Some misdemeanors may also qualify depending on your county.

What could make me ineligible/ NOT qualify for the Traffic Amnesty Program?
There are some tickets that do not qualify for the Traffic Amnesty Program. For example, parking tickets, and reckless driving tickets (like road-rage, speeding, racing, etc.) are not eligible for the Traffic Amnesty Program.

Additionally, you are not eligible to participate if you owe restitution (money damages) on any case in the county where the traffic violation was filed.

You are also not eligible for the program if you have any outstanding misdemeanor or felony warrants in the same county where the ticket(s) was issued.

 IMPORTANT WARNING FOR PEOPLE WITH OPEN WARRANTS ***
If there's ANY possibility that you might have an outstanding warrant for your arrest—for ANY reason (including new charges against you or a failure to appear in court) from ANY county—it is recommended that you call the public defender or a private lawyer to check on your warrant status first, before trying to see if you are eligible for the Traffic Amnesty Program.

What kind of help can I get through the Traffic Amnesty Program?

- You may be eligible to have BOTH your traffic court fines reduced on a ticket (by 50% or 80% depending on your income) AND get your CA Driver License reinstated if . . .
  1. You have an unpaid ticket that is covered by the program, and your fines were originally due to be paid on or before January 1, 2013; AND
  2. You have not made any payment on your ticket after September 30, 2015.

  PAYMENT PLAN OPTION: It is important to note that the amount your fines will be reduced depends on your income. If you cannot afford to pay the full amount of the fine, even after the reduction, you can sign up for a monthly payment plan option. The payment plan will be based on your ability to pay the fine. If you receive public benefits or are very low-income, make sure to have written proof of this before applying! More information about payment plans will be posted to the California Courts' website here: http://www.courts.ca.gov/trafficamnesty.htm.

- You may be able to just get your California Driver License reinstated (but not reduce the fines you owe on a ticket) if . . .
  1. You sign up and comply with a payment plan (including paying any court fees, which can be added to your balance and paid over time through the payment plan); OR
  2. You made a payment on your ticket after September 30, 2015.

Do I have to pay a court fee to participate in the Traffic Amnesty Program?
Yes. The courts can collect a maximum fee of $50 to cover program administration costs. The fee can be added to the overall amount you pay, and does not have to be paid up front. It can be added to your balance and be paid through your payment plan. The DMV will also charge a $55 fee for reinstating (giving back) your California Driver License, as it does for all license reinstatements.

• If you live in San Francisco County: The Department of Human Services is paying the $50 court fee (but not the $55 DMV fee) for any county cash aid recipients.

• If you live in Los Angeles County: The Los Angeles County superior courts are waiving the court fee (but not the $55 DMV fee) for people who are receiving public benefits or very low-income (below 125% of the Federal Poverty Line).

How do I enroll?

Call your local court. You can contact the superior court where you received your ticket(s) and ask about the Traffic Amnesty Program.23 Once you start the process by visiting your local court, the court will provide you with an application to enroll in the program; you will not have to see a judge.24 The court is then supposed to contact the DMV to notify them that you are enrolled in the program.25 To find the contact information for all superior courts in California, visit: http://www.courts.ca.gov/find-my-court.htm.

DMV PRINTOUT: While you wait, it may be helpful to get a printout from DMV of what’s causing your Driver License suspension. Many of the details of how the application process will work have not yet been established by each county. While we wait for specific details, it is helpful to get a printout from the DMV that shows what is causing your license suspension.

FOR MORE INFORMATION: Learn more about the Traffic Amnesty Program on this easy-to-use website about the program: http://www.backontheroadca.org/. You can also use this website to report any issues or complaints you are having with the program.

CHAPTER 1- UPDATE 3:

LEGAL UPDATE: New Legal Ruling about Voting Rights (update to pgs. 69, 70 (chart), 127, Building Blocks Chapter)

Since the publishing of the Roadmap to Reentry, a new ruling in the court case Scott v. Bowen has confirmed that people on Mandatory Supervision and Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS) for a felony conviction do NOT lose the right to vote.

While people currently in prison or on parole for a felony conviction, or serving a felony sentence in county jail under Realignment DO lose the right to vote, the court’s decision made clear that you do NOT lose the right to vote if you are on other forms of community supervision (including probation, Mandatory Supervision, or PRCS).26

For more information on your voting rights, see the ACLU’s updated voting rights website at https://www.aclunc.org/our-work/know-your-rights/california-voting.

CHAPTER 2: PAROLE & PROBATION (pg. 130)

Chapter 2—Key Updates:

CHAPTER 2- UPDATE 1. LEGAL UPDATE: Change in Law & Parole Policy Regarding Residency Restrictions for People Convicted of Certain Sex Offenses (update to pg. 174, Parole & Probation Chapter)

CHAPTER 2- UPDATE 2. CORRECTION: Corrections to Information about County Probation (update to pgs. 196-207, Parole & Probation Chapter)

CHAPTER 2- UPDATE 3. ADDITION: CDCR Form 22, “Inmate/Parolee Request for Interview, Item or Service” (update to pgs. 308-309, Parole & Probation Chapter)

------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

CHAPTER 2- UPDATE 1:

UPDATE: Change in Law & Parole Policy Regarding Residency Restrictions for People Convicted of Certain Sex Offenses (update to pg. 174, Parole & Probation Chapter)

In March 2015, in an important court case called In re Taylor, the California Supreme Court determined that certain residency restrictions (restrictions on where people can live) are unconstitutional in as they were being applied to ALL sex offender parolees in San Diego County. These residency restrictions had been put in place by a law called “Proposition 83,” also called “Jessica’s Law.”

Although the California Supreme Court determined that Proposition 83 (“Jessica’s Law”) was unconstitutional because it had been applied too broadly to ALL sex offenders in San Diego County, it also decided that CDCR may still require parole conditions on individual sex offenders on a case-by-case basis, including residency restrictions that may be more or less restrictive than Proposition 83. This has statewide implications, and much of the effects of the case are still unfolding.

Since the March 2015 decision, CDCR has informed us that it is reviewing residency restrictions of sex offender parolees on a case-by-case basis, looking at individualized case factors. In April and May of 2015, parole officials reviewed ALL sex offender parolees’ files to determine whether any other statutory residency restriction or special condition of parole should be applied, and made adjustments at that time. For sex offender parolees who think there restrictions may still be unconstitutional, it is best to talk to your public defender or file an administrative appeal through the 602 process (read more about filing a 601 appeal on pgs. 178-179 and 156-160 of the guide).

If you are required to register as a sex offender on parole, you can contact your local county Public Defender’s office for more information, or call our Reentry Hotline with questions (any Friday, 9 am-5 pm, at 510-279-4622. We accept Collect Calls).

27 In re Taylor, 60 Cal.4th 1019 (2015).
28 As of mid-March 2015, it is unclear how CDCR will respond to the In re Taylor decision. We also do not know if the CDCR will try to impose special residency restriction conditions on many sex offender parolees.
CHAPTER 2- UPDATE 2:
CORRECTION: Correction to Information about County Probation (update to pg. 196-207, Parole & Probation Chapter)

In the original printing of the Roadmap to Reentry guide, we identified the two main types of county-level probation in California as “felony probation” and “misdemeanor probation,” which is misleading. What we call misdemeanor probation is more accurately referred to as “informal probation,” and what we call felony probation is more accurately referred to as “formal probation.”

Below is a corrected explanation:

- People convicted of a misdemeanor in California could be placed on informal OR formal probation.\(^{30}\) For more information on informal probation, read pgs. 198-202 in the guide, and for more information on formal probation, read pgs. 203-207, which are otherwise accurate. Whether a person convicted of a misdemeanor receives formal or informal probation depends on the circumstances of the individual’s case, any prior conviction history, prior performance on supervision, the judge’s discretion, and the county’s local rules.\(^{31}\) This was not clear in the original printing.

For example, certain county probation departments have informed us that they are keeping people who get eligible felony convictions reduced to misdemeanors under Prop. 47 relief (for more information on Prop 47, see pgs. 1070-1075 in the “Understanding & Cleaning Up Your Criminal Record Chapter” of the guide) on formal probation, and not automatically reducing their supervision to informal probation.

- People convicted of a felony in California could be placed on many different types of supervision or none at all, depending on the person’s offense, past conviction history, and individual circumstances. For a felony conviction, someone may be released onto state parole (see pgs. 147-195 of the guide for specifics), PRCs (see pgs. 207-214 of the guide for specifics), Mandatory Supervision (see pgs. 215-219 of the guide for specifics), formal probation (see pgs. 203-207 of the guide for specifics), OR may be released without any supervision in certain cases.

For someone convicted of a felony who is sentenced directly to formal probation or jail time followed by formal probation, his or her supervision level may be eventually reduced to informal probation if the person is successful on formal probation and it is recommended by the county probation office and granted by the criminal court judge. This was not clear in the original printing. For more information on formal probation, read pgs. 203-207 in the guide, and for more information on informal probation, read pgs. 198-202 in the guide, which are otherwise accurate.

CHAPTER 2- UPDATE 3:
ADDITION: CDCR Form 22, “Inmate/Parolee Request for Interview, Item or Service” (update to pg. 308-309, Parole & Probation)

The “Parole & Probation Chapter” of the Roadmap to Reentry guide was missing Appendix I — CDCR Form 22, “Inmate/Parolee Request for Interview Item or Service.” Please find CDCR Form 22 on the next page.

CHAPTER 7: FAMILY & CHILDREN CHAPTER (pg. 823)

Chapter 7—Key Update:

CHAPTER 7- UPDATE 1. UPDATE: Child Support “Automatic Stop” Law Has Been Extended until July 1, 2020 (update to pg. 873, Family & Children Chapter)

------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

CHAPTER 7- UPDATE 1:

UPDATE: Child Support “Automatic Stop” Law Has Been Extended until July 1, 2020 (update to pg. 873)

The law that required an automatic stopping of monthly child support payments when a person becomes incarcerated was recently extended until July 1, 2020. This means that through July 1, 2020, child support orders that were issued on or after July 1, 2011, where the person is incarcerated for 90 days or more, will be automatically stopped during the period of incarceration.

For child support orders issued before July 1, 2011, there is no change in law: the person ordered to pay child support must still proactively go and ask the judge to stop child support payments and reduce them to $0 during the period of incarceration. See the helpful chart below (originally printed on pg. 873 of the guide) for a summary of this recently extended law.

WILL MY CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS STOP AUTOMATICALLY WHILE I’M INCARCERATED?

| IF your child support order was issued before July 1, 2011, your payments WILL NOT stop automatically. | 1. If your current child support order was issued before July 1, 2011, your child support payments will NOT stop automatically while you’re incarcerated.
2. You will continue to owe child support payments while you are incarcerated, unless you get the judge to change your child support order.
3. To stop your child support payments while you are incarcerated, you will need to ask the judge to reduce your payments to $0 because you do not have any income (unless you have an outside source of income to make your payments). See PG. 60 of the Roadmap to Reentry guide to learn how to do this. |
| --- | --- |
| IF your child support order was issued on or after July 1, 2011, AND you are incarcerated for 90 days or more, your payments SHOULD stop automatically. | 1. If your current child support order was issued on or after July 1, 2011 AND you are incarcerated for 90 days or more, your child support payments will be automatically paused (suspended) while you are incarcerated.
2. This means that you will not owe any child support during the time you are incarcerated, and you will not have to do anything to make this to happen. But your child support payments will automatically continue again after you are released.
3. This special law applies to child support orders issued (i.e., made and/or changed) on or after July 1, 2011, for parents who are incarcerated for 90 days or more. However, it may not apply if you are incarcerated for domestic violence, harassment, or for violating a previous child support order, OR if you have outside income and can afford to make payments while you’re incarcerated. |

CHAPTER 8- UPDATE 1.
UPDATE: Changes to Federal Student Aid for Prisoners: New Pell Grant pilot project (PG. 975-79)

---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

CHAPTER 8- UPDATE 1:
UPDATE: Changes to Federal Student Aid for Prisoners: New Pell Grant pilot project (PG. 975-79)

The U.S. Department of Education recently announced a new program, the Second Chance Pell Pilot Program, which will allow individuals incarcerated in certain facilities to receive federal Pell Grants to cover many of their college costs (tuition, fees, books and supplies). Before this new Second Chance Pell Pilot Program was announced, incarcerated people were not eligible for Federal Pell Grants—so this is a big step in the right direction!

Specifics of the program are not yet available. We know that the pilot program will focus on getting funding for students eligible for release, particularly students who are likely to be released within 5 years of getting their college education. The Pell Grants can only be used to pay for tuition, fees, books and supplies required by the education program.\(^{37}\) The pilot program will only be available at certain state and federal facilities that apply to participate, but unfortunately the specific facilities have not been announced yet.\(^ {38}\)

CHAPTER 9: UNDERSTANDING & CLEANING UP YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD (pg. 1021)

Chapter 9—Key Updates:

CHAPTER 9- UPDATE 1.
UPDATE: New Legal Ruling on 1203.4 dismissals for people who owe victim’s restitution (update to pages 1047, 1058-1061, 1064-66, Understanding & Cleaning Up Your Criminal Records Chapter)
(Cross-referenced in Court-Ordered Debt Chapter, PG. 759-792)

CHAPTER 9- UPDATE 2.
UPDATE & ADDITIONS: New Resources & A New Legal Ruling on Prop 47 (update to pgs. 1070-75, Understanding & Cleaning Up Your Criminal Record Chapter)

---

CHAPTER 9 - UPDATE 1:
UPDATE: New legal ruling on 1203.4 dismissals for people who owe victim’s restitution (update to pgs. 1047, 1058-1061, 1064-66) (Cross-referenced in Court-Ordered Debt Chapter, pgs. 759-792)

In People v. Seymour, a California Court of Appeal clarified California’s “expungement” law, deciding that a person who is entitled to a mandatory dismissal of a conviction under Cal. Penal Code § 1203.4 due to early termination of his/her probation cannot be denied the dismissal because he or she still owes victim restitution. This means that if you victim restitution, you would still have the RIGHT to a mandatory dismissal of the conviction.

IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT VICTIM RESTITUTION: This ruling does not mean the victim restitution is forgiven—just that it cannot be the reason for denying a mandatory 1203.4 dismissal for which someone is otherwise qualified.

CHAPTER 9 - UPDATE 2:
UPDATE & ADDITIONS: New Resources & A New Legal Ruling on Prop 47 (update to pgs. 1070-75, Understanding & Cleaning Up Your Criminal Record Chapter)

• UPDATE: New legal ruling—
A Court of Appeal in California decided that the new Prop 47 reclassification law, which reduces felonies to misdemeanors for certain offenses, applies equally to juveniles with offenses covered by Prop 47. This means that both juveniles AND adults can get eligible felonies reduced under Prop 47. For more details about Prop 47 eligibility and the process, read pgs. 1070-1075 of the guide. You can also call your local Public Defender’s office for more information about Prop 47 in your county.

• ADDITION: New Prop 47 Resources—
The California Courts has added new information to its website explaining Proposition 47, including:
  o A list of Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) such as, “What is the procedure for obtaining reclassification of a crime?” http://www.courts.ca.gov/documents/Prop47FAQs.pdf
  o Prop 47 facts and information in English and Spanish, available here: http://myprop47.org/
  o A clickable county map to easily locate contact information for your local county Public Defender’s offices and county courthouses, available here: http://www.safeandjust.org/county-map/

BACK OF GUIDE: LIST OF LEGAL AID PROVIDERS IN CALIFORNIA (pgs. 1191-1201)

ADDITIONS:
We have added many additional resources to our List of Legal Aid Providers in California:

> General Listing:

• Greater Bakersfield Legal Assistance (GBLA): GBLA provides legal services in the following areas: Housing, Public Benefits, Court-Ordered Debt, and Family & Children. GBLA can be added to the List of Legal Aid Providers on pg. 1193 (Housing), pgs. 1194-1195 (Public Benefits), pg. 1197 (Court-Ordered Debt), and pg. 1198 (Family & Children), in the Central Valley & Central Coast region.

40 Alejandro N. v. Superior Court of San Diego Cnty., 238 Cal. App. 4th 1209 (2015), review filed (Sept. 2, 2015) (“Thus, section 1170.18 concerns the very same offenses that are incorporated into the juvenile wardship proceedings via Cal. Welf. & Inst. § 602, and it follows that § 1170.18’s offense reclassification provisions are equally applicable to juvenile offenders.”). The court further held that if the offense was reclassified as a misdemeanor under Proposition 47, then the superior court must also expunge any DNA it retained in the court bank, unless there is another basis to retain it apart from the reclassified misdemeanor offense.
